For Reference

Not to be taken from this room

324414

Every person who maliciously cuts, defaces, breaks or injures any book, map, chart, picture, engraving, statue, coin, model, apparatus, or other work of literature, art, mechanics or object of curiosity, deposited in any public library, gallery, museum or collection is guilty of a misdemeanor.

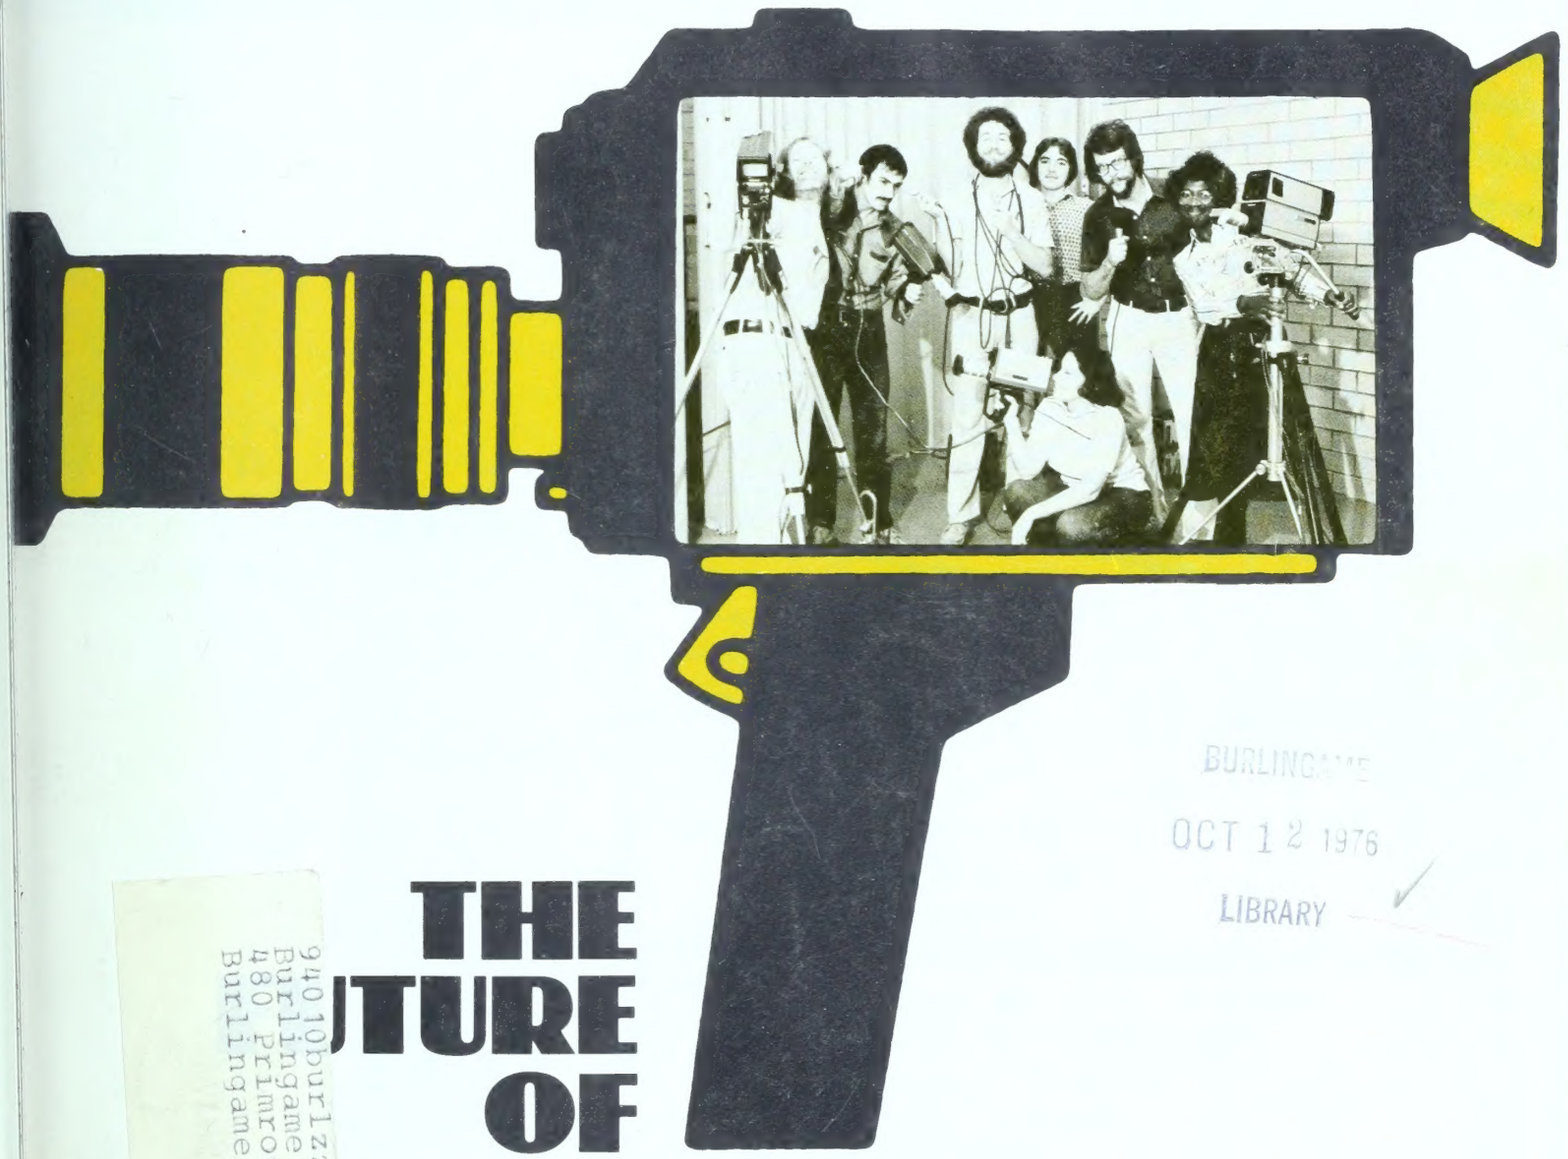
Penal Code of California, 1915, Section 623.

OCTOBER 1, 1976/ISSN 0000-0027

LIBRARY JOURNAL

LJ Video Technology: its future in libraries
A Review of "Booklegger" and "Emergency Librarian"
Periodical Prices: 1974-1976 Update
In the News: Congress backs boosts in federal library aid; Nat'l reference hotline tried by LC; library salaries are up

324414



BURLINGAME
OCT 12 1976
LIBRARY

THE FUTURE OF VIDEO TECHNOLOGY IN LIBRARIES

94010burlzz48z6 171ja06309
Burlingame Pub Lib
480 Primrose Rd.
Burlingame, CA 94010

NEW TITLE IN THE NATIONAL PROFESSIONAL DIRECTORY SERIES

ADULT & COMMUNITY EDUCATION ORGANIZATIONS & LEADERS DIRECTORY 1977

Concerned With All Aspects Of The Education Of Adults

COVERS:
Politics
Programs
Teaching Legislation
Technology
Administration
Research & Development

OF:
Adult Education
Adult Basic Education
Career Development
Community Education
Continuing Education
Lifelong Learning
Occupational Education
Training & Development
Vocational & Technical Education

now in one authoritative source

INCLUDES:
Staff
Job Banks
Talent Banks
Grants & Scholarships
Periodicals Published
Objectives & Accomplishments
Libraries & Information Sources
Organizations & Individuals Served

INDEXES:
Alphabetical Geographical Periodical Subject Areas

Lester A. Barrer
Myra E. Barrer
Editors

Published by
TODAY PUBLICATIONS
January 1977
8½" x 11"
LC 75-7599
ISBN 0-87999-011-2
$40.00

Price and specifications subject to change.

today
WASHINGTON, D.C.

ALSO AVAILABLE FROM TODAY PUBLICATIONS

Adult & Continuing Education Today (newsletter)
Women Today (newsletter)
Journal of Reprints of Documents Affecting Women
Law & Women Series (monographs)
Women's Organizations & Leaders Directory
(ALA "reference book of the year")

TODAY PUBLICATIONS & NEWS SERVICE, INC. ◆ NATIONAL PRESS BUILDING ◆ WASHINGTON, DC 20045

OCTOBER 1, 1976 / VOL. 101 NO. 17

LIBRARY JOURNAL

324414

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF: John N. Berry III
SENIOR EDITORS: Shirley Havens, Karl Nyren
EDITOR, BOOK REVIEW: Janet Fletcher
ASSOCIATE EDITORS:
Book Review: Robert R. Harris
Bibliographic: Bette-Lee Fox
News: Noël Savage
PRODUCTION EDITOR: Ellen Mangin
ART EDITOR: Carlos Delgado
REVIEW EDITORS: Marlene Charnizon, Ellen Kozlowski, Anneliese Schwarzer, Katharine Scott
ASSISTANT EDITORS: Maureen Crowley, Ann Sankar
PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS: Nancy Brown, Ann Yazejian
EDITORIAL ASSISTANT: Anne Richter
ADV. SALES MANAGER: Richard H. Brown
ADV. PRODUCTION: Maureen J. Rose
PUBLISHER: Paul J. Carnese

LIBRARY JOURNAL is published by R. R. Bowker Co., a Xerox company. Robert F. Asleson, President.

Direct editorial and advertising correspondence to 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York 10036. Telephone: (212) 764-5100. Subscription inquiries and changes of address should be directed to R. R. Bowker Company, Subscription Dept., P.O. Box 67, Whitinsville, Mass. 01588. Publications Offices at 117 Church Street, Whitinsville, Mass. 01488. Issued twice a month, September through June, monthly in July and August. Second class postage paid at Whitinsville, Mass. and additional mailing offices. Copyright © 1976 Xerox Corporation.

LIBRARY JOURNAL is indexed in Library Literature, Library & Information Science Abstracts, and Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature. SUBSCRIPTIONS: USA: 1 year $19.00; 2 years $36.00; 3 years $51.00. Canada and Postal Union of the Americas and Spain, add $2 per year; elsewhere, add $3 per year. Single copy $1.35. Spring, fall, and winter announcement numbers, $3.25 each. POSTMASTER: Please send Form 3579 to R. R. Bowker Company, P.O. Box 67, Whitinsville, Mass. 01588.

LIBRARY JOURNAL reserves the right to make its own independent judgment as to the acceptability of advertising copy and illustrations in advertisements. Advertiser and advertisng agency assume liability for all content (including text, representation and illustrations) of advertisements printed, and also assume responsibility for any claims arising therefrom against the publisher. Offers to sell products, which appear in LIBRARY JOURNAL, are subject to all laws and regulations and are void where so prohibited.

Letters 1983

Calendar 1984

Editorial 1987

News:

Congress ups LSCA appropriations, extends CETA job program . . . LC tests nat'l reference "hotline" . . . CLENE to develop independent study model . . . state $$ wins in New York, R.I. & Detroit . . . funding down in Colorado . . . Wis. releases more LSCA funding . . . library school salaries up . . . Int'l law library assn. broadens objectives . . . "tough-minded" bargaining union urged . . . drive-in book booths, jazz, & games offered . . . Vt. runs own program for the handicapped . . . foreign language library service launched in N.C. 1989

People 2001

FEATURES

BURLINGAME
OCT 12 1976
LIBRARY

Video Technology
Its Future in Libraries
BY DENIS J. LACOMB 2003

Two in the Movement
A review of "Booklegger" & "Emergency Librarian"
BY JANE ROBBINS 2010

Periodical Prices: 1974-76 Update
BY F. F. CLASQUIN 2015

Fall Book Announcements 2024

Professional Reading 2020

Checklist 2021

Magazines 2022

Buyers' Guide 2023

THE BOOK REVIEW

Book Reviews 2047

Index to Reviews and Professional Reading 2089

First Novelists 2090

Classified 2094

Index to Advertisers 2096

Catch These 22 NEW Fall Books from Abingdon

The Interpreter's Dictionary of the Bible

Supplementary Volume

This volume, together with the original four volumes, provides you with the latest, most complete information on biblical themes, persons, archaeological sites, and results of recent biblical studies. The 271 contributors are among the best scholars in the world. $15.95 thru Dec. 31, 1976; $17.95 thereafter

Living with Joy

Donald McKinney. Forty-two brief, inspirational, nostalgic vignettes help recall first love and other joys. Carefully selected scripture introduces each chapter and ties the joy of living into the joy of God's love. Oct. $4.95

A Little Book of Comfort

Ruth C. Ikerman. The author has suggested many ways to overcome grief, despair, and self-pity in order to help the reader face and live with sorrow. This attractive little book is a source of consolation for the bereaved (especially widows). Sept. $4.50

The Fire of Little Jim

Power for Growth from the Letter of James

William E. Hulme. In a time of personal family crisis, the basic themes from James are related to human need and to ways in which we live together in human society. This book is for you if you are seeking practical biblical help for daily living. Sept. Paper, $3.95

Loneliness: Understanding and Dealing with It

Harvey Potthoff. This book presents an excellent definition and description of human loneliness in a Christian context and cites three positive strategies for dealing with it. Sept. $5.95

Multiplied by Love

Lessons Learned Through the Holy Spirit

Irene Burk Harrell. From first-hand experience, a bestselling inspirational writer shows you how to clearly follow Christ in a day-by-day, hour-by-hour experience and reveals how God works in even the most unlikely ways. This book is for the Christian wishing to grow spiritually. Sept. $4.95

Meditations and Devotions for Adults

Alec J. Langford. Forty-eight devotions take the reader through the worship seasons. Human interest stories set in various places around the world convey Christian messages. Sept. $4.95

Judaism Outside the Hebrew Canon

An Introduction to the Documents

Leonhard Rost, translated by David E. Green. This brief, easy-to-use reference covers the apocryphal writings, the pseudepigrapha, the major Qumran documents, and others. Contains a bibliography and discussion of the historicity, genre, date, authorship, and religious significance of each writing. Oct. Cloth, $16.95; paper, $5.95

Prayers and Other Resources for Public Worship

Compiled by Horton Davies and Morris Slifer. An outstanding new anthology of public prayers and other resources for use either in liturgical churches or by those ministers who usually compose their own prayers. Simple, biblical, reverent. Nov. $4.95

Christian Worship in Transition

James F. White. The author analyzes the major accomplishments in the area of Christian worship during the past decade, looks at its present status, and makes projections on what to expect in the future. Oct. $6.75

Religious Inquiry:

An Introduction to the Why and How

Samuel Southard. A brief introduction to the theory and practice of empirical investigation of religion, previously done religious research illustrations and sources of additional information. Oct. Paper, $3.95

Christmas Crafts for Everyone

Evelyn Coskey, illustrated by Roy Wallace. An international treasury of decorations, ornaments, and delicious recipes—complete with line drawings and step-by-step instructions. Aug. $8.95

Equal Marriage

Jean Stapleton and Richard Bright. An exciting "how-to" manual written by a couple who are pioneering in a new marriage lifestyle—equal marriage. Offers solid alternatives to "Open Marriage" and the "Total Woman." Oct. $5.95

The Secret Self

Orlo Strunk, Jr. A professional psychologist believes there should always be something private in life and that the SECRET SELF holds one of the keys to discovery. Sept. $4.95

Captain Ducky and Other Children's Sermons

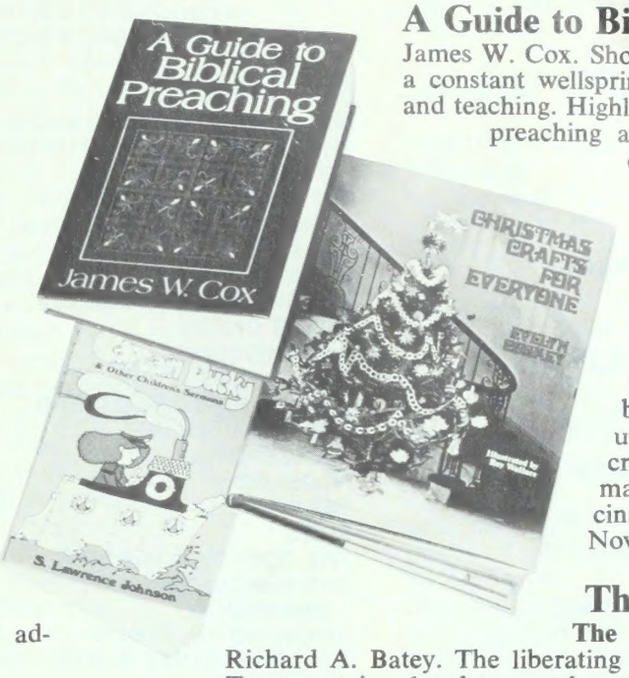
S. Lawrence Johnson. This master storyteller and minister uses fact, fiction, personal experience, creativity, and the Bible to tell 38 attention-holding stories for 8 to 12-year olds. Nov. Paper, $3.95

Patterns for Mature Living

Milton Henry Keene. The author points out the positive aspects of the golden years, accenting that a large percentage of our most vital and successful people are past sixty. Extra-large type. Oct. $4.95

Biblical Backgrounds of the Middle East Conflict

Georgia Harkness and Charles F. Kraft. Both sides of the Arab-Israeli conflict are presented in a balanced way in order to provide the reader with a more knowledgeable understanding of the issues and to elicit a measure of sympathy for both sides. Nov. $7.95



A Guide to Biblical Preaching

James W. Cox. Shows how to use the Bible as a constant wellspring of ideas, inspiration, and teaching. Highlights values of biblical preaching and sermons that can be called biblical. Sept. $6.50

Jesus Is Victor!

Karl Barth's Doctrine of Salvation

Donald G. Bloesch. Many misconceptions surrounding Karl Barth's theology are cleared by this important evaluation. This excellent criticism captures the many facets of this fascinating theologian. Nov. Paper, $5.95

Thank God, I'm OK

The Gospel According to T.A.

Richard A. Batey. The liberating message of the New Testament is related to people as the source of all freedom, especially through transactional analysis (I'm OK—You're OK). Index. Sept. Paper, $2.95

Learning Can Be Child's Play

How Parents Can Help Slower-Than-Average Preschool Children Learn and Develop Through Play Experiences

June Mather. The author builds her book around the widely accepted idea of "developmental sequence," and she shows how to make routine daily experiences fruitful play learning experiences. Illustrated. Oct. Paper, $3.95

Music and Worship in the Church

Austin C. Lovelace and William C. Rice. This recently revised edition includes two new chapters and updated lists of solos, anthems, bibliography, and a glossary. The complete resource for anyone connected with church music. (Revised and Enlarged) Oct. $12.95 abingdon

nashville

in canada: g.r.welch co., ltd.
in australasia: thomas c. lothian, melbourne

arco/fall 1976

ARCO PUBLISHING COMPANY, INC.
219 PARK AVENUE SOUTH, NEW YORK, NEW YORK 10003

NEW TRADE TITLES

JULY

ARCHERY HANDBOOK
Edmund H. Burke
Illustrated, paper $2.95

AUTO REPAIRS YOU CAN MAKE
Paul Weissler, editor
Illustrated, paper $3.95

CANDY COOK BOOK
J. H. deGros
Illustrated, paper $2.95

THE CONCISE BOOK OF THE HORSE
Candida Geddes, editor
Illustrated, cloth $14.95

EARLY AMERICAN FURNITURE YOU CAN BUILD
Ralph Treves
Illustrated, paper $2.95

THE HORSE IN WAR
J. M. Brereton
Illustrated, cloth $12.95

MASERATI—A HISTORY
Anthony Pritchard
Illustrated, cloth $14.95

THE PORSCHE 911 STORY
Paul Frere
Illustrated, cloth $15.00

TEACH YOURSELF BASIC BIDDING
Alan Truscott &
Dorothy Hayden Truscott
paper $3.95

WARNING: SEX MAY BE HAZARDOUS TO YOUR HEALTH
Dr. Edwin Flatto
Illustrated, paper $1.50

FOYLES PET HANDBOOKS

distributed by Arco—
now available in all new, revised editions.
Illustrated, hardboard binding, $2.25 each.

CAIRN TERRIERS
CANARIES
COCKER SPANIELS
COLLIES
DACHSHUNDS
DALMATIANS
THE DOBERMAN
DOG BREEDING
THE ENGLISH SETTER
FOREIGN BIRDS
GERBILS
GERMAN SHEPHERDS
GOLDEN RETRIEVERS
GREAT DANES
GREYHOUNDS
LABRADORS
MINIATURE SCHNAUZERS
THE OLD ENGLISH SHEEPDOG
POODLES PARROTS
PUGS
THE SCOTTISH TERRIER
THE SHETLAND SHEEPDOG
SHOWING YOUR DOG
STAFFORDSHIRE BULL TERRIERS
TRAINING YOUR DOG
TROPICAL FISH
WHIPPETS
THE YORKSHIRE TERRIER

AUGUST

ART DIRECTORS' WORKBOOK OF TYPE FACES, revised and enlarged edition
J. I. Biegeleisen
flexible binding, $9.95

THE CHINESE-AMERICAN AMERICAN-CHINESE COOKBOOK
Huang Kuo-Shung
Bilingual, paper $1.95

COMPLETE HATHA YOGA
Kevin & Venika Kingsland
Illustrated, cloth $9.95

DAIRY GOATS
Diana Gregory
Illustrated, LR cloth $7.95, paper $3.95

MOSEMANS' ILLUSTRATED GUIDE FOR PURCHASERS OF HORSE FURNISHING GOODS, NOVELTIES AND STABLE APPOINTMENTS, facsimile edition, with an introduction by Charles Kauffman
Illustrated, paper $8.95

THE NEW BOOK OF LEATHERWORK: PROJECTS FOR TODAY
Joseph Delano
Illustrated, paper $4.95

RIDING LOGIC
Wilhelm Müseler
Illustrated, paper $5.95

WHAT MAKES IT WORK
George Papallo
Illustrated, LR cloth $8.95, paper $4.95

WORLD WAR II FACT FILES

ALLIED PISTOLS, RIFLES AND GRENADES
Peter Chamberlain &
Terry Gander
Illustrated, paper $3.95

AXIS PISTOLS, RIFLES AND GRENADES
Peter Chamberlain &
Terry Gander
Illustrated, paper $3.95

SUBMACHINE GUNS AND AUTOMATIC RIFLES
Peter Chamberlain &
Terry Gander
Illustrated, paper $3.95

SEPTEMBER

DOG VISUALIZATIONS
DOG LOVER'S COMPLETE GUIDE
Dennis B. Sprung, editor
Illustrated, paper $8.95

FIX IT GUIDE FOR WOMEN
Dorothy Carbo
Illustrated, paper $2.50

HOW TO GROW BEAUTIFUL HOUSE PLANTS
Thomas H. Everett
Illustrated, paper $2.50

OCTOBER

ASK ALICE SCOTT ABOUT SMALL ANIMAL PETS
Alice Scott
Illustrated, LR cloth $6.95, paper $3.95

BIRDWATCHER'S GUIDE TO WILDLIFE SANCTUARIES
Jessie Kitching
LR cloth $7.95

OUT OF THE PAST: THE ISTANBUL GRAND BAZAAR
Burton Y. Berry
Illustrated, cloth $12.50

THE PROBLEM HORSE AND THE PROBLEM HORSEMAN
Margaret Cabell Self
Illustrated, cloth $7.95

SHOE YOUR OWN HORSE: AN ILLUSTRATED GUIDE
Andrew L. Gertz
Illustrated, cloth $6.95

YOU CAN SEE THE WORLD IN 40 DAYS
Leland T. Waggoner
Illustrated, cloth $8.95

NOVEMBER

THE COMPREHENSIVE CATALOG AND ENCYCLOPEDIA OF U.S. MORGAN AND PEACE SILVER DOLLARS
Leroy C. VanAllen &
A. George Mallis
Illustrated, cloth $19.50

THE FOCKE WULF FW190
William Green &
Gordon Swanborough
Illustrated, cloth $11.95

GERMAN WARSHIPS OF THE SECOND WORLD WAR
H. T. Lenton
Illustrated, cloth $19.95

HOME HANDYMAN'S ELECTRICITY AND ELECTRIC APPLIANCES HANDBOOK
Jeannette T. Adams
Illustrated, LR cloth $10.00

HOW TO IDENTIFY AND COLLECT AMERICAN FIRST EDITIONS: A GUIDEBOOK
Jack Tannen
LR cloth $10.00

THE METALWORKING HANDBOOK: PRINCIPLES AND PROCEDURES
Jeannette T. Adams
Illustrated, LR cloth $10.00

THE RIDER'S HANDBOOK
Jeanne K. Posey
Illustrated, cloth $6.95

THE TECHNIQUE OF WOOD SCULPTURE
Chaim Gross
Illustrated, paper $3.95

TRAINING THE DRIVING PONY
Allan D. Conder
Illustrated, cloth $7.95

TRAINING THE HORSE AND RIDER
Fritz Stecken
Illustrated, cloth $6.95

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX ANNUAL—1977
paper $1.25

CAREER BOOKS

JULY

HOSPITAL SECURITY OFFICER
David R. Turner, M.S.
paper $6.00

HOW TO OBTAIN MONEY FOR COLLEGE: A COMPLETE GUIDE TO SOURCES OF FINANCIAL AID FOR EDUCATION
William E. Lever
paper $3.95

MANAGEMENT ANALYST, ASSISTANT-ASSOCIATE
David R. Turner, M.S.
paper $8.00

THE OFFICIAL 1976-77 GUIDE TO AIRLINE CAREERS
Alexander C. Morton
Illustrated, paper $5.95

THE 1976-77 AIRLINE GUIDE TO STEWARDESS AND STEWARD CAREERS
Alexander C. Morton
Illustrated, paper $5.95

SENIOR TYPIST
David R. Turner, M.S.
paper $6.00

YOUR RESUME—KEY TO A BETTER JOB
Leonard Corwen
LR cloth $8.00

AUGUST

ARCO TEACHER'S PLAN BOOK—ELEMENTARY SCHOOL
(Grades 1-6)
paper $3.00

ARCO TEACHER'S PLAN BOOK—JR. & SR. HIGH SCHOOL
(Grades 7-12)
paper $3.00

THE EASY WAY TO BETTER GRADES
Otis D. Froe, Ph.D., &
Otyce B. Froe, M.A.
paper $1.50

YOUR FUTURE IN THE MILITARY SERVICES
Brig Gen. Monro
MacCloskey (U.S.A.F. ret.)
paper $1.95

SEPTEMBER

AMERICAN HISTORY: CLEP AND AP SUBJECT EXAMINATION
Nancy Spelman Woloch,
Ph.D.
paper $4.95

ENGINEER IN TRAINING EXAMINATION STUDY GUIDE
James W. Morrison
paper $10.00

TEACHER OF ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE
Laurie Wellman, M.A.
paper $8.00

ASSOCIATE AND ADMINISTRATIVE ACCOUNTANT
David R. Turner, M.S.
paper $8.00

ELECTRONIC EQUIPMENT MAINTAINER
David R. Turner, M.S.
paper $8.00

OCTOBER

TEST YOUR VOCATIONAL APTITUDE
Patricia Asta, M.S., M.A.
& Linda Bernbach
paper $6.00

NOVEMBER

ENGLISH GRAMMAR AND USAGE FOR TEST TAKERS
David R. Turner, M.S.
paper $6.00

CERTIFICATE IN DATA PROCESSING EXAMINATION
James W. Morrison
paper $12.00

PROFESSIONAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING EXAMINATION
James W. Morrison
paper $10.00

MEDICAL BOOKS

OCTOBER

COMPREHENSIVE MEDICAL BOARDS EXAMINATION REVIEW, second edition
George Horemis, M.D.
paper $8.00

MEDICAL-SURGICAL NURSING REVIEW
Mary E. Hazzard, B.S.N.,
M.A., Ph.D.
paper $6.00

NURSING COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATION REVIEW,
second edition
George Horemis, M.D.
paper $5.00

NOVEMBER

SPECIALTY BOARD REVIEW: ANATOMIC PATHOLOGY
Michael B. Gravanis, M.D.
& Lewis D. Johnson, M.D.
paper $12.00

Arlington House keeps bringing you the DIFFERENT books...

UNIVERSAL PICTURES: A Panoramic History in Words, Pictures and Filmographies—Michael G. Fitzgerald. Definitive. Over 600 photos and mountains of detail on 60 years of the B studio that was also a major filmmaker. Oversized. November. ISBN 0-87000-366-6/$25

JESUS CHRIST BEFORE HE BECAME A SUPERSTAR — James K. Fitzpatrick. Brilliant young writer answers today's "modern" Christians with the words of Christ Himself. August. ISBN 0-87000-361-5/$7.95

THE 1977 STOCK TRADER'S ALMANAC — Yale Hirsch. The complete record-keeper and canny forecaster for the sophisticated investor. Worth its weight in deductions when tax time comes. Charts. Graphs. $9.95

A Hirsch Organization book distributed by Arlington House.

THANK GOD I HAVE CANCER! — Rev. Clifford Oden. Rev. Oden means it—and shows how he has kept his cancer under control for 7 years. August. ISBN 0-87000-262-3/$7.95

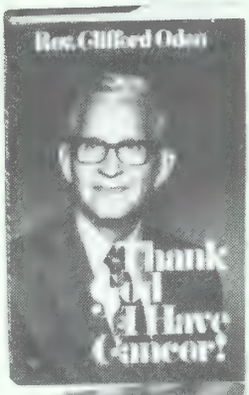
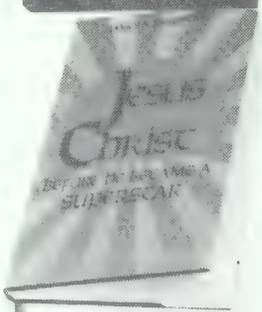
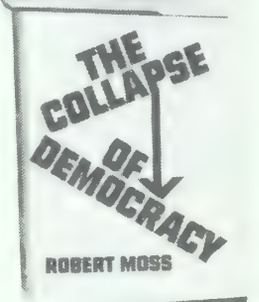
THE HANDBOOK OF PERSONAL & ECONOMIC SURVIVAL—Harry D. Schultz/James E. Sinclair. Step-by-step, how to survive when all the systems break down. Inflation hedges, tax havens, foreign banks, currency trading, much more. Dollar Growth Library. January. ISBN 0-87000-329-1/$8.95

WHO'S WHO IN GOLF — Len Elliott/Barbara Kelly. First book of its kind profiles 600 greats: amateurs and pros, promoters, course architects, administrators, inventors, leading golf writers. October. ISBN 0-87000-225-2/$8.95

HOLLYWOOD PLAYERS: The Thirties—James Robert Parish/William T. Leonard. Everything you want to know about 71 important actors and actresses just below top-star rank. Film listings. Over 300 illustrations. Oversized. November. ISBN 0-87000-365-8/$25







ARLINGTON HOUSE PUBLISHERS
165 HUGUENOT STREET
NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. 10801
914/636-3850
212/597-5050

BETRAYAL IN VIETNAM — Louis Fanning. Puts most of the blame on Democrats in Congress. Based on primary sources. November. ISBN 0-87000-341-0/$8.95

GROW OR DIE: The Population Myth Exploded — James A. Weber. Deflates the overpopulation myth, shows that America is actually underpopulated. January. ISBN 0-87000-367-4/$8.95

THE ALL-AMERICANS — James Robert Parish/Don E. Stanke. Seven actors who became America's ambassadors on film: Cooper, Fonda, Holden, Hudson, MacMurray, Reagan, Stewart. Filmographies. Over 300 illustrations. Oversized. January. ISBN 0-87000-363-3/$19.95

THE COLLAPSE OF DEMOCRACY — Robert Moss. Editor of The Economist asks: can freedom defend itself? "An intellectual and political event of the first importance."—National Review. August. ISBN 0-87000-359-3/$8.95

MY YEARS WITH LUDWIG VON MISES —Margit von Mises. Memoir of the great free-market economist by his wife. Illustrations. January. ISBN 0-87000-368-2/$12.95

FAREWELL TO LIBERALISM — Jay G. Sykes. Indictment of liberalism by a former ACLU official. January. ISBN 0-87000-364-X/$8.95

SLUMLORD! The True Story of the Man Who Is Beating America's Biggest Problem — Albert Lee. Inner-city landlord proves that slums can be made livable. August. ISBN 0-87000-360-7/$7.95

AUTHORITY AND ITS ENEMIES — Thomas Molnar. How to put society together again with a balance of freedom and authority. August. ISBN 0-87000-340-2/$7.95

Atheneum

Fall 1976

JUST PUBLISHED

YOUR DAY IN THE BARREL
A novel by Alan Furst. $7.95

EGGPLANT AND SQUASH
by Sheryl London. $12.95

A FEAST OF SNAKES
A novel by Harry Crews. $7.95

THE PROFESSIONAL
A Biography of J. B. Saunders
by Otto J. Scott. Illustrated. $15

THE MISSING LINKS
Golf and the Mind by Dr. David C. Morley. An SMI Book. $8.95

GERHARDT'S CHILDREN
A novel by Jerrold Mundis. $9.95

AUGUST

A HISTORY OF CHRISTIANITY
by Paul Johnson. $13.95

THE WORLD OF PROFESSIONAL GOLF
Golf Annual 1976 by Mark H. McCormack. Illustrated. $15.95

THE EYE OF THE BEHOLDER
A novel by Philip Glazebrook. $7.95

MONTGOMERY OF ALAMEIN
by Alun Chalfont. Illustrated. $12.95

MAGNIFICENT MICROBES
by Bernard Dixon. $8.95

BEAR
A novel by Marian Engel. $6.95

A NEW AIR TRANSPORT POLICY FOR THE NORTH ATLANTIC
by Jesse J. Friedman. $5.95

BASEBALL MY WAY
by Joe Morgan. Edited by Joel H. Cohen. Illustrated. $8.95

NOT SO WILD A DREAM
by Eric Sevareid, with a new introduction by the author. Reissue. $12.50

A MATTER OF IMMORTALITY
by Jess Stearn. $9.95

THE 1900'S LADY
by Kate Caffrey. Illustrated. A Gordon Cremonesi Book. $24.95 before publication; $29.95 thereafter.

EVERYTHING YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT AGEING
by Dr. Vernon Coleman. Illustrated. A Gordon Cremonesi Book. $9.95

SEPTEMBER

LIMO
A novel by Dan Jenkins and Edwin Shrake. $8.95

THE DEADLY MESSIAH
A novel by David Campbell Hill and Albert Fay Hill. $8.95

OCTOBER

THE LONG TUNNEL
A Coal Miner's Journal
by Meade Arble. $8.95

THE NAMES OF THE LOST
Poems by Philip Levine. $3.95 paper

A SWIM OFF THE ROCKS
A book of light verse
by Howard Moss. $3.95 paper

TRACK AND FIELD
by Jesse Owens, with Dick O'Connor. Illustrated. $6.95

GROOVE YOUR GOLF SWING MY WAY
by Lee Trevino, with Dick Aultman. Illustrated by Dom Lupo. An SMI Book. $9.95

DINING WITH WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE
by Madge Lorwin. Illustrated. $14.95

WORLD OF HORSEBACK RIDING
by Neal Shapiro, with Steve Lehrman. Illustrated. $6.95

GRIFFON
Poems by Stephen Dobyns. $3.95 paper

THIS WAR WITHOUT AN ENEMY
by Richard Ollard. Illustrated in full color and black-and-white. $15.95

AN EDWARDIAN SUMMER
Illustrated by John S. Goodall in full color. Foreword by Harold Macmillan. A Margaret K. McElderry Book. $6.95

FARTHING'S FORTUNES
A novel by Richard B. Wright. $10

WHEN FRENCH WOMEN COOK
A Gastronomic Memoir by Madeleine Kamman. $12.95

THE GRAND CENTURY OF THE LADY, 1720-1820
by Arthur Calder-Marshall. Illustrated. A Gordon Cremonesi Book. $24.95 before publication; $29.95 thereafter

IN XANADU WITH KUBLAI KHAN
The Travels of Marco Polo
by R. P. Lister. A Gordon Cremonesi Book. $13.95

THE BIRDMAN
An Autobiography by Ian Strange. Illustrated. A Gordon Cremonesi Book. $12.95

RED, WHITE AND BLACK Race Relations in Britain
by Sidney Bidwell. A Gordon Cremonesi Book. $14.95

THE ROYAL ROAD OF THE INCA
by Victor Von Hagen. Illustrated. A Gordon Cremonesi Book. $25

GRENELLE
A novel by Isabelle Holland. A Rawson Associates Book. $8.95

HOW TO BE AN ASSERTIVE (NOT AGGRESSIVE) WOMAN . . . IN LIFE, IN LOVE, AND ON THE JOB
by Jean Baer, with charts and graphs. A Rawson Associates Book. $9.95

EATING IS OKAY
The Behavior Control Diet Explained in Full by Henry A. Jordan, M.D., Leonard S. Levitz, Ph.D. and Gordon M. Kimbrell, Ph.D. Edited by Steve Gelman, with tables and charts. A Rawson Associates Book. $6.95

THE SOUP-TO-DESSERT HIGH FIBER COOKBOOK
by Betty Wason. A Rawson Associates Book. $9.95

THE QUILT DESIGN WORKBOOK
by Beth and Jeffrey Gutcheon. Illustrated. A Rawson Associates Book. $12.95

NOVEMBER

CHINESE COOKING FOR THE AMERICAN KITCHEN
by Karen Lee, with Aileen Robbins Friedman. Introduction by Mme. Grace Chu. Illustrated by Sidonie Coryn. $12.95

THE NIGHT WATCH
by David Atlee Phillips. $10

Atheneum books are distributed in Canada by McClelland and Stewart, Limited, and throughout the rest of the world by Feffer and Simons, Inc.

ATHENEUM,
122 East 42 Street
New York, N.Y. 10017

Literature

Guide to American Literature from Its Beginnings Through Walt Whitman

JAMES T. CALLOW AND ROBERT J. REILLY

Readers of this survey of the first 250 years of American literature, from the early 17th to the mid-19th century gain a panoramic view of our country's developing literary tradition.

Fall 1976. LC: 75-29621 ISBN: 0-06-480132-2 $10.00 Pap. $3.95

Guide to American Literature from Emily Dickinson to the Present

JAMES T. CALLOW AND ROBERT J. REILLY

This companion volume shows a considerably more crowded field as it considers American literature from the late 19th century to the present day. Major works of each writer are related to their historical background, other art forms, and the prevailing intellectual currents of the day.

Fall 1976. LC: 75-39903 ISBN: 0-06-480133-0 $10.00 Pap. $3.95

The Unnatural Scene

A Study in Shakespearean Tragedy

MICHAEL LONG

"That the conflict between the constraints of society and the psychic energies of the individual is reconciled through the rituals of socially ordered festivity is the leading idea behind one of the most rewarding studies of Shakespearean comedy ever published."—British Book News

Fall 1976. LC:76-26188 $19.50

Dostoyevsky

The Novel of Discord

MALCOLM V. JONES

This readable study of Dostoyevsky's major fiction—Notes on the Underground, Crime and Punishment, The Idiot, The Devils, The Brothers-Karamazov and A Raw Youth—puts emphasis on the chaotic and disharmonious aspects of the human experience as revealed through his work.

Fall 1976. LC: 76-17739 ISBN: 0-06-493391-1 $18.50

History

The Early Greeks

R. J. HOPPER

An account of a much-neglected subject, the Bronze Age in Greece, this book looks at the history, literature, archaeology, philosophy, and economic and social history of the period.

Fall 1976. Illus. LC: 76-20894 ISBN: 0-06-492978-7 $25.00

Saladin

GEOFFREY HINDLEY

This biography narrates the rise to power of Saladin (1137?-1193), the Moslem leader of the Saracens who defeated the Christians in the Third Crusade, and shows his other side as a man of learning and patron of the arts.

Fall 1976. Illus. LC: 76-12067 ISBN: 0-06-492877-2 $18.00

Revolutionary Jews from Marx to Trotsky

ROBERT S. WISTRICH

With a Foreword by James Joll, London School of Economics

For the first time, an in-depth analysis of the remarkable role played by ten individual Jews in the modern European socialist movements. The book offers new insight into the psychology of Jewish radicalism and the confrontation between nationalism and internationalism within the labor movement.

Fall 1976. LC: 76-12066 ISBN: 0-06-497806-0 $16.00

The Vision of the Vanquished

The Spanish Conquest of Peru Through Indian Eyes

NATHAN WACHTEL; Ben and Sian Reynolds, trs.

Nathan Wachtel, in a work of the first importance to historians, anthropologists and students of social movements, recreates events as the Indians must have lived them during the conquest of Mexico and Peru, correcting the earlier distortions of contemporary Spanish chroniclers.

Fall 1976. Illus. LC: 76-15792 ISBN: 0-06-497260-7 $29.50

Reference

Quotations in History

A Dictionary of Historical Quotations, c. 800 to the Present

ALAN AND VERONICA PALMER, compilers

This entirely new reference work by the author of the Penguin Dictionary of Modern History includes 1,600 entries, cross-referenced and indexed, ranging over 1,200 years from the crowning of Charlemagne, right up to 1975.

Fall 1976. LC: 76-1801 ISBN: 0-06-495368-8 $16.50

Black's Medical Dictionary

WILLIAM A. R. THOMSON, editor

". . .a compendium of easily understood information about medical subjects of importance and general interest."
—Modern Medicine

Now the editor has completely revised the text of this popular reference, updating and adding new entries and illustrations.

Fall 1976. ISBN: 0-06-490443-1 $15.00

Lives of the Stuart Age

LAURENCE URDANG ASSOCIATES, compilers

The initial volume in the first period-by-period dictionary of English biography ever published covers 322 major personalities who reached their peak of achievement between 1603 and 1714.

Fall 1976. LC: 75-39126 ISBN: 0-06-494330-5 $27.50

Lives of the Tudor Age

ANN HOFFMANN, Compiler

". . .people will find this book as convenient and helpful as it has been conscientiously compiled. . . .when you consider the enormous range the author has to cover, her accuracy and fairness are quite remarkable."—A. L. ROWSE

Covers 309 significant Tudor men and women.

Spring 1977. LC: 76-15685 ISBN: 0-06-494331-3 $30.00

Publisher of Distinguished Books

BARNES & NOBLE
HARPER & ROW

10 East 53d Street
New York 10022

Expect the best from...BETA

The Little Giant in the West

THE ONLY GAME IN TOWN
A masterpiece of allegory that could leave readers breathless running the race of life . . . Great follow-up to the Olympics!
0-89293-050
$2.25

TO KNOW HIM IS TO LOVE HIM
A moving and sometimes tragic account of a storybook marriage shattered by an unusual set of circumstances. Judy lays naked her life, loves, and hopes.
0-89293-030
$2.95

A DOUBLE MINDED MAN
Dr. Segraves has done it again! A hard hitting, no holds barred book that's more than a book — it's a way of life. This young man may startle many with his insights concerning God and who He is!
0-89293-000
Hardcover . . . $5.95

THE GREAT ONES from BETA

Mass market paperbacks by Kelly L. Segraves:

THE GREAT DINOSAUR MISTAKE — Nearly 60,000 sold,	0-89293-062 . . . $1.25
THE GREAT FLYING SAUCER MYTH — Over 30,000 sold,	0-89293-061 . . . $1.25
SEARCH FOR NOAH'S ARK — A pictorial delight,	0-89293-052 . . . $1.45
THE WAY IT WAS — The story of the beginning,	0-89293-063 . . . $1.45
WHEN YOU'RE DEAD, YOU'RE DEAD — Over 80,000 sold,	0-89293-051 . . . $1.25

COMING SOON! The Handy Dandy Evolution Refuter . . . Watch for details!!

BETA BOOKS, P.O. BOX 246, CHINO, CALIFORNIA 91710

THE SCRAPBOOK HISTORY OF PRO FOOTBALL
by Richard M. Cohen
Jordan A. Deutsch
Roland T. Johnson and David Neft
Photographs
September $15.00

THE GREAT ARCHAEOLOGISTS
And Their Discoveries as Originally Reported in the Pages of the Illustrated London News
Edited by Edward Bacon
Illustrated
September $29.95 until Dec. 31, 1976
$35.00 thereafter

THE GREAT VILLAINS
by Janet Pate
Photographs
September $8.95

THE ORDER OF WOLVES
by Richard Fiennes
Photographs
September $13.95

SHADRACH IN THE FURNACE
A Novel
by Robert Silverberg
September $8.95

BEST SF: 75
The Ninth Annual
Edited by Harry Harrison and Brian Aldiss
September $10.00

FREEBOOTY
A Novel of Suspense
by Jack Foxx
September $8.95

THE COMPLETE HOME CARPENTER
Edited by George Daniels
Illustrated
September $14.95

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF PRESERVING
by Marye Cameron-Smith
September $18.95

GREETINGS!
How To Make Your Own Cards—For Birthdays, Anniversaries, Holidays, Parties, Special Days, Any Days
by Maria and Peter Snow
Photographs
September $10.00

A CIVIL TONGUE
by Edwin Newman
A Book-of-the-Month Club Alternate
October $8.95

ASSASSINATIONS IN OUR TIME
Edited by Sandy Lesberg
Photographs
October $14.95

THE STREETS OF SAN FRANCISCO
Illustrated
Haddington House Book
October $12.95

THE LANDMARKS OF BOSTON
Illustrated
Haddington House Book
October $12.95

THE WALLS OF JERUSALEM
Illustrated
Haddington House Book
October $12.95

THE PEOPLE AND PLACES OF JAMAICA
Illustrated
Haddington House Book
October $12.95

YOUR HOUSE IN NEEDLEPOINT
by Barbara L. Farlie and Constance C. Sloan
Illustrated
October $12.95

PUNCH PILLOW CRAFT
by Nan Orshefsky
Illustrated
October $10.00

THE DOLL WHO ATE HIS MOTHER
A Novel of Modern Terror
by Ramsey Campbell
October $8.95

APRIL, JUNE AND NOVEMBER
A Novel
by Frederic Raphael
October $10.00

THE CAVALRY
Edited by James Lawford
Illustrated
A Military Book Club Featured Alternate
October $19.95

FIRESIDE COOKS & BLACK KETTLE RECIPES
by Doris E. Farrington
Illustrated
November $15.00

LAND OF DARKNESS, SHADOW OF DEATH
A Military History of the Arab-Israeli Wars 1947-1973
by Trevor N. Dupuy
Photographs
November $15.00

DINING WITH SHERLOCK HOLMES
A Baker Street Cookbook
by Julia C. Rosenblatt and Frederic H. Sonnenschmidt
November $12.95

THE GROUCHO/PHILE
An Illustrated Life
by Groucho Marx
Introduced by Hector Arce
November $17.50 until December 31, 1976
$20.00 thereafter

REMEMBERING JOSEPHINE
A Biography of Josephine Baker
by Stephen Papich
Photographs
November $15.00

BY WHAT RIGHT?
by Louis Lusky
November $15.50

THE POSTAGE STAMP GAZETTEER
by Graham Blackburn
Illustrated
November $17.50 until December 31, 1976
$20.00 thereafter

GOLD, GALLEONS AND ARCHAEOLOGY
A History of the 1715 Spanish Plate Fleet and the True Story of the Great Florida Treasure Find by Robert F. Burgess and Carl J. Clausen
Illustrated
December $12.95

LEFFERT'S DISEASE
A Novel
by Peter Lake, M.D.
November $8.95

COME KILL WITH ME
A Novel of Suspense
by Fred Kassak
Translated from the French
by Martin Sokolinsky
December $8.95

THE YESHIVA
A Novel
by Chaim Grade
Translated from the Yiddish
by Curt Leviant
December $12.50

OTHERS, INCLUDING MORSTIVE STERNBUMP
A Novel
by Marvin Cohen
December $8.95

THE CHINESE
Portrait of a New Civilization
by Alain Peyrefitte
December $15.00

THE MAN WHO GOT CAPONE
by Frank Spiering
Photographs
January $10.00

THE MURDERERS
by Emanuel Tanay, M.D. with Lucy Freeman
January $8.95

THE FEMALE EXPERIENCE
An American Documentary
by Gerda Lerner
January $10.50

BUBBLES
A Self-Portrait
by Beverly Sills
Photographs
February $12.50

BOBBS-MERRILL
4 West 58th Street
New York, N.Y. 10019

Any retailer is free to charge whatever price it wishes for our books. Price slightly higher in Canada

BOBBS-MERRILL
FALL 1976

FALL 1976

George Braziller

One Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016

Now Available

THE MEDIEVAL HEALTH HANDBOOK: TACUINUM SANITATIS

Introduction by Luisa Cogliati Arano
Commentaries translated from the original Latin texts

Pages from the most important medieval health handbooks—which illustrated and explained the effects of foods, seasons, and even human emotions on a person's health. 48 plates in full color, 243 black-and-white plates. Slipcased

SBN 0-8076-0808-4 $25.00

September

EGON SCHIELE'S PORTRAITS

by Alessandra Comini

A special arrangement with the University of California Press enables us to make available a limited paperback edition of this title, "...the best book on the Viennese wunderkind so far and maybe forever...." —John Canaday, The New York Times

200 illustrations

SBN 0-8076-0841-6 $19.95

October

RETURNING HOME: Tao-Chi's Album of Landscapes and Flowers

Introduction and Commentaries by Wen Fong

A collection of twelve calligraphic poems and twelve paintings. Tao-Chi's wistful odyssey engages our emotions as fully as his mastery of the brush excites our admiration. Slipcased

6 colors $15.00 pre-Christmas

SBN 0-8076-0827-0 $17.50 thereafter

THE FARNESE HOURS

Introduction and Commentaries by Webster Smith

Of the glorious pages in this newest addition to our Library of Illuminated Manuscripts, with its rich and elaborate mixture of figures from classical myths as well as from the Old and New Testaments, Vasari said: "This is one of the greatest things that mortal hand could do or mortal eye could behold." Slipcased

64 plates in 4 colors plus gold

$25.00 pre-Christmas

SBN 0-8076-0856-4 $30.00 thereafter

THE ILLUSTRATIONS

by Norman Dubie

Making appearances in this latest collection of Mr. Dubie's poetry are, among others, Proust and Ovid, Klee and Brueghel, and even the deposed Tsar, for it is always the experience that has the root of peril in it that enlivens the beautiful, seemingly serene surfaces of his works.

SBN 0-8076-0857-2 cloth $6.95

SBN 0-8076-0858-0 paper $3.95

JAMES ENSOR

by David Farmer

Ensor has been called the first great Flemish artist since Rubens. His is an art of great originality and expressiveness in which landscapes and still lifes of intense beauty embody the artist's delight in the things of this world, while scenes of death evoke his tormented sense of their ephemerality.

52 color plates
65 black-and-white illustrations

SBN 0-8076-0834-8 cloth $17.50

SBN 0-8076-0836-X paper $9.95

November

FABULOUS FEASTS: Medieval Cookery and Ceremony

by Madeleine Pelner Cosman

A cookbook within an art book. An excursion for the adventurous chef, providing information not only on medieval etiquette, ceremony, and the festivities of feasting, but also more than 100 functional recipes assuring the medieval feaster of contrast, variety, and surprise.

24 color plates printed in 5 colors
64 black-and-white illustrations

$22.50 pre-Christmas

SBN 0-8076-0832-7 $25.00 thereafter

ROMANESQUE ART (Selected Papers, Volume I)

by Meyer Schapiro

A series of studies on Romanesque sculpture and manuscript art. Meyer Schapiro's profound work is relevant to students of art, history, ideas, religion—that is, culture in general. 240 illustrations

SBN 8076-0853-x $30.00

December

JOSEPH CORNELL

by Diane Waldman

Using commonplace materials that compose our daily lives—thimbles, eggshells, mirrors, and maps among them—Cornell created his famed shadow boxes and collages that draw us instantly into a magical, fairy-tale world, one that reminds us of the strangeness of the familiar and the odd familiarity of the strange—and of a world we thought we knew.

55 color plates
64 black-and-white illustrations

SBN 0-8076-0833-5 cloth $17.50

SBN 0-8076-0834-3 paper $9.95

CAROLINGIAN PAINTING

by Florentine Mutherich

Concentrating on Carolingian illuminations, Professor Mutherich explores the start of a new age in the history of European culture. 48 color plates and numerous black-and-white illustrations reveal the wide range of this eclectically derivative yet seminal art.

SBN 8076-0851-3 cloth $17.50

SBN 8076-0852-1 paper $9.95

January

"fools say"

by Nathalie Sarraute

Madame Sarraute, master of subtlety, has again, in her inimitable style, focused on "reality" and its misinterpretations, in a novel that is at once clear and yet profound.

SBN 0-8076-0837-8 $7.95

February

YOUR TICKET IS NO LONGER VALID

by Romain Gary

A most profound book about love, told with all the elegance, charm, and wit we have come to expect from this master teacher of the art of love. "M. Gary's rich and spiky book demonstrates that . . . his fiction-writing ticket is as valid as ever." —Times Literary Supplement

SBN 0-8076-0838-6 $8.95

CELTIC PAINTING: Hiberno-Saxon Book Illuminations

by Carl Nordenfalk

From monasteries and island workshops emerged such famous illuminated manuscripts as The Book of Kells, The Lindesfarne Gospels, and The Book of Durrow, which are represented here.

48 plates in 4 colors plus gold
black-and-white-illustrations

SBN 0-8076-0825-4 cloth $17.50

SBN 0-8076-0826-2 paper $9.95

LATE ANTIQUE–EARLY CHRISTIAN PAINTING

by Kurt Weitzmann

Among the most famous manuscripts from the Late Antique-Early Christian era were The Cotton Genesis, The Vienna Genesis, and The Rossano Gospels, which featured a naturalistic representation and are as vivid and charming today as when the artist first put the pen to paper.

48 plates in 4 colors plus gold
black-and-white illustrations

SBN 0-8076-0825-4 cloth $17.50

SBN 0-8076-0826-2 paper $9.95

THE FICTION COLLECTIVE

distributed by George Braziller

ALTHEA

by J. M. Alonso

SBN 0-914590-24-3 cloth $11.95

SBN 0-914590-25-1 paper $4.95

BABBLE

by Jonathan Baumbach

SBN 0-914590-26-X cloth $8.95

SBN 0-914590-27-8 paper $3.95

TEMPORARY SANITY

by Thomas Glynn

SBN 0-914590-28-6 cloth $8.95

SBN 0-914590-29-4 paper $3.95

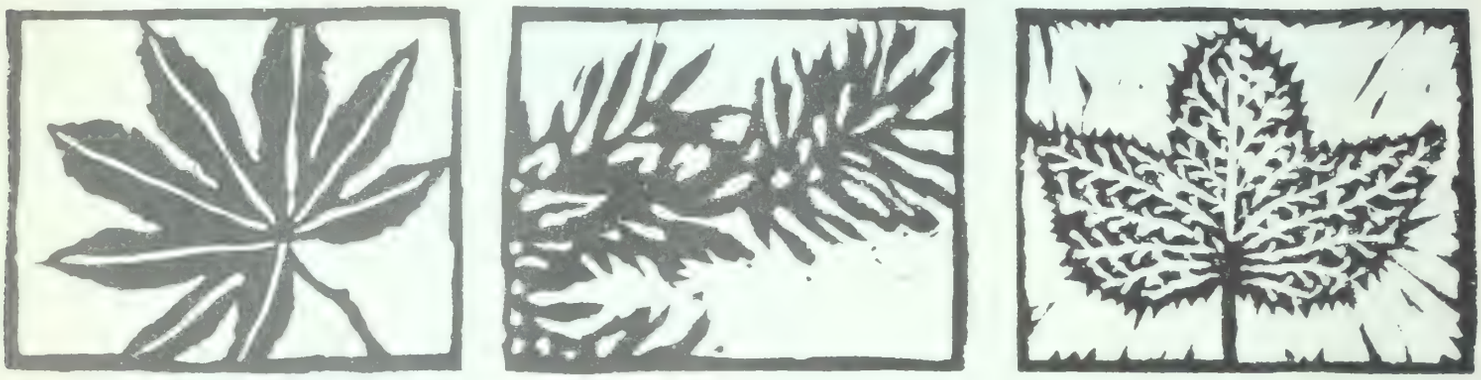
BOWKER'S FALL



September

ARCHIVE-LIBRARY RELATIONS

Edited with a preface by Robert L. Clarke, Jr., Director of Mid-Missisippi Regional Library System.

Eighteen articles give librarians a working knowledge of archival problems and archivists a current view of librarianship. Expert contributors explore everything from Public Relations and Fund Raising to Professional Communication ... from Collection Building and Acquisitions Policies to Preservation.

ISBN 0-8352-0770-6. LC 76-18806. CIP. c. 215 pages. $15.95 tent.

BOWKER SERIALS BIBLIOGRAPHY SUPPLEMENT 1976

Lists by subject and provides full bibliographic data on some 7,000 serials that did not appear in either the 16th edition of Ulrich's International Periodicals Directory or the 4th edition of Irregular Serials and Annuals. Additional sections update entries in the base volumes, list title changes and cessations. Includes an ISSN index to the base volumes as well as the Supplement.

ISBN 0-8352-0854-0. ISSN 0000-0094. LC 72-2677. 8¼" x 11". 600 pages. Paper. $22.50 tent.

COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING
A Bibliographic Guide

By James B. Woy, Head, Mercantile Library, Free Library of Philadelphia

Defines Action and Reaction Theory, Hog-Corn Ratio, Oscillator Method, Soybean Meal Spread, and more than a hundred other key terms. Each term is followed by a complete review of the leading opinions and analyses drawn from the most important textbooks, monographs and magazine articles. A separate section lists relevant government reports and periodicals. Fully indexed.

ISBN 0-8352-0899-0. CIP. c. 208 pages. $15.75.

LARGE TYPE BOOKS IN PRINT
2nd Edition

Compiled by Bowker's Current Bibliography Dept.

Printed in large type, this new edition lists by subject, and provides full bibliographic data on more than 1,500 fiction, non-fiction and textbook titles from some 40 publishers. Includes author and title cross reference indexes and a directory of publishers.

Edited and compiled by Bowker's Current Bibliography Dept. ISBN 0-8352-0909-1. LC 74-102773. 8½" x 11". c. 250 pages. $14.95.

LIBRARIES, MUSEUMS AND ART GALLERIES YEARBOOK 1976

Published by James Clarke and Co., Ltd., and dist. in the U.S. by Bowker.

Provides essential descriptive and contact data for some 180 public libraries and 2,000 branches in the United Kingdom and Eire as well as 1,200 special libraries and 2,500 museums in the U.K. A new section gives details of the recently-created British Library and its constituent parts. Fully indexed.

ISBN 0-227-67824-9. ISSN 0075-899X. LC 28-11281. 8" x 11¼". c. 256 pages. $32.50.

LITERARY AND LIBRARY PRIZES
9th Edition

Provides updated, in-depth profiles of almost 400 literary prizes, library awards, fellowships and grants in the United States, Canada and Great Britain, plus important international citations. A comprehensive index lists all awards (including those discontinued since the last edition was published) by name of award, authors of books, donor.

ISBN 0-8352-0897-4. ISSN 0075-9880. LC 59-11370. c. 500 pages. $18.95 tent.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL 1976

Binds together the specially prepared catalogs of 1,353 publishers of all kinds, size and editorial policies—including hundreds of specialty publishers in a separate Supplement. Provides access to comprehensive data on a publisher's entire list—all titles in series and journal programs, overseas representatives, discount schedules, subsidiaries and imprints, regional offices, and warehouse facilities.

ISBN 0-8352-0896-6. ISSN 0079-7855. LC 4-12648. c. 10,000 pages. $45.00 the 6-vol. set.

SCIENTIFIC, ENGINEERING AND MEDICAL SOCIETIES PUBLICATIONS IN PRINT 1976-1977

By James M. Matarazzo, Asst. Prof., Simmons College School of Library Service, and James M. Kyed, Librarian, M.I.T.

Enables you to quickly locate and obtain thousands of publications issued by more than 350 societies (the first edition covered 150 societies). Books, periodicals and AV items are listed by issuing society with full bibliographic data on each and ordering instructions. Includes a brand-new Periodical Title Index and Subject and Author Indexes.

ISBN 0-8352-0898-2. LC 74-5094. 8½" x 11". c. 500 pages. $19.95.

October

AMERICAN MEN AND WOMEN OF SCIENCE
13th Edition

Edited by Jaques Cattell Press.

A new edition that captures and records all the new people, new areas of study, new emphases of North American science. It provides current, concise, in-depth biographies of some 110,000 U.S. and Canadian scientists now working and teaching in 1,000 areas of the physical, biological, and selected social sciences. Volume 7 contains a geographical index and a discipline index.

ISBN 0-8352-0865-6. ISSN 0065-9347. LC 6-7326. 8½" x 11". c. 7,000 pages in 7 volumes. $50.00 tent. per volume. $300.00 tent. the 7-vol. set. ($250.00 the complete set through September 30, 1976.)

BOOKS IN PRINT 1976

Your only total view of what's available in the U.S. book world. Here, indexed alphabetically by author and title, are approximately 450,000 in-print books of all kinds from some 3,800 U.S. publishers' imprints—with full and accurate bibliographic data in each entry in each index. Thousands of out-of-print titles have been dropped, thousands of price changes recorded, and thousands of new titles and new editions added.

ISBN 0-8352-0906-7. ISSN 0068-0214. LC 4-12648. 8½" x 11". c. 7,000 pages. $76.50 the 4-volume set through November 1, 1976. $82.50 thereafter.

HEALTH: A MULTIMEDIA SOURCE GUIDE

By Joan Ash; Associate Director, Health Science Center Libraries, The University of Oregon, Portland, and Michael Stevenson.

Here is unprecedented, one-source access to the publications, products, programs and key personnel of hundreds of organizations now providing information and/or services in the health world. Associations, Societies and Foundations. Research Institutes. City, State and Federal Agencies. Pharmaceuticals and other Companies. Publishers. AV Producers and Distributors. Libraries and Information Services. Bookdealers.

ISBN 0-8352-0905-9. CIP. c. 210 pages. $16.00

Order from:
R.R. Bowker Order Dept., P.O. Box 1807, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106. Outside Western Hemisphere: Bowker, Erasmus House, Epping, Essex, England

A List for All Seasons

HEGEL: AN INTERNATIONAL BIBLIOGRAPHY

By Kurt Steinhauser, S.J.

Lists more than 13,000 books, theses, essays in periodicals, and other items ranging from the time of Hegel's first writings through 1973 ... encompasses all works by Hegel in all editions as well as works about him and all aspects of his philosphy ... includes author, subject and geographical indexes, a list of sources, and a detailed chronology of Hegel's life.
Published by Verlag Dokumentation (Munich) and dist. in WH by Bowker. ISBN 3-7940-3184-9. c. 1,200 pages. $40.00.

INTERNATIONAL LITERARY MARKET PLACE 1976/1977

Compiled by Peter Found

ILMP is now an annual. This new edition lists and provides basic data on thousands of publishers, printers, literary agents, booksellers, associations and other firms and institutions in 130 countries outside the U.S. and Canada. Includes general information on each country's language, religion, population, public holidays, etc. Fully indexed.
ISBN 0-85935-049-5. 8" x 11¼". c. 456 pages. Softcover. $23.50 tent.

MAGIC AS A PERFORMING ART
A Bibliography of Conjuring

Edited by Robert Gill

Lists, critically annotates and provides full bibliographic data on 1,000 of the best English-language titles dealing with all aspects of the theory and practice of performing magic.
ISBN 0-85935-038-X. c. 224 pages. $24.00 tent.

SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITIES AND LIBRARIES: A Library Journal/School Library Journal Selection

Edited with an Introduction by Patricia Glass Schuman, President, Neal-Schuman Publishers, Inc.

Some 45 of the most important and controversial articles from Library Journal and School Library Journal over the past few years are reprinted, including: Kathleen Weibel's "Toward a Feminist Profession"; Joyce Crook's "Civil Liberties, Libraries and Computers."
ISBN 0-8352-0952-0. CIP. c. 210 pages. $9.95 tent.

November

AMERICAN LIBRARY DIRECTORY 1976-1977
30th Edition

Compiled by Jaques Cattell Press

Lists some 32,000 public, academic and special libraries by U.S. state or Canadian province and then by city. Provides full, current data on their personnel, facilities, budgets, holdings, and more.
ISBN 0-8352-0891-5. LC 23-3581. 8½" x 11". c. 1,250 pages. $45.00 tent.

BOOKS IN SERIES IN THE UNITED STATES 1966-1975

Original, Reprinted, In-print, and Out-of-Print Books, Published or distributed in the U.S. in Popular, Scholarly, and Professional Series. 1st edition.

Lists and provides full bibliographic data—including o.p. information—on 112,000 books issued in 10,000 series of all kinds by 1,000 publishers between 1966 and 1975.
ISBN 0-8352-0902-4. 8½" x 11". c. 3,000 pages. $50.00 tent.

THE BUSINESS OF PUBLISHING
A PW Anthology

Some 45 of the most probing articles from Publishers Weekly are reprinted. They lay bare the muscles and sinews of publishing.
ISBN 0-8352-0893-1. CIP. c. 300 pages. $11.95 tent.

ETHNIC AMERICAN MINORITIES
A Guide to Media and Materials

Compiled and edited by Harry A. Johnson, Director, Learning Resources Center & Chairman of Dept. Ed. Media, Virginia State College

The author of the acclaimed Multimedia Materials for Afro-American Studies (Bowker, 1971) now provides annotated bibliographies of the best non-print materials.
ISBN 0-8352-0766-8. CIP. c. 375 pages. $15.95 tent.

SUBJECT GUIDE TO BOOKS IN PRINT 1976

Lists more than 385,000 non-fiction titles of all kinds from BOOKS IN PRINT 570,000 times under 62,000 Library of Congress subject headings with some 53,000 cross references. The same full and carefully compiled bibliographic data in each entry as you'll find in BOOKS IN PRINT.
ISBN 0-8352-0907-5. ISSN 0000-0159. LC 4-12648. 8½" x 11". c. 4,500 pages. $57.50 the 2-vol. set through December 1, 1976. $62.50 thereafter.

December

CHILDREN'S BOOK IN PRINT 1976
8th edition

Indexes by author, title and illustrator some 39,000 in-print children's books, from kindergarten through grade 12. Full finding, ordering and bibliographic data on each book. Includes a directory of publishers.
ISBN 0-8352-0915-6. ISSN 0069-3480. LC 70-101705. 8½" x 11¼". c. 790 pages. $25.00 tent.

SUBJECT GUIDE TO CHILDREN'S BOOKS IN PRINT 1976
7th edition

Lists the same 39,000 titles in Children's Books in Print under 8,300 subject headings based on the Sears list. Same full bibliographic data for each title. Each biography is indexed under the subject's name as well as field of reknown.
ISBN 0-8352-0916-4. ISSN 0000-0167. LC 70-101705. 8½" x 11". c. 600 pages. $25.00 tent.

LIBRARY JOURNAL BOOK REVIEW 1974

All adult reviews which appeared in 1974 in Library Journal are reprinted and arranged within 24 subject headings.
ISBN 0-8352-0799-4. ISSN 0075-9082. LC 68-59515. 8½" x 11". Price to be announced.

MANAGING MULTIMEDIA LIBRARIES

By Warren B. Hicks and Alma M. Tillin

The authors of the highly-acclaimed Developing Multi-Media Libraries (Bowker, 1970) now provide a complete program for successful coordination between personnel and the planning of operation procedures.
ISBN 0-8352-0628-9. 6⅝" x 10". c. 220 pages. $13.50 tent.

SOURCES OF SERIALS

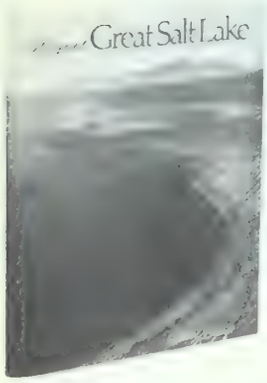
An International Publisher and Corporate Author Directory to Ulrich's and Irregular Serials. 1st Edition

Arranges the 90,000 titles listed in the latest editions of Ulrich's, Irregular Serials & Annuals, and the Supplement first by country and then by publisher and/or corporate author—with the official name and address for each.
ISBN 0-8352-0855-9. 8½" x 11". c. 2,700 pages. $50.00 tent.

BOWKER
NEW YORK & LONDON

All orders plus shipping and handling. Sales tax added where applicable. Prices are subject to change and slightly higher outside the U.S. and its possessions.

BRIGHAM YOUNG FALL 1976



THE GREAT GREAT SALT LAKE BY PETER G. CZERNY.
In the first major photobook dealing with the Great Salt Lake, adventurer-photographer Peter Czerny offers a revealing look at one of the strangest lakes on earth. Leading the reader on a full-circle tour of the area, Czerny describes the lake's history, geography, flora and fauna, and unusual recreational possibilities (bathers float like a cork in the heavy water). The author's personal observations and splendid photography — much of it taken by helicopter — provides an unforgettable view of America's only inland sea. October, 130 colorplates, 1073-1, $10.95 paper.

WATER STONE SKY: A PICTORIAL ESSAY ON LAKE POWELL BY STANLEY L. WELSH AND CATHERINE ANN TOFT.
Located on the southern border of Utah, Lake Powell with its deep-blue reflective waters and colorful slickrock canyons forms one of the most magnificent sights in the West. Naturalists Welsh and Toft have captured this magnificence in a book of glorious color photography and sensitive natural descriptions. Originally issued in 1974, Water Stone Sky has been revised to include all-new photography, a fresh introduction, and an enlarged, expanded format. September, 84 colorplates, 1016-8, $10.95 paper.

HOW TO STRENGTHEN YOUR MARRIAGE AND FAMILY BY G. HUGH ALLRED.
Confronting such specific problems as a straying husband and a bedwetting child, this unique book by a noted family counselor offers down-to-earth advice on improving conditions in the home. Based on the Adlerian theory of level communication, it presents a way of relating to spouse and children which brings about positive, helpful interaction. Highlighted in the book are numerous case studies which help the reader increase his understanding and gain a repertory of effective interpersonal responses. September, 424 pages, 0960-7, $6.95 paper.

HISTORY

The Dominguez-Escalante Journal, translated by Fray Angelico Chavez, edited by Ted J. Warner. A new bilingual translation into English and modern Spanish of the journal kept by two Franciscan fathers during their epic, exploratory journey across the southwestern United States in 1776. September, $12.95 cloth (0037-5), $6.95 paper (0121-5).

Brigham Young University: A School of Destiny edited by Ernest L. Wilkinson. A definitive and lively history of Brigham Young University written in observance of the school's 100th birthday. Includes photos of university life, past and present. June, 928 pages, 0905-4, $7.95 cloth.

CHILD PSYCHOLOGY

Six Approaches to Child Rearing by D. Eugene Mead. An intriguing book, for professionals and parents, defining six classical and contemporary psychological theories for modeling behavior in children. October, 240 pages, 0327-7, $6.95s paper.

DANCE

Social Dance Rhythms by Alma Heaton. An experienced dance teacher and professor of recreation here offers a comprehensive guide to teaching ballroom dancing. Included are techniques, dance descriptions, and a variety of American and Latin rhythms. September, typescript, 0485-0, $6.95s paper.

WRITE FOR CATALOG OF NEW FALL TITLES AND SELECTED BACKLIST

ISBN Prefix 0-8425

s = text discount

BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY PRESS
Marketing 204 UPB
Provo, Utah 84602

FALL HARVEST

I Am
by Dr. Don L. Torres
This fascinating book seeks to help maximize one's self-awareness, true potential and happiness.
ISBN 0-912588-24-1 $7.95

There's a Fortune in Worms
by Hank Haynes
This engaging book offers a practical approach to raising and selling worms for profit.
ISBN 0-912588-18-7 $7.95

Home Maid Spanish
by Margaret S. Storm and Elsie B. Ginnett
An indispensable guide to communicating with a Spanish speaking maid.
ISBN 0-912588-26-8 $1.75

Home Maid Spanish Cookbook
by Margaret S. Storm and Elsie B. Ginnett
A more specialized guide which includes American recipes and directions for keeping the kitchen
ISBN 0-912588-27-6 $3.50

Pennies and Tears
by Paul "Panther" Pierce
A beautiful collection of poems that tell of a love affair
August ISBN 0-912588-32-2 $3.95

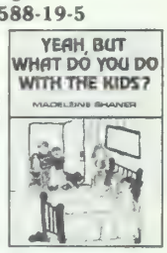
College Chronicle
A fun, convenient way for the freshman student to document his or her unique college career.
July ISBN 0-89289-011-8 $9.95

The Joy of Trivia
by Bernie Smith
The former head writer for Groucho Marx offers hilarious stories and one liners. Oct ISBN 0-912588-30-6 $4.95/paper $7.95/cloth

Guide to Restaurants of Greater Miami
by Harvey Steiman
The first critical restaurant guide ever written on Miami
Pocket sized with pertinent information on over 200 establishments
Oct ISBN 0-912588-38-1 $4.95

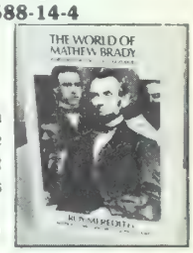
Hawaii: Pacific Encounter
by Ted Czolowski
A beautiful, full-color photo essay on the people and culture of the enchanted islands.
Sept ISBN 0-912588-34-9 $4.95

The Quick and Easy Microwave Oven Cookbook
by Ginger Scribner
A convenient, in-depth guide to microwave cooking with indexed kitchen-tested recipes as well as tips on microwave usage.
ISBN 0-912588-19-5 $6.95

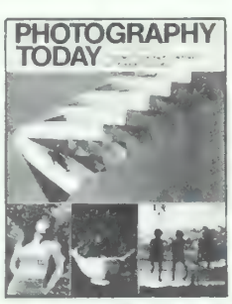


Yeah, But What Do You Do with the Kids?
by Madeleine Shaner
A wonderfully witty collection of anecdotes and stories expressing the author's view of the new "Sexology."
Oct ISBN 0-912588-31-4 $5.95

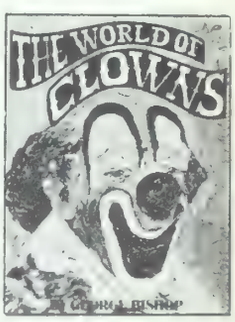
Color for the Landscape
by Mildred E. Mathias
Professor of Botany
Color photos along with authoritative text show spectacular flowering plants. A beautiful gift.
ISBN 0-912588-14-4 $10.95



The World of Mathew Brady
by Roy Meredith
A magnificent presentation of the Civil War years by America's first great cameraman, with photographs previously unpublished in book form
Sept ISBN 0-912588-05-5 $20.00



Photography Today
by Lou Jacobs, Jr.
An apprenticeship to a professional photographer — for the beginner seeking to acquire the essential skills.
Oct ISBN 0-87620-699-0 $14.95



The World of Clowns
by George Bishop
A magical, pictorial history of the clown; the symbol of laughter the world over. A certain best-selling gift book
Sept ISBN 0-912588-29-2 $20.00

Additional titles not shown:

Those Magnificent Clydesdales: The Gentle Giants
by Karen C. Flanigan
A beautiful photo-essay telling the complete story of this famous breed of horse. A wonderful gift for adults and children.
Jan ISBN 0-912588-20-0 $5.95

San Francisco by Ted Czolowski
A full-color pictorial history.
Sept ISBN 0-912588-35-7 $4.95

Indian Basketry from Western North America
18th and 19th century craftsmanship
Oct ISBN 0-912588-39-X $8.95

How to Leave Home and Survive
by Claudia Forbes
The first cookbook and guide for young adults who are beginning life on their own.
Sept ISBN 0-912588-37-3 $3.95

detailed catalogue upon request.

BROOKE HOUSE • 9010 Reseda Blvd., Northridge, CA 91324 (213) 349-1700

Cambridge Selections for Libraries

HISTORY OF THE OTTOMAN EMPIRE AND MODERN TURKEY

Volume 1: Empire of the Gazis—the Rise and Decline of the Ottoman Empire, 1280-1808

STANFORD SHAW

By one of America's leading authorities on the subject. This comprehensive work, to be complete in two volumes, will assume a commanding position in the field.
October ISBN 21280 4 $25.00

ISLAMIC HISTORY: A NEW INTERPRETATION 2

A.D. 750-1055 (A.H. 132-448)

M. A. SHABAN

The author continues his account begun in Islamic History A.D. 600-750: A New Interpretation (CUP 1971).
Published ISBN 21198 0 $19.50

THE CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF AFRICA

Volume 3: From c. 1050 to c. 1600

ROLAND OLIVER, Editor

October ISBN 20981 1 $48.50

Volume 5: From c. 1790 to c. 1870

JOHN FLINT, Editor

October ISBN 20701 0 $42.50

Note: Volume 4: The Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries, the first volume to be published in this new history, was issued in 1975. ISBN 20413 5 $42.50

COMPANION TO RUSSIAN STUDIES

ROBERT AUTY and
DIMITRI OBOLENSKY, Editors

Volume 1: An Introduction to Russian History

A collaborative, comprehensive history from medieval times to the recent past. Contains 17 maps.
Published ISBN 20893 9 $32.50

Volume 2: An Introduction to Russian Language and Literature

Traces the development of the literature, discusses the language, and gives a history of Russian writing and printing.
February ISBN 20894 7 $22.50

The third and final volume, which will cover art and architecture, will be published in late 1977 or 1978.

A CHANCE TO LEARN

The History of Race and Education in the United States

MEYER WEINBERG

Documents the experience of Blacks, Puerto Ricans, Chicanos and Indians. The author is Director of the Center for Equal Education and Professor of History, City Colleges of Chicago, and Lecturer at the School of Education, Northwestern University.
January ISBN 21303 7 $25.00

WHY SWITZERLAND?

JONATHAN STEINBERG

An intimate look at the Swiss people, their past and present politics, their economics and their culture.
October ISBN 21139 5 $12.95

IN STALIN'S TIME

Middleclass Values in Soviet Fiction

VERA S. DUNHAM

A lively study of the popular literature, bringing out little-known details of Soviet life and showing the relationship of Stalin's regime to the citizenry.
Published ISBN 20949 8 $16.95

SENSUAL DRUGS

Deprivation and Rehabilitation of the Mind

HARDIN B. JONES and HELEN C. JONES

A medical scientist demonstrates the effects of sensual drugs, including brain damage and loss of sexual power, discusses the misconceptions in current literature and proposes a method of therapy based on his own success in rehabilitating addicts.
January ISBN 21247 2 $14.95

THE BATTLE AGAINST BACTERIA: A FRESH LOOK

P. E. BALDRY

In this sequel to his very widely-read The Battle Against Bacteria (CUP 1965) Dr. Baldry tells the story of man's fight against bacterial disease from the earliest times to the present. For both adult and young adult collections.
October ISBN 21268 5 $9.95

THE LIFE OF RICHARD WAGNER

ERNEST NEWMAN

A paperback edition of the four-volume work originally published by Knopf in a hardcover edition which is out of print.

October
ISBN 29094 5 (Vol. 1) $ 8.95
ISBN 29095 3 (Vol. 2) $ 8.95
ISBN 29096 1 (Vol. 3) $ 8.95
ISBN 29097 X (Vol. 4) $ 8.95
ISBN 29149 6 (Set) $29.95

THE FORGING ON THE "RING"

CURT VON WESTERNHAGEN

A book which stands beside Nottebohm's work on Beethoven for its insights into the workings of musical genius in the process of composition. Translated from the German by Arnold and Mary Whittall.
November ISBN 21293 6 $18.95

THE RISE OF ROMANTIC OPERA

EDWARD J. DENT

Traces the development of romantic opera from its origins in the music-dramas and comic operas of revolutionary France. A personal and highly readable book for the music lover as well as the historian, it is based on a series of Dent's lectures and edited by Winton Dean.
October ISBN 21337 1 $11.50

CARL MARIA VON WEBER

Second Edition

JOHN WARRACK

Replaces the Macmillan edition of what has become the standard "life and work" of Carl Maria von Weber. The second edition has a considerable number of changes and additions including a completely new final chapter and bibliography.
November ISBN 21354 1 $29.50

THE LETTERS OF THOMAS BABINGTON MACAULAY

THOMAS PINNEY, Editor

Volume 3: January 1834—August 1841

October ISBN 21125 5 $42.50

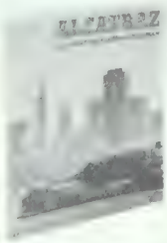
Continuation orders are welcome.
Prices and publication dates tentative on forthcoming books.
Cambridge ISBN prefix 0 521

Cambridge University Press

32 East 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10022

CELESTIAL ARTS/LES FEMMES

August



DIFFERENT DRUMMERS
Antoinette May

A dramatic collective biography of six women who were some of history's most celebrated risk-takers. 907-9, 160 pages, paper, LC: 76-11373, $4.95

ALCATRAZ
Ted and Howard Needham

This remarkable photographic document capsules the history of America's most infamous prison. ". . . chills the bones as it documents. . the end of an agony." —Publishers Weekly 129-9, 8½ x 7½, paper, LC: 76-11350, $3.95

GESTALT THERAPY MINI-LECTURES
James S. Simkin, Ph.D.

A clear and coherent picture of Gestalt therapy in practice by Fritz Perls' closest associate. 170-1, paper, LC: 76-11344, $3.95

UFOlogy
James M. McCampbell

A major breakthrough in the scientific understanding of UFO's. ". . delivers what it promises in an impressive manner." —Astronomy Mag. 144-2, paper, LC: 73-93488, $4.95

September

HELP YOUR DOCTOR HELP YOU
Walter C. Alvarez, M.D.

America's foremost man of medicine examines the doctor/patient relationship. ". . . (helps make) the medical mystique comprehensible to the layman." —Publishers Weekly 169-8, paper, LC: 76-11342, $4.95

LELOOSKA
Randolph Falk

The immense and complex culture of the Northwest Coast Indians is captured in the artistry of the unique Lelooska family. 126-4, 8½ x 11, paper, illus. w/over 100 photos, LC: 76-11348, $7.95

EVERYWOMAN'S GUIDE TO FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE
Mavis Arthur Groza

Answers every woman's questions about how to handle money. 918-4, paper, LC: 76-11371, $3.95

DECISIONS, DECISIONS, DECISIONS
Barbara Kay Polland

How children learn the decision-making process and how adults can help. Contains sections of photos and text for children to age 9. 161-2, 8½ x 11, paper, LC: 76-11365, $4.95

October

WESTERN TRAIN ROBBERIES
Don DeNevi

The most exciting train robberies of the Old West, reconstructed from unpublished photographs and material from railroad files. 125-6, 240 pages, paper, LC: 76-11355, $4.95

GONE WITH THE HEARTH
Dorothy Gray

The rich heritage of antiques, foods, cookbooks and folklore of American kitchenry traced from Colonial times to the Victorians. 128-0, 244 pages, paper, LC: 76-11359, $4.95

THE RESTLESS SPIRIT: JOURNAL OF A GEMINI
Barbara Kraft
Preface by Anaïs Nin

The internal struggles of a passionate, creative woman are explored in her intimate journal. 917-6, 228 pages, paper, LC: 76-11372, $4.95

GROUP THERAPY — Who Needs It?
Doris Wild Helmering

A professional therapist tells what really goes on in therapy groups. 159-0, 208 pages, paper, LC: 76-11364, $4.95

November

THE MEN BEHIND THE WOMEN
Jane Miller, R.S.C.J.

Explores the financial, personal and psychological backing received by women's rights leaders from husbands and sympathetic males. 910-9, paper, LC: 76-11379, $3.95

CRIMES AGAINST WOMEN
The Prodeedings of the Int'l Tribunal
Diana E.H. Russell & Nicole Van de Ven

The first book to document the shocking testimony heard by the Brussels Tribunal on the institutional, cultural and criminal victimization of women throughout the world. 921-4, 320 pages, paper, LC: 76-25356, $5.95

THE WORLD OF WOMEN'S GYMNASTICS
Jim Gault with Jack Grant

The first comprehensive overview of the sport. Features an up-to-the-minute report on the '76 Summer Olympics. 166-3, paper, LC: 76-11354, $3.95

SELECTIVE AWARENESS THERAPY
Peter H. C. Mutke, M.D.

This amazing new technique tells how to control and use the body's inherent potential for self-healing and growth. 162-0, paper, 240 pages, LC: 76-11361, $4.95

PUBLISHED

BEYOND JOGGING: The Innerspaces of Running
Mike Spino

". . . provides runners with both physiological gains and self-understanding. . ." —Library Journal 156-6, paper, LC: 75-28771, $3.95

PLAYING TENNIS WHEN IT HURTS
K. Gordon Campbell

". . . There is no question that anybody who takes the time and trouble to follow (Dr. Campbell's) advice will find it worthwhile. . . a useful book. . ." —Sports Illustrated 155-8, paper, LC: 75-5833, $3.95

SKATEBOARDING
Jack Grant

First complete guide to this fad-turned-major-sport. ". . . public libraries will want to consider ordering. . ." —Library Journal 165-5, paper, LC: 76-5833, $3.95

I AM NOT SPOCK
Leonard Nimoy

Nimoy's adventures with the legendary Star Trek character. ". . a most intriguing voyage through inner space. ." —New York Times Book Review ". . multiple copies will be needed." —School Library Journal 117-5, paper, LC: 75-28761, $4.95

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE ESTABLISHMENT
T. Herodotus

". . . a delightfully irreverent history of the early days of our nation." —Booklist ". . . prescribed reading. ." —Business Week 062-4, paper, LC: 75-7859, $7.95

WILDFLOWERS OF THE WEST
Mabel Crittenden and Dorothy Telfer

". . . this is one of the best introductions to flower structure, growth, and reproduction available. . ." —Booklist 069-1, paper, LC: 75-9076, $4.95

CELESTIAL ARTS/LES FEMMES
231 Adrian Road, Millbrae, California 94030 (415) 692-4900

Thoughtful reading from Cornell FALL 1976

The books listed below will be supported with extensive advertising and promotion—

The Paintings of Correggio

By Cecil Gould. The first major work in more than forty years to treat the paintings of Correggio, this definitive volume is magnificently illustrated with twelve color plates, more than 300 halftone illustrations and nearly 200 line drawings. Large format. October. 0973-X. $85.00

The Heritage of Apelles

Studies in the Art of the Renaissance

By E. H. Gombrich. This heavily illustrated volume offers nine masterful essays by one of the world's foremost art historians that shed fresh light on various aspects of the art of the Renaissance. 248 black and white photographs and four color plates. Large format. October. 1012-6. $22.50

Disaster by Decree

The Supreme Court Decisions on Race and the Schools

By Lino A. Graglia. A telling critique of the difficulties inherent in our major social and, of course, legal dilemma." —Library Journal
August. 0980-2. $11.50

America as an Ordinary Country

U.S. Foreign Policy and the Future

Edited by Richard Rosecrance. "Knowledgeable, temperate and lucidly written, the essays range from detente and multinational corporations to the European Community and the Far East. A constructive international effort that deserves a wide readership." —Publishers Weekly
September. 1010-X. $9.75

Crows of the World

By Derek Goodwin, with illustrations by Robert Gillmor. This generously illustrated guide offers complete, authoritative information on all living members of the diverse crow family, including jays and magpies. 3 color plates. 114 line drawings. Large format. November. 1057-6. $28.50

The Art of the Renaissance in Eastern Europe

By Jan Bialostocki. An outstanding contribution to Renaissance studies, this handsomely illustrated volume describes how Hungary, Bohemia and Poland succumbed to the irrepressible new style of Italian Renaissance art. Over 350 illustrations. (The Wrightsman Lectures series.) Large format. September. 0995-0. $25.00

America's Master of Bee Culture

The Life of L.L. Langstroth

By Florence Naile, with a new Foreword by Roger A. Morse. This gracefully written biography of the man who invented the modern beehive also presents a fascinating history of beekeeping.
October. 1053-3. $9.95

Political Violence

By Ted Honderich. Taking a philosophical rather than an activist view, Ted Honderich deals with the moral and philosophical arguments that have been offered for and against political violence.
November. 1017-7. $7.95

Thought Control in Prewar Japan

By Richard H. Mitchell. This first full-scale treatment of a dark chapter in Japan's recent history analyzes the special methods the Japanese developed to stamp out "unhealthy" thoughts.
August. 1002-9. $10.95

New in Paperback...

Structuralist Poetics

Structuralism, Linguistics, and the Study of Literature

By Jonathan Culler. "Culler has accomplished a much-needed task with exemplary clarity and liveliness." —Library Journal, Winner of the 1975 James Russell Lowell Prize.
August. 9155-X. $4.95, paper

Energy Supply and Government Policy

Edited by Robert J. Kalter and William A. Vogely. Fourteen essays by nationally known specialists offer perceptive analyses of our energy-supply problems and realistic proposals for solving them. November. 9159-2. $5.95, paper
(see list at right for cloth)

The Supreme Court and the Commander in Chief

By Clinton Rossiter, brought up to date by Richard P. Longaker. An expanded, thoroughly updated new edition of the classic study of presidential power, including vital events of the past 25 years. November. 9161-4. $3.95, paper (see list at right for cloth)

Understanding Wittgenstein

Edited and with a Foreword by Godfrey Vesey. "It is pleasant to be confronted with a book as rich, interesting, and worthwhile as this." —TLS
September. 9160-6. $5.95, paper

ENERGY SUPPLY AND GOVERNMENT POLICY
Edited by Robert J. Kalter and William A. Vogely 0966-7. November. $18.50s cloth (see list at left for paperback)

THE SUPREME COURT AND THE COMMANDER IN CHIEF
By Clinton Rossiter, brought up to date by Richard P. Longaker 1052-5. November. $15.00s cloth (see list at left for paperback)

PYTHAGOREAN PALACES
Magic and Architecture in the Italian Renaissance
By G. L. Hersey 0998-5. November. $22.50s

SYMBOL AND CONQUEST
Public Ritual and Drama in Santa Fe, New Mexico
By Ronald L. Grimes
(Symbol, Myth, and Ritual series)
1037-1. November. $17.50s

CRIME AND LAW ENFORCEMENT IN THE COLONY OF NEW YORK, 1691-1776
By Douglas Greenberg 1020-7. October. $15.00s

THE ANGLO-IRISH TRADITION
By J.C. Beckett 1056-8. November. $9.75s

JULES MICHELET
Nature, History, and Language
By Linda Orr 0976-4. November. $12.50s

TENNYSON'S STYLE
By W. David Shaw 1021-5. November $12.50s

"THE PRELUDE," 1798-1799
By William Wordsworth. Edited by Stephen Parrish (The Cornell Wordsworth series) 0854-7 December. $19.50s

THE LIMITS OF IMAGINATION
Wordsworth, Yeats, and Stevens
By Helen Regueiro 0994-2 November. $10.00s

EARLY EPIC SCENERY
Homer, Virgil, and the Medieval Legacy
By Theodore M. Andersson 1013-4. September. $12.50s

THE LABOR-MANAGED ECONOMY
By Jaroslav Vanek 0955-1. January. $17.50s

THE EMPEROR IN THE ROMAN WORLD
By Fergus Millar 1058-4. February. $27.50s

FESTIVALS OF THE ATHENIANS
By H.W. Parke (Aspects of Greek and Roman Life series) 1054-1. February $16.50s

Please add Cornell's prefix, 0-8014, to all ISBNs

CORNELL UNIVERSITY PRESS Ithaca and London

CIP

CROWN FALL '76

JGUST

House Book by Terence Conran
(526271) $30.00

Joy of Sex AND More Joy of Sex edited Alex Comfort, M.B., Ph.D.
2-volume boxed set (527324) $19.95

Complete Van Book by Lucian K. Trus- IV (A Harmony Book)
aper (526735) $5.95; cloth (527901) $9.95

Illustrated Cat—A Poster Book by Jean- ude Suarès and Seymour Chwast (Har- ny) per (526433) $5.95; cloth (526441) $10.95

Rolling Stones: An Illustrated Record Roy Carr (Harmony)
per (526417) $6.95; cloth (526425) $12.95

ating Art with Bread Dough by Dona Z. ach
aper (525909) $5.95; cloth (525895) $8.95

king Cheeses at Home by Susan Ogilvy (526352) $5.95

paring Artwork for Reproduction by d Cherry (526182) $6.95

ndinavian Cooking by Madeleine Lund- (526190) $3.95

st and Computer edited by Ruth Leavitt mony)
per (527359) $4.95; cloth (527871) $10.00

rdsley and His World by Brigid Brophy mony) (52628X) $7.95

Savoy Cocktail Book by Harry Craddock Arno/Crown Book) (526840) $6.95

Blunderful World of Bloopers by Kermit afer (A Bounty Book) (526301) $7.98

ative Handicrafts Course — A Step-by- Guide to Popular Handicrafts edited by a Olsheim (Bounty) paper (52631X) $5.95

lern Collector's Dolls—Series III by Pa- a R. Smith (A Collector's Book) (526662) $17.95

PTEMBER

ood Age by Alex Comfort, M.B., Ph.D.
(526255) $10.00

Authentic Wild West: The Gunfighters ames D. Horan limited signed edition (528185) $100.00; regular edition (526808) $12.95

Sony Vision by Nick Lyons
(527391) $7.95

ill a Cop a novel by Robert Daley (527537) $8.95

rodisiac Erotic drawings by John Boyce elected passages from the works of Anaïs

per (526794) $4.95; cloth (526786) $7.95

av Klimt—A Poster Book (Harmony)
paper (526484) $5.95

ecting and Restoring Wicker Furniture ichard Saunders (526220) $6.95

onsumers Dictionary of Cosmetic In- ients—New, Revised, and Expanded Edi- by Ruth Winter per (527375) $4.95; cloth (527367) $7.95

Mating Game by Robert Burton
(526328) $12.95

He's Not a Monkey, He's an Ape and My Son by Hester Mundis
(526697) $6.95

Ships by Philip McCutchan
(52595X) $12.95

A Winterthur Guide to American Chippendale Furniture—Middle Atlantic and Southern Colonies by Charles F. Hummel
paper (521768) $3.95; cloth (527839) $6.95

A Winterthur Guide to Chinese Export Porcelain by Arlene M. Palmer
paper (521784) $3.95; cloth (527847) $6.95

A Winterthur Guide to American Needlework by Susan Burrows Swan
paper (521776) $3.95; cloth (527855) $6.95

A Woman in Revolt — A Biography of Flora Tristan by Dominique Desanti (518783) $9.95

Understanding Ballet by Mary Clarke and Clement Crisp (Harmony)
paper (526492) $3.95; cloth (526506) $7.95

The Heraldic Imagination by Rodney Dennys (A Clarkson Potter Book) (526298) $15.00

Nicholas de Staël by Guy Dumar (A QLP Book)
(526115) $4.95

OCTOBER

An American Company — The Tragedy of United Fruit by Thomas P. McCann (528096) $8.95

The Masada Plan a novel by Leonard Harris
(527995) $8.95

The Complete Book of Houseplants and Indoor Gardening Edwin Steffek, Consulting Editor (52614X) $16.95

Here's to the Friars — The Heart of Show Business by Joey Adams (52788X) $8.95

The Kovels' Complete Antiques Price List —Ninth Edition by Ralph and Terry Kovel
flexible binding (527383) $7.95

The Lore of Sportfishing Frank Moss, American Editor (521091) $29.95

Stained Glass by Lawrence Lee and Francis Stephens
(527286) $35.00 through 12/31/76; thereafter $39.95

The Very Rich—A History of Wealth by Joseph J. Thorndike, Jr. (An American Heritage Book)
(52810X) $24.95 through 12/31/76; thereafter $29.95

The World's Greatest Magic by Hyla Clark
(528045) $14.95

The Annotated Christmas Carol Complete text with illustrations by John Leech and others; annotations by Michael Patrick Hearn (Potter)
(527413) $12.95 through 12/31/76; thereafter $15.00

Olympics 1976 by Ernst Huberty and Willy B. Wange (Potter) (52743X) $10.00

Lewis Carroll Observed — A Collection of Unpublished Photographs, Drawings, Poetry, and New Essays edited by Edward Guiliano (Potter) (52497X) $12.95

The Sherlock Holmes File by Michael Pointer (Potter) (525607) $10.00

The Illustrated Edgar Allan Poe illustrated by Wilfried Sätty (Potter)
(527421) $12.95 through 12/31/76; thereafter $15.00

This Is Australia by Olaf Ruhen and 11 others (525917) $24.95

Antiques Shops and Dealers, U.S.A.—A Directory by Evie Doherty
flexible binding (527219) $6.95

Fabric of the Universe by Denis Postle paper (52726X) $5.95; cloth (525356) $9.95

Helping Your Alcoholic Before He or She Hits Bottom by Roque Fajardo
(526824) $7.95

Made in Occupied Japan — A Collector's Guide by Marian Klamkin
paper (526611) $6.95; cloth (526603) $9.95

Rule by Proxy a novel by Bruce Ducker
(52662X) $8.95

Hollywood Costume Design by David Chierichetti (Harmony)
(526379) $12.95 through 12/31/76; thereafter $15.00

Royal Crown Derby by John Twitchett and Betty Bailey (Potter) (528142) $15.00

Ships' Figureheads by Peter Norton (A Barre Book) (525615) $10.00

Lettering Design—Form & Skill in the Design & Use of Letters by Michael Harvey (Barre) (527448) $10.95

NOVEMBER

Fire Engines, Firefighters—The Men, Equipment, and Machines, from Colonial Days to the Present (A Rutledge Book)
(521792) $19.95

American Heirloom Bargello—Designs from Patchwork Quilts, Coverlets, and Navajo Rugs by Millie Hines
paper (524708) $5.95; cloth (524694) $7.95

Antique Jewelry — A Practical & Passionate Guide by Rose Leiman Goldemberg
paper (526549) $5.95; cloth (526530) $8.95

The Art of the Tin Toy by David Pressland
(526107) $32.50 through 12/31/76; thereafter $35.00

At This Point in Rhyme Poems by E. Y. Harburg (527278) $5.95

Decorating Glass—Painting, Embossing, Engraving, Etching by Polly Rothenberg
paper (523922) $4.95; cloth (523914) $6.95

The Last Primitive Peoples by Robert Brain
(518724) $14.95

Official Encyclopedia of Bridge—New, Revised, and Enlarged Third Edition
(527243) $14.95

The Pictorial History of the Russian Theatre by Herbert Marshall (520206) $14.95

Thirty Centuries Under the Sea by Frederic Dumas (518759) $9.95

Zarathustra's Sister—The Case of Elisabeth and Friedrich Nietzsche by H. F. Peters (527251) $8.95

Icart by S. Michael Schnessel (Potter)
(524988) $17.95 through 12/31/76; thereafter $19.95

DECEMBER

Contemporary Southeast Asian Arts and Crafts by Thelma R. Newman
paper (527308) $6.95; cloth (527294) $12.95

Theatre World—1975-1976—Volume 32 by John Willis (526654) $12.95

Dance World—1976—Volume II by John Willis
(52659X) $15.95

JANUARY

Fall of Eagles by C. L. Sulzberger
(528177) $17.95

Dr. Atkins' Superenergy Diet by Robert C. Atkins, M.D. and Shirley Linde
(525380) $8.95

The Success Factor by Dr. Robert Sharpe and David Lewis (528150) $7.95

Shaker Herbs—A History and a Compendium by Amy Bess Miller (Potter) (524945) $12.95

se add our prefix, 0-517, to all code numbers to get full ISBN's.

CROWELL

Ready Now

AMERICA'S GREAT OUTDOORS
Ed. by L. James Bashline and Dan Saults
54 pages in color; 395 black & white illustrations
0-690-01185-7 $19.95, pre-Christmas; $24.95 thereafter

HOME TO ROOST
A Novel of Suspense
by Andrew Garve
0-690-01141-5 $6.95

THE ILLUSTRATED ENCYCLOPEDIA OF ASTRONOMY AND SPACE
by Gen. Ed. Ian Ridpath
0-690-01132-6 $16.95

LANDMARKS OF MAPMAKING
An Illustrated Survey of Maps and Mapmakers
by Charles Bricker
0-690-01177-6 $37.95, pre-Christmas; $40.00 thereafter

MOTHER AND CHILD: A Calendar for 1977
by Mary Lawrence
0-690-01179-2 $4.95

THE TUDOR AGE
by A. F. Scott
Illustrated
Every One A Witness Series
0-690-01136-9 $10.95
0-8152-0398-5 $ 6.95 paper (Apollo Edition)

September

ABYSS
The Deep Sea and the Creatures That Live in It
New, Updated Edition
by C. P. Idyll
Photographs, drawings
0-690-01175-X $12.50
0-8152-0400-0 $ 6.95 paper (Apollo Edition)

HOW TO STUDY BETTER AND GET HIGHER MARKS
Second Edition, Revised
by Eugene Ehrlich
0-690-01181-4 $8.95

LOMBARDI
Winning Is the Only Thing
by Jerry Kramer
Photographs
0-690-01131-8 $14.95

WIND ON THE BUFFALO GRASS
The Indians' Own Account of the Battle at the Little Big Horn River, and the Death of Their Life on the Plains
Collected and edited by Leslie Tillett
0-690-01155-5 $29.95, pre-Christmas; $35.00 thereafter
Handpainted, numbered Limited Edition
0-690-01188-1 $250.00

October

THE ALEXANDRIAN
A Novel
by Martha Rofheart
0-690-01148-2 $8.95

The Annotated Jules Verne: TWENTY THOUSAND LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA
Ed. by Walter James Miller
Illustrated
0-690-01151-2 $16.95

BITTERSWEET
Surviving and Growing from Loneliness
by Terri Schultz
0-690-01180-6 $8.95

CATHEDRALS OF EUROPE
by Josef Grünenfelder
Photos, full-color illustrations
0-690-01172-5 $11.95

EDWARD SHERIFF CURTIS
Visions of a Vanishing Race
by Florence Curtis Graybill and Victor Boesen
Over 160 Curtis photographs
0-690-01162-8 $29.95, pre-Christmas; $35.00 thereafter

ENTER THE IRISH-AMERICAN
by Edward Wakin
0-690-26722-3 $9.95

FELTON & FOWLER'S MORE BEST, WORST, AND MUST UNUSUAL
by Bruce Felton & Mark Fowler
0-690-01169-5 $8.95

FOLK MUSIC
More Than A Song
by Kristin Baggelaar and Donald Milton
0-690-01159-8 $14.95

THE FRENCH KISS
A Novel by Peter Israel
0-690-01099-0 $6.95

THE HIGHER ANIMALS
A Mark Twain Bestiary
Ed. by Maxwell Geismar
Illustrated
0-690-01149-0 $8.95

HOUDINI
A Pictorial Life
by Milbourne Christopher
0-690-01152-0 $14.95

THE INGENIOUS YANKEES
by Joseph and Frances Gies
Illustrated
0-690-01150-4 $12.95

THE INNER ATHLETE
Mind Plus Muscle for Winning by Robert M. Nideffer, Ph.D.
0-690-00961-5 $8.95

LENI RIEFENSTAHL: THE FALLEN FILM GODDESS
by Glenn Infield
Photographs
0-690-01167-9 $9.95

MEN, MYTHS AND MOUNTAINS
by Ronald W. Clark
Illustrated
0-690-01157-1 $14.95, pre-Christmas; $16.95 thereafter

PEACHES POINT
by Tim Shepard
Photographs
0-690-01168-7 $9.95

ROCK, ROLL & REMEMBER
by Dick Clark and Richard Robinson
Photographs
0-690-01184-9 $9.95

A SAILOR'S ADMIRAL
A Biography of William F. Halsey
by James M. Merrill
Illustrated
0-690-01163-6 $9.95

SYMPTOMS
The Complete Home Medical Encyclopedia
Ed. by Sigmund Miller
0-690-01125-3 $17.95

THE UNDERGROUND GARDENER
A Low-Cost Way to Year-Round Gardening Under Glass
by Jack Kramer
Photographs, line art
0-690-01142-3 $9.95
0-690-01143-1 $4.95 paper

November

THE ARAB WORLD
A Comprehensive History
by Peter Mansfield
0-690-01170-9 $16.95

COOKING FOR ONE
Fifth Revised Edition
by Elinor Parker
0-690-01176-8 $6.95

ENERGY: THE CONTINUING CRISIS
by Norman Metzger
Illustrated
0-690-01161-X $9.95

GAY AMERICAN HISTORY
Lesbians and Gay Men in the U.S.A.
A Documentary
by Jonathan Katz
0-690-01164-4 $15.00
0-690-01165-2 $ 6.95 paper

MASSACRE AT MOUNTAIN MEADOWS
An American Legend and a Monumental Crime
by William Wise
0-690-01174-1 $11.95

THE MASTER OF OAKWINDSOR
A Novel
by Douglas Kent Hall
0-690-01171-7 $8.95

PRINTS AND THE PRINT MARKET
A Handbook for Buyers, Collectors, and Connoisseurs
by Theodore B. Donson
Illustrated
0-690-01160-1 $12.95

December

TAKE IT OFF!
More than 1,000 Tax Deductions Most People Overlook
by Robert S. Holzman, Ph.D.
0-690-01182-2 $8.95
0-690-01183-0 $4.95 paper

FUNK & WAGNALLS

Ready Now

ERIC SLOANE'S "I Remember America" Calendar for 1977
by Eric Sloane
0-308-10261-4 $4.95

HANDMADE JEWELRY
Techniques and Designs
by Alison Richards
0-308-10263-0 $12.95

CROWELL CLASS OF '76

HE POPULAR CIENCE UTOMOBILE GUIDE
/ Paul Weissler, Herbert Pfister, E. D. Fales, Jr., eil Soderstrom, and exander Markovich notographs, line awings
308-10237-1 $9.95

ptember

ARNING TO READ USIC
Robert Lilienfeld
308-70327-8 $8.95
308-10249-5 $4.50 paper

ORE NUMBER AMES
athematics Made Easy rough Play
Abraham B. Hurwitz, thur Goddard, and avid T. Epstein
08-10255-X $9.95

ctober

IE ART OF ACKSMITHING
vised Edition
Alex W. Bealer
ustrated
08-10254-1 $11.95

OMMON-SENSE UIDE TO FINISHING NTIQUES
w, Expanded Edition
Alfred Higgins
otographs, line wings
08-10252-5 $7.95

HEN PARENTS ROW OLD
ormation and sources to Help the ult Son or Daughter pe with the oblems of Aging ents lane Otten and rence D. Shelley
08-10256-8 $8.95

U CAN SPEAK AIN
uide to Speech after aryngectomy
Charles R. Nelson
ised and Updated
oan Steen Wilentz
8-10257-6 $8.95
8-10260-6 $4.95 paper

JOHN DAY

October

ATLAS OF WEAPONS AND WAR
by John Williams
Full color illustrations
0-381-98291-2 $12.95

THE DELECTABLE VEGETABLE
by Kay Shaw Nelson
0-381-98292-0 $8.95

THE HURRELL STYLE
Fifty Years of Photographing Hollywood
Photographs
by George Hurrell
Text by Whitney Stine
0-381-98293-9 $15.95

THE WAYSIDERS
Reading and the Dyslexic Child
by R. M. N. Crosby, M.D. with Robert A. Liston
0-381-98290-4 $10.95

November

LANGUAGE STORIES
Teaching Language to Developmentally Disabled Children by Anne B. McGivern, Margery L. Rieff, and Barbara F. Vender
0-381-98289-0 $17.95

ABELARD-SCHUMAN

Ready Now

MISS TEENAGE AMERICA TELLS HOW TO MAKE THE GOOD THINGS HAPPEN
Compiled and edited by Judith D. Houghton, Executive Vice President, Miss Teenage America; Bonnie Piedmonte and Judy Thomas, Associate Editors
0-200-04037-5 $8.95

READER'S DIGEST PRESS

September

DWELLERS IN THE SEA
Douglas Faulkner and Barry Fell
Photographs, color
0-88349-108-7 $35.00 until Jan. 1, 1977; $40.00 thereafter

LOOKING GOOD
The Liberation of Fashion
by Clara Pierre
0-88349-093-5 $8.95

RELIGIONS IN FOUR DIMENSIONS
Existential, Aesthetic, Historical and Comparative by Walter Kaufmann
Color plates, photographs
0-88349-104-4 $25.00 until Jan. 1, 1977; $30.00 thereafter

October

THE ARABS, ISRAELIS, AND KISSINGER
A Secret History of American Diplomacy in the Middle East
by Edward R. F. Sheehan
0-88349-100-1 $8.95

THE FEAR OF SUCCESS
by Leon Tec, M.D.
0-88349-077-3 $7.95

THE MICHIGAN MURDERS
by Edward Keyes
0-88349-099-4 $9.95

NORTHLIGHT, LOVELIGHT
by Jacques Folch-Ribas
0-88349-106-0 $7.95

THE RIGHT AND THE POWER
The Prosecution of Watergate
by Leon Jaworski
0-88349-102-8 $9.95

VOLUNTEERS, ONE AND ALL
by Bruce Bliven, Jr.
0-88349-058-7 $7.95

WHEN HELL WAS IN SESSION
A Personal Story of Survival as a P.O.W. in North Vietnam by Jeremiah A. Denton, Jr., Rear Admiral, U.S. Navy, with Ed Brandt
0-88349-112-5 $8.95

November

DRUM-RUNNIN' FOOL
by Donna Alverson
0-88349-095-1 $8.95

INNOCENTS AT SEA
by Jim McCracken
0-88349-110-9 $7.95

PIPE CLAY AND DRILL
John J. Pershing: The Classic American Soldier
by Richard Goldhurst
0-88349-097-8 $12.95

December

MAUD GONNE
A Biography of Yeats's Beloved by Samuel Levenson
0-88349-089-7 $15.00

Paperbacks CROWELL

September

THE BIG BANDS SONGBOOK
Compilation and Text by George T. Simon
Introduction by Benny Goodman
Photographs
0-690-01189-X $8.95 paper

FUNK & WAGNALLS

Ready Now

HOW TO MAKE BETTER SPEECHES
by William G. Hoffman
0-308-10251-7 $2.95

POETRY HANDBOOK
A Dictionary of Terms, Fourth Edition
by Babette Deutsch
0-308-10248-7 $3.95

PRICE GUIDE TO POPULAR ANTIQUES—1860 to 1930
by Dorothy Hammond
Photographs
0-308-10265-7 $6.95 paper

APOLLO EDITIONS

Ready Now

DICTIONARY OF FOREIGN TERMS
Second Edition
C. O. Sylvester Mawson
Revised and Updated by Charles Berlitz
0-8152-0402-7 $4.95

September

ALL ABOUT ANTS
by Peggy Pickering Larson and Melvin W. Larson
Illustrated
0-8152-0401-9 $4.95

T. Y. CROWELL CO., INC.
Funk & Wagnalls Publishing Co., Inc.
The John Day Co.
Abelard-Schuman, Ltd.
Reader's Digest Press
666 Fifth Avenue
New York, N.Y. 10019

Dance Horizons Celebrates America's Bicentennial...

Increase Mather

Moreau de Saint-Mery

Fanny Elssler

from 'The Director'

Lillian Moore

Loie Fuller

THE MATHERS ON DANCING. By Joseph E. Marks III. 6 x 9. 112pp. $12.50

Reprints of Increase Mather's An Arrow Against Profane and Promiscuous Dancing, Drawn out of the Quiver of the Scriptures (1685) and Cotton Mather's A Cloud of Witnesses (ca. 1700), with an introduction and complete notes to all the references in the texts. The only two pamphlets yet discovered on dancing printed in America during the 17th century.

DANCE. By M.L.E. Moreau de Saint-Méry. 3 3/4 x 6. 88pp. $9.95

Translated, and with an Introduction by Lily and Baird Hastings. The first complete translation into English of the only known dance book published in America in the 18th century (1796) in Philadelphia.

FANNY ELSSLER IN AMERICA. Edited, and with Notes by Allison Delarue. 6 3/8 x 9 3/4. 228pp. $17.50

Reprints of seven pamphlets issued during Fanny Elssler's American tours in the 1840's: Memoir of Fanny Elssler; La Tarentule; No Slur, Else-Slur: A Dancing Poem; La Déesse, an Elssler-atic Romance; A Short and Correct Sketch of the Life of Mad'lle Fanny Elssler; The Letters and Journal of Fanny Elssler; Sad Tale of the Courtship of Chevalier Slyfox-Wikof. Illustrated with lithographs of the period.

THE DIRECTOR: Dancing, Deportment, Etiquette, Aesthetics, Physical Training (1897-1898). 7 7/8 x 10. 320pp. $14.95

A facsimile edition of the complete run, with index, of the first dance magazine published in the United States, by Melvin Ballou Gilbert, in Portland Maine.

ECHOES OF AMERICAN BALLET. By Lillian Moore. 6 x 9. 172pp. $17.50

With an Introduction, "The Legacy of Lillian Moore" by Ivor Guest. A collection of 17 articles written by the late Lillian Moore, all devoted to historical aspects of American ballet.

New in our Dance Horizons Paperback Series of dance classics (all 5½ x 8 format):

THE ENGLISH DANCING MASTER or Plaine and Easie Rules for the Dancing of Country Dances, with the Tune to each Dance. By John Playford. 120pp. $4.50 Published in London in 1651, this book was approved by the Puritans and was possibly the first dance book brought to the New World.

AMERICA LEARNS TO DANCE. By Joseph E. Marks III. 136pp. $4.25 A historical study of dance education in America before 1900.

THE PARSON ON DANCING, as it is taught in the Bible, and was practiced among the Ancient Greeks and Romans. By Rev. J.B. Gross. 98pp. $3.50 Published in Philadelphia in 1879, this is one of the few books written in the 19th century by a clergyman in defense of dancing.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF A DANCER'S LIFE, with some account of her distinguished friends. By Loie Fuller. 288pp. $6.50 A picturesque, anecdotal and entertaining narrative of the dramatic events in the life of the American girl who became one of the most famous dancers in the world. With an introduction by Anatole France.

All books will be published between September and December 1976.

Dance Horizons

1801 East 26th Street, Brooklyn, New York 11229

The Dial Press • Fall 1976

DR. SIEGAL'S NATURAL FIBER COOKBOOK
By SANFORD SIEGAL, D.O., M.D.
Tables; index.
$9.95 September (2101-3)
The Dial Press/James Wade

THE LAST DAYS OF IMPERIAL VIENNA
By Robert Pick
Map; notes; bibliography; index.
$10.95 September (4682-2) YA

NOW PLAYING AT CANTERBURY
A novel by VANCE BOURJAILY
$10.00 September (6450-2)

PIRATES
By DAVID MITCHELL
15 full-color and 70 black-and-white illustrations. A Literary Guild Alternate.
$12.95 September (6921-0) YA

THE SEVENTH HEXAGRAM
A novel by IAN McLACHLAN
$8.95 September (7775-2)

THE BIG BOOK OF MAGIC
By PATRICK PAGE
Illustrated by ERIC MASON
$9.95 October (0565-4) YA

THE BOATMAN'S BIBLE
By BARRY A. KUSNICK
150 black-and-white line drawings by JAMES E. MITCHELL
Introduction by MURRAY DAVIS, Editor/Publisher, Cruising World.
200 black-and-white photographs; index; 8½″x11″.
$22.50 September (1619-2) YA

EDMUND KEAN
Fire From Heaven
By RAYMUND FITZSIMONS
Photographs.
$8.95 October (4533-8) YA

THE GIRL ON THE COCA-COLA TRAY
A novel by NANCY WINTERS
$7.95 October (2894-8) YA

HIS DARLING WIFE, EVELYN
An Autobiography
By MRS. ORAL ROBERTS
16 pages of photographs.
$7.95 October (3601-0) YA
A Damascus House Book

LAND USE CONTROLS IN THE UNITED STATES
A Handbook on the Legal Rights of Citizens by The Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc.
Edited by ELAINE MOSS
Index.
$15.95; paperback, $7.95 October (4676-8 H; 4677-6 P)
The Dial Press/James Wade

LITTLE MAN, LITTLE MAN
A novel by JAMES BALDWIN
82 pages of full-color illustrations by YORAN CAZAC
$6.95 October (4859-0)
$6.46 library edition (4856-6) YA

MAKING LOVE
How to Be Your Own Sex Therapist
By PATRICIA E. RALEY
Over 200 photographs by ALAN WINSTON
Index; 8½″x11″.
$14.95 October (5242-3)

THE NATURAL BEAUTY BOOK
By CLARE MAXWELL-HUDSON
100 black-and-white line drawings; index; 7¼″x9¾″.
$12.95; paperback, $6.95 October (6279-8 H; 6280-1 P) YA

THE NEW MENCKEN LETTERS
Edited by CARL BODE
Index.
$19.95 October (1379-7) YA

PSYCHIC SUMMER
A True Account of a Menacing Experience on Fire Island
By ARNOLD COPPER and CORALEE LEON
$8.95 October (7182-7) YA

WALKS FAR WOMAN
A novel by COLIN STUART
$8.95 October (9365-0) YA

WHEN GOD WAS A WOMAN
The Suppression of Women's Rites
By MERLIN STONE
Photographs; maps; bibliography; index.
$7.95 October (9474-6)

STALKING BLIND
A novel by STEVEN ASHLEY
$6.95 November (7909-7)
The Dial Press/James Wade

THE HUNTERS
A novel by CLARK HOWARD
$7.95 December (3939-7)

BIG YOU/LITTLE YOU
Separation Therapy
By GRACE KIRSTEN and RICHARD C. ROBERTIELLO, M.D.
Index.
$8.95 January (0563-8) YA

THE FANTASY FILES
A Study of the Sexual Fantasies of Contemporary Women
By KAREN SHANOR, Ph.D.
Introduction by DR. HAROLD GREENWALD and RUTH GREENWALD
Appendices; bibliography; index.
$7.95 February (2479-9)

NINETY DAYS TO SELF-HEALTH
Biogenics: How to control all types of stress by yourself through a complete health program of autogenics, diet, vitamins and exercise
By NORMAN SHEALY, M.D.
Introduction by DR. ELMER GREEN, Menninger Research Foundation.
Index.
$7.95 February (6386-7)

PATCHWORK AND APPLIQUE
By PAULINE CHATTERTON
150 black-and-white photographs and line drawings; 4 pages of full-color photographs; 10″x7¼″.
A Book-of-the-Month Club Alternate.
$13.95; paperback, $6.95 February (6854-0 H; 6849-1 P) YA

REPERTORY IN REVIEW
40 Years of The New York City Ballet
By NANCY REYNOLDS
Introduction by LINCOLN KIRSTEIN
300 black-and-white photographs; notes; index; 8½″x11″.
$19.95 February (7368-4) YA

ISBN follows month of publication. Dial's prefix is 0-8037. Prices and publication dates are subject to change.

1 Dag Hammarskjold Plaza (245 East 47th Street)
New York, N.Y. 10017
In Canada: Fitzhenry & Whiteside, Ltd.

THE DIAL PRESS
DELL PUBLISHING CO. I

fall 1976 delacorte press including delacorte press/seymour lawrence books & delacorte press/eleanor friede books

September

The Easter Parade a novel by Richard Yates. Book-of-the-Month Club Dual Main Selection. $7.95 02197-9. Delacorte Press/Seymour Lawrence.

The Reflexive Universe: Evolution of Consciousness, by Arthur M. Young. $15.95 05925-9. Trade paperback, $6.95 05924-0. Delacorte Press/Seymour Lawrence.

The Geometry of Meaning by Arthur M. Young. $10.95 04991-1. Trade paperback, $4.95 04937. Delacorte Press/Seymour Lawrence.

Hide in Plain Sight: The true story of how the United States Government and organized crime kept a man from his own children, by Leslie Waller. $8.95 03666-6

Magic a novel by William Goldman. Literary Guild Dual Main Selection. To be a major motion picture produced by Joseph E. Levine. $7.95 05159-2

The Mercenaries a novel by Giles Tippette. $8.95 05579-2. Delacorte Press/Eleanor Friede.

The Race a novel by Kare Holt; translated from the Norwegian by Joan Tate. $8.95 07198-4. Delacorte Press/Seymour Lawrence.

Your Two Year Old: Terrible or Tender (09882-3); Your Three Year Old: Friend or Enemy (09883-1); Your Four Year Old: Wild and Wonderful (09884-X); by Louise Bates Ames and Frances L. Ilg. Gesell Institute of Child Development volumes. Each, $6.95

October

Brigitte Bardot: Woman from 30 to 40, a close-up by Françoise Sagan; photographs by Ghislain Dussart; translated from the French by Judith Sachs. 9¼" x 12¼"; 53 photographs in full color. $12.50 00578-7. Delacorte Press/Eleanor Friede.

Clancy's Oven Cookery: Baking, Braising, Poaching, Roasting all Kinds of Foods in the Oven, by John Clancy & Frances Field. Book-of-the-Month Cooking Selection. $8.95 01372-0. Delacorte Press/Eleanor Friede.

Crazy Talk, Stupid Talk: How We Defeat Ourselves by the Way We Talk—and What to Do About It, by Neil Postman. $8.95 01554-5

Cuisinart™ Food Processor Cooking, by Carmel Berman Reingold. $9.95 01605-3. Trade paperback, $4.95 01604-5

The Education of Little Tree: A True Story, by Forrest Carter. $7.95 02319-X. Delacorte Press/Eleanor Friede.

Slapstick a novel by Kurt Vonnegut. A Book-of-the-Month Club Major Alternate; First Edition Society Selection, Franklin Library; Psychology Today Book Club Alternate; Featured Excerpt in Playboy. $7.95 08046-X. Signed, limited edition, boxed, $35.00 08045-2. Delacorte Press/Seymour Lawrence

Talking Woman by Shana Alexander. $9.95 08595-0

Until the Colors Fade a novel by Tim Jeal. Literary Guild Alternate; A Full Selection of the British Literary Guild. $10.00 09299-X

The Users a novel by Joyce Haber. Cover and excerpt in New West. $8.95 09220-5

November

The Golden Age of Television: Notes from the Survivors, by Max Wilk. 7" x 9"; over 60 black-and-white photographs. $10.00 02950-3

Noah's Ark Is Stranded: The Message of African Ecology, by Björn Berglund. 7" x 10"; over 100 black-and-white photographs. $12.95 06434-1. Delacorte Press/Seymour Lawrence

January

Dark Quartet: The Story of the Brontës, by Lynne Reid Banks. $9.95 01657-6

A Killing in Rome a novel by Robert Rostand. $7.95 04468-5

Mind-Reach: Scientists Look at Psychic Ability, by Russell Targ and Harold Puthoff. Introduction by Margaret Mead. $8.95 05688-7 Delacorte Press/Eleanor Friede.

The Naked Investor: Cautions for Dealing with the Stock Market, by Robert Heller. $8.95 06257-8

Shape Up for Super Sex by Mary Ann Crenshaw and Nicholas Kounovsky. $8.95 07931-4

February

Street 8 a novel by Douglas Fairbairn. $7.95 06167-9. Delacorte Press/Seymour Lawrence.

DELL PUBLISHING CO., INC.
1 Dag Hammarskjöld Plaza
245 East 47th Street
New York, N.Y. 10017

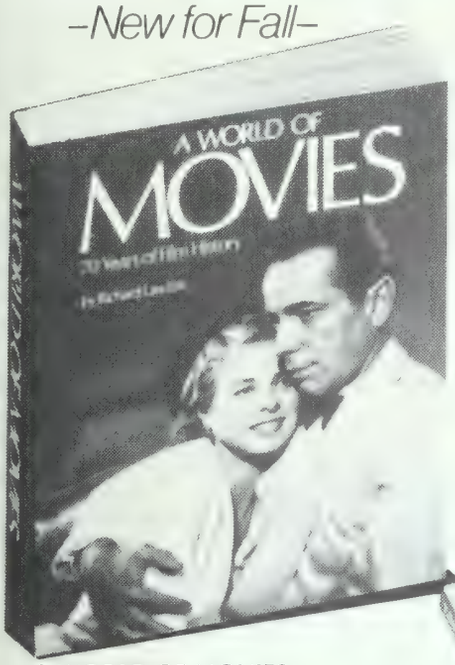
delacorte press

In Canada: Fitzhenry & Whiteside Ltd.

There's a definite difference in Delta

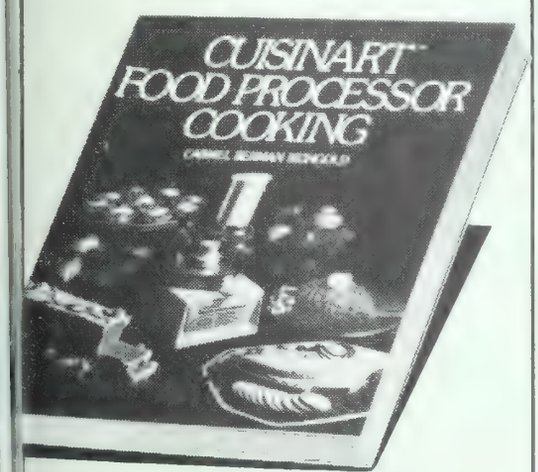
Delta paperbacks offer outstanding books in every subject

–New for Fall–



A WORLD OF MOVIES
70 Years of Film History
Richard Lawton
More than 800 superb photographs record the great films and stars of seven decades of movies from all over the world. Here are the soaring fantasies of a fabulous industry—a book to browse through and enjoy (8 5 16" x 10 3 4")
A DELTA SPECIAL $7.95

THE IDEA OF MAN
Floyd W. Matson
"As a critical examination of the views of those who would have us believe that man is little more than a biologically driven machine...it is the best, most readable and heartening of its kind."—Ashley Montagu $2.95



CUISINART™ FOOD PROCESSOR COOKING
Carmel Berman Reingold
More than 150 kitchen-tested recipes for everything from paté to perfect pie crust that can be prepared with the Cuisinart Food Processor or one of eight other superblenders, as well as valuable guidelines to the purchase and use of superblenders Beautifully illustrated. (6" x 9")
A DELTA SPECIAL $4.95

ECONOMICS, SOCIETY, AND CULTURE
God, Money, and The New Capitalism
Robert Ghelardi
An enlightened attack on Keynesian economics and the liberal welfare state, plus a blueprint for the future midway between capitalism and collectivism. $3.95

LIBERATING FEMINISM
Benjamin R. Barber
The first coherent analysis of the women's movement to identify the fallacies of both radical feminists and male chauvinists. "Read it. It's about all of us: men, women and gods —Village Voice $2.65

TODDLERS AND PARENTS
A Declaration of Independence
T. Berry Brazelton, M.D.
A noted pediatrician offers perplexed parents and professionals practical ways to survive life with a toddler as well as a sense of delight in the struggles and triumphs of this critical age. (7" x 10")
A DELTA SPECIAL $5.95

AMERICA IN THE MOVIES or "Santa Maria, It Had Slipped My Mind"
Michael Wood
A high-spirited look at the fantasies played out in American films—why we needed them, how our lives are marked by them. Illustrations, index. "One of the wittiest, most perceptive books ever written about Hollywood movies—and American dreams."
—Los Angeles Times $3.45

GOOD-BYE, LONELINESS!
An Escape from Neurosis Through Primal Experience
Robert S. Wood
A day-by-day personal account of one man's journey through primal-type therapy to emotional health "An excellent book. It will tell you where you can get to in primal and what to expect along the way."
—Personal Growth $3.45

THE UNEXPURGATED CODE
A Complete Manual of Survival and Manners
J.P. Donleavy
"A sort of Emily Post for social climbers, reprobates, necrophiliacs and other species of flotsam..."
—John Leonard, The New York Times
"Best work of nonfiction by a novelist and the funniest book of the year."—The Atlantic Monthly $3.95

GOING SANE
An Introduction to Feeling Therapy
Joseph Hart, Ph.D., Richard Corriere, Ph.D., and Jerry Binder, Ph.D.
Psychotherapists become patients and patients become psychotherapists in this exciting new therapy which shows people how to get in touch with their feelings and how to express them. $4.95

–Coming in October–

THE MALE MACHINE
Marc Feigen Fasteau
"A gentle, guileless book about the damage men do to themselves and each other...in thrall to the 'masculine stereotype'."
—The New York Times $2.95

PERVERSION
The Erotic Form of Hatred
Robert J. Stoller, M.D.
"A elegant and subtle disquisition upon the essential 'meaning' of the sexual perversions..." (The New Republic) which shows, through case studies, what sexual abberations can tell us about "normal" sexual development. $3.45

CELEBRATING THE DUKE
& Louis, Bessie, Billie, Bird, Carmen, Miles, Dizzy & Other Heroes
Ralph J. Gleason; foreword by Studs Terkel
"A highly informal, loving tribute to the Black Genius of Jazz and its vibrant kings, queens and dukes..."
—Kirkus Reviews $3.95

And, for the first time in paperback, the first two volumes of the Complete Works of MELANIE KLEIN

NARRATIVE OF A CHILD ANALYSIS
The conduct of the psycho-analysis of children as seen in the treatment of a ten-year-old boy. $4.95

THE PSYCHO-ANALYSIS OF CHILDREN
The classic work which revolutionized child analysis. $3.95

Sold to the trade by Dial/Delacorte/Delta Sales.

DELTA BOOKS
DELL PUBLISHING CO., INC.
1 Dag Hammarskjold Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10017

DUTTON

AUGUST

THE BRAGANZA PURSUIT, a novel by Sarah Neilan, $7.95 (070478)

THE CURSE: A Cultural History of Menstruation by Janice Delaney, Mary Jane Lupton and Emily Toth, A Sunrise Book, $9.95 (902220)

FOR THEM THAT TRESPASS, a novel by Ernest Raymond, $8.95 (504423)

THE GAMBLER, THE MINSTREL AND THE DANCE HALL QUEEN, a mystery by Warwick Downing, $8.50 (504393)

THE GIRAFFE WHO SOUNDED LIKE OL' BLUE EYES by Martin Charnin, Illustrated by Kate Draper, $3.95, paper (504431)

LIFE AT ITS BEST by Meher Baba, $1.95, paper (47434X)

A LINK IN THE CHAIN, a novel by Laura Conway, $6.95 (504458)

A MANUAL OF HOMOEOPATHY AND NATURAL MEDICINE: Principles of an Age-Old Practice of Alternative Medicine, with Step-by-Step Remedies by Dr. C.H. Sharma, $2.95, paper (474323)

NANTUCKET WOMAN, a novel by Diana Gaines, Thomas Congdon Books, $8.95 (163808)

REALMS OF THE HUMAN UNCONSCIOUS: Observations from LSD Research by Stanislav Grof, M.D., $4.95, paper (474382)

THE STORY OF AMERICAN HUNTING AND FIREARMS by the Editors of Outdoor Life, A Sunrise Book, $12.95 (902131)

WHAT TO DO ABOUT THE FLU by Pascal James Imperato, M.D., Thomas Congdon Books, $7.95 (23263X)

YOUR KIDNEYS, THEIR CARE AND THEIR CURE: A Modern Miracle of Medicine by Sheldon Glabman, M.D. and Dr. Arthur S. Freese, A Sunrise Book, $8.95 (902212)

SEPTEMBER

THE CLASSIC MOTORCYCLES by Harry Louis and Bob Currie, $24.95 until Jan. 1, 1977, $29.95 thereafter (082034)

THE DO-IT-YOURSELF PSYCHOTHERAPY BOOK by Martin Shepard, M.D., $3.95, paper (504474)

GROWING GARDEN FLOWERS INDOORS by Jack Kramer, A Sunrise Book, $10.95, cloth (901976); $3.95, paper (902239)

HUNTING BIG-GAME TROPHIES: A North American Guide by Tom Brakefield, A Sunrise Book, $10.95 (90214X)

THE MISTRESS CONDITION: New Options in Sex, Love & Other Female Pleasures by Catherine Breslin, $9.50 (504318)

NONFICTION FILM: THEORY AND CRITICISM, edited by Richard Meran Barsam, $6.95, paper (474250)

ONLY ONE SKY: On the Tantric Way of Tilopa's Song of Mahamudra by Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh, $3.95, paper (474404)

THE OPERA OMNIBUS: Four Centuries of Critical Give and Take by Irving Kolodin, $15.00 (504385)

PLAY PADDLE! An Introduction to Platform Tennis by Jay Iseman, A Sunrise Book, $5.95, paper (902174)

PREGNANCY AFTER 35 by Carole Spearin McCauley, A Sunrise Book, $7.95 (902190)

RECIPES FROM SAN FRANCISCO'S GREAT CHINESE RESTAURANTS by Jinx Morgan, $6.95 (504415)

SEEDS OF MAN: An Experience Lived and Dreamed by Woody Guthrie, $11.95 (199365)

THEY WENT THATAWAY: A Front Row Kid's Search for His Boyhood Heroes—The Old-Time Hollywood Cowboys by James Horwitz, Thomas Congdon Books, $8.95 (216839)

USE BOTH SIDES OF YOUR BRAIN by Tony Buzan, $4.95, paper (474366)

THE WIDOW'S CHILDREN, a novel by Paula Fox, A Henry Robbins Book, $8.95 (233776)

OCTOBER

THE AMERICAN CLOCK: A Comprehensive Pictorial Survey 1723–1900, with a Listing of 6153 Clockmakers by William H. Distin and Robert Bishop, $27.50 (053107)

BRIGHT STARS: American Painting and Sculpture Since 1776 by Jean Lipman and Helen M. Franc, $35.00 (071474)

CLEVELAND AMORY'S ANIMAIL by Cleveland Amory, A Windmill Family Book, $6.95 (61558X)

THE COMPLETE RETIREMENT PLANNING BOOK: Your Guide to Happiness, Health and Financial Security by Peter A. Dickinson, $10.95, cloth (504466); $6.95, paper (504407)

FROM THE CENTER: Feminist Essays on Women's Art by Lucy R. Lippard, $7.95, paper (474277)

A GALLERY OF AMISH QUILTS: Design Diversity from a Plain People by Robert Bishop and Elizabeth Safanda, $17.50, cloth (111336); $9.95, paper (474447)

GETTING DIVORCED FROM MOTHER & DAD: The Discoveries of the Fischer-Hoffman Process by Bob Hoffman, $7.95 (113282)

HOUDINI: A Mind in Chains by Bernard C. Meyer, M.D., $10.00 (504482)

LEVIATHAN, a novel by John Gordon Davis, Thomas Congdon Books, $9.95 (144609)

LOUISE NEVELSON by Arnold B. Glimcher, $11.95, paper (474390)

LUCY & RICKY & FRED & ETHEL: The Story of "I Love Lucy" by Bart Andrews, $8.95 (149902)

MAZES AND LABYRINTHS OF THE WORLD by Janet Bord, $6.95, paper (474412)

OUR CHANGING UNIVERSE: The New Astronomy by John Gribbin, A Sunrise Book, $11.95 (902166)

PEOPLE OF THE FIRST MAN: Life Among the Plains Indians in Their Final Days of Glory, edited by Davis Thomas and Karin Ronnefeldt, $25.00 until Jan. 1, 1977; $29.95 thereafter (177329)

A QUESTION OF VALUES, a novel by Martin Shepard, $7.95 (504490)

RIO: RESHAPING THE INTERNATIONAL ORDER; A Report to the Club of Rome, edited by Jan Tinbergen, $10.95, cloth (192506); $6.95, paper (043403)

THE SEVENTH POWER, a novel by James Mills, A Henry Robbins Book, $8.95 (200509)

A SHIP IS DYING, a novel by Brian Callison, $7.95 (504504)

SPECIAL AGENT, a novel by Noel B. Gerson, $7.95 (504512)

THE STAR TREK READER, adapted by James Blish, $8.95 (504679)

TEXAS WILD: The Land, Plants, and Animals of the Lone Star State by Richard Phelan, Photographs by Jim Bones, A Sunrise Book, $25.00 until Jan. 1, 1977; $30.00 thereafter (902182)

THEY LOVE AND KILL: Sex, Sympathy and Aggression in Courtship and Mating by Vitus B. Droscher, A Sunrise Book, $15.50 (902158)

TO THE FAR BLUE MOUNTAINS, a Western by Louis L'Amour, $7.95 (504229)

THE UNICORN TAPESTRIES by Margaret B. Freeman, $45.00 (226435)

VIEW FROM THE BRONZE AGE: Mycenaean and Phoenician Discoveries at Kition by Vassos Karageorghis, $19.95 (228667)

FALL 1976

FALL 1976

NOVEMBER

AMERICA'S FAVORITE SALTWATER FISHING by Nicholas Karas, A Sunrise Book, $14.95 (902050)

ANIMAL DOCTOR: The Making of a Veterinarian by Lucas Younker, D.V.M. and John J. Fried, $9.95 (504660)

AUTOMERICA: A Trip Down U.S. Highways from World War II to the Future by Ant Farm, $6.95, paper (474374)

AUTOMOBILE QUARTERLY'S GREAT CARS AND GRAND MARQUES by the Editors of Automobile Quarterly, $29.50 (116125)

A DEATH IN CANAAN by Joan Barthel, Thomas Congdon Books, $9.95 (23330X)

THE FURNITURE OF HISTORIC DEERFIELD by Dean A. Fales, Jr., $25.00 (111018)

THE MEDICI EMERALD, a novel by Martin Woodhouse and Robert Ross, $8.95 (154582)

TELL ME EVERYTHING, a novel by Marie Brenner, $7.95 (214704)

A THINKING MAN'S GUIDE TO PRO HOCKEY: Revised Edition by Gerald Eskenazi, $8.95 (217347)

TOWARD A PEOPLE'S ART: The Contemporary Mural Movement by Eva Cockcroft, John Weber, and James Cockcroft, $12.95, cloth (221654); $7.95, paper (474269)

THE WOODEN WOLF, a novel by John Kelly, $9.95 (504520)

JANUARY

THE BLACK DEATH, a novel by Gwyneth Cravens and John S. Marr, Thomas Congdon Books, $9.95 (067655)

THE CALIFORNIA CATALOGUE: Everything You Need to Know about Living, Working, Playing, Shopping and Traveling in the Golden State by Roger Rapoport and Margot Lind, $7.95, paper (504334)

THE DAMASCUS COVER, a novel by Howard Kaplan, $8.95 (088504)

FOOTHOLDS: Understanding the Shifting Sexual and Family Tensions in Our Culture by Philip Slater, $3.50, paper (474420)

INDIVIDUALS: Post-Movement Art in America, edited by Alan Sondheim, $7.95, paper (474285)

LAND OF CLEAR LIGHT: Wild Regions of the American Southwest and Northwestern Mexico by Michael Jenkinson, Photographs by Karl Kernberger, A Sunrise Book, $14.95 (902034)

LEGAL RELATIONS, a novel by Laura Chapman, $8.95 (144226)

MIDNIGHT EXPRESS by Billy Hayes with William Hoffer, Thomas Congdon Books, $8.95 (156054)

THE RIVER AND THE STONE: The Young Manhood of Moses, a novel by Kathleen Jenks, $9.95 (192603)

THE STUDENT GUIDE TO ASIA by The Australian Union of Students, A Sunrise Book, $3.95, paper (902255)

THE STUDENT GUIDE TO LATIN AMERICA by The Council on International Educational Exchange, A Sunrise Book, $3.95, paper (902247)

WHY ART: Casual Notes on the Aesthetics of the Immediate Past by Gregory Battcock, $5.95, paper (47286X)

WOMAN'S ASTROLOGY: The Woman's Astrological Guide to a Future Worth Having by Tiffany Holmes, $9.95, cloth (235973); $5.95, paper (047751)

FEBRUARY

THE BOOK OF ROUNDS by Mary Taylor and Carol Dyk, A Sunrise Book, $14.95, paper (901828)

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF MIDWIFERY by Barbara Brennan, C.N.M. and Joan Rattner Heilman, $3.95, paper (031804)

EISENSTEIN: A DOCUMENTARY PORTRAIT by Norman Swallow, $3.95, paper (474439)

FROM THE LOVING EARTH by Pat Straub, A Sunrise Book, $3.95, paper (902263)

THE HOUSE PLANT DECORATING BOOK by Virginie F. and George A. Elbert, A Sunrise Book, $13.95 (902204)

THE ION EFFECT: The Mysterious Powers of Electrified Air by Fred Soyka with Alan Edmonds, $8.95 (134808)

LET'S GO: The Budget Guide to Europe, 1977–78 Edition by Harvard Student Agencies, A Sunrise Book, $4.95, paper (902271)

PSYCHETYPES: A New Way of Exploring Personality by Michael Malone, $8.95 (185828)

SHADOWS OVER CASTLE RISING, a novel by Fanny Cradock, $8.95 (201289)

PHAIDON/DUTTON FALL 1976

AUGUST

PRINTS & DRAWINGS: A Pictorial History by Gottfried Lindemann, $16.95 (817600)

SEPTEMBER

REMBRANDT: MASTER DRAWINGS by Keith Roberts, $7.95 (817619)

THE HUMAN REVOLUTION: From Ape to Artist by Desmond Collins, $8.95, paper (81721X)

EGYPT: The Black Land by Paul Jordan, $8.95, paper (817228)

GIANT ART PAPERBACKS

ANIMALS IN ART by Anthony Dent, $7.95, paper (816698)

JAPANESE PRINTS: From 1700 to 1900 by Richard Illing, $7.95, paper (816833)

THE NUDE in Western Art by Malcolm Cormack, $7.95, paper (81668X)

TRAVEL POSTERS by Bevis Hillier, $7.95, paper (81623X)

COLOR PLATE BOOKS

ABSTRACT PAINTING by Denis Thomas, $6.95 (817465)

BOSCH by John Rowlands, $6.95 (816906)

DEGAS by Keith Roberts, $6.95 (817384)

DUTCH PAINTING by Christopher Brown, $6.95 (816914)

EL GRECO by David Davies, $6.95 (817406)

FLOWER PAINTING by Robin Gibson, $6.95 (816922)

ITALIAN RENAISSANCE PAINTING by Keith Roberts, $6.95 (817457)

SURREALIST PAINTING by Simon Wilson, $6.95 (816930)

OCTOBER

BLOOMSBURY PORTRAITS: Vanessa Bell and Duncan Grant and Their Circle by Richard Shone, $18.95 (816280)

FRANCIS OF ASSISI by Anthony Mockler, $9.95 (817155)

THE MODERNS: 1945–1975 by Terry Measham, A Giant Art Paperback, $7.95, paper (816817)

Last six digits of ISBN's follow price. Suggested prices and publication dates subject to change without notice.

E P DUTTON

201 Park Avenue South, New York, New York 10003

Fall 1976

JULY

HOW A MASTER WORKS
by Ivy Oneita Duce $17.95

BASIC WINDCRAFT
Using the Wind for Sailing
by Alan Watts Illus. $5.95

AUGUST

BACKLASH
A Peter Styles Mystery Novel
by Judson Philips $6.95

THE BLOOD-RED DREAM
A Dan Fortune Mystery Novel
by Michael Collins $6.95

MODERN DEVELOPMENT IN YACHT DESIGN
by David Cannell and John Leather
Illus. $20.00

SWING, SWING TOGETHER
A Sergeant Cribb and Constable Thackeray Mystery Novel
by Peter Lovesey $6.95

HORSE FEVER
by William Murray $7.95

SEPTEMBER

SLEEPING MURDER
by Agatha Christie $7.95

DEVERON HALL
by Velda Johnston $7.95

STATUE IN SEARCH OF A PEDESTAL
A Biography of the Marquis de Lafayette
by Noel B. Gerson $7.95

ROBERT SERVICE:
A Biography
by Carl F. Klinck $8.95

DEAN ACHESON
The State Department Years
by David S. McLellan
Photographs $17.50

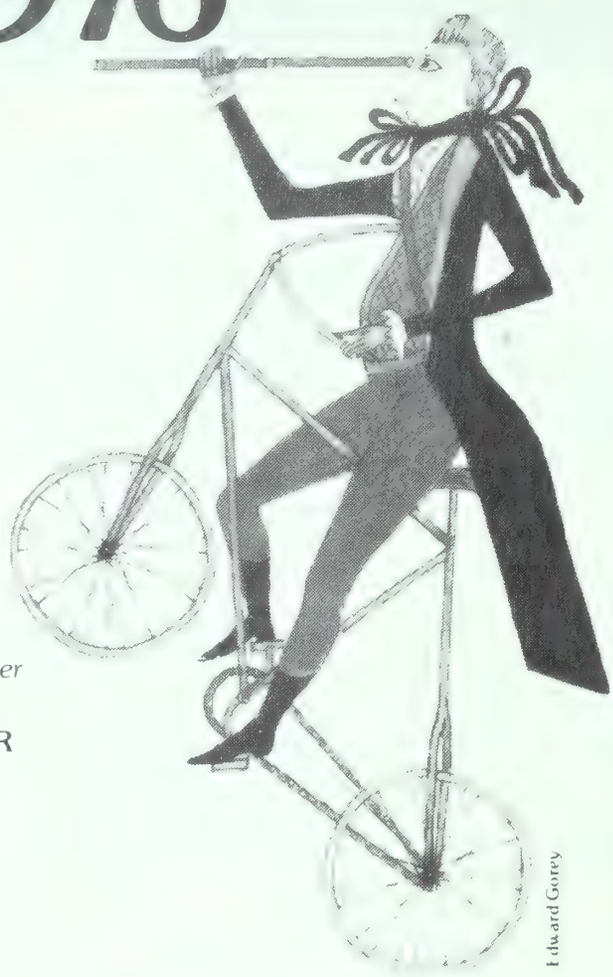
THE AMERICAN SEASONS
by Edwin Way Teale
Photographs $17.50

DR. NINA AND THE PANTHER
by Shirley P. Wheeler $8.95

OCTOBER

SHOTGUN LAW
by Max Brand $6.95

THE CHANGELING CONSPIRACY
by Helen McCloy $6.95



PATRIOT'S DREAM
by Barbara Michaels $8.95

DIE AFTER DARK
A Julian Quist Mystery Novel
by Hugh Pentecost $6.95

MURDER AT THE UN
by Will Perry $6.95

AFTERNOONS IN MID-AMERICA
by Erskine Caldwell
Drawings by Virginia M. Caldwell
$8.95

RISE AND FIGHT AGAIN
by Charles Bracelen Flood
Photographs, maps $12.95

CHOOSE YOUR BABY'S SEX
by David M. Rorvik and Landrum B. Shettles, M.D., Ph.D.
Photographs $7.95

NOVEMBER

REHEARSAL'S OFF!
by George Booth $7.95

PUT OUT THE LIGHT
by Rae Foley $6.95

THE BROKEN SPOKE
by Edward Gorey Illus. $6.95

THE HANGED MEN
by David Harper $7.95

TWO DOCTORS AND A GIRL
by Elizabeth Seifert $6.95

AMERICAN FOLK ART FROM OHIO COLLECTIONS
by Robert M. Doty Illus. $11.95

WHO NAMED THE DAISY? WHO NAMED THE ROSE?
A Roving Dictionary of North American Wildflowers
by Mary Durant Illus. $7.95

THE BEST PLAYS OF 1975-1976 The Burns Mantle Yearbook of the Theater
Edited by Otis L. Guernsey Jr.
Drawings by Al Hirschfeld
Photographs $17.95

MARINE MYSTERIES AND DRAMATIC DISASTERS OF NEW ENGLAND
by Edward Rowe Snow $8.95

JANUARY

JAKE GAITHER
America's Most Famous Black Coach
by George E. Curry
Photographs $7.95

ECLIPSE
by Dirk Wittenborn $7.95

BLACKS IN CLASSICAL MUSIC
A Personal History
by Raoul Abdul Photographs $8.95

THE COUNTRY ANTIQUES COMPANION
by Dan D'Imperio
Photographs $8.95

GARRY UNGER AND THE BATTLING BLUES
by Stan Fischler Photographs $7.95

BROKEN PATTERNS
by Pat Jordan $7.95

THE GREAT FRENCH OPERAS—AND THE FAMOUS
by Robert Lawrence
$10.00

GOLIATH
The Wilt Chamberlain Story
by Bill Libby
Photographs
$7.95

RESTORING CONVERTIBLES
From Rags to Riches
by Burt Mills
Photographs $8.95

DODD MEAD

"Grace Irwin's strongest and most poignant book"...

The Seventh Earl: A Dramatized Biography

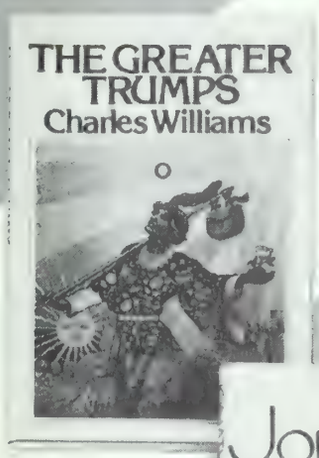
By Grace Irwin

Anthony Ashley Cooper, Seventh Earl of Shaftesbury and social reformer of nineteenth century Britain.

"This is Grace Irwin's strongest and most poignant book . . . I have been moved and enriched by my hours with The Seventh Earl."

—Virginia R. Mollenkott
William Paterson College of New Jersey

6059-1 Cloth 256 pages $7.95



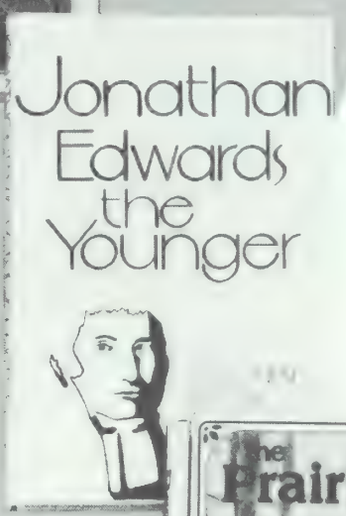
and more from Eerdmans

The Greater Trumps

By Charles Williams

People who enjoy fantasy writers like Tolkein and C. S. Lewis will be delighted to find The Greater Trumps back in print. A spine-tingling novel of cataclysmic forces unleashed through a deck of tarot cards.

1649-5 Paper 232 pages $2.95

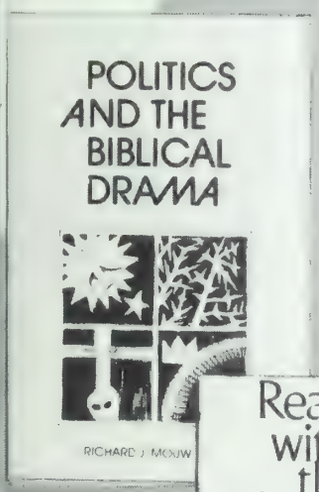


Jonathan Edwards the Younger

By Robert Ferm

The story of Jonathan Edwards the Younger and his influence on American Reformed theology. ". . . A very welcome addition to the history of a neglected period in American religious and intellectual history . . . a sensitive, lucid, and carefully researched account." —Sydney E. Ahlstrom
Yale University

3485-X Cloth 176 pages $7.95



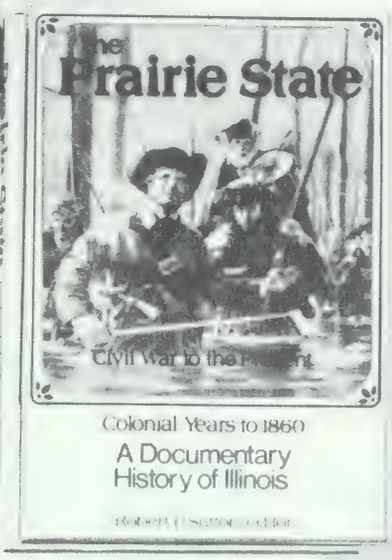
The Prairie State: A Documentary History of Illinois

Edited by Robert P. Sutton

A fascinating, human portrait of Illinois, drawn from letters, diaries, travel narratives, interviews and secondary sources. Illustrated.

"Dr. Sutton has done an extraordinary feat of bringing together materials upon every phase of Illinois history." —Victor Hicken
President, Illinois State Historical Society

Volume I: Colonial Years to 1860 1651-7
Volume II: Civil War to the Present 1652-5
Paper 352 pages $5.95

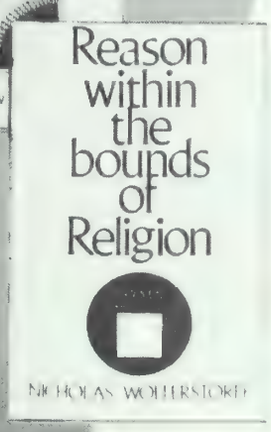


Politics and the Biblical Drama

By Richard Mouw

The author of Political Evangelism confronts the issue of biblical politics, pointing to the central themes which underlie any discussion of political theology. A timely and helpful book.

1657-6 Paper 160 pages $3.95



Reason Within the Bounds of Religion

By Nicholas Wolterstorff

A probing book that helps integrate academic inquiry with the Christian faith. ". . . should be one of the year's most significant works of Christian scholarship." —George I. Mavrodes
University of Michigan

1643-6 Paper 96 pages $2.45

490 WM. B. EERDMANS PUBLISHING CO.
255 JEFFERSON AVE S.E. GRAND RAPIDS, MICH 49502

FALL 1976

Farrar Straus Giroux

30 YEARS

Including Hill & Wang and Noonday Press

EPTEMBER

LES FEIFFER
nock, Knock Hill & Wang.
.95 Paper $3.45 (1234) (Play)

ORE SEGAL
ucinella $7.95 (F)

ICHAEL J. ARLEN
he View from Highway 1
.95 (N)

ACDONALD HARRIS
he Balloonist $8.95 (F)

ANFORD WILSON
he Mound Builders Hill & Wang.
.95 Paper $3.95 (1235) (Play)

ANDALL JARRELL
ustrations by Maurice Sendak
y by Night $5.95 (F)

BRAHAM JOSHUA HESCHEL
he Wisdom of Heschel
onday $4.95 (N540) (N)

ERMANN HESSE
ans. by Ralph Manheim les of Student Life
onday $4.95 (N533) (F)

HOMAS MERTON
sputed Questions $12.50
onday $3.95 (N541) (N)

AAC BASHEVIS SINGER
otographs by Roman Vishniac
Day of Pleasure: Stories of a y Growing Up in Warsaw
onday $2.95 (N537) (N)

USAN SONTAG
yles of Radical Will $10
onday $3.95 (N536) (N)

ALPH SCHOENSTEIN
s, My Darling Daughters
95 (N)

NDREW VON HIRSCH
ing Justice Hill & Wang.
per $4.95 (0124) (N)

CTOBER

OLETTE
ans. by Antonia White
e Complete Claudine $10
onday $3.95 (N543) (F)

IAN MOORE
e Doctor's Wife $8.95 (F)

ARON SISKIND
otographs 1966-1975 $20
notos)

ANTONIN ARTAUD
Edited, with Intro., by Susan Sontag. Trans. by Helen Weaver
Selected Writings of Artaud $20 (N)

COLETTE
The Colette Boxed Set
Noonday $8.85 (N545) (F)

COLETTE
Trans. by Raymond Postgate & Ann Marie Callimachi
Mitsou and Music-Hall Sidelights $10 Noonday $2.95 (N542) (F)

ALEXANDER SOLZHENITSYN
Warning to the West $7.95
Noonday $1.95 (N527) (N)

JAMES BREWER STEWART
Holy Warriors: The Abolitionists and American Slavery Hill & Wang. $10 Paper $4.95 (0123) (N)

RICHARD AVEDON
Portraits $25 (Photos)

RICHARD D. BROWN
Modernization: The Transformation of American Life, 1600-1865 Hill & Wang. $10 Paper $4.95 (0125) (N)

CARLOS FUENTES
Trans. by Margaret Sayers Peden
Terra Nostra $15 (F)

SUSAN MEISELAS
Carnival Strippers $15 Noonday $6.95 (N544) (Photos)

NEAL SLAVIN
When Two or More Are Gathered Together $25 (Photos)

TOM WOLFE
Mauve Gloves & Madmen, Clutter & Vine $8.95 (N)

SIEGFRIED LENZ
Trans. by Douglas Parmée
An Exemplary Life Hill & Wang. $12.50 (F)

THOM GUNN
Jack Straw's Castle $7.95 (Poems)

JOHN STEINBECK
The Acts of King Arthur and His Noble Knights $10 (F)

VIOLETTE LEDUC
Trans. by Derek Coltman
La Bâtarde $12.50 Noonday $4.95 (N539) (N)

NOVEMBER

PRESTON JONES
A Texas Trilogy Hill & Wang. $10 Paper $4.95 (1236) (Plays)

WILHELM REICH
Trans. by Philip Schmitz
People in Trouble $8.95 (N)

PETER HANDKE
The Ride Across Lake Constance & Other Plays $8.95 Noonday $3.95 (N529) (Plays)

FRANK BIDART
The Book of the Body $6.95 (Poems)

PABLO NERUDA
Trans. by Hardie St. Martin Memoirs $10 (N)

ROLAND BARTHES
Trans. by Richard Miller
Sade, Fourier, Loyola Hill & Wang. Paper $3.95 (1381) (N)

CHRISTOPHER ISHERWOOD
Christopher and His Kind $8.95 (N)

RANDALL JARRELL (trans.)
Goethe's Faust, Part One $15
Noonday $6.95 (N412) (Poem)

DECEMBER

JOHN McPHEE
The John McPhee Reader $12.50 (N)

DONALD BARTHELME
Amateurs $8.95 (F)

JUSTIN & ROBERT MAMIS
When to Sell: Inside Strategies for Stock-Market Profits $9.95 (N)

VLADIMIR VOINOVICH
Trans. by Richard Lourie
The Life and Extraordinary Adventures of Private Ivan Chonkin $8.95 (F)

JANUARY

ANNE ROIPHE
Torch Song $8.95 (F)

WILLIAM WEINBERG & LAUREL SHACKELFORD
Photographs by Donald R. Anderson
Our Appalachia: An Oral History Hill & Wang. $12.50 (N)

ALICE HOFFMAN
Property Of . . . $8.95 (F)

EDMUND WILSON
Letters on Literature and Politics: 1912-1972 $15 (N)

KARL STERN
Love and Success Noonday $3.95 (N546) (N)

FEBRUARY

SUSAN SONTAG
On Photography $7.95 (N)

ELIZABETH BISHOP
Geography III $7.95 (Poems)

DAVID ABRAHAMSEN
Nixon vs. Nixon: A Psychoanalytical Inquest $8.95 (N)

FARRAR, STRAUS & GIROUX
19 Union Square West
New York, N.Y. 10003

In Canada:
McGraw-Hill Ryerson Ltd.

FALL, 1976

august

A LOYAL OPPOSITION IN TIME OF WAR: The Republican Party and the Politics of Foreign Policy from Pearl Harbor to Yalta
by RICHARD E. DARILEK
(Contrib. in American History, No. 49). xi, 240 pages.
LC 75-44655. $14.95

FREDERICK DOUGLASS ON WOMEN'S RIGHTS
by FREDERICK DOUGLASS
Edited by PHILIP FONER
(Contrib. in Afro-American and African Studies, No. 25). x, 192 pages.
LC 76-5326. $13.50

VICTIMS OF CHANGE: Juvenile Delinquents in American Society
by HAROLD FINESTONE
(Contrib. in Sociology, No. 20). xvii, 236 pages.
LC 76-5327. $14.95

THE AMERICAN LEFT, 1955-1970: A National Union Catalog of Pamphlets Published in the United States and Canada
Edited and compiled by NED KEHDE xviii, 515 pages.
LC 76-8002. $25.00

MOBILIZING CONSENT: Public Opinion and American Foreign Policy, 1937-1947 by MICHAEL LEIGH
xvi, 188 pages.
LC 75-44656. $14.50

THE POPULATION CHALLENGE: A Handbook for Nonspecialists
by JOHANNES OVERBEEK
(Contrib. in Sociology, No. 19). xiv, 204 pages, illus.
LC 76-5328. $13.95

BY THE SWEAT OF THEIR BROW: Mexican Immigrant Labor in the United States, 1900-1940
by MARK REISLER
xiii, 298 pages.
LC 76-5329. $14.50

ACRES FOR CENTS: Delinquent Tax Auctions in Frontier Iowa
by ROBERT P. SWIERENGA
(Contrib. in American History, No. 46). xix, 263 pages.
LC 75-23868 $14.95

HENRY A. WALLACE AND AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY
by SAMUEL J. WALKER
(Contrib. in American History, No. 50). x, 224 pages.
LC 75-44658. $13.95

september

AMERICAN STUDIES: Topics and Sources
Edited and compiled by ROBERT H. WALKER
(Contrib. in American Studies, No. 24). xi, 395 pages.
LC 75-35675. $19.95

RETREAT FROM REFORM: The Prohibition Movement in the United States, 1890-1913
by JACK S. BLOCKER, JR.
(Contrib. in American History, No. 51). xii, 263 pages.
LC 76-5325. $14.95

INFORMATION SOURCES IN TRANSPORTATION, MATERIAL MANAGEMENT, AND PHYSICAL DISTRIBUTION: An Annotated Bibliography and Guide
by BOB J. DAVIS Apx. 700 pages.
LC 75-23864. $35.00

BLACKS IN THE WEST
by SHERMAN W. SAVAGE
(Contrib. in Afro-American and African Studies, No. 23). Apx. 288 pages.
LC 75-44657. $14.95

TEENAGE MARRIAGES: A Demographic Analysis
by JOHN R. WEEKS
Prepared under the auspices of International Population and Urban Research, University of California, Berkeley. (Studies in Population and Urban Demography, No. 2). Apx. 192 pages.
LC 76-5330. $13.75

october

BUDGETS: An Analytical and Procedural Handbook for Government and Nonprofit Organizations
by MICHAEL BABUNAKIS
Apx. 288 pages.
LC 76-5323. $17.50

HANDBOOK FOR THE ANALYSIS OF CAPITAL INVESTMENTS
by HENRI L. BEENHAKKER
Apx. 416 pages.
LC 76-5324. $25.00

LABOR AND THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION
by PHILIP S. FONER
Apx. 288 pages.
LC 76-18034. $14.95

OCEANIA AND BEYOND: Essays on the Pacific since 1945
Edited by FRANK P. KING
Apx. 384 pages, charts, maps.
LC 76-5261. $22.50

november

A NEW BIRTH OF FREEDOM: The Republican Party and Freedmen's Rights, 1861 to 1866
by HERMAN BELZ
(Contrib. in American History, No. 52). Apx. 256 pages.
LC 76-5257. $16.95

WHEN FARMERS VOTED RED: The Gospel of Socialism in the Oklahoma Countryside, 1910-1924
by GARIN BURBANK
(Contrib. in American History, No. 53). Apx. 224 pages, illus.
LC 76-5259. $13.95

THE EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT: A Bibliographic Study
Compiled by The Equal Rights Amendment Project
Apx. 400 pages.
LC 76-24999. $19.95

PERIODIC MARKETS, URBANIZATION, AND REGIONAL PLANNING: A Case Study from Western Kenya
by ROBERT A. OBUDHO and PETER P. WALLER
(Contrib. in Afro-American and African Studies, No. 22). Apx. 320 pages.
LC 75-23867. $25.00

CRIMINOLOGY AND THE ADMINISTRATION OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE: A Bibliography
by SIR LEON RADZINOWICZ and ROGER G. HOOD
Apx. 320 pages.
LC 76-24998. $28.50

THE UNITED STATES IN NORWEGIAN HISTORY
by SIGMUND SKARD
(Contrib. in American Studies, No. 26). Apx. 224 pages.
LC 76-5263. $12.95

TEGOTOMONO: Music for Japanese Koto
by BONNIE C. WADE
(Contrib. in Intercultural and Comparative Studies, No. 2). Apx. 416 pages.
LC 76-5265. $19.95

december

DICTIONARY OF AMERICAN RELIGIOUS BIOGRAPHY
by HENRY WARNER BOWDEN
Apx. 640 pages.
LC 76-5258. $29.95

THE DEMOCRATIC-REPUBLICAN SOCIETIES, 1790-1800: A Documentary Sourcebook of Constitutions, Declarations, Addresses, Resolutions, and Toasts
Edited by PHILIP S. FONER
Apx. 544 pages.
LC 76-5260. $29.95

ESSAYS IN NINETEENTH-CENTURY AMERICAN LEGAL HISTORY
by WYTHE HOLT
(Contrib. in American History, No. 60). Apx. 900 pages.
LC 76-27129. $25.00

THE TAMING OF THE TROOPS: Social Control in the United States Army
by LAWRENCE B. RADINE
(Contrib. in Sociology, No. 22). Apx. 288 pages.
LC 76-5262. $14.95

A SHORT GUIDE TO THE STUDY OF ETHIOPIA: A General Bibliography
Edited and compiled by ALULA HIDARU and DESSALEGN RAHMATO
Prepared under the auspices of the African Bibliographic Center. (Special Bibliographic Series: New Series, No. 2). Apx. 192 pages.
LC 76-27128. $12.75

TRAVAIL AND TRIUMPH: Black Life and Culture in the South since the Civil War
by ARNOLD H. TAYLOR
(Contrib. in Afro-American and African Studies, No. 26). Apx. 352 pages.
LC 76-5264. $15.95

BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY OF THE CONFEDERACY
by JON L. WAKELYN
Frank E. Vandiver, Advisory Editor. Apx. 672 pages.
LC 72-13870. $29.95

THE FENCE: A New Look at the World of Property Theft
by MARILYN E. WALSH
(Contrib. in Sociology, No. 21). Apx. 288 pages.
LC 76-5266. $13.95

Please write for our latest catalog.

---

a division of Williamhouse-Regency, Inc.

GREENWOOD PRESS
51 Riverside Avenue
Westport, Conn. 06880

Grove Press

Fall '76

September

I CAN'T GO ON, I'LL GO ON. A Selection from the Work of Samuel Beckett. Edited by Richard W. Seaver. $15/0-394-40669-9

THE COMPLETE FOOD HANDBOOK by Rodger P. Doyle and James L. Redding. Evergreen paperbound $5.95/0-394-17911-0

THE PRACTICE AND THEORY OF TIBETAN BUDDHISM by Geshe Lhundup Sopa and Jeffrey Hopkins. Foreword by His Holiness the Dalai Lama. Evergreen paperbound $3.95/0-394-17905-6

GUTHRIE NEW THEATER, VOL. 1. Eugene Lion and David Ball, editors. Evergreen paperbound $4.95/0-394-17907-2

COMEDIANS, a play by Trevor Griffiths. Evergreen paperbound $2.95/0-394-17913-7

BEEN TAKEN LATELY? The Comprehensive Consumer Fraud Digest. By Joe Cartwright and Jerry Patterson. Black Cat paperbound $1.95/0-394-17914-5

October

SURVIVING THE UNDERGRADUATE JUNGLE: The Student's Guide to Good Grades. By Kathy Crafts and Brenda Hauther. Evergreen paperbound $3.95/0-394-17915-3

DON'T SHRINK TO FIT! A Confrontation With Dehumanization in Psychiatry and Psychology. By Eileen Walkenstein, M.D. $7.95/0-394-40960-4

THE MAN WITH THE SUITCASES, a play by Eugene Ionesco. Evergreen paperbound $3.95/0-394-17916-1

FIZZLES. Prose by Samuel Beckett. Cloth $6.95/0-394-40950-7. Evergreen paperbound $1.95/0-394-17917-X

FEMINIST SEXUAL AWARENESS by Carmen Kerr. $8.95/0-394-40948-5

ENDS AND ODDS. Dramatic Pieces. By Samuel Beckett. Cloth $6.95/0-394-40949-3. Evergreen paperbound $1.95/0-394-17918-8

TOGETHER SEX, a practical guide to party sex by Peggy and Miles Allen. $8.95/0-394-40947-7

GENIUS AND LUST--A Journey Through the Major Writings of Henry Miller. By Norman Mailer and Henry Miller. $12.50/0-394-40946-9

SMALL CHANGE by François Truffaut. With illustrations from the film. Evergreen paperbound $2.95/0-394-17921-8

November

JOHN LENNON: ONE DAY AT A TIME. A Personal Biography of the Seventies. By Anthony Fawcett. Large-size 8 x 10. Illustrated. Evergreen paperbound $6.95/0-394-17920-X

BEYOND GAMES AND SCRIPTS by Eric Berne. With Selections from His Major Writings. Edited by Claude Steiner and Carmen Kerr. $10/0-394-40942-6

THE AMERICANS IN ITALY. U.S. Undercover Operations and Payoffs in Postwar Italy. By Roberto Faenza and Marco Fini. $10/0 394-41014-9

Grove Press, Inc., 196 West Houston Street, New York 10014
Distributed by Random House, 201 East 50 Street, New York 10022
Send orders to Random House, Westminster, Md. 21157

Twayne United States English World Authors Series

- Critical-biographical studies of over 700 authors available.
- Series format offers both easy access to essential facts and source material for in-depth research.

Critical praise for Twayne's Authors Series

"...Frederick J. Hoffman's William Faulkner, [☐ $7.50] is one of the handful of best books we have on the Mississippi writer...There has, of course, always been an acknowledged place for a Twayne book on an unknown or largely ignored writer. Flannery O'Connor is neither among the most studied American writers...nor is she among the neglected... Dorothy Walters, in a sense, reconfirms the versatility of the Twayne format by writing a quite effective study of a writer [☐ Flannery O'Connor, $7.50] in this middle group." Journal of Modern Literature

New and Notable Titles in Twayne's Authors Series

● TWAYNE'S UNITED STATES AUTHORS SERIES

☐ PADDY CHAYEFSKY
by John M. Clum
ISBN 0-8057-7172-7 $7.50

☐ VLADIMIR NABOKOV
by L. L. Lee
ISBN 0-8057-7166-2 $7.95

☐ J.D. SALINGER
Revised Edition by Warren French
ISBN 0-8057-7163-8 $7.95

☐ GERTRUDE STEIN
by Michael J. Hoffman
ISBN 0-8057-7168-9 $7.50

☐ EDITH WHARTON
by Margaret B. McDowell
ISBN 0-8057-7164-6 $6.95

● TWAYNE'S ENGLISH AUTHORS SERIES

☐ DOROTHY RICHARDSON
by Thomas F. Staley
ISBN 0-8057-6662-6 $7.95

☐ RICHARD BRINSLEY SHERIDAN
by Jack D. Durant
ISBN 0-8057-6650-2 $7.95

☐ NEVIL SHUTE
by Julian Smith
ISBN 0-8057-6664-2 $7.50

☐ MAY SINCLAIR
by Hrisey D. Zegger
ISBN 0-8057-6666-9 $7.95

☐ C.P. SNOW
by David Shusterman
ISBN 0-8057-1510-X $7.95

● TWAYNE'S WORLD AUTHORS SERIES

☐ CONTEMPORARY SPANISH POETRY: 1898-1963
by Carl W. Cobb
ISBN 0-8057-6202-7 $7.50

☐ ALEXANDRE DUMAS, père
by Richard S. Stowe
ISBN 0-8057-6230-2 $7.50

☐ FRANCESCO GUICCIARDINI
by Peter E. Bondanella
ISBN 0-8057-6231-0 $7.50

☐ FRANZ KAFKA
by Meno Spann
ISBN 0-8057-6182-9 $7.95

☐ SØREN KIERKEGAARD
by Brita K. Stendahl
ISBN 0-8057-6234-5 $7.50

Prices do not include shipping and handling charges. Prices outside the U.S. are 10% higher. Orders from individuals must be accompanied by full payment, including a shipping and handling charge of 50¢ per book.

For a complete description and list of titles in Twayne's three Authors Series please use the coupon to write for a free copy of the 1976-1977 Twayne Catalog.

Twayne Publishers
A Division of G.K. Hall & Co.
70 Lincoln Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02111

LJ-10

☐ Please send me the titles checked above.
☐ Yes, please send me a free copy of the 1976-1977 Twayne Catalog

Name _____

Library/Institution _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

HAMLYN / AMERICA'S Harvest for Fall '76

Those handsome, full-color quality books that have already made Hamlyn one of Britain's leading publishers are now stateside.

SEPTEMBER

Amateur Gardening, Pocket Guide,
[illegible]
The Amateur Gardener, A.G.L. Hellyer, $12.50
Birds of Town and Village, W.D. Campbell, $15.00
Chicken Cookbook, Elizabeth Pomeroy, $4.95
Collingridge Guide to Garden Plants in Color, $13.50
Country Cookbook, Mary Norwak, $5.95
Country Life Collector's Pocket Book, Therle Hughes, $5.95
Down-to-Earth Gardening, Violet Stevenson, $5.95
Eagles, Hawks and Falcons of the World, Leslie Brown and Dean Amadon, $87.50 (2 vols.)
Easy Wine Making in 21 Days, John George and Barrie Anderson, $3.50
The Family Crochet Book, $5.95
Farmhouse Fare, $3.95
A Garden Full of Flowers, Violet Stevenson, $10.00
Gardening from Scratch, Xenia Field, $4.95
Gothic Art in Bohemia and Moravia, Albert Kutal, $12.50
Great Masters of World Painting, Nathaniel Harris, $7.95
Hamlyn's Family Cookbook, Marguerite Patten, $10.00
Health Food Cookery, Marguerite Patten, $4.95
How to Cook Book, Marguerite Patten, $4.95
The Motorist's Touring Maps and Gazetteer, $8.95
Pictorial History of World War II, Charles Herridge, $8.95
Picture Book of Britain in Color, $7.50
Picture History of World Art, Nathaniel Harris, $7.95
The Pocket Book of Furniture, Therle Hughes, $5.95
Railway Relics and Regalia, P.B. Whitehouse, $17.50
The Shorter Dictionary of English Furniture, Ralph Edwards, $75.00
Simple Country Fare, Doreen Fulleylove, $4.95
Steam Locomotives of the British Railways, H.C. Casserley, $8.95
Step by Step Cookery, Marguerite Patten, $7.95
Step by Step Guide to Embroidery, Barbara Chandler, $4.95
Step by Step Guide to Pottery, Gwilym Thomas, $4.95
Step by Step Guide to Sauce-Making, Sonia Allison, $4.95

OCTOBER

Army Life in the 90s, Philip Warner, $12.50
Carefree Cookbook, Christine Cooper and Angela Hildsley, $5.95
Collage, a Step by Step Guide, Valerie Janitch, $4.95
Colorful Entertaining, Audrey Ellis, $7.50
Continental Dishes Made Easy, Susan Graham, $4.95
Flower Arranging in Color, Betty Massingham, $5.95
French Family Cooking, Audrey Ellis, $4.95
Gardening in Color, Frances Perry, $5.95
Great Military Battles, Cyril Falls, $15.00
Italian Family Cooking, Mary Reynolds, $4.95
Julia Clements Gift Book of Flower Arranging, Julia Clements, $5.95
Larousse Ancient and Medieval History, Arnold Toynbee, $13.95 (paperback)
Larousse Byzantine and Medieval Art, Rene Huyghe, $13.95 (paperback)
Larousse Modern History, Hugh Trevor-Roper, $13.95 (paperback)
Larousse Prehistoric and Ancient Art, Rene Huyghe, $13.95 (paperback)
Larousse Renaissance and Baroque Art, Rene Huyghe, $13.95 (paperback)
Leatherwork, a Step by Step Guide, Mary and E.A. Manning, $4.95
The Lotus Book of Water Gardening, Bill Heritage, $3.95
Mixer and Blender Cookbook, Myra Street, $4.95
Old Silver Spoons of England, Norman Gask, $12.50
Origami, a Step by Step Guide, Robert Hargin, $4.95
Pasta Cookbook, Myra Street, $4.95
Pictorial Gardening, $6.95
Prague in Color, Miroslav Korecki, $17.50
Quilting, a Step by Step Guide, M.J. Cutbush, $4.95
Roses, Leonard Hollis, $12.50
Sanders' Encyclopedia of Gardening, A.G.L. Hellyer, $8.95
Step by Step Guide to Chinese Cooking, Kenneth Lo, $4.95
Step by Step Guide of Indian Cooking, Khalid Aziz, $4.95

CONCISE GUIDES IN COLOR
Pocket Size Reference books. $3.50 each
Garden Flowers, Vlastimil Vanek
Flowering Bulbs, Eva Petrova
Herbs, Frantisek Stary and Vaclav Jirasek
Birds' Eggs and Nests, Jan Hanzak
Cage and Aviary Birds, Jiri Felix
Spotting Birds, J.S. Duris and Edmund Burke
Mammals of Britain and Europe, Jan Hanzak
Freshwater Fishes, J. Vostradovsky
Shells of Britain and Europe, Jan Lellak
Cacti and Succulents, Rudolf Subik
Ships Jaromir Kozak
Constellations, Josef Klepesta and Antonin Rukl

NOVEMBER

African Art: An Introduction, Dennis Duerden, $3.95
Aircraft, Aircraft, John W.R. Taylor, $4.95
The Amateur's Greenhouse, A.J. Macself and John Warren, $6.95
Angling in Color, Alan Wrangles, $5.95
Collingridge Guide to your New Garden, Arthur Hellyer, $10.00
Complete Book of Home Freezing, Audrey Ellis, $10.00
Cooking for Compliments, Ruth Morgan, $10.00
Cooking with Katie Stewart, Katie Stewart, $11.95
Entertaining from your Freezer, Audrey Ellis, $4.95
The Fair Lady Cookbook, Annette Kesler, $6.95
Good Cooking with Wine, Mary Reynolds, $4.95
Hamlyn Book of World Soccer, Peter Arnold and Christopher Davis, $6.95
The Hamlyn Guide to Dogs, Harry Glover, $5.95
Home Guide to Food Freezing, Audrey Ellis, $5.95
The Horseman's Guide, Hartley Edwards, $10.00
How to Make Good Curries, Helen Lawson, $4.95
In your Garden with Percy Thrower, Percy Thrower, $6.95
In your Greenhouse with Percy Thrower, Percy Thrower, $5.95
Modern Cake Decorating, Audrey Ellis, $6.95
Percy Thrower's Encyclopedia of Gardening, Percy Thrower, $5.95
Percy Thrower's Every Day Gardening in Color, Percy Thrower, $5.95
Percy Thrower's Step by Step Gardening, Percy Thrower, $8.95
A Pictorial History of Westerns, Michael Parkinson and Clyde Jeavons, $5.95
Power Boats, Colin Mudie, $7.95
Practical Guide to Cats, Ivor Raleigh, Patricia Scott and Oliphant Jackson, $10.00
Practical Guide to Dogs, Kay White and Joan Joshua, $10.00
Practical Woodworking, $7.95
Racing Motorcycles, Mike Woollett, $3.95
R.S.P.B. Guide to British Birds, David Saunders, $4.50
The Second Country Book, Barbara Hargreaves, $10.00
Shrubs and Small Trees for Your Garden, Geoffrey Smith, $10.00
Simple Wooden Toymaking, Bob Mathias, $4.95
Steam on the Road, David Burgess Wise, $5.95
Women's Own Cook Book, $10.00

JUVENILES

September

Famous Military Battles, A.J. Barker, $5.95
Famous Sea Battles, Donald McIntyre, $5.95
The Hamlyn Children's History of the World,
[illegible]
The Hamlyn Junior Encyclopedia of Nature Leonard Moore, $7.95
The Hamlyn Junior Science Encyclopedia, $7.95
The Hamlyn Younger Children's Encyclopedia, $7.95
1,000 Great Lives, Plantagenet Somerset Fry, $10.00
They Made History: Great Men and Women from Britain's Past, Plantagenet Somerset Fry, $4.95

October

All in French, Aime Gabillon, $5.95
Russian Fairy Tales, $5.95
Sinbad the Sailor, $4.95
Tales the Wind Told, Ludek Manasek, $4.95

November

Adventure Stories for Girls, Peter Rolls, $3.50
Animal Stories for Girls, Peter Rolls, $3.50
Answer Book of Astronomy, Iain Nicolson, $5.95
Answer Book of Bible History, Jeremy Miller, $5.95
Answer Book of History, Plantagenet Somerset Fry, $5.95
Answer Book of Science, Susan Barker, $5.95
Exciting Stories for Boys, Peter Rolls, $3.50
Exciting Stories for Girls, Peter Rolls, $3.50
A Guide to the Insects of Africa, Eliot Pinhey and Ian Loe, $3.50
Hamlyn Encyclopedia of Plants, Jan Triska, $7.95
The Hamlyn Animal Encyclopedia, Jiri Felix, $7.95
365 Things to Know $4.95

DISTRIBUTED BY A & W PROMOTIONAL BOOK CORP. / 95 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK, N.Y., 10016

FALL READING FROM HARVARD.

HUMANITIES

The Folger Library Edition of the Works of Richard Hooker
Of the Laws of Ecclesiastical Polity
Preface and Books I-V
W. Speed Hill, General Editor
Nov. (ISBN 0-674-63205-9)
$60.00t, 2 vol. set

The Sexual Labyrinth of Nikolai Gogol
Simon Karlinsky
Oct. (ISBN 0-674-80281-0)
$14.00t

Cavafy's Alexandria
Study of a Myth in Progress
Edmund Keeley
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-10430-7)
$11.50

Byron's Letters and Journals
'The Flesh is Frail'
Leslie A. Marchand, Editor
Nov. (ISBN 0-674-08946-4)
$13.50

Bloodhounds of Heaven
The Detective in English Fiction from Godwin to Doyle
Ian Ousby
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-07657-5)
$10.00

A History of Modern Poetry
From the 1890s to the High Modernist Mode
David Perkins
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-39941-2)
$17.50

The Art and Imagination of W.E.B. Du Bois
Arnold Rampersad
Oct. (ISBN 0-674-04711-7)
$14.00t

Imagining a Self
Autobiography and Novel in Eighteenth-Century England
Patricia Meyer Spacks
Nov. (ISBN 0-674-44005-6)
$15.00t

Studies in the History of Philosophy and Religion
Volume II. Edited by Isadore Twersky
Harry Austryn Wolfson
Dec. (ISBN 0-674-84766-0)
$22.50t

A Hundred and Fifty Years of Archaeology
Glyn Daniel
Oct. (ISBN 0-674-42631-2)
$15.00t

English Romanticism and the French Tradition
Margery Sabin
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-25686-7)
$15.00t

Essays in Radical Empiricism
Introduction by John J. McDermott
William James
Nov. (ISBN 0-674-26717-6)
$15.00t

Complementarities
Uncollected Essays
John Paul Russo, Editor
I.A. Richards
Nov. (ISBN 0-674-15520-3)
$12.50t

Harvard Studies in Classical Philology
Volume 80
Albert Henrichs, Editor
Aug. (ISBN 0-674-37927-6)
$18.50t

Shakespeare • Aspects of Influence
G.B. Evans, Editor
Aug. (ISBN 0-674-80330-2)
$12.50t cloth
(ISBN 0-674-80331-0)
$3.95t paper

Cockburn's Millennium
Karl Miller
Oct. (ISBN 0-674-13638-1)
$15.00t

Magnalia Christi Americana, Books I and II
Kenneth B. Murdock, Editor
Elizabeth W. Miller, Assistant Editor
Cotton Mather
Oct. (ISBN 0-674-54155-3)
$25.00t

Bracton on the Laws and Customs of England
Volumes III and IV
Samuel E. Thorne, Translator and Editor
Nov. (ISBN 0-674-08038-6)
$70.00t, 2 vol. set

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Teaching Styles and Pupil Progress
Neville Bennett
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-63961-8)
$7.95t

A History of the Jewish People
By leading scholars of the Hebrew University, Jerusalem
H.H. Ben-Sasson, Editor
Oct. (ISBN 0-674-39730-4)
$32.50 until Dec. 31, 1976;
$40.00 thereafter

The Dynamics of Soviet Politics
Paul Cocks, Robert V. Daniels and Nancy W. Heer, Editors
Jan. (ISBN 0-674-21881-7)
$17.50t

Social Limits to Growth
A Twentieth Century Fund Study
Fred Hirsch
Oct. (ISBN 0-674-81365-0)
$10.00

The Transformation of American Law, 1790-1860
Morton J. Horwitz
Jan. (ISBN 0-674-90370-6)
$16.50t

The African Diaspora
Martin L. Kilson and Robert I. Rotberg, Editors
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-00779-4)
$18.50t

Cognitive Development
Its Cultural and Social Foundations
A.R. Luria
Jan. (ISBN 0-674-13731-0)
$12.50t

The United States and the Southern Cone
Argentina, Uruguay, and Chile
Arthur P. Whitaker
Jan. (ISBN 0-674-92841-5)
$20.00t

Conquest and Agrarian Change
The Emergence of the Hacienda System on the Peruvian Coast
Robert G. Keith
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-16293-5)
$17.50t

Yenching University and Sino-Western Relations, 1916-1952
Philip West
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-96569-8)
$16.00t

Our Ordered Lives Confess
Three Nineteenth-Century American Missionaries in East Shantung
Irwin T. Hyatt, Jr.
Nov. (ISBN 0-674-64735-1)
$18.50t

The Origins of the Communist Autocracy
With a New Introduction
Leonard Schapiro
(ISBN 0-674-64451-4) $17.50t

Japanese Marxist
A Portrait of Kawakami Hajime, 1879-1946
Gail Lee Bernstein
Nov. (ISBN 0-674-47193-8)
$13.00t

The United States and Burma
Foreword by Edwin O. Reischauer
John F. Cady
Available
(ISBN 0-674-92320-0)
$17.50t

China's Forty Millions
Minority Nationalities and National Integration in the People's Republic of China
June Teufel Dreyer
Nov. (ISBN 0-674-11964-9)
$14.00t

Reason, Ridicule and Religion
The English Enlightenment, 1660-1750
John Redwood
Oct. (ISBN 0-674-74953-7)
$12.00t

The Religions of the People in Sixteenth-Century Champagne
A.N. Galpern
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-75836-6)
$19.50t

Immigrant Milwaukee, 1836-1860
Accommodation and Community in a Frontier City
Kathleen Neils Conzen
Aug. (ISBN 0-674-44436-1)
$16.50t

People of Salé
Tradition and Change in a Moroccan City, 1830-1930
Kenneth L. Brown
Aug. (ISBN 0-674-66155-9)
$18.00t

Japan's Multinational Enterprises
M.Y. Yoshino
Jan. (ISBN 0-674-47259-4)
$12.50t

Dissent on Development
Reflections of a Sceptical Economist
Abridged Edition, with a New Introduction
P. T. Bauer
Oct. (ISBN 0-674-21282-1)
$4.95t paper

Interbrand Choice, Strategy, and Bilateral Market Power
Michael E. Porter
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-45820-6)
$13.50t

SCIENCE/MEDICINE

A Scientist at the White House
The Private Diary of Eisenhower's Special Assistant for Science and Technology
With an Introduction by Charles S. Maier
George B. Kistiakowsky
Jan. (ISBN 0-674-79496-6)
$15.00

Evolution and the Diversity of Life
Selected Essays
Ernst Mayr
Oct. (ISBN 0-674-27104-1)
$20.00t

Hypertension, a Policy Perspective
Milton Weinstein and William Stason
Jan. (ISBN 0-674-43900-7)
$15.00t

Hormones in Human Blood
Detection and Assay
Harry N. Antoniades, Editor
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-40635-4)
$49.50t

Interfaces in Microbial Ecology
K.C. Marshall
Sept. (ISBN 0-674-45822-2)
$12.50t

Immunity in Evolution
John J. Marchalonis
Jan. (ISBN 0-674-44445-0)
$18.50t

HARVARD UNIVERSITY PRESS
Cambridge, Mass. 02138
t = text discount

Our 40th Year

HASTINGS HOUSE

BOOKS FOR FALL 1976

• GENERAL

FOOD PROCESSOR MAGIC
Over 600 Recipes, Basic Techniques
Mary Moon Hemingway & Suzanne de Lima
ISBN 8038-2321-5 Oct. $12.95

THE SINGLEHANDERS Peter Heaton
ISBN 8038-6735-2 Publ. $12.95

RAILROADING COAST TO COAST
Riding the Locomotive Cabs, Steam, Electric and Diesel, 1923-1950
S. Kip Farrington, Jr.
ISBN 8038-6336-5 Nov. $25.00

BERMUDA IMPRESSIONS
William Berchen Aug.
ISBN 8038-0774-0 Cloth $17.50
ISBN 8038-0776-7 Paper $10.95

BOSTON IN COLOR
Stewart Dill McBride, photographs by Peter H. Dreyer
ISBN 8038-0775-9 Nov. $5.95

THE BAHAMAS IN FULL COLOR
Hans Hannau
ISBN 8038-0773-2 Sept. $6.95

1977 LET'S HALT AWHILE IN GREAT BRITAIN (Including Ireland)
Ashley Courteney
ISBN 8038-4298-9 Jan. Paper $9.95

GREAT AMERICAN MANSIONS and Their Stories Merrill Folsom
ISBN 8038-2681-8 Sept. Reprint in Paper $6.95

VIRGINIA: The English Heritage in America Parke Rouse, Jr.
ISBN 8038-7759-5 Sept. Reprint in Paper $6.95

COPPER CAMP: Lusty Story of the Richest Hill on Earth
Writers Project of Montana
ISBN 8038-1208-6 Publ. $9.95

THE CHAMBERLAIN ENGAGEMENT CALENDARS FOR 1977

The New England Calendar	ISBN 8038-5047-6
Antiques	ISBN 8038-0392-3
French Menus	ISBN 8038-2316-7
American Cooking	ISBN 8038-0393-1
Virginia	ISBN 8038-7756-0

Gift-boxed, $3.50 each

• COMMUNICATION ARTS BOOKS

Journalism/Mass Communications

ADVERTISING IN AMERICA
An Introduction to Persuasive Communication Stanley M. Ulanoff
ISBN 8038-0369-9 Jan. Price Not Set

DRAMA IN LIFE*
The Uses of Communication in Society
James E. Combs and Michael W. Mansfield
ISBN 8038-1555-7 Sept. $18.50

INTERNATIONAL AND INTER-CULTURAL COMMUNICATION
Heinz-Dietrich Fischer & John C. Merrill (eds.)
ISBN 8038-3402-0 Sept. $22.50

JOURNALISM IN AMERICA
An Introduction to the News Media
Thomas Elliott Berry
ISBN 8038-3712-7 Sept. $14.50

MASS MEDIA AND THE SUPREME COURT
Revised 2nd Edition
Kenneth S. Devol (ed.)
ISBN 8038-4683-5 Sept. $14.50

TAPE
A Radio News Handbook F. Gifford
ISBN 8038-7161-9 Jan. Price Not Set

EXISTENTIAL JOURNALISM
John C. Merrill
ISBN 8038-1928-5 Jan. Price Not Set

Media Manuals

THE ANIMATION STAND
Zoran Perisic
ISBN 8038-0386-9 Oct. Paper $7.95

CREATING SPECIAL EFFECTS FOR FILM/TV Bernard Wilkie
ISBN 8038-1209-4 Jan. Paper $8.95

EFFECTIVE TV PRODUCTION
Gerald Millerson
ISBN 8038-7163-5 Nov. Paper $8.95

THE LENS IN ACTION Sidney F. Ray
ISBN 8038-4296-1 Oct. Paper $8.95

MOTION PICTURE CAMERA AND LIGHTING EQUIPMENT
David Samuelson
ISBN 8038-4685-1 Jan. Paper $8.95

USING VIDEOTAPE
Joseph F. Robinson & P. H. Beards
ISBN 8038-7500-2 Oct. Paper $7.95

Film

FILMING FOR TELEVISION
A. Arthur Englander & Paul Petzold
ISBN 8038-2320-0 Nov. $19.50

FILM SCRIPTWRITING
A Practical Manual Dwight V. Swain
ISBN 8038-2318-5 Oct. $13.50

GRAMMAR OF THE FILM LANGUAGE Daniel Arijon
ISBN 8038-2675-3 Publ. $27.50

• VISUAL COMMUNICATIONS BOOKS

ILLUSTRATORS 17
1976/77 Edition of the Annual of American Illustration
Roland Descombes (ed.) for the Society of Illustrators
ISBN 8038-3401-2 Publ. $24.50

EUROPEAN ILLUSTRATION 3, 1976/77 Edition
Edward Booth-Clibborn (ed.)
ISBN 8038-1926-9 Nov. $42.50

DESIGN AND ART DIRECTION '76
The Fourteenth Annual of British Graphics, Advertising, Television & Editorial Design
ISBN 8038-1561-1 Nov. $37.50

GRAPHIS ANNUAL 1976/77
International Annual of Advertising and Editorial Graphics
Walter Herdeg (ed.)
ISBN 8038-2682-6 Oct. $37.50

PHOTOGRAPHIS '76
International Annual of Advertising, Editorial and Television Photography
Walter Herdeg (ed.)
ISBN 8038-5816-7 Publ. $37.50

THE PENROSE GRAPHIC ARTS INTERNATIONAL ANNUAL
Volume 69, 1976 Clive Goodacre (ed.)
ISBN 8038-5817-5 Sept. $30.00

CREATIVITY 5
Don Barron (ed.) (Art Dir. Book Co.)
ISBN 8038-1207-8 Publ. $20.50

JAMES CONNER'S SONS 1888 CATALOGUE OF ELECTROTYPE SPECIMENS (Art Direction Book Co.)
ISBN 8038-3714-3 Publ. $19.50

THE EARLY ILLUSTRATORS
Dick Sutphen (ed.) (Art Dir. Book Co.)
ISBN 8038-1927-7 Nov. $19.50

FULL LENGTH ANIMATED FEATURE FILMS Bruno Edera
ISBN 8038-2317-7 Jan. Price Not Set

VISUAL SCRIPTING John Halas
ISBN 8038-7757-9 Publ. $30.00

FILM & TV GRAPHICS, 2
Walter Herdeg (ed.)
ISBN 8038-2322-3 Oct. $28.00

DRAWING: A Creative Process
Kurt Wirth ISBN 8038-1563-8 Oct. $42.50

Previously Announced
*Also in Paper (Text) Edition

HASTINGS HOUSE, PUBLISHERS
10 East 40th Street New York, N.Y. 10016
IN CANADA: SAUNDERS OF TORONTO, LTD.

Hotho

a name to know...

for dependable service libraries have enjoyed more than 18 years. Save up to 50% or more on the best selection of high interest library titles. An extra 15% discount is yours by subscribing to the Hotho Review Plan. Careful invoicing and fast delivery saves important time for busy librarians. Let a Hotho representative talk with you today. Or write for our free catalog or more information about the Hotho Review Plan. You'll know why we are . . .

A Better Way To Buy Books

victor hotho & co.
P. O. Box 9738 Fort Worth, Texas 76107

☐ Send me a free catalog.
☐ Send me information about the Hotho Review Plan.

Library_____

Address _____

City_____ State_____ Zip_____

Librarian _____

victor hotho & co.
916 NORWOOD, FORT WORTH, TEXAS 76107
or Call Collect 817/335-1833

From Beekeeping to the Blues
Things are Humming at Illinois

LIVING THE REVOLUTION
An Oral History of Contemporary Cuba
VOLUME 1: FOUR MEN
Oscar Lewis, Ruth M. Lewis, and
February 00628-3 Illustrated $14.95

BEEKEEPING IN THE MIDWEST
Elbert R. Jaycox
October 00638-0 $6.95

AMERICAN FORTS
Architectural Form and Function
December 00589-9 Illustrated $14.95

WE, THE OTHER PEOPLE
Alternative Declarations of Independence by Labor Groups, Farmers, Woman's Rights Advocates, Socialists, and Blacks, 1829-1975
Published 00623-2 Cloth $7.95
00624-0 Paper $2.95

PISSING IN THE SNOW AND OTHER FOLKTALES
Vance Randolph. Introduction by Rayna Green
Annotations by Frank A. Hoffmann
November 00618-6 $7.95

EARLY DOWNHOME BLUES
A Musical and Cultural Analysis
Jeff Todd Titon
January 00290-3 Illustrated $14.95
33 1/3 rpm soundsheet

Anthropology

EVOLUTION AND ECOLOGY
Essays on Social Transformation
Julian H. Steward. Edited by Jane C. Steward and Robert F. Murphy
October 00612-7 $10.95s

THE RURAL FOUNDATION FOR URBANISM
Economic and Stylistic Interaction between a Rural and Urban Community in Eighth-Century Peru
William Harris Isbell
December 00600-3 $9.95s

Economics

ENERGY FLOW THROUGH THE UNITED STATES ECONOMY
A Wall Chart
Center for Advanced Computation
October 00637-2 58 x 41¼ inches $12.95s

History

ALONG THE COLOR LINE
Explorations in the Black Experience

BLACK OHIO AND THE COLOR LINE, 1860-1915
David A. Gerber
December 00534-1 $14.95s

THE BOOKER T. WASHINGTON PAPERS
VOLUME 5: 1899-1900
Assistant editor Barbara S. Kraft
December 00627-5 $17.50s

Literature

HARRIETT MONROE AND THE POETRY RENAISSANCE
The First Ten Years of Poetry, 1912-22
Ellen Williams
November 00478-7 $8.95s

THE MYTHOPOEIC REALITY
The Postwar American Nonfiction Novel
December 00523-6 $8.95s

Music

POLITICAL AND PATRIOTIC LYRICS IN THE COLONIAL AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS, 1773-1783
Gillian B. Anderson
October 00625-9 $19.95s

Poetry

CUMBERLAND STATION
September 00581-3 Cloth $7.95s
00582-1 Paper $3.45

TRACKING
Virginia Terris
September 00602-X Cloth $7.95s
00603-8 Paper $3.45

Politics & Law

RULEMAKERS OF THE HOUSE
Spark M. Matsunaga and Ping Chen
September 00626-7 $7.95s

CIVIL LIBERTIES AND CIVIL RIGHTS
David C. Baum Memorial Lectures
edited by Victor J. Stone
October 00620-8 $5.95s

THE POLITICS OF HIGHER EDUCATION
Lawmakers and the Academy in Illinois
James Dunlap Nowlan
October 00558-9 Original Paperback $2.95a

THE ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE
Structure and Process
Samuel K. Gove, Richard W. Carlson, and Richard J. Carlson
October 00621-6 Original Paperback $5.95a

Other New Paperbacks

THE PEASANTS OF LANGUEDOC
Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie. Translated with an introduction by John Day
September 00635-6 $4.95a

THE STRUCTURE OF SCIENTIFIC THEORIES
edited and with a critical introduction and a new afterword by Frederick Suppe
January 00634-8 $8.95a

Prices subject to change
Publisher's ISBN prefix 0-252

University of Illinois Press
URBANA, ILLINOIS 61801

INDEPENDENT PUBLISHERS GROUP

FALL 1976

LORENZ PRESS, INC.

BURL IVES' GUITAR FOR BEGINNERS
By Burl Ives
September $9.95; paper, $5.95

THE BLUEGRASS BANJO METHOD
by Neil Griffin
September paper, $5.95

THE NIXON CHRONICLES
by Mike Peters
Introduction by Bill Mauldin
October paper, $6.95

THE HUGGABLES
How to Make Large Stuffed Animals by Janet and Alice Weaver
October paper, $6.95

THE GREAT AMERICAN SONGBOOK
compiled by Geoffrey Reiff
September spiral binding $9.95

LAWRENCE HILL & CO., INC.

THE LAND'S LORD
by T. Obinkaram Echewa
"Superb atmosphere . . .its quality is beyond dispute." West Africa
October $6.50; paper $3.95

XALA
A novel by Sembene Ousmane
Translated from the French by Clive Wake October $5.95

Recently Published
ENTRAPPED
by Edward Baskett
"Alteration of the social climate for homosexuals will be due, in part, to Baskett's persistence."
ALA Booklist $6.50

CUBA TODAY
by Lee Chadwick
"An accessible and informative book." The Kirkus Service $7.95

POLISH PROFILES:
The Land, the People and their History
by Antoni Gronowicz
"An excellent book . . .contributes significantly to the understanding of Poland's post-war development."
The Polish Museum of America Quarterly $10.00

PAUL S. ERIKSSON, INC.

A MEASURE OF SLIDING SAND
A novel by Ira Glackens
October $8.95

THE OPTION GAME
by Kenneth B. Platnick
September $10.00; paper, $5.95

A PLAIN MAN'S GUIDE TO WINE
by Raymond Postgate
October Revised Edition $5.95

THE KOSHER GOURMET COOKBOOK
by Mildred Miller and Bascha Snyder
October Trade Paperback Edition $5.95

A TREASURY OF BIRDLORE
Edited by Joseph Wood Krutch and Paul S. Eriksson
October Trade Paperback Edition $6.95

LUTHER'S GOT CLASS
by Brumsic Brandon, Jr.
September paper, $3.95

A VERY SIMPLE GARDEN BOOK: Vegetables
by Rohn Engh
January $6.95

Recently Published:
Ideal Christmas gifts

THE BIRD-FINDER'S 3-YEAR NOTE BOOK
by Paul S. Eriksson
Spiral bound, $7.95

THE GARDENER'S 3-YEAR NOTE BOOK
by Todd Weintz
Spiral bound, $7.95

AUTUMN PRESS, INC.

THE BOOK OF MISO
by William Shurtleff and Akiko Aoyagi
October $14.95; paper, $6.95

Recently Published:
THE BOOK OF TOFU
Food for Mankind
by William Shurtleff and Akiko Aoyagi
$14.95; paper, $6.95

THE ART OF JUST COOKING
by Lima Ohsawa paper, $5.50

LIVINGSTON PRESS, INC.

Recently Published:
PHOTOGRAPHY FOR THE PROFESSIONALS
by Robin Perry $12.95

WELCOME FOR A HERO
Novel of the Cuban missile crisis.
by Robin Perry $7.95

HUMAN SCIENCES PRESS

LET'S PLAY AND LEARN:
Early Education/ Parent Education
by Harriet Hartman
September paper, $5.95

THE ABUSING FAMILY
by Dr. Blair Justice and Dr. Rita Justice
October $14.95

HANDBOOK OF MEDICAL SPECIALTIES
by Henry Wechsler, Ph.D.
September $16.95; paper, $9.95

EFFECTIVE CHILD REARING:
The Behaviorally Aware Parent by Dr. William Gosciewski
September $9.95

THE ALCHOHOLISMS:
Detection, Diagnosis, and Assessment
by George R. Jacobson, Ph.D.
September $19.95

BARBITURATES:
Their Use, Misuse and Abuse
by Donald R. Wesson, M.D. and David E. Smith, M.D.
December $14.95

CHALLENGES IN MENTAL RETARDATION
by Frank J. Menolascino, M.D.
October $16.95

CITIZEN EVALUATION OF MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES
by Val D. MacMurray, Ph.D.
September $9.95

SLEEPY HOLLOW RESTORATIONS

A CENTURY OF COMMENTARY ON THE WORKS OF WASHINGTON IRVING
Edited by Andrew B. Myers
October $20.00

Recently Published:
LIFE ALONG THE HUDSON
by Allan Keller $10.00

LIFE OF GEORGE WASHINGTON
by Washington Irving
Edited and abridged by Jess Stein
$19.95

AMERICA'S WOODEN AGE:
Aspects of its Early Technology
Edited by Brooke Hindle
$15.00

RIP VAN WINKLE AND THE LEGEND OF SLEEPY HOLLOW
by Washington Irving
An illustrated volume with an introduction by Haskell S. Springer
$9.95

THE LOYALIST AMERICANS:
A Focus on Greater New York
Edited by Robert A. East & Jacob Judd
$12.00

JOSIAH MACY, JR. FOUNDATION

ADVANCES IN AMERICAN MEDICINE: Essays at the Bicentennial
Two Volumes
Published in cooperation with the National Library of Medicine
Edited by John Z. Bowers, M.D. & Elizabeth F. Purcell
900 pages $25.00 the set

RECENT TRENDS IN MEDICAL EDUCATION
Report of a Conference
Edited by Elizabeth F. Purcell
September $7.50

CAMPUS HEALTH PROGRAMS: Responsibilities in an Austere Age
Report of a Conference
Edited by Willard Dalrymple, M.D. & Elizabeth F. Purcell paper, $7.50

All prices and specifications subject to change without notice

All bindings are cloth unless otherwise noted

ipg

INDEPENDENT PUBLISHERS GROUP:

AUTUMN PRESS•PAUL S. ERIKSSON•HUMAN SCIENCES PRESS
LAWRENCE HILL & CO.•LIVINGSTON PRESS•LORENZ PRESS•JOSIAH MACY, JR. FOUNDATION
SLEEPY HOLLOW RESTORATIONS•DAVID WHITE

Send all orders to: INDEPENDENT PUBLISHERS GROUP, 14 Vanderventer Avenue, Port Washington, New York 11050

FALL 1976

Japan Publications

NEW TITLES

TAIKI-KEN: THE ESSENCE OF KUNG FU

By Kenichi Sawai. One of the most respected of Chinese martial arts traditions, Taiki-Ken is the original source of kempo, karate, and kung-fu. In this orthodox tradition of hsing-i-ch'uan, the individual's ki or inner force is developed. It develops the mind as well as the body, and is useful for all ages. Its combat applications can defend against any kind of attack. Includes 621 photos and illustrations. 0-87040-373-7. Published. $6.95, paper.

SCIENTIFIC KARATEDO: SPIRITUAL DEVELOPMENT OF INDIVIDUALITY IN MIND AND BODY

By Masayuki Hisataka. The most logical and comprehensive text available on karate — covering both its technical and its spiritual/philosophical aspects. Included here are scientific analyses of all standard techniques and clear, well-founded explanations of all basic karate rules. An unusual feature is the section on armed techniques utilizing common tools and household objects as weapons. Over 1000 illustrations. 0-87040-362-1. Published. $19.95, cloth.

THE WORLD OF ORIGAMI

By Isao Honda. Now back in print: A famous and popular classic, this truly complete treatment of the art of Japanese paper-folding contains nearly 160 Origami models, almost 2000 clear explanatory charts, and over 100 photographs of completed works. From the basics to mastery of technique, this definitive work leads the student from traditional to modern works, and from copying to genuinely original creations. Fully illustrated, many plates in color. 0-87040-383-4. September. $9.95, paper.

THE BOOK OF MACROBIOTICS: THE WAY OF LIFE FOR HEALTH, HAPPINESS AND FREEDOM

By Michio Kushi. The way of macrobiotics is the universal way of health, longevity and happiness. By applying the Oriental philosophy of Yin and Yang to one's diet and outlook, the macrobiotic way of life helps one regain the balanced, intuitive understanding that is so often lost in modern society. Master Kushi is well known and respected for his Kushi International Seminars throughout Europe and America and for his work with the East/West Foundation and East/West Journal. 100 illustrations. 0-87040-381-8. November. $6.95, paper.

BASIC KARATE FOR WOMEN: HEALTH AND SELF-DEFENSE

By Jun Sugano. Clear, illustrated introduction to the basic principles of karate: how to defend yourself against assault or molestation, plus exercises to sharpen up general health and body conditioning. Suitable for use by groups or an individual studying alone. 400 black and white photos plus 10 pages of color photos. 0-87040-384-2. September. $9.95, cloth.

THE BOOK OF "KI": CO-ORDINATING MIND AND BODY IN DAILY LIFE

By Koichi Tohei. The author, founder of the Ki Society International, presents the philosophical groundwork and specific disciplines by which the individual may attune himself or herself with the Ki—or life energy of the universe—and thrive in health and harmony, without fatigue or depression. Includes approximately 150 illustrations. 0-87040-379-6. October. $5.95, paper.

HEALING YOURSELF THROUGH OKIDO YOGA

By Masahiro Oki. Master Oki's combination of controlled breathing, mental concentration, and physical movement provides a powerful form of therapy which enables you to revitalize your body and stabilize your mind in order to develop your spirit. The reader is guided in adapting okido yoga to individual needs and conditions. Includes approximately 150 illustrations. 0-87040-380-X. October. $5.95, paper.

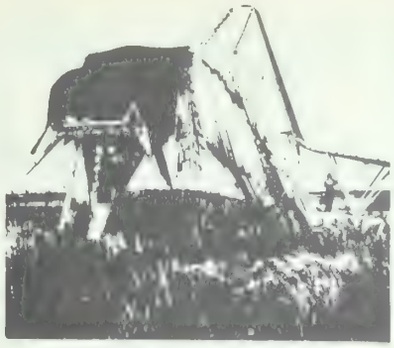
RECENT PUBLICATIONS:

TSUBO: VITAL POINTS FOR ORIENTAL THERAPY 0-87040-350-8. $18.00, cloth

ILLUSTRATED T'AI-CHI CH'UAN FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY 0-87040-376-1. $6.95, paper

VITAL JUDO: GRAPPLING TECHNIQUES 0-87040-352-4. $13.95, cloth

JAPAN PUBLICATIONS TRADING CO., (U.S.A.) INC.
200 Clearbrook Road, Elmsford, New York 10523/Telephone: (914) 592-2077
IN CANADA: Longman Canada Limited—Ontario, Canada



MIND & IMAGE

An Essay on Art & Architecture

Herb Greene

One of the few thoughtful commentaries on architectural principles and methods, from a point of view that is philosophic as well as practical, artistic as well as historical.

ISBN 0-8131-1323-7 / Illustrations Published / $22.50

THE ART OF PAUL SAWYIER

Arthur F. Jones

The first in-depth appraisal of the life and work of a minor master of American impressionism, including 74 superb full-color reproductions of his paintings of Kentucky and New York State.

ISBN 0-8131-1340-7 / 192 pages, 13" x 10" / 130 illustrations / November $27.50

THOMAS HUNT MORGAN

Pioneer of Genetics

Ian Shine & Sylvia Wrobel

Foreword by George Beadle

Nobel Prize winner Thomas Hunt Morgan (1866-1945) revolutionized genetics with his discovery of genes and chromosomes. A dramatic and warmly human study of a life spent in pursuit of new knowledge.

ISBN 0-8131-0095-X / Illustrations October / $7.50

THE CHANGING FACE OF TIBET

The Impact of Chinese Communist Ideology on the Landscape

Pradyumna P. Karan

A cultural geographer here studies effects of the sudden imposition of a foreign culture upon a stable and tradition-bound society.

ISBN 0-8131-1318-0 / Maps & Illustrations / Published / $18.50

Culture & the City

Cultural Philanthropy in Chicago from the 1880s to 1917

Helen Lefkowitz Horowitz

ISBN 0-8131-1344-X / October / $14.75

Richard Mather of Dorchester

B. R. Burg

ISBN 0-8131-1343-1 / November / $15.95

Knights of the Golden Rule

The Intellectual as Christian Social Reformer in the 1890s

Peter J. Frederick

ISBN 0-8131-1345-8 / October / $18.75

Rebuilding the Christian Commonwealth

New England Congregationalists & Foreign Missions, 1800–1830

John A. Andrew III

ISBN 0-8131-1333-4 / Published / $14.50

The Kentucky Bicentennial Bookshelf $3.95 per volume

JOHN SHERMAN COOPER

The Global Kentuckian

Robert Schulman

The story of the quiet country lawyer from rural Kentucky who became one of America's most influential international figures.

ISBN 0-8131-0220-0 / October

Kentucky Folk Architecture

William Lynwood Montell & Michael L. Morse

ISBN 0-8131-0230-8 / November

Kentucky's Age of Wood

Kenneth Clarke & Ira Kohn

ISBN 0-8131-0225-1 / Illustrations November

Religion in Antebellum Kentucky

John B. Boles

ISBN 0-8131-0227-8 / October

THE KENTUCKY THOROUGHBRED

Kent Hollingsworth

A colorful account of the great horses and horsemen of the Bluegrass.

ISBN 0-8131-0210-3 / Color illustrations October

Kentucky Quilts & Their Makers

Mary Washington Clarke

ISBN 0-8131-1228-6 / Color illustrations November

George Rogers Clark & the War in the West

Lowell H. Harrison

ISBN 0-8131-0224-3 / Published

Kentucky & the Second American Revolution

The War of 1812

James W. Hammack, Jr.

ISBN 0-8131-0216-2 / Published

Proud Kentuckian

John C. Breckinridge, 1821-1875

Frank H. Heck

ISBN 0-8131-0217-0 / October

The County in Kentucky History

Robert M. Ireland

ISBN 0-8131-0229-4 / November

The Green River of Kentucky

Helen Bartter Crocker

ISBN 0-8131-0226-X / October

The University Press of Kentucky

Lexington, Kentucky 40506

ALFRED·A·KNOPF

August

THE LONGEST CAVE by Roger W. Brucker and Richard A. Watson. $12.95

THE QUESTION OF MAX, a novel by Amanda Cross. $6.95

THALASSA CRUSO'S THREE-YEAR GARDENING ALMANAC AND CALENDAR by Thalassa Cruso. $5.95

THE KAHLIL GIBRAN DIARY FOR 1977 by Kahlil Gibran. $5

September

THE TYGER VOYAGE by Richard Adams and Nicola Bayley. $6.95

LONG AFTER MIDNIGHT, stories by Ray Bradbury. $7.95

THE DHAMMAPADA: The Sayings of the Buddha, translated by Thomas Byrom, photographs by Sandra Weiner. $10; Vintage paperback $5.95

THE SUN CHEMIST, a novel by Lionel Davidson. $7.95

THE BOOK OF PHOTOGRAPHY by John Hedgecoe. $17.95

OF NEW YORK . . . by André Kertész. $22.50

THE WOMAN WARRIOR by Maxine Hong Kingston. $7.95

THE FAREWELL PARTY, a novel by Milan Kundera. $7.95

BABYHOOD by Penelope Leach. $10

ISLAM AND THE ARAB WORLD, edited by Bernard Lewis. $29.95 until Dec. 31st; $35 thereafter

LADY OTTOLINE'S ALBUM by Ottoline Morrell, edited by Carolyn G. Heilbrun. $12.50

THE TALE OF GENJI by Murasaki Shikibu, translated by Edward G. Seidensticker. Two volumes, boxed, $25

THE CAMERA OF MY FAMILY by Catherine Hanf Noren. $20

REFLECTIONS FROM THE NORTH COUNTRY by Sigurd F. Olson. $7.95

PRESERVATION HALL, a novel by Scott Spencer. $8.95

ALONE OF ALL HER SEX: The Myth and the Cult of the Virgin Mary by Marina Warner. $15

October

THE UNRETOUCHED WOMAN by Eve Arnold. $20; paper $9.95

THE VIRGIN DIPLOMATS by Elmer Bendiner. $10

A CHORUS LINE, conceived by Michael Bennett; book by James Kirkwood and Nicholas Dante; lyrics by Edward Kleban. $6.95

HAL BORLAND'S BOOK OF DAYS by Hal Borland. $10

TWO CENTURIES OF BLACK AMERICAN ART by David Driskell. $15; paper $7.95

CARING by Willard Gaylin. $7.95

PHOTOGRAPHS by Emmet Gowin. $17.50; paper $8.95

THE ART OF MAKING SAUSAGES, PÂTÉS, AND OTHER CHARCUTERIE by Jane Grigson. Paper $4.95

HOW IT WAS by Mary Welsh Hemingway. $12.50

THE WORLD OF CHEESE by Evan Jones. $12.50

WONDERS OF THE STEREOSCOPE by John Jones. With stereographs and viewer. Boxed, $25

DISTORTIONS by André Kertész. $22.50

A VERY YOUNG DANCER by Jill Krementz. $8.95

THE RICH ARE WITH YOU ALWAYS, a novel by Malcolm Macdonald. $10

JOAN McELROY'S DOLLS' HOUSE FURNITURE BOOK by Joan McElroy. $15

FISHES OF THE WORLD by Edward Migdalski and George S. Fichter, illustrations by Norman Weaver. A Vineyard Book. $25

ON THE WAY TO SELF KNOWLEDGE: Sacred Tradition and Psychotherapy, edited by Jacob Needleman and Dennis Lewis. $8.95; paper $3.95

NEW LIVES: Survivors of the Holocaust Living in America by Dorothy Rabinowitz. $8.95

PROLONGEVITY by Albert Rosenfeld. $8.95

A HISTORY OF ISRAEL by Howard M. Sachar. $20

THE WORLDS OF ERNEST THOMPSON SETON, edited by John G. Samson. $25

COMMON LIFE by Fons van Woerkom. Paper $4.95

THE ARCHITECTURE BOOK by Norval White. $15; paper $8.95

MELBOURNE by Philip Ziegler. $12.95

November

BARYSHNIKOV AT WORK by Mikhail Baryshnikov, photographs by Martha Swope. $17.50

YOUTHFUL WRITINGS (Cahiers II) by Albert Camus. $8.95

THE OLYMPIAN CARS by Richard Burns Carson. $25

AN EARLY VICTORIAN ALBUM, edited by Colin Ford and Roy Strong. $35

A CERTAIN MAN, a novel by Zane Kotker. $8.95

REMEMBERED LAUGHTER: The Life of Noel Coward by Cole Lesley. $12.95

LINDA'S PICTURES by Linda McCartney. $25

POCAHONTAS by Frances Mossiker. $12.95

A SHORT HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES (Sixth Edition) by Allan Nevins and Henry Steele Commager. $15

MARRY ME, a novel by John Updike. $7.95; boxed, signed, limited edition, $25

December

THE SONGS OF BOB DYLAN: 1966 through 1975 by Bob Dylan. Boxed, spiral bound, $19.95

OCTOBER LIGHT, a novel by John Gardner. $10

January

THE LEGACY OF MALTHUS: The Social Costs of the New Scientific Racism by Allan Chase. $17.95

DEBUSSY ON MUSIC by Claude Debussy, edited by Richard Langham Smith. $12.50

THE BOARDWALK, a novel by Robert Kotlowitz. $8.95

PLUS, a novel by Joseph McElroy. $8.95; paper $3.95

EXODUSTERS by Nell Irvin Painter. $12.95

THE FALL OF PUBLIC MAN by Richard Sennett. $15

SOUVENIRS AND PROPHECIES: The Young Wallace Stevens by Holly Stevens. $12.50

KODANSHA INTERNATIONAL

Distributed by Kodansha International/USA, Ltd., through Harper & Row, Publishers, Inc., 10 East 53 Street, New York, N. Y. 10022

September (previously announced)

Dialogue In Art: Japan and the West Edited by Chisaburoh F. Yamada
Scholars, critics, and artists consider mutual influences between Japanese and Western arts in the last hundred years. Copiously illustrated. 324 pages; 36 color, 76 b/w pages; 11 5/8" x 11 5/8"; $45.00

Enku: Master Carver Grisha Dotzenko
Introduction to the roughhewed cedar sculpture of the seventeenth-century Buddhist itinerant priest. 156 pages; 8 color, 94 b/w pages; 8 5/8" x 11 7/8"; $25.00

The Marvelous World of Music Machines Heinrich Weiss-Stauffacher
A connoisseur's volume on the mechanical musical instruments and figurines of Europe, with technical notes. 220 pages; 300 color plates; appendixes; 8¼" x 10 7/8"; $75.00

October

This Land of Europe Photographs by Dennis Stock
A photo-essay on the abiding grandeur of European land, introduced by historian H.R. Trevor-Roper, with commentary by six prominent Europeans, including naturalist Konrad Lorenz. 128 pages; 60 color pages; 11¼" x 11¼"; $25.00

Great Drawings of All Time, 4 vols. Edited by Ira Moskowitz
Re-issue of the acclaimed collection of over 1,100 drawings by the master artists of Europe, America, and the Near and Far East. Reproduced in the original colors. 2,250 pages in 4 volumes, each 10¼" x 13¾"; boxed; $375.00

A Dark Night's Passing Naoya Shiga, translated by Edwin McClellan
A Japanese classic — a compelling novel written in the 1920's and one that is most representative of the movement to introduce Western approaches into Japanese arts. 408 pages; $15.00

November

Thai Painting Jean Boisselier
The first book to illustrate and describe the richness and delicacy of Thai painting and design motifs. 270 pages; 40 color, 120 b/w illustrations; 70 drawings; 9 7/8" x 11¼"; $60.00

Michael Cardew Garth Clark
An intimate account of one of England's outstanding potters, a man who has captured the spirit of country craft. 212 pages; 24 color, 56 b/w pages; 7¼" x 10¼"; $25.00

Nepal Mokunda Arial, photographs by Jurgen Winkler
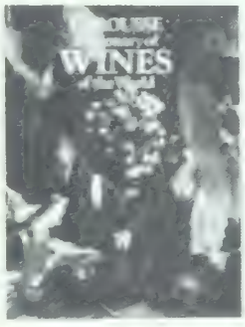
Photographic journey across the mountains and valleys of Nepal, showing ancient cities and present-day village life, with commentary by an expert from the University of Kathmandu. 208 pages; 40 color, 96 b/w pages; 9½" x 11¼"; $45.00

New Titles From Larousse



Larousse Dictionary of Wines of the World by Dr. Gérard Debuigne

For the ever-increasing number of wine-lovers, this comprehensive 272-page dictionary of the world's wines contains a wealth of information on all aspects of this fascinating subject. The alphabetical entries cover all the major wines and wine-producing areas, the various vinicultural processes. Every important wine is amply discussed. A list of the best wines of France is included at the end of the book, as well as a table of great vintage years. Extravagantly illustrated with beautiful color photographs, reproductions of wine labels and clearly drawn maps. Hardbound, $12.95 until 12/31/76, $14.95 thereafter, 8¼"x10½" ISBN 0-88332-044-4

Pro Football's Great Moments by Jack Clary

Veteran sportswriter Jack Clary covers the highlights from the postwar era, the most explosive in football history. From the 1945 championship game to the 1976 Super Bowl, Clary recounts the great games and plays and recalls the superstars in their finest performances. Sports Illustrated Book Club main selection. A Rutledge Book. Hardbound, $9.95 7"x10", ISBN 0-87469-001-3

The World of Rocks and Minerals by Anita Mason, Photo by Eric Storey

THE WORLD OF ROCKS AND MINERALS joins the successful series started by THE WORLD OF SHELLS, and caters to the growing number of collectors. Each of the 108 specimens illustrated is accompanied by notes on its chemical composition, hardness, specific gravity, color luster, common form, sources and cutting, information which is valuable to jewelry makers as well as collectors. Hardbound, $8.95, 8¾"x5⅝", ISBN 0-88332-031-2 • Paperback, $5.95, 8½"x5½", ISBN 0-88332-032-0

Asher & Adams Pictorial Album of American Industry: 1876

A charming—and authentic—view of America one hundred years ago. This reprint of the 1876 edition consists of more than a thousand engravings, depicting factories, farms, machines, transportation, people at work, and the many ingenious products designed to improve life in the home. The book displays the energy and inventiveness of Victorian America, and is a treasure trove of 19th century graphic art and design. All illustrations are copyright free and may be used for reproduction. A Rutledge Book. Large size paperback, $6.95, 11¼"x15¼", ISBN 0-87469-003-X

Larousse Craft Series

Cane and Rush Seating by Margery Brown

One of the most fascinating aspects of furniture finishing is seating. The author, an expert in the field, describes by way of extensive photographs and diagrams many unusual and interesting seating patterns using cane, rush, willow, seagrass and cord. Hardbound, $8.95, 10"x7½", ISBN 0-88332-049-5

Modeling with Self-Hardening Clay, by Gary Tong

Unlike other kinds of clay, self-hardening clay is inexpensive and does not need to be fired. Fifty projects are fully described with step-by-step directions, and a general section concerning tools, materials and basic techniques is included. This book is perfect for the beginner, and yet interesting enough for the more advanced as well. Hardbound, $8.95, 10"x7½", ISBN 0-88332-047-9 • Paperback, $5.95, 10"x7½", ISBN 0-88332-048-7

Everfoto 4 1976 Spanish Photographic Annual

by Artero Garcia, Perez Siquiter

An unusual book available in the United States only through Larousse, this is a composite of the best work done by Spanish photographers during the year. Approximately 200 pages of the most magnificent color and black and white photographs depict a wide range of subject and mood. Hardbound, $19.95, 9¼"x11¼", ISBN 0-88332-046-0

Larousse & Co., Inc is the sole authorized distributor in the United States of all Larousse publications and official distribution agents for Alianza Editorial. In addition, we distribute books of all French, Spanish, and Central and South American publishers. You can order any French or Spanish title from us. If not in stock, it will be special-ordered and air-mailed to the U.S.

Larousse & Co., Inc.
572 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10036 • Tel: 212-575-9515 Telex 12335

September

THE BARBOZA CREDENTIALS
A novel by Peter Driscoll, author of The Wilby Conspiracy. Detective Book Club.
ISBN 01145-8 $8.95

GETTING IT
The Psychology of est
Dr. Sheridan Fenwick.
ISBN 01170-9 $7.95

POTOMAC
The Nation's River
Frank Graham, Jr. 80 color photos by Edward Schell. ISBN 01139-3 $15.95

FLY TACKLE
A Guide to the Tools of the Trade
Harmon Henkin. Illustrated by Jeff Johnson. Index.
ISBN 01072-9 $9.95

THE BIRD, THE BANNER, AND UNCLE SAM
Images of America in Folk and Popular Art
Elinor Lander Horwitz. J. Roderick Moore, Consultant. By the author of Contemporary American Folk Artists. Photos in color and black-and-white.
ISBN 31690-9 Cloth $8.95
ISBN 31691-7 Paper $5.95

SIGNAL ZERO
George Kirkham. Book-of-the-Month Club Alternate.
ISBN 04128-8 $8.95

THE JOY OF RUNNING
Thaddeus Kostrubala, M.D. Graphs; charts; tables.
ISBN 01110-5 Cloth $8.95;
ISBN 01169-5 Paper $3.95

WHO WILL RAISE THE CHILDREN?
New Options for Fathers (and Mothers)
James A. Levine.
ISBN 01120-2 $8.95

LOVEY
A very special child
Mary MacCracken. Literary Guild Alternate, Christian Herald Family Bookshelf. Excerpted in McCall's.
ISBN 01129 $7.95

A PURPLE PLACE FOR DYING
A Travis McGee novel by John D. MacDonald. Detective Book Club.
ISBN 01166-0 $7.95

FIRST, YOU CRY
Betty Rollin. Literary Guild Alternate. Contempo Book Club Alternate. Excerpts to appear in Family Circle.
ISBN 01167-9 $7.95

AFTER THE GOLD RUSH
Archie Satterfield. Maps.
ISBN 01142-3 $8.95

October

PRISON OF ICE
A suspense novel by David Axton.
ISBN 01182-2 $8.95

EVENTING IN FOCUS
Jeremy J. Beale. Color and black-and-white photos by Alix Coleman; illus. ISBN 01114-8 $16.95

GREAT AUNT JANE'S COOK AND GARDEN BOOK
Jane Birchfield. Illus.; index.
ISBN 01176-8 $7.95

19 STEPS UP THE MOUNTAIN
The Story of the DeBolt Family
Joseph P. Blank. Reader's Digest Condensed Books. Photos.
ISBN 01155-5 $7.95

PLANTS FROM PLANTS
How to Grow New Houseplants for Next to Nothing
Written and illustrated by Suzanne Crayson. Index.
ISBN 01175-X Paper $5.95

HOMEFRONT
A novel by Winston M. Estes, author of Another Part of the House. Christian Herald Family Bookshelf. ISBN 01147-4 $10.00

THE AUDUBON WILDLIFE TREASURY
Edited by Les Line. 32 color photos; illus. by Chuck Ripper.
ISBN 01149-0 $15.95

POLONAISE
A novel by Piers Paul Read, author of Alive.
ISBN 01150-4 $10.00

THE AMA BOOK OF SKIN AND HAIR CARE
Edited by Linda Allen Schoen. Family Circle Book Service.
ISBN 01157-1 Cloth $8.95
ISBN 01158-X Paper $4.95

AN ENCYCLOPEDIA OF KNIVES
Norman Strung. Photos; illus.; index. Field and Stream Club Alternate. ISBN 01164-4 $12.50

THE BEST OF STILLMEADOW
A Treasury of Country Living
Gladys Taber. Edited and with an introduction by Constance Taber Colby. Illus. ISBN 01156-3 $8.95

WINTERIZE YOUR YARD AND GARDEN
George Taloumis. Photos in color and black-and-white by the author.
ISBN 01178-4 $9.95

THE SMELL BOOK
Scents, Sex, and Society
Ruth Winter. Diagrams; index.
ISBN 01163-6 $7.95

November

THE WORLD OF THE BAT
Charles E. Mohr. Photos; index.
ISBN 00800 $8.95

December

A STREAK OF LIGHT
A Shapiro and Cook mystery by Richard Lockridge. Mystery Guild.
ISBN 01177-6 $7.95

January

HOW TO BREAK 90 — CONSISTENTLY!
Frank Chinnock. Illustrated by Ed Vebell. ISBN 01118-0 $7.95

February

THE GLIDER GANG
An Eyewitness History of World War II Glider Combat Milton Dank. Flying Book Club.
Photos; maps; index.
ISBN 01161-X $10.95

SPORTS ILLUSTRATED BASEBALL: PITCHING
Pat Jordan. Photos; illus.
ISBN 01123-7 Cloth $4.95
ISBN 01122-9 Paper $1.95

THE STORY OF THE OLYMPIC GAMES
776 B.C. to 1976
John Kieran, Arthur Daley, and Pat Jordan. Photos; index.
ISBN 01168-7 $9.95

TO BE PRESERVED FOREVER
Lev Kopelev. Photos; index.
ISBN 01140-7 $12.50

SPORTS ILLUSTRATED TRACK: FIELD EVENTS
Bobbie Moore and Bill Bowerman. Photos; illus.
ISBN 01137-7 Cloth $4.95
ISBN 01136-9 Paper $1.95

Now in paperback

September

THE CHINESE COOKBOOK
Craig Claiborne and Virginia Lee. Illus. ISBN 01173-3 $5.95

THE APPALACHIAN TRAIL
The Wilderness on the Doorstep
Ann and Myron Sutton. Photos; maps. ISBN 01179-2 $3.95

February

THE GAME OF SINGLES IN TENNIS
Revised Edition
William F. Talbert and Bruce S. Old. Diagrams.
ISBN 01181-4 $4.95

THE GAME OF DOUBLES IN TENNIS
William F. Talbert and Bruce S. Old. Photos; diagrams.
ISBN 01180-6 $4.95

Lippincott's ISBN prefix is 0-397

Fall 1976
Lippincott

J.B. Lippincott Company, East Washington Square, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. 19105

(In Canada from McClelland and Stewart, Ltd. Prices slightly higher in Canada.)

The most radical ideas are old ideas.

Isn't it odd that radicalism is generally considered to be a modern invention, when in fact the most radical ideas have been around for ages?

Take the idea of liberty. Throughout history, the majority of mankind has been oppressed, regulated, and in many cases enslaved. Yet almost always some radical individualist has proclaimed the revolutionary notion of freedom. We find evidence of this as far back as in the clay tablets of Sumer, or in the Bible.

Consider this, too: Political liberty as we know it is a comparatively recent development. From the Pharaohs to Attila to Brezhnev, this world has been a world dominated by tyrants and tyrannies. People who glorify and wield the power of the monster State. The true radicals are those who oppose this Leviathan in all its forms—not its apologists, not those who merely want to substitute one tyranny for another.

Radical proponents of liberty today call themselves libertarians and they belong to one of the fastest growing intellectual movements to sweep the country in decades. And libertarians tend to be college-age or college-educated people eager to read about their philosophy, and daring enough to try old ideas. What's more, a growing number of people from across the political spectrum are becoming interested in the literature of liberty.

In order to help you serve these people, Liberty Fund, Inc.—a foundation established to encourage study of the ideal of a society of free and responsible individuals—is starting a book publishing program featuring two new imprints.

Liberty*Classics* are new editions of landmark books in the libertarian tradition, many of them out of print, all of them first published at least 50 years ago.

Liberty*Press* books focus on new scholarship and fresh observations on a wide range of economic, political and social issues.

In addition to dealing with broad questions of liberty, all Liberty*Press*/Liberty*Classics* books share another characteristic: quality workmanship.

This quality is reflected in design, typography, paper, covers and jackets, binding and endpapers. It is reflected, too, in details so often neglected in books today, details such as footnote references on the page of citation, running heads, headbands. Our design consultants have developed these fine books incorporating the best elements of classic design, modernized for today's readers.

If your patrons look for both quality in content and quality in workmanship, you won't want to be without these important new books. Call or write Liberty Fund today.

Liberty*Press*/Liberty*Classics* for a little old-fashioned radicalism.

David Franke

David Franke, Director

LibertyPress

Liberty*Press*/Liberty*Classics* Fall 1976

1776 was a year of momentous events, including publication of The Wealth of Nations—the book that launched the movement for economic liberty. Adam Smith: The Man and His Works, by E. G. West, is a brisk look at the author of that epic, written for the layman and student.

The Theory of Moral Sentiments, Adam Smith's first book, will startle those who think capitalists are purely selfish, for Smith fully understood that liberty must be based in a moral order. E. G. West writes the introduction to this beautiful new edition.

Adam Smith may have been the first great economist, but he was no dismal scientist. He was instead a man of great philosophical and historical learning, and his literary style was widely admired. The Wisdom of Adam Smith brings together his most incisive and eloquent observations on subjects ranging from political and economic history to morals, philosophy, art, education, war and the American colonies. Compiled by British scriptwriter and playwright John Haggarty, edited by Professors Ronald H. Coase and Benjamin A. Rogge, introduction by Rogge.

They Preached Liberty is a timely anthology of Colonial wisdom about liberty, its blessings and its obligations, culled from thoughts of 18th-century New England ministers. Perfect for Bicentennial Christmas stockings! Rev. Franklin P. Cole provides an introductory essay and biographical sketches of the ministers quoted.

The Bible has been regarded as the most important book in the world, yet today it has fallen into comparative neglect. For those intimidated by its length, we offer The Concise Bible, arranged by Frances Hazlitt. While only one-twelfth the size of the complete Bible, it introduces the reader to all 66 books, with the full text of the most famous passages from the King James version. "I shall make great use of it personally and am glad to commend it to all people who are interested in a greater knowledge of the Bible"—Norman Vincent Peale.

Economic Calculation Under Inflation has provocative advice for businessmen, government officials and individual consumers on how to make economic decisions when economic information is seriously, and continually, distorted by inflation.

Sir Henry Sumner Maine applied the findings of his seminal treatise, Ancient Law, to the subject of Popular Government. This edition includes his famous essay on "The Constitution of the United States," and an introduction by Professor George W. Carey of Georgetown University.

The Theory of Idle Resources, by W. H. Hutt, is a telling attack on Lord Keynes' concept of unemployment. First published in 1939, it is here revised and updated with a new introduction by the author.

¡Viva Vivas! proclaim the friends, colleagues and former students of philosopher Eliseo Vivas. Introduction by Henry Regnery, thoughtful essays by Hugh Kenner, Russell Kirk, Peter J. Stanlis, Stephen J. Tonsor and others.

Write or call for our catalog, discount schedule, and returns policy:
Liberty Fund, Inc.
7440B North Shadeland
Indianapolis, IN 46250
317/842-0880

Liberty*Press*

¡Viva Vivas! July, $7.95. ISBN 0-913966-08-8. LC 76-9432. 380 pages. Illustration. Bibliography.

Economic Calculation Under Inflation. September, $8.95. ISBN 0-913966-09-6. LC 76-9439. Tables. Figures. Appendices. Index.

They Preached Liberty. November. Hardcover $5.95, ISBN 0-913966-16-9. Paperback $1.25, ISBN 0-913966-20-7. LC 76-26327. Illustrations. Index to ministers.

Adam Smith: The Man and His Works. November. Hardcover $6.95, ISBN 0-913966-06-1. Paperback $1.45, ISBN 0-913966-07-X. LC 76-9436. Bibliography. Index.

The Wisdom of Adam Smith. December. Hardcover $7.95, ISBN 0-913966-21-5. Paperback $1.95, ISBN 0-913966-22-3. Illustrations. Index.

The Concise Bible. December. Hardcover $7.95, ISBN 0-913966-17-7. Paperback $1.95, ISBN 0-913966-18-5. LC 76-26330. Illustrations. Appendix. Bibliography. Index.

The Theory of Idle Resources. December, $8.95. ISBN 0-913966-19-3. LC 76-26326. Appendices. Addenda. Index.

Liberty*Classics*

The Theory of Moral Sentiments. November. Hardcover $9.95, ISBN 0-913966-12-6. Paperback $2.95, ISBN 0-913966-13-4. LC 76-9430. Index.

Popular Government. November. Hardcover $7.95, ISBN 0-913966-14-2. Paperback $1.95, ISBN 0-913966-15-0. LC 76-26329. Index.

LibertyClassics

A love she could never possess...
A legend she could never escape...

The Private Life of Mona Lisa

A novel by Pierre La Mure author of Moulin Rouge

"Historic fiction as it should be but seldom is . . . a rich re-creation of 15th century Italy."—Barbara A. Bannon, Publishers Weekly.

At last, the secrets of the enigmatic Madonna Lisa del Giocondo are revealed. "Pierre La Mure," Saturday Review once observed, "has the faculty of making history seem not only exciting but contemporary." In his latest novel, the stones of Florence echo to the footfalls of the Medici, Italians alternately laugh and tremble at the inept invasion of France's Charles VIII, the machinations of Savonarola and Cesare Borgia shape the politics of the beautiful city on the Arno, and Leonardo da Vinci immortalizes the enigmatic smile that has intrigued art lovers for centuries. The famed beauty and her star-crossed love come alive in a novel filled with pageantry and passion. "It glows like a Renaissance jewel."—Rosemary Hawley Jarman

A Book-of-the-Month Club Alternate
Illustrated, $8.95 at all bookstores

Little, Brown and Company

New from LONGMAN Fall '76

AFRICANA

AFRICAN STUDIES SINCE 1945: A Tribute to Basil Davidson edited by Christopher Fyfe
240 pp. abt. $13.50 ISBN 582-64207-8 cloth
abt. $6.75 ISBN 582-64208-6 paper
due December

ARCHAEOLOGY

PREHISTORIC MAORI FORTIFICATIONS IN THE NORTH ISLAND OF NEW ZEALAND by Aileen Fox
(Monograph No. 6 of the New Zealand Archaeological Association)
80 pp. illus. $12.50 ISBN 582-71746-9

BRITISH COUNCIL PUBLICATIONS

BRITISH SCIENTIFIC DOCUMENTATION SERVICES
104 pp. $6.00 ISBN 582-01262-7 paper

HIGHER EDUCATION IN THE UNITED KINGDOM 1976-1978: A Handbook for Students from Overseas and their Advisers
304 pp. $6.50 ISBN 582-01260-0 paper

BUSINESS & MANAGEMENT

FORECASTING FOR BUSINESS: Methods and Applications by Douglas Wood and Robert Fildes
(Longman Business Series)
352 pp. illus. abt. $17.00 ISBN 582-44059-9 paper
due October

GLOSSARY OF ENGLISH AND GERMAN MANAGEMENT TERMS by James Coveney
160 pp. abt. $3.00 ISBN 582-55525-6 paper
due October

THE PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICE OF MANAGEMENT, 3E edited by E.F.L. Brech
1080 pp. illus. $35.00 ISBN 582-45039-X LC# 73-88699

ECOLOGY/ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE

ANIMAL ECOLOGY IN TROPICAL AFRICA by Denis F. Owen
(Tropical Ecology Series)
152 pp. illus. abt. $18.50 ISBN 582-44363-6 cloth
abt. $9.75 ISBN 582-44362-8 paper
due November

ENVIRONMENTAL ECONOMICS by David W. Pearce
(Modern Economics Series)
200 pp. illus. $16.50 ISBN 582-44622-8 cloth
$7.95 ISBN 582-44623-6 paper

ECONOMICS

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT IN THE THIRD WORLD by Michael P. Todaro
400 pp. illus. abt. $13.50 ISBN 582-44628-7
due April 1977

THE WORLD FOOD CRISIS by Sayed A. Marei
135 pp. $9.50 ISBN 582-78068-3 LC# 76-4538

EDUCATION

THE LANGUAGE LABORATORY IN SCHOOL: Performance and Prediction edited by Peter S. Green 242 pp. illus. $16.50 ISBN 05-002870-7 LC# 75-23183

GEOGRAPHY

THE CLIMATE OF THE BRITISH ISLES edited by Tony J. Chandler and Stanley Gregory 328 pp. illus. abt. $19.50 ISBN 582-48558-4
due December

LAND OF THE ARABS by M. Abdel-Kader Hatem
320 pp. illus. abt. $40.00 ISBN 582-78037-3
due December

MOSI-OA-TUNYA: A Handbook to the Victoria Falls Region edited by D.W. Phillipson
232 pp. color illus. $17.50 ISBN 582-64167-5

PENINSULAR MALAYSIA, 2E by Ooi Jin-Bee
(Geographies for Advanced Study Series)
453 pp. illus. $19.50 ISBN 582-48185-6 LC# 75-42166

SCOTLAND AND OIL, 2E edited by A.M. Hutcheson & A. Hogg
127 pp. illus. $7.50 ISBN 05-002896-0 paper LC# 75-23036

SOILS IN THE BRITISH ISLES by L.F. Curtis, F.M. Courtney & S. Trudgill 264 pp. illus. abt. $22.50 ISBN 582-48555-X
due December

THE SULTANATE OF OMAN, A HERITAGE by Ann & Daryl Hill
168 pp. color illus. abt. $29.50 ISBN 582-78050-0 due February 1977

HISTORY

THE AGE OF PLUNDER: The England of Henry VIII 1500-1547 by W.G. Hoskins
(Social and Economic History of England Series)
224 pp. illus. abt. $14.50 ISBN 582-48273-9 cloth
abt. $7.00 ISBN 582-48544-4 paper
due December

THE EARLY MODERN TOWN edited by Peter Clark
304 pp. illus. abt. $14.50 ISBN 582-48404-9 cloth
abt. $6.50 ISBN 582-48405-7 paper
due January 1977

THE GENTRY: The Rise and Fall of a Ruling Class by G.E. Mingay
(Themes in British Social History Series)
296 pp. illus. abt. $17.00 ISBN 582-48402-2 cloth
abt. $9.50 ISBN 582-48403-0 paper
due December

LONGMAN ILLUSTRATED COMPANION TO WORLD HISTORY edited by Grant Uden
1024 pp. (2 vols.) color illus. $35.00 ISBN 582-20520-4

PEEL by Norman Gash
332 pp. illus. $17.50 ISBN 582-48083-3 LC# 75-25695

SLAVERY, ABOLITION AND EMANCIPATION: Black Slaves and the British Empire by M. Craton, J. Walvin & D. Wright
296 pp. illus. abt. $21.00 ISBN 582-48092-2 cloth
abt. $13.00 ISBN 582-48093-0 paper
due February 1977

LITERARY CRITICISM

ENGLISH VERSE 1300-1500 edited by John Burrow
(Longman Annotated Anthologies of English Verse)
424 pp. abt. $20.00 ISBN 582-48367-0 cloth
abt. $9.50 ISBN 582-48368-9 paper
due February 1977

THE NOVELS OF TOBIAS SMOLLETT by Paul-Gabriel Boucé (translated by Antonia White)
414 pp. $27.50 ISBN 582-50023-0 LC# 75-31687

A PREFACE TO DRYDEN by David Wykes
(Preface Books Series)
224 pp. illus. abt. $9.00 ISBN 582-35101-4 cloth
abt. $5.50 ISBN 582-35102-2 paper
due February 1977

A PREFACE TO HARDY by Merryn Williams
(Preface Books Series)
192 pp. illus. $9.00 ISBN 582-35113-8 cloth
LC# 75-28382 $5.50 ISBN 582-35114-6 paper

A PREFACE TO POPE by I.R.F. Gordon
(Preface Books Series)
208 pp. illus. $9.50 ISBN 582-31505-0 cloth
LC# 75-25572 $5.00 ISBN 582-31506-9 paper

POLITICAL SCIENCE

CHINA: The Impact of Revolution edited by Colin Mackerras
250 pp. illus. $14.50 ISBN 582-68685-7

THE UNITED ARAB EMIRATES, 2E by K.G. Fenelon
160 pp. illus. abt. $15.00 ISBN 582-78066-7
due October

RELIGION

THE MUSLIM MIND by Charis Waddy
221 pp. illus. $15.00 ISBN 582-78061-6 LC# 76-6522

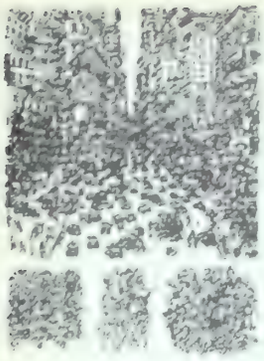
SOCIOLOGY

DEPENDENCE AND EXPLOITATION IN WORK AND MARRIAGE edited by Diana Leonard Barker & Sheila Allen
320 pp. abt. $17.50 ISBN 582-48673-4 cloth
abt. $7.95 ISBN 582-48674-2 paper
due December

THE FAMILY AND THE STATE: Considerations for Social Policy by Robert M. Moroney
160 pp. abt. $6.50 ISBN 582-48493-6 paper
due January 1977

URBAN SOCIAL SEGREGATION by G.C.K. Peach
452 pp. illus. $20.00 ISBN 582-48088-4 cloth
LC# 74-80434 $13.50 ISBN 582-48089-2 paper

Longman Inc. 212 354-3166
19 West 44th Street, New York, N.Y. 10036



America: the third century

Images of an Era:
The American Poster
1945-75
by the National Collection of Fine Arts, Smithsonian Institution

Images of an Era documents the art of the poster in America during one of its most productive periods. Taken together, these excellent reproductions of posters—in their vivid original colors—by artists, designers, and photographers represent a great array of stylistic expression and social-political content.
$29.95 hardcover
$17.95T paperback
now available

New Hardcover Books:

William Eggleston's Guide
Photographs by William Eggleston with an Essay by John Szarkowski
$12.50T, now available

The New Television:
A Public/Private Art
edited by Douglas Davis and Allison Simmons
$14.95Ta, November

Studies in Italian Renaissance Architecture
by Wolfgang Lotz
Introduction by James S. Ackerman
$14.95a, December

A Place Called Home:
A History of Low-Cost Housing in Manhattan
by Anthony Jackson
$17.50a, September

Planning the Fourth Migration:
The Neglected Vision of the Regional Planning Association of America
by Carl Sussman
$14.95a, November

Managing the Sense of a Region
by Kevin Lynch
$12.00a, October

Parable Beach:
A Primer in Coastal Zone Economics
by J. W. Devanney III, G. Ashe, and B. Parkhurst
$12.50, September

Federal Port Policy in the United States by Henry S. Marcus, James E. Short, John C. Kuypers, and Paul O. Roberts
$17.50, September

Airport Systems Planning
by Richard de Neufville
$14.95, September

Federal Policy and Library Support
by R. Kathleen Molz
$17.95, October

World Armaments and Disarmament:
SIPRI Yearbook 1976
by the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI)
$25.00, October

The History of German Resistance, 1933–1945
by Peter Hoffmann
$25.00T, November

The Discovery of the Third World
by Ignacy Sachs
$14.95a, October

Turkish Grammar
by Robert Underhill
$19.95, September

Reproduction and Human Welfare:
A Challenge to Research
A Review of the Reproductive Sciences and Contraceptive Development
Sponsored by the Ford Foundation
by Roy O. Greep, Marjorie A. Koblinsky, and Frederick S. Jaffe
$15.00a, December

Local Circuit Neurons
by Pasko Rakic
$8.95, September

On Systems Analysis:
An Essay Concerning the Limitations of Some Mathematical Methods in the Social, Political, and Biological Sciences
by David Berlinski
$15.00, September

Denotational Semantics:
The Scott-Strachey Approach to the Programming Language Theory
by Joseph Stoy
$25.00a, October

Finite-Element Method:
Basic Technique and Implementation
by Pin Tong and John N. Rossettos
$19.95, October

Energy and Social Change
by James O'Toole and The Center for Futures Research
$9.95Ta, October

Energy Demand Studies: Major Consuming Countries
Analysis of 1972 Demand and Projections of 1985 Demand
The First Technical Report of the Workshop on Alternative Energy Strategies, Carroll Wilson, Project Director
$20.00a, November

Heat Disposal in the Water Environment by Donald R. F. Harleman, Keith D. Stolzenbach, Gerhard H. Jirka, Patrick J. Ryan and E. Eric Adams
$19.95, October

Geothermal Energy as a Source of Electric Power:
Thermodynamic and Economic Design Criteria
by Stanley L. Milora and Jefferson W. Tester
$15.00, now available

Rapidly Quenched Metals
edited by Nicholas J. Grant and Bill C. Giessen
$19.95a, November

Aerodynamics of Base Combustion
edited by S.N.B. Murthy
J. R. Osborn, A.W. Barrows, and J.R. Ward, associate editors
Volume 40 of Progress in Astronautics and Aeronautics
$35.00, now available

Communications Satellite Developments: Systems
edited by Gilbert E. LaVean and William G. Schmidt Communications Satellite Developments: Technology
edited by William G. Schmidt and Gilbert E. LaVean Volumes 41 and 42, respectively, of Progress in Astronautics and Aeronautics $55.00, both volumes
$35.00 each
now available

Aeroacoustics
four volumes
edited by Ira R. Schwartz Henry T. Nagamatsu and Warren Strahle, assistant editors Volumes 43 through 46 of Progress in Astronautics and Aeronautics.
$65.00, four volumes
$20.00 each
now available

New Paperbacks:

Learning from Las Vegas:
The Forgotten Symbolism of Architectural Form
A Revised edition of Learning from Las Vegas
by Robert Venturi, Denise Scott Brown, and Steven Izenour
$9.95Ta, December

Cambridge Reconsidered
by S. B. Sutton
$4.50Ta, October

art
architecture
environmental studies
social issues
language science systems theory energy studies
technology

The MIT Press
Fall '76

Cities:
Comparisons of Form and Scale
by Richard Saul Wurman and students at the School of Design, North Carolina State University
$3.95T, September

What Time Is This Place?
by Kevin Lynch
$5.95T, September

The Car Culture
by James J. Flink
$4.95T, September

Abortion and the Sanctity of Human Life:
A Philosophical View
by Baruch Brody
$4.95T, September

Greek Mathematical Thought and the Origin of Algebra by Jacob Klein
$4.95T, September

Bicycling Science:
Ergonomics and Mechanics
by Frank Rowland Whitt and David Gordon Wilson
$4.95T, September

The Maze of Ingenuity:
Ideas and Idealism in the Development of Technology
by Arnold Pacey
$6.95Ta, October

DYNAMO User's Manual
Fifth edition
by Alexander L. Pugh, III
$6.95, now available

"T" indicates trade discount
"a" indicates estimated price

The MIT Press
Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Cambridge, Massachusetts
02142

McGRAW-HILL FALL 197

AUGUST

IT ALL WOULD HAVE STARTLED COLUMBUS
A Further Mangling of American History That Started with IT ALL STARTED WITH COLUMBUS
Richard Armour
Illustrated $6.95 ISBN 07-002272-0

GENGHIS KHAN
The Rise, Authority and Decline of Mongol Power
Peter Brent
Illustrated $15.95 ISBN 07-007650-2

YOUR LIFETIME HEALTH RECORDS BOOK
Eleanor Dunn
Illustrated $7.95 ISBN 07-018271-X

LEONARD COHEN
Michael Gnarowski
Illustrated
$8.95 (cloth) ISBN 07-082179-8
$4.95 (paper) ISBN 07-082180-1

BORN ON THE FOURTH OF JULY
Ron Kovic
$7.95 ISBN 07-035359-X

THE DREAMING SWIMMER
Elisabeth Ogilvie
$8.95 ISBN 07-047598-9

PAN AM'S USA GUIDE
Illustrated $5.95 ISBN 07-048423-6

PAN AM'S WORLD GUIDE
The Encyclopedia of Travel
Illustrated $6.95 ISBN 07-048424-4

SONS COME AND GO, MOTHERS HANG IN FOREVER
William Saroyan
$7.95 ISBN 07-054748-3

JEFFERSON
A Revealing Biography
Page Smith
Illustrated $12.50 ISBN 07-058461-3

FLEUR DE LYS
The Kings and Queens of France
Edited by Joy Law
Illustrated $19.95 ISBN 07-036695-0

SEPTEMBER

THE AMERICAN HERITAGE SOCIETY BICENTENNIAL SERIES DESK CALENDAR 1977
Editors of American Heritage
Illustrated $8.95 ISBN 07-001168-0

THE AUTOMOBILE
From Steam to Gasoline
Enzo Angelucci and Alberto Belluci
Illustrated $19.95 ISBN 07-001870-7

THE GRASS IS ALWAYS GREENER OVER THE SEPTIC TANK
Erma Bombeck
Illustrated $6.95 ISBN 07-006450-4

BEARD'S ROMAN WOMEN
A Novel
Anthony Burgess
Illustrated $8.95 ISBN 07-008960-4

THE WORLD'S SHELLS
A Guide for Collectors
S. Peter Dance
Illustrated $10.95 ISBN 07-015291-8

LIFE AFTER DEATH
Arnold Toynbee, et al.
$8.95 ISBN 07-065124-8

200 YEARS OF SPORT IN AMERICA
A Pageant of a Nation at Play
Wells Twombly
Illustrated $24.95 ISBN 07-065640-1

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF PRACTICAL GASTRONOMY
Ali-Bab
Illustrated $5.95 (paper) ISBN 07-001067-6

OCTOBER

THE MEAT BOARD MEAT BOOK
Barbara Bloch
Introduction by Julia Child
Illustrated
$10.00 (cloth) ISBN 07-005908-X
$5.95 (paper) ISBN 07-005909-8

HARRY BROWNE'S COMPLETE GUIDE TO SWISS BANKS
Harry Browne
$9.95 ISBN 07-008483-1

JUST COUNTRY
Country People, Country Stories, Country Music
Robert Cornfield with Marshall Fallwell
Introduction by Minnie Pearl
Illustrated
$12.95 (cloth) ISBN 07-013184-8
$7.95 (paper) ISBN 07-013178-3

AUTO REPAIR FOR DUMMIES
Deanna Sclar
Illustrated
$12.95 (cloth) ISBN 07-055870-1
$7.95 (paper) ISBN 07-055871-X

AMERICAN PRESIDENTS AND THE PRESIDENCY
Second Edition, Revised and Enlarged
Marcus Cunliffe
Illustrated $12.50 ISBN 07-014936-4

THE HEALERS
The Rise of the Medical Establishment
John Duffy
$12.50 ISBN 07-018020-2

JODY
Jerry Hulse
$6.95 ISBN 07-031147-1

TANGLEWOOD
Herbert Kupferberg
Illustrated $15.00 ISBN 07-035643-2

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF WORLD STAMPS 1945-1975
James A. Mackay
Illustrated $24.95 ISBN 07-044595-8

THE IMMORTALS
Derek and Julia Parker
Illustrated $19.95 ISBN 07-048493-7

THE GATES
Poems by Muriel Rukeyser
$7.95 (cloth) ISBN 07-054268-6
$3.95 (paper) ISBN 07-054269-4

THE LONG TRAIL
How Cowboys and Longhorns Opened the Midcontinent
Gardner Soule
The American Trails Series
Illustrated $10.95 ISBN 07-059765-0

1001 DESIGNS FOR WHITTLING AND WOODCARVING
E.J. Tangerman
Illustrated
$14.95 (cloth) ISBN 07-062648-0
$ 9.95 (paper) ISBN 07-062649-9

ELSINOR
Charles Webb
$7.95 ISBN 07-068803-6

NOVEMBER

THE BREAD OF THOSE EARLY YEARS
Heinrich Böll
$7.95 ISBN 07-006427-X

REVOLUTIONIZING FRENCH COOKING
Roy Andries de Groot
Illustrated $15.95 ISBN 07-016240-9

OF PURE BLOOD
Marc Hillel with Clarissa Henry
Illustrated $10.00 ISBN 07-028895-X

BETWEEN ACTS
An Irreverent Look at the World of Opera and Show Business
Robert Merrill with Robert Saffron
Illustrated $9.95 ISBN 07-041501-3

STOMPING THE BLUES
Albert Murray
Produced and art directed by Harris Lewine
Illustrated $12.95 ISBN 07-044074-3

THE COMPLETE ASIAN COOKBOOK
Charmaine Solomon
$15.95 ISBN 07-059636-0

POLAR VOYAGERS
Frank Rasky
Illustrated $17.95 ISBN 07-082405-3

MAKING CHANGES
A Practical Guide to Vernacular Harmony
Eric Salzman and Michael Sahl
$12.95 (cloth) ISBN 07-054489-1
$8.95 (paper) ISBN 07-054488-3

HORSES
A Working Tradition
David Street
Illustrated $19.95 ISBN 07-082283-2

WEEPING IN THE PLAYTIME OF OTHERS
America's Incarcerated Children
Kenneth Wooden
$3.95 (paper) ISBN 07-071643-9

JANUARY

DISSOLUTION
A Lawyer Looks at the Future of the American Wife
Riane Eisler
$8.95 (cloth) ISBN 07-019142-5
$3.95 (paper) ISBN 07-019150-6

ANOTHER WINTER, ANOTHER SPRING
Louise Lawrence
$8.95 ISBN 07-036722-1

THE U.S. MARINE CORPS STORY
J. Robert Moskin
Illustrated $15.00 ISBN 07-043453-0

*Previously announced

All prices and publication dates are subject to change

McGRAW-HILL BOOK COMPANY
1221 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10020

MACMILLAN

August

THE CALL TO SERIOUSNESS
The Evangelical Impact on the Victorians
Ian C. Bradley
51442 $12.95

CINNABAR
Science fiction by Edward Bryant
51800 $7.95

THE COMPLETE POCKET CALCULATOR HANDBOOK
Henry Mullish
58792 $9.95 hardcover; 08083 $3.95 paperback

EVERLASTING FLOWERS
Macmillan
Illustrated, 57830 $5.95

FRONTIERS OF SPACE
Revised Edition
Macmillan Color Series
Philip Bono and Kenneth Gatland
Illustrated, 54281 $6.95

THE HOMESTEADING RECIPE BOOK
Patricia Crawford
52878 $8.95 hardcover; 00940 $3.95 paperback

"HOW LONG WILL I LIVE?"
And 434 Other Questions Your Doctor Doesn't Have Time to Answer and You Can't Afford to Ask
Lawrence Galton
54239 $9.95

MANNED SPACECRAFT
Second Revised Edition
Macmillan Color Series
Kenneth Gatland
Illustrated, 54282 $6.95

THINGS TO DO IN A DAY
Macmillan
Illustrated
57824 $8.95 hardcover; 01187 $5.95 paperback

September

BEYOND THE PRESIDENCY
The Residues of Power
Marie B. Hecht
55019 $15.95

THE BOOK OF HOPE
How Women Can Overcome Depression
Helen DeRosis, M.D., and Victoria Y. Pellegrino
53104 $9.95

CAMPAIGN MONEY
Reform and Reality in the States
Edited by Herbert E. Alexander, with a Foreword by John Gardner and an Epilogue by David S. Broder
90041 $10.95 hardcover; 90042 $2.95 paperback

CESARE BORGIA
Sarah Bradford
51440 $10.95

THE CRITICS
Lehman Engel
53606 $14.95

THE HEART IS HALF A PROPHET
A novel by Ruth Tessler Goldstein
54459 $8.95

THE HITE REPORT
A Nationwide Study Of Female Sexuality
Shere Hite
55185 $12.50

INTERIOR DECORATING WITH PLANTS
Carla Wallach
Illustrated
62314 $14.95 hardcover; 01200 $8.95 paperback

MACMILLAN DICTIONARY FOR CHILDREN
Revised Edition
Illustrated, 54758 $10.95

MARGARET MITCHELL'S "GONE WITH THE WIND" LETTERS: 1936-1949
Edited by Richard Harwell
54865 $12.95

OPAL
by Opal Whiteley
Arranged and adapted by Jane Boulton
51397 $6.95

THE POLITICS OF ADOPTION
Mary Kathleen Benet
90250 $8.95

October

AND IT CAME TO PASS — NOT TO STAY
R. Buckminster Fuller
54181 $6.95

A BOOK FOR GRANDMOTHERS
Ruth Goode
54462 $7.95

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF COMIC BOOK HEROES: VOLUME 2, WONDER WOMAN
Michael L. Fleisher
Illustrated
53871 $14.95 hardcover; 08008 $7.95 paperback

FIREWEEDS
Poems
Theodore Weiss
62575 $9.95 hardcover; 07100 $5.95 paperback

5000 QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT MAINTAINING, REPAIRING, AND IMPROVING YOUR HOME
Stanley Schuler
60739 $15.95 hardcover; 08184 $9.95 paperback

FURNITURE IN 24 HOURS
Spiros Zakas
Illustrated
63339 $10.95 hardcover; 08290 $6.95 paperback

GOOD BREAD
Barbara Joan Hansen
54786 $9.95

I'M RADCLIFFE! FLY ME!
The Seven Sisters and the Failure of Women's Education
Liva Baker
50631 $9.95

JAY J. ARMES — INVESTIGATOR
Jay J. Armes as told to Frederick Nolan
50320 $8.95

LANDED GENTLY
Alan Hunter
55758 $6.95

LOVE FOR COOKING
Uta Hagen
54738 $10.95

MYRA WALDO'S TRAVEL GUIDE TO SOUTH AMERICA
Revised and Updated
Myra Waldo
62241 $12.95 hardcover; 09869 $8.95 paperback

PLANET EARTH IN COLOR
Macmillan Color Series
Peter Lancaster Brown
Illustrated, 56771 $6.95

PRISONERS OF PROGRESS: THE AMERICAN INDUSTRIAL CITY: 1850-1920
Maury Klein and Harvey A. Kantor
Illustrated, 56388 $13.95

SEA MAMMALS AND REPTILES OF THE PACIFIC COAST
Vinson Brown
Illustrated
51731 $10.95 hardcover; 06228 $6.95 paperback

SPACE SCIENCE AND ASTRONOMY
Escape from Earth
Edited by Thornton Page and Lou Williams Page
Illustrated, 59431 $13.95

TITTERS
The First Collection of Humor by Women
Edited by Deanne Stillman and Anne Beatts
61468 $14.95 hardcover; 04070 $7.95 paperback

VOICES OF AMERICA
The Nation's Story in Slogans, Sayings, and Songs
Thomas A. Bailey
Illustrated, 90126 $12.95

WALLPAPER
Brenda Greysmith
Illustrated, 54561 $27.50

WHY THEY GIVE
American Jews and Their Philanthropies
Milton Goldin
54456 $10.95

November

YEATS
Frank Tuohy
Illustrated, 62045 $19.95

AIRBORNE
A Sentimental Journey
William F. Buckley, Jr.
51804 $12.95

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES
A Journalist's Memoirs
Richard H. Rovere
60540 $10.95

BOULEZ
Joan Peyser
87170 $12.95

A CENTURY OF CHAMPIONS
The Associated Press Sports Staff
Illustrated, 50391 $12.95

CONSUMER COMPLAINT GUIDE 1977
Joseph Rosenbloom
69699 $10.95 hardcover; 69700 $4.95 paperback

CONSUMER PROTECTION GUIDE
69750 $10.95 hardcover; 46804 $4.95 paperback

DESIGNING FOR NEEDLEPOINT AND EMBROIDERY FROM ANCIENT AND PRIMITIVE SOURCES
Jan Messent
Illustrated, 58443 $14.95

THE ECONOMICS OF BEING A WOMAN
Dee Dee Ahern with Betsy Bliss
50061 $8.95

THE ELECTRIC WISHING WELL
The Solution to the Energy Crisis
Joseph J. DiCerto
53132 $12.95

ERIK H. ERIKSON
The Power and Limits of a Vision
Paul Roazen
92645 $8.95

EXPERT OBEDIENCE TRAINING FOR DOGS
Second Revised Edition
Winifred G. Strickland
Illustrated, 61502 $12.95

THE HISTORY OF WESTERN MUSIC
Christopher Headington
Illustrated
87109 $10.95 hardcover; 87108 $7.95 paperback

HORTUS THIRD
A Dictionary of Plants Cultivated in the United States and Canada
Compiled by the Staff of the L. H. Bailey Hortorium, Cornell University
Illustrated, 50547 $99.50

THE INNER WORLD OF THE MIDDLE-AGED MAN
Peter Chew
52500 $8.95

THE LAST DAYS OF IMPERIAL RUSSIA
1910-1917
Miriam L. Kochan
Illustrated, 56490 $15.95

Continued...

MACMILLAN

THE MARGARET BOYLES BARGELLO WORKBOOK
A Collection of Original Designs
Margaret Boyles
Illustrated, 51433 $16.95

MIDNIGHT BABY
An Autobiography
Dory Previn
59900 $8.95

MOZART
The Man • The Musician
Arthur Hutchings
Illustrated, 87114 $35.00

NEW IDEAS IN EMBROIDERY
Lis Paludan
Illustrated, 59466 $8.95

SEGOVIA
An Autobiography of the Years, 1893-1920
Volume I
60908 $10.95

THE SUPER SLEUTHS
The World's Greatest Real-Life Detectives and Their Toughest Cases.
Bruce Henderson and Sam Summerlin
55095 $8.95

TALKING WITH A CHILD
James D. White
62 65 7 $8.95

VICTORIAN JEWELRY
Nancy Armstrong
Illustrated, 50322 $19.95

WHITE COAT, CLENCHED FIST
The Political Education of an American Physician
Fitzhugh Mullan, M.D.
58791 $9.95

December

JOHN COLTRANE
Bill Cole
Illustrated, 87066 $12.95

January

ROOSEVELT'S REVOLUTION
The First Year
Rexford G. Tugwell
62037 $14.95

WRITERS IN LOVE
Katherine Mansfield, George Eliot, Colette
Mary Kathleen Benet
50890 $8.95

GENERAL PAPERBACKS

August

JANE'S POCKET BOOK OF NAVAL ARMAMENT
Edited by Denis Archer
Illustrated, 08044 $5.95

POPULAR EXOTIC CACTI IN COLOR
Edgar and Brian Lamb
Illustrated, 06334 $6.95

September

Books by Pulitzer Prize-winning author ERNEST BECKER now available in paperback.

ESCAPE FROM EVIL
90234 $2.95

THE DENIAL OF DEATH
90231 $2.95

THE STRUCTURE OF EVIL
90229 $2.95

ANGEL IN ARMOR
90228 $2.95

THE REVOLUTION IN PSYCHIATRY
90213 $2.95

THE BIRTH AND DEATH OF MEANING
Second Edition
90219 $3.45

THE PROFESSIONAL FENCE
Carl B. Klockars
Foreword by Marvin Wolfgang
91782 $3.95

October

AMERICAN CREWELWORK
Mary Taylor Landon and Susan Burrows Swan
Illustrated, 01173 $5.95

JANE'S POCKET BOOK OF AIRSHIPS
Edited by Lord Ventry and Eugene Kolesnik
08033 $5.95

Macmillan's New Craft Series — Illustrated

POTTERY
01181 $5.95

WOODWORK
01184 $5.95

EMBROIDERY
01182 $5.95

TIE-DYE, BATIK AND CANDLEMAKING
01179 $5.95

THE POTENT IMAGE
Art in the Western World from Cave Paintings to the 1970s
Frederick S. Wight
00097 $9.95

201 HOUSEPLANTS IN COLOR
Rob Herwig
Illustrated, 06305 $4.95

November

BERLITZ TRAVEL GUIDE TO THE CANARY ISLANDS
96906 $2.95

BERLITZ TRAVEL GUIDE TO LENINGRAD
96930 $2.95

December

SOLO GUITAR PLAYING
Book I, Second Edition
Frederick M. Noad
Illustrated, 87168 $5.95

FALL 1976

866 Third Avenue
New York, New York 10022

Publisher's prices are subject to change without notice. Any sources other tha the publisher are free to set their own prices.

MASON/CHARTER ANNOUNCES FOR THIS FALL...

THE NEEDLE a novel by Francis King
September/Fiction/0-88405-358-X/228 Pages/$7.95

THE JEANETTE MACDONALD STORY by James Robert Parish
September/Nonfiction/0-88405-360-1/181 Pages/49 Illus./$10.00

STILL MORE ADVENTURES by Robert F. Marx
September/Nonfiction/0-88405-359-8/272 Pages/Illus./$9.95

THE WORLD OF PELÉ by Joe Marcus
September/Nonfiction/0-88405-366-0/224 Pages/23 Illus./$8.95

HAMILTON II: 1789-1804 by Robert Hendrickson
September/Nonfiction/0-88405-356-3/638 Pages/Illus./Index/$19.95

THE TWO OF US by Tony Martin & Cyd Charisse, as told to Dick Kleiner
October/Nonfiction/0-88405-363-6/320 Pages/36 Illus./$12.50

THE SEARCH FOR THE GOLD OF TUTANKHAMEN by Arnold C. Brackman
October/Nonfiction/0-88405-364-4/208 Pages/Index/Notes/$8.95

THE CLAIRVOYANT by Hans Holzer
October/Nonfiction/0-88405-370-9/180 Pages/$8.95

A ROMAN SCANDAL a novel by Susanne Kircher
October/Fiction/0-88405-362-8/320 Pages/$8.95

OLDIES BUT GOODIES: The Rock & Roll Years
by Stewart Goldstein & Allan Jacobson • October/Nonfiction/320 Pages/
Illus./Index/0-88405-365-2/$8.95/Cloth/0-88405-431-4/$4.95/Paper

THE PREDATOR a novel by Denis Pitts
November/Fiction/0-88405-357-1/216 Pages/$8.95

JUDGMENT: A Case of Medical Malpractice by Gail Kessler
November/Nonfiction/0-88405-371-7/168 Pages/$7.95

THE EAT-TO-LOSE COOKBOOK: How to Be Deliciously Filled–But Not Fattened by Ceil Dyer • November/Nonfiction/0-88405-361-X/160 Pages/Index/$7.95

THE CALIFORNIA GOLD RUSH by Gordon V. Axon
November/Nonfiction/0-88405-367-9/144 Pages/Illus./Index/$6.95

CROCHET by the editors of the Ladies' Home Journal
November/Nonfiction/128 Pages/Illus./0-88405-369-5/$12.50/Cloth/0-88405-395-4/$7.95/Paper

TRAFALGAR by John Terraine
November/Nonfiction/0-88405-387-3/102 Illus./Apendix/Index/230 Pages/$17.50

HORSES AND THEIR WORLD by Daphne Goodall
December/Nonfiction/0-88405-374-1/170 Pages/150 Illus./$10.00

THE KILLING FLOOR a novel by Arthur Lyons
December/Fiction/0-88405-372-5/224 Pages/$7.95

BASKETBALL BY THE PROS by Gloria & Jim Cummins
December/Nonfiction/128 Pages/80 Photographs/
0-88405-368-7/$12.50/Cloth/0-88405-397-0/$7.95/Paper

BOWLING by Patty Costello, with Alfred Glossbrenner
December/Nonfiction/0-88405-375-X/144 Pages/50 Illus./Glossary/$6.95

A MOST ROMANTIC CITY by Mary Ann Gibbs
December/Fiction/0-88405-376-8/184 Pages/$7.95

THE NEON PREACHER a novel by Robert Chambers
January/Fiction/0-88405-373-3/188 Pages/$6.95

THE AMERICAN TRADITION: A Gallery of Rogues by John Greenway
January/Nonfiction/0-88405-379-2/224 Pages/$8.95

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS: A Primer on Management Consultants
by Howard J. Klein • January/Nonfiction/0-88405-377-6/224 Pages/$8.95

THE VICTORY PRINCIPLE: How to Edge Your Way into Success
by Auren Uris & Jack Tarrant • January/Nonfiction/0-88405-388-1/128 Pages/$7.95

UNPITIED AND UNKNOWN: The Katyn Forest Massacre
by Louis Fitzgibbon • January/Nonfiction/0-88405-389-X/
496 Pages/48 Illus./Appendices/Bibliography/Index/$12.95

BASEBALL by Ed Kranepool, with Ed Kirkman of the New York News
February/Nonfiction/0-88405-384-9/128 Pages/45 Illus./Index/$6.95

A WOMAN'S STORY a novel by Brian Dyer
February/Fiction/0-88405-380-6/192 Pages/$7.95

HOW TO GROW VEGETABLES AND HERBS FROM SEEDS
by Elvin McDonald • February/Nonfiction/192 Pages/50 Photographs/
0-88405-381-4/ $8.95/Cloth/0-88405-403-9/$4.95/Paper

THE VEGETABLE GARDENER'S ANSWER BOOK by Bill Mulligan
February/Nonfiction/192 Pages/50 Photographs/
0-88405-382-2/ $8.95/Cloth/0-88405-405-5/$4.95/Paper

FOOD POWER FROM THE SEA: The Seaweed Story
by Lee Fryer & Dick Simmons • February/Nonfiction/224 Pages/Illus./
Appendices/0-88405-383-0/$8.95/Cloth/0-88405-404-7/$4.95/Paper

HOW TO GROW HOUSE PLANTS FROM SEEDS by Elvin McDonald
February/Nonfiction/0-88405-400-4/189 Pages/54 Illus./$4.95/Paper

MASON / CHARTER
641 LEXINGTON AVE., NEW YORK, N.Y. 10022

NEBRASKA—
Fall/Winter '76

Publisher's ISBN prefix: 0-8032-

July IN STOCK

ONE DAY. Wright Morris. In this novel an infant is found in the adoption basket at a California animal pound on the day that President Kennedy is assassinated. Cl (0879-0) $13.95/Bison Book Pa (5841-0) $4.95

O-KEE-PA: A Religious Ceremony and Other Customs of the Mandans. George C. Catlin. John C. Ewers, ed. Ethnographic and historical classic. Folium Reservatum contains explicit sexual material. Bison Book Pa (5845-3) $7.95

MY PEOPLE THE SIOUX. Luther Standing Bear. E.A. Brininstool, ed. Intro. by Richard N. Ellis. Cl (0874-x) $11.95

PAWNEE HERO STORIES AND FOLK-TALES. George Bird Grinnell. Cl (0896-0) $14.95

MEMOIRS OF A WHITE CROW INDIAN. Thomas H. Leforge as told by Thomas B. Marquis. Cl (0885-5) $14.95

DAKOTA COWBOY: My Life in the Old Days. Ike Blasingame. Cl (0906-1) $12.95

THE ALAMO. John Myers Myers. Cl (0884-7) $10.95

JOURNAL OF A TRAPPER. Osborne Russell. Cl (0897-9) $9.50

THE BEGGAR'S OPERA. John Gay. Edgar V. Roberts, ed. Reissue Cl (0362-4) $11.50

RUSSIAN FORMALIST CRITICISM: Four Essays. Lee T. Lemon and M. J. Reis, trs. Reissue Cl (0460-4) $8.50

THE CONSCIOUS LOVERS. Richard Steele. Shirley Strum Kenny, ed. Reissue Cl (0369-1) $8.95 Reissue Bison Book Pa (5369-9) $2.25

ICE-CORE DRILLING. John F. Splettstoesser, ed. Pa (5843-7) $7.95

August

SIX YEARS WITH THE TEXAS RANGERS, 1875 to 1881. James B. Gillett. Cl (0889-8) $11.95 Bison Book Pa (5844-5) $ 3.95

AMERICAN INDIAN POLICY IN THE JACKSONIAN ERA. Ronald N. Satz. Bison Book Pa (5848-8) $4.25

September

THE BIRD DECOY: An American Art Form. Paul A. Johnsgard, ed. The most comprehensive catalog of bird decoys ever published, this will be invaluable not only to collectors and carvers but to those interested in folk art or antiques in general. Essays by guest contributors and the editor consider the history and technique of decoy carving. 338 decoys are pictured (7 in color) and described. Cl (0887-1) $17.95

NEBRASKA SYMPOSIUM ON MOTIVATION, 1975: Conceptual Foundations of Psychology. James K. Cole and William J. Arnold, eds. Cl (0618-6) $22.50t/Pa (5624-8) $11.95t

CORN AMONG THE INDIANS OF THE UPPER MISSOURI. George F. Will and George E. Hyde. Cl (0892-8) $14.50 Reissue Bison Book Pa (5846-1) $ 3.95

October

INDIAN PEACE MEDALS IN AMERICAN HISTORY. Francis Paul Prucha. Traces use of the medals in diplomacy, describes design and manufacture, and shows each medal in obverse and reverse. Cl (0890-1) $15.00

WILLA CATHER LIVING: A Personal Record. Edith Lewis. Bison Book Pa (5849-6) $2.95

APRIL TWILIGHTS (1903): Revised Edition. Willa Cather. Bernice Slote, ed. Bison Book Pa (5851-8) $2.25

THE SAGA OF TRISTRAM AND ÍSÖNDE. Paul Schach, tr. Bison Book Pa (5847-x) $2.25

SON OF THE GAMBLIN' MAN: The Youth of an Artist. Mari Sandoz. Novel based on the life of Robert Henri Cl (0895-2) $14.95t Bison Book Pa (5833-x) $ 3.95t

HOSTILES AND FRIENDLIES: Selected Short Writings of Mari Sandoz. Mari Sandoz. Landmark Edition Cl (0161-3) $13.50

McALMON AND THE LOST GENERATION: A Self-Portrait. Robert E. Knoll, ed. Landmark Edition Cl (0225-3) $19.95

ROMANTIC BARDS AND BRITISH REVIEWERS: A Selected Edition of Contemporary Reviews of the Works of Wordsworth, Coleridge, Byron, Keats and Shelley. John O. Hayden, ed. Landmark Edition Cl (0773-5) $22.50

THE WARRIOR WHO KILLED CUSTER: The Personal Narrative of Chief Joseph White Bull. James H. Howard, ed. & tr. Landmark Edition Cl (0080-3) $13.95

THE CLIMATE OF THE GREAT AMERICAN DESERT: Reconstruction of the Climate of Western Interior United States, 1800-1850. Merlin P. Lawson. Landmark Edition Cl (0226-1) $9.95

November

RAFFLES: The Amateur Cracksman. Ernest William Hornung. The 8 original Raffles stories "which gave a gentlemanly crook to the world and a new word to the language."—New York Times. Bison Book Pa (5836-4) $3.25t

BURLINGTON ROUTE: A History of the Burlington Lines. Richard C. Overton. First time in paper. Bison Book Pa (5853-4) $8.95t

THE STORY OF THE WESTERN RAILROADS: From 1852 through the Reign of the Giants. Robert Edgar Riegel. Cl (0903-7) $14.95t Reissue Bison Book Pa (5159-9) $ 3.95t

OROONOKO. Thomas Southerne. Maximillian E. Novak and David Stuart Rodes, eds. Regents Restoration Drama Series. Cl (0385-3) $9.95t

December

THE COUNTRY WAIF (François le Champi). George Sand. Intro. by Dorothy Wynne Zimmerman. Sand's masterpiece about an orphan and the miller's wife who befriends him. Cl (0888-x) TBA/Bison Book Pa (5850-x) TBA

WALPOLE AND THE WITS: The Relation of Politics to Literature, 1722-1742. Bertrand A. Goldgar. Cl (0893-6) $14.95t

AGRICULTURAL ATLAS OF NEBRASKA. James H. Williams and Doug Murfield, eds. Merlin P. Lawson, project director. Volume I of the Nebraska Atlas Project, this lavishly illustrated book is designed to provide laymen with an understanding of the complex interrelationships between man and his environment. Cl (0894-4) TBA

Available in Canada from Burns and MacEachern, Ltd.

t=tentative price
TBA=price to be announced

University of Nebraska Press UNP
Lincoln 68588

Plumes and Meridians
Fall '76

TEACHING MONTESSORI IN THE HOME
The Pre-School Years
Elizabeth G. Hainstock. In paperback at last! The astonishingly successful handbook for parents who want to introduce self-reliance, creativity, and independence into their preschooler's life. "Highly recommended."—Library Journal. ℗ Z5128/$3.95

THE SAND ART BOOK
Suzie and Frank Green. Easy-to-follow instructions for mastering a stunning new craft that's taken the nation by storm. Thirty-five color and more than 500 black-and-white illustrations. ℗ A Plume Original. Z5129/$4.95

COUNTRY FURNITURE
Aldren A. Watson. This all-inclusive guide to the craftsman and his work will be an invaluable addition to the bookshelves of antique collectors, historians, cabinetmakers, designers and all who cherish America's traditional handicrafts. "Excellent."—The New York Times. More than 300 delicate pencil drawings. 6½" x 9¼"
℗Z5130/$4.95

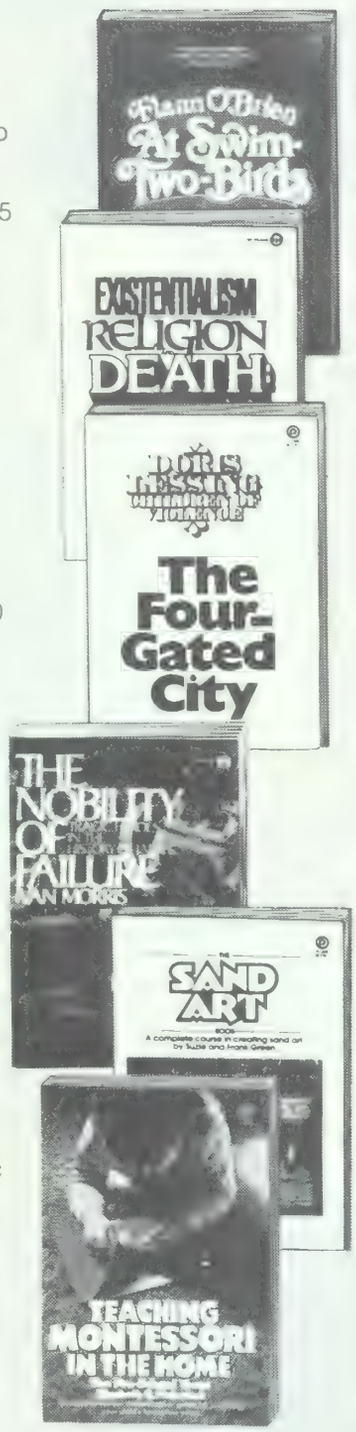
MAGIC
The Great Illusions Revealed and Explained
David H. Charney. Levitations, mind-reading, decapitation—awesome feats of magic become simple fare with this classic guide.
℗Z5131/$3.95

THE CHESS TUTOR
Elements of Combinations
Leslie H. Ault. Tactical solutions to the "middle game," with sophisticated variations, guaranteed to keep opponents backed against the wall.
℗Z5132/$4.95

AT SWIM-TWO-BIRDS
Flann O'Brien. The underground classic, first published in 1939. "Wild, fantastic, magnificently comic."—Graham Greene. "A fantastic, parodistic stew of drunken banter, journalese, pulp fiction, and Celtic myth."—John Updike. ℗Z5133/$3.95

THE THIRD POLICEMAN
Flann O'Brien. A realistic murder thriller that turns delightfully surreal in mid-stream. "The best comic writer I can think of."—S.J. Perelman
℗Z5134/$3.95

THE FOUR-GATED CITY
Doris Lessing. This fifth and last volume of the famed Children of Violence series finds Martha Quest on the brink of madness in the prosperous, plastic London of the 1960s. ℗Z5135/$5.95



THE NOBILITY OF FAILURE
Ivan Morris. The soul of the Japanese people as mirrored in the lives of nine courageous, doomed heroes of popular legend. "Panoramic...fascinating."—The New Republic. A powerful work of history and of vivid cultural revelation.
ⓜF447/$4.95

THE NEW ARCHAEOLOGY
David Wilson. The spectacular impact of scientific method on archaeological discovery. "This is what popular scientific writing can be: careful, lucid, and non-condescending."—Kirkus Reviews.
ⓜF448/$5.95

EXISTENTIALISM, RELIGION AND DEATH
Thirteen Essays
Walter Kaufmann. The undisputed authority on existential philosophy has created another landmark book to rank with his inspired Existentialism From Dostoevsky to Sartre.
ⓜ A Meridian Original. F449/$4.95

THE CRIME SOCIETY
Organized Crime and Corruption in America
Francis A.J. Ianni and Elizabeth Reuss-Ianni. Explosive articles by scholars, criminologists, journalists, and mafiosi on a subject of never-ending interest in America today.
ⓜ A Meridian Original. F450/$5.95

THE PROCESS OF CHILD DEVELOPMENT
Peter Neubauer, M.D. Seventeen respected authorities discuss crucial aspects of one of the most rapidly developing fields of human knowledge. ⓜ A Meridian Original. F451/$5.95

Frank Lloyd Wright
THE LIVING CITY
THE NATURAL HOUSE
THE FUTURE OF ARCHITECTURE
The master's three most famous works, reissued in stunning new trade paperback editions. ⓜF444; F445; F446; $3.95 each.

The best in trade paperbacks.

NAL
TIMES MIRROR

NEW AMERICAN LIBRARY/EDUCATIO
120 Woodbine Street, Bergenfield, New Jersey 07621

new from
THE NAVAL INSTITUTE PRESS

NIMITZ
By
E. B. Potter

Probably the most important work the Naval Institute Press has ever published, this authorized biography explores the character and personality of Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz. Throughout the pages are detailed descriptions of the events and strategy which led to American attacks in the Pacific during World War II. The book also reveals for the first time the Admiral's opinions of the men who waged the Pacific War: Halsey, Kimmel, King, Spruance, MacArthur, Forrestal, Roosevelt, and Truman.

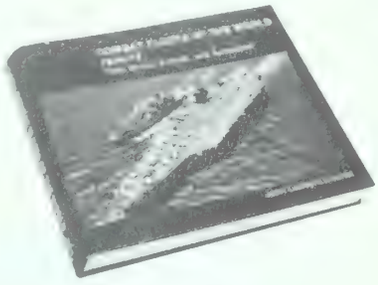
"This biography of Chester Nimitz is an absolute must for everyone interested in the Pacific War. For libraries, it is indispensable. Written in a lively style, it nevertheless has the ring of complete authority." Herman Wouk

Main Selection of the Military Book Club. National advertising and Promotion. October. 507 pages. Illustrated. Index. $16.95

THE SHIPS AND AIRCRAFT OF THE U.S. FLEET

Edited by James C. Fahey. For nearly 30 years, beginning in 1939, James C. Fahey described the naval instruments of the United States in a series of small, succinct, and thorough books, The Ships and Aircraft of the U.S. Fleet. Some of these books have now become important historically: that for 1939 because it shows the Fleet as it was on the eve of World War II; the victory edition of 1945 because it shows the Fleet at the height of its power and diversity at the moment the war was won. The books are identical to the originals, including the cover designs.

June. 48 pages. ('39 and '41 editions). 64 pages ('42 edition). 96 pages ('45 edition). Illustrated throughout. Soft binding. Slipcased. $10.95 set.



COMBAT FLEETS OF THE WORLD 1976-77
Their Ships, Aircraft, and Armament

Edited by Jean Labayle Couhat. Starting with Abu Dhabi and ending with Zanzibar, this book provides in great detail the most recent information available on the 116 navies of the world. It includes some 1400 photographs and 55 drawings. The editor presents in over 590 pages a concise breakdown of the ships, aircraft, and weapons of each navy.

The major fleets of the world are given extensive coverage: For example, 43 pages are devoted to the Royal Navy, 53 to the French Navy, 72 to the Soviet Navy, and 94 to the U.S. Navy. Using a system of easily deciphered abbreviations, the entries provide the construction history and specifications of each ship, including as much as is available on displacement, speed, armament, machinery, dimensions, range, manning, electrical capacity,. electronic equipment, and fuel capacity.

June. 592 pages. 1400 photographs. 55 line drawings. Appendices. $49.50.

BATTLESHIPS
United States Battleships in World War II

By Robert O. Dulin, Jr., and William H. Garzke, Jr. Line drawings by Robert F. Sumrall. This book traces the development of battleship design in the United States from the time the Washington Treaty limited tonnage and major gun caliber through the World War II building program. A chapter is devoted to each class of U.S. battleship and battlecruiser. In discussing each class, the authors explain in great detail the design concept under which they were built. For each ship, they provide detailed descriptions of structural features, armor, armament, engineering plant, stability and damage control, underwater protection, electronics installation, and habitability. As well, a plan view and outboard profile, armor profile, inboard profile, and hull lines have been prepared by a naval architect.

May. 280 pages. Illustrated with 127 photos and 38 line drawings. Appendices. $24.00.

NIGHT ACTION
MTB Flotilla at War

By Captain Peter Dickens. In the records of the war at sea in the Second World War, there has been a paucity of considered accounts of motor torpedoboat operations. The very nature of the engagements with enemy convoys and escorts — usually at night, in small vulnerable craft travelling at high speeds amid storms of gunfire — gave little opportunity for reflection and much for courage; yet the greatest success went to the flotillas whose commanders had a tactician's quality of mind as well as a strong leader's understanding of his shipmates.

Among such men was Peter Dickens, grandson of Charles Dickens, who commanded the 21st MTB Flotilla. His impressive, lively and thrilling account not only relates (and illustrates) in detail the actions fought in the southern North Sea and Channel — German naval reports now supplementing his own records — but also gives the reader a sharp sense of the reality of those operations.

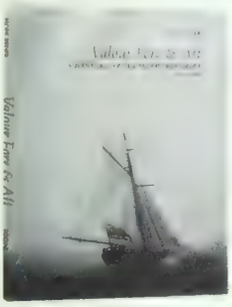
May. 242 pages. Illustrated. Maps. Appendices. Index. $10.00.

JACK NASTYFACE
Memoirs of an English Seaman

By William Robinson. As Oliver Warner writes in his Introduction, "Descriptions of life on the lower deck in the classical days of the sailing Navy are both rare and valuable in the record of human experience." These vivid "forecastle recollections," first published pseudonymously in 1836, have long been out of print. The real Jack Nastyface was William Robinson, who fought at Trafalgar in 1805, and took part in many other notable events in the long war with Napoleonic France which lasted until 1815. He writes from the point of view of the ordinary Jack Tar in Nelson's Navy, in the age of the press gang, floggings and keelhaulings — an age which nevertheless produced some of England's finest seamen and most famous victories.
May. 157 pages. Illustrated. $7.00.



VALOUR FORE & AFT
Adventures of the Sloop Providence, 1772-79

By Hope S. Rider. The sloop Providence, which sailed on the first cruise of the original fleet of the United Colonies, was originally the Katy, flagship of the navy of Rhode Island, first of the colonies to send a fleet to sea. Her career in the service of her state and her nation, spanning the first four years of the Revolutionary War, covers some of the most stirring events of that war. Her history is rooted in pre-revolutionary happenings and involves some of the prime movers of the rebellion. It also touches upon the careers of several illustrious naval captains, chief among them John Paul Jones and John Rathbun.
October. 208 pages. 7 maps. 18 halftones. Frontispiece in color. $10.00.

READY FOR SEA

By H. K. Oram. All those who spend their leisure time in boats will doubtless feel a twinge of jealousy as they accompany the author vicariously down the Thames aboard the 2300 ton, four-masted barque Port Jackson. Whether they wish to stay with him as he rounds the Horn in a howling gale is another matter.

The author's 'eyewitness' accounts of the Battle of Jutland and of the ghastly saga which led to the loss of K4 and K17 in the Forth Estuary in February 1918, hold one spellbound with the measured fatefulness of a Greek tragedy.
April. 250 pages. Illustrated. Index. $9.50.

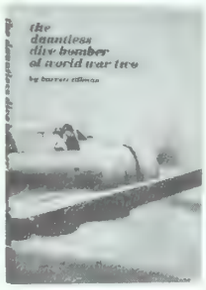
BRITISH BATTLESHIPS OF WORLD WAR TWO
The History and Development of the Battleships and Battlecruisers of the Royal Navy, 1939-1945

By Alan Raven and John Roberts. British Battleships of World War Two is unique in making available the full story of the design and construction of every British battleship and battlecruiser class built from 1913 to 1946, together with all details of the various refits and reconstructions that each vessel underwent during its service life. The contents also include a comprehensive review of developments in weapons, gunnery, fire control, radar, protection and propulsion, taking in every aspect of battleship design and usage; and there is a section devoted to the actions involving British battleships during World War Two, revealing for the first time precisely and in detail what damage was incurred by which ships and providing the technical information as to how ships that were lost came to be sunk.
November. 400 pages approximately. Illustrated throughout with drawings and diagrams. 250 photographs. $32.00

WARSHIPS OF THE IMPERIAL JAPANESE NAVY

By Hansgeorg Jentschura, Dieter Jung, Peter Mickel. Translated by David Brown and Antony Preston. The work of three distinguished German naval researchers and the result of many years of original research, Warships of the Imperial Japanese Navy, 1896-1945 provides details of battleships and battlecruisers, cruisers, carriers, escort carriers, heavy cruisers, light cruisers, gunboats, torpedo boats, destroyer escorts, fast patrol boats, submarines, combatant auxiliaries, minelaying craft, submarine chasers, landing ships, and support and transport ships of all types.

Illustrated throughout with plan, elevation and general-arrangement drawings, the book also contains more than two hundred photographic illustrations of which many have never before been published.
November. 220 pages. 100 illustrations and 150 scale diagrams. $24.00.



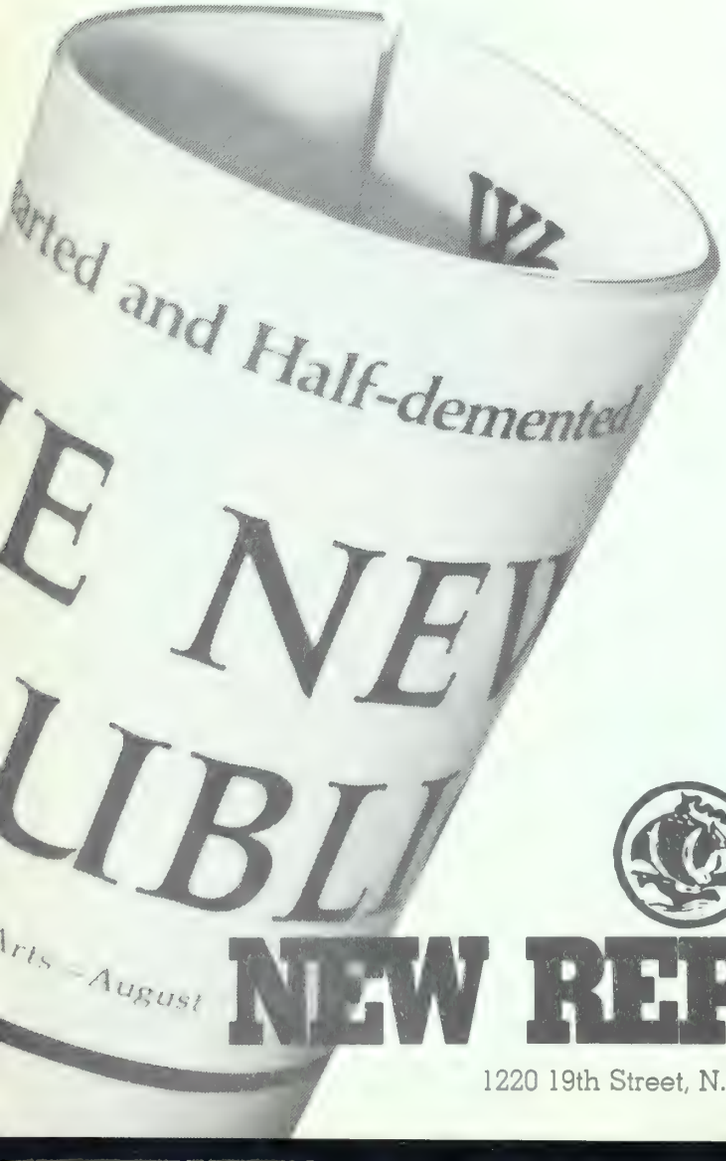
THE DAUNTLESS DIVE BOMBER OF WORLD WAR TWO

By Barrett Tillman. The year 1942 changed forever the traditional concepts of naval warfare, and the rise of the aircraft carrier coincided with the decline of the battleship. In the four carrier battles of that year, over 70 percent of all hits made by both sides were made by dive bombers. It is the author's contention that the most important aircraft used in the Pacific War was the Douglas SBD Dauntless. This is the story of the more than two decades of design, development, and experimentation devoted to the eventual use of the dive bomber by both the U.S. and Japan.
August. 192 pages. Illustrated. Bibliography. Index. $14.50.

Orders should be sent to: Book Order Department, U.S. Naval Institute, Annapolis, Maryland 21402

NEW REPUBLIC BOOKS.

When it comes to publishing, our name speaks for itself.



FOR FALL

Body, Mind, Behavior

By Maggie Scarf. When does a fetus become a person? Why do people behave the way they do? Some of the provocative questions asked and answered by "a clear and responsible journalist . . . [in] an intelligent, popular introduction to the range of new thinking on human behavior."—Kirkus Reviews ☐ A Dual Main Selection of the Modern Psychology Book Club ☐ Major National Advertising, Publicity and Promotion ☐ ISBN: 0-915220-14-8 ☐ Just Published, $9.95

Barred from School: Two Million Children!

By Thomas J. Cottle. A noted social psychologist "vividly recreate(s) school conflicts from the child's perspective. . . . Cottle's eye-opening book, with its proposals for reform, should not be overlooked."—Publishers Weekly ☐ ISBN: 0-915220-12-1 ☐ October, $7.95

Fans! How We Go Crazy Over Sports

By Michael Roberts. Sports may be the ultimate sacred cow, but in Fans! a top sports writer debunks the over-commercialization of America's favorite pastimes and the myths that make superhumans out of superjocks! Fans! will have some up in arms; others will cheer. ☐ Major National Advertising, Publicity and Promotion ☐ ISBN: 0-915220-20-2 ☐ November, $8.95

Paul Robeson: All American

By Dorothy Butler Gilliam. A Washington Post editor and writer's popular biography of the controversial black actor-singer, athlete, and militant leftist whose career collapsed in the furor of the McCarthy era. Illustrated. ☐ Major National Advertising, Publicity and Promotion ☐ ISBN: 0-915220-16-6 ☐ November, $8.95

A Tribute to Hans Morgenthau

Edited by Kenneth Thompson, Robert Osgood, Tang Tsou. Louis Halle, Charles Hardin, Richard Falk, Marcus Raskin are among the many writers and theorists paying tribute to their erudite teacher—one of the great political scientists of this century. ☐ ISBN: 0-915220-21-0 ☐ December, $20.00

You Reap What You Sow: How the Government Regulates Agriculture

By Joel Solkoff. What's in store for grocery shoppers in the near future? What can the government do to instigate a sane and stable policy towards farmers and food? With agriculture page one news, this timely, readable book makes the understanding of agriculture as pertinent as the price of eggs. ☐ ISBN: 0-915220-22-9 ☐ February, 1977, $8.95

NEW REPUBLIC BOOKS

1220 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Distributed by E. P. Dutton & Co.

Fall 1976

The Papers of General Nathanael Greene

VOLUME I: December, 1766 to December, 1776

Edited by Richard K. Showman, Margaret Cobb, and Robert E. McCarthy

The first papers of a military leader in the War for Independence to be released during this bicentennial period. Nathanael Greene, considered the ablest of Washington's generals, was an astute politician and diplomat. Nearly every leader of the struggle for independence is represented in this correspondence. Five volumes are planned. Published in collaboration with the Rhode Island Historical Society and the Rhode Island Bicentennial Commission

-1285-4 / Dec. / 512 pp., illus., $17.95

The End of French Predominance in Europe

The Financial Crisis of 1924 and the Adoption of the Dawes Plan

by Stephen A. Schuker

Explains France's precipitous decline as a great power in economic terms in the 1920s and traces the consequent erosion of the European order created at Versailles. Winner of the 1976 Gilbert Chinard Prize "A brilliant and path-breaking piece of work." —Frank Freidel

-1253-6 / Oct. / approx. 450 pp., $20.95

HISTORY

New York City Mutual Savings Banks, 1819–1861
by Alan L. Olmstead -1265-x / Oct. / approx. 300 pp., $15.95

American Opinion and the Russian Alliance, 1939–1945 by Ralph B. Levering -1260-9 / Sept. / 296 pp., illus., $17.95

The Fledgling Province
Social and Cultural Life in Colonial Georgia, 1733–1776
by Harold Davis
Published for the Institute of Early American History and Culture, Williamsburg, Virginia -1267-6 / Oct. / approx. 320 pp., maps & illus., $16.95

Military Music of the American Revolution
by Raoul F. Camus -1263-3 / July / 230 pp., illus, $14.95

The Democratic Movement in Germany, 1789–1914
by John L. Snell edited and completed by Hans A. Schmitt
-1283-8 / Dec. / approx. 512 pp., $13.95

Publisher's ISBN Prefix 0-8078

CHILD DEVELOPMENT

Race, Color, and the Young Child
by John E. Williams and J. Kenneth Morland
-1261-7 / Nov. / 364 pp., $12.95

No More Here and There
Adopting the Older Child
by Ann Carney
-1278-1 / Aug. / 100 pp., $2.50 Tr.

LITERATURE

From Tobacco Road to Route 66
The Southern Poor White in Fiction
by Sylvia Jenkins Cook
-1264-1 / Aug. / 224 pp., $11.95

Increase and Multiply
Arts of Discourse Procedure in the Preaching of John Donne
by John S. Chamberlin
-1266-8 / Dec. / approx. 225 pp., $12.95

'Land of Nod' and Other Stories
by Paul Green
-1269-2 / Sept. / 160 pp., $8.95 Tr.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA PRESS

Box 2288 Chapel Hill 27514

1976 FALL BOOKS/NORTHLAND PRESS

JOHN CLYMER: An Artist's Rendezvous With the Frontier West by Walt Reed/foreword by Dr. Harold McCracken. John Clymer is one of the preeminent painters of the American West. Following art studies in his native Washington state and Canada, he worked as a commercial artist. From 1945 until 1962 he illustrated more than eighty covers for the Saturday Evening Post. Beginning in 1964 he devoted his energies to historical paintings of the Pacific Northwest. The past decade has seen him garner every major award in his field. A stunningly handsome book. 11½ x 9⅝ inches 50 color plates $40.00

FRED ROSENSTOCK: The Biography of a Western Bookman by Donald E. Bower/foreword by Frank Waters. A fascinating book about the dean of western bookmen and art dealers. Fred Rosenstock was born in Austria, raised in upstate New York, and worked for the U.S. Surgeon General during World War I. Finally settling in Denver, he built a remarkable book store of rare and out-of-print books, an active business in western art (while acquiring an extensive collection of Charles M. Russell items) and started a distinguished publishing company. 6¾ x 9½ inches fully illustrated $10.50

TEN THOUSAND GODDAM CATTLE by Katie Lee/illustrations by William Moyers. While searching for the town of Old Dolores which is described in one of her favorite cowboy songs, Katie Lee takes us on a journey through cowboy music and the West. With alternating tongue-in-cheek and serious discussion, you will laugh at and ponder the humor and wisdom of the American cowboy. The author is a noted folksinger, actress, composer, musicologist and award-winning film maker. An appendix contains a complete song bibliography and the scores of fifty songs.
208 pages 6½ x 9½ inches $12.50

VIGILANTE oil painting from John Clymer: An Artist's Rendezvous With the Frontier West

GOODBYE, GARCIA, ADIOS by Don Dedera and Bob Robles. Bilingual true story of a Mexican hero who saved his town. $9.50

TEN YEARS WITH THE COWBOY ARTISTS OF AMERICA by James K. Howard/foreword by Frederic G. Renner. Complete history with 85 full color plates $40.00

THEY CAME TO THE MOUNTAIN by Platt Cline/foreword by Bernard Fontana. Fully illustrated early history of the northern Arizona community of Flagstaff. $12.50

COWBOY ARTISTS OF AMERICA 1976 Eleventh Annual Exhibition Catalog. Representative work of all members in full color. Ltd., signed edition $35.00 softcover $6.50

RIVERTRIP by Rita Deanin Abbey. Personal discovery on the Colorado River in poetry and watercolors by an internationally known artist. $14.50 December

FROM THE HEARTLAND: Profiles of People and Places of the Southwest and Beyond by Lawrence Clark Powell/illustrations by Bettina Steinke. $9.50 November

WITHOUT NOISE OF ARMS: The 1776 Dominguez-Escalante Search for a Route from Santa Fe to Monterey by Walter Briggs/oil paintings by Wilson Hurley $30.00

THE DAY OF THE HORSE by Bernard Garbutt/foreword by Janice Lovoos Garbutt Sketches and memories of a time when the horse was part of everyday life. $10.50

EARLY YUMA: A Graphic History of Life on the American Nile Edited by Rosalie Crowe and Sidney B. Brinckerhoff. 183 illustrations $17.95

PUEBLO SHIELDS by Barton Wright/foreword by Byron Harvey. Evolution of the shield and critical discussions of illustrated examples. $9.50

For a catalog write NORTHLAND PRESS P. O. Box N, Flagstaff, Arizona 86001

Norton / Fall 1976

JUST PUBLISHED

Brian de Breffny and George Mott THE CHURCHES AND ABBEYS OF IRELAND Illus 0-393-04441-6 $12 95 NF

H.M. Denham THE AEGEAN 0-393-03197-7 $15 95
THE IONIAN ISLANDS TO RHODES 0-393-03195-0 $10 95
SOUTHERN TURKEY, THE LEVANT, AND CYPRUS 0-393-03198-5 $9 95
THE TYRRHENIAN SEA 0-393-03196-9 $12 50 Illus NF

Clark R. Mollenhoff, foreword. Senator Frank Church, introduction. ALLEGED ASSASSINATION PLOTS INVOLVING FOREIGN LEADERS 0-393-05588-4 $10 00 NF

Vamberto Morais A SHORT HISTORY OF ANTI-SEMITISM 0-393-05567-1 $11 95 NF

Reg Gadney CONSTABLE AND HIS WORLD Illus 0-393-04440-8 $10 00 NF

Audre Lorde COAL Cloth, 0-393-04439-4 $7 95 Paper, 0-393-04446-7 $2 95 P

Mirra Komarovsky DILEMMAS OF MASCULINITY: A Study of College Youth 0-393-01125-9 $9 95 NF

Neal R. Peirce THE NEW ENGLAND STATES People, Politics, and Power in the Six New England States. Illus 0-393-05558-2 $12 95 NF

Judith Forbis THE CLASSIC ARABIAN HORSE Illus. 0-87140-612-8 $17 50 NF A Liveright Book

J.D. Sleightholme THIS IS BASIC SAILBOAT CRUISING Illus 0-393-03194-2 $13 95 NF

John Barracato with Peter Michelmore ARSON! 0-393-08744-1. $8 95 NF

Thomas Kiernan ARAFAT The Man and the Myth 0-393-07503-6 $9 95 NF

SEPTEMBER

Walter W. Heller THE ECONOMY Old Myths and New Realities 0-393-05595-7 $8 95 NF

J.I.M. Stewart A MEMORIAL SERVICE 0-393-08751-4 $7 95 F

Ralph Nader, Mark Green, and Joel Seligman TAMING THE GIANT CORPORATION 0-393-08753-0 $10 50 NF

John G. Stoessinger HENRY KISSINGER THE ANGUISH OF POWER 0-393-05589-2 $8 95 NF

Basil Jackson FLAMEOUT 0-393-08740-9 $7 95 F

Philip Appleman OPEN DOORWAYS Poems Cloth, 0-393-04443-2 $7 95 Paper, 0-393-04451-3 $2 95 P

Joseph Featherstone WHAT SCHOOLS CAN DO 0-87140-619-5 $9 95 NF A Liveright Book

May Sarton A WORLD OF LIGHT Portraits and Celebrations Illus. 0-393-07506-0 $8 95 NF

Giuliano Dogo, editor TREASURES OF ITALY Illus 0-393-08365-9 $19 85 NF

Robert G. Kvarnes, M.D., editor. Gloria H. Parloff, assistant editor A HARRY STACK SULLIVAN CASE SEMINAR Treatment of a Young Male Schizophrenic 0-393-01130-5. $12 95 NF

Helene Moglen CHARLOTTE BRONTË THE SELF CONCEIVED Illus 0-393-07505-2 $11 95 NF

Jack P. Greene, Richard L. Bushman, and Michael Kammen. Edited by Richard M. Jellison SOCIETY, FREEDOM, AND CONSCIENCE The Coming of the Revolution in Virginia, Massachusetts, and New York 0-393-05582-5 $9 95 NF

Joan M. Erikson with David and Joan Loveless ACTIVITY, RECOVERY, GROWTH The Communal Role of Planned Activities Illus. 0-393-01126-7 $10 95 NF

John Alexander Williams WEST VIRGINIA (States and the Nation series) Illus 0-393-05590-6 $8 95 NF

Marshall Sprague COLORADO (States and the Nation series) Illus 0-393-05599-X $8 95 NF

OCTOBER

The Automobile Association of England TREASURES OF BRITAIN (Revised) Illus 0-393-08743-3 $19 75 NF

Jack B. Weiner DRINKING 0-393-08749-2 $8 95 NF

Rudd Pyles and Peter Musser HOW TO BECOME AN EXPERT RECREATIONAL SKIER Illus Cloth, 0-393-08760-3. $9 95 Paper, 0-393-08763-8 $5 95 NF

David Douglas Duncan THE SILENT STUDIO Illus 0-393-04442-4 $12 50 NF

Mary and Herbert Knapp ONE POTATO TWO POTATO THE SECRET EDUCATION OF AMERICAN CHILDREN Illus 0-393-08745-X $9 95 NF

Joseph P. Lash ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL—1939-1941: The Partnership That Saved the West Illus 0-393-05594-9 $12 95 NF

E.E. Cummings. Edited by George James Firmage TULIPS & CHIMNEYS Cloth, 0-87140-622-5 $10 00 Paper, 0-87140-112-6 $3 95 P A Liveright Book

Adrienne Rich OF WOMAN BORN Motherhood As Experience and Institution 0-393-08750-6 $8 95 NF

Arthur Macy Cox THE DYNAMICS OF DÉTENTE 0-393-05592-2 $8 95 NF

Gerald Warner Brace DAYS THAT WERE Illus 0-393-07509-5 $8 95 NF

Bill Thomas THE SWAMP Illus 0-393-08747-6 $19 95 until 12/31/76. $24 95 thereafter NF

Edmund S. Morgan THE CHALLENGE OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION 0-393-05603-1 $10 95 NF

Charles Higham THE ADVENTURES OF CONAN DOYLE THE LIFE OF THE CREATOR OF SHERLOCK HOLMES Illus 0-393-07507-9 $9 95 NF

Jeremy Howard-Williams THE CARE AND REPAIR OF SAILS Illus 0-393-03199-3 $9 95 NF

Walter Lippmann. Edited by Gilbert A. Harrison PUBLIC PERSONS 0-87140-620-9 $7 95 NF A Liveright Book

G.E. Kidder Smith. Edited and introduced by Marshall B. Davidson ARCHITECTURE IN AMERICA Illus 0-393-04453-X $39 95 until 12/31/76. $45 00 thereafter NF An American Heritage Book

Hermann Keller THE WELL-TEMPERED CLAVIER BY JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH 0-393-02187-4 $15 00 NF

Alexander Rabinowitch THE BOLSHEVIKS COME TO POWER The Revolution of 1917 in Petrograd Illus 0-393-05586-8 $14 95 NF

John de Visser, photographs. Harold Kalman, text. PIONEER CHURCHES Illus 0-393-08754-9 $27 50 NF

Norman H. Clark WASHINGTON (States and the Nation series) Illus 0-393-05587-6. $8 95 NF

Richard W. Hull AFRICAN CITIES AND TOWNS BEFORE THE EUROPEAN CONQUEST Illus 0-393-05581-7 $10 95 NF

Reader's Digest STRANGE STORIES, AMAZING FACTS Illus 0-393-21426 $14 95 NF

NOVEMBER

Gordon Lish, editor ALL OUR SECRETS ARE THE SAME New Fiction from Esquire 0-393-08748-4 Paper, $3 95 F

Lauren Brown WEEDS IN WINTER Illus 0-393-06411-5 $8 95 NF

Donald M. McCorkle, editor BRAHMS VARIATIONS ON A THEME OF HAYDN (Norton Critical Scores series) 0-393-02189-0 $10 00 NF

David Sellin THE FIRST POSE: "1876 Turning Point in American Art" and "Howard Roberts, Thomas Eakins, and a Century of Philadelphia Nudes" Illus 0-393-04447-5 $8 95 NF

Henry Cabot Lodge AS IT WAS: An Inside View of Politics and Power in the '50s and '60s 0-393-05597-3 $8 95 NF

J. Forde-Johnston PREHISTORIC BRITAIN AND IRELAND Illus 0-393-05605-8 $11 50 NF

Joe Gray Taylor LOUISIANA (States and the Nation series) Illus 0-393-05602-3 $8 95 NF

F. Ross Peterson IDAHO (States and the Nation series) Illus 0-393-05600-7 $8 95 NF

Kenneth S. Davis KANSAS (States and the Nation series) Illus 0-393-05593-0 $8 95 NF

Burton J. Bledstein THE CULTURE OF PROFESSIONALISM: The Middle Class and the Development of Higher Education in America 0-393-05574-4 $12.95 NF

Hazard Adams THE ACADEMIC TRIBES Cloth, 0-87140-623-3 $8 95 Paper, 0-87140-111-8 $3 95 NF A Liveright Book

DECEMBER

Joanna Bankier, Carol Cosman, Doris Earnshaw, Joan Keefe, Deirdre Lashgari, and Kathleen Weaver, editors. Foreword by Adrienne Rich THE OTHER VOICE Twentieth Century Women's Poetry in Translation. Cloth, 0-393-04416-5 $10 00 Paper, 0-393-04421-1 $3 95 P

David L. Lewis DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA (States and the Nation series) Illus 0-393-05601-5 $8 95 NF

William R. Hunt ALASKA (States and the Nation series) Illus 0-393-05604-X $8 95 NF

F Fiction NF Nonfiction P Poetry

Norton
W W NORTON & COMPANY, INC., 500 Fifth Avenue, New York 10036 • In Canada, George J McLeod Ltd

OHIO UNIVERSITY PRESS

Athens, Ohio 45701

FALL, 1976

SELECTED TITLES FOR THE BICENTENNIAL

CAPTIVE AMERICANS: PRISONERS DURING THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION
[illegible]
Describes the physical conditions endured by American personnel, and discusses how British military authorities developed their policies of prisoner care. October.
$11.00 Cloth, $4.50 paper

NOTES OF DEBATES IN THE FEDERAL CONVENTION OF 1787 REPORTED BY JAMES MADISON, With an Introduction by Adrienne Koch. October.
$16.00

CONTRAST AND CONNECTION: BICENTENNIAL ESSAYS IN ANGLO-AMERICAN HISTORY
Edited by H. C. Allen and Roger Thompson
A stimulating examination of one of the most important relationships in modern history, spanning a period of nearly four centuries.
September $16.00

☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆

THE EARLY COMMUNITY AT BEDFORD PARK: THE PURSUIT OF "CORPORATE HAPPINESS" IN THE FIRST GARDEN SUBURB
Margaret Jones Bolsterli
Explores the forces which led to the success and ultimate failure of this first garden suburb between 1876 and 1885. December. $12.00

BORN IN THE SPRING: A COLLECTION OF SPRING WILDFLOWERS
June Carver Roberts
A unique collection of line drawings and magnificent watercolors of spring wildflowers with a text accompanying each illustration.
October
$15.00 Cloth, $9.00 paper

FRA GIROLAMO SAVONAROLA, FLORENTINE ART AND RENAISSANCE HISTORIOGRAPHY
Ronald M. Steinberg
Analyzes the myth of Savonarola to reveal a more accurate account of the Renaissance artists and their attitudes toward this man.
November $11.00

THE ROSSETTI-LEYLAND LETTERS: THE CORRESPONDENCE OF AN ARTIST AND HIS PATRON
Edited by Francis L. Fennell Jr.
These 137 new letters document a business relationship that extended from 1866 to 1883. December.
$11.00

THE DREAM OF LHASA: THE LIFE OF NIKOLAY PRZHEVALSKY (1839-88), EXPLORER OF CENTRAL ASIA
Donald Rayfield
This first biography in English of Przhevalsky's personal life and expeditions is vivid and highly readable. October. $13.50

NICHOLAS BACON 1510-1579: THE MAKING OF A TUDOR STATESMAN
Robert Tittler
The first biography of Sir Nicholas Bacon, councillor to Queen Elizabeth, brother-in-law of William Cecil, and father of the famous Francis.
December $15.00

Brand Whitlock's THE BUCKEYES: A STORY OF POLITICS AND ABOLITIONISM IN AN OHIO TOWN, 1836-1845
Edited with an Introduction by [illegible]
The nearly 100,000 word last novel of Brand Whitlock left unfinished at his death, now printed for the first time. December.
$12.00 Cloth, $5.00 paper

POLITICAL ECONOMISTS AND THE ENGLISH POOR LAWS: A HISTORICAL STUDY OF THE INFLUENCE OF CLASSICAL ECONOMICS ON THE FORMATION OF SOCIAL WELFARE POLICY
Raymond G. Cowherd
A study of a major cycle of change from 1785 to 1834 comprising the extremes of parsimony and generosity, hostility and benevolence. December.
$12.00

DIMITY CONVICTIONS: THE AMERICAN WOMAN IN THE NINETEENTH CENTURY
Barbara Welter
Feminism is seen as a long-range liberalizing force which permeated every area of American life in the nineteeth century. December.
$12.00 Cloth, $4.50 paper

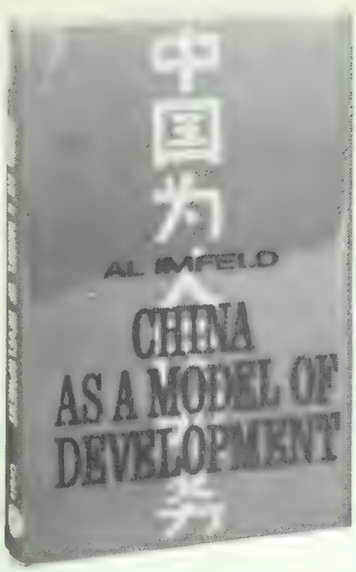
THE HOUSES THAT JAMES BUILT AND OTHER LITERARY STUDIES
R. W. Stallman
A collection of essays on the works of James, Conrad, Hemingway, Crane, Fitzgerald, Hardy and Faulkner.
December.
$12.00 Cloth, $4.50 paper

LISTENING AND VOICE: A PHENOMENOLOGY OF SOUND
Don Ihde
Topics include human communication, dramaturgy in liturgy, drama and poetry, and the role of auditory imagination with special regard to inner speech. October.
$12.00

ALL THINGS ARE POSSIBLE and PENULTIMATE WORDS AND OTHER ESSAYS
Lev Shestov, translated by S. S. Koteliansky, with a new Introduction by Bernard Martin and a Foreword to All Things Are Possible by D. H. Lawrence
October. $11.00

POETRY

Anna Akhmatova's REQUIEM and POEM WITHOUT A HERO
Translated by D. M. Thomas
Anna Akhmatova was a 20th century woman who struggled against the Stalinist Terror to become a major international poet. November.
$8.00 Cloth, $3.75 paper



Fall Title Announcement

ORBIS BOOKS
Maryknoll, NY 10545

CHINA AS A MODEL OF DEVELOPMENT

by Al Imfeld

The People's Republic of China has become a major force in world affairs. Yet most of us in the West know little about China, and even that little is often tinged with misinformation or prejudice. As a consequence, this highly readable work by a priest-sociologist fills a real need. Imfeld contends that China's experience offers to the Third World more valuable lessons than they can learn from the industrialized nations which they have so often tried to imitate.

ISBN 0-88344-0539 CIP — Cloth $5.95

THE LIBERATION OF THEOLOGY

By Juan Luis Segundo, S.J.

A critical look at liberation theology by one of its foremost exponents. Developed from a series of lectures at Harvard Divinity School

ISBN 0-88344-285X CIP — Cloth $10.95
ISBN 0-88344-2868 CIP — Paper $6.95

THE FACES OF GOD

Reflections on Church and Society

by Adrian Hastings

Radical (yet traditional) evaluation of what the Christian faith means for people today, and the relations between Church and society.

ISBN 0-88344-1284 CIP — Paper $4.95

COME, HOLY SPIRIT

by Bishop Francis X. Ford, M.M.

Re-issue of Bishop Ford's reflections on the petitions of the Veni, Creator Spiritus

ISBN 0-88344-0679 — Cloth $5.95

THE GOSPEL IN SOLENTINAME

by Ernesto Cardenal

Dialogue with farmers and fishermen on gospel texts in Solentiname, Nicaragua. Startling insights into old gospel truths.

ISBN 0-88344-1683 CIP — Cloth $6.95

THE HUMANITY OF GOD

by Edmond Barbotin

An attempt to approach the Christian mystery from our humdrum daily life and from the very experience of our body and our means of expression. (A companion to The Humanity of Man published in 1975.)

ISBN 0-88344-1845 CIP — Cloth $12.95

CAUTION: GOD AT WORK

by Paul G. Johnson

An audacious theological study that describes how God is redemptively present in the affairs of this world. Provocative conclusions.

ISBN 0-88344-0520 CIP — Paper $4.95

THEOLOGY IN THE AMERICAS

edited by Sergio Torres and John Eagleson

The "Detroit Conference" on liberation theology — Before, During and After

ISBN 0-88344-4798 — Cloth $12.95
ISBN 0-88344-4763 — Paper $5.95

UGANDA: THE ASIAN EXILES

by Thomas & Margaret Melady

On August 4, 1972 Idi Amin Dada, President of Uganda, announced that he had been told in a dream to order the expulsion of all Asians who were not Ugandan citizens. This is the first non-journalistic account of the inhuman tragedy which befell 50,000 people as the result of a tyrant's whim.

ISBN 0-88344-5069 CIP — Cloth $6.95

TANZANIA AND NYERERE

A study of Ujamaa and Nationhood

by William Duggan & John Civille

This richly detailed study analyzes the fascinating effort of an emerging nation to fuse the Bronze Age with the Atomic Age.

ISBN 0-88344-4755 — Cloth $10.95

THE NEW CREATION: MARXIST AND CHRISTIAN?

by José María González-Ruiz

Although he treats Marxism with great insight, González-Ruiz concentrates on St. Paul and the Gospels' vision of a new creation

ISBN 0-88344-3279 — Cloth $6.95

THE PRAYERS OF AFRICAN RELIGION

by John S. Mbiti

Professor Mbiti demonstrates how prayer, of all aspects of religion, contains the most intense expression of African traditional spirituality.

ISBN 0-88344-3945 CIP — Cloth $7.95

CHRISTIANS, POLITICS & VIOLENT REVOLUTION

by J. G. Davies

The volatile situations in Chile, Rhodesia, Northern Ireland, and elsewhere make this book of singular importance. Davies gives a carefully reasoned theological response to the question of violent revolution.

ISBN 0-88344-061X — Paper $4.95

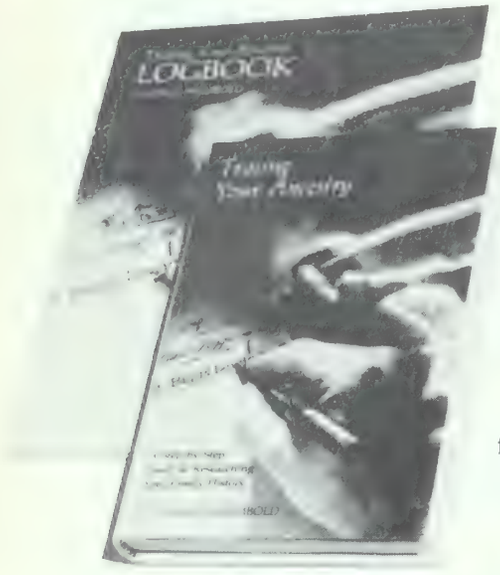
Visit the ORBIS BOOKS booth, No. 9901, at the Frankfurt Book Fair

Fall 1976 Oxmoor House



Tracing Your Ancestry

A Step-by-Step Guide to Researching Your Family History

By F. Wilbur Helmbold

Offers the aspiring genealogist a comprehensive course in how to uncover the history of his forebears. Exact procedures for planning the search and utilizing records of all types. The author is director of the Institute of Genealogical and Historical Research.

218 pages; 6" x 9"; 50 black-and-white photographs. Index and bibliography. October. $9.95. 0415-0.

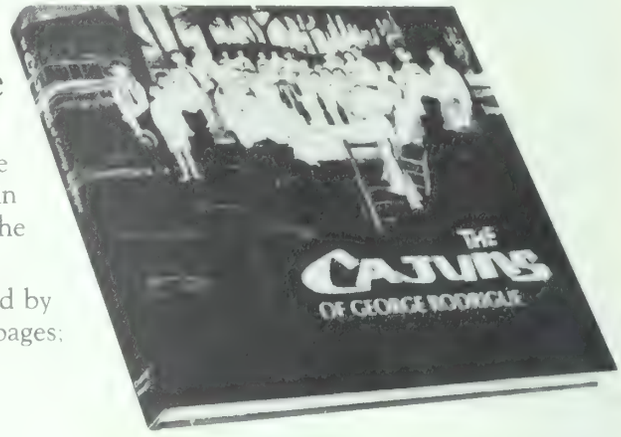
A companion volume, Tracing Your Ancestry Logbook, paperbound, contains forms on which to chart findings and document progress.

256 pages; 8-1/2" x 11". October. $3.95. 0414-2.

The Cajuns of George Rodrigue

The artist draws inspiration for his haunting paintings from the bayou country of his native Louisiana. Known as a "naive surrealist," Rodrigue is an internationally acclaimed artist, having won prestigious awards in Italy and France. His paintings are made available in book form for the first time with the publication of this stunning volume.

97 full color reproductions of Rodrigue's paintings, each accompanied by the artist's commentary in English and French. Ten line drawings. 168 pages; 9-1/2" x 11". October. $24.95. 0443-6.



Fabric Decorating for the Home

130 Room-by-Room Projects

By Janet Roda

The imaginative use of fabrics is presented in easy-to-understand "how to" instructions and over 500 diagrams. Offers the homemaker myriad ideas to enhance and personalize the home. Thirty specially commissioned watercolor paintings depict fully decorated, color coordinated rooms inspired by the author's concepts. Janet Roda is a home-fashion coordinator for a major textile firm.

264 pages; 9-1/2" x 11". October. $16.95. 0422-3.

New Family Guidebooks...still sensibly priced at $1.95.

This economical and practical series of 8-1/2" x 11" paperbound books offers step-by-step, easy-to-follow, illustrated instructions for "do-it-yourselfers." All are October publications.

Growing Plants in Containers

A basic guide for growing over 200 varieties of plants in containers. 96 pages. $1.95. 0440-1.

Easy Home Remodeling

Basic instructions, listing tools and materials, for remodeling all areas of the home. 96 pages. $1.95. 0405-3.

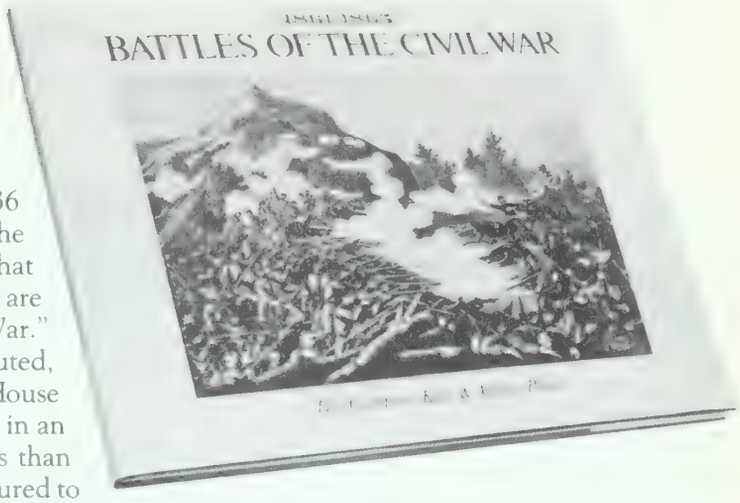
Paneling and Wallcoverings

Information on wallcovering materials, tools, wall preparations and estimating needs. 96 pages. $1.95. 0442-8.

Oxmoor House Fall 1976

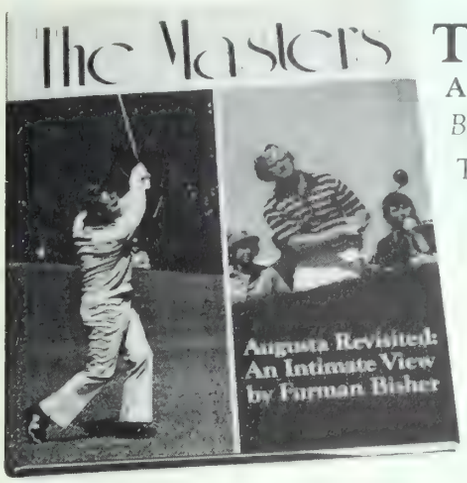
Battles of the Civil War, 1861-1865.

The Complete Kurz & Allison Prints



In the late 1800's, Kurz & Allison, lithographers, created 36 chromolithographs from Kurz' on-the-scene sketches of the major battles of the Civil War. Today originals are so rare that not even the Library of Congress boasts a complete set. All are now handsomely reproduced in "Battles of the Civil War." Privately printed in 1960, but never commercially distributed, these prints were forgotten for over a decade. Oxmoor House prides itself on their discovery and on making them available in an appropriately opulent volume. Our edition is limited to less than 7,500 numbered copies, printed on paper specially manufactured to duplicate the quality of the original. The color reproduction faithfully captures the nuances obtained by the ten-stone lithographic process used by Kurz & Allison. Explanatory narratives of the battle scenes, written by 22 distinguished scholars and journalists, have been bound in a separate 96 page hardbound book which will accompany the larger volume. Forewords are by Robert E. Lee IV and Ulysses S. Grant III.

24-1/4" x 18-1/4". Bound in leather and buckram, gold stamped with the seals of the United States and the Confederacy. Individually boxed. Because this is a strictly limited numbered edition, books may be purchased on a non-returnable basis only. $250.00. October. 0445-2.



The Masters

Augusta Revisited: An Intimate View

By Furman Bisher

The author, sports editor for the Atlanta Journal, guides the reader about the Augusta National Golf Course and through its renowned clubhouse; he surveys the history of the tournament, and pays eloquent tribute to Bobby Jones and Clifford Roberts, the founders. His interviews with all the greats who have played and won give the reader an intimate view of this most glamorous of sports events.

192 pages; 9-1/2" x 11"; 65 full-color and 53 black and white photographs. October. $19.95. 0848-7.

Southern Antiques and Folk Art

By Robert Morton

Only recently have connoisseurs come to recognize the beauty and diversity of the furniture and artifacts produced in the South in the 18th and 19th centuries. This beautiful new book has the distinction of being the first to display the splendid panoply of Southern artistry and craftsmanship. Among the many items included are furniture, silver, ceramics, glass, textiles, guns, household and commercial articles, folk art and crafts.

183 full color and 290 black-and-white photos; index; bibliography; catalog of illustrations. Numbered first edition. October. $31.95. 0420-7.

Oxmoor House Inc. Box C-59, Birmingham, Alabama 35283.

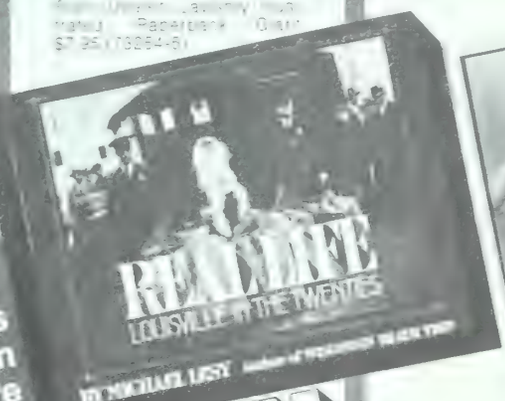
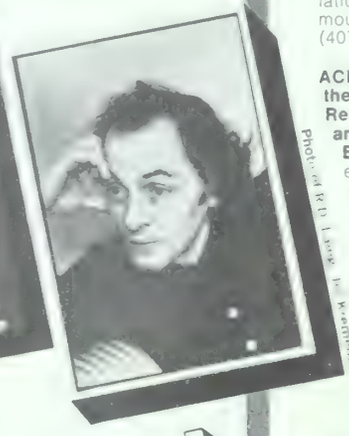
ISBN Publisher's Prefix: 0-8487

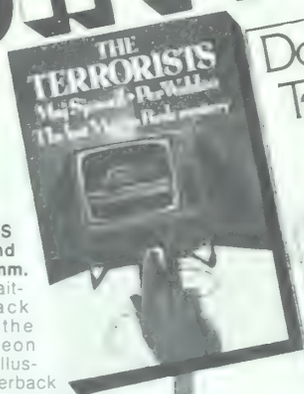
Phone your order to us at our toll-free number: 800-633-6646, ext. 339

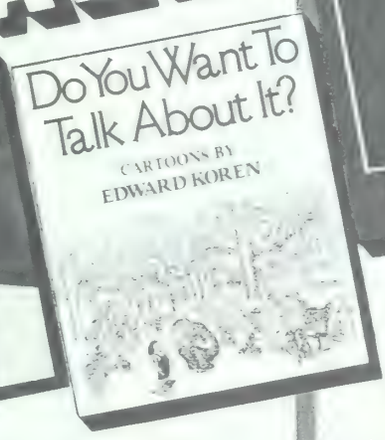
In Canada: Van Nostrand Reinhold, Ltd., 1410 Birchmount Road, Scarborough, Ontario, Canada MIP 2E7. Overseas: Feffer and Simons, Inc., 100 Park Avenue, New York, New York 10017.

PANTHEON FOR FALL '76









SEPTEMBER

RUSSIAN FAIRY TALES Collected by Aleksandr Afanas'ev. The only comprehensive English edition. 100 illustrations. Paperback Giant $5.95 (73090-9)

NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH by Poul Ørum. The spellbinding new mystery novel by the author of Scapegoat $7.95 (49779-1)

THE BLACK FAMILY IN SLAVERY AND FREEDOM, 1750-1925 by Herbert G. Gutman. "One of the two most important works of the seventies on American plantation slavery."—Stanley Elkins, Commentary $15.95 (47116-4)

THE NATURE OF ALEXANDER by Mary Renault. [illegible] $7.95 (73254-6)

DO YOU WANT TO TALK ABOUT IT? by Edward Koren. [illegible] $7.95 (40813-5)

DO YOU LOVE ME? An Entertainment in Conversation and Verse by R.D. Laing. [illegible] $4.95 (40917-4)

PHOTOMONTAGE by Dawn Ades. The manipulated photograph as art and as propaganda, shown through 174 visually startling and intellectually exciting monochromes. $10.95 (40899-3); paperback $5.95 (73255-3)

THREE KINGDOMS: China's Epic Drama by Lo Kuan-chung. Edited and translated by Moss Roberts. A handsomely illustrated translation of China's most famous historical epic. $10 (40722-9)

ACHES AND PAINS: How the Older Person Can Find Relief Using Heat, Massage, and Exercise by Robert Bristow. Illustrated; large, easy-to-read type. Previously announced. $8.95 (49163-7)

YOU AND YOUR AGING PARENT by Barbara Silverstone and Helen Kandel Hyman. A practical guide to the emotional and financial hurdles that confront the children of aging parents. $10 (49948-4)

THE TERRORISTS by Maj Sjöwall and Per Wahlöö. The final Martin Beck thriller, finished only a few weeks before Wahlöö's death. $7.95 (48532-7)

THE AMERICAN RIVALS OF SHERLOCK HOLMES edited by Hugh Greene. The best of turn-of-the-century American detective stories. $8.95 (40921-3)

CITY FAMILIES: Chicago and London by Roslyn Banish. A [illegible] logical commentary on the 1970s. $15 (49906-9); paperback $7.95 (73236-7)

THE COMPLETE GRIMM'S FAIRY TALES by Jacob and Wilhelm Grimm. The long-awaited paperback edition of the 1944 Pantheon classic. 212 illustrations. Paperback Giant $5.95 (70930-6

THE SECRET PARIS OF THE THIRTIES by Brassaï. The sordid yet fascinating world of the forbidden Paris of the 30s captured by one of France's great photographers. 150 photographs. $17.95 (40841-1)

AMERICA REBELS: Personal Narratives of the American Revolution edited by Richard M. Dorson. The dark side of American history written by the common folk who lived it. Illustrated Paperback $3.95 (73277-4)

GOYA AND THE IMPOSSIBLE REVOLUTION by Gwyn A. Williams. A brilliant exploration of the relationship between Goya's art and Spain's cultural-political crises. 98 illustrations. $15 (49304-4)

OCTOBER

AMERICA'S FORGOTTEN ARCHITECTURE by The National Trust for Historic Preservation. An eloquent plea for the preservation of neglected public buildings, commercial structures, residences, barns, and churches. 475 illustrations. $20 (49692-2); paperback $8.95 (73228-6)

NATUREBIRTH: You, Your Body, and Your Baby by Danaë Brook. Preface by Elisabeth Bing. An aware, intelligent approach for women and men, covering both the emotional needs and the practical aspects of natural birth. $8.95 (49571-3); Paperback Giant $3.95 (73259-6)

REAL LIFE: Louisville in the Twenties by Michael Lesy. An evocative view of mid-America in the Roaring Twenties by the author of the acclaimed Wisconsin Death Trip. 158 photographs. $15.95 (49813-5); paperback $7.95 (73235-9)

RADICAL SOCIAL WORK edited by Roy Bailey and Mike Brake. Introductory chapter by Richard A. Cloward and Frances Fox Piven. $8.95 (40919-1); Paperback Giant $2.95 (73265-0)

NOVEMBER

CHINESE COOKING ON NEXT TO NOTHING by Kenneth H. C. Lo. Hundreds of savory, money-saving dishes. Illustrated. $7.95 (40771-7); Paperback Giant $2.95 (73231-6)

THE WAVES AT GENJI'S DOOR: Japan Through Its Cinema by Joan Mellen. Asia Library. Over 100 photos. $15 (49799-6); Paperback Giant $7.95 (73278-2)

JANUARY

THE CONTROL OF OIL by John M. Blair. The definitive study of the world oil business. Previously announced. $15 (49470-9)

AN ENCYCLOPEDIA OF FAIRIES: Hobgoblins, Brownies, Bogies, and Other Supernatural Creatures by Katharine Briggs. Illustrated. $12.95 (40918-3)

SIMONE WEIL: A Life by Simone Pétrement. Illus. with photos. $15 (49815-1)

THE GAME OF DISARMAMENT: How the United States and Russia Run the Arms Race by Alva Myrdal. $15 (40951-9)

CHINA FROM THE OPIUM WARS TO THE 1911 REVOLUTION by Jean Chesneaux, Marianne Bastid, and Marie-Claire Bergère. The Pantheon Asia Library. $17.95 (49213-7); Paperback Giant $6.95 (70934-9)

Please add Pantheon's prefix, 0-394-, to all code numbers to get full ISBN's.

PANTHEON BOOKS
201 E. 50th Street, New York 10022

PENGUIN

August

A HOUSE FOR MR. BISWAS
A novel
by V. S. Naipaul
0-14-003025-5 $3.95

THE MIMIC MEN
A novel
by V. S. Naipaul
0-14-002940-0 $1.95

THE SUFFRAGE OF ELVIRA
A novel
by V. S. Naipaul
0-14-002938-9 $1.95

CLIMB TO THE LOST WORLD
by Hamish MacInnes
0-14-003444-7 $2.95

LORD ROCHESTER'S MONKEY
by Graham Greene
0-14-004197-4 $6.95

SHELLS IN COLOR
Photographs by Kjell B. Sandved
Text by R. Tucker Abbott
0-14-004237-7 $4.95

COOL JACK AND THE BEANSTALK
by James Stevenson
0-14-004216-4 $3.50

THE JOHN FRANKLIN BARDIN OMNIBUS
by John Franklin Bardin
Introduction by Julian Symons
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-004130-3 $2.95

THE SMALL WORLD OF MURDER
by Elizabeth Ferrars
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-004067-6 $1.95

FLASH POINT
by Michael Gilbert
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-004126-5 $1.95

RAFFLES
by E. W. Hornung
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-000063-1 $1.95

KNOW YOUR OWN PERSONALITY
by H. J. Eysenck and Glenn Wilson
PELICAN
0-14-021962-5 $1.95

RISE TO GLOBALISM: American Foreign Policy, 1938-1976
by Stephen E. Ambrose
(Revised Edition)
PELICAN
0-14-021247-7 $3.95

THE ENERGY QUESTION
by Gerald Foley
with Charlotte Nassim
and Gerald Leach
PELICAN
0-14-021924-2 $3.95

ROME AND THE MEDITERRANEAN
by Livy
Translated by Henry Bettenson
Introduction by A. H. McDonald
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044318-5 $4.95

THE BLACK SHEEP (Reissue)
by Honoré de Balzac
Translated by Donald Adamson
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044237-5 $2.25

THE BARBER OF SEVILLE and THE MARRIAGE OF FIGARO (Reissue)
by Beaumarchais
Translated by John Wood
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044133-6 $1.95

THE CONSOLATION OF PHILOSOPHY (Reissue)
by Boethius
Translated with an Introduction by V. E. Watts
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044208-1 $1.95

HESIOD AND THEOGNIS (Reissue)
Translated with an Introduction
by Dorothea Wender
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044283-9 $1.95

DE PROFUNDIS AND OTHER WRITINGS (Reissue)
by Oscar Wilde
Introduction by Hesketh Pearson
ENGLISH LIBRARY
0-14-043089-X $1.95

THREE RESTORATION COMEDIES (Reissue)
Edited with an Introduction
by Gámini Salgádo
ENGLISH LIBRARY
0-14-043027-X $2.95

THE PENGUIN BOOK OF HOME BREWING AND WINE-MAKING (Reissue)
by W. H. T. Tayleur
Drawings by Michael Spink
0-14-046190-6 $2.50

SELECTED ONE ACT PLAYS (Reissue)
by Bernard Shaw
0-14-048123-0 $1.95

September

BIOENERGETICS
by Alexander Lowen, M.D.
0-14-004322-5 $2.50

STEINBECK: A Life In Letters
Edited by Elaine Steinbeck and Robert Wallsten
0-14-004288-1 $5.95

THE GRAPES OF WRATH
A novel
by John Steinbeck
0-14-004239-3 $2.25

THE PEARL and THE RED PONY Stories
by John Steinbeck
0-14-004232-6 $1.50

TO A GOD UNKNOWN
A novel
by John Steinbeck
0-14-004233-4 $1.50

CUP OF GOLD
A novel
by John Steinbeck
0-14-004234-2 $1.95

THE CHINA HANDS: America's Foreign Service Officers And What Befell Them
by E. J. Kahn, Jr.
0-14-004301-2 $3.95

UNCLE FRED IN THE SPRINGTIME
A novel
by P. G. Wodehouse
0-14-000971-X $1.95

THE CHILD AND REALITY: Problems of Genetic Psychology
by Jean Piaget
Translated by Arnold Rosin
0-14-004308-X $1.95

THE COMEDIANS
A novel
by Graham Greene
0-14-002766-1 $1.95

GERMAN SHORT STORIES, Volume 2
Edited by David Constantine
0-14-004119-2 $2.95

VOLCANOES
by Peter Francis
0-14-021897-1 $4.95

SOCIAL ANTHROPOLOGY IN PERSPECTIVE
by I. M. Lewis
0-14-021915-3 $2.95

THE ECONOMICS OF MARX: Selected Readings of Exposition and Criticism
Edited by M. C. Howard and J. E. King
0-14-080879-5 $4.95

UNDERSTANDING ORGANIZATIONS
by Charles B. Handy
0-14-080960-0 $5.95

OTHERWISE ENGAGED AND OTHER PLAYS
by Simon Gray
0-14-048136-2 $2.50

THE PENGUIN BOOK OF LOVE POETRY
Edited by Jon Stallworthy
0-14-042148-3 $3.95

KNOW YOURSELF (KNOW YOUR OWN I.Q., CHECK YOUR OWN I.Q., KNOW YOUR OWN PERSONALITY)
by H. J. Eysenck
Boxed Gift Set
0-14-095499-6 $5.95

COUNTRY CAMERA/ COCKNEY CAMERA
by Gordon Winter
Boxed Gift Set
0-14-095498-8 $9.95

PENGUIN BOOK OF THE NATURAL WORLD / PENGUIN BOOK OF THE PHYSICAL WORLD
Boxed Gift Set
0-14-095500-3 $11.95

A CONNECTICUT YANKEE AT KING ARTHUR'S COURT (Reissue)
by Mark Twain
Introduction by Justin Kaplan
Illustrated by Dan Beard
ENGLISH LIBRARY
0-14-043064-4 $2.95

MONEY FROM HOLME (Reissue)
by Michael Innes
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-002484-0 $1.95

WHAT HAPPENED AT HAZELWOOD (Reissue)
by Michael Innes
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-002650-9 $1.95

FROM LONDON FAR (Reissue)
by Michael Innes
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-001692-9 $1.95

Cont'd

NEW GRUB STREET
(Reissue)
by George Gissing
Edited with an Introduction
by Bernard Bergonzi
ENGLISH LIBRARY
0-14-043032-6 $2.95

INTELLIGENCE AND PERSONALITY: Their Assessment and Relationship
(Reissue)
by Alice Heim
PELICAN
0-14-021216-7 $2.95

THE BEST OF FATHER BROWN
(Reissue)
by G. K. Chesterton
Boxed Gift Set
0-14-095496-1 $6.00

THE BEST OF P. G. WODEHOUSE
(Reissue)
Boxed Gift Set
0-14-095497-X $11.95

THE CHRISTMAS BOOKS
(Reissue)
by Charles Dickens
Boxed Gift Set
0-14-095074-5 $5.00

THE COMPLETE NOVELS OF JANE AUSTEN
(Reissue)
Boxed Gift Set
0-14-095126-1 $18.25

WAR AND PEACE
(Reissue)
by Leo Tolstoy
Boxed Gift Edition
0-14-095016-8 $5.00

THE PENGUIN ELIZABETH DAVID COOKERY BOOK SET
(Reissue)
Boxed Gift Edition
0-14-095010-9 $13.95

THE PENGUIN BOX OF QUOTATIONS (THE PENGUIN DICTIONARY OF QUOTATIONS, THE PENGUIN DICTIONARY OF MODERN QUOTATIONS)
(Reissue)
Compiled by J. M. and M. J. Cohen
Boxed Gift Edition
0-14-095077-X $8.25

October

A WORD CHILD
A novel
by Iris Murdoch
0-14-004286-5 $1.95

BRUNO'S DREAM
A novel
by Iris Murdoch
0-14-003176-6 $1.95

A SEVERED HEAD
A novel
by Iris Murdoch
0-14-002003-9 $1.95

PETER ABELARD
by Helen Waddell
0-14-004254-7 $1.95

PRISONER OF MAO
by Bao Ruo-Wang
(Jean Pasqualini) and Rudolph Chelminski
0-14-004112-5 $2.50

SEVEN PILLARS OF WISDOM
by T. E. Lawrence
0-14-001696-1 $4.95

BUTTERFLY MAGIC
Photographs by Kjell B. Sandved
Text by Michael G. Emsley
0-14-004289-X $4.95

THE CREATION
by Ernst Haas
0-14-004284-9 $8.95

THE INSPECTOR
by Saul Steinberg
0-14-004285-7 $6.95

ESSAYS IN ENGLISH HISTORY
by A. J. P. Taylor
0-14-021862-9 $2.95

THE PASTORAL EPISTLES 1 and 2: Timothy, Titus
by J. L. Houlden
0-14-021814-9 $2.50

SELF-PORTRAIT IN A CONVEX MIRROR
by John Ashbery
0-14-042201-3 $1.95

PRAYERS FROM THE ARK and THE CREATURES' CHOIR
by Carmen Bernos de Gasztold
Translated by Rumer Godden
Illustrated by Jean Primrose
0-14-042200-5 $2.95

TRASH CAN TOYS AND GAMES
by Leonard Todd
0-14-046250-3 $2.50

SOCIAL SCIENCE AND PUBLIC POLICY
by Martin Rein
0-14-080367-X $2.95

THE BOOK OF THE COURTIER
(Reissue)
by Baldesar Castiglione
Translated by George Bull
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044192-1 $1.95

THE CAMPAIGNS OF ALEXANDER
(Reissue)
by Arrian
Translated by Aubrey de Sélincourt
Revised with a new Introduction and notes
by J. R. Hamilton
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044253-7 $2.50

LOST ILLUSIONS
A novel
(Reissue)
by Honoré de Balzac
Translated by Herbert J. Hunt
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044251-0 $2.95

RAMEAU'S NEPHEW and D'ALEMBERT'S DREAM
(Reissue)
by Diderot
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044173-5 $1.95

KING HARALD'S SAGA
(Reissue)
Translated with an Introduction by Magnus Magnusson and Hermann Palsson
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044183-2 $1.95

THE THEORY OF THE MODERN STAGE
(Reissue)
Edited by Eric Bentley
0-14-020947-6 $3.95

THE SECOND CURTAIN
by Roy Fuller
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-001760-7 $1.95

November

SONS AND LOVERS
A novel
by D. H. Lawrence
0-14-004217-2 $2.25

WOMEN IN LOVE
A novel
by D. H. Lawrence
0-14-004260-1 $2.95

THE RAINBOW
A novel
by D. H. Lawrence
0-14-004266-0 $2.50

FOUR SHORT NOVELS
by D. H. Lawrence
0-14-003726-8 $2.50

THE GREAT AMERICAN MEDICINE SHOW: The Unhealthy State of U.S. Medical Care, and What Can Be Done About It.
by Spencer Klaw
0-14-004339-X $2.95

THE LAWLESS STATE: The Crimes of the U.S. Intelligence Agencies
by Morton H. Halperin and Robert Borosage
0-14-004386-1 $2.95

GEMINI: An Extended Autobiographical Statement on My First Twenty-Five Years of Being A Black Poet
by Nikki Giovanni
0-14-004264-4 $1.95

I AM MARY DUNNE
A novel
by Brian Moore
0-14-003634-2 $1.95

FAIR STOOD THE WIND FOR FRANCE
A novel
by H. E. Bates
0-14-001279-6 $1.95

CATCH ME A COLOBUS
by Gerald Durrell
0-14-004337-3 $1.95

FILLETS OF PLAICE
by Gerald Durrell
0-14-004338-1 $1.95

ALMAYER'S FOLLY
by Joseph Conrad
0-14-000036-4 $1.95

DRESSING OF DIAMOND
by Nicolas Freeling
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-004131-1 $1.95

THE OTTAWA ALLEGATION
by Paul Geddes
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-004081-1 $1.95

TREASURES OF TUTANKHAMUN
by I. E. S. Edwards
Foreword by Lord Trevelyan
0-14-004287-3 $5.95

TERENCE: The Comedies
Translated by Betty Radice
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044324-X $3.95

THE MABINOGION
Translated by Jeffrey Gantz
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044322-3 $2.95

THE SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY OF MENTAL DISORDER
by Jim Orford
0-14-080566-4 $2.95

REDBURN
by Herman Melville
Edited by Harold Beaver
0-14-043105-5 $3.95

SCHOPENHAUER:
Essays and Aphorisms
(Reissue)
Selected and translated with an Introduction
by R. J. Hollingdale
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044227-8 $1.95

THE CIVIL WAR
(Reissue)
by Julius Caesar
Translated with an Introduction
by Jane F. Mitchell
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044187-5 $2.95

EFFI BRIEST
(Reissue)
by Theodor Fontane
Translated by Douglas Parmée
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044190-5 $1.95

REFLECTIONS ON THE REVOLUTION IN FRANCE
(Reissue)
by Edmund Burke
Edited with an Introduction
by Conor Cruise O'Brien
PELICAN CLASSIC
0-14-040003-6 $2.50

December

THE PRIVATE WORLD OF BALLET
by John Gruen
0-14-004343-8 $4.95

THE DROWNED WORLD
SCIENCE FICTION
by J. G. Ballard
0-14-002229-5 $1.95

THE WIND FROM NOWHERE
SCIENCE FICTION
by J. G. Ballard
0-14-002591-X $1.95

EVEREST SOUTH WEST FACE
by Chris Bonington
0-14-003933-3 $2.95

CASTLE TO CASTLE
A novel
by Louis-Ferdinand Céline
Translated by Ralph Manheim
0-14-004341-1 $2.95

NORTH
A novel
by Louis-Ferdinand Céline
Translated by Ralph Manheim
0-14-004342-X $2.95

EZRA POUND
by Donald Davie
MODERN MASTERS
0-14-004318-7 $2.50

JOHN MAYNARD KEYNES
by D. E. Moggridge
MODERN MASTERS
0-14-004319-5 $2.50

T. S. ELIOT
by Stephen Spender
MODERN MASTERS
0-14-004321-7 $2.50

CLAUDE LEVI-STRAUSS
by Edmund Leach
MODERN MASTERS
0-14-004300-4 $2.50

EINSTEIN
by Jeremy Bernstein
MODERN MASTERS
0-14-004317-9 $2.50

KARL MARX
by David McLellan
MODERN MASTERS
0-14-004320-9 $1.95

ECONOMICS AND THE ENVIRONMENT
by Allen V. Kneese
0-14-0080902-3 $3.50

THE ANATOMY OF DECISIONS
by P. G. Moore and H. Thomas
0-14-080952-X $4.95

THE SCIENCE FICTION OF EDGAR ALLAN POE
Edited by Harold Beaver
ENGLISH LIBRARY
0-14-043106-3 $1.95

URSULE MIROUET
by Honoré de Balzac
Translated by Donald Adamson
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044316-9 $2.95

ENQUIRY CONCERNING POLITICAL JUSTICE
by William Godwin
Edited by Isaac Kramnick
PELICAN CLASSIC
0-14-040030-3 $4.95

A SHORTENED HISTORY OF ENGLAND
(Reissue)
by G. M. Trevelyan
PELICAN CLASSIC
0-14-020443-1 $3.95

GREEK LITERATURE:
An Anthology
(Reissue)
Edited by Michael Grant
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044323-1 $2.50

January

COLD COMFORT FARM
A novel
by Stella Gibbons
0-14-000140-9 $1.95

JUNKIE
A novel
by William S. Burroughs
0-14-004351-9 $1.95

LÉLIA: The Life of George Sand
by André Maurois
Translated by Gerald Hopkins
0-14-004354-3 $3.95

EMOTIONAL FLOODING
Edited by Paul Olsen, Ph. D.
0-14-004350-0 $0.00

THE JACARANDA TREE
A novel
by H. E. Bates
0-14-001034-3 $1.95

FROM THE CLOSET TO THE COURTS:
The Lesbian Tradition
by Ruth Simpson
0-14-004353-5 $2.25

THE OUTERMOST HOUSE
by Henry Beston
0-14-004315-2 $2.95

THE STREET OF CROCODILES
by Bruno Schulz
Introduction by Jerzy Ficowski WRITERS FROM THE
OTHER EUROPE SERIES
0-14-004227-X $2.95

THE ASPERN PAPERS
and Other Stories
by Henry James
0-14-004101-X $1.95

THE SECOND PENGUIN BOOK OF THE SUNDAY TIMES CROSSWORDS
Edited by Alan Cash
0-14-004160-5 $1.95

STRONGHOLD
by Stanley Ellin
PENGUIN CRIME
0-14-004336-5 $1.95

CRANFORD AND COUSIN PHILLIS
by Elizabeth Gaskell
Edited by Peter Keating
ENGLISH LIBRARY
0-14-043104-7 $2.95

EGIL'S SAGA
Translated by H. Pálsson and P. Edwards
PENGUIN CLASSICS
0-14-044321-5 $2.50

TIME, SPACE AND THINGS PEREGRINE
by B. K. Ridley
0-14-055113-1 $3.95

THE ENLIGHTENMENT
(Reissue)
by Norman Hampson
0-14-021004-0 $2.50

BUSINESS STRATEGY
(Reissue)
Edited by H. Igor Ansoff
0-14-080072-7 $2.50

THE HISTORY OF THE KINGS OF BRITAIN
(Reissue)
by Geoffrey of Monmouth
Translated by Lewis Thorpe
PENGUIN CLASSIC
0-14-044170-0 $1.95

PENGUIN

Fall Winter 1976-1977

NOTE: The International Standard Book Number precedes the price of each book and should be used for ordering or identification. Nothing in this advertisement prevents anyone from quoting or charging any price for these books. All prices, publication dates, and specifications are tentative and subject to change without notice

625 Madison Avenue • New York, N.Y. 10022

PRINCETON

★Literary Criticism

Poetry

Alexandria Still
Forster, Durrell, and Cavafy
JANE LAGOUDIS PINCHIN
ISBN 06283-8 • $12.50

The Analogy of The Faerie Queene
JAMES NOHRNBERG
ISBN 06307-9 • $40.00

Burn Down the Icons
Poems
GRACE SCHULMAN
Princeton Series of Contemporary Poets
ISBN 06317-6 • $7.50

The Demon of Noontide
Ennui in Western Literature
REINHARD KUHN
ISBN 06311-7 • $25.00

Dostoevsky
The Seeds of Revolt, 1821-1849
JOSEPH FRANK • ISBN 06260-9 • $16.50

The Echoing Wood of Theodore Roethke
JENIJOY LA BELLE
Princeton Essays in Literature
ISBN 06312-5 • $11.50

The Familiar Letter as a Literary Genre in the Age of Pushkin
WILLIAM MILLS TODD III
Studies of the Russian Institute, Columbia University • ISBN 06319-2 • $15.00

The Genesis of Ezra Pound's Cantos
RONALD BUSH • ISBN 06308-7 • $16 50

The Great Feast of Language in Love's Labour's Lost
WILLIAM CARROLL • ISBN 06309-5
$15.00

Keats
The Religious Sense
ROBERT M. RYAN • ISBN 06316-8 • $14.50

A Literature of Their Own
British Women Novelists from Brontë to Lessing
ELAINE SHOWALTER •
ISBN 06318-4 • $17.50

Les Contemplations* of Victor Hugo
An Allegory of the Creative Process
SUZANNE NASH • ISBN 06313-3 • $13.50

The Medieval French Roman D'Alexandre
Vol. VI: Version of Alexandre de Paris
ALFRED FOULET
Elliott Monographs in the Romance Languages and Literatures, 42
ISBN 06310-9 • $12.50

Paul Valéry
An Anthology
Selected and Introduced by
JAMES R. LAWLER
Bollingen Series XLV: A • ISBN 09928-6
$15.00

The Situation of Poetry
Contemporary Poetry and Its Traditions
ROBERT PINSKY
Princeton Essays in Literature
ISBN 06314-1 • $11.50

"The Survivor" and other Poems
TADEUSZ RÓZEWICZ
Translated and Introduced by MAGNUS J. KRYNSKI
and ROBERT A. MAGUIRE
The Lockert Library of Poetry in Translation • ISBN 06315-X • $12.50

★Art / Music

The Casino of Pius IV
GRAHAM SMITH • 8½ x 11".
ISBN 03915-1 • $20.00

Catalogue of Italian Drawings in The Art Museum, Princeton University
FELTON GIBBONS
2 vols. 8½ x 11". ISBN 03888-0 • $50.00

John Ruskin
The Argument of the Eye
ROBERT HEWISON
ISBN 03890-2 • $15.00

Murillo and His Drawings
JONATHAN BROWN
A Publication of The Art Museum, Princeton University
10¼ x 8½". ISBN 03916-X • $25.00

Names on Trees: Ariosto into Art
RENSSELAER W. LEE
Princeton Essays on the Arts, 3
ISBN 03914-3 • $14.50

Pietro da Cortona at the Pitti Palace
A Study of the Planetary Rooms and Related Projects
MALCOLM CAMPBELL
Princeton Monographs in Art and Archaeology, 41
8½ x 11". ISBN 03891-0 • $40.00

Religious Art in France: The Twelfth Century
A Study of the Origins of Medieval Iconography
EMILE MÂLE • HARRY BOBER, Editor
Translated from the French
by MARTHIEL MATHEWS
Bollingen Series XC:1
8⅝ x 10½". ISBN 09912-X • $40.00

The Repertory of Tropes at Winchester
ALEJANDRO PLANCHART
7½ x 10". ISBN 09121-8 • $22.50

Sir Charles Eastlake and the Victorian Art World
DAVID ROBERTSON
8½ x 11". ISBN 03902-X • $40.00

★Philosophy

The Existentialist Critique of Freud
The Crisis of Autonomy
GERALD N. IZENBERG
ISBN 07214-0 • $16.50

Personal Destinies
A Philosophy of Ethical Individualism
DAVID L. NORTON
ISBN 07215-9 • $22.50

★History

The Ancient Near East
Volume II: A New Anthology in Text and Pictures
Edited by JAMES B. PRITCHARD
ISBN 03549-0 • $9.50

The Black Death in the Middle East
MICHAEL W. DOLS • ISBN 03107-X
$19.50

Family Life in Renaissance Florence
Household and Lineage among the Capponi, Ginori, and Rucellai
FRANCIS WILLIAM KENT
ISBN 05237-9 • $16.50

FALL 1976

The German Diplomatic Service, 1871-1914
LAMAR CECIL • ISBN 05235-2 • $20.00

A History of Italian Fertility During the Last Two Centuries
MASSIMO LIVI-BACCI
Written under the auspices of the Office of Population Research • ISBN 09369-5 • $16.50

Eighth Edition

Iran
Past and Present
DONALD N. WILBER • ISBN 03108-8
$17.50

Jefferson's Nephews
A Frontier Tragedy
BOYNTON MERRILL, JR. • ISBN 04640-9
$16.50

Le Paradis des Femmes
Women, Salons, and Social Stratification in Seventeenth-Century France
CAROLYN C. LOUGEE
ISBN 05239-5 • $16.50

The Papers of Woodrow Wilson
Volume 22: 1910-1911
ARTHUR S. LINK, Editor
DAVID W. HIRST and JOHN E. LITTLE, Associate Editors • ISBN 04638-7 • $25.00
10% subscription discount available to libraries and individuals in the U.S. and Canada only

Princetonians, 1748-1768
A Biographical Dictionary
JAMES McLACHLAN
ISBN 04639-5 • $30.00

Printed Propaganda under Louis XIV
Absolute Monarchy and Public Opinion
JOSEPH KLAITS • ISBN 05238-7 • $19.50

Tramways and Trolleys
The Rise of Urban Mass Transport in Europe
JOHN P. McKAY • ISBN 05240-9 • $14.50

Urban Village
Community and Family in Germantown, Pennsylvania, 1683-1800
STEPHANIE GRAUMAN WOLF
ISBN 04632-8 • $19.50

★Political Science
Anthropology

Jewish Identity and the JDL
JANET L. DOLGIN • ISBN 09368-7
$12.50

International Aid and National Decisions
Development Programs in Malawi, Tanzania, and Zambia
LEON GORDENKER
Written under the auspices of the Center of International Studies, Princeton University
ISBN 05662-5 • $13.00

John Stuart Mill and Representative Government
DENNIS F. THOMPSON
ISBN 07582-4 • $13.50

The Model Ombudsman
Institutionalizing New Zealand's Democratic Experiment
LARRY B. HILL • ISBN 07579-4 • $17.50

Nubia: Corridor to Africa
WILLIAM Y. ADAMS
ISBN 09370-9 • $35.00

Parties Out of Power in Japan, 1931-1941
GORDON MARK BERGER
ISBN 03106-1 • $20.00

Perception and Misperception in International Politics
ROBERT JERVIS
Written under the auspices of the Center for International Affairs, Harvard University
ISBN 05656-0 • $22.50

The Politics of Cultural Nationalism in South India
MARGUERITE ROSS BARNETT
ISBN 07577-8 • $22.50

Red Star on the Nile
The Soviet-Egyptian Influence Relationship since the June War
ALVIN Z. RUBINSTEIN
Written under the auspices of the Foreign Policy Research Institute • ISBN 07581-6 $25.00

Simulated Worlds
A Computer Model of National Decision-Making
STUART A. BREMER • ISBN 05661-7
$13.50

Social Change and Political Participation in Turkey
ERGUN ÖZBUDUN
Written under the auspices of the Center for International Affairs, Harvard University
ISBN 07580-8 • $13.50

Structure of Decision
The Cognitive Maps of Political Elites
Edited by ROBERT AXELROD
Written under the auspices of the Institute of International Studies, University of California (Berkeley) and the Institute of Public Policy Studies, The University of Michigan
ISBN 07578-6 • $25.00

★Mathematics
Science

Introduction to Ergodic Theory
YA. G. SINAI •
Translated by V. SCHEFFER
Mathematical Notes, 18 • ISBN 08182-4
$4.50

Introduction to Partial Differential Equations
GERALD B. FOLLAND
Mathematical Notes, 17 • ISBN 08177-8
$7.00

Global Variational Analysis
Weierstrass Integrals on a Riemannian Manifold
MARSTON MORSE
Mathematical Notes, 16 • ISBN 08181-6
$6.50

Historical Studies in the Physical Sciences, Volume 7
Edited by RUSSELL McCORMMACH
ISBN 08169-7 • $28.50
10% subscription discount available to libraries and individuals in the U.S. and Canada only

3-Manifolds
JOHN HEMPEL
Annals of Mathematics Studies, 86
ISBN 08178-6 • $13.50

Optimization
A Theory of Necessary Conditions
LUCIEN W. NEUSTADT
ISBN 08141-7 • $20.00

Scattering Theory for Automorphic Functions
PETER D. LAX and RALPH S. PHILLIPS
Annals of Mathematics Studies, 87
ISBN 08179-4 • $18.50

Studies in Mathematical Physics: Essays in Honor of Valentine Bargmann
Edited by E. H. LIEB, B. SIMON, and A. S. WIGHTMAN
Princeton Series in Physics
ISBN 08180-8 • $26.50

ISBN Prefix: 0-691

★Princeton University Press
Princeton, New Jersey 08540

PRENTICE-HALL

FALL 1976

FRONT AND CENTER

Ready

THE GAME AND THE GLORY
Edited by Joseph Reichler
$19.95

THE PRACTICAL SIDE OF REINCARNATION
The Surprising Benefits of Investigating Your Past Lives—Whether or Not You Believe in Reincarnation
David Graham
$7.95

PREACHING THE GOOD NEWS
Rev. George E. Sweazey
$9.95

THE FIRST THREE YEARS OF LIFE
Burton L. White
$10.00

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF BOATING
Second Edition
Ernest A. Zadig
$14.95

DESCHLER'S RULES OF ORDER
Lewis Deschler
$10.00

IMPROVING YOUR CHILD'S BEHAVIOR CHEMISTRY
A New Way to Raise Happier Children Into Healthier Adults
Lendon Smith
$7.95

September

DAVID
Dorothy Landvater
$6.95

P.D.A.—PERSONAL DEATH AWARENESS
Breaking Free of Fear to Live a Better Life Now
J. William Worden
William Proctor
$7.95

MINOLTA SYSTEMS HANDBOOK
Joseph Cooper
$29.50

STEALING IS MY GAME
Lou Brock with
Frank Schulze
$7.95

THE BUILD IT YOURSELF FURNITURE CATALOG
Franklynn Peterson
$9.95

MEDIA SEXPLOITATION
Wilson Bryan Key
$8.95

THE ESSENTIAL FLY TIER
J. Edson Leonard
$12.95

October

DIVORCE OR MARRIAGE
A Legal Guide
Howard Bass
M.S. Rein
$9.95

MY AMERICA, YOUR AMERICA
Lawrence Welk
Illustrated
September $7.95

THE POSITIVE PRINCIPLE TODAY
Dr. Norman Vincent Peale
September $6.95

AS I SEE IT: The Autobiography of J. Paul Getty
August $10.95

THE PRO STYLE
Tom Bennett, Editor
Illustrated $17.95 until 1.31.77
October $19.95 thereafter

SKYSTONE AND SILVER
The Collector's Book of Southwest Indian Jewelry
Carl Rosnek Joseph Stacey
450 photos 300 in color
November $35.00 until 3.1.77
$39.95 thereafter

THE MORMON WAY
James A. Warner Styne M. Slade Color photos
October $25.00

THE FIGHTING IRISH
William Gildea Christopher Jennison
Illustrated
October $12.95

YUKON
Jack Hope
Photographs by Paul von Baich
Color and black & white
October $29.95

COLOR ME FLO
My Hard Life and Good Times
Flo Kennedy
Photographs $7.95 cloth
October $4.95 paper

BRIGHT WINGS OF SUMMER
David Measures
Color illustrations
October $12.95

PSYCHIC POLITICS
An Aspect Psychology Book
Jane Roberts
November $7.95

TUNE IN YESTERDAY
The Ultimate Encyclopedia of Old Time Radio 1925-1976
John Dunning
Photographs $14.95 until 1.1.77
November $17.95 thereafter

ACTIVE PARENT CONCERN
A New Home Guide to Help Your Child Do Better in School
Dr. Terrel H. Bell,
Former United States Commissioner of Education
November $8.95

THE DREAM BOATS
Nancy Holmes
Illustrated
October $9.95

AMERICA IN CROSS-STITCH
Ann Roth
$12.95

THUNDER AT HAMPTON ROADS
The U.S.S. Monitor—Its Battle with the Merrimac and Its Recent Discovery
A.A. Hoehling
$9.95

NYET
An American Rock Musician Encounters The Soviet Union
Thomas Gambino
$6.95

A SLAVER'S LOGBOOK
or
TWENTY YEARS' RESIDENCE IN AFRICA
The Original 1854 Manuscript by Captain Theophilus Conneau
$12.50

THE COLORS OF LOVE
John Alan Lee
$8.95

THE ZANE GREY COOKBOOK
George and Barbara Reiger
$9.95

THE NAMATH EFFECT
Martin Ralbovsky
$7.95

November

LIGHT AND LIGHTING IN PHOTOGRAPHY
Andreas Feininger
$11.95

THE INVESTIGATIVE JOURNALIST
Folk Heroes of a New Era
James H. Dygert
$8.95

PAGANS, PRIESTS, AND PROPHETS
A Personal Investigation into the Living Traditions of Occult Mexico
David St. Clair
$8.95

THE NOTHING LEFT OUT HOME IMPROVEMENT BOOK
Tom Philbin and
Fritz Koelbel
$8.95

A GAME OF TITANS
Gary Alan Ruse
$8.95

February

ALL THE YEARS OF AMERICAN POPULAR MUSIC
David Ewen
$14.95

PRENTICE-HALL CIP
General Book
Marketing Division
Box 500
Englewood Cliffs, N.J. 07632

Getting There is All the Fun with...

The Rand McNally Encyclopedia of Transportation

This source book is the first encyclopedic reference to integrate all aspects of transportation—land, sea and air; historical and modern. In no other single book can the layman or student find such a variety of information covered in such depth and with so much detail.

NEARLY 1,000 ENTRIES! Accelerometer • Baker, Sir Benjamin • Cab • Dog Clutch • Emission-control Systems • Flaps • Gears • Horsepower • Ion Engine • Jet Stream • Keel • Locomotives • Moscow Canal • Navigation • Ornithoper • Pitot Tube • Quay • Radar • Sailing Ships • Trevithick, Richard • Unitized Body • VTOL • Warplanes • X-15 • Yacht • Zeppelin

- The history, special vocabulary, technology and traditions of each form of transportation
- General technical terms and scientific principles relating to the field
- Achievements and products that make transportation possible, from Astrolobe to Radar to Wind Tunnel
- Alphabetically arranged to make the entire subject available to the non-specialist
- Nearly 1,000 subjects, many two full pages in length
- 16 pages in full color plus more than 350 illustrations in black-and-white

THE RAND McNALLY
ENCYCLOPEDIA OF TRANSPORTATION
272 pages
8½" x 11¾"
No. SBN-528-81050-2
$16.96

Please order from your school or library wholesaler

Rand McNally
P O Box 7600 • Chicago, Illinois 60680

RANDOM HOUSE

FALL 1976

August

THE ARDIS ANTHOLOGY OF RECENT RUSSIAN LITERATURE
Carl & Ellendea Proffer, eds.
Paperbound $6.95 (73291-X) (A)

BACKGAMMON
Barclay Cooke & Jon Bradshaw
Paperbound $5.95 (73243-X)

BLACK SUN
Geoffrey Wolff. $12.95 (47450-3)

EARTHLY BREAD
A novel by Michael Mewshaw. $7.95 (49925-5)

MAN PLUS
A novel by Frederik Pohl. $7.95 (48676-5)

MY NAME IS CLARY BROWN
A novel by Charlotte Keppel. $7.95 (40677-X)

ROUSE THE DEMON
A mystery by Carolyn Weston. $6.95 (40703-2)

THE THIRTEENTH TRIBE
Arthur Koestler. $8.95 (40284-7)

WRITE IF YOU GET WORK
Bob Elliott & Ray Goulding.
Paperbound $1.95 (73244-8)

THE YOUNG ROMANTICS
Linda Kelly. $8.95 (48705-2)

September

AMERICA'S WORKING WOMEN
Rosalyn Baxandall, Linda Gordon & Susan Reverby, eds. $15.00 (41950-5); paperbound $6.95 (72208-6)

AMERICAN TALK
J.L. Dillard. $7.95 (40012-7)

BURNING WATER
Laurette Séjourné. Paperbound $3.95 (73276-6) (S)

FLIGHT TO CANADA
A novel by Ishmael Reed. $6.95 (48754-0)

GUNS
A novel of suspense by Ed McBain. $6.95 (40679-6)

IF ELECTED . . .
The New York Times. $14.95 (40896-9)

INDEX ON CENSORSHIP
Writers & Scholars International
Vol. 5, no. 3 $2.95 (73213-8)

JAZZ IS
Nat Hentoff. $10.00 (40095-X)

McCALL'S HOW TO COPE WITH HOUSEHOLD DISASTERS
Anne Fisher Rush, Home Management Editor of McCall's. $7.95 (40775-X)

THE ROLLING STONE CALENDAR—1977
Rolling Stone Press. $4.95 (73274-X)

THE SAVE-YOUR-LIFE-DIET HIGH-FIBER COOKBOOK
David Reuben, M.D. & Barbara Reuben, M.S. $7.95 (40648-6)

SEYMOUR BRITCHKY'S NEW, REVISED GUIDE TO THE RESTAURANTS OF NEW YORK
Seymour Britchky. Paperbound $5.95 (73222-7)

SHILOH
A novel by Shelby Foote. $8.95 (40873-X)

THE SILVER LEOPARD
A novel of romantic suspense by Zoe Cass. $7.95 (40816-0)

WHAT REALLY HAPPENED TO THE CLASS OF '65?
Michael Medved & David Wallechinsky. $10.00 (40074-7)

October

AMONG THOSE PRESENT
Nancy Dickerson. $8.95 (49876-3)

ASK ME FOR TOMORROW
A novel of suspense by MARGARET MILLAR. $6.95 (40883-7)

BLOOD TIES
Anica Vesel Mander with Sarika Finci Hofbauer. $10.00 (40766-0) (M)

THE BLOOMINGDALE'S BOOK OF ENTERTAINING
Ariane & Michael Batterberry. $10.00 (40082-8)

BLUE RUSSELL
A novel by Will Bryant. $8.95 (48759-1)

BOOKS FOR INNER DEVELOPMENT
Cris Popenoe, ed. Paperbound $5.95 (73294-4) (Y)

COFFEE
Charles & Violet Schafer.
Paperbound $3.95 (73253-7) (YB)

DOLLARS AND SENSE
Betty Wuliger. $8.95 (40221-9)

THE FLIER'S WORLD
James Gilbert. $19.95 (49488-1) (R)

FROM A SPANISH PRISON
Eva Forest. $6.95 (40769-5) (M)

THE GAME OF THEIR LIVES
Dave Klein. $7.95 (40923-X)

THE GLORY BOYS
A novel by Gerald Seymour. $7.95 (40773-3)

THE KIN OF ATA ARE WAITING FOR YOU
A novel by Dorothy Bryant. $6.95 (40729-6); paperbound $2.95 (73292-0) (M)

LADY OF THE BEASTS
Poems by Robin Morgan. $8.95 (40758-X); paperbound $3.95 (73229-4)

MAKING LIFE WORK: Conversations About est with Werner Erhard
Werner Erhard. $8.95 (40979-5)

MOON, MOON
Anne Kent Rush. $15.00 (40767-9); paperbound $7.95 (73230-8) (M)

THE MOUNTAIN WORLD
Curtis W. Casewit. $19.95 (40094-1) (R)

NOW YOU SEE IT, NOW YOU DON'T
Bill Tarr & Barry Ross. $10.95 (40981-7); paperbound $5.95 (72202-7)

REMEMBER ME
A novel by Fay Weldon. $7.95 (40554-4)

SCAVULLO ON BEAUTY
Francesco Scavullo. $15.00 (40728-8)

SINGIN' AND SWINGIN' AND GETTIN' MERRY LIKE CHRISTMAS
Maya Angelou. $8.95 (40545-5)

SPEEDBOAT
A novel by Renata Adler. $7.95 (48876-8)

THE TANTRIC VIEW OF LIFE
Herbert V. Guenther. Paperbound $4.50 (73272-3) (S)

TIBETAN SACRED ART
Detlef I. Lauf. Deluxe cloth edition $37.50 (40935-3) (S)

W.H. AUDEN: Collected Poems
Edward Mendelson, ed. $17.95 (40895-0)

WALT DISNEY CHARACTERS NEEDLEPOINT BOOK
Walt Disney Productions. $8.95 (49910-7)

WILKES BOOTH CAME TO WASHINGTON
Larry Starkey. $7.95 (48894-6)

November

THE BRIC-A-BRAC MAN
A novel of suspense by Russell H. Greenan. $7.95 (40829-2)

BUDDHIST PHILOSOPHY IN THEORY AND PRACTICE
Herbert V. Guenther. Paperbound $3.95 (73721-5) (S)

CHIEF COUNSEL: Inside the Ervin Committee—the Untold Story of Watergate
Samuel Dash. $10.00 (40853-5)

THE CUISINE OF THE SUN
Mireille Johnston. $12.95 (49438-5)

FEMINIST REVOLUTION
Redstockings, Eds. $10.00 (40821-7); paperbound $4.50 (73240-5)

FIRST THOUGHT BEST THOUGHT
Chogyam Trungpa. Original Paperbound $3.95 (73269-3) (S)

THE GREAT FOOD PROCESSOR COOKBOOK
Yvonne Young Tarr. $12.50 (40523-4); paperbound $6.95 (73284-7)

THE GREATEST BATTLE
Ronald J. Glasser, M.D. $6.95 (40018-6)

INDEX ON CENSORSHIP
Writers & Scholars International.
Vol. 5 no. 4. $2.95 (73214-6)

INNER TENNIS: Playing the Game
W. Timothy Gallwey. $8.95 (40043-7)

LIVING IN ONE ROOM
Jon Naar & Molly Siple. $10.95 (40846-2); paperbound $5.95 (72076-8)

THE MAGIC MIRROR OF M.C. ESCHER
Bruno Ernst. $15.00 (49217-X)

McCALL'S COOKING SCHOOL
Editors of McCall's Magazine. $7.95 (40898-5)

MISTRESS OF THE BOARDS
A novel by Richard Sumner. $8.95 (40857-8)

RAILROAD: Trains and Train People
Miller Williams & James A. McPherson. $15.00 (49857-7); paperbound $7.95 (73237-5)

ROCKNE
Jerry Brondfield. $8.95 (40145-X)

THE ROLLING STONE ILLUSTRATED HISTORY OF ROCK & ROLL
Rolling Stone Press. $19.95 (40327-4); paperbound $9.95 (73238-3)

SELF-PORTRAITS
Collected by Burt Britton. $12.50 (49648-5); paperbound $5.95 (73104-2)

THE SEPHER YETSIRA
Carlo Suarès. Original Paperbound $4.95 (73273-1) (S)

THE SORCERER OF BOLINAS REEF
Charles Reich. $8.95 (49192-0)

THE WORLD ATLAS OF GOLF
Pat Ward-Thomas, Herbert Warren Wind, Peter Thomson & Charles Price. $25.00 (40814-4)

THE WORLD'S GREATEST TEAM: A Portrait of the Boston Celtics 1957-69
Jeff Greenfield. $7.95 (49560-8)

December

FAMILY FORTUNE
A novel of romantic suspense by Mignon G. Eberhart. $7.95 (40723-7)

January

THE BLUE CLIFF RECORDS, Vol. 1
Translated from the Chinese by Thomas & J.C. Cleary. Original Paperbound $4.95 (73270-7) (S)

THE DELECTABLE MOUNTAINS
A novel by Michael Malone. $8.95 (49729-5)

THE GERMAN AFFAIR
A novel by Theodore Weesner. $7.95 (48433-9)

THE KING JAMES VERSION
A novel by Stanley Stewart. $9.95 (40042-9)

ON YOUR OWN: 99 Alternatives to a 9-5 Job
Kathy Matthews. $10.00 (40980-9); paperbound $3.45 (72090-3)

POUR THE HEMLOCK
A novel of suspense by A.J. Russell. $7.95 (49629-9)

SELECTED POEMS: 1923-1975
Robert Penn Warren. $15.00 (40531-5); Limited, boxed, signed edition $25.00 (40917-5); paperbound $5.95 (73264-2)

THEY CAME BEFORE COLUMBUS
Ivan Van Sertima. $12.95 (40245-6)

WINNERS AND LOSERS
Gloria Emerson. $10.00 (48413-4)

Please add Random's prefix, 0-394-, to all code numbers to get full ISBN's

(A) Ardis title (S) Shambhala Publications
(M) Moon Books (Y) Yes, Inc. books
(R) Ridge Press (YB) Yerba Buena Press book

RANDOM HOUSE
201 E. 50th St., New York 10022

RODALE PRESS, INC.

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF COMMON DISEASES
by THE EDITORS OF PREVENTION® MAGAZINE. A new, updated edition of the home medical reference that sold 200,000 copies.
Drawings / Tables / Charts / Index / ISBN 0-87857-113-2 $19.95 hardcover / ISBN 0-87857-150-7 $21.95 deluxe / July

A VETERINARY GUIDE FOR ANIMAL OWNERS
Cattle, Goats, Sheep, Horses, Pigs, Poultry, Rabbits, Dogs, Cats
by C. E. SPAULDING, D.V.M. The first handbook for the consumer on symptoms, injuries, medication, and first aid.
60 illustrations / Appendix / Glossary / ISBN 0-87857-118-3 / $9.95 hardcover / August

DECORATING WITH FLOWERS
by PAMELA WESTLAND. Literally hundreds of ways to brighten a home with flowers, plus full information on flower care.
32 full-color pages / 20 drawings / ISBN 0-87857-126-4 / $12.95 hardcover / August

THE ORGANIC GARDENING AND FARMING POCKET PLANNING GUIDE AND COUNTRY CALENDAR FOR 1977
by the EDITORS OF ORGANIC GARDENING AND FARMING® MAGAZINE. A diary, almanac, and week-by-week, season-by-season planning guide.
Wire binding / ISBN 0-87857-151-5 / $2.95 / August

CHICKENS IN YOUR BACKYARD
A Beginner's Guide
by GAIL AND RICK LUTTMAN. How to house, feed, incubate, butcher, and show chickens.
Index / ISBN 0-87857-125-6 / $3.95 paperback / September

THE FIBER FACTOR
How to Stay Healthy With Bran and High-Fiber Foods by ANNE MOYER and the EDITORS OF PREVENTION® MAGAZINE. What fiber is, how to prepare it, what specific diseases it prevents.
Index / ISBN 0-87857-127-2 / $3.95 paperback / August

WOOD HEAT
by JOHN VIVIAN. How to stay warm and save money with wood-burning appliances.
Appendix / Index / ISBN 0-87857-149-3 $4.95 paperback / ISBN 0-87857-131-0 $8.95 hardcover

TREES FOR THE YARD, ORCHARD, AND WOODLOT
Propagation, Pruning, Landscaping, Orcharding, Sugaring, Woodlot Management, Traditional Uses edited by ROGER B. YEPSEN, JR. Eight experts have created the most helpful reference available on North American trees.
160 drawings / Maps / Index / ISBN 0-87857-130-2 / $8.95 hardcover / October

THE PRACTICAL ENCYCLOPEDIA OF NATURAL HEALING
by MARK BRICKLIN. The most comprehensive guide ever to non-drug, non-surgical healing.
Index / ISBN 0-87857-136-1 / $12.95 hardcover / October

AMERICAN BICYCLE RACING
edited by JAMES C. McCULLAGH. A "how-to" handbook, history of the sport, and spectator's guide.
50 photographs / Index / ISBN 0-87857-144-2 / $3.95 paperback / November

FALL 1976

ENERGY WE CAN LIVE WITH Approaches to Energy That Are Easy on the Earth and Its People edited by DANIEL WALLACE. Practical methods for personal, inexpensive, ecologically safe energy use.
Index / ISBN 0-87857-153-1 / $3.95 paperback / November

SMALL SCALE GRAIN RAISING
by GENE LOGSDON. A new—and long-needed—self-sufficiency handbook on backyard grain-growing.
Illustrations / Glossary / Index / ISBN 0-87857-147-7 $3.95 paperback / ISBN 0-87857-134-5 $7.95 hardcover / January

THE HIDDEN MAGIC OF SEEDS
by DOROTHY SHUTTLESWORTH, illustrated by JOHN HAMBERGER. A wonderful introduction to plants for children.
Illustrated in color / ISBN 0-87857-128-0 / $5.95 hardcover / September

MY OWN HERB GARDEN
by ALLAN A. SWENSON, illustrated by ALLIANORA ROSSE. How young gardeners can grow and enjoy herbs.
32 color illustrations / ISBN 0-87857-129-9 / $5.95 hardcover / September

BZZZ: A Beekeeper's Primer
by EVELYN FATIGATI, illustrated by the author. Fascinating lore about bees and honey for young readers.
45 illustrations / ISBN 0-87857-119-1 / $4.95 / Previously announced

LOS VIEJOS
Secrets of Long Life from the Sacred Valley
by GRACE HALSELL. How the people in a remote Ecuadorian village enjoy good health well past the age of 100.
20 photographs / Index / ISBN 0-87857-135-3 / $6.95 / August

Dates, prices, titles, and manufacturing specifications of all books and calendars announced are subject to change without notice. The listing of a price for any title in this advertisement is not intended to control the resale price thereof.

RODALE PRESS, INC. EMMAUS, PA 18049

RUTGERS UNIVERSITY PRESS

for fall

CHANGING LAW
A Biography of Arthur T. Vanderbilt
Arthur T. Vanderbilt II
New Jersey's turbulent political scene between 1906 and 1957 provides a fitting backdrop for this life of Arthur T. Vanderbilt, a former Chief Justice of New Jersey and once the President of the American Bar Association. His efforts to reorganize the courts and change the law became the basis of a later nation-wide impetus toward legal reform. 296 pages, 10 pages of photographs, notes. September
ISBN: 0-8135-0811-8 $17.50t

PASSAGE
BETWEEN RIVERS
A Portfolio of Photographs with a History of the Delaware and Raritan Canals
Elizabeth G. C. Menzies
Reproductions of charming 19th century engravings, and the author's stunning photographs make this a handsome and nostalgic evocation of the water and land routes across central New Jersey. 144 pages, 210 illustrations. September
ISBN: 0-8135-0831-2 $9.50s;
ISBN: 0-8135-0832-0 Paper, $4.95t

KEEPING WATCH
Robert Pack
Lyrical praise for the sun, things familial and the seasons, from "one of the few really first-class poets in America." —John Gardner. "Robert Pack has a place to stand (Vermont) and a lever (his considerable technical skill)... These ripe, sleek poems are his finest to date."—Mona Van Duyn. 96 pages. August ISBN: 0-8135-0823-1, $6.75t
ISBN: 0-8135-0828-2 Paper, $2.95t

GEORGE HAMMELL COOK
A Life in Agriculture and Geology, 1818-1889
Jean Wilson Sidar
This is an outstanding biography of a pioneer 19th century scientist whose reputation and influence extended to national and international circles in geology and agriculture. 204 pages, 16-page photo gallery, notes, index.
ISBN: 0-8135-0827-4 September $11.95s

ON THE RIVER
A Variety of Canoe & Small Boat Voyages
Walter Magnes Teller
A delightful piece of Americana and a tangible reminder of a time when man lived closer to nature. This collection of canoeing tales is a marvelous celebration of one man's most enduring invention. It brought civilization to an entire continent, and later, beginning in the 19th century, helped man to escape from the ravages of urbanization. 128 pages. Contemporary illustrations and maps.
October ISBN: 0-8135-0822-2 $12.50s;
ISBN: 0-8135-0834-7 Paper, $5.95t

THE CONCEPT OF THE POLITICAL
BY CARL SCHMITT
Translation, Introduction, and Notes by George Schwab. With Comments on Schmitt's Essay by Leo Strauss.
A major statement by a political theorist who belongs "to the same intellectual family as Machiavelli, Hobbes and Max Weber." In "The Concept of the Political" Schmitt presents a conservative's view of the Weimar Republic and a searching critique of liberal democracy. 120 pages, notes.
September ISBN: 0-8135-0821-5
$8.00s; ISBN: 0-8135-0833-9
Paper, $3.50t

ELIZABETHAN
EROTIC NARRATIVES
Irony and Pathos in the Ovidian Poetry of Shakespeare, Marlowe, and Their Contemporaries
William Keach
Excerpts and a critical study of brief erotic mythologies by Shakespeare, Marlowe and their contemporaries that mix the comic and the grotesque, the romantic and the brutally physical. 228 pages, frontispiece, 14 illustrations, notes, index. November
ISBN: 0-8135-0830-4 $16.00s

Previously Announced...

SAMUEL BECKETT AND THE PESSIMISTIC TRADITION
Steven J. Rosen
200 pages, notes, index.
November ISBN:0-8135-0809-6 $12.50t

s short discount • t trade discount

RUTGERS
UNIVERSITY PRESS
30 College Avenue, New Brunswick N.J. 08903

FALL 1976 SCRIBNERS

■ SEPTEMBER

Berndt Berglund
WILDERNESS LIVING
684-14747-5 $8.95

Pierre Berloquin
100 NUMERICAL GAMES
684-14668-1 $7.95

Edwin C. Bliss
GETTING THINGS DONE
The ABC's of Time Management
684-14644-4 $6.95

Simon Brett
CAST, IN ORDER OF DISAPPEARANCE
684-14707-6 $6.95

Linda Crawford
IN A CLASS BY HERSELF
684-14759-9 $7.95

John Creasey
SEND SUPERINTENDENT WEST
684-14730-0 $6.95

John L. Feirer
WOOD: Materials and Processes
684-14803-X $17.50

Flying Magazine
SPORT FLYING
684-14494-8 $14.95

Martin Gardner
THE INCREDIBLE DR. MATRIX
684-14669-X $8.95

Lazer Goldberg
LEARNING TO CHOOSE
684-14575-8 $8.95

Michael Grant
SAINT PAUL
684-14682-7 $14.95

Henry Gross
SIMPLIFIED BOOKBINDING
684-14616-9 $9.95
684-14632-0 $3.95, paper

HISTORIC BUILDINGS OF MASSACHUSETTS
684-14567-7 $14.95
684-14560-X $7.95, paper

Harry J. Hobbs
VENEER CRAFT FOR EVERYONE 684-14614-2 $12.95

Christopher Jargocki
SCIENCE BRAIN-TWISTERS, PARADOXES, AND FALLACIES
684-14532-4 $9.95

Paul Kennedy
THE RISE AND FALL OF BRITISH NAVAL MASTERY
684-14609-6 $15.00

Dorcas MacClintock
A NATURAL HISTORY OF ZEBRAS 684-14621-5 $7.95

Harland Manchester
NEW TRAIL BLAZERS OF TECHNOLOGY
684-14718-1 $7.95

Geoffrey Marks and William K. Beatty
EPIDEMICS 684-14568-5 $9.95

Margaret Medley
THE CHINESE POTTER
A Practical History of Chinese Ceramics 684-14684-3 $10.00

Harry Milt
ALCOHOLISM: ITS CAUSES AND CURES 684-14667-3 $7.95

Lesley Orrey, Ed.
THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF OPERA 684-13630-9
$22.50 until 12/31
$25.00 thereafter

Alan Palmer
BISMARCK 684-14683-5 $12.50

John Pudney
LEWIS CARROLL AND HIS WORLD 684-14728-9 $8.95

B.W. Robinson, Ernst J. Grube, G.M. Meredith-Owens and R.W. Skelton ISLAMIC PAINTING AND THE ARTS OF THE BOOK
684-14789-0 $90.00

Victor B. Scheffer
A NATURAL HISTORY OF MARINE MAMMALS
684-14576-6 $7.95

Lionel Trilling
THE LIBERAL IMAGINATION
Essays on Literature and Society
684-14731-9 $20.00
684-14732-7 $3.95, paper

Richard Vicary
MANUAL OF LITHOGRAPHY
684-14748-3 $9.95

■ HUDSON RIVER EDITIONS*

Carlos Baker
ERNEST HEMINGWAY
A Life Story 684-14740-8 $17.50

James H. Breasted
THE DAWN OF CONSCIENCE
684-14741-6 $12.50

F. Scott Fitzgerald
TAPS AT REVEILLE
684-14742-4 $10.00

Henry James
THE HENRY JAMES READER
684-14745-9 $12.50

Ring Lardner
THE BEST SHORT STORIES OF RING LARDNER
684-14743-2 $10.00

Annabelle M. Melville
ELIZABETH BAYLEY SETON
684-14735-1 $12.50

Howard Pyle
THE STORY OF KING ARTHUR AND HIS KNIGHTS
684-14814-5 $12.50

C.P. Snow
THE MASTERS
684-14744-0 $10.00

Edith Wharton
A BOOK OF GHOST STORIES
684-14829-3 $10.00

Thomas Wolfe
OF TIME AND THE RIVER
684-14739-4 $17.50

■ CALENDARS

Nancy Noland Kurten
NEEDLEPOINT 77
684-14634-7 $4.95

Sam Moskowitz
SCIENCE FICTION CALENDAR 1977 684-14635-5 $4.95

Jane Sarnoff and Reynold Ruffins
THE 1977 BEASTLY RIDDLE CALENDAR 684-14636-3 $3.95

SIERRA CLUB ENGAGEMENT CALENDAR 1977
684-14639-8 $4.95

SIERRA CLUB WILDERNESS CALENDAR 1977
684-14638-X $4.95

SIERRA CLUB WILDLIFE CALENDAR 1977
684-14640-1 $4.95

SIERRA CLUB TRAIL CALENDAR 1977
684-14637-1 $4.95

WHAT THE FOREST TELLS ME
The 1977 Sierra Club Calendar and Almanac for Children
684-14709-2 $4.95

DICTIONARY OF AMERICAN HISTORY, Rev. Ed. 1976
7 vols. plus index $340.00
Available exclusively from the Reference Department of Charles Scribner's Sons.

■ OCTOBER

Allan G. Blue
PICTORIAL HISTORY OF THE B24 LIBERATOR BOMBER
684-14508-1 $14.95

Robert Campbell
THE GOLDEN YEARS OF BROADCASTING
50 Years of Radio and Television on NBC 684-14816-1
$16.95 until 12/31
$20.00 thereafter

Robert Creeley
SELECTED POEMS
684-14705-X $7.95
684-14810-2 $3.95, paper

Brian Crozier
THE MAN WHO LOST CHINA
684-14686-X $12.95

Dadant & Sons, Eds.
THE HIVE AND THE HONEY BEE
684-14790-4 $14.95

Philip C. Dolce and George H. Skau
POWER AND THE PRESIDENCY
684-14603-7 $12.50

David E. Fisher
THE LAST FLYING TIGER
684-14751-3 $8.95

Christopher Foss
ARTILLERY OF THE WORLD, Rev. Ed. 684-14787-4 $8.95

Christopher Foss
MILITARY VEHICLES OF THE WORLD 684-14678-9 $7.95

James Gunn
THE MAGICIANS
684-14782-3 $7.95

Robert A. Hart
THE ECCENTRIC TRADITION
American Diplomacy in the Far East 684-14662-2 $10.95

Charles Hayward
ANTIQUE FURNITURE REPAIRS
684-14720-3 $7.95

Douglas C. Jones
THE COURT MARTIAL OF GEORGE ARMSTRONG CUSTER
684-14738-6 $8.95

David Krause
SEAN O'CASEY AND HIS WORLD 684-14727-0 $8.95

Terence Lambert
LAMBERT'S BIRDS OF GARDEN AND WOODLAND
684-14795-5 $12.50

Sandra Ley
RUSSIAN AND OTHER SLAVIC EMBROIDERY DESIGNS
684-14734-3 $12.50

Sam Moskowitz
STRANGE HORIZONS
The Spectrum of Science Fiction
684-14774-2 $8.95

Morris Philipson
THE WALLPAPER FOX
684-14773-4 $7.95

Abraham Shulman
THE NEW COUNTRY
684-14704-1 $12.95

Stephen Spotte
SECRETS OF THE DEEP
684-14376-3 $7.95

W.A. Swanberg
NORMAN THOMAS
The Last Idealist
684-14768-8 $14.95

David Weitzman
UNDERFOOT
A Guide to Exploring and Preserving America's Past
684-14767-X $12.95

Colin White
DULAC 684-14791-2
$22.50 until 12/31
$25.00 thereafter

Walter M. Whitehill and Norman Kotker
MASSACHUSETTS
A Pictorial History
684-14358-5 $25.00

Doreen Yarwood
THE ARCHITECTURE OF BRITAIN 684-14729-7 $14.95

■ NOVEMBER

James Cornell
THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL DISASTER BOOK
684-14780-7 $12.50

Alexander DeConde
THIS AFFAIR OF LOUISIANA
684-14687-8 $12.50

Arnold Friedmann
COMMONSENSE DESIGN
A Complete Guide to Good Interior Design on a Budget
684-14685-1 $14.95
684-14688-6 $6.95, paper

Peter Hill
THE HUNTERS
684-14807-2 $6.95

John Holland Smith
THE DEATH OF CLASSICAL PAGANISM 684-14449-2 $10.00

Oliver Impey
CHINOISERIE
The Impact of Chinese Styles on Western Art and Decoration
684-14679-7 $14.95

Maggie Lane
MAGGIE LANE'S NEEDLEPOINT PILLOWS
684-14760-2 $9.95
684-14724-6 $4.95, paper

Maggie Lane
RUGS AND WALL HANGINGS
684-14670-3 $14.95

Gwen Moffat
OVER THE SEA TO DEATH
684-14808-0 $6.95

Patrick Moore
COMETS 684-14749-1 $7.95

Louise Nevelson
DAWNS + DUSKS
Taped Conversations with Diana MacKown
684-14781-5 $10.00

Betty Parker and Edith Martin
EMBROIDERY MAGIC ON PATTERNED FABRICS
684-14722-X $14.95

Michael J. H. Taylor and John W. R. Taylor
HELICOPTERS OF THE WORLD
684-14799-8 $7.95

Michael J. H. Taylor and John W. R. Taylor
MISSILES OF THE WORLD
684-14135-3 $7.95

■ DECEMBER

Clare Barroll
SEASON OF THE HEART
684-14811-0 $8.95

Charles Messenger
THE BLITZKRIEG STORY
684-14801-3 $10.00

Bill Robinson
AMERICA'S SAILING BOOK
684-14736-X $12.95

■ JANUARY

Michael Delving
THE CHINA EXPERT
684-14737-8 $6.95

Richard Perceval Graves
LAWRENCE OF ARABIA AND HIS WORLD
684-14726-2 $8.95

Joseph G. E. Hopkins, Ed.
CONCISE DICTIONARY OF AMERICAN BIOGRAPHY, Rev. Ed. 684-14654-1 $45.00

David L. Malickson and John W. Nason
ADVERTISING—HOW TO WRITE THE KIND THAT WORKS
684-14770-X $12.50
684-14771-8 $4.95, paper

John MacQuarrie
PRINCIPLES OF CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY, Second Ed.
684-14776-9 $15.00

Alexander McKee
DEATH RAFT 684-14809-9 $8.95

Robert Scharff
THE FURNITURE MAKER'S HANDBOOK 684-14499-9 $17.50

■ FEBRUARY

Bruce Cook
DALTON TRUMBO
684-14750-5 $10.95

Loretta Holz
HOW TO SELL YOUR ART AND CRAFTS
A Marketing Guide for Creative People 684-14806-4 $12.50

Stanley Leinwoll
SO YOU THINK YOU'RE COVERED A Consumer's Guide to Home Fire Insurance
684-14792-0 $6.95

David Reck
MUSIC OF THE WHOLE EARTH
684-14631-2 $19.95
684-14633-9 $9.95, paper

Anne Warboys
EVERY MAN A KING
684-14702-5 $7.95

*All Hudson River prices are special discount.

Prices and publication dates are tentative and subject to change.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

Order Dept: Vreeland Avenue, Totowa, New Jersey 07512

Fall 1976 / A new name / A bright new list!

Over 200,000 copies of THE FORMULA BOOK now in print!

THE FORMULA BOOK 2

by NORMAN STARK. "Want to make your own insecticide, beauty mask, car wax, or hundreds of other chemical-based products much more cheaply than you can buy them? [This book] tells you how in language so simple Mary Hartman could follow it." —Science Digest. The follow-up companion volume to the best-selling FORMULA BOOK with all-new money-saving recipes for gardening, personal, pet and home care. Author tours. Major advertising campaign. Cloth $10.00; ISBN: 0-8362-0675-4. Paper $5.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0676-2

THE CHURCH AND THE HOMOSEXUAL

by JOHN J. McNEILL, S.J. "An important 'first,' a rational yet compassionate reevaluation based on Scriptural exegesis and current psychological research." —Publishers Weekly. "Much more than a cause celebre, his temperate but forceful essay makes a significant contribution to moral theology, articulating perspectives that could radically alter traditional sexual ethics . . . A fine pioneering work that very much needed to be written."—Kirkus Reviews. "A theologically and ethically enlightened attempt to demonstrate the intellectual baselessness of current attitudes and policies concerning homosexuality, and to commend a wiser and kinder pastoral approach to the problems and potentialities of homosexuals. . . ." —James Gaffney, America. National author tour. Major advertising campaign. $10.00; ISBN: 0-8362-0683-5

THE YANKEE AND COWBOY WAR: Conspiracies from Dallas to Watergate

by CARL OGLESBY. "Oglesby might be dismissed as a conspiracy nut were his book not informed by sober political analysis and a wealth of careful documentation." — Publishers Weekly. Recent so-called "new findings" on the Kennedy assassination have not been news to this book which pulls together seemingly isolated political events into a convincingly coherent framework of conspiracy. This balanced analysis lays bare the errors of the Warren Report and the skeletons of government, business, and the intelligence community. "Not only exciting and thoroughly researched, it presents the only analytic framework . . . which makes sense of the violent events of the last decade and a half. A giant breakthrough in explaining our recent history."—Murray Rothbard, economist, author of AMERICA'S GREAT DEPRESSION. Cloth $12.00; ISBN: 0-8362-0680-0. Paper $4.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0688-6.

THE NOTRE DAME BEFORE AND AFTER THE GAME COOKBOOK

edited by FLO YEANDEL with foreword by THEODORE M. HESBURGH, President of University of Notre Dame. "A real crowd-pleaser . . . appealing recipes for all tastes, from hors d'oeuvre to desserts and drinks . . . hearty, robust fare (what else, from Notre Dame?)."—M. Frank Jones, Bon Appetit. Contains more than 300 recipes contributed by the faculty and staff of Notre Dame. Tested by lusty appetites, these recipes are of international scope ranging from Ara Parseghian's Stuffed Grape Leaves to Beef Rouladen. $6.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0667-3.

UNDERGROUND NOTES

By MIHAJLO MIHAJLOV. Foreword by Vladimir Maximov, author of THE SEVEN DAYS OF CREATION. "The author's chief preoccupation is the new hope he sees in those present and former political prisoners who share a common experience in their discovery of resources available to the inner man; thus the gain the strength and intent to resist totalitarianism. . . . It is close to its roots in Shestov and Berdyaev, is in effective conversation with Solzhenitsyn, Djilas, Synavsky-Tertz, Sakharov, N. Mandelstam, and plausibly dismisses Garaudy, Servan-Schreiber, Marcuse as shallow! As a bonus one piece is good original comment on Anna Karenina."—Kirkus Reviews. $10.00; ISBN: 0-8362-0652-5.

HAPPINESS WITHOUT SEX AND OTHER THINGS TOO GOOD TO MISS

By DR. WALT MENNINGER. "We have long needed precisely the type of advice you are offering."—Tom Eblen, Managing Editor, Kansas City Star. "Our society has grown so complex that we need some answers to everyday events and problems in an understandable form."—Richard E. Wise, Publisher, Winchester (In.) News-Gazette. The fact that it's OK to have happiness without sex is just one of the fresh insights of Dr. Menninger, a member of the famous family of psychiatric pioneers in Topeka, Ks. Here is a sound mixture of advice and proven principles of modern psychiatric methods. $5.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0679-7.

Cartoon Stories for New Children

THE POGO CANDIDATURE

by WALT and SELBY KELLY. In a delightful, reflective image of American politics, the inimitable Pogo is put up for the presidency in a parable that punctures political pretensions. A smile-a-page classic civics-class lesson on the process of American politics. $1.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0687-8.

SHOOT, TANK, SHOOT!

by JEFF MILLAR and BILL HINDS. Afterword by Roger Caras. Tank McNamara, the nation's most popular sportscaster, sheds his double-knit suit and dons newly purchased hunting garb only to find his spirit akin to a young boy with keen anxieties about shooting and hunting. With pro- and anti-hunting groups squaring off in senseless debate, this book offers a chance to lower the voices. $1.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0668-1

Already published books in the Cartoon Stories for New Children series:

JOANIE by Garry Trudeau, WE'LL TAKE IT FROM HERE, SARGE By Garry Trudeau, WHAT IS GOD'S AREA CODE? by Jack Moore, FRANCINE, YOUR FACE WOULD STOP A CLOCK by Mell Lazarus, LET'S SEE IF ANYONE SALUTES by Milton Caniff, THE SMOKE FROM GASOLINE ALLEY by Dick Moores, IF I QUIT BASEBALL, WILL YOU STILL LOVE ME? by Jeff Millar and Bill Hinds.

Cartoon Bible Stories for Children

Edited by Dr. Charlie Shedd. In this series important Biblical lessons — both theological and ethical — are visually interpreted to encourage parent and children in the examination of their faith and practices.

JONAH AND THE WHALE

by BILL WALSH with afterword by DR. CHARLIE SHEDD. This fresh artistic interpretation will delight children and refresh the memories and appreciation of adults for the constancy of God's love. $1.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0689-4.

Alligator Original Paperback

THE NEW ETIQUETTE

by MAUREEN ELENA REARDON. An approach to problems and questions on social discourse on a practical and sensible level. The author makes neither rule nor fiat, but deals with a social reality based on equality of sex and class. Does the male have to ask for a date first? How do you handle nosy in-laws? What to say to a neighbor's obnoxious child? Paper $5.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0671-1.

Studies in Economic Theory

CAPITAL EXPECTATIONS AND THE MARKET PROCESS

Essays on the Theory of the Market Economy by LUDWIG M. LACHMANN, edited with an introduction by WALTER E. GRINDER. Cloth $12.00; ISBN: 8362-0678-9. Paper $4.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0682-7

ECONOMICS AS A COORDINATION PROBLEM

The Contributions of Friedrich A. Hayek by GERALD P. O'DRISCOLL, JR. The first full-length study on the economic writings of Nobel Laureate Hayek. Cloth $12.00; ISBN: 0-8362-0662-2. Paper $4.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0663-0.

CAPITAL INTEREST AND RENT

Essays on the Theory of Distribution by FRANK A. FETTER, edited with an Introduction by MURRAY N. ROTHBARD. More than 20 of Fetter's scientific papers. Cloth $12.00; ISBN: 0-8362-0684-3. Paper $4.95; ISBN: 0-8362-0685-1.

Already published Studies in Economic Theory:

FOUNDATIONS OF MODERN AUSTRIAN ECONOMICS edited by Edwin Dolan, AMERICA'S GREAT DEPRESSION by Murray N. Rothbard, THE ECONOMIC POINT OF VIEW by Israel Kirzner, THE ECONOMICS OF LUDWIG VON MISES introduction by Laurence S. Moss.

SA&McM

SHEED ANDREWS and McMEEL, INC.

James F. Andrews, president/ editor
John P. McMeel, executive vice-president / sales director

6700 Squibb Road
Mission, Kansas 66202
Order Dept. Toll Free
1-800-255-6734

SIMON AND SCHUSTER

AUGUST

Charlie, Come Home, a novel by R. F. Delderfield. $8.95

Whole House Catalog, by the Editors of Consumer Guide®. $7.95, paper

Consumer Guide® The Joy of Living Series, by the Editors of Consumer Guide® (each title is paper, $1.95): Blue Ribbon Canning and Preserving; Bromeliads and Orchids; Cacti and Other Succulents; Cut Flowers; Designing with Indoor Plants; Hanging Plants

The Last Chance, a novel by Rona Jaffe. $8.95

The New Seasoning, by Graham Kerr. $7.95

The McCall's Book of America's Favorite Needlework & Crafts. $14.95

SEPTEMBER

20th Century Journey, A Memoir of a Life and the Times, by William L. Shirer. $12.50

Lost Pony, by George Mendoza. Photographs by René Burri. $12.95, cloth. $5.95, paper

The Crossword Book of Quotations, Series 6, by Eugene T. Maleska. $2.95, spiral-bound

P.E.T. in Action, Inside P.E.T. Families: New Problems, Insights and Solutions in Parent Effectiveness Training, by Thomas Gordon, Ph.D. $10.95

Consumer Guide® Indoor Plant Care, by Virginia L. Beatty and the Editors of Consumer Guide®. $8.95, cloth. $4.95, paper

Some Must Watch While Some Must Sleep, by William C. Dement. Portable Stanford/San Francisco Book Company. $8.95, cloth. $3.95, paper

Lady Oracle, a novel by Margaret Atwood. $8.95

Parents, Unite! The Complete Guide for Shaking Up Your Children's School, by Philip and Susan Jones. A Wyden Book. $9.95

Russia, by Marianne Sinclair. $29.95

Three and a Half Husbands, by Dorothy Fuldheim. $6.95

Sombrero Fallout, A Japanese Novel, by Richard Brautigan. $6.95

Ethics and Profits: The Crisis of Confidence Within American Business, by Leonard Silk and David Vogel. $8.95

An Incomplete Guide to the Future, by Willis W. Harmon. Portable Stanford/San Francisco Book Company. $8.95, cloth $3.95, paper

A Sea-Change, a novel by Lois Gould. $6.95

Heartbreak Hotel, a novel by Anne Rivers Siddons. $7.95

J. K. Lasser's Successful Tax Planning for Real Estate. $12.50

The Settlement Cook Book, newly revised and expanded. $9.95

Freedom From Compulsion: How to Liberate Yourself From the Uptight, Obsessive Patterns of Living That Rob You of Peace of Mind, by Dr. Leonard Cammer. $8.95

The Marvel Comics Memory Album Calendar 1977. $3.95, spiral-bound

Consumer Guide® CB Operator's Kit, by the Editors of Consumer Guide®. $5.95, paper

Effective Parenting, by Joan Beck. $8.95

Mighty Marvel Strength and Fitness Book, by Stan Lee. $3.95

Nobody Speaks For Me! edited and introduced by Nancy Seifer. $7.95

Dragon's Eye, a novel by Jennie Melville. $7.95

How to Solve Your Decorating Problems, by Barbara Taylor Bradford. $14.95

OCTOBER

Mutual Arrangements, a novel by Nonie Carol Murphy. $8.95

Lovejoy's College Guide, 13th edition. $10.95, cloth. $5.95, paper

Bring On the Bad Guys, Origins of Marvel Villains, by Stan Lee. $10.95, cloth. $6.95, paper

Boxed Set: Origins of Marvel Comics and Son of Origins of Marvel Comics, by Stan Lee. $13.95, paper

The Tripoli Documents, a novel by Henry Kane. $7.95

How to Survive in Suburbia When Your Heart's in the Himalayas, by Gwen Davis. A Wyden Book. $6.95

How to Make Meetings Work, The New Interaction Method, by Michael Doyle and David Straus. A Wyden Book. $8.95

The Crash of '79, a novel by Paul E. Erdman. $8.95

America, The View From Europe, by Martin Evans. Portable Stanford/San Francisco Book Company. $8.95, cloth. $3.95, paper

Dream Notebook, created and designed by Robert Gumpertz. San Francisco Book Company. $8.95

The International Book of Wood, with a foreword by Hugh Johnson. $29.95

Your Income Tax — 1977 Edition by J. K. Lasser Institute. $2.95, paper

The Total Baby Development Program, by Dr. Jaroslav Koch. A Wyden Book. $10.95

A Traveler's Guide to El Dorado and the Inca Empire, by Lynn Meisch. San Francisco Book Company (A Headlands Press Book). $12.50, cloth. $6.95, paper

Walt Disney, An American Original, by Bob Thomas. $9.95

The U.S. Equestrian Team Book of Riding, The First Quarter-Century of the U.S. Equestrian Team, edited by William Steinkraus. $12.50

Chas Addams' Favorite Haunts, by Chas Addams. $7.95

Simon and Schuster Crostics, Series 76, by Thomas H. Middleton. $2.95, spiral-bound

Walk-In, a novel by Virgil Scott and Dominic Koski. $7.95

The T-Factor, How to Understand Time and Use It Right, by Mark L. Stein, Ph.D. A Wyden Book. $8.95

Lovers and Tyrants, a novel by Francine du Plessix Gray. $8.95

Woman's Day Gifts From Your Kitchen. $7.95

Life is Victorious! How to Grow Through Grief — A Personal Experience, by Diane Kennedy Pike. $7.95

Pogo's Bats and the Belles Free, by Walt Kelly, edited by Selby Kelly. $2.95, paper

New Glass, planned by Otto B. Rigan, photographs by Charles Frizzell. San Francisco Book Company. $14.95

How Did I Get to Be Forty . . . And Other Atrocities, by Judith Viorst. $4.95

Simon and Schuster Paperbacks

FIRESIDE

The Gardener's Basic Book of Trees and Shrubs, by Stanley Schuler. $4.95 (September)

Modern Chess Brilliancies, by Larry Evans. $2.95 (September)

The Wonderful O, by James Thurber. $1.95 (October)

The World Atlas of Wine, by Hugh Johnson. $7.95 (October)

The American Past, by Roger Butterfield. $5.95 (October)

The Rodgers and Hart Song Book. $4.95 (October)

Martyn Green's Treasury of Gilbert & Sullivan. $8.95 (October)

TOUCHSTONE

The Unconscious God, Psychotherapy and Theology, by Viktor E. Frankl, M.D., Ph.D. $2.95 (September)

The Life of the Self, Toward a New Psychology, by Robert Jay Lifton. $2.95 (September)

Make Your Schools Work, Practical, Imaginative and Cost-Free Plans to Turn Education Around, by Harvey B. Scribner and Leonard B. Steven. $2.95 (September)

Interpretations of Life, A Survey of Contemporary Literature, by Will and Ariel Durant. $5.95 (October)

NOVEMBER

Blind Ambition, The White House Years, by John Dean. $11.95

Sensible Speculating With Put and Call Options, and How to Profit From Conservative Investment Strategies That Anyone Can Apply, by Sherwood Gaylord. $8.95

The Yarn Animal Book, by Caroline M. Staples. $9.95

The Order of Death, a novel by Hugh Fleetwood. $6.95

Human Sexuality, Sense and Nonsense, by Herant Katchadourian. Portable Stanford/San Francisco Book Company. $7.95, cloth. $2.95, paper

The Crossword Puzzle Book, Series 112, edited by Margaret Farrar. $2.95, spiral-bound

Roger Tory Peterson's Dozen Birding Hot Spots, by George H. Harrison, with an introduction by Roger Tory Peterson. $9.95

Information Please Almanac, 1977, edited by Ann Golenpaul. $6.95, cloth. $3.95, paper

Moira, a novel by Caroline Stafford. $7.95

Cutting Loose, A Guide to Adult Relationships With Your Parents, by Howard Halpern, Ph.D. $7.95

Is Man Incomprehensible to Man? by Philip H. Rhinelander, Portable Stanford/San Francisco Book Company. $8.95, cloth. $3.95, paper

The Last Emperor, An Intimate Account of King George VI and the Decline and Fall of His Empire, by Peter Townsend. $9.95

Psychocalisthenics, 5 Steps to a Perfect Body and Mind Based on the Arica Institute's World-Famous Program of Exercise and Enlightenment. $9.95, cloth. $3.95, paper

A Loving Gentleman, The Love Story of William Faulkner and Meta Carpenter, by Meta Carpenter Wilde and Orin Borsten. $8.95

The Woman's Day Book of Gifts to Make. $9.95

JANUARY

Letter to a Child Never Born, a novel by Oriana Fallaci. $6.95

McCall's Embroidery Book. $9.95

Woman's Day Homeowner's Handbook, by Hubbard H. Cobb. $8.95

Decorating Ideas for Casual Living, by Barbara Taylor Bradford. $12.95

Crosswords From the Times (Daily) #31, edited by Margaret Farrar. $2.95, spiral-bound

Mortal Lessons, Essays in the Art of Surgery, by Richard Selzer. $7.95

The Human Process for Enlightenment and Freedom, by Oscar Ichazo. $6.95, cloth. $3.95, paper

Everything in Its Path, Destruction of Community in the Buffalo Creek Flood, by Kai T. Erikson. $7.95

McCall's Sewing for Your Home. $9.95

The Winter Spy, a novel by Paul Henissart. $7.95

I Have Come Here to Be Alone, a novel by Ingrid Bengis. $7.95

Past Forgetting, My Love Affair With Dwight D. Eisenhower, by Kay Summersby Morgan. $9.95

Gallows Way, a novel by Daoma Winston. $8.95

Consumer Guide® Rating and Raising Vegetables, A Practical Guide for Growing Vegetables, Herbs, Fruits and Sprouts, by Virginia L. Beatty and the Editors of Consumer Guide®. $8.95, cloth. $4.95, paper

The Gamesman, The New Corporate Leaders, by Michael Maccoby. $7.95

Success: You Can Make It Happen, by Dr. Lila Swell. $6.95

The Tuesday Blade, a novel by Bob Ottum. $7.95

Diane von Furstenberg's Book of Beauty, How to Become a More Attractive, Confident, and Sensual Woman, by Diane von Furstenberg. $8.95

Stanford University Press Fall 1976

An Enduring Heritage
Historic Buildings of the San Francisco Peninsula

Dorothy F. Regnery. Photographs by Jack E. Boucher. Illustrated with some 200 contemporary and historic photographs and measured drawings, this is a record of the Peninsula's rich architectural heritage from the 1850's to 1920 as seen through a wide selection of its most significant extant structures. 144 pp. 8½ x 11 inches. Oct. $18.95

Freedom and Its Limitations in American Life

David M. Potter. Edited by Don E. Fehrenbacher. This edited text of the late Professor Potter's 1963 Commonwealth Fund Lectures is the last published book by one of America's most distinguished historians. Included is a complete bibliography of his published works. About 112 pp. Sept. About $6.50

Women in Russia

Edited by Dorothy Atkinson, Alexander Dallin & Gail Warshofsky Lapidus. Eighteen historians and social scientists discuss various aspects of Russian women's lives from earliest times to the present, with an emphasis on problems and opportunities in the Soviet Union today. About 400 pp. Jan. About $16.50[x]

International Arms Control
Issues and Agreements

Edited for The Stanford Arms Control Group by John H. Barton & Lawrence D. Weiler. An exhaustive study of national and international arms control: its history, philosophy, cultural context, technology, economic and political ramifications, achievements, and future. About 432 pp. Sept. Cloth, $18.50; paper, $12.50[x]

Income Distribution Policy in Developing Countries
A Case Study of Korea

Irma Adelman & Sherman Robinson. In an attempt to discover how much can actually be done to improve the relative and absolute incomes of the poor in developing countries the authors develop a model that provides a means of investigating the potential impact of various governmental strategies and programs. About 368 pp. Dec. About $10.00[x]

Nakahara
Family Farming and Population in A Japanese Village, 1717-1830

Thomas C. Smith. Why did population remain unchanged through most of the 250-year Tokugawa period rather than rising in the usual way as productivity rose? This case study seeks the answer in certain heretofore unperceived rural marriage and childbearing patterns. About 192 pp. Jan. About $10.00[x]

Holistic Thought in Social Science

D. C. Phillips. Examines the character and history of holism ("a part cannot be understood in isolation from the whole") and how it has influenced recent social and scientific thought, notably political and general systems theory, functionalism, and Gestalt psychology. 160 pp. Sept. $8.50[x]

Opportunity and Attainment in Australia

Leonard Broom & F. Lancaster Jones. How much equality of opportunity actually exists in Australia? This analysis of social mobility provides an answer by examining such conditions as class and ethnic structure, educational and occupational levels, and generational change. About 176 pp. Jan. About $12.50[x]

The Confessions of Lady Nijō

Translated from the Japanese by Karen Brazell. Reissue of a 1973 paperback; first U.S. clothbound edition. "A literary masterpiece. . . . Surely there can be few comparable books in the world, and [this] fine translation makes it a joy to read."—Donald Keene. 320 pp. Sept. Cloth, $12.50[x]; paper, $3.95

Variation and Change in Language
Essays by William Bright

Edited by Anwar S. Dil. Eighteen essays, most of them devoted to the author's pioneering studies of the way certain American Indian and South Asian languages reflect and interpret cultural history. Language Science and National Development Series. About 304 pp. Nov. About $10.95[x]

IN PAPERBACK

Peasant Rebellion and Communist Revolution in Asia

Edited by John Wilson Lewis. 1974. 380 pp. Sept. Cloth, $12.95; paper, $6.95[x]

The Confessions of Lady Nijō

Translated by Karen Brazell. 1973. 320 pp. Sept. Cloth, $12.50[x]; paper, $3.95

Stanford University Press

Stein and Day

CALENDAR OF PUBLISHING EVENTS / FALL 1976

JULY

CONCORDE: The Inside Story
Geoffrey Knight Illus. $8.95

AUGUST

ECLIPSE OF KINGS: European Monarchies in the Twentieth Century
Denis Judd Text plus 150 b&w photos. $11.95

INTIMATE RELATIONS
Jacquie Durrell Life with Gerald Durrell and a host of assorted animals. Illus. $8.95

NIGHTFALL
John Crosby A novel. $8.95

DEATH IN THE CHANNEL
John R. L. Anderson A Stein and Day Mystery. $6.95

SEPTEMBER

RUDOLPH VALENTINO
Alexander Walker Important revelations based on unpublished materials. Illus. $8.95

MICROBE POWER: Tomorrow's Revolution
Brian J. Ford "An extraordinary scientific adventure"—P.W. Line drawings. $10

CALL THEM IRREPLACEABLE
John Fisher Witty portraits of 12 stars with drawings by Hirschfeld, special lyrics by Sammy Cahn. $14.95

STRAIGHT TALK TO PARENTS: How You Can Help Your Child Get the Best Out of School
Mary Susan Miller and Samm Sinclair Baker Ladies Home Journal columnist and "America's leading self-help author"—NYT. Nat'l tour. $8.95

OCTOBER

BLOODY AACHEN
Charles Whiting Main Selection, Military Book Club. Illus. $10

THE WESTCHESTER BOOK
Joan Cirillo The first complete guide to Westchester County. Cloth $9.95, Paper $6.95

THE MAGIC CALENDAR 1977
Compiled by The Main Street Press $3.95

THE GAY ENGAGEMENT CALENDAR 1977
Compiled by Martin Greif $4.95

THE FASHION ENGAGEMENT BOOK 1977
Compiled by The Main Street Press $5.95

RAILROADS OF AMERICA: A Calendar for 1977
Don Ball, Jr. Full color photographs $6.95

FROM MARY NOBLE TO MARY HARTMAN: The Complete Soap Opera Book
Madeleine Edmondson and David Rounds Illus. $8.95

THE HOUSE OF TUDOR
Alison Plowden Biographies of the five English monarchs. Illus. $16.95

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, THE GARRY MOORE SHOW: Behind the Scenes When TV Was New Herb Sanford Foreword by Garry Moore Illus. $10

GRAIN TRADE: The Key to World Power and Human Survival
John Freivalds $8.95

MAFIOSO: A History of the Mafia from Its Origins to the Present Day
Gaia Servadio The first complete history, based on unpublished archives and interviews with Mafioso. Illus. $10

THE TWELFTH PLANET
Zecharia Sitchin Inquiry into origins of man on earth, based on more than thirty years' research. Illus. $12.95

I MISS YOU WHEN YOU'RE HERE
Lee Leonard A Novel $8.95

C.L.A.W.
Richard L. Graves A Novel. $8.95

THE THIRTIES
Alan Jenkins By the author of The Twenties. Illus. $17.95

ENGLAND IN THE AGE OF CHAUCER
William Woods Illus. $10

ALASKA: The Sophisticated Wilderness
Jon Gardey Text plus 32 color photos, 24 b&w. $14.95

THE QUEENS OF ENGLAND
Barbara Softly Illus. Cloth $6.95, Paper $1.95

NOVEMBER

BREAKDOWN
N. S. Sutherland A psychologist's own mental collapse and search through various therapies for help. $10

FORBIDDEN CURES: How the FDA Suppresses Drugs We Need
Steven Fredman, M.D. and Robert E. Burger $8.95

THE VIRILE MAN: 60 Minutes to Greater Potency
Sheldon Fellman, M.D. and Paul Neimark The one-hour method that is 95% effective. Nat'l tour. $8.95

THE NATURAL GARDEN
Roger Grounds A concise plan for organic gardening. Cloth $7.95, Paper $2.95

JOSIAH WEDGWOOD
Anthony Burton A biography of the industrial revolution. Illus. $12.50

THE JEWISH CONNECTION: The incredible . . . ironic . . . bizarre . . . funny . . . and provocative in the story of the Jews
M. Hirsh Goldberg Nat'l tour. $8.95

ENGLISH HUMOR
J. B. Priestley History of humor in all the arts. Illus. $16.95

THE GOLDEN CRUCIBLE
Jean Stubbs A novel. $8.95

THE END OF EXURBIA: Who Are All Those People and Why Do They Want to Ruin Our Town?
John J. Tarrant $10

UP FROM NIGGER
Dick Gregory with James R. McGraw A sequel to the million-copy seller, Nigger. $10

DECEMBER

LET SLEEPING DOGS DIE
Tim Heald A Stein and Day Mystery. $6.95

THE DAY THE WORLD ENDED
Gordon Thomas and Max Morgan Witts Soon to be a major motion picture by Irwin Allen. $10

WHY DRINKING CAN BE GOOD FOR YOU
Morris Chafetz, M.D. $8.95

AN OCCULT GUIDE TO SOUTH AMERICA
John Wilcock Illus. Cloth $10, Paper $5.95

JANUARY

THE MAN WHO WAS NOT HIMSELF
John Creasey as Kyle Hunt Last of the Dr. Cellini mysteries. $6.95

FEBRUARY

THE LAST PLACE ON EARTH
Harold Hayes The Serengeti Plain in East Africa. Serialized in The New Yorker. $10

SHAKESPEARE: The Man and His Achievement
Robert Speaight Full-scale biography by scholar who was also accomplished actor with Old Vic. Illus. $15

SECRET INTELLIGENCE IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY
Constantine FitzGibbon The first comprehensive study. $10

Stein and Day/Publishers, Scarborough House, Briarcliff Manor, New York 10510

General

ANOTHER HURDLE: The Making of an Olympic Champion. David Hemery. August $9.95
CHILDHOOD ANTIQUES. James Mackay. September $14.95
THE FIRST READING AND WRITING BOOK. Margaret Hooton. [Frank Book Corporation.] August paper $4.95; cloth $9.95
A HOME IN THE WILDS. Kathrene Pinkerton. September $9.95
LIFELINES: The Stacey Letters, 1836-1858. Edited by Jane Vansittart. August $8.95
PSI AND THE CONSCIOUSNESS EXPLOSION. Stuart Holroyd. January $9.95
PSYCHOLOGISTS ON PSYCHOLOGY: Modern Innovators Talk about Their Work. David Cohen. January paper $4.95t; cloth $12.95t
THE TASTE OF FEAR. Edited by Hugh Lamb. October $8.95
WHITE GOLD: The Story of African Ivory. Derek Wilson & Peter Ayerst. August $9.95

Crafts

APPROACHES TO COLLAGE. Warren Farnworth. August $9.95
A STITCH IN TIME: Victorian and Edwardian Needlecraft. Geoffrey Warren. October $9.95
THE TOTAL TOTE BAG BOOK: Designer Totes to Craft and Carry. Joyce Aiken & Jean Ray Laury. January $9.95t
26 LIVELY LETTERS: Making an ABC Quiet Book. Barbara Williams & Carol Grundmann. January $10.95t

History & World Affairs

CHARLES DARWIN. John Chancellor. August $13.95
THE CONTROL OF THE SEA-BED: An Updated Report. Evan Luard. September $16.50
THE GIANT-KILLERS: The Danish Resistance, 1940-1945. John Oram Thomas. October $10.95
MARIE ANTOINETTE. Annunziata Asquith. August $13.95

Juvenile & Young Adult

EVERYDAY INVENTIONS. Meredith Hooper. August $7.95
LIFE IN THE ZOO. Michael Chinery. Photographs by Michael Lyster. August $7.95
THE STORY OF AUSTRALIA. Meredith Hooper. Illustrated by Elaine Haxton. September $7.50
THE STORY OF MUSIC. Nicholas Ingman & Bernard Brett. September $9.95
WHAT INSTRUMENT SHALL I PLAY? Nicholas Ingman & Bernard Brett. September $9.95

Literature

BLOOMSBURY HERITAGE. Elizabeth French Boyd. August $10.50
GEORGE SAND: A Biographical Portrait. Ruth Jordan. August $12.50
WOMEN OF IRON AND VELVET. Margaret Crosland. September $10.95

Science Fiction

TOMORROW, INC.: SF Stories about Big Business. Edited by Martin Harry Greenberg & Joseph D. Olander. October $9.95
WHO'S WHO IN SCIENCE FICTION. Brian Ash. November $8.95
WRITERS OF THE 21ST CENTURY SERIES
Edited by Joseph D. Olander & Martin Harry Greenberg
ARTHUR C. CLARKE. January paper $4.50t; cloth $9.95t
ISAAC ASIMOV. January paper $4.50t; cloth $9.95t
ROBERT A. HEINLEIN. January paper $4.50t; cloth $9.95t

Science & Natural History

BIRDLAND: The Story of a World Famous Bird Sanctuary. Len Hill & Emma Wood. August $9.95
COSMOLOGY NOW. Edited by Laurie John. November $9.95
DESERT WALKABOUT. Vincent Serventy. September $9.95
FROGS. Michael J. Tyler. August $17.50
MEGALITHS, MYTHS AND MEN: An Introduction to Astro-Archaeology. Peter Lancaster Brown. December $13.95
STARTING FROM SCRATCH: Our Island for Ocelots. Jeannette Travers. September $8.95
STINKERBELLE THE NARK: An Otter's Story. Marna Fyson. August $9.95
THE WORLD OF SPIDERS. W. S. Bristowe. November $17.50

Lighthouse
TONY PARKER

"A finely-nuanced natural history of a fascinating occupational world. . . . Parker's interviews, commentaries, and observations have a quiet fascination which keeps you involved to the end."—The Kirkus Reviews

"A very human book, and a pleasure to read."—John Fowles

"One of the most fascinating social documents I have ever read."
—William Golding

September 288 pp. $8.95

A Treasury of Needlecraft Gifts for the New Baby
JEAN RAY LAURY

Already a selection of four major book clubs, here's a fresh idea in needlework books. Written by a top designer/author, this fully illustrated volume provides detailed instructions and patterns for sewing nearly 100 charming, practical baby gifts including togs, toys, carriers, and delightfully personalized crib, carriage and bath linens. Major national advertising.

October 192 pp. $12.95

The Inventing of America
BRUCE NORMAN

"Well-organized, informed, lucid: its appeal as popular science history is enhanced by scores of relevant engravings, drawings, maps, photos and other illustrations from diverse archives. . . . His low-key treatment well suits an impressive recital."
—Publishers Weekly

September 240 pp. $18.50

TAPLINGER

200 Park Avenue South, New York, N.Y. 10003

September

THE MAKING OF THE ENGLISH COUNTRY HOUSE, 1500-1640

Malcolm Airs. 218 pages, 38 illustrations. 8 3/16" x 8 3/16". Architectural Press Book.
247-9 $17.50

October

THE OLD HOUSE CATALOGUE

2,500 Products, Services, and Suppliers for Restoring, Decorating, and Furnishing the Period House—from Early American to 1930s Modern Compiled by Lawrence Grow. 256 pages, 400 photographs, 50 line drawings. 9" x 11". A Main Street Press Book.

927-9 $7.95 paper
246-0 $14.95 cloth

EARLY DAYS ON THE ROAD

An Illustrated History, 1819-1941

Lord Montagu of Beaulieu and G. N. Georgano. 220 pages, 400 illustrations, 35 in color. 8" x 9½".
243-6 $14.95

THE WORLD OF THE FORSYTES

John Fisher. 224 pages, 166 illustrations, 15 in color. 7⅜" x 9¾".
244-4 $14.95

THE CABARET

Lisa Appignanesi. 192 pages, 110 illustrations, 12 in color. 8¼" x 10⅞".
235-5 $16.95/$20.00 after 1/1/77

AMERICAN & BRITISH PEWTER

Edited by John Carl Thomas. 160 pages, 300 illustrations. 8½" x 11". A Main Street Press Book.
949-X $5.95 paper
241-X $11.95 cloth

PILGRIM CENTURY FURNITURE

Edited by Robert Trent. 168 pages, 300 illustrations, many in color. 8½" x 11". A Main Street Press Book.
946-5 $6.95 paper
239-8 $11.95 cloth

THE SURVIVALISTS

Patrick Rivers. 224 pages.
931-7 $4.95 paper
272-X $8.50 cloth

THE BEE BOOK:
A History and Natural History of the Honey Bee

Daphne More. 144 pages, 96 illustrations.
245-2 $12.50

ANIMAL INVADERS

Clive Roots. 208 pages, 36 illustrations.
226-6 $12.50

THE ART OF SOCIAL CONSCIENCE

Paul Von Blum. 256 pages, 162 illustrations.
934-1 $5.95 paper
228-2 $12.50 cloth

BAROQUE AND ROCOCO ART

Erich Hubala. 196 pages, 187 illustrations, 52 in color. Universe History of Art Series.
195-2 $7.95

OLD MASTER DRAWINGS FROM AMERICAN COLLECTIONS

Ebria Feinblatt. 232 pages, 200 illustrations. 8" x 10". An Allanheld & Schram Book.
242-8 $25.00

WOODBROOK

David Thomson. 314 pages.
225-8 $10.00

VILLAGES OF VISION

Gillian Darley. 162 pages, 235 illustrations. 8⅛" x 11¾". Architectural Press Book.
248-7 $16.00

universe
FALL 1976

THE ST. NICHOLAS BOOK

A Celebration of Christmas Past

Martin Greif. 60 pages, 28 illustrations, 9 in color. 8" x 8". A Main Street Press Book.
234-7 $5.95

SUNSHINE & SHADOW

The Amish and Their Quilts

Phyllis Haders. 72 pages, 48 illustrations, 12 in color. 8" x 8". A Main Street Press Book.
236-3 $5.95

THE KISS

108 pages, 160 illustrations, 48 in color. 8½" x 8".
947-3 $4.95 paper
238-X $7.95 cloth

AMERICAN NEON

Kathy Mack. 88 pages, 84 color illustrations. 8½" x 8".
950-3 $4.95 paper
276-2 $7.95 cloth

SKY GODS:
The Sun and Moon in Art and Myth

Katherine Komaroff. 86 pages, 57 illustrations, 9 in color. 9" x 11½".
952-X $6.95 paper

STAR-SPANGLED KITSCH

Curtis F. Brown. 204 pages, 400 illustrations, 70 in color. 8½" x 10¾".
948-1 $4.95 paper

HABITAT III:
Halls, Staircases

Marta Ribalta. 96 pages, 150 illustrations, 30 in color. 8¾" x 10". Editorial Blume Book.
942-2 $4.95 paper

November

THE LOVE OF LIBERTY

The Rule of Tubman in Liberia

Tuan Wreh. 140 pages, 14 illustrations. C. Hurst Book.
275-4 $12.00

December

30 YEARS OF AMERICAN PRINTMAKING

Gene Baro. 160 pages, 300 illustrations, 16 in color. 10½" x 8⅜". A Brooklyn Museum Book.
953-8 $8.95 paper
249-5 $15.00 cloth

BRIDGES TO WORK

Beatrice G. Reubens. 256 pages. Allanheld, Osmun Book.
804-3 $18.00

POLICY & PRACTICE IN RURAL DEVELOPMENT

Edited by Hunter, Bunting and Bottrall. 520 pages. Allanheld, Osmun Book.
806-X $23.50

POVERTY & LANDLESSNESS IN RURAL ASIA

Keith Griffin. 224 pages. Allanheld, Osmun Book.
809-4 $20.00

THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF MONETARY REFORM

Edited by Robert Z. Aliber. 416 pages. Allanheld, Osmun Book.
810-8 $21.00

SERVING THE SMALL FARMER

Guy Hunter and Anthony Bottrall. 250 pages. Allanheld, Osmun Book.
808-6 $14.50

VIROLOGY IN AGRICULTURE

Edited by T. O. Diener and J. A. Romberger. 320 pages. Allanheld, Osmun Book.
805-1 $20.00

UNIVERSE BOOKS,
381 Park Avenue South,
New York, New York 10016
(212) 698-0276

in Canada: Burns & MacEachern,
62 Railside Road, Don Mills, Ontario

The Universe ISBN prefix is 0-87663.

August

GOLDEN DOOR TO AMERICA
The Jewish Immigrant Experience
Edited by Abraham J. Karp
JEWISH HERITAGE CLASSICS SERIES
0-670-34404-4 $8.95

THE SCENE
Reports on Post-Modern Art
by Calvin Tomkins
0-670-62035-1 $12.50

THE SHADOW OF THE WINTER PALACE
Russia's Drift to Revolution 1825-1917
by Edward Crankshaw
0-670-63782-3 $12.95

WHERE THE MONEY WAS
by Willie Sutton
with Ed Linn
0-670-76115-x $10.00

A PRACTICAL GUIDE TO IMPRACTICAL PETS
The Complete Book of Pet Keeping — Mammals, Birds, Reptiles, Fish, and Insects by Emil Dolensek, D.V.M. and Barbara Burn
Photographs by Bruce Buchenholz
0-670-57069-9 $15.00

FARMER
A novel
by Jim Harrison
0-670-30838-2 $7.95

PICASSO'S CERAMICS
by George Ramie
Photographs by Edward Quinn
STUDIO 0-670-55323-8 $45.00

REMEMBER THE LADIES
Women in America 1750-1815
by Linda Grant de Pauw and Conover Hunt
STUDIO 0-670-59362-1 $16.95

September

THE SHEPHERD
by Frederick Forsyth
0-670-63969-9 $4.95

THE OWNER
A novel
by Frank Deford
0-670-53318-1 $7.95

THE USES OF DIVISION
by John Bayley
0-670-74216-3 $10.95

LEAPING CLEAR
by Irving Feldman
0-670-42182-0 $5.95

THE GOTLAND DEAL
A novel
by N. J. Crisp
0-670-34690-x $7.95

POWER, INC.
Public and Private Rulers and How to Make Them Accountable
by Morton Mintz and Jerry S. Cohen
0-670-57032-x $15.00

TRUMBULL: THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE
by Irma Jaffe
Art in Context Series
0-670-73264-8 $10.00

CALDER'S UNIVERSE
by Jean Lipman
STUDIO 0-670-19966-4 $25.00

AMERICAN DRAWINGS:
The Twentieth Century
by Paul Cummings
STUDIO 0-670-11784-6 $16.95

Overlook Press

THORBURN'S BIRDS
Edited with Introduction and Text
by James Fisher
Revised by John Parslow
0-670-70400-8
$14.95 to 12/31/76
$20.00 thereafter

Ecco Press

ANOTHER REPUBLIC
17 European and South American Writers
Edited by Charles Simic and Mark Strand
0-670-12918-6 $12.95

THE COLLECTOR OF COLD WEATHER
by Lawrence Raab
0-670-22915-6 $6.95

THE PATH TO THE NEST OF SPIDERS
A novel
by Italo Calvino
0-670-54269-5
Paperbound $3.95

October

GEORGIA O'KEEFFE
by Georgia O'Keeffe
STUDIO 0-670-33708-0
$60.00 to 12/31/76
$75.00 thereafter
0-670-33709-9 Limited $275.00

KATE GREENAWAY'S BOOK OF GAMES
by Kate Greenaway
STUDIO 0-670-41184-1 $6.95

THE KATE GREENAWAY BOOK
A Collection of Illustrations, Verse, and Text
Edited by Bryan Holme
STUDIO 0-670-41183-3 $8.95

TO JERUSALEM AND BACK
A Personal Syllabus
by Saul Bellow
0-670-71729-0 $7.95

HENRY WALLACE, HARRY TRUMAN, AND THE COLD WAR
by Richard J. Walton
0-670-36859-8 $10.00

THE JOURNAL OF THE CENTURY
Compiled by Bryan Holme with the Editors of The Viking Press and The Ladies' Home Journal
STUDIO 0-670-40941-3 $17.95

THE MIND FIELD
A Report on the "Consciousness" Boom
by Robert E. Ornstein
GROSSMAN 0-670-47627-7 $7.95

WOMAN'S BODY, WOMAN'S RIGHT
A Social History of Birth Control in America
by Linda Gordon
GROSSMAN 0-670-77817-6 12.50

AMERICAN VIEWS:
City Prospects and Vistas
by Gloria-Gilda Deak
Introduction by James T. Flexner
STUDIO 0-670-11722-6 $19.95

EISENSTAEDT'S ALBUM
Fifty Years of Friends and Acquaintances
by Alfred Eisenstaedt
STUDIO 0-670-29078-5 $16.95

LOVE SONG
A novel
by Adam Kennedy
0-670-44298-4 $7.95

RAISE THE TITANIC!
A novel
by Clive Cussler
0-670-71620-0 $8.95

THE TAKEOVER
A novel
by Muriel Spark
0-670-69107-0 $8.95

THE AMERICAN FAMILY
A History in Photographs
by Jeffrey Simpson
STUDIO 0-670-11817-6 $19.95

CONVERTED INTO HOUSES
Photographs
by Jeremiah O. Bragstad
Text by Charles A. Fracchia
STUDIO 0-670-23997-6 $15.00

THE CHRISTMAS TREE BOOK
The History of the American Christmas Tree and Antique Christmas Tree Ornaments by Phillip Snyder
STUDIO 0-670-22115-5 $10.95

Overlook Press

AL GHAZALI
On the Duties of Brotherhood
Translated by Muhtar Holland
0-670-11141-4 $5.95

A GIRL IN WINTER
A novel
by Philip Larkin
0-670-34165-7 $8.95

MODERN AND CLASSIC WOODBURNING STOVES
A Complete Guide
by Bob and Carol Ross
0-670-48254-4 $8.95

REMBRANDT DRAWINGS
by B. Haak
0-670-59358-3 $16.95

THE WORLD OF MEDIEVAL AND RENAISSANCE MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS
by Jeremy Montagu
0-670-78746-9 $16.95

THE SEASONAL HEARTH
The American Woman at Home from 1600 to 1900
by Adelaide Hechtlinger
0-670-62735-6 $15.00

November

THE FACE OF BATTLE
by John Keegan
0-670-30432-8 $10.95

SALOON
A Guide to America's Great Bars, Pubs, Saloons, Taverns, Drinking Places, and Watering Holes
by Toby Thompson
GROSSMAN 0-670-61622-2 $12.5

BLAMING
A novel
by Elizabeth Taylor
0-670-17349-5 $7.95

THEY CALL IT JUSTICE
Command Influence and the Court-Martial System
by Luther C. West
0-670-69907-1 $10.00

ALL YOU NEED IS LOVE
The Story of Popular Music
by Tony Palmer
GROSSMAN 0-670-11448-0 $15.0

THE ANGRY MIDDLE-AGED MAN
by Pat Watters
GROSSMAN 0-670-12684-5 $7.9

WRITERS AT WORK
The Paris Review Interviews,
Volume IV
Edited by George Plimpton
0-670-79097-4 $14.95

HAND WEAVING AND CLOTH DESIGN
by Marianne Straub
STUDIO 0-670-36037-6 $14.95

Ecco Press

THE NOTEBOOKS OF
RAYMOND CHANDLER and ENGLISH SUMMER:
A Gothic Romance
by Raymond Chandler
0-670-51690-2 $7.95

December

KINGDOMS OF ELFIN
Stories
by Sylvia Townsend Warner
0-670-43150-x $8.95

A HIGHLY RAMIFIED TREE
by Robert Canzoneri
0-670-37205-6 $8.95

The National Society of Film Critics on MOVIE COMEDY
Edited by Stuart Byron and Elizabeth Wells
GROSSMAN 0-670-49186-1 $12.50

THE ORANGING OF AMERICA
and Other Stories
by Max Apple
GROSSMAN 0-670-52801-3 $7.95

January

A FRINGE OF LEAVES
A novel
by Patrick White
0-670-33073-6 $10.00

THE ALTERATION
A novel
by Kingsley Amis
0-670-11522-3 $7.95

THE RIO LOJA RINGMASTER
A novel
by Lamar Herrin
0-670-59896-8 $10.00

HENRY AND CATO
A novel
by Iris Murdoch
0-670-33697-8 $10.00

HUSTLE!
The Great Washington Fence Caper
by Kevin Klose, Ronald Shaffer, and Alfred Lewis
0-670-38894-7 $8.95

MAHATMA GANDHI AND HIS APOSTLES
by Ved Mehta
0-670-45087-1 $10.00

NABOKOV: His Life in Part
by Andrew Field
0-670-50367-3 $12.50

MANET: Olympia
by Theodore Reff
Art In Context Series
0-670-45408-7 $14.95

FLOWERS IN DESIGN
Interpreting Ideas for Stitchery and Fabric Crafts
by Shirley Marein
STUDIO 0-670-21103-0

THE TASTE OF AMERICA
The Crisis in Our Eating, Our Cooking, Our Life with Food
by John L. Hess and Karen Hess
GROSSMAN 0-670-69376-6 $8.95

February

THE COMPLETE URBAN FARMER
Growing Your Own Fruit and Vegetables in Town
by David Wickers
Illustrated by Sharon Finmark
0-670-23529-6 $8.95

IN THE NAME OF THE PEOPLE
Prophets and Conspirators in Prerevolutionary Russia
by Adam B. Ulam
0-670-39691-5 $12.50

IN THE COUNTRY
by Inge Morath and Arthur Miller
STUDIO 0-670-39678-8 $15.95

MY ENEMY, MY BROTHER
Men and Days of Gettysburg
by Joseph Persico
GROSSMAN 0-670-49861-0 $12.50

REBECCA WEST: A Celebration—
A Selection of Her Writing Chosen by Her Publishers and Rebecca West Critical introduction
by Samuel Hynes
0-670-59061-4 $15.00

THE PLUG-IN DRUG
by Marie Winn
GROSSMAN 0-670-56160-6 $7.95

Overlook Press

THE FOLLIES
by Daniel Mark Epstein
Illustrated by Milton Glaser
0-670-32320-9 $5.95

March

BY FORCE OF WILL
The Life in Art and Art in Life of Ernest Hemingway
by Scott Donaldson
0-670-19824-2 $12.50

HITLER'S WAR
by David Irving
0-670-37412-1 $17.50

THE PORTABLE THOMAS HARDY
Selected and with an Introduction
by Julian Moynahan
0-670-70340-0 cloth $8.95

PASSAGES IN MODERN SCULPTURE
by Rosalind E. Krauss
0-670-54133-8 $18.95

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY
OF SURREALISM
Edited by Marcel Jean
Documents of 20th Century Art Series
0-670-14235-2 $20.00

Richard Seaver Books

THE CIRCUIT
A novel
by Ralph Demers
August 0-670-22268-2 $8.95

OTHERWISE ENGAGED and Other Plays
by Simon Gray
September
0-670-52962-1 $6.95

THE LAURELS OF LAKE CONSTANCE
by Marie Chaix
Translated by Harry Matthews
January 0-670-41999-0 $8.95

A FLANN O'BRIEN READER
Edited and with an Introduction
by Stephen Jones
January
0-670-31740-3 $15.00

NINA HUANCA
by Faustino Gonzalez Aller
January
0-670-51338-5 $10.00

THE LONG NAKED DESCENT INTO BOSTON
A Tricentennial Novel
by William Eastlake
February
0-670-43852-9 $10.00

SIX MORAL TALES
by Eric Rohmer
March 0-670-64732-2 $8.95

CEREMONY
A novel
by Leslie Maron Silko
March 0-670-20986-4 $10.00

ANTI-OEDIPUS:
Capitalism and Schizophrenia by Gilles Deleuse and Felix Guattari
Translated by Helen R. Lane,
Robert Hurley and Mark Seem
March 0-670-12941-0 $12.95

BRIGHT STAR OF EXILE
Jacob Adler and the Yiddish Theater
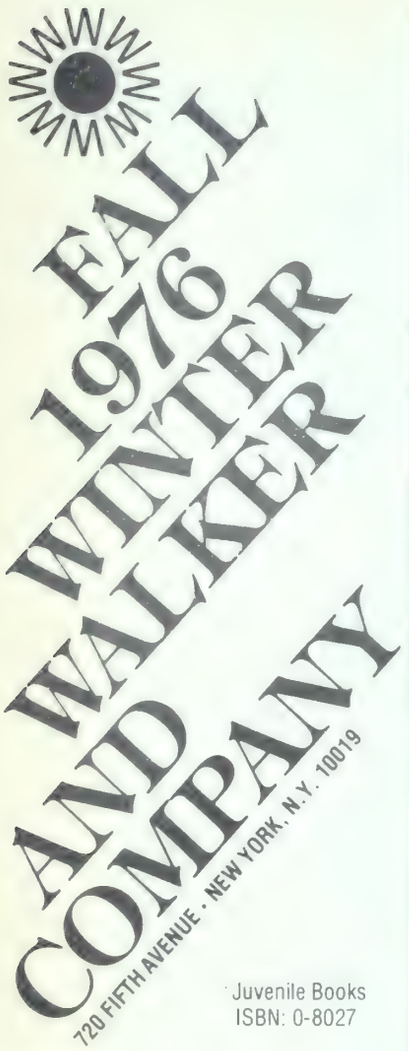
by Lulla Rosenfeld
March 0-670-19103-5 $10.00

Viking

Fall Winter 1976 - 1977

NOTE: The International Standard Book Number precedes the price of each book and should be used for ordering or identification. Nothing in this advertisement prevents anyone from quoting or charging any price for these books. All prices, publication dates, and specifications are tentative and subject to change without notice.

625 Madison Avenue • New York, N.Y. 10022



Juvenile Books
ISBN: 0-8027

AUGUST

MORE LECHEROUS LIMERICKS Isaac Asimov Illustrated with line drawings 7102-5 Paper $3.95

THE TOFF AMONG THE MILLIONS John Creasey Mystery 5349-3 $6.95

SIBERIAN ROAD Simon Harvester Mystery 5350-7 $6.95

STARS IN MY SKY Valerie Harms Lives of Maria Montessori, Frances Steloff, Anais Nin Magic Circle Press Photos 0536-7 $8.00

*__LITTLE BOAT LIGHTER THAN A CORK Ruth Krauss__ Illustrated by Esther Gilman. Picture book published in association with Magic Circle Press Ages Preschool-Grade 3 6258-1 $5.50

STORIES FROM THE OLYMPICS: FROM 776 B.C. TO THE PRESENT Frank and Clare Gault Ages 8-12 Illustrated with black-and-white photos Tr. 6255-7 $5.95 Lib. 6256-5 $5.85

DIARY OF A MONARCH BUTTERFLY Susan L. Thompson Design by Sas Colby. Detail drawings by Judy La Motte. Ages 5-8 Magic Circle Press 6267-0 $6.50

SEPTEMBER

THE CARIBBEAN HERITAGE Virginia Radcliffe Treasures of a turbulent 500 years Illustrated with photos, maps, and prints including four pages of full color 0518-9 $17.50

AUTUMN LACE Eileen Jackson. A Gothic by the author of "Lord Rivington's Lady" 0538-3 $8.95

REGINA Clare Darcy A Regency Romance by "the new Georgette Heyer" 0537-5 $8.95

CAST FOR DEATH Margaret Yorke Mystery 5353-1 $6.95

HAZELL AND THE THREE CARD TRICK P. B. Yuill Mystery 5352-3 $7.95

*__THE JOURNAL OF MADAME ROYALE Elizabeth Powers__ The ordeal of Marie Antoinette's daughter during the French Revolution Ages 10-up Illustrated with portraits and engravings Tr. 6251-4 $7.50 Lib. 6252-2 $7.39

*__EVERYTHING MOVES Seymour Simon__ illustrated by Daniel Nevins Science Ages 6-9 Tr. 6239-5 $5.95 Lib. 6238-7 $5.85

OCTOBER

THE SANTA CLAUS BOOK E. Willis Jones A Pictorial Biography Santa from his early-Christian origins to modern times With 280 illustrations, 100 in full color 0541-3 $9.95 before Christmas $14.95 after Christmas

THE NEW YORK PHILHARMONIC GUIDE TO THE SYMPHONY Edward Downes The most comprehensive reference work on the present-day symphonic repertoire Illustrated with photographs, portraits, paintings 0540-5 $25.00

SMALL CASTLES AND PAVILIONS OF EUROPE Jerome Zerbe With 200 photographs by the author 0542-1 $14.95

A REGENCY TRIO Clare Darcy Miss Darcy's first three novels back in print in one volume 0555-3 $12.95

THE OVERSEAS TARGETS Kermit Roosevelt Volume 2 of the War Report of the OSS 0539-1 $12.95

WINDOW GARDENING Edited by Henry T. Williams. Introduction by H. Peter Loewer. Reprint of 1871 classic With 200 of the original engravings 7104-1 paper $6.95

SLOWLY THE POISON June Drummond Mystery 5357-4 $6.95

MYSTERY TOUR Douglas Rutherford Mystery 5356-6 $6.95

CAPITALISM CAN SURVIVE IN A NO-GROWTH ECONOMY Herbert N. Woodward The Brookdale Press in association with Walker 0554-5 $7.95

*__A FIRST LOOK AT ANIMALS WITHOUT BACKBONES Millicent E. Selsam and Joyce Hunt__ Illustrated by Harriett Springer Ages 5-8 Tr. 6268-9 $5.50 Lib. 6269-7 $5.39

*__ANIMALS IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD Seymour Simon__ Illustrated by Susan Bonners Ages 7-9 Tr. 6270-0 $5.50 Lib. 6271-9 $5.39

NOVEMBER

TRAVELS AROUND AMERICA Harrison E. Salisbury Travels and thoughts of the Pulitzer Prize-winning author Illustrated with photos 0549-9 $9.95

TEACHING PARENTS TO TEACH Edited by David L. Lillie Parents' role in educating handicapped children 0550-2 $11.95

SLOW DOWN THE WORLD Jeffrey Ashford Mystery 5354-X $6.95

THE BARON IN FRANCE John Creasey Mystery 5355-8 $6.95

*__CHOOKI AND THE PTARMIGAN Michael__ and __Carol Codd__ Ages 7-10 Story of an Eskimo girl Four-color wash illustrations 6278-6 $6.95

*__HOW DID WE FIND OUT ABOUT NUCLEAR POWER? Isaac Asimov__ Illustrated by David Wool Ages 10-up Tr. 6265-4 $5.95 Lib. 6266-2 $5.85

DECEMBER

THE LATER CANTOS OF EZRA POUND James J. Wilhelm Literary Criticism 0553-7 $9.95

YESTERDAY'S ENEMY William Haggard Mystery 5358-2 $6.95

THE TOFF AT BUTLINS John Creasey Mystery 5358-2 $6.95

*__AMBER WELLINGTON, CAMP SHADOW Dianne Glaser__ Illustrated by Marvin Glaser Juv. Mystery Ages 8-12 Tr. 6276-X $5.95 Lib. 6277-8 $5.85

JANUARY

GEORGE WYTHE A Biography William Clarkin Illustrated with photos and portraits 0553-7 $15.00

GUIDE TO INTELLIGENT DRINKING Zalman Amit and E. Ann Sutherland With 54 self-instructional record-keeping charts 0547-2 $8.95

GENTLY DOWN THE STREAM J. Lawrence Barnard Memoirs of a happy man 0552-9 $8.95

DECORATIVE VINES Jack Kramer Illustrated with photos and line drawings 0543-X $7.95

MATHEMATICAL PUZZLES AND PASTIMES Michael Holt With 150 illustrations 0545-6 $6.95

A CONSPIRACY OF POISONS J. G. Jeffreys Mystery 5359-0 $6.95

STEP IN THE DARK Elizabeth Lemarchand Mystery 5360-4 $6.95

*__SCIENCE AT THE BALLGAME Thomas G. Aylesworth__ Ages 9-12 Black and white photos Tr. 6279-4 $5.95 Lib. 6280-8 $5.85

Weatherhill.
Where Publishing Is Still an Art

LLS BEYOND A RIVER
inese Painting of the Yüan Dynasty, 79–1368
nes Cahill. 216 pp. 8½" x 12".
2 illus., 8 in full color. Maps. Index.
bliography. September. $25.00

THE COLLECTOR'S BOOK OF SNUFF BOTTLES
Bob C. Stevens. 336 pp. 9¼" x 12¼".
1034 color plates. Deluxe slipcase.
Tables. Indexes. Bibliography.
September. $75.00

SOUTHEAST ASIAN CERAMICS
9th through 17th Centuries
Dean F. Frasché. 160 pp. 9½" x 9¾".
112 illus., 10 in full color. In Association with The Asia Society. October. $25.00

A DICTIONARY OF JAPANESE ARTISTS
Painting, Sculpture, Ceramics, Prints, Lacquer
Laurance P. Roberts. 312 pp. 7¾" x 10½".
Appendices. Glossary. Indexes. Bibliography.
October. $22.50

A MAN OF ZEN
The Recorded Sayings of Layman P'ang
Ruth Fuller Sasaki, Yoshitaka Iriya, and Dana Fraser. 124 pp. 5½" x 8½". 6 illus.
Index. October. $3.50

SHANTUNG BLACK TIGER
A Shaolin Fighting Art of North China
Tjoa Khek Kiong, Donn F. Draeger, and Quintin T. G. Chambers. 152 pp. 6" x 9".
358 photos, over 100 drawings. Glossary.
October. $6.95

FOLK TALES FROM ASIA
FOR CHILDREN EVERYWHERE
Book Four
Sponsored by the Asian Cultural Centre for Unesco. 64 pp. 7¼" x 9½". 37 full-color illus. September. $5.95

New in the Heibonsha Survey of Japanese Art

MOMOYAMA DECORATIVE PAINTING
Volume 14
Tsugiyoshi Doi. 164 pp. 7¼" x 9¼".
153 illus., 41 in full color.
February. $15.00

Prices subject to change without notice.

New York weatherhill To

Publishers of Fine Books on Asia and the Pacific
149 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016
Distributed in the United States by
J. B. Lippincott, East Washington Sq., Phila., Pa. 19105

Westminster Press

September 1

NEW TESTAMENT WORDS by WILLIAM BARCLAY. Now in soft cover—Dr. Barclay's "excellent studies of the meanings of 60 key Greek words used in the New Testament."—Christianity Today. Soft Cover $3.45 (24761-X)

September 7

MICAH, A Commentary by JAMES LUTHER MAYS. A new volume in The Old Testament Library. Previously announced. $10.95 (20817-7)

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF OLD TESTAMENT INTERPRETATION by R E CLEMENTS. A clear picture of past and present-day methods of interpretation. Prev. ann. Soft Cover $4.95 (24747-4)

September 27

HOW TO DO WHAT YOU WANT TO DO: The Art of Self-Discipline by PAUL A HAUCK. Sound practical suggestions for facing life's daily frustrations. Paper $4.50 (24122-0)

TILL DEATH DO US PART OR SOMETHING ELSE COMES UP by ZANE ALEXANDER. A refreshing new approach to improving the quality of married life. Paper $4.50 (24750-4)

THE MORAL CONTEXT OF PASTORAL CARE by DON S. BROWNING. Reemphasizes theology as one of the vital bases of the church's ministry of care. $7.95 (20742-1)

THE MINISTER AS DIAGNOSTICIAN: Personal Problems in Pastoral Perspective by PAUL W. PRUYSER. A distinguished clinical psychologist shows ministers how their special training can help them help others. Soft Cover $4.95 (24123-9)

PRAYERS FOR CHILDREN AND YOUNG PEOPLE: An Anthology by NANCY MARTIN. Includes prayers from St. Francis, William Barclay, William Penn, Robert Louis Stevenson, Malcolm Boyd, Peter Marshall, and many others. $5.95 (20746-4)

THE LIBERATING WORD: A Guide to Non-Sexist Interpretation of the Bible edited by LETTY M. RUSSELL. Provocative studies by woman theologians, Bible scholars, and church leaders. Paper $3.95 (24751-2)

ESCAPE FROM LONELINESS by PAUL TOURNIER. A self-help classic — now in paperback. Paper $3 95 (24592-7)

October 18

SIN AND MADNESS: Studies in Narcissism by SHIRLEY SUGERMAN. An in-depth look at today's chaotic human condition—how we got into it, and how we can get out of it. Soft Cover $5.95t (24125-5)

A GATHERING OF STRANGERS: Understanding the Life of Your Church by ROBERT C. WORLEY. A unique guide to a more functional church—one that is able to cope with diversity. Paper $3.95t (24124-7)

Introducing a new series—

biblical perspectives on current issues

THE COMMITTED MARRIAGE by ELIZABETH ACHTEMEIER. With candor, clarity, and passion, the author applies the insights of Biblical scholarship to marriage and family problems today. Soft Cover $4.95t (24754-7)

HOW GOD DEALS WITH EVIL by W. SIBLEY TOWNER. A fresh and inspiring way of reconciling the paradox: God as judge and retributor/ God as redeemer. Soft Cover $4.95t (24127-1)

YOUR GOD IS ALIVE AND WELL AND APPEARING IN POPULAR CULTURE by JOHN WILEY NELSON. The creeds and rituals of Western movies, country music, TV, and other pop media—an engrossing analysis. Soft Cover $5.95t (24866-7)

BIBLICAL STUDIES: Essays in Honor of William Barclay edited by JOHNSTON R. McKAY and JAMES F. MILLER. A tribute to one of the world's best-known and most beloved Bible expositors. $12.50t (20760-X)

PROCESS THEOLOGY: An Introductory Exposition by JOHN B. COBB, JR. and DAVID RAY GRIFFIN. An outstanding work that draws heavily on the philosophies of Whitehead and Hartshorne. Soft Cover $6.95t (24743-1)

GOD, POWER, AND EVIL: A PROCESS THEODICY by DAVID RAY GRIFFIN. New answers to the age-old question: "If there is a good God, why is there evil in the world?" $17.50t (20753-7)

COVENANT AND PROMISE: The Prophetic Understanding of the Future in Pre-Exilic Israel by JOHN BRIGHT, author of A History of Israel. An eloquent study of the great prophets of the 8th and 7th centuries B.C. $10.95t (20752-9)

CREATOR, CREATION AND FAITH by NORMAN YOUNG. A sensitive, clear, and sweeping view of the doctrine of creation. $8.50t (21334-0)

VOICES OF AMERICAN FUNDAMENTALISM: Seven Biographical Studies by C ALLYN RUSSELL. Covers William Jennings Bryan and six other leading figures. Illustrated with photos. $12.50t (20814-2)

THE LEAP OF REASON by DON CUPITT. An inspiring book for all those who seek a path through the confusing belief systems of today. $8.50 (20749-9)

November 22

CONSCIENTIZATION AND DESCHOOLING: Freire's and Illich's Proposals for Reshaping Society by JOHN L. ELIAS. A lucid critique of the contributions of two of today's most controversial educators. $12.50t (20787-1)

THEOLOGY AND THE PHILOSOPHY OF SCIENCE by WOLFHART PANNENBERG, author of Jesus—God and Man. An important and persuasive argument for the application of the scientific method to theology. 480 pages. $17.50t (21337-5)

FAITH ENACTED AS HISTORY: Essays in Biblical Theology by WILL HERBERG, author of Protestant, Catholic, and Jew. The key shorter writings — some of them never before published — of a noted theologian. $10.95t (21335-9)

FACING UP TO NUCLEAR POWER edited by JOHN FRANCIS and PAUL ABRECHT. Bold and authoritative discussions of the potentialities and risks of large-scale nuclear power development. Paper $3.95t (24129-8)

COMMUNITY OF THE NEW AGE: STUDIES IN MARK'S GOSPEL by HOWARD CLARK KEE. "Breathtaking in its originality and powerful indeed in its cumulative effect."—Norman Perrin. $15t (20770-7)

A BULGAKOV ANTHOLOGY by SERGIUS BULGAKOV. Edited and translated by NICOLAS ZERNOV and JAMES PAIN. A selection of the writings of one of Eastern Orthodoxy's most creative thinkers. $12.50t (21338-3)

THE OLD TESTAMENT AS THE BOOK OF CHRIST: An Appraisal of Bonhoeffer's Interpretation by MARTIN KUSKE. Translated by S T Kimbrough, Jr. "Will remain on the very short list of the most serious books about Bonhoeffer." — Eberhard Bethge. $10t (20772-3)

INTRODUCTION TO THE OLD TESTAMENT by J. ALBERTO SOGGIN. Now in English — Soggin's outstanding guide to the critical study of the Old Testament books. A new volume in The Old Testament Library. 544 pages. $15t (21339-1)

REDATING THE NEW TESTAMENT by JOHN A. T. ROBINSON, author of Honest to God. 175 years of Biblical scholarship are challenged in this highly controversial new work. $15t (21336-7)

t—tentative price

Please add Westminster's prefix, 0-664-, to all ISBN's

THE WESTMINSTER PRESS

920 Witherspoon Bldg.,
Philadelphia, Pa. 19107
In Canada: McGraw-Hill Ryerson, Ltd.

See our ad for The Daily Study Bible elsewhere in this issue.

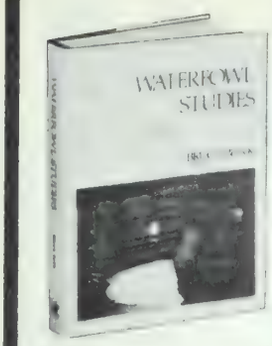
Fall 1976



Winchester Press

Fall 1976

September

WATERFOWL STUDIES
By Bruce Burk

Over 700 photographs (including 44 in full color) and detailed text to help carvers, artists, and taxidermists duplicate realistically the body form, position, and plumage detail of 38 popular species of North American waterfowl.

264 pages illustrated 0-87691-180-7
$15.00

ALL ABOUT DEER HUNTING IN AMERICA
Edited by Robert Elman

Twenty of America's greatest hunters share the secrets of their success at deer hunting and cover every region, every technique, every type of sporting arm, and every huntable variety of whitetail and mule deer.

256 pages illustrated 0-87691-176-9
$10.00

A MASTER'S GUIDE TO BUILDING BAMBOO FLY RODS
by Everett Garrison and Hoagy B. Carmichael

A recognized master of the craft provides fully illustrated, step-by-step instructions for designing, building, and repairing bamboo fly rods.

256 pages illustrated 0-87691-179-3
$15.00

KEEP YOUR HEART RUNNING
by Paul J. Kiell, M.D. and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen

A complete diet, weight control, and exercise program for total physical and mental health.

256 pages illustrated 0-87691-182-3
$8.95

THE CARE AND REPAIR OF FISHING TACKLE
by Mel Marshall

How to maintain and repair rods, reels, lines, lures, nets, gaffs, waders, wading staffs, creels, tackle boxes, rod cases, and fishing knives.

256 pages illustrated 0-87691-183-1
$10.00

CLASSIC RODS AND RODMAKERS
by Martin J. Keane

The complete history of America's greatest rodmakers, including biographical data; secret techniques of each craftsman; detailed information to help identify the origin of virtually every split bamboo and antique fly rod and to determine the age, scarcity, grade, and importance of each.

260 pages illustrated 0-87691-178-5
$15.00

October

THE BOLT ACTION
A Design Analysis
by Stuart Ottesen

Precise and in-depth descriptions, illustrations, and comparisons of 16 bolt actions, including tabulations of dimensions, weights, camming power, locking strengths, ignition parameters, more.

320 pages illustrated 0-87691-175-0
$12.95

DOGSLED
by Slim Randles

The true story of how a bored newspaper reporter took a rag-tag group of dogs condemned to die in the dog pound, made a team of them, and ventured across Alaska's fabled North Slope in one of the most exciting (and often hilarious) dog-mushing journeys ever recorded.

208 pages illustrated 0-87691-186-6
$7.95

FREESTYLE SKIING
The Fundamentals
by John Mohan, Walt Hiltner and Bruce Barthel

A detailed, well-illustrated analysis of freestyle maneuvers and guidelines for understanding and developing competitive routines.

256 pages illustrated 0-87691-185-8
$10.00

ALL ABOUT WILDFOWLING IN AMERICA
Edited by Jerome Knap

More than a dozen top outdoor writers provide new and controversial ideas on how to and where to hunt waterfowl successfully.

256 pages illustrated 0-87691-177-7
$10.00

THE DIARY OF A MAD PLANNER
by Robert Snetsinger

A fresh and vivid look at urban-rural planning at the grassroots level with many controversial opinions on the current struggle for environmental quality in American life.

204 pages 0-87691-188-2
$6.95

THE EDUCATION OF AN OUTDOORSMAN
by Cecil E. Heacox

The action-packed story of a double-barreled life: a professional conservationist and devoted outdoorsman tells how his love of hunting and fishing and his career in conservation complemented each other.

224 pages illustrated 0-87691-187-4
$8.95

November

SHOTGUNNING
The Art and the Science
by Bob Brister

Hundreds of specific tips and techniques to improve the field and target shooting of every shotgunner.

288 pages illustrated 0-87691-184-X
$10.00

ALL-SEASON HUNTING
by Bob Gilsvik

How to enjoy early season, late season, and winter hunting opportunities in every section of the country.

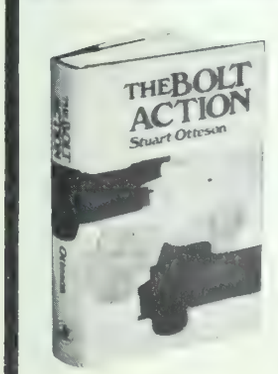
256 pages illustrated 0-87691-181-5
$8.95

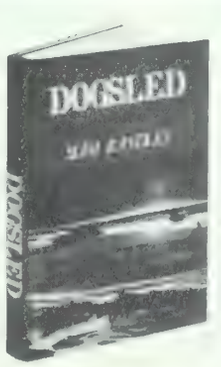
WINCHESTER PRESS

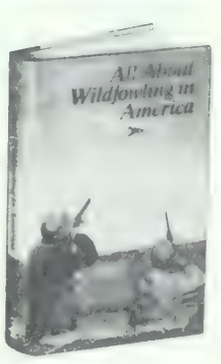
205 EAST 42nd STREET
NEW YORK, N.Y. 10017

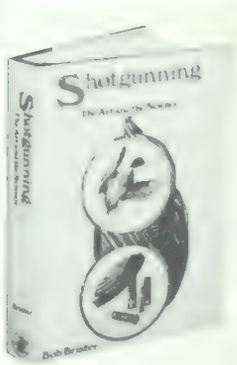
In Canada by:
Nelson, Foster and Scott, Ltd.
299 Yorkland Boulevard
Willowdale 425 Ontario, Canada

Winchester Press books are distributed to the book trade and to libraries in the United States by:
CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS,
597 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017









Card Sense!

REVIEWS ON CARDS is one of the most helpful and practical services available for today's busy librarians.

As a subscriber, you will receive–on handy 3 x 5 cards–complete reviews of every book covered in the forthcoming issue of LIBRARY JOURNAL and/or SCHOOL LIBRARY JOURNAL. Cards are mailed to you before issues of the magazines go to press. Each card has space on the back for annotations.

You will find REVIEWS ON CARDS valuable in scores of ways–for purchasing files, cumulative files, subject files, circulation among library colleagues and teachers...

Perhaps most important of all, REVIEWS ON CARDS will save you many precious hours that you now spend searching through back issues of LIBRARY JOURNAL or SCHOOL LIBRARY JOURNAL for particular reviews.

Librarians may order the full service–all LJ and SLJ reviews on cards–for only $125 for a full year. LJ's reviews of adult books cost $95; SLJ's reviews of books for children and young adults cost $65.

Use the handy order form today to enter your subscription to this important, time-saving service. Enjoy the advantages and security of knowing you have all the cards!

R.R. BOWKER COMPANY, 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036 LJ 10/1/76
Mr. Edward W. Martin, Circulation Director

Please enter my subscription to REVIEWS ON CARDS for a full year as indicated:

- ☐ Complete service–all LJ and SLJ reviews on 3 x 5 cards. $125.
- ☐ LIBRARY JOURNAL reviews only. $95.
- ☐ SCHOOL LIBRARY JOURNAL reviews only. $65.

☐ Check enclosed

☐ Bill me

☐ Bill library or organization

Name_____

Library or org._____

Address_____

City_____ State_____ Zip_____

Order authorized by_____

(Look for REVIEWS ON CARDS service to start in 4-6 weeks.)

Yale Fall 1976

Archaeology

Stone Age Painting in India
Robert R. R. Brooks and Vishnu S. Wakankar
In this profusely illustrated book, the beautiful cave paintings of India, some from the Upper Paleolithic period to historic times are finally brought to light. 65 duotones + 67 color plates ISBN 01937–8 September $15.00

The Stone Circles of the British Isles
Aubrey Burl
The most complete account of the British stone circles yet available. Special attention is paid to Stonehenge and Avebury, the two best-known and most spectacular rings. 86 illus. ISBN 01972–6 September $20.00

The Treasures of Darkness
A History of Mesopotamian Religion
Thorkild Jacobsen
A recreation of the spiritual life of ancient Mesopotamia demonstrating that the roots of Western civilization lie in the ancient Near East. illus. ISBN 01844–4 November $15.00

Jerusalem Revealed
Archaeology in the Holy City 1968–1974 edited by Yigael Yadin
The excavations discussed in this heavily illustrated volume reveal the history of Jerusalem, stratum by stratum. 151 illus. ISBN 01965–3 September $12.95

Philosophy

Death, Dying, and the Biological Revolution
Our Last Quest for Responsibility
Robert M. Veatch
This humane and rational discussion, based on the assumption that the patient must be the center of any decision-making, offers a critical survey of the medical, ethical, and legal aspects of death and dying. ISBN 01949–1 November $12.95

The Logic of Questions and Answers
Nuel D. Belnap, Jr., and Thomas B. Steel, Jr.
ISBN 01962–9 November $10.95

Editions

The Yale Edition of the Complete Works of St. Thomas More A Dialogue of Comfort against Tribulation edited by Louis L. Martz and Frank Manley ISBN 01609–3 vol. 12 illus. December $42.50

Treatise on the Passion; Treatise on the Blessed Body; Instructions and Prayers edited by Garry E. Haupt ISBN 01794–4 vol. 13 illus. December $35.00

De Tristitia Christi edited by Clarence H. Miller ISBN 01793–6 vol. 14 illus. October 2-vol. set $60.00

The Yale Edition of the Works of Samuel Johnson, Volume X Political Writings edited by Donald J. Greene ISBN 01593–3 illus. January $30.00

Art & Architecture

Manet and the Modern Tradition
Anne Coffin Hanson
A thorough investigation of the artist and the society in which he lived that helps clarify the ambiguities that surround Manet. 136 illus. ISBN 01954–8 January $25.00

Leger and the Avant-Garde
Christopher Green 222 illus. ISBN 01800–2 August $35.00

The Houses of Parliament
edited by M. H. Port Published for the Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art (London) Ltd. 233 illus. ISBN 02022–8 October $35.00

Richard Norman Shaw
Andrew Saint
Published for the Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art (London) Ltd. 291 illus. ISBN 01955–6 October $40.00

Artists for the Shah
Late Sixteenth-Century Painting at the Imperial Court of Iran Anthony Welch
84 illus. ISBN 01915–7 October $25.00

History

Interaction of the "Sibling" Byzantine and Western Cultures in the Middle Ages and Italian Renaissance (330–1600) Deno John Geanakoplos ISBN 01831–2 illus. November $27.50

United States—Comanche Relations The Reservation Years William T. Hagan ISBN 01939–4 illus. October $19.50

Merchants in Crisis Genoese and Venetian Men of Affairs and the Fourteenth-Century Depression Benjamin Z. Kedar ISBN 01941–6 illus. November $17.50

Religion and Respectability Sunday Schools and English Working Class Culture, 1780–1850 Thomas Walter Laqueur ISBN 01859–2 illus. December $22.50

Roman Government's Response to Crisis, A.D. 235–337 Ramsay MacMullen ISBN 02008–2 illus. October $17.50

The Godly Man in Stuart England Anglicans, Puritans, and the Two Tables, 1620–1670 J. Sears McGee ISBN 01637–9 August $17.50

Millenarian Rebellion in China The Eight Trigrams Uprising of 1813 Susan Naquin ISBN 01893–2 illus. October $22.50

Economics

The Antitrust Penalties A Study in Law and Economics Kenneth G. Elzinga and William Breit ISBN 01999–8 October $10.00

Industrialization in the Low Countries, 1795–1850 Joel Mokyr ISBN 01892–4 November $20.00

The Structure of Economic Systems John Michael Montias ISBN 01833–9 December $20.00

Literary Criticism

A Glossary of Faulkner's South
Calvin S. Brown
An alphabetically arranged glossary providing readers with information that will illuminate and enrich their understanding of Faulkner and of other Southern writers of his period. ISBN 01944–0 September $12.50

The Growth of a Personal Voice "Piers Plowman" and "The Faerie Queene" Judith H. Anderson ISBN 02000–7 November $15.00

Baraka: The Renegade and the Mask Kimberly W. Benston Foreword by Larry Neal ISBN 01958–0 October $12.50

The Melodramatic Imagination Balzac, Henry James, Melodrama, and the Mode of Excess Peter Brooks ISBN 02001–5 September $15.00

The Romantic Will Michael G. Cooke ISBN 01961–0 November $15.00

Keats and the Sublime Stuart A. Ende ISBN 02010–4 November $12.50

"Concrete" Poetry from East and West Germany The Language of Exemplarism and Experimentalism Liselotte Gumpel ISBN 01914–9 October $15.00

The Motives of Eloquence Literary Rhetoric in the Renaissance Richard A. Lanham ISBN 02002–3 October $12.50

Cultural Thematics The Formation of the Faustian Ethos T. K. Seung ISBN 01918–1 October $16.50

Theatre

W. B. Yeats and the Idea of a Theatre The Early Abbey Theatre in Theory and Practice James W. Flannery ISBN 01773–1 illus. September $22.50

The Drama of W. B. Yeats Irish Myth and the Japanese Nō Richard Taylor ISBN 01904–1 October $15.00

The Medieval Religious Stage Shapes and Phantoms A. M. Nagler ISBN 01986–6 illus. October $12.50

Political Science

Japan: The Paradox of Progress edited by Lewis Austin ISBN 01957–2 September $20.00

Rural Responses to Industrialization A Study of Village Zambia Robert H. Bates ISBN 01920–3 illus. October $20.00

The Donegal Mafia An Irish Political Machine Paul M. Sacks ISBN 02020–1 December $15.00

The Moral Economy of the Peasant Rebellion and Subsistence in Southeast Asia James C. Scott ISBN 01862–2 December $15.00

Psychiatry

The Psychoanalytic Study of the Child Volume Thirty-one edited by Ruth S. Eissler, Anna Freud, Marianne Kris, and Albert J. Solnit ISBN 02025–2 November $20.00

The Psychoanalytic Study of Society Volume 7 edited by Werner Muensterberger, Aaron H. Esman, and L. Bryce Boyer ISBN 01857–6 October $19.50

YALE Yale University Press

New Haven and London

They're flying on their own now...

For the woman who's facing an empty nest!

Our Own Harms by Jo Hynes Newman
A humorous and refreshing break from the traditional treatment of women's health problems—Jo Hynes Newman reveals the startling facts behind menopause and estrogen therapy.

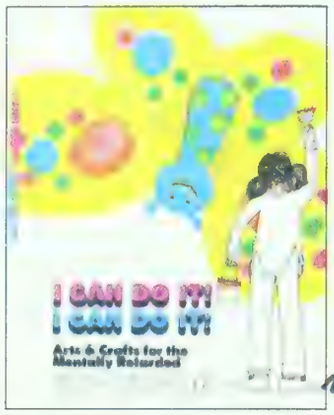
ISBN#: 0-89307-005-X $8.95 September

"You can do it flying"

Jamaican American by Bob Cox
A novel of jet-set affairs, high finance, racial tensions and political revolution.

ISBN#: 0-89307-003-3 $10.00 September

For right wingers, left wingers, and in-betweeners!



Silent War—Red Tears by Willard (Buddy) Roubideaux and Arthur Browne, Jr.
Exposes how the American Indian Movement (AIM) uses America's sympathies to further their own revolutionary political ideals.

ISBN 0-89307-008-4
$10.00 September

For very special people

I Can Do It! I Can Do It! by Sue Wilson—Arts and Crafts for the Mentally Retarded.

ISBN 0-89307-002-5 $8.95 September

For getting the birds together with the bees

Guaranteed to clip any minister's wings

Treadmill to Heaven by William Lyon, Ph.D.
A psychological study of the clergy.

ISBN#: 0-89307-001-7 $8.95 September

The Cookbook for Swinging Singles by Sandy Lesberg
Next to making love, making a good meal for someone is the friendliest gesture of communication one can make.

ISBN#: 0-89307-007-6 $7.95 September

The Quail Street Publishing Company...Watch us fly
Distributed by Bobbs-Merrill, contact your local representative

LETTERS

Blatant double standard

Jeffrey W. St. Clair
Reference Librarian, University of Nebraska at Omaha:

Under the guise of ridding the library of "stereotypical" books concerning the aged, the Montgomery, Maryland, County Library System has, according to LJ (June 15, " 'Agism' Stereotype Under Fire in Maryland," p. 1372), removed 549 books allegedly loaded with "agism," for purposes of "review." This has been done, not only without a whimper, but moreover with the apparent endorsement of the Maryland Library Association and LJ.

Hitler's book burnings and Stalin's library purges have found their equivalent in America. Ironically, while this form of transparent censorship is condoned, on the very previous page (p. 1371) of the same issue, one article details the outrageous banning of one single title in a small New Hampshire school library, and another reports on a valiant stand against library censorship!

Such a blatant double standard is an outrage to the profession whose essential responsibility is to make accessible to the public the world's storehouse of knowledge, regardless of political, social, or other orientation.

The same librarians who self-righteously cry out against "censoring" publications dealing with illegal and—according to the majority of Americans—immoral activities (homosexuality, pornography, etc.) want to divest the shelves of books which do not attain their own conceptions of "proper" literature for patrons—especially children—and which voice political and social stances which support their own proclivities and prejudices.

Popular literature to the contrary, "sexism," "agism," and other similar "isms" are not accepted, proven facts of life, but still the opinions of a (vocal and influential) minority. Therefore, librarians have the duty to keep their hands off such politically and socially generated subjects as they affect selection and "weeding" (i.e. censorship) policies. Librarians must not try, in this subtle manner, to influence patrons to form decisions conforming to their own prejudices. For example, it is opinion that certain attributes are negative stereotypes, and yet LJ and a growing number of librarians are guilty of accepting such popular opinions as fact and fail to realize that the majority of Americans disagree and are given no forum to do so in your publication. Rather, they are labeled as sexists, reactionaries, ignorant, or unenlightened.

It is high time that librarians get out of the business of deciding what the users—especially the young ones—should and should not read. Though they are trying to root out what is felt to be sexism, or whatever, librarians are in fact promoting minority causes and censoring legitimate, quality literature, albeit of opposing opinion.

ED. NOTE—Jeffrey St. Clair accuses LJ of "endorsement," "accepting," or having "condoned" opinions and facts that are upsetting to him. A careful reading of our story on the subject will show that we simply reported them. There's a difference!

Loop blooper

Terence W. Cassidy
Special Projects Librarian, University of Kansas Medical Library, Kansas City:

As a local historian with pedantic leanings I was quite surprised to find a single sentence in "Savoring ALA's Centennial" (LJ, June 15, p. 1379-88) which contained two major errors and one questionable value judgment. Under the heading "The Loop" (p. 1380) is stated: "The Loop, named for the dingy elevated tracks which loop Chicago's downtown, is the location of the conference."

First, the Loop is the name of Chicago's downtown district, but contrary to popular belief, it did not receive this name from the elevated loop operating above Wabash, Lake, Wells, and Van Buren Streets. The union elevated loop was not constructed until 1897, years after downtown Chicago was known as the Loop for other reasons.

Cable cars from two lines of the Chicago City Railway Company entered Chicago's downtown, starting in 1881, making a wide sweeping loop bounded by Madison, Wabash, Lake, and State Streets. Soon thereafter, other lines from the north and west entered the downtown area, and by 1892 five cable car lines, operated by three different firms, each made its own large loop in the downtown area. The cable car loops, not the elevated railway, is the origin of the name Loop for downtown Chicago.

Second, the sentence says that the Loop is the location of the conference hotels. Of the three major hotels designated as conference hotels, only one, the Palmer House, is to be found in the Loop as you defined it. Both the Conrad Hilton and the Pick-Congress are a good bit south of the Loop, as those of us who walked discovered.

Third, the use of the word "dingy" in regard to the loop structure is a value judgment which is questionable. For those of us interested in ecology and conservation of our resources, the presence of an operating functional rapid transit facility is an asset rather than a liability. The Chicago Transit Authority has spent much money modernizing that facility, and more will be spent when available to complete the job. There were those in the immediate past in Chicago who wished to destroy the loop structure, as was done with the once excellent elevated system in New York. Fortunately, they did not succeed, and as a result Chicago has an excellent rapid transit facility that it could not afford to replace with subway construction at this time.

No children, no clientele

Jean Lambert Ross
Acting Head/Children's Librarian, W. Paces Ferry Branch, Atlanta Public Library, Georgia:

It was so kind of you to extend six entire lines of copy in your June 15th editorial (p. 1351) regarding children's services and ALA's responsibility to act on their behalf. Allow me to suggest why this was inadequate.

Since my first experience as a library worker (1963), I have seen a steady decline in ALA's interest in serving children. In 20 years, it will come as a great surprise to the Adult Services librarians who read LJ (and never open School Library Journal) to find they have no clientele! If children are not actively and well served by our public libraries now, how can we expect them to care about libraries when they are adults? Children's services are the foundation on which an active and informed public library patronage rest. Our concerned users and budgetary supporters should be encouraged and served at age three as well as at 33. It costs us more in terms of programs, publicity, and effort to bring nonusing adults into our libraries than it does to draw children to us. And, once drawn to us, they stay.

Symptomatic of this blind headlong rush away from children's services is the present trend in urban libraries of eliminating or restructuring the job positions of administrative personnel involved in children's work. Wake up, LJ, and give us more than a cursory mention before the new generation is grown up and our public libraries are dead.

Federal funding base

Joseph J. Anderson
State Librarian, Nevada State Library, Carson City:

It seems to me that the letters from Stoffel, Ladenson, and Boyd ("Urban Library Aid," LJ, June 15, p. 1348) together could be synthesized into a viable program base for state/federal legislation. If we may assume that librarians involved have as first objective improved services to users—and attracting nonusers—we may also assume that library boards and library directors could find the effective ways to "regionalize" funding for the fullest possible range of library and information services to meet the needs (at the risk of being tiresome) of the users in a metropolitan area surrounded by autonomous suburbs. Such a program of exchange of services: i.e., greater urban library resource bases serving an "inner city" at the same time backing up smaller suburban units of service from older and deeper collections could be worked out on a basis of contractual agreements. The radical approach here is in "moving money up." Through contractual agreements townships, municipalities, cities, counties, states, and even the federal government pay monies from revenues available to each for goods and services desired under any number of precedents. Why not for a clearly articulated, functionally developed program for equalization of access to library and information services in a post-industrial society? In reality, such services have become an essential public utility, but the leadership at whatever level have just not yet recognized this character. Small wonder, though, since local agencies of all kinds create such a clamor competing for their piece of the fiscal pie—often with overlapping, duplicative, and uncoordinated proposals. Until this arena is witness to more orderly performance at budget time, state level policy and budget decision makers in executive and legislative branches of government are, and will remain, in a quandary as to what are real priorities to fund in such a program.

Meanwhile, at the federal level, the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science notwithstanding, given USOE's apparent inability for these last 20 years of LSA-LSCA to analyze statistically and programmatically this federally funded library program for the understanding and further support by the Congress, and given the tendency of constituents' sending communications to members and committees of Congress which are at some variance with stands taken in congressional testimony of the American Library Association and other groups purporting to speak for aspects of library development needing federal support, it is no wonder that Congress has not authorized more adequate levels of funding for the appropriate functions of public, academic, school libraries, for research and continuing education (staff development).

Hopefully, the basis of federal funding, that library resources and services should be available to the entire population, is still valid. As Boyd points out, it is time for librarians and various public administrators to decide, with coordinated cooperation, which functions can be funded at what level on a planned program basis. The sense of the Stoffel and Ladenson letters should certainly be worked into the procedural, operational, programmatic and policy making activities needed from the outset to the outcome.

Collections beyond school

Elizabeth T. Fast
Media Specialist, Groton Public Schools, Connecticut:

The article by Meredith Bloss, "Standards for Public Library Service—Quo Vadis?" (LJ, June 1, p. 1259-62) presents some excellent ideas for the development of standards based on needs for library service at the community level and using research to arrive at output oriented, evolving standards. I would like to correct one statement in that article: "Standards for school libraries are based on the theory that each school library will meet the total needs of the school population." The latest guidelines for school media programs, prepared by the American Association of School Librarians and the Association for Educational Communications and Technology and published in 1975 as Media Programs: District and School, clearly includes the idea that access to collections beyond the school is required for a high degree of user satisfaction. These standards state (p. 63), "No substitute can replace the individual school collection in guaranteeing a high degree of user satisfaction, but it is unrealistic to claim that any school can provide within its own walls all of the materials and equipment that users need." The document includes recommendations for planned arrangements to make access to collections beyond the school possible, including membership in library networks. None of us on the committee that drafted these standards felt that school media collections could or should meet all the needs of the school's students and faculty.

CALENDAR

OCT. 3-9—BOSTON UNIV. & NEW ENGLAND DOCUMENT CONSERVATION CENTER. Seminar on Library and Archives Conservation. Contact: Robert C. Morrison, Jr., New England Document Conservation Center, 800 Massachusetts Ave., North Andover, Mass. 01845.

OCT. 7-9—NEVADA LA, Las Vegas, Showboat Hotel. Contact: Jack Gardner, 400 E. Mesquite, Las Vegas, Nev. 89101.

OCT. 7-9—SOUTH CENTRAL/SOUTHERN MEDICAL LA, Shreveport, Louisiana, Sheraton-Bossier Inn. Contact: Mayo Drake, School of Medicine, Louisiana State University, P.O. Box 3932, Shreveport, La.

OCT. 8-10—FOURTH SAN FRANCISCO INTERNATIONAL BOOK FAIR.

OCT. 14-17—NEW YORK LA, Lake Placid. Contact: Victoria Wallace, Chairman, Exhibits Committee, New York Library Association, 60 E. 42 St., Suite 1242, New York, N.Y. 10017.

OCT. 17-21—COLORADO LA, Colorado Springs, Four Seasons Motor Inn. Theme: "Unity Through Diversity." Contact: Susan Kaufman, Executive Secretary, Colorado Library Assn., 1151 E. Costello Ave., Littleton, Colo. 80122.

OCT. 20-22—MISSISSIPPI LA, Biloxi, Biloxi Hilton Hotel.

OCT. 21-23—SOUTH CAROLINA LA, Columbia, Wade Hampton Hotel. Contact: Mrs. Davey-Jo Ridge, Associate Director of Libraries, Thomas Cooper Library, University of South Carolina, Columbia, S.C.

OCT. 28-29—LIBRARY MICROFORM CONFERENCE, Atlanta, Georgia.

OCT. 29—NEW JERSEY LA, Morristown, Governor Morris Inn. Contact: Thomas Leonard, Cape May County Library, Cape May Court House, N.J. 08201.

NOV. 11-13—SOUTHWESTERN LA/MOUNTAIN PLAINS LA, Albuquerque, New Mexico, Albuquerque Convention Center. Contact: Marion Mitchell, SWLA Office, 7371 Paldao Dr., Dallas, Tex. 75240.

NOV. 18-20—VIRGINIA LA, Roanoke, Roanoke Hotel.

NOV. 22-27—INTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM ON GENERAL CLASSIFICATION SYSTEMS IN A CHANGING WORLD, Brussels, Belgium. Contact: Mr. G. Lorphevre, FID/CCC Chairman, Editiones Mundaneum, 696 chausee de Louvain, 1030 Brussels, Belgium.

Because librarians buy so much more than books...

THE ANNUAL ARCHITECTURAL ISSUE

Publishers know that Library Journal has no peer as a medium for their advertising to librarians ... since 99.6% of LJ subscribers recommend, decide on, or approve the purchase of books.

What you should know is that the overwhelming majority of these 37,609 LJ subscribers have the same function and influence in virtually every area of library buying ... from paper cups for the water cooler to architectural plans for a new building.

To cite a few specifics—furniture and display equipment (85.2%) ... drapes, wallpaper, carpet and accessories (54.8%) ... circulation and security systems (75.2%) ... posters, prints and sculpture (65.8%).

In fact, even such distinctively non-book items as electrical equipment and vending machines are within the purview of about one third of all LJ subscribers!

That's why Library Journal is about much more than books ... and why LJ devotes its December 1 issue to library design, construction, renovation, remodeling and expansion.

For the firm that sells to libraries, LJ is always the right advertising environment. And in the December 1 Architectural Issue, the climate is perfect.

Reservations and pubset copy due:
October 29

Mechanicals and camera-ready art due:
November 5

For further information, contact:
Richard H. Brown
Advertising Sales Manager
212/764-3360

Buying influence data compiled by Signet Systems, Inc.

Please send insertion orders and correspondence to Library Journal,
P.O. Box 641, Times Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10036
Mechanicals and artwork should be sent to 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036

R.R. Bowker Company
1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036

LIBRARY JOURNAL

Viking Junior Books Fall 1976

MERRY EVER AFTER
The Story of Two Medieval Weddings
Written and illustrated in full color by Joe Lasker
A noble and a peasant wedding are depicted in incredibly beautiful paintings based on medieval masterpieces. A Book-of-the-Month Club Featured Alternate Selection.
All ages 47257–3 RB $7.95

BEARYMORE
Written and illustrated in two colors by Don Freeman
Bearymore, the performing bear, has a problem: how is he going to hibernate and get his new circus act together before spring?
Ages 4-7 15174–2 RB $6.95

THREE WISHES
Lucille Clifton
Illustrated in full color by Stephanie Douglas
With the help of a "magic" penny and her best friend, a little girl rediscovers faith and friendship.
Ages 5-8 71063–6 RB $6.95

BUGS
Poems
Mary Ann Hoberman
Illustrated by Victoria Chess
Illustrated with humourously macabre drawings, these witty verses may persuade you to like ants, spiders, fleas — a little.
Ages 5-8 19454–9 RB $5.95

BEAT THE TURTLE DRUM
Constance C. Greene
Illustrated by Donna Diamond
Kate and her parents remember and grieve for Joss, and ultimately learn to accept her death.
Ages 8-12 15241–2 $5.95

A FAIR WIND FOR TROY
Doris Gates
Drawings by Charles Mikolaycak
The sixth and final volume of Doris Gates's retellings of the Greek myths interweaves the classic tales of vengeance and tragedy. Glossary.
Ages 8-12 30505–7 RB $6.95

TROPICAL SALTWATER AQUARIUMS
How to Set Them Up and Keep Them Going
Seymour Simon
Illustrated by Karl Stuecklen
The exotic living world of a coral reef can be yours in a saltwater aquarium. Bibliography, index.
Ages 8-12 73191–9 RB $6.95

TWO THAT WERE TOUGH
Robert Burch
Illustrations by Richard Cuffari
Like the wild gray chicken outside his gristmill, Mr. Hilton is alone and happy to be free — although time and age are catching up to both of them.
Ages 10-14 73684–8 $6.95

SIMPLE GIFTS
The Story of the Shakers
Jane Yolen
Illustrated by Betty Fraser
A sympathetic and personal view of the Shakers, those enigmatic people who form part of our heritage. Bibliography, index.
Ages 10-14 64584–2 $6.95

ALL THIS WILD LAND
Ann Nolan Clark
A courageous Finnish family struggles to survive their first Minnesota winter a century ago.
Ages 12 up 11444–8 $6.95

MOON-WHALES AND OTHER POEMS
Ted Hughes
Drawings by Leonard Baskin
Poems about the creatures that live on the moon, complemented by virtuoso drawings. Index.
Ages 12 up 48864–x $7.95

FAR EASTERN BEGINNINGS
Olivia Vlahos
Illustrated by George Ford
With drama and scholarly range, the author presents the extraordinary past of the Far East. Maps, bibliography, index.
Ages 12 up 30739–4 $10.95

ARE YOU IN THE HOUSE ALONE?
Richard Peck
One evening a nightmare became fact, and Gail found herself utterly alone, the victim of a crime which punishes the innocent and lets the guilty go free.
Ages 14 up 13241–1 $6.95

OLD IS WHAT YOU GET
Dialogues on Aging with the Old and the Young
Ann Zane Shanks
Photographs by the author
Candid interviews about the worries, fears, terrors — and optimism — at each end of life. Bibliography.
Ages 12 up 52268–6 $10.00

NEVERLAND
Fabled Places and Fabulous Voyages of History and Legend
Steven Frimmer
Impossible journeys to places that never existed are re-created for the armchair traveler. Old prints and maps, bibliography, index.
Ages 12 up 50625–7 $8.50

THE KATE GREENAWAY BOOK
A Collection of Illustration, Verse, and Text
Edited by Bryan Holme
Selections from Kate Greenaway's best-loved books, and some works never published before. Over 160 illus. A STUDIO BOOK.
All ages 41183–3 $8.95

KATE GREENAWAY'S BOOK OF GAMES
Kate Greenaway
First published in 1889, here are fifty-three diversions, from hoops, and marbles, to Twenty Questions, with the original colorful illustrations. A STUDIO BOOK.
All ages 41184–1 $6.95

Illustration from Merry Ever After by Joe Lasker

THE VIKING PRESS
625 Madison Avenue,
New York, N.Y. 10022

Nothing in this advertisement prevents anyone from quoting or charging any price for Viking books
Please use 670-SBN prefix when ordering

EDITORIAL

He's Not Heavy Father, He's My Broker

In the September 15 LJ, Jeffrey Gardner and David Wax ("Online Bibliographic Services") broke the ice on a subject with which all librarians should concern themselves: the automated online database—and, inevitably, the role of the brokers who mediate these masses of information. Gardner and Wax go public with many important issues, not the least of which is private sector control.

In the last year or so, librarians have awakened to the potentialities of the new tools, not just for catalog production, but for a range of reference and acquisitions functions. Courses have appeared, books and articles are multiplying, and conference programming, both local and national, shows a growing interest. The new tools, however expensive, are beginning to look as necessary to the library as ever did the book and the periodical in their shelvable forms.

User groups, formed to share expertise and sometimes to pressure the supplier, are popping up: MARC users, OCLC users, CLSI users, and so forth. The latest one is concerned, not with one database or single hardware or software package, but with any and all databases and their mediating services and agencies. MARS, the Machine Assisted Reference Service Discussion Group, a subset of ALA's Reference and Adult Services Division, will probably attain formal status in time for the ALA Midwinter Meeting in Washington, D.C. MARS aims to bring together librarians who use online information in reference work and to share their knowledge, problems, and influence. They will be a group uniquely positioned to influence both the purchasing of institutions and the design and production of the mediating services provided between information and user by the numerous agencies acting as brokers of one sort or another.

It was clear at the first meeting of the MARS group at ALA in July (during the week when Viking landed on the planet of the same name) that when the 100 or so librarians actively concerned with the use in reference work of OCLC or the DIALOG or ORBIT arrays of databases come together, you get the critical mass necessary for recognition and discussion of issues unique to their concerns. For example: will the reference librarian now be pressed to become much more of a subject specialist, gaining great expertise and depth in the databases pertinent to one or a very few disciplines—or will it be better for the reference librarian to grow in the direction of sophistication in the widely varying and rapidly changing protocols of all the databases his library may employ?

Again, how can these reference librarians best use their influence to make database producers and the brokers who provide access to them more consumer conscious? It is important, for example, to be able to know the date at which a given descriptor was introduced, yet many databases do not provide this information. It is important to get some kind of control over the inadequacy of index structure which may afflict a database newly sent to market by a producer more concerned with profit than value. It is also important to provide for these services the best manuals and other training aids and programs possible. Standardization is a crying need. Overlap is pernicious.

In some ways, the problems librarians have in getting at and using the information in databases are similar to the problems they have had with the packaging of printed information. In order to facilitate the job, numerous "brokers" appeared—the publisher, the wholesale jobber, the booksellers, librarians, libraries, systems, consortia, and networks.

But the new tools have brought new brokers with them: the regional, potentially national agencies like NASIC and BCR and OCLC, which are capable of mediating between a range of fearsomely expensive information products and an individual library or librarian, and maybe someday the user. The working librarian will have the responsibility of evaluating and choosing among the numbers of overlapping products which we can expect to appear in the next few years. For if library budgets are going to carry the brokers of information, librarians should have a lot to say about where they travel.

Karl Nyren

Cut your cataloging costs and reduce book thefts at the same time!

A wild claim? Not at all.

Five thousand libraries of all types have already recognized that in-house cataloging costs were just too high—in terms of both money and time. Budgets and staff were stable or shrinking—and yet, cataloging costs kept spiraling upwards.

Their solution? Baker & Taylor's Cataloging and Processing Services. Cataloging in three formats—Dewey/Sears; Dewey/LC and LC/LC.

A comprehensive service, our MARC database also includes CIP cataloging and is supplemented with records from Library of Congress cards and the National Union Catalog. A wide variety of cataloging options are possible; various degrees of processing can be selected.

Plus, we're now offering the installation of several theft-detection devices as part of our regular service. Tattle-Tape strips, Checkpoint labels, and Gaylord security tags are processing options currently available.

For a minimal charge, Baker & Taylor will supply and affix the devices. Simple . . . economical . . . ready for shelving.

To learn more about our total Cataloging and Processing Service, just complete the coupon. Send it to us. A representative, thoroughly trained in library procedures and cataloging practices, will call on you. Or we'll be happy to send you a brochure.

B&T
THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANIES
The Education Division of W. R. Grace & Co.

Technical Services Department
The Baker & Taylor Companies
1515 Broadway
New York, New York 10036

_____ I want to find out about how I can cut cataloging costs and/or reduce book thefts at the same time. Please have a representative call.

_____ Please send me a brochure.

Name _____

Library _____

Address _____

City _____

State _____ Zip _____

LJ 10-1-76

NEWS

Federal $$ scoreboard: Congress opts for more aid

Members of the library community who have been demanding more federal aid for libraries can take heart in recent action taken by the House-Senate Conference Committee, which has recommended hefty increases in funding under the Library Services & Construction Act (library services and interlibrary cooperation) and Title IV-B of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (school library resources). Also urged is a $24,575 boost in funding for the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science (NCLIS).

The Labor-HEW appropriations bill was, at this writing, back in conference because of the Senate's refusal to accept a controversial anti-abortion rider added to the bill by Representative Henry Hyde (R.-Ill.). The abortion issue—a provision which some opponents say is illegal—must be resolved before the House and Senate vote on the compromise bill. In any event, Ford will probably veto the appropriation, and Congress must then muster the votes for an override attempt.

The House-Senate Conference Committee recommended the first increase in LSCA funding since 1974, urging an overall boost of $8,488,000. It recommended a Title I, LSCA appropriation of $56,900,000 for fiscal year 1977—up $7,745,000 over the fiscal year 1976 appropriation of $51,749,000. It recommended 1977 Title III, LSCA funding of $3,337,000—an increase of $743,000. The level of funding urged under ESEA Title IV-B is $154,330,000—an increase of $7 million. And the budget recommended for NCLIS is a new high of $492,575.

As for the Higher Education Act, which last year provided $9,975,000 in funding to libraries, the House has approved authorization legislation extending the Act, and the Senate was scheduled to vote on such authorization as LJ went to press. The authorizations approved by each house are slated to go to a Conference Committee, which will come up with a compromise bill to be voted on by each house. The House and the Senate must then agree upon appropriations and be prepared to fight the expected White House veto. A successful override vote is expected.

Congress okays extension of CETA job program

A one-year extension of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act's $2.2 billion Title VI emergency public service jobs program moved one step closer to realization when both the House and the Senate voted overwhelmingly in favor of bills calling for a CETA Title VI extension. A Conference Committee made up of representatives of both houses must now iron out differences in CETA bills drafted by each house and present for a new vote a CETA bill integrating both versions. President Ford can veto the legislation, but dramatic support in Congress for aid to America's growing pool of unemployed points to the likelihood of an override vote.

The Senate's CETA bill extends Title VI and the 200,000 jobs created under it through September 30, 1977. It stipulates that any new jobs created under CETA be in community employment projects for the long-term, low-income unemployed who have been out of work for 15 weeks or more. Also named as a target group for CETA jobs are people who have exhausted unemployment benefits or are receiving unemployment compensation and are also members of low-income households. Also included in the bill are provisions allowing CETA prime sponsors to use supplemental appropriations approved earlier to prevent layoff of public service employees under both Title II and Title VI of CETA.

Both schools and libraries have depended on CETA to help offset personnel shortages caused by the budget crunch.

Nat'l. telephone reference: "hotline" tried by LC

The Library of Congress has launched a two-month pilot project to test the feasibility of establishing a permanent national telephone reference "hotline" at LC. The new service, which is currently run by LC's General Reference and Bibliography Division, does not duplicate services already given by such departments as LC's Union Catalog Reference Unit, the National Referral Center, or Information and Media Services Office. It does provide information on such things as the federal government and its publications, federal laws and pending legislation, science, bibliography, biography, and LC services and holdings. The network agencies participating in the pilot project are urged to dial LC's newly installed toll-free "hotline" for help with reference requests only "after they have exhausted their own resources."

The five network centers participating in the pilot are: the Research Libraries Group (Yale-Columbia-Harvard-New York Public Library); the Georgia Library Information Network (Atlanta); the Indiana State Library (Indianapolis); the Bibliographic Center for Research (Denver); and the Southern California Answering Network (Los Angeles). These centers, says LC, "were selected to provide a sample of existing networks already serving other libraries on a state or regional basis and represent various geographical regions and types of libraries."

Looking to the future, LC says, "If staffing and other requirements can be met, the service will be expanded throughout the U.S. to form a national telephone reference service as a 'court of last resort' for information networks, state libraries, and selected large university and public libraries."

MARC authority records offered by LC

The Library of Congress announces a new tape service, subject headings authority records in machine-readable form. LC now offers a master file containing data that appeared in the eighth edition of Library of Congress Subject Headings and its annual supplements through 1975 ($495); annual subscriptions to subject headings quarterly supplements ($200); and test tapes for subject headings and name headings ($35 each).

LC urges prospective customers to buy the test tapes for experimentation before beginning regular subscriptions. Records on the test tapes simulate the different records available (new records, deleted records, partial correction records); they're designed to enable users to test their maintenance program. The noncumulative supplement tapes will consist of new headings created during the quarter, as well as deleted headings and references. The master file, says LC, will be updated once a year; the file will increase with each annual update, and its price will change from year to year.

Orders should go to the Cataloging Distribution Service, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20541.

Statistical data base to be developed by WILCO

The Western Interstate Library Coordinating Organization (WILCO), which was formerly named the Western Library Network, has been awarded a $59,000 grant from the Office of Education to develop a model statistical data base system to assist in resource allocation decision-making at the network level; WILCO member states will provide $17,728 in matching funding for the project. The aim of the project is to devise a "working system" for using library statistics, with standardized cost data elements and definitions. The system, says WILCO, "is intended as a basis for modeling alternative outcomes from various resource allocation decisions, the impact of changes in resources on library services . . . and for other types of manipulations necessary for decision-making." During the grant period, the system will be demonstrated in the Western library community; user manuals and other tools for operating the system will be published.

The system, says WILCO, will be based on the data file structure and software developed by the National Center for Higher Education Management Systems. A national advisory board composed of representatives from national organizations concerned with library statistics will be in on the study "to insure technical quality and compatability with ongoing data gather activities such as HEGIS and LIBGIS."

WILCO, incidentally, underwent a reorganization when members of the Western library community became concerned that the then named Western Library Network aimed to take over networking operations in the West. Under its new operating scheme, WILCO will concentrate on research and continuing education. Such networking services as Denver's Bibliographic Center, the Pacific Northwest Bibiliographic Service, and AMIGOS will retain their autonomy.

CLENE gets OE grant for independent study model

The Library Research and Demonstration Office of the Office of Education has awarded a grant to the Washington, D.C.-based Continuing Library Education Network and Exchange (CLENE) to develop a model system for measuring and recognizing continuing education initiatives—particularly nontraditional study programs—undertaken by library and information science personnel.

The grant will also pay for the development of a prototype home study program. Dorothy Deininger, director of the Office of Professional Development at Rutgers' Graduate School of Library Service, is the project's principal investigator.

The project, says CLENE, "addresses the problem of providing incentive to participate in continuing education activities, particularly those in nontraditional formats, as well as providing recognition of successful completion, and justification for support of these activities by institutions employing library and information personnel." CLENE hopes to come up with a continuing education model that "can provide a basis for the development of similar models for other professions and communities, and eventually remove or minimize . . . barriers to providing recognition of individual participation in continuing education activities in all fields."

One goal of the project, says CLENE, "is the development and demonstration, in cooperation with the American Society of Information Science, of a prototype home study program, with criteria that will qualify this type of program for acceptability in the profession." The proposed course, Impact of the New Technology on Libraries and Information Centers, will cover such topics as minicomputers, microform systems, terminal use, and related matters. Leon Montgomery of the University of Pittsburgh's Graduate School of Library and Information Science will design the course.

ALA asks for nominees for YA Best Books list

Susan Tait, chairperson of ALA's Best Books for Young Adults Committee, asks that nominees for the 1976 Best Books for Young Adults be sent to her by November 15. Eligibility requirements are: "the book must be published between November 1, 1975 and October 31, 1976; must have appeal . . . for young adults; and must meet acceptable standards of literary merit."

The YA book committee also wants sample cover designs done by a teenager; black on white ink drawings, measuring 9" x 3¾" are sought. The artist's name and school should appear on the back of the design.

Title suggestion and/or cover designs should go to Susan F. Tait, Seattle Public Library, 1000 4th Ave., Seattle, Wash. 98104.

So. Mississippi library school

The University of Southern Mississippi (Hattiesburg) reports that its Department of Library Science has evolved into the School of Library Service, with former Department Chairman Onva K. Boshears, Jr. appointed Dean. University library services have also been reorganized and placed under new leadership: the Joseph Anderson Cook Memorial Library, which houses the university's principal collections, is now under the direction of former Associate University Library Grover C. Ashley. The new William Davaid McCain Library, which houses archives, government documents, rare books, and special collections, as well as the newly established Teaching and Learning Resources Center, is now under the direction of Claude Fike, former dean of USM's College of Liberal Arts. J. Emory Howell has been appointed director of the new Resources Center.

BRODART OFFERS LIBRARIES THE ONE THING NO OTHER RECORDINGS SUPPLIER OFFERS. "EVERYTHING."

We're sure you can get a slightly better discount from someone. We're sure you can find a slightly more convenient record store.

We're also sure that these individual advantages are far overshadowed by the overall economy and convenience of a total recordings program. A program we've called "Everything."

"Everything" includes the broadest title coverage in every recordings category. It includes 48-hour shipment on in-stock records (unprocessed), 97% current order fulfillment, 48-hour response to customer inquiries. It includes superb technical services. And a comprehensive, up-to-date title listing specification order form for buying new recordings.

That's "Everything." Nothing less than you'd expect from a company that's been supplying libraries for over 30 years.

We salute the AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION 1876–1976 ALA 100

PLEASE SEND THIS COUPON, OR WRITE TO:

Mr. Richard Belzer, General Manager
BRODART, INC., Recordings Division, Dept. B106
1236 S. Hatcher Street
City of Industry, CA 91749

Dear Mr. Belzer: I would like to know more about "Everything." In particular: ☐ Recordings only ☐ Technical Services
☐ Other_____

Name_____

Title_____

Library/Organization_____

Address_____

City_____ State_____ Zip_____

BRODART

THE LIBRARY COMPANY

1236 SO. HATCHER ST., CITY OF INDUSTRY, CA 91749 1609 MEMORIAL AVE., WILLIAMSPORT, PA 17701 6 EDMONDSON ST., BRANTFORD, ONTARIO N3T 5N3

YOU WILL HAVE—
"CONFIDENCE"
In Our Complete
Periodicals Service—
All American and
Foreign Titles

Promptness is a Traditional part of McGregor Service . . . as well as:

- EXPERIENCE
- TRAINED PERSONNEL
- FINANCIAL STABILITY
- AMPLE FACILITIES
- RESPONSIBLE MANAGEMENT

An attractive brochure is available for the asking.

SUBSCRIBE TO McGREGOR PERIODICALS BULLETIN

OUR 44th YEAR

McGREGOR Magazine Agency

MOUNT MORRIS, ILLINOIS 61054

DAVEY

Since 1842 —
the standard binder's board
for library bindings.

RED LABEL BOARD

SOLID EST. DAVEY 1842 BOARD RED LABEL

Distributors in all principal cities

THE DAVEY COMPANY
164 LAIDLAW AVENUE
JERSEY CITY, N.J. 07308

THE LIBRARY DOLLAR

State $$: wins in New York, R.I., & Detroit

A $4 million boost in state aid to New York libraries, increased per capita aid for Rhode Island libraries, and the state's decision to take over from the city funding responsibility for the Detroit Public Library are among the reports that indicate that some states view libraries as one of their top priorities.

• $4 million boost in N.Y. state aid: New York's multicounty Clinton-Essex-Franklin Library System (headquartered in Plattsburgh) reports that the state legislature has passed an amended public library aid bill which will up state aid by $4 million. The CEF Library System expects to get a $31,858 increase in formula state aid: the Plattsburgh Public Library will get $7000 more in Central Library Aid; and Central Book Aid will go up $6000. Moreover, all system libraries that win increases in local support of at least $750 will qualify for grants of seven cents per capita.

• Rhode Island per capita aid raised: Rhode Island's Department of State Library Services credits the Rhode Island Library Association with getting the legislature to boost per capita aid by five cents: the legislature okayed a minimum of 30 cents in per capita library aid and appropriated $48,000 for this purpose.

• Detroit offers statewide access: Following the state's decision to recognize the Detroit Public Library as a state resource and to take over from the city responsibility for its funding (LJ, August, p. 1578), the Detroit Library Commission has given Director Clara Jones the okay to declare free statewide access to the Main library. In the past, people who did not live, work, attend school, or own property in Detroit had to buy a $10 annual card or join the Friends to get borrowing privileges. In an earlier interview with LJ, Jones had noted that the state's decision to provide the library with $5.5 million in funding marked a major step towards the recognition of the importance of inner city libraries.

• Statewide mill tax try: The Montana State Library reports that slated for the November ballot is a referendum which would authorize state funding of one mill in tax revenue for public libraries in federations throughout the state.

• Lobbying for the library dollar: Verena Bryson of South Carolina's Greenville County Library reports that the Public Libraries Section of the South Carolina Library Association is organizing a lobbying effort aimed at getting the state legislature to boost state aid from 35¢ per capita to $1. Representative Nicholas Theodore (Greenville County) has promised to introduce legislation asking for the budget boost. Meanwhile, SCLA's Public Libraries Section has set up a legislative committee to enlist support from librarians, trustees, Friends, and patrons. Among the arguments to be used in pleading for more aid: increased library use during the recession has underscored the value of libraries, and South Carolina libraries have measured up to goals set forth in the "South Carolina Program for Library Development 1972-77," but the state has fallen back on its own commitments.

New system funding scheme eyed in Louisiana

The Louisiana State Library recently brought together system directors, library center personnel, and board chairpersons to discuss a new funding scheme whereby system members would contribute local funds for system operation starting in fiscal year 1978 (October 1977). Under the plan, the State Library would give out fixed and equal LSCA grants for system reference and interlibrary loan services; member libraries would be required to match the grant on a "dollar-for-dollar" basis.

Other LSCA priorities (such as service to the disadvantaged) would be funded through separate grants to individual libraries (including those not in systems) or groups of libraries in the state. The new funding plan would enable the State Library to launch one additional information network.

Colorado State Library reports funding decrease

The Colorado State Library reports that state aid for 1977 dropped from a fiscal year 1976 total of $1,313,741 to $1,223,753. For the first time, notes CSL, all State Library aid came from Revenue Sharing; in the past money from the state's general fund had helped support CSL programs. Says CSL, state grants are down seven percent, with only $125,000 appropriated in equalization grants; the State Library lost funding for two full-time staff positions; and regional library system aid dropped from $651,250 to $600,000, although the systems are expected to come out ahead with $76,000 in local aid. The appropriations bill stipulates that system spending can go up no more than six percent, and that no system shall get less money than last year "when local cash and state appropriated funds are combined."

But Colorado is increasing aid to cooperative ventures: support to the Colorado Reference Center was raised from $232,786 to $346,753, and aid to Denver's Bibliographical Center (Donald Simpson, director) was upped from $18,500 to $21,000. Colorado also funded for the first time an interlibrary loan network, putting up $114,000 to reimburse the Bibliographical Center and local lending libraries for services provided.

Cincinnati university staff start a library endowment

Nancy Loughridge of the University of Cincinnati reports that "a resounding 97 percent of the library staff at UC have dug into their own pockets to start a library endowment fund," with revenue raised earmarked for strengthening library collections in all subject areas. Reference Librarian Jean Johns is the coordinator of the drive; she reports that so far $4000 has been collected in cash and 120 staffers have pledged payroll deductions.

Commenting on the staff's action, Director of Libraries Hal B. Schell said, "This was a genuine grassroots movement on the part of people who have been working under less than ideal physical and economic conditions. The spirit and dedication of this staff are unique in my experience."

Wis. state agency releases more LSCA $$

Wisconsin's Division for Library Services is one state agency to take note of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's charges against a number of state agencies that were scored for using LSCA to support agency operations instead of using it to fund library programs. Wisconsin's DLS has announced a 20 percent cut in LSCA dollars retained for Reference and Loan Services and library development in fiscal year 1976-77.

The National Commission on Libraries and Information Science, incidentally, went on record backing an LSCA amendment that would limit state library agencies to a LSCA retention of ten percent. NCLIS' position is viewed as a move to get more states to adequately fund their state library agencies, instead of forcing the latter to rely on LSCA to keep going.

Wisconsin's state agency plans more reductions in LSCA retention in the coming years, and predicts that "in 1978-79, DLS retention will be at 40 percent of the level retained in 1975-76." DLS complains that the loss of LSCA funding for agency operations may result in "unavoidable delays" in service and some curtailment of programs offered. But it plans to try for additional funding from the state.

ULC reduces dues

Noting that its current dues—which range from $250 to $2000—have kept some libraries from joining the Urban Libraries Council, ULC has adopted a new dues structure for 1977. The new rates: a maximum of $500 for libraries in cities over 500,000 population; $250 for those serving a population between 250,000 and 500,000; and $100 for those serving a population under 250,000. ULC, which noted that only 21 libraries are now paid-up members, said that it wants to have a broader base of support and is "somewhat anxious about its own financial soundness." ULC says libraries that want to join the Council now can pay half of the new rates for the remainder of 1976.

QUICK!

WHAT DO 200 LOCAL NEWSPAPERS HAVE TO SAY ABOUT: Child Abuse — Euthanasia — Capital Punishment — City Finances — Mass Transit — Drug Abuse — Gun Control — Campaign Issues? Do you know what to tell library patrons who ask you where to find out about such timely issues?

EASY!

TELL THEM ONE WORD —

NewsBank®

NewsBank is the comprehensive reference service that scans, clips and catalogues local news articles from over 200 newspapers every month, reproduces them on microfiche in their entirety, and prints a handy hard copy index for their retrieval. This means you can store 100,000 news reports a year in two square feet of space. Quick, easy and inexpensive, too.

The NewsBank Library contains the following categories: Business and Economic Development □ Consumer Affairs □ Education □ Employment □ Environment □ Government Structure □ Health □ Housing and Urban Renewal □ Law and Order □ Political Development □ Social Relations □ Transportation □ Welfare and Poverty.

Also Available: NewsBank Review of the Arts.

For further information, write to: NewsBank, Inc., Dept. L, P.O. Box 645, Greenwich, Connecticut 06830.

How to feel secure when buying a book security system.

No one has to convince you of the need for a book security system. Statistics and experience have done that already.

The important question now is which system to install in your library. And which system you can feel secure about.

The Gaylord/Magnavox Book Security System: The most technologically advanced.

The Gaylord/Magnavox Book Security System is the culmination of painstaking planning and research, of studying the strengths and weaknesses of existing security systems. The result—a "2 in 1" book security system that is virtually false alarm-proof.

"2 in 1"

Basically there are two kinds of book detection systems: The Full Circulation System and the By-Pass System. Gaylord/Magnavox gives you the option of choosing either one and converting to the other almost overnight.

False Alarm-Free

You can feel completely confident in the accuracy of the system. Using the most recent developments in integrated circuitry, it makes positive detection decisions. So, when you hear it sound, you know a book has been detected.

Aesthetically Pleasing

We created a system that is as attractive and unobtrusive as possible. Available in a wide selection of colors and textured finishes, its screens are smaller than those of many existing systems. The result is a system that blends well into any library, and can, in fact, enhance it.

James A. Rogers Library
Francis Marion College
Florence, South Carolina

Economical

Competitively priced, the system is an investment that should pay for itself in two or three years, depending on the extent of your book losses. After that, as losses are reduced, the system should be generating income in the form of money saved.

Two Reliable Names

Both Gaylord and Magnavox are quality leaders in their respective fields: Magnavox—an innovator in electronics for over six decades; and Gaylord—exclusively committed to the development of library service for eighty years.

The Gaylord/Magnavox Book Security System—the one you can feel secure about.

GAYLORD...ask any librarian.

GAYLORD BROS., INC., LIBRARY SYSTEMS, SUPPLIES, EQUIPMENT & PUBLICATIONS
Syracuse, NY 13201 TWX 710 545-0232 Stockton, CA 95208
Furniture Manufacturing Division Sanford, NC 27330

PERSONNEL ISSUES

1975-76 library school salaries are up

In a report for the Journal of Education for Librarianship, Russell Bidlack of the University of Michigan notes that salaries for library school directors or deans—especially those with fiscal year appointments—are improving; women are still getting paid less than their male colleagues, but the salary differential is shrinking; and the average number of faculty members employed is growing smaller. Bidlack surveyed 1975-76 faculty salaries in 62 ALA-accredited library schools.

The 62 schools participating in the survey reported 697 full-time faculty members; the 65 ALA-accredited library schools, said Bidlack, had 717 faculty members on the payroll for fall 1975. He noted that there is considerable variation in the size of the full-time teaching staff among schools: six to 21. The average in 1975-76 was 11.24, compared to 11.32 in 1974-75's 59 schools and 11.66 in 1973-74's 53 schools.

Bidlack reports that the average 1975-76 salary for the 55 library school heads with fiscal year (11-12 month) appointments was $31,395 (the median, $30,500); salaries, he noted, passed the $30,000 figure for the first time in 1975-76. For the six deans with nine-month academic year appointments the average salary was $24,025 (the median, $23,127). The salary range for fiscal year appointments was reported at $42,561 (a new high) to $22,500. The high for an academic year appointment was $33,475; the low, $18,400.

As for the breakdown by sex, women head 12 (20 percent) of library schools surveyed while men are in charge at the remaining 49 (80 percent). The average salary for female heads with fiscal year appointments was $30,373 (median, $29,707), while the average for males was $31,644 (median $31,250). Other survey statistics indicate that women are closing the salary gap: assistant professors who won fiscal year appointments in 1975 got an average salary of $15,627—for males the average was $14,905 and for females, $15,916. The average salary for 1975-76 new assistant professors on academic year appointments was $15,362, with males getting an average of $15,549 and females, $15,165. Library schools, incidentally, reported 51 (eight percent) new appointments in 1975-76, with most at the assistant professor level.

Sizing up the total picture, Bidlack pointed out that salaries for deans and directors (fiscal year appointments) have gone up nearly 7.5 percent. But for directors on academic year appointment salaries inched up only 3.6 percent. Deans and directors who held the same fiscal year appointments for at least two years running, noted Bidlack, netted impressive salary gains of 7.9 percent—up from a 1974-75 average of $29,390 to $31,718 for 1975-76.

As for tenure, Bidlack reported that a very high percentage of the heads of library schools have faculty tenure. He also found that of the 697 faculty members in the 62 schools, 58.4 percent hold tenure. For deans and directors, the percentage is 97; for professors, it's 93; for associate professors, 82 percent; assistant professors, 19 percent; instructors, 13 percent.

No longer are librarians pictured as little old ladies who spend their time shushing library patrons.

Today's librarian, a busy professional faced with rising hardback prices and tighter budgets, knows that paperbacks provide an up to the minute, economical way to increase circulation.

F.E.P., Inc. is the paperback jobber with a special interest in providing personalized service for all your paperback needs — Juvenile, YA and Adult. We pride ourselves on a stock that includes Best Sellers, Originals, New Releases and an extensive backlist of classics and current favorites.

Shhh!

Let F.E.P. fill your paperback orders today —from a single source on a single invoice. Please request our catalogues and allow us to place you on our F.E.P. Newsletter mailing list.

educational paperback association

F.E.P., Inc.
Florida Educational Paperbacks
4901 Rio Vista Avenue
Tampa, Fla. 33614
(813) 886-2969

AFGHANISTAN • BRAZIL • DOMINICAN REPUBLIC • ENGLAND • ETHIOPIA • GERMANY • GHANA • INDONESIA • IRAN • ISRAEL • JAMAICA • JAPAN • MALAYSIA • MOROCCO • PAKISTAN • PHILLIPINES • POLAND • THAILAND • PERU • TUNISIA • TAIWAN • UGANDA • UNITED ARAB REPUBLIC • U.S.S.R. • VENEZUELA • ZAMBIA • AND MANY MORE

TEACH
American youngsters in non-military schools
ABROAD

Did you know that almost three million private American citizens living and working abroad send their children to established American schools overseas? . . . schools administered and staffed by American professionals, with American curricula, methods, materials, etc.?

Our professional organization has been staffing and servicing these schools for nearly a quarter-century. We are currently seeking elementary and secondary teachers and administrators.

Drop us a line.

INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL SERVICES, Inc.
P.O. Box 5910
126 Alexander St.
Princeton, N.J. 08540

An Equal Opportunity, M/F Affirmative Action Employer

One source. One supplier. A total Academic Library service.

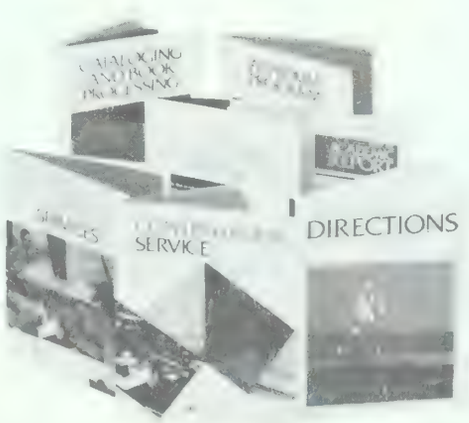
Baker & Taylor.
The one logical choice.

As the demands on your staff and budget grow, the more you need complete, professional and economic service from your book dealer. To meet this need, our Academic Library Service offers you specially designed and proven programs that supply exactly the books you need, when you need them. With liberal discounts, personal service and the time-saving convenience and accuracy of one order/one invoice.

One source for all your books.
From scholarly reprints to best sellers; the latest sci/tech materials to the classics. All from one supplier. Our inventory of university press publications, for example, is the largest in the country. So is our distribution capability: five regional locations across the U.S., stocking over 10,000,000 books. In other words, an order placed with us is an order filled completely and quickly. With a minimum of paperwork.

Professionals serving professionals.
At Baker & Taylor, our entire service is managed by our team of academic library professionals. Librarians, subject specialists and bookpeople. They provide the input, the research, the working know-how to keep your collection on-target with your established needs and current developments. They also work closely with our marketing people to constantly monitor your account and orders.
In your library, Baker & Taylor representatives will work with you to initiate orders and oversee the smooth operation of your account. They'll use their training in library procedures to help you stretch your budget and meet all your service requirements. Often, it's like having an extra person on your staff. And since every service is free, it's at no added expense to you.

Selection aids for your library.
In addition to personal service, we also provide information that you need on the growing number of new books of interest to your academic library. Including Directions, the monthly bibliographic journal that regularly lists and annotates over 3,000 new titles; Academic Report, a quarterly up-date on the Continuation Service, and featuring information on university presses, new services, and Baker & Taylor people who serve you.



Baker & Taylor
Academic Library Services.

Regular Order Service. Fast, complete, single supplier attention and care in fulfilling all of your orders.

Cataloging and Book Processing. Quality service, quality materials. Including book pocket, card, spine label, Mylar jacket, and a complete set of cataloging cards—produced from our database of over 650,000 records as supplied on MARC tapes.

Approval Program. We search and review forthcoming and new books. If a title matches your collection profile, it's sent to you. You decide, with the book in hand. An alternate plan, Current Awareness Service, provides Notification Slips to alert you to books of interest in specific subject areas.

Continuation Service. To help you keep up with the world of serials. An open-ended program, designed and administered by a staff of experienced serials librarians.

Automated Buying. BATAB, a sophisticated acquisitions system, designed to save hours of detailed listing, ordering, and tabulating.

Complete information available.
We would be happy to send you our Academic Library Services Brochure, that describes each of our services. Simply return the coupon at your earliest convenience.

Academic Library Services LJ-10-1-76
The Baker & Taylor Companies
1515 Broadway
New York, New York 10036

I would like more information about your services for academic libraries.
☐ Please send me your Academic Library Services brochure.
☐ I would like a representative to call.

Name _____
Title _____
College _____
Address _____
State _____ Zip _____

B&T THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANIES
The Education Division of W. R. Grace & Co.

Int'l law library assn. broadens objectives

A recent round-table discussion on Legal Documentation and Law Libraries in Developing Countries and a course on Legal Literature of Socialist Countries (slated for 1977 in Budapest) are among the forward-looking initiatives undertaken by the International Association of Law Libraries, reports IALL First Vice President Igor I. Kavass. The association, he reports, was founded in 1959 "to promote on a cooperative, nonprofit . . . basis . . . the acquisition and bibliographic processing of legal material on a multinational basis." In keeping with this objective, it has organized meetings and seminars that have drawn participants from six continents and 46 countries, and upgraded its publishing program to include a newsletter and the International Journal of Law Libraries. IALL became an affiliate of the International Federation of Documentation (FID) in 1974, and it has run educational programs with IFLA (International Federation of Library Associations) cooperation.

At the latest annual meeting of IALL's Board of Directors, the objectives of the organization were expanded to include: broadening of the membership base; development of minimum professional standards for law libraries; and promotion of cooperation among the developing countries in such areas as legal documentation and literature. Other goals pegged: "more efficient exchange of information on legal publications and documents . . . and the eventual establishment of uniform law library practices in order to . . . expedite legal research." Kavass contends that the association is moving toward a recognition of the need in the field of law librarianship for "occupational versatility" rather than narrow specialization. (Other observers, LJ has noted, see the emergence of more subject specialization in the library community.)

IALL membership fees are 25 Swiss francs ($9) for individuals and 50 Swiss francs ($18) for institutions. Applications for membership are available from: International Association of Law Libraries, Igor Kavass, Vanderbilt University Law Library, Nashville, Tenn. 37203.

"Tough-minded bargaining" by trustees urged

Writing for the newsletter of the American Library Trustee Association, Library Labor Relations Consultant Philip Harris has urged management to take a "tough-minded" approach to bargaining, to come to the bargaining table with a list of its own demands, and to seek the advice of experts "in the preparatory phase as well as in negotiating the final agreement." Reviewing the existing contract, says Harris, is mandatory, and studying the agreements of other library districts is also advisable. Union people know the advantage of having a quantity of demands "for trading purposes," and library management "should adopt this tactic."

Harris stresses the importance of knowing how much money can be spent. Two approaches suggested by him as a way of fixing a dollar ceiling for union negotiations: a macro-approach requiring statistics on the taxes to be levied and other available revenue, or a micro-approach calling for judgments on a line-by-line basis.

As for salaries, Harris notes that library management can opt for such alternatives as a roll-back, freeze, increments only, or across-the-board plus increments. He advises, "Good faith negotiations are the order of the day, legally and morally, so it is vital to show movement away from initial positions. Keep in mind that you may end a unique engineering journal informing the world of research in...

- FOOD
- AGRICULTURE
- ENVIRONMENT
- NATURAL RESOURCES

A vital part of your library is not complete without the most extensive agricultural engineering journal in basic and applied research. Primary research and state-of-the-art reports in areas of land use planning, water management, farm production machinery, harvesting and food process systems, plant and animal environment, waste utilization and disposal. Every article carefully selected and screened by peer review. Transactions—it's the journal with knowledge to help meet the food needs of the world.

Transactions of the ASAE issued bi-monthly

1200 pages
annual author-subject index

An annual subscription of six issues is $36. Back issues and indexes available in limited supply. If more information is desired, write for the Transactions Information Package.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS
Dept. 100, 2950 Niles Road
St. Joseph, Michigan 49085
Telephone: 616-429-0300

up at impasse, and a mediator or fact-finder will probably look to you for additional yielding. Also be ready for the 'sweetener demands'—fringes carrying new costs . . . know where you want to be but allow for flexibility. Then, when you eventually say 'enough,' you will have cause to mean it."

Harris warns against agreeing to noncost items and the unknown cost clauses. His rationale: "The union will be back next year . . . seeking further changes in wages, hours, and conditions of employment."

Harris has started a monthly newsletter on library personnel management and collective bargaining. A subscription to 12 issues of The Library Employee Relations Newsletter costs $60. To get on the mailing list, contact Harris at 54 Margaret Ave., Lawrence, N.Y. 11559.

Job analysis workshops

ALA's Office for Library Personnel Resources and Washington, D.C.'s Institute for Manpower Management plan to hold at Chicago's Bismarck Hotel two workshops dealing with job analysis in libraries. The first workshop, Techniques of Job Analysis and Job Interviewing, is slated for October 4-8; it will deal with such topics as job redesign and the creation of paraprofessional jobs, career ladders, and training and examining requirements. The second workshop, Employment Examining: Qualification and Training Requirements Identification, will take place November 8-12. Among the topics to be covered: rating and ranking job applicants, job requirements, training objectives, and applicable court decisions. The fee for each workshop is $210 and must be paid by the first day of the workshop. Attendance is limited to 30, and applicants are urged to register early with Marilyn Salazar of ALA.

Micro tech certification

The National Micrographics Association has decided to develop a pilot program leading to national certification for micrographic technicians. The main purpose of such a certification program, said NMA President Thomas P. Anderson, "is to encourage technicians to expand their knowledge and expertise in order to elevate their positions in the eyes of management and . . . increase their worth to employers." NMA's Technician Services Committee, which conducted a two-year study on the feasibility of certification for micrographic technicians, will develop a pilot certification program and conduct closely monitored test evaluations.

LC urges its supervisors to review union contracts

The Library of Congress, which has been giving its supervisors briefing sessions on such things as union negotiations and unfair labor practices, reports that library supervisors will now be given the opportunity to review and comment on union contract proposals. Supervisors will have 14 days to submit written responses on pending union contracts to LC's Labor Management Relations and Appeals Office, which will later meet with supervisors and members of management's bargaining teams to discuss management's reactions to union proposals.

Commenting on the review option, LC said: "This exchange will improve upward and downward communication, giving all supervisors the chance to participate in the management negotiation process. First-hand supervisory knowledge . . . as to what takes place at the work site is the best insurance management has in arriving at reasonable and defensible positions . . . and should improve the library's operations, managerial effectiveness, and the climate for related policies that best serve the public interest in accomplishing the library's mission." LC apparently wants to strengthen its bartering position in dealing with unions.

Why spend your time making change for COPY MACHINES? Be a librarian...

and let STANDARD CHANGE-MAKERS be your cashier for as little as 66¢ a day.

For full information on our complete line of $1 bill and coin changers, call or write:

Standard Change-Makers
422 E. New York St.
Indianapolis, Ind. 46202
Tel. (317) 639-3423

PROGRAM ALERT

Drive-in book booths, jazz festivals, games

Among the reports of innovative library programming going on are: an American Red Cross babysitting course and a program featuring live nonpoisonous snakes (Baltimore County Public Library); a tee-shirting workshop, a jam session featuring area young musicians, and a young adult cooking contest (Prince George's County Memorial Library System, Maryland); a radio story hour (Washington County Library System, Mississippi); a new job information center (New York's Nioga Library System); and a program on cancer care (Long Beach, New York, Public Library). Other reports of library programs to come to LJ include:

• New Orleans jazz festival: Ann Gallmeyer of the New Orleans Public Library reports on the various activities run by the library during the city's Jazz and Heritage Festival: continuous film screenings, a vegetarian cooking demonstration, a performance by a Latin American combo, dance and theater performances, slide talks on Louisiana native and folk art, wilderness camping, researching the history of your house, and poetry readings.

• Hawaiian instruments and games: Hawaii's Leeward Community College offers reserve loans of Hawaiian instruments and games. Among them: pahu hula (drum with skin head), 'uli'uli (feathered rattles), ipu heke (double gourd drums), konane (Hawaiian checkers), 'ulu maika (stone discs), and moa (wooden darts). LCC's Associated Students put up the money to buy the collection.

• Educational toys & games: The Oklahoma Department of Libraries has awarded $18,500 in grants (ranging from $1000 to $1500) to 15 public libraries "to encourage innovative programs using educational toys and games." The libraries that got LSCA awards are participating in "Project Gentle Nudge"; parents of preschool children come to their local library for lectures, workshops, and discussions about early childhood development, after which they can check out toys and other special materials for use with their children at home.

• Dial-a-book: The Saint Louis Public Library has initiated on a trial basis a new service for the benefit of downtown residents who can't make it to Main before closing; it's a drive-up book booth where patrons can pick up books ordered by telephone before 3 P.M.

• T-shirt iron-ons: Member libraries of Wisconsin's Rock County Library System are giving out free to patrons tee-shirt iron-ons with such slogans as "Be a Super Snooper at the Library" and "Rock County Library System Gives You Something Extra."

• Towboat paperback service: The Washington County Library System of Greenville, Mississippi reports that the Waterways Marine Service is helping it distribute paperbacks to hospitals, nursing homes, and even the fire department; towboats that come in for supplies also pick up shipments of paperbacks. WCL reports that over 18,000 paperbacks were delivered last year.

• Indoor plant care & camping: The Lake County Public Library of Merrillville, Indiana recently held a program to advise plant lovers on how to help their plants survive the hard winter months. LCPL also ran a program on selecting the proper recreational vehicle for travel and camping trips.

• McDonald's freebies: The Mayne Williams Public Library of Johnson City, Tennessee reports that the McDonald's fast-food chain helped spur on young readers during the summer months. Every time a youngster used his library card, he got a coupon—good for a box of cookies and a soft drink from McDonald's.

• Spanish telephone story program: Noting the success of its For Kids Only telephone story program, Arizona's Yuma City-County Library has launched a similar program for Spanish-speaking youngsters: Para Los Ninos Solamente (For Kids Only, in Spanish). Callers can dial-a-story on a 24-hour basis; stories are recorded weekly. A Bell System 100A Answering Unit—with a special gadget to record usage volume—handles calls.

• Spanish festival & tricycles: A tricycle race was one feature of the Festival de Información, an all-day affair organized by University of Arizona students who are enrolled in UA's Library Service to Ethnic Minorities course.

Foreign language service launched in North Carolina

North Carolina's Cumberland County Public Library (Fayetteville) has received an $88,000 LSCA Special Project grant to provide statewide foreign library service, reports Director C. David Warren. Cumberland, he says, was picked because of its sizable bilingual collection—including the recent acquisition of Vietnamese materials—and the large concentration of non English-speaking residents within its service area.

Cumberland's bilingual information resources will be made available to non-English speaking residents of the state via interlibrary loan. Besides providing informational and recreational materials to the non English-speaking, the library will supply materials to English-speaking persons who want to become more competent in reading and/or speaking a foreign language. North Carolina librarians will be aided in the acquisition of bilingual materials.

AV in libraries: award winning programs

The Chicago Public Library and Madison, Wisconsin's Coordinated Library Information Program are the latest to cop an award for such AV programming as a Bicentennial TV series and a TV spot dramatizing what the library has to offer.

• Awards for Chicago's Bicentennial TV series: The Chicago Public Library got the first-place award from the Broadcasters Promotion Association for its Bicentennial series, "Happy Birthday America." The TV series, broadcast by WGN-TV, features prominent Chicagoans in two-minute vignettes on the nation's history. CPL reports that its award marks the first time in the 22-year history of the BPA that an organization other than a radio or TV broadcaster has been recognized.

• Library PR televised ad: The Coordinated Library Information Program, Inc. of Madison, Wisconsin reports that its 30-second TV spot—highlighting services and materials available from the public library—won top honors in the public service announcement competition sponsored by the Milwaukee Society of Communicating Arts. The TV ad, entitled "The City," is now available for purchase by libraries outside Wisconsin. Contact Marian Edsall, Director, CLIP, Box 1437, Madison, Wis. 53701.

• Film on Kennedy's assassination: The Rhode Island Film Cooperative has purchased a 16-millimeter, optically improved version of Abraham Zapruder's film documenting the assassination of President John F. Kennedy; it is making the film (plus a descriptive guide) available to organized groups in the state via local member libraries. The film, which shows the assassination in real time, slow motion, and close up, purportedly lends credence to the opinion that the assassination was a conspiracy. The film cooperative is headquartered at Rhode Island's Warwick Public Library.

Regional oral history group

Representative of oral history projects in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and the District of Columbia are organizing a regional oral history association, reports Marjorie Plitt of the Catonsville (Maryland) Community College. More info is available from Mary Jo Deering, George Washington University Library, 2130 H St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20052.

Vt. to run own program serving the handicapped

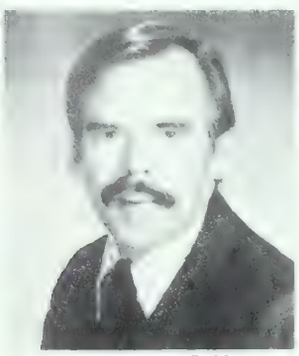
Vermont's Department of Libraries has assumed total responsibility for providing service to the handicapped statewide via a Regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, reports State Librarian John McCrossan. Service to Vermont's handicapped had previously been provided by the New York State Regional Library for the Blind under a special contractual agreement between the two states.

Vermont's Department of Libraries will circulate to the blind and physically handicapped talking books, disc records, cassette tapes, large print books and periodicals, as well as appropriate AV equipment. Requests about the new service and procedures involved in ordering materials for the blind and physically handicapped should go to Vermont's Department of Libraries, Special Services Unit, Montpelier, Vt. 05602.

Media at UC's biology library

The University of California-Berkeley has established at its Biology Library a "media-oriented biology learning center"—a forward-looking project in keeping with the Carnegie Report's recommendation on the greater use of new technology in higher education. The new center, says CU News, "contains eight stations, four equipped with slide projector, audio-cassette combinations, and four equipped with video carrels for viewing videotapes and programs brought in from the campus television office." The Biology Library and Department of Instruction in Biology are currently assembling tape-slide modules and videotapes on a wide range of subjects in biology. One indication of the center's potential: "Every week each of nearly 50 students videotapes 20-minute interview with a 'client' . . . the tape is reviewed by the student and a health care professional, frequently a community psychologist or clinician."

PEOPLE



N. ALEXANDER

D. HAITH

C. McCARTHY

NORMAN D. ALEXANDER, formerly Director of the Library, Southern Oregon State College, Ashland, has been appointed Director of the University Library, California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo, Calif.

JANET D. BAILEY, formerly Editor of Special Libraries and Manager, SLA Publications Department, Special Libraries Association, New York City, has resigned for personal reasons and to undertake graduate studies.

JANET BLUMBERG, formerly Supervisor, Personnel Administration, Timberland Regional Library, Lacey, Washington, has been appointed to the position of Consultant in Continuing Education at the Washington State Library.

VIRGINIA BOUCHER, Head of Interlibrary Loan Service, University of Colorado Libraries, Boulder, has taken a leave of absence until June 30, 1977 to serve as Network Coordinator, Colorado State Library, Denver.

WILLIAM A. CROWLEY, JR., formerly with the New York Public Library, is now Public Information Services Coordinator, Alabama Public Library Service, Montgomery.

DANIEL M. GRODEN, formerly Assistant Director of the Long Beach Public Library, New York, is now Director, West Hempstead Public Library, N.Y.

DOROTHY M. HAITH, formerly Chairman, Department of Library Science, Virginia State College, Petersburg, is now Dean, School of Library Media, Alabama A&M University, Normal.

W. K. HARRISON, III, Director of the Rockville Centre Public Library, New York, since 1955, retired on July 1.

KENNETH R. HERRICK, formerly Head of Collection Development Division, University of Wisconsin, Parkside, is now Director of Libraries, University of Hawaii, Hilo.

CONNIE MCCARTHY, formerly Audio Visual Librarian, Norwalk Community College, Connecticut, is now AV Consultant, Division of Library Development, Connecticut State Library, Hartford.

RUTH SHIPP, formerly responsible for data management at five Puget Sound facilities of the Boeing Company, is now Coordinator of Technical Support Services, Seattle Public Library, Wash.

Library Journal is pleased to announce the publication of

LJ SPECIAL REPORTS

The LJ Special Reports, to be published throughout the year, will be a compilation of reports on topics of immediate interest and importance to librarians throughout the country. In the library field, where so many changes have occurred recently, yesterday's plans and assumptions must also change. The problems of library funding, the energy crisis, the evolution of the local library into a "community information" center, the response of the academic library to the new demands of higher education—all these factors and more require innovative thinking and planning now for libraries of the future.

In order to keep you aware and informed about current crucial issues affecting the future of the library, LJ will seek out experts in the field to contribute their thoughts, ideas, and experiences in up-to-the-minute articles which will comprise the LJ Special Reports.

The first report in the series will be Library Space Planning and will present the thinking of some 20 architects, librarians, and library consultants on the pressing issues which face library planners today: energy conservation; new technology; cooperative activities; compact shelving; decentralization of libraries; site selection, etc. The scheduled publication date of Library Space Planning is July 15.

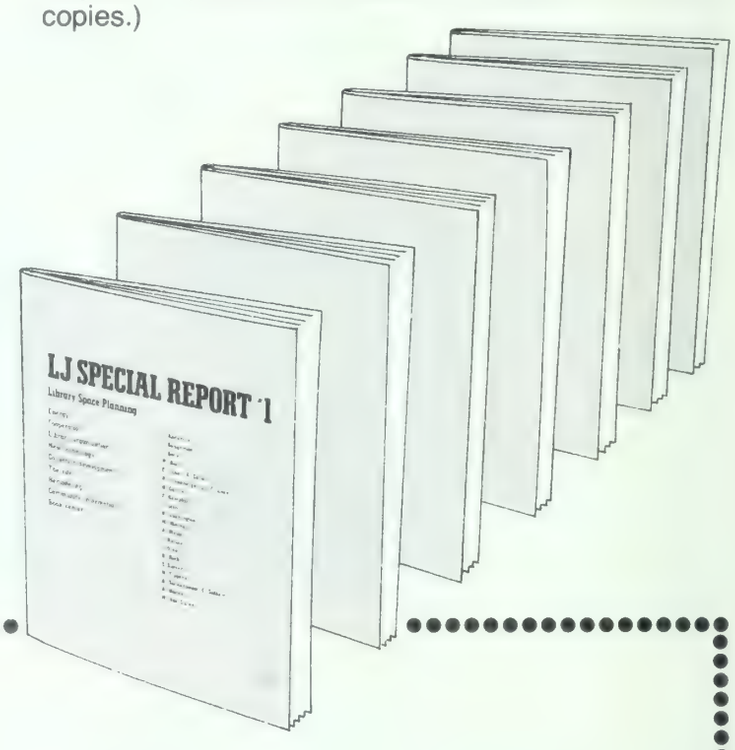
In order to reserve your copy of LJ Special Report #1 —Library Space Planning, kindly fill out the attached coupon and return it to us. The cost per report is $5.00. To save money, send cash with order and the cost will be only $3.95. (Discounts available on orders of 10 or more copies.)



LJ Special Report #1
Library Space Planning
(80 pages, 8¼ x 11¼ format; paperbound)

Please send me_____ copies @ $5.00 each. Total $_____.
Please send me_____ copies @ $3.95 each. Amount enclosed $_____
Send quantity discount price on_____ copies. (Quantity discount on order of 10 or more copies.)

Name _____

Library _____

Address _____

_____
(Zip Code)

Return to: Ed Martin, Circulation Department
R.R. Bowker Company
1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10036

VIDEO TECHNOLOGY

ITS FUTURE IN LIBRARIES

Denis J. LaComb

MANY LIBRARY SYSTEMS of the future will find themselves in the midst of a telecommunications revolution. Staff additions, new buildings, and new equipment will be influenced by the demands of electronic media. Video technology will play an increasingly important part in nonprint acquisitions, in-house projects, and programming for specific audiences.

This futuristic era is not a hundred years away nor 50. Its vanguard is here. Although still generally clothed in public relations rhetoric and engineering blueprints, the electronic arm of communication (a library's basic role) is already highly developed.

Cable television is one example of a telecommunications function presently using only a small percentage of its total potential. Libraries can become an important part of that total utilization. College and university media centers are also finding in libraries a beneficial partner with which to combine services.

But it doesn't stop there. Community access centers, located in schools or in the libraries themselves, have become an important part of many community functions. These centers allow the average citizen access to video equipment and production tools. They have also been the impetus for old-fashioned town meetings—those gatherings where citizens can exchange ideas and generate action within the community.

But these present-day functions are just beginnings. The potential of electronic journalism or telecommunications is enormous. Eventually it will change the television and motion picture industries as we know them into something quite different. New modes of communications will push aside the old. Libraries can benefit from this enormous growth in electronics. If it is applied properly, it will place libraries at the forefront of community action and activity.

Denis J. LaComb is Program Circulation Manager at the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting, Owings, Md.

CVRP

Roberto Esteves, CVRP director, teaches operation of low light camera and wide angle lens

Setting up for a one-minute, two-camera studio production

This trend of increased library involvement with video technology is not surprising. It is a logical progression, first initiated with 16mm films and continuing now with video cassettes. It is just one of the ways in which libraries are changing their traditional roles and carving out new avenues of communications. Additions are being made to the already long list of nonprint materials. Long playing records, 8mm and 16mm films, photographs, audio cassettes, paintings, and microforms are already established in many libraries. New technology will help to increase the list.

Miniaturization and simplification of video equipment was the starting point for the recent growth of video technology. Low cost, portable equipment, and a surge of interest in video technology has made this growth even more attractive for library systems which must be responsive to citizen needs. It is now possible to buy all the necessary video tools to produce a television program and play it back for less than $5000 complete! Similar, though less complete, packages are available for even less money. Portable color and black & white cameras make it possible to produce a program in almost any location imaginable.

Watch-A-Book

"Watch-A-Book," a special project of the Public Television Library, has provided solid research and data to support the theory that library patrons will use video programming if it is readily available to them. The experiment pointed out that many patrons using the video cassettes were first time library visitors. A sizeable portion of those people were in the lower socio-economic stratum of our society, the community members who might benefit most from the use of library facilities. If the "Watch-A-Book" project could reach these individuals who were not considered regular library patrons, certainly continued video usage might greatly increase the ability of libraries to serve their communities.

Libraries across the country are using video technology in a variety of ways. Although the functions and formats vary, the fact remains that traditional ways of serving the public have changed for these involved libraries. It will continue to change as the libraries grow in video experience and expertise.

In August 1974 California libraries received three major grants to study and experiment with various video and cable applications. The three grants went to the San Francisco Public Library ($156,000), the San Jose Public Library ($36,000), and the Kern County Library ($59,000). Each system is experimenting with the employment of video services within the library setting. But each approaches the service in a different way.

California Video Resource Project

The San Francisco Public Library created the California Video Resource Project. The CVRP is one of the most ambitious new projects conceived in the field of video technology by a California library system.

The project is producing and purchasing a permanent collection of video tapes that will be used for library programming, main library research, and exchange with other California libraries. At least 18 libraries in the state will get free loan use of these tapes. An important aspect of this statewide circulation is the accumulation of data on the most successful uses of video.

Specific video service experiments are studying the effectiveness of individual viewing and group programming. Video carrels provide public access for individuals, and a special viewing room is used for large audiences.

Experiments with use of a cable channel are being tried over the newly established educational access channel. Its potential audience numbers over 100,000. Programming is used on the CATV system for publicity, outreach, and children's and adult library services.

In addition to live CATV programming, the CVRP is producing half-inch color video tapes for use on the cable channel. They can be repeated at various times during the week. Efforts are underway to work cooperatively with other city agencies in experimental video productions and to provide models for innovative library productions.

A listing of video hardware (equipment) at CVRP headquarters is impressive: half-inch b&w Sony 3600 and 3650 video tape machines, half-inch color Sony 8400 and 8650 video tape machines, b&w studio cameras and a color portable camera, two video cassette

Helene Koshu explains lighting

A lighting demonstration at the Pinole Branch

Roberto Esteves explains production machines, three 17-inch monitors, two 25-inch monitors, one 12-inch monitor, and one 9-inch monitor. All are color capable.

Roberto Esteves, creator and director of the CVRP, states his short range goals this way: to produce monthly public programs on videotape, to prepare a bimonthly newsletter on video activities in California libraries, to produce several CATV programs, to experiment in cooperative endeavors with other city agencies, to provide a consultant service for California libraries, and lastly to build a video collection for eventual exchange with other California libraries.

The CVRP's long range goals are more expansive: to stimulate the development and use of video and cable communications as a library medium by dealing with the problems first—in short, to build a solid ground upon which to create and experiment. One of the problems Esteves encountered immediately was the great variations in rules and prices of commercially produced video tapes. Along with the diversity in price and restrictions came lengthy negotiations with producers. Now the CVRP has set up standards for the purchase of tapes. Although this may restrict the number of potential suppliers of video programming, it creates practical limits within which the CVRP can work. Inadequate staffing is another persistent problem, but Esteves found that video technology has an attractiveness that makes the use of volunteers much easier and productive.

The CVRP stands out because it is doing what so many others are talking about: interagency production cooperation, free consultancy services, information newsletters, lunch-time video, presentation of video groups to the public, work in video art festivals, and more.

The San Jose system is also heavily involved in the use of cable. The library has been designated by the city government as the agency to handle all city cable activities. Thus any cable programming from a city department—for example, the fire department or city hospital—would be coordinated by the library staff. And if a city department cannot produce a program itself, the library would then act as the producing agency for that department.

The San Jose experience is not unique. Both the Tulsa City-County Library and the Boulder Public Library have received official approval for their plans to build, equip, and staff a video production facility to serve all governmental agencies in both cities.

Books by CATV

The goal of the Kern County Library system is to bring the total range of library services to those people who cannot come to the library, either because of distance or physical handicaps. Video and cable will take up here where the mail leaves off. Kern County will initiate a paperback books-by-mail service. Books will be reviewed on the local cable system. In addition to these book reviews, there will be children's programs, and information about library programs and services. The library will also assist community and governmental agencies to bring information and programs to the homebound.

Among some librarians, there is an illusion that the implementation of video must be initiated with an influx of grants or other major funds. That is not necessarily true. The Buena Park Library District in California is supported only by local property taxes. Yet it began experimenting with video programming back in 1971 and has increased its usage each year since then.

The library's tape programs can be categorized in three areas: original programming developed for the general public, special broadcasts from commercial and educational networks shown at scheduled times to public audiences, and local productions using a black and white video camera.

The library has no production studio, but the capabilities of today's video equipment make that a minor hindrance. Current equipment at Buena Park includes Wollensak and Sony video cassette machines, various TV monitors from 11 inches to 25 inches, video cameras, and basic editing equipment for taping and tape transfers.

The video presentations are conducted in the audiovisual auditorium built in the basement of the library. It has a capacity for 250 persons. It also has a three-piece stage, retractable movie screen, and 16mm, 8mm, and super 8mm projection equipment.

Murray Holmes, director of the Buena Park Library District, has several long range goals. These include regularly scheduled video programming for the public (similar to their weekly movie programs), individual participation programs on closed circuit facilities, internal production programming of library activities, performances of local talent preserved on video tape, and the production of library training aids for staff and patrons.

NATRONA

Action shots of informational programs at Natrona

One current and persistent problem, according to Holmes, is the availability of rental tapes of sufficient variety and quantity at reasonable fees. He emphasizes the last point. Libraries cannot afford the high rates so many distributors are asking for their programs, he points out. Because they are nonprofit institutions, they cannot justify a high investment in program acquisitions which are to be offered to the public at no charge.

Swimming in video

If the California Video Resource Project is deep into video, Wyoming's Natrona County is swimming in it! The Natrona County Public Library serves an area of approximately 300 square miles. Video is an integral part of the library's informational materials.

The main branch library, in the city of Casper, has been using videotape programming and producing their own material since the early 1970s. Tapes are produced on demand or as needs are identified—they then become part of the information store and are serviced by the Information Services Division of the library.

The library began with a Sony AV 3600 B & W recorder with a Sony 3200 camera. They now have video cassette machines, video cartridge machines and open reel videotape machines. In addition to this flexibility in videotape formats, the library has its own in-house production studio and a two-channel cable system wired into 70 percent of all the homes in Casper.

In the fall of 1971, LVO Cable, Inc., the parent company of the local cable system, granted the Natrona County system a contract allowing use of Channel 12 by the library for five years. The board of trustees approved the purchase of a transmitting system, a production console, a color camera (Shibaden FPC 1000), and a color recorder (Panasonic 3120).

The library was fortunate in its adoption of CATV and its penetration into the community. Since there are no commercial television stations within the city, all television signals have to be imported via cable. The library had a ready audience for its programming even before it went on the air. Since that time, the library has been granted a second CATV channel to operate. The two channels are used for distinctly different purposes. One is strictly for programming; the second acts as a video reference service.

The video reference service has the most far-reaching implications for the library and its service to the community. The current system is designed for a black and white camera which gives greater resolution, allowing the color unit to be used in production.

To use this service, a patron simply phones in his request for visual information and then turns his television set to the channel for a reply. The service operates 70 hours per week. Questions number from two per day during the summer to an occasional 20 or more on especially busy days.

The library soon hopes to have a third signal source which would allow the "airing" of book reviews and advertisements during the off time. The staff is also investigating the use of a repeat cassette unit to telecast specific messages continually.

The library is investigating the creation of a high speed information retrieval system using cable TV for distribution. Using systems developed for the County Record System (an $81,000 project for designing and implementing information retrieval systems for county offices), the library has an in-house microfilm retrieval unit, plus cameras, processor, and associated equipment. The library, in conjunction with the local school district, is using a computer. Eventually, all of these will be interfaced to provide a high speed information system for the public.

The other channel is for library programming and falls into two categories: public information and library information. Some of the subjects covered under public information are book review programs, storytime for pre-schoolers, hobby shows, craft shows, programs for the elderly, and a special public forum. The very popular PBS program Sesame Street is also shown on the cable channel, along with other programs produced by such outside sources as the University of Wyoming. Library information programs are basic promotional pieces for the library and an explanation of its many services.

HENNEPIN

Patrons view the library's videocassettes —or bring their own—at the Media Desk

At Hennepin's Westonka Agency: a Portapak half-inch workshop for young adults in action

When the library got use of its second CATV channel, it found itself to be the only service in the community of program origination. Thus it undertook the responsibility of providing public access to the cable system.

Since the cable company no longer had the responsibility to provide this local access, it loaned the library the equipment out of its studio, approximately $50,000 worth of hardware. Included in this hardware were two Sony FPC 1000 color cameras, two Sony ¾-inch video cassette recorders, one 1-inch Sony 320 open reel recorder, 12 studio lights with a master control panel and wiring system, and a variety of cords, cables, and associated hardware.

John Peters, director at Natrona, points out that while most commercially available material is in the ¾ inch cassette format, there are decided advantages to the half-inch cartridges, since they do not require copying of the tape. All editing can be done on the original tape which is then simply wound into the cartridge. The library will standardize all its visual material (films, film strips, etc.) on half-inch cartridges, which can then be played back, using only one kind of playback equipment instead of many; they can also be cablecast from the library. All the commercially produced tapes which are purchased will be transfered to the half-inch format.

Minnesota twins

There are two libraries in Minnesota's twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul working with video; one just beginning, the other quite advanced. Both will be the source of valuable data for other library systems just starting up in video.

St. Paul's Lexington branch library, under the direction of Annette Salo, has created a Video Communications Center. It is staffed by Ms. Salo and two part-time employees. The center will provide editing facilities, implement staff training in video, preview tapes to begin a tape library, provide training workshops for community groups, and collect data for other systems just beginning.

Their equipment is limited but heavily used. It includes several Sony video cassette recorder-player machines, half-inch portable Panasonic videotape recorders and cameras, and half-inch Panasonic editing facilities.

One of the basic problems plaguing any system using video is hardware breakdown. A service contract agreement is sometimes a must if inexperienced personnel are using the equipment and/or if the hardware is exposed to community groups.

Another problem is developing awareness. To increase awareness of the library's video facilities and provide a programming outlet, Ms. Salo travels with a bookmobile to shopping centers and uses the community relations office's sidewalk service at community centers and playgrounds to play back tapes.

The Edina-Hennepin County Branch Library in Minneapolis has been working with video for several years. The library has a fully-equipped darkroom, three projection rooms, three video carrels, and a full line of audio and video equipment which is available for the general public to use.

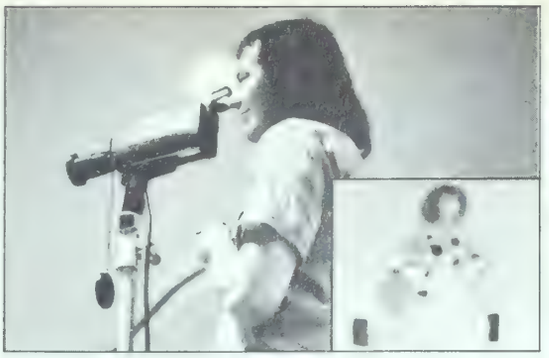
The information gained at these two libraries will take MELSA (Metropolitan Area Library Association), a consortium of seven twin city library systems, a giant step toward the citywide implementation of video in every branch.

The Wisconsin Video Project is somewhat similar to the California Video Resource Project. WVP is a statewide experiment to develop video programming experience in public libraries. The project began with basic training and will culminate in regular programming and an inter-library exchange of video tapes.

The first phase of the project began with the publication of booklets on how to use a portable camera in the field, how to adjust for proper sound recordings, what to do about lighting, etc. Two- and three-day workshops introduced librarians to the fundamentals of programming with in-depth exposure to the fundamentals of video tape production. The emphasis here was not on slick, Hollywood programming but rather on simple, straightforward productions suited to specific library audiences.

The second phase of the project found the program teams assisting libraries in the actual production of their own videotapes and exploring other sources of tape programming. These outside sources were local high schools or colleges. In addition, the project evaluated the acquisition of commercially produced tapes

HENNEPIN
(CONT'D)



A Hennepin staff member films Ruthie the Clown (inset), a visitor from the Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus

Filmchain transposes film, slides, etc. to videotape, for later playback from local public television stations or regular distributors such as the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting.

In the third and final phase, an evaluation of the entire project will be made along with the establishment of a video tape exchange on a statewide basis.

The Maryland center

The University of Maryland at College Park has one of the best equipped video distribution centers of any university. The center is part of the university's nonprint department of the undergraduate library. The library has 12 video carrels for individual viewing of tapes plus five separate viewing rooms for several persons or large groups. In addition, there are two mobile videotape playback units which can be transported to any room in the building. The audio playback units total more than 80.

Another 80 carrels are electronically tied into a dial access system which carries eight video channels and more than 26 audio channels. Any student can use the dial access system. On an average day, more than 300 tapes are checked out, and 1500 accesses are recorded for the dial access system. During peak study periods, the usage can double.

The library has no production facilities itself. It is strictly a distribution system making heavy use of video cassettes. Ross Hempstead, who developed and until recently headed the nonprint facility, calls video cassettes "funny kinds of books that can be effectively used for informational and instructional purposes."

One point Dr. Hempstead brings out is especially pertinent. Although having the right type of hardware is important, the acquisition of hardware should not be the major purpose of nonprint facilities. Hardware should always be considered in the perspective of its effectiveness to distribute the software collection to your particular clientele. In other words, different user-groups may require different software as well as different types of equipment and distribution services. A sophisticated dial access system may work for a large university but be only a white elephant for a smaller school.

The Enoch Pratt Free Library system in Baltimore is much like so many others that are just beginning to explore the possibilities of video tape. Despite tight money, Enoch Pratt is going beyond the now "traditional uses" of videotape to explore various means of program exchange with a local public television station, the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting. There are two options open in this kind of exchange: tapes used as part of a theme and repeat showings at the library of programs aired by the PTV station.

A theme such as "Maryland history" or "consumer affairs" may be chosen. The library then provides material to accompany the taped program on that particular theme—16mm films, books, magazines, film strips, and audio tapes.

Under the second option, Enoch Pratt has offered the broadcasting center's Wall $treet Week series for several days following its Baltimore broadcast. Businessmen, students, retired persons, and general library patrons viewed and reviewed the program each day on videocassette at regularly scheduled hours or on a request basis. This program repeat will allow people who either missed the original broadcast, or who would like to see it over again, the opportunity to do just that by going to the library.

New library roles

In addition to using videotape, many libraries are also working in conjunction with other modes of communication and are assuming new roles in the community.

The Bloomington, Indiana, library system is broadcasting 50/60 hours a week on cable television. Many systems, such as those in Connecticut, are utilizing the educational channel of their local cable system to air programs and get the public involved. And one means of involvement is through a video access center.

The University of Minnesota library defines its Community Video Center as a "function which offers students and the community a chance to experiment and redefine the way in which they have been traditionally involved with the video experience." That academic definition leads to a general definition of the purpose of a video access center: "to give the people the chance to experiment in the use of another mode of expression and communication."

Librarian Nancy Larsen with kids in the Media Lab, making a videotape from original scripts written by the youngsters

Libraries in Orlando, Florida; Bakersfield, California; and Battle Creek, Michigan, have all recently established community access centers within their facilities. Many libraries consider it a logical step from producing television programs to inviting the community in to produce their own tapes.

If a CATV hookup is also present, the means to air the finished production for larger audiences is right there. Otherwise the tapes can be played back in the library itself. Either way, library patrons are involved and the library itself is the center for a special community activity.

Communications satellites are opening up an entirely new spectrum of telecommunications and libraries are finding themselves involved here also.

The Alaska Library Association is sponsoring the library satellite project in which programs are beamed via satellite from the Fairbanks library to rural Alaskan communities.

Soon a 12-state area will benefit from the world's most powerful communications satellite. It will be used to extend local library resources to residents of 12 mountain and plains states through the Satellite Library Information Network. A press release describes the operation this way: "The program will help individual users of information, and community-level groups such as government agencies, businesses, and other organizations. On a regional level, bibliographical information will be transferred to libraries in a "compressed data format." With such a format, a library in a remote area of, say North Dakota, may have access to specialized information from a large and specialized center, such as the Denver Public Library's special conservation library or its western history collection.

This Satellite Library Information Network is a reality. It is in operation today. From the lessons learned on this project, many more libraries will be getting involved with the use of communications satellites.

The library of the future, in view of the rapid advancement of video technology, will have roles and functions unheard of today. Video discs will be as available as are today's long playing records. Taped programs from local colleges and universities will serve to educate patrons who can't attend those institutions for a variety of reasons. This concept, the university without walls, is already in operation in several formats. Computer-assisted information retrieval systems will become available to offer everyone ready access to a myrid of information banks such as the New York Times Information Service and others. Reference services, facsimile transmission, local events directories, consumer information, basic adult education . . . the list could go on and on. All these can be integrated into the library's use of video technology.

But the question must arise, why should a library system concern itself now with a technology only a dozen years old? The answer is simple. The world is changing; in some cases, radically. Video technology is a large part of that change. Telecommunications, in its many forms and functions, will increasingly play a large part in the way we live and work. Libraries and their parent organizations such as city government can not afford to be left behind in this wave of change and innovation.

Public library systems are in a natural leadership position to investigate the role and functions of video technology and its impact on communities. Community leaders and patrons alike look to the libraries for much of their day-to-day information and reference services. Why not video information also? The community at large can get involved through the use of video access centers and community video centers.

Public and private libraries are also in a "natural" position to be the centers for activities built around the collection of information and reference services for the growing number of videotape users. Libraries have always handled basic information for the community. Video programming is another new information area to explore.

Involvement now will mean a library is getting in on the ground floor of video activity at the beginning of this changing era of electronic communications. Investigation on the library's part today will enhance and solidify its leadership position in the future.

This is not to imply that print will ever be outdated. But it must make room for nonprint material. The library will become a supplier of program material just as it handles books and records now. The coming electronic age will be challenging for all libraries, but it will be an especially exciting challenge for those willing to become involved today.

TWO IN "THE MOVEMENT"

a review of "BOOKLEGGER" & "EMERGENCY LIBRARIAN"

by Jane Robbins

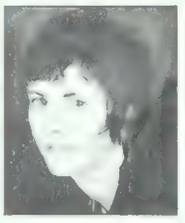
"LET'S START a magazine," writes e.e. cummings in his poem of youth.

But why should a magazine be started? Because the mere act of doing so is the most valuable kind of radical organizing possible. Besides, it is abundantly clear that the "system" can take just about any incident, idea, or value and transform it into a product.

"The movement" lives

There is a misconception being foisted about by many librarians and nurtured by their establishments that discontented librarians, as well as other groups and types of discontents apparent in the sixties, have subsided and might even have disappeared. While it is true that 1) the press value of reporting the doings of the discontented has dwindled to a trickle and 2) those who were discontented then for lack of anything better to do have settled into the establishment, one would be rather simplistic to construe that radicalism is dead or even dying. There is not an occupation or profession that does not have a hearty and substantial core of persons who identify, out of their social and intellectual energies, with an intrinsically radical critique known collectively as "the movement." Underground presses are firmly established not just in Berkeley and Atlanta, but also in smaller towns in places like Missouri and Montana. There abound little magazines devoted to the practice of radical social work, science policy formation, education, and even librarianship. The existence of this core of publications does not mean that being radical has become being establishment, but it certainly does mean that being radical has become established.

It may be difficult to believe that librarianship can support two movement magazines, but it almost does. I say almost because Booklegger Magazine announced in its Spring 1976 issue that it is cutting back to a quarterly from a bimonthly so that it can remain a truly "free" press, i.e., it can go on publishing without raising rates, filling its pages with ads, or being supported by outside grants. Emergency Librarian, since the summer of 1974, its fifth issue, has been supported in part by a grant from the Ontario Arts Council. As far as I can tell, approximately 5000 people subscribe to Booklegger Magazine and 1000 to Emergency Librarian, and this coterie of supporters has sustained the two small, dedicated staffs sufficiently to allow a consistent, though not always timely, publishing record since the fall of 1973.



Jane Robbins, an independent library educator and consultant, is currently working on a statewide study of library effectiveness in Wyoming

BL* & EL: similarities

Booklegger, for those of you who are completely unfamiliar with it, is a magazine for librarians "who care about the outside world more than the inside," according to Celeste West, one of the founders of the Booklegger Press, the publisher of the magazine. I think what she means is that the magazine is intended to meet the needs of those librarians who perceive of their work primarily in terms of the needs of the people they serve rather than the needs of the institutions in which they work or their own needs as librarians. Perhaps she means that the magazine is published for those librarians who believe that they, as well as their users, need and/or should want access to materials on social change and counterculture topics. It is more likely that the purpose of the magazine is some combination of the above and something more, but by now I think you get the drift of what type of librarian is the target for this magazine.

Emergency Librarian (EL) is quite similar to Booklegger in its stated purpose. Its first issue states that it is a "Canadian librarian's underground newsletter . . . offering booklists, publishing information and program suggestions to all those interested in liberating themselves and their libraries." What EL makes more clear than Booklegger right from the beginning is that its roots are in, and therefore its most consistent theme is, feminism. EL is a product of the frustrations brought to the consciousness of a group of women who attended the "Theme Day" speeches at the Canadian Library Association meeting on June 20, 1973. One of the themes presented was Women in the Library Profession. The presenter was Sherrill Cheda, a founder of EL.

On a first, quick examination of Booklegger and EL one really does wonder (leaving aside for the moment their obvious difference in national origin) how it is possible for them both to continue publishing. This inevitably leads one to ponder whether they should both continue publishing! Both magazines started publishing as bimonthlies in the fall of 1973. EL was originally nothing more than six mimeographed pages while Booklegger, due to its creators having several years of publishing experience through their association with Synergy, began as a complete 60-page magazine. However, by its fourth issue the talents of EL's staff gave conclusive evidence that EL would be a magazine on a competitive, or more accurately complementary, basis with Booklegger. Both magazines are feminist to their very core and are devoted to the principles of small magazinedom. They don't take advertisements and they do not accept sponsors who set down editorial or inclusion policies. (Bookleggers might quibble here because of the Ontario Arts Council grant to EL, but I cannot believe that the OAC sets any policies for the EL staff. The OAC is hardly a sugar daddy with a hidden agenda behind its support. If I am wrong here, I assume that the EL staff will report the constraints, real or perceived, which the OAC grant imposes.) Additional similarities, common to small magazines in general, between Booklegger and EL include a policy to publish, so long as it is readable and in line with the magazines' purposes, whatever is sent to the editors, regardless of how outlandish the theme might appear from the standpoint of establishment sensibilities. Hopefully, the material submitted for articles will include some light, or even heavy, muckraking and will have at least a slight touch of humor.

Both magazines include a large number of relatively comprehensive reviews of material on subjects and in styles that the "big" publishers steer clear of and so consequently are rarely reviewed in the standard reviewing sources. For example, reviews of materials published by the smallest of presses are abundant; this is particularly true for the feminist presses such as Shameless Hussy and Times Change. A reader of these magazines will find reviews of material for, by and/or about homosexuals, alternative living arrangements, movement native American literature, ecological problems, nonauthoritative management structures, material for young adults and children which for many librarians would be considered "unsuitable library material," hard to locate media on usually taboo subjects, and much, much more. A thorough study of Booklegger and EL reveals that, in spite of their considerable similitude, they are really quite different. The major difference is found in that rather illusive characteristic known as quality.

Booklegger Magazine

The Booklegger Press is a small group of women librarians who publish, in addition to Booklegger Magazine, feminist books and books on radical librarianship. They are the crew who did the book Revolting Librarians, and they are about to publish Revolting Librarians Rides Again. Apparently, they are women who live what they preach. They manage the press as a group, rather than as an editor with several assistants. (Of course, participatory management is not quite so hard to accomplish when the group is small and everyone working has relatively similar life styles and values.)

Until its most recent issue, their 14th, Booklegger has been a bimonthly. It will now be quarterly. The price since its first issue has been $8 per year. Three people have been most intimately involved with the magazine since its inception: Celeste West, Sue Critchfield, and Valerie Wheat. Among the three of them they account for a significant portion of the writing and the reviewing; however, this should not be taken to mean that the magazine is entirely a reflection of their views. Many others have been vital to the life of Booklegger, Carole Leita and Martha Ammidon Powers among others. Mary McKenney has done several articles with bibliographies. Columns on children's and young adult resources, problems, media, etc. have been prepared religiously by Nancy Schimmel, Patty Campbell, and others. Almost every issue turns up a new contributor either writing an article or doing reviews; still, for the most part, the same dedicated people do most of the writing. (If you are about to consider this a criticism, please feel free to do so, but remember that the same criticism can be leveled at LJ; some names, such as Maurice Freedman and Tom Galvin, show up a lot in LJ. The key problem here, as many readers of library literature know, is that not many librarians are writers, or at any rate, good ones.)

What can you expect for your $8 if you subscribe to Booklegger? First you will see, in a seven- by ten-inch format, a bright cover with a clean, mind-arresting design. The name of the magazine is clearly evident on each cover, as is the number of the specific issue. (Although the volume number changes with each year of publication, the issues are numbered consecutively, a nice convention that makes it easy to keep track.) The covers have had such conventional designs as fish and trees, but there have also been: a life-size hand shown with zippers between the fingers; footprints, which look as though they were made in a finger print lab at the local police station; a Nancy-type cartoon; and, on the latest issue, a lovely stylized feminist symbol. On the inside of the back of the cover (I guess I should say verso), bibliographical information and staff members are listed.

The first page includes the Table of Contents, with the titles of the articles included in the issue as well as the listing of regular columns. For those who like to KWIC titles, Booklegger will cause nightmares, but the titles are really fun. An essay criticizing the microfilming skill of Bell and Howell is called "Bawl and Howl," and an essay with bibliography on the uses of natural wastes for energy production and other uses carries the title "Gettin' Your Shit Together." Following the contents is a newsy note from the staff, which some might call an editorial. Their latest trials and tribulations are set forth, and it makes the subscriber feel a part of the publishing venture. The "staffial" is usually fun to read and informative on the subject of trying to publish an alternative magazine. The note usually gives one a sense of what can be expected to appear in future issues. This is very helpful, because many of the subscribers are librarians searching for illusive materials on counterculture topics, and this "in the future" sort of information keeps readers from making time-consuming searches for information which will be brought to light soon.

Graphics

On most every page of Booklegger there will be some sort of graphic. Most of them fit well with the articles they accompany. An essay with bibliography on materials for older persons is accompanied by a lovely Käthe Kollwitz drawing of an older man tenderly embracing a despondent woman, and a bibliographical article on decriminalizing prostitution is accompanied by a lively Picasso line drawing. A small number of the graphics which have been chosen will offend some people, but for the most part just about everyone will find them, if not delightful, at least interesting. The inclusion of graphics is most important because the magazine is set in typewriter face, what publishers call "cold type." Even though they use a great many typefaces, the graphics help to relieve the monotony. (Remember, Booklegger does not have flashy ads to spread around to give the magazine page appeal.) Because the publishers are librarians, or maybe because they are good publishers, they use the graphics and typefaces in a mnemonic pattern. The regular columns use the same designs as headings from one issue to the next, and bibliographic descriptions are given in one typeface, with the reviews in another.

The subject of graphics and typefaces does bring up one of my criticisms of Booklegger: taken as the 14-issue whole, I believe that the graphics and the page layout are not outstanding. In fact, most often the pages are too busy, with too many different typefaces and too many graphics illustrative of too many different artistic styles. Many of the graphics used are too elaborate to print well. I would find Booklegger easier to read and to enjoy if fewer typefaces and less elaborate graphics were used and placed more crisply throughout the magazine. (Then, I must confess that I am a Virgo and I've always felt that the world would be a better place if it were a bit more tidy.)

Booklegger articles

The first part of each issue of Booklegger is devoted to from three to five, and sometimes more, short articles on a subject of interest to radicals, feminists, or countercultureniks. These articles are always written with the information worker in mind, and almost every one of them is accompanied by a bibliography of related material which includes at least short annotations and full ordering information. The topics of these articles are extremely variable, and often the issue has a theme—for example, management or library education. The following list of topics is given to show the types of subjects readers could expect to find covered in

Graphics from Booklegger

Booklegger: radical therapy, alternative education, the human body, bread baking, alternative presses, ownership of the "straight" press, science fiction, recruiting for the military service, working in libraries—including unionization, job sharing, participatory management and volunteerism, setting up user-oriented library service, going to library school, library materials for prisoners, alternative magazines. And, of course, articles related to women: women in sports, comics, prostitution, divorces, the work place, religion, art, literature, and women's reference collections, women on the psychiatrist's couch, in unions, and in love with women. You name it, and Booklegger seems to cover it in their articles.

On the whole the quality of the articles which appear in Booklegger seems to be bibliographically complete for radical materials, but conceptually weak. Not totally conceptually weak, but surely too simplistic. Even though the contributors write about topics and conditions about which I, too, get scathingly furious, either generally as a human being or particularly as a woman, the one-sided advocacy view tends to cool my fury rather than ignite it further. Booklegger and EL editors would probably argue that LJ, American Libraries, Wilson, Library Quarterly, etc., really advocate the status quo, and that by reading only those establishment magazines librarians do not get the whole spectrum. My criticism is that Booklegger's too often too vehement articles drive away some of the subscribers to whom they should want to appeal. Some of the language that is used in the articles is so much of the movement that nonmovement people are unable to understand what points are being made. I find this language barrier situation to be ironic since a review of Paul Wasserman's book The New Librarianship: a Challenge for Change (Booklegger, Vol. 1, p. 46-47) complains that it is written in a style that cannot be understood without a dictionary. On many occasions I can understand Wasserman better than Booklegger. Wasserman, too, was trying to effect change in librarianship; if what is written is not written in a generally communicable style, then you end up talking only to people who already know what needs to be done. It is almost as if Booklegger is purposefully attempting to avoid success, because what it really wants to do is bitch rather than effect change.

Booklegger regulars

Following the articles section of the magazine are the regular columns devoted to media, young adult services, children's material, and an exchange column called "Grapevine" which lists people, resources, organizations, notices of happenings and opportunities, which are sent in to Booklegger by its readers. Also in this "regularly appearing" section of the magazine is the portion devoted to reviews of the independent press, or as the staff of Booklegger has described it, "the great unreviewed . . . for the great unwashed."

The "Reviews of the Independent Press" section consists of, on the average for each issue, approximately 18 signed, fairly comprehensive, descriptive, and evaluative reviews. Often a group of books and/or magazines/media on a subject will be reviewed together, and this is a very helpful device. For example, in issue number 12, Gail Larrick reviews five books on natural dyes and home dyeing. The majority of the reviewers are from California, and some might argue that the reviews for this reason cover too much of the trendy, mecca-type material that is of interest only to people on the West Coast; however, I do not believe that this is a valid criticism. (I live in Cheyenne, Wyoming, and this little town is full of trendy types who feel that Cheyenne is mecca! They are interested in many of the same subjects that appear in the reviews.) Some of the reviewers are from New York, Pennsylvania, Oregon, and elsewhere. The types of materials covered by the reviews are similar to those covered in the articles. A large number of them are of primary interest to feminists, e.g., Women of Viet Nam and Paid My Dues; however, there are reviews on all sorts of topics, e.g., how to fix stereo equipment, how to build your own home, cooking with garlic, etc. In the reviews column, in addition to book reviews, are reviews of records, magazines, films, etc.

In the early issues of the magazine

it seems that any material published by a movement publisher or on a radical topic was given a favorable review. This is no longer the case. The reviews are becoming increasingly more evaluative than descriptive, although there is still a belief, held by most of the reviewers, that those reading the reviews should judge for themselves whether the material will be appropriate for their collections.

The media column called "Mediamaze" has grown and changed since the first issues. The column was originally called "Video Sphere" and was created by the mysterious Captain Cable and for the most part was devoted to information and resources on cable television. The column now is devoted to all types of media: video tape, films, photographs, graphics, plus articles on media-oriented education in library schools, etc. The column creator since issue number 9 has been Kelly Warnken.

The column devoted to children's literature, called "KIDS and Libraries," is my favorite column in Booklegger. Nancy Schimmel is its creator. (Nancy is currently travelling the country with another Booklegger, Carole Leita, who is organizing women for the new Women Library Workers group.) The column is always filled with book annotations and ideas that sound to me as though children would be wild about them. One really fun thing that Nancy has done is to put together two lists of children's books for adults "who don't have to read kids books, but like them anyway." (The first list appeared in issue number 2 and the second in number 12.) For my money, even though I'm not a children's librarian, Nancy's column makes Booklegger a dollar well spent. Her writing style is relatively straight, descriptive, and generally a pleasure to read. She can say more in a two-line annotation of a kids' book than most any writer I've come across, and when she writes about problems in children's work, she does so without coming-off like a "frenzied radical."

The young adult column is titled "se habla Y.A. aqui" and is edited by Patty Campbell. Patty usually asks some YA librarian to write a piece on an aspect of YA services. Columns have included such subjects as: are YA librarians really adults arrested in development at the teenage stage, by Mary Kay Chelton; and, what would be a really terrific curricula for YA librarians in library school, by Marilyn Greenburg. Patty also does some of the columns herself, often reporting the doings at conferences of YA types. This column has fewer reviews of resources than either the "Mediamaze" or "KIDS" columns, but often in the discussions, access information to resources can be found.

The last of the regular columns is "Grapevine," put together by Valerie Wheat. As I mentioned previously, it includes resources, questions, whatever, that are sent in by the magazine's readers. It consists largely of materials located and found useful by librarians out there, so anything can and does show up here.

Booklegger miscellany

Booklegger Magazine occasionally carries letters from its readers; for example, Eric Moon responded to Sue Critchfield's article on the ownership of publishing firms by large companies stating that the problem presented in the article was treated too simplistically. Sue responded to Eric's letter rather cryptically (see issue number 7). The staff also did a questionnaire for users about the value of the magazine (issue number 6) and then in the next issue ran the responses which were generally quite favorable. A nice feature, even though Booklegger is indexed by both Library Literature and CALL, is that it is self-indexed (see issues 7 & 12).

My favorite aspect of Booklegger is that in every issue I can find something that absolutely makes me laugh out loud. A few of my favorites are: a reference to LJ/SLJ Hotline as Hot Grapes published by R. R. Bilker and "Ms. (magazine) as the Reader's Digest of the feminist movement."

Summing up—Booklegger

Booklegger reviews, on the average, 100 items per issue, with full bibliographic information. This feature is the major value of the magazine, and was more or less unique until recently. Now "establishment" library reviewing publications are reviewing a great many items of the type that was formerly only in Booklegger or EL. This may account for the fact that Booklegger seems to be selecting more items for review that are either of local origin or more narrow interest, and in general, of somewhat lower quality. The Booklegger reviews are still, however, a most important and very useful feature of the magazine, providing a service libraries need. Booklegger's articles are lightweight, but often express points of view that are rarely presented elsewhere in the library press. The magazine is rather messy to look at in the majority of its issues, but it is fun. I'm glad it's published. It should stay afloat. I really hope that its publishers don't become bored with it and let it die, because—to quote one of its users—without access to Booklegger those already too few libraries which try to search out information of a less usual tenor would "die of orthodoxy."

To the best of my knowledge order information is as follows: Booklegger Magazine, published by/for library workers at Booklegger Press, 555 29th St., San Francisco, Calif. 94131. It is published quarterly and costs $1.50 per issue or $8 per year. There are selected back issues available. Its ISSN is 0092-7686. If you want to know what Bill Katz thinks of Booklegger, see Magazines for Libraries, 2d ed. supplement, p. 168. (Don't use the address given in Katz—Booklegger Press moved to 555 29th St.)

Emergency Librarian

The fact that the following review of Emergency Librarian (EL) is going to be much more brief than that for Booklegger should in no way be construed to be an indictment of EL or an indication that Booklegger is a better magazine than EL. In fact, EL is a considerably better magazine than Booklegger. The reasons for the shorter review are 1) this article is beginning to be too long and 2) the magazines are really very similar in purpose and in outcome. EL, like Booklegger, has graphics, a contents page, an editorial page, letters to the editors (but more of them), articles, and regular columns. For example, EL's Kids' column is called "Books for Liberated Kids." Their column publishing items sent in by readers is entitled "Notes from the Other Side of the Irony Curtain." The articles cover the same types of subjects as Booklegger, and they review the same types of books and other materials. EL is indexed in Library Literature, and CALL and back issues are available in microfiche from McLaren Micropublishing, Box 972, Station F, Ontario, Canada M4Y 2N9.

What is it that makes EL better than Booklegger? It is edited better. EL's 8½" by 11" format lends itself better to a typewriter set page. When they hooked up with Mary Lu Toms in their fourth issue, they found a designer who could really put together a magazine, and they have wisely stayed with the style which she set. The use of colored paper, instead of just white on which to print, and their choice of outstanding graphics, many of them created specifically for EL by Pat Dolan and Giovanna Peel, make the magazine truly a delight to behold. The articles are, for the most part, written by considerably more skilled writers who have a more intellectual and complete, though still feeling, approach to their subjects. Their reviewers seem to have a more critical stance in their choice of material to review and generally write more descriptive reviews. (Fewer materials come to light in each issue of EL; they probably average around 75 items per issue to Booklegger's 100+.) They try to be complete in their coverage of materials published by the Canadian movement press. EL, like Booklegger, has occasionally published a relatively crude item which might, and in fact has, offended some. In a nutshell, in spite of the longer experience in publishing evident at Booklegger, Sherrill Cheda, Barbara Clubb, Phyllis Yaffee, and Jeanette McFarlane of EL have produced a magazine that, though still movement literature, is also truly professional literature. EL is not as funny as Booklegger, but page for page it's worth more. When EL and Booklegger put together a joint issue on library education (January/February, 1976: EL, Vol. 3, No. 3 and Booklegger Vol. 3, No. 13), unfortunately the Booklegger format won out over EL; still, the issue is a little cleaner than the usual Booklegger.

What would I do if I could subscribe to only one of these magazines? I'd choose Emergency Librarian. Fewer resources cited, but a better magazine in all other respects. To order Emergency Librarian, send your check ($2.50 student, $5 individual Canadian, $7 individual from U.S., $8 institution, $9 international) to Barbara Clubb, 697 Wellington Cres., Winnipeg, Manitoba, R3M 0A7, Canada.

This review is being published because LJ's editor, John Berry, telephoned me and requested that I do a review. I guess the Booklegger folks finally made the people at LJ feel uncomfortably guilty, and Celeste, Sue, Valerie, and their friends have "paid their dues" for a sufficiently seemly time to get a serious review in LJ. (The "editorial" in issue 14 of Booklegger states: "After being put off for two and a half years, we finally understand that an alternative voice in library lit has to 'pay its dues' to get a serious review . . .") Regardless of what is thought of this review, it will undoubtedly be as good or better publicity than an ad, and it is certainly cheaper! The Canadian sisters will also benefit from the review, and that is surely good for the movement.

"Intellectual" or "radical"

I understand that LJ's editors were searching around for a person to do the review who might be "acceptable to both sides," and my name came up. I feel excruciatingly uncomfortable when I am supposed to straddle the fence at decision-making time, so perhaps I should be offended that I might be acceptable to both sides. At the time I was asked, it perplexed me to be informed that there were but two sides to the issue. What was their definition of the issue anyway? Unlike some, I am willing to let people think of me as a token-establishment feminist or radical, because I know that basically I am simply a highly skeptical and very curious person. I want to believe that when people go to work in libraries (or as library publishers and/or editors) and must face decisions, they will do so without becoming righteously self-assured that they have discovered "the" solutions. I hope they will find themselves wondering if they have even discovered the problems. To some, that makes me more of an intellectual than an advocate, and therefore, more "establishment" than feminist or "radical."

In this review I have tried to bring to light, fairly, some of the functions and dysfunctions of two publications of the "movement" library press. I believe that rational discussion far outweighs militant advocacy in bringing people to the realization that their consciousness needs to be raised. I am not an expert, nor even a student of movement/underground/radical literature nor feminism. This review is comprised of the reactions of one person, a woman, a researcher of the library scene, working at the library level, and oftentimes a teacher of and with librarians. If I am basically establishment (after all, I am a member of the ALA Council, but then, so is SRRT's Nancy Kellum-Rose), then the "radicals" should not feel too badly about not getting their magazines reviewed earlier. My own book on citizen participation in public libraries was published by Scarecrow in early 1975, and it hasn't been reviewed in LJ yet.

Periodical Prices: 74-76 Update

F.F. CLASQUIN

THESE COMPARATIVE studies of periodical prices have now become an annual feature in the October 1 issues of LJ. The first was published in 1974 (LJ, October 1, 1974, p. 2447-49) and the second on October 1, 1975 (p. 1775-77). Substantial portions of the text from each of those articles follows the heading "Explanations" below.

Upon requests from theological school libraries, the Subject Authority Data Base now includes the Philosophers Index. Also note that H. W. Wilson has increased by 45 percent the number of titles indexed in the Business Periodicals Index starting July 1976. The 1976 price study uses this extended list of journals for all three years and the average prices have changed considerably. It is important to stress the value of the Average Weighted Price as a guide only, reflecting choice of the periodicals selected from each of the authority groups by all Faxon clients, and the fact that that choice in turn may have been conditioned by budget limitations. Table II, which expresses the percent of library funds spent in various price categories, has been expanded to include data for two years. Table III shows some unique developments in the prices of titles in Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature. Table IV shows the average price paid by institutions in several selected classifications, based upon the total number of titles purchased by those clients in each classification for the period July 1975-June 1976.

Table V (Title and Rate Data) is self-explanatory. An average periodical price pattern has been noted for institutions within the same classification, which are similarly situated in terms of

F. F. Clasquin is executive vice president, F. W. Faxon Company, Inc.

TABLE I

Price Comparison Chart—July-June

Subject Authority	Column 1 Total No. of Titles Priced			Column 2 Total No. of Bill-Later Titles			Column 3 Average Price Per Title			Column 4 Weighted Average Price Per Title
	74	75	76	74	75	76	74	75	76	74	75	76
Applied Science & Technology Index	193	191	180	27	29	51	26.23	30.10	35.23	26.90	30.52	35.09
Art Index	94	89	88	39	44	46	16.68	19.59	21.48	15.33	17.49	19.16
Biological Abstracts	2756	2663	2620	977	1070	1199	36.61	47.61	48.23	41.45	42.51	51.95
Biological & Agric. Index	133	130	129	10	11	17	32.74	36.91	44.29	37.15	39.71	48.13
Business Periodical Index	361	393	398	100	68	63	19.81	22.94	25.12	17.88	20.23	21.59
Catholic Per. & Lit. Index	103	100	100	13	16	22	9.02	10.27	11.02	10.40	11.39	12.36
Chemical Abstracts	755	750	745	94	99	122	75.66	87.63	98.84	83.97	86.25	104.42
Index Chemicus	97	95	95	8	10	12	100.96	116.85	130.15	98.60	111.89	123.60
Index to Dental Literature	204	197	191	35	33	41	14.34	16.66	17.72	21.39	22.69	26.25
Education Index	190	185	175	42	47	57	14.07	15.79	16.65	12.88	13.72	14.94
Current Index to Journals in Education	511	522	539	28	17	83	12.63	14.33	16.55	12.71	13.96	17.90
Engineering Index	1101	1073	1048	415	411	479	42.71	49.45	57.38	47.08	50.24	59.30
Hospital Literature Index	276	269	264	77	84	107	12.83	14.18	16.36	13.49	14.88	17.41
Humanities Index	238	234	236	18	22	31	12.47	14.31	15.73	11.91	13.65	14.74
Index to Legal Periodicals	242	237	236	79	79	87	10.84	12.07	13.09	14.20	16.14	16.93
Index to Library Literature	104	104	118	46	46	45	13.70	15.43	17.34	14.13	15.30	18.36
Mathematical Review	540	565	561	141	116	179	61.29	71.64	81.23	62.81	65.25	83.08
Index Medicus	1462	1437	1416	391	417	472	42.26	49.10	54.30	45.21	46.99	56.33
Music Index	150	139	137	52	63	65	11.04	11.19	12.11	11.45	11.80	13.05
Index to Nursing Literature	109	107	105	36	35	39	8.93	10.20	11.33	10.83	12.60	15.12
Physics Abstracts	104	104	112	15	15	18	123.89	145.60	161.07	108.99	119.87	131.49
Psychological Abstracts	610	594	589	77	94	110	22.91	26.76	29.45	22.46	23.17	27.35
Readers' Guide to Per. Lit.	147	144	152	13	16	25	10.49	11.34	13.07	10.20	11.79	12.64
Index to Religious Per. Lit.	109	110	161	21	20	26	11.11	12.93	13.67	11.84	13.17	13.89
Science Citation Index	1930	1892	1865	424	457	525	54.86	62.26	70.99	47.75	48.85	60.04
Social Sciences Index	242	241	240	13	14	30	17.03	18.97	21.47	17.34	18.42	21.51
Social Sciences Citation Index	913	889	878	139	166	189	19.03	21.72	24.57	17.46	18.68	21.94
Sociological Abstracts	75	73	70	4	6	10	13.82	15.86	18.14	12.45	14.02	16.25
Philosopher's Index	180	194	201	101	87	80	16.44	18.42	19.38	15.08	16.09	18.28

the number of periodicals to which they subscribe through Faxon. Table VI presents this information for four classifications.

While the use of this data is helpful as a guide for developing a budget, there is no substitute for an annual review of all periodicals and a retrospective Price Study for each periodical in the library, i.e., the "zero budget" treatment. A broad subject or departmental classification system should be developed to ensure that all library patrons will be served equally by the institution's financial support or resources. The means for such studies are now available.

Explanations

The three-year periodical price study presented here is based upon widely known or easily accessible "Authority Groups of Titles," in 29 broadly based discipline classifications. An Authority Group of Titles may be derived from an abstract service, such as Chemical Abstracts or Biological Abstracts, broad subject classifications such as Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature, or other H. W. Wilson Co. indexes, or special interest groups such as Catholic Periodicals & Literature Index. The list of titles in each authority group is available in most libraries. The F. W. Faxon Company has stored individual title price information in its IBM 370 data processing system and has programmed to provide a title-by-title price study comparison since 1972.

The 29 Authority Groups selected by Faxon and included in Table I will be expanded as the library community's needs dictate.

A "popularity" factor has been added to the data to arrive at the "weighted price" given in the following tables. This is because many libraries do not purchase all the titles in any of the 29 authority groups or indexes used to develop them. The "popularity" factor is arrived at by determining the number of libraries among Faxon's clients that subscribe to each title in each index (this data includes multiple subscriptions as well). To arrive at the "average weighted price" used in the tables, we averaged in the number of subscriptions to each title, and then calculated the price paid by libraries for their selections from that authority group or index. These "average weighted prices" may be a better budget guideline for libraries that purchase selectively from the various indexes, services, or authority groups.

Space does not permit a title-by-title three-year price listing for each Subject Authority. Hence, two sets of average price data were developed for each classification as shown in Table I.

Notes on Table I

Column 1: Column 1 contains the total number of titles in each of the 29 Subject Indexes, Abstracts, or other Subject Authority. Naturally the total number of titles in each Subject Authority varies from year to year as these authorities amend the lists to take care of mergers, splits, births, and deaths or to change the focus of interest. In general, these variations are minor and do not substantially affect the financial significance of the study.

Column 2: "Bill-Later" titles are either annual serials or periodicals which are separately billed because the price varies with each issue. Annuals make up the largest percentage of titles in this category. The number of "Bill-Later" titles as a percentage of the total number of titles in each Subject Authority is included to call attention to a price factor which could not be documented in this survey. Naturally, the greater the number of "Bill-Later" titles in each category, the greater the probability that the price of these "Bill-Later" titles could have affected the average price data.

Column 3: The average price per title is a simple arithmetic figure found by totalling the price for one copy of each title and dividing that sum by the sum of the number of priced titles (as in column #1).

TABLE II

Periodical Price Range	Public Libraries: Percent of Total Subscriptions Possessed 7/74-6/75	Public Libraries: Percent of Total Subscriptions Possessed 7/75-6/76	Public Libraries: Percent Total of Expenditure 7/74-6/75	Public Libraries: Percent Total of Expenditure 7/75-6/76	College & University Libraries: Percent of Total Subscriptions Possessed 7/74-6/75	College & University Libraries: Percent of Total Subscriptions Possessed 7/75-6/76	College & University Libraries: Percent Total of Expenditure 7/74-6/75	College & University Libraries: Percent Total of Expenditure 7/75-6/76
Less than $3	5.8	3.2	1.2	.6	2.4	1.7	.2	.3
$3 to 3.99	7.4	6.8	2.2	1.9	2.8	2.4	.4	.4
$4 to 5.99	14.1	14.4	4.9	4.8	7.8	6.5	1.3	1.1
$6 to 9.99	25.3	23.7	13.2	11.6	18.6	16.5	5.0	4.1
$10 to 14.99	17.5	17.1	13.4	12.4	18.3	17.4	7.4	6.6
$15 to 19.99	9.2	10.3	9.5	9.9	12.1	12.5	6.7	6.5
$20 to 29.99	9.5	10.2	13.5	13.4	14.0	15.2	10.8	10.6
$30 to 49.99	6.9	8.2	14.9	16.3	11.1	12.9	13.3	13.6
$50 to 74.99	2.0	2.3	7.0	7.2	5.2	5.6	9.9	9.3
$75 to 99.99			4.5	4.7	2.4	3.0	6.4	7.2
$100 to 149.99	1.5	3.3	4.0	4.1	1.8	2.3	7.3	7.6
$150 to 199.99			3.5	3.9	1.5	1.6	7.5	7.2
*$200+	.8	.5	8.2	9.2	1.8	2.4	23.8	25.5
Average Price			19.65	21.61			34.55	38.94

*Includes Biological Abstracts, Cumulated Index, and Chemical Abstracts. These three titles could use 8.5 percent of a $50,000 budget.

Column 4: Of greater significance is the average weighted price per title, because it reflects the buying pattern of all libraries using Faxon's subscription service. The weighted price data takes into consideration the number of copies of each title supplied to all libraries using Faxon services. The number of copies of each title is multiplied by the published price and these amounts are totalled and divided by the total number of all copies supplied in each Authority Group to obtain the weighted price—which is, in effect, a "popularity" weighted average price. The number of copies of each journal purchased in behalf of the approximately 12,000 libraries we serve varies more widely in the technical or scientific subject areas. Only a very limited number of research or university libraries subscribe to those journals with very narrow research or technical interest fields. The popularity of the titles, therefore, explains the difference between the average price for all titles in a given authority group as compared to the weighted average price, which is "weighted" by the number of copies of each title that Faxon clients purchase. Both Biological Abstracts and Chemical Abstracts weighted averages in Table I indicate that more expensive titles are preferred; but in Physics Abstracts, the opposite is true and to a much greater degree, possibly because physics titles are the most expensive of the scientific disciplines.

Table II represents the title activity (number of copies) in terms of percent of the total number of all subscriptions processed in each price category and the percent of the total dollars spent in each price category.

Table II could be used in conjunction with Table I as a means of arriving at some intelligent distribution or analysis of funds spent for periodicals in each subject area. For instance, by inserting average subject index price information into the price range field, one could determine if any subject area is receiving its proper allocation of funds in comparison to total expenditures for periodicals, considering, of course, the need in relation to student population in each subject field. Table II can further be compared against other statistical data at a university such as student population in each subject field, or to other budgetary schemes which might reflect the institution's academic standards in each discipline.

Table III again shows that there is still a substantial savings being offered by some publishers when a subscription is entered for three years rather than for one year. Some publishers simply offer a three year rate which is a multiple of the one year rate, but even that offer is advantageous as you review the first price index chart.

The list of periodicals in the Readers' Guide was selected for Table III because the publishers represented there offer more three-year rates (in 1973, 117 of 145 periodicals had such rates) than in any other Authority Group. The average weighted price per title is arrived at in the same way as in Column 4 of Table I.

Table VII is a new chart which offers a price comparison between foreign vs. domestic published journals. Foreign journals selected by Faxon clients are principally scientific or technical which accounts for the large price difference.

The Average Weighted Price concept has been applied to a data base of titles using the LC Subject Classification system from which nine subject categories have been selected for a price study (Table VIII, Part 1). Unlike Table I, the titles in each subject class are not publicly identified, as is the

TABLE III

READERS' GUIDE TO PERIODICAL LITERATURE

Year	3-Yr. Rates	2-Yr. Rates	1-Yr. Rates	Average Weighted Price Per Title All at 1-Yr. Rates	Average Weighted Price Per Title* Long Term Rates if avail.
1974	120	13	31	$10.20	$22.08
1975	108	23	30	11.79	25.46
1976	106	27	30	12.64	27.45

*Note long term rates are 2.2 times the 1 yr. rate—an historical average.

TABLE IV

Average Price Paid by Institutions, July 1975-June 1976 vs Prior Year

	Colleges & Universities	Hospitals	Jr. High & High Schools	Primary Schools	Public Libraries	Special Libraries (Gov't)	Special Libraries (Business)
7/74-6/75	34.55	38.99	14.00	15.61	19.65	57.71	44.97
7/75-6/76	38.94	46.20	14.71	14.27	21.61	53.10	50.45

TABLE V

Title & Rate Data for 1974, 1975, & 1976

Number of titles on file for fiscal year 1973-74—62,497
Number of titles on file for fiscal year 1974-75—65,718—an addition of 3,221 titles
Number of titles on file for fiscal year 1975-76—77,910—an addition of 12,192 titles

	July 1975 June 1976	July 1974 June 1975
Titles maintaining previous year's rates	54,316	52,311
Titles increasing in rates	11,285	8,274
Titles decreasing in rates	1,113	758
Titles becoming discontinued	497	358
Titles becoming order direct	337	93
Titles becoming bill laters	1,904	704

The price increases noted above and the time pattern of the price advance notices created another interesting set of data which verifies the total impact of price increases on 1975 and 1976 expenditures.

The fiscal year ending 1976 confirms that for the second year in a row there was a broader advance in the number of titles increasing in price. The actual price increase although slightly less than two years ago was 21 percent greater than last year.

The period measured considered invoices produced between April and October for the following calendar year and the release of those orders to the publishers by November of each year. About 85 percent of all rate changes for the following calendar year are in hand by the end of October.

	Number of Invoices	Average Debit
1975	144,410	8.80
1976	130,042	11.30

Once again there has been a drastic increase in the number of prepaid titles transferred to the "bill-later" category. This represents principally publishers of titles which have encountered serious delays in publication to the point where we can no longer prepay renewals with assurance that the library client will receive service.

TABLE VI

Average Price Based on Number of Titles Invoiced, July 1975-June 1976

Number of Titles	University & College Average Price	Hospital Average Price	High School Average Price	Public Library Average Price
3,000-4,999
2,000-2,999	$35.12
1,500-1,999	$41.51		$39.27*	$37.56
1,000-1,499	$39.82	$69.72	$11.53
750- 999	$41.59	$55.52		$30.87
500- 749	$42.39	$56.17	$21.78	$30.53
300- 499	$37.92	$44.61	$46.58	$30.95
201- 299	$33.78	$50.42	$13.97	$25.82
151- 200	$37.57	$50.12	$16.44	$22.72
101- 150	$31.34	$43.67	$15.05	$19.59
76- 100	$33.39	$37.18	$13.62	$17.45
50- 75		$34.21	$13.87	$17.32
20- 49				$18.46

*Only one client who is on a three-year plan.
The average price in these classifications include approximately four percent foreign titles.

TABLE VII

PRICE COMPARISON CHART
Domestic and Foreign Titles

	Domestic Titles—1 Yr. Rate			Foreign Titles—1 Yr. Rate
	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976
No. of Titles	14,778	16,819	17,947	7,298	8,039	8,448
Wghted. Price	25.19	24.67	29.91	48.86	54.12	65.43
Av. Price	30.67	34.43	38.02	35.74	37.51	42.15

Notes:
1. Weighted Price 1976—12 percent of all units billed are Foreign Titles.
88 percent of all units billed are Domestic Titles.
2. A foreign published title having a remittance address in the U.S. is considered domestic in the present system. Pergamon, Gordon Breach, Elsevier, 4 Continents (Russian Journals), all translated journals—Plenum, American Institute of Physics.

case with the annual periodical price index survey which appears in Library Journal (August 1976, p. 1600).

In the 1974 Periodical Price Study (LJ, October 1), I pointed out that the difficulty with using a community wide standard as an exact budget tool is "the studied collection used as a price index base may vary widely from that of the library wanting to use the data." Table VIII, Part 2 expresses the large average price variables which can occur when five large university library journal collections are subject classified using the same subject classification title base which produced Table VIII, Part 1. A second and equally important variable is the ordering plan of one year or three years which compounds the price dissimilarity.

During the development of the Library of Congress Subject Classification data base, we compared subject classification first: two alpha character differences between three journal collections of approximately 5000 titles each. The subject cataloging process for periodicals seems to be less than an exact science, because each list did not match the first two alpha characters of the other two on about 35 percent of the titles. Resolution of these differences called for unilateral selection of authority.

Several discussions on the matter of the element of subject classification in serials cataloging, including a meeting with the Library Materials Price Index Committee, indicated that the subject class of a periodical may express local options. Therefore, further work is necessary to resolve the subject class definition problem. The Conser project may be an acceptable answer. The usefulness of a community standard LC Subject Classification system to develop an average price in each subject could be radically improved if an agreed upon, publicly revealed list of journals was selected and price studied annually. That is, have an authority select and maintain groups of titles in each subject class as the data base to be used in the annual price study. This approach is being pursued.

Nevertheless, Table VIII, Part 1 expresses valid average prices; however, discretionary use is suggested. Table VIII, Part 2 shows average prices at 5 universities on the same selected LC Subject Classifications in Table VIII, Part 1. It is obvious that title selectivity and the ordering plan (1 year or 3 years) develop average price patterns quite dissimilar to those in the total data base.

Institution specific average price data based upon LC subject areas, using local cataloging practices is no doubt the best budget tool for balancing the journal collection and can be easily developed as part of a subscription service.

TABLE VIII — part 1

Selected LC Subject Classifications

Subj.* Auth.	No. of Priced Titles			Average 1 Year Price			Weighted Price
	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976
Q	1,240	1,268	1,287	79.71	90.53	99.13	81.50	87.50	97.54
QA	198	199	201	57.83	66.32	77.60	48.72	52.30	62.65
QC	172	179	180	113.48	127.66	141.68	112.38	120.25	138.94
QD	154	159	158	146.82	162.48	183.54	205.32	220.90	243.20
QH	152	155	154	87.12	95.29	105.14	98.93	82.26	108.05
B	590	654	610	23.82	27.02	29.24	21.60	23.56	26.56
H	739	757	794	21.27	24.10	28.36	17.51	18.89	21.37
L	194	195	191	12.53	13.97	15.20	12.06	12.98	14.60
P	405	417	420	12.99	15.43	16.69	12.11	13.63	14.79

part 2

Selected Subject Classifications at 5 Universities

	Number of Titles			Average Price
QA	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976	Pricing Plan
1	76	68	63	39.31	64.70	60.03	A
2	116	120	149	65.74	74.72	87.16	A
3	55	62	55	53.77	59.49	64.60	F
4	60	59	60	42.81	57.57	55.06	F
5	40	40	38	57.57	62.33	71.01	A
QC	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976	Pricing Plan
1	76	71	67	96.31	111.78	125.72	A
2	85	93	137	135.33	145.15	146.31	A
3	70	69	73	145.70	151.82	169.60	F
4	68	63	65	79.47	106.26	111.56	F
5	64	57	59	106.58	133.70	136.25	A
QD	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976	Pricing Plan
1	56	49	40	149.11	155.04	192.51	A
2	84	90	110	188.19	194.30	214.64	A
3	49	63	54	237.14	218.01	283.01	F
4	56	53	54	312.31	368.26	358.47	F
5	73	72	70	281.65	309.65	368.12	A
QH	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976	Pricing Plan
1	96	95	83	84.27	86.53	100.57	A
2	80	83	105	95.40	105.95	114.00	A
3	55	59	57	84.98	92.88	111.99	F
4	62	58	67	89.59	123.68	111.78	F
5	117	107	104	105.13	114.80	124.58	A
B	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976	Pricing Plan
1	164	148	147	22.18	26.06	27.49	A
2	164	167	197	21.49	25.10	29.58	A
3	134	135	139	23.40	26.44	29.03	F
4	148	129	129	25.30	29.47	32.12	F
5	146	149	145	24.62	25.56	28.02	A
H	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976	Pricing Plan
1	388	358	376	19.43	22.05	24.19	A
2	332	343	414	18.39	21.24	26.89	A
3	139	167	144	24.84	29.21	28.76	F
4	296	279	275	21.53	24.73	26.64	F
5	230	244	237	19.32	21.29	24.36	A
L	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976	Pricing Plan
1	129	125	124	11.75	13.03	15.01	A
2	111	118	136	11.73	12.87	15.19	A
3	45	50	50	15.96	17.72	23.56	F
4	75	68	62	17.38	16.44	19.35	F
5	70	75	73	13.83	14.19	14.96	A
P	1974	1975	1976	1974	1975	1976	Pricing Plan
1	127	121	127	8.90	10.78	12.03	A
2	216	207	236	14.25	16.36	18.49	A
3	141	147	134	13.66	20.41	22.90	F
4	113	98	106	9.11	10.82	13.65	F
5	140	142	143	10.28	12.38	13.06	A

*Q—Science, QA—Mathematics, QC—Physics, QD—Chemistry, QH—Natural History, B—Philosophy-Religion, H—Social Science, L—Education, P—Language & Literature.

PROFESSIONAL READING

O.D. concept

THOMAS, Pauline A. & Patricia Layzell Ward. 'Communitas': Aspects of the human side of library management: managing change through organisation development in libraries and information systems

ASLIB, 3 Belgrave Sq., London. 1976. 42p. ISBN 0-85142-077-X. pap. $7.50.

In June 1974, twenty-three members of the library profession in the United Kingdom attended a workshop on O.D. (organization development) under the direction of Edwin E. Olson, Visiting Professor at the Cranfield Institute of Technology. Thomas (Aslib Research and Development Department) and Ward (School of Librarianship, Polytechnic of North London) interviewed the participants in the workshop and recorded their reactions to it and the concept of O.D. This report, which promises a great deal from its title, is a collection of quotations from these interviews, organized aroud six topics: attitudes towards the management of libraries; definitions of O.D.; previous knowledge of O.D.; reactions to the workshop in retrospect; what has happened since; and what should be done in the future. Thomas and Ward offer a few interpretive comments, and suggest ways in which their findings might be used.

Unfamiliarity with the specifics of what was covered in the workshop—this information is not included—make any persuasive interpretation of this report difficult. Where, then, does all this leave us? Darned if we know, exactly, unless it is that British librarians, like their American and Canadian counterparts, when exposed to the management technique known as O.D. have somewhat mixed reactions, continue to think about what they have been exposed to, and offer some suggestions for improvement. Surprised?—A. J. ANDERSON, SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE, SIMMONS COLLEGE, BOSTON

Map basics

NICHOLS, Harold. Map Librarianship.

Clive Bingley & Linnet. 1976. 298p. index. biblio g. ISBN 0-208-01530-2 (Linnet). LC 75-40141. $12.50.

This book is a good attempt at bringing together in one volume some basic principles and general information about map librarianship. It includes guidelines for selection and acquisition of current and early maps and atlases, storage and preservation methods, and detailed information on cataloging and classification of maps. Especially valuable are the lists and descriptions of official national mapping services and international carto-bibliographical sources. The extensive sections on cataloging and classification include analysis of the more common classification systems, such as LC and Dewey as well as the less common Parsons and Boggs and Lewis. Each chapter contains references, the full bibliographical citations for which appear in the bibliography.

Though the volume will be useful for map librarians in the U.S., nevertheless the emphasis is clearly on map librarianship and map libraries in Britain and includes, for example, extensive discussions of the British Ordnance Survey, local maps in Britain, and a chapter on guidelines for map purchases for British libraries. Despite the British orientation, this is a useful supplement to the periodical literature, especially the 1973 Drexel Library Quarterly issue devoted to map librarianship, and Roman Drazniowsky's Map Librarianship: Readings (Scarecrow, 1975).—ALAN EDWARD SCHORR, UNIVERSITY OF ALASKA LIBRARY, FAIRBANKS

Library text

GATES, Jean Key. Introduction to Librarianship. 2d ed.

McGraw. 1976. 288p. index. Appendix. bibliog. ISBN 0-07-022977-5. LC 75-42316. $10.95.

When the first edition of this book appeared (1968), this reviewer greeted it as an excellent and welcome text; the second edition deserves the same praise. There has been updating, of course, but also a more condensed page format has put more material into fewer pages without sacrificing any legibility. Several sections have been rewritten into a smoother organization, some details of publications cited have been moved from the body of the text into the footnotes, and the overall readability remains exceptional. The bibliography has been updated by excisions as well as additions. The same basic organization remains in three parts: The Story of Libraries, Librarianship as a Profession, and Kinds of Libraries and Library Services. Then follow official statements on the profession and its ethics, the Library Bill of Rights (including now the School Library Bill of Rights), Labeling, and Freedom to Read caveats made to the first edition still apply. It cannot help but be brief almost to the point of superficiality and must be seen as a launching pad for further reading; also it cannot avoid being quickly dated in some respects, especially as regards automation and the current activities of professional associations. But it is still an excellent text, both for the beginner needing to start, and for the old hand needing a wide-ranging reminder.—DONALD J. PEARCE, DULUTH CAMPUS LIBRARY, UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

Publishers' policies

KIM, Ung Chon. Policies of Publishers: a Handbook for Order Librarians.

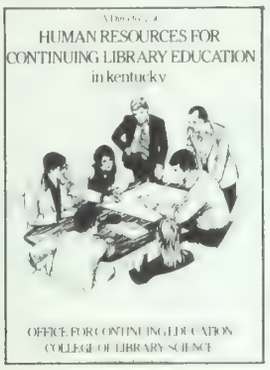
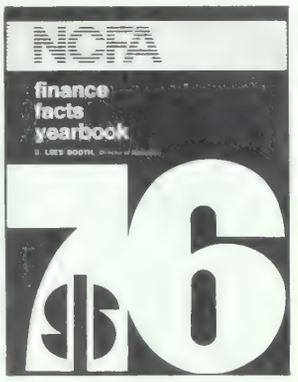
Scarecrow. 1976. 132p. index. ISBN 0-8108-0882-X. LC 75-33629. pap. $7.50.

Information on the alphabetically listed publishers is given in a standard pattern: address and phone; address for orders; prepayment; discount policy; return policy; shipping and billing policy; back order policy; standing order/approval plan. Some 239 publishers are listed; an index includes an additional 186 as see references linking subsidiaries and publishers sharing distribution facilities.

The compiler states that "In general, libraries receive shipments of material much faster from the publisher than from any other source" and that "by placing orders with selected publishers, libraries find it possible to purchase books more economically." He refers to his article in LRTS Spring 1975 documenting comparative delivery times and charges from publishers and wholesalers. The article evades the possible other charges to the library in direct ordering, noting this aspect as beyond the study's scope; yet this aspect must be considered. Is the old saw invalid that economy in ordering is best attained by concentrating orders with as few vendors as possible to consolidate paperwork, etc.? The number of direct, and often prepaid, orders a library must place are now too many and costly; to justify increasing that number with orders a wholesaler can handle requires critical cost/efficiency studies. The necessity for checking policy in this handbook each time an order is placed is daunting: these are problems I'd gladly leave to an efficient though slow wholesaler. The uneasy feelings aroused by the purpose of this handbook and my jaundiced ordering experience suggest two laws (Parkinson/Murphy tradition): 1) few publishers are efficient distributors of books; 2) an inefficient vendor requires an inefficient library.—BETTY ROSENBERG, SCHOOL OF LIBRARY & INFORMATION SCIENCE, UCLA

CHECKLIST





Library education directory

The Directory of Human Resources for Continuing Education in Kentucky is designed to assist individuals in the state's library and information science community to develop their own continuing education and staff development programs. It is a guide to residents who have the background and desire to participate as leaders or instructors in such programs. Although the directory is intended for a specific audience, its compilers suggest that others might want to consider the methodology and format in developing their own directories. Limited extra copies of the 60-page publication are available for $3 each from James A. Nelson, Director, Office for Continuing Education, College of Library Science, Univ. of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. 40506. Checks should be made payable to the University of Kentucky.

Conference proceedings

Two issues of Dicta, a publication of proceedings of conferences sponsored by the Department of Teacher Preparation of York College of City University of New York, are available free to librarians. One is devoted to the subject of reading in early childhood education and the other to teaching the gifted child. Send a 9" x 12" self-addressed manila envelope, with 20¢ postage affixed, for each publication requested, to Professor Elizabeth E. Seittelman, Chairman, Dept. of Teacher Preparation, York College of CUNY, 150-15 Jamaica Ave., Jamaica, N.Y. 11451. Please include a paper clip with each envelope.

Women librarians' roster

A Biographical-Bibliographical Directory of Women Librarians recounts briefly the lives of 81 historically prominent librarians and gives further references to biographical material on them. It also refers to their writings on women. Prepared by Cynthia S. Cummings as a class project, the booklet costs $1.25 from Ms. Jan Goodman, Library School Women's Group, Box 160, 600 North Park St., University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis. 53706.

Bilingual materials catalog

An importing firm specializing in children's literature in Spanish is offering its newest catalog free to librarians and educators. Filmstrips, records, tapes, and books in both Spanish and English are listed. Write for a copy to The Bilingual Publications Company, 1966 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10023.

Simplified science

The American Chemical Society explains to young people and others unfamiliar with chemistry what chemistry is, what chemists do, and what some of their contributions have been in Taking Things Apart and Putting Things Together. The 120-page book was designed to accompany the Society's Centennial Traveling Exhibit which is being seen in science museums across the country. It is available for $1.75 from Special Issue Sales, American Chemical Society, 1155 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Health funds newsletter

Fund Sources in Health and Allied Fields is a new monthly newsletter which provides current information on grants sponsored by the federal government, foundations, and private sector organizations. The information is arranged by application deadline date—up to six months ahead—and by subject. Free sample copies may be obtained by writing Phyllis P. Steckler, President, Oryx Press, 3920 E. Camelback Rd., Phoenix, Ariz. 85018.

Religious books

The Catholic Library Association has compiled an annotated bibliography, Books for Religious Education, designed to serve the needs of both adult and juvenile readers. Approximately 300 titles are reviewed, and a directory of publishers represented is included. Send $3 for the 16-page booklet to the Association, 461 W. Lancaster Ave., Haverford, Pa. 19041.

Consumer data

The latest facts about consumer financial behavior and the consumer finance business are available in the 1976 Finance Facts Yearbook, published by the National Consumer Finance Association, an organization of installment credit companies. There are chapters on population, the labor force, education, consumer income, expenditures, savings and use of credit. The consumer installment credit industry is examined and the U.S. economy for the balance of the year is discussed. The 80-page booklet will be sent free to educators, librarians, and selected groups. Send your request to Central Order Desk, NCFA, 1000 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Index

An index to 47 years of Research Studies, a Washington State University scholarly quarterly, has been compiled by Joseph Drazan and Paula Scott. Full subject-author indexing in 50 pages, suitable for binding, covers the journal from Volume One (1929) through Volume 43 (1975). Send requests, with a $4 check made payable to Penrose Memorial Library, to the library, Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash. 99362.

Bibliographic bibliographies

Librarians who missed the ALA conference's Bibliographic Instruction Resource/Hospitality Center program can still obtain five bibliographies and a directory prepared for it. Directory of Information Sources for Library Instruction is a seven-page publication and costs $1. Annotated bibliographies on bibliographic instruction describe the most recent articles on the issues and problems in specific areas: Junior and Community Colleges (2p., 25¢); Undergraduates (3p., 35¢); Graduate Students (3p., 35¢); Elementary, Middle, and Secondary Schools (5p., 60¢), and Public Libraries (2p., 25¢). A stamped, self-addressed 9" x 12" envelope and the exact amount due (in cash or check) should be included with your order to: Thomas Kirk, Box E-72A, Earlham College, Richmond, Ind. 47374.

MAGAZINES

Bill Katz, PROFESSOR, SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE, STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK, ALBANY

from Washout Review

Vegetarian Times

[illegible] 8½ (12 issues). Ed: Paul Obis, Jr. Box 433[illegible] Chicago, Ill. 60611. Illus. adv. Aud: Ga. (Subject: Food and Nutrition)

Largely the work of its editor-publisher, the 24-page offset Vegetarian Times is unique in that it is not corporately or institutionally owned. The editor is a registered nurse who edits the magazine in his spare time. Free of pressure from advertisers, the editor is able to hit out at any product or practice which he feels is harmful. Each issue opens with three to five pages of short notes on the vegetarian world—including a running battle with cruelty to animals. This is followed by articles, recipes, interviews, etc. The articles range from a detailed analysis of the hamburger to food stamps and tips on low-cost, high nutrition diets. One of the best vegetarian-health magazines now being published, and recommended as a first choice for libraries with an interest in the subject.—BK

Washout Review

1975. Quarterly. $5. Ed: Sarah Provost. P.O. Box [illegible] Schenectady, N.Y. 12[illegible] Illus. adv. Aud: Ac. (Subject: Little Magazines, Women. Issue examined: Vol. 1, No. 1, 1975)

Poetry, art, and photography are featured in this carefully printed 64-page feminist little magazine. The photos are nicely balanced with some 50 poems by some 25 poets, most of whom are women (Susan Shafarzek, Nora Lohmann, Janet Seery, Lyn Lifshin, Sarah Provost, etc.). A few men fit into the general feeling of the editorial content, which stresses "the imaginative personal poem . . . and the open, direct poem." The level of writing is exceptionally high, as is the art and the photography. This would rank well up there with the top half dozen or so feminist little magazines now being published. (Note: while women writers are the focus, "the political statement" is not encouraged as such.) A good choice for any library building a collection in poetry or women writers.—BK

International Forum on Information and Documentation

1975. Quarterly. $20. Ed: A. I. Mikhailov. FID (Federation Internationale de Documentation) P. Hofweg. The Hague, Netherlands. Aud: Sa.

The official journal of the International Federation for Documentation, this is an international version of The Journal of Documentation—and equally as important. With a Russian editor and an impressive editorial board—including two Americans, R. A. Harte and Pauline Atherton—the carefully edited 50-page quarterly features five to six articles (usually built around a theme such as "Communication in Science"), book reviews, columns, and news notes. According to the editor, the journal's many interests include science communication systems, general aspects of information theory and practice, organization of information work, international cooperation in information work, special education of information staff and user training, and basic concepts and terminology of information and documentation. Much of the content is technical, although possibly thanks to its international contributors (ably translated here), the style of writing is often brilliant. It is difficult to imagine any library with an interest in this field not subscribing. Highly recommended as a basic journal. (Note: Since it is published in both English and Russian, librarians should be sure to indicate in which language the mag is wanted.)—BK

Punk

1976. Monthly. $5.50. Ed: John Holmstrom. P.O. Box 675, New York, N.Y. 10009. Subs to: 356 Tenth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10001. Illus. adv. Aud: Ac. Hs.

Employing the familiar newspaper tabloid format, Punk's 20 pages are filled with photographs and short articles on any hero of the media which the editors see as qualified "punks." Among examples of the genre: Marlon Brando, "the original punk"; Lou Reed; the comic strip character Sluggo; and a piece entitled "Patti Smith meets Arthur Rimbaud." A combination of nostalgia for the 1960s and funky kitch, Punk seems primarily directed to young people who are getting older and doing their collective things via a modified return to the imaginative world of the blue collar worker.—BK

The Small Farm

1975. Semiannual. $4; individuals, $3. Ed: Jeff D. Marion. P.O. Box 563, Jefferson City, Tenn. 37760. Aud: Ac, Ga. (Subject: Poetry, Little Magazines)

Mark this down as an important regional poetry magazine. About every second number the editor features one poet with a good sampling of his poems. So far the attraction has been Robert Morgan. The 80-page magazine is about evenly divided between poets from Tennessee, both known and not so well known, and those from other parts of the nation, e.g. Wendell Berry, Duane Locke, Paul Ramsey, William Stafford, Greg Kuzma, Robert Bly, etc. Each way the reader wins in that he or she can try the new with the tested, the regional with the national.—BK

The Chariton Review

1975. Semiannual. $7. Ed: Andrew Grossbard. Div. of Language and Literature, Northeast Missouri State Univ., Kirksville, Mo. 63501. Illus. Aud: Ac. (Subject: Literary Reviews. Issue examined: Vol. 1, No. 1, Spring 1975)

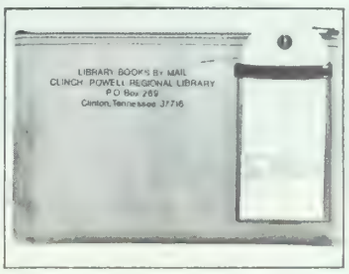
A university based literary review whose contents—poetry, prose and some criticism—is closer to a little magazine than your typical university title. Most of the writers are teachers or students from the West and the midwest. Few are from the sponsoring school. Unusual: a mature, sensitive, intelligent selection of lesser known writers who show considerable talent; also, good translations. Anyone who thinks poetry or fiction has died will receive a pleasant shock from this superior review.—BK

BUYERS' GUIDE

Thomas W. McConkey CHIEF, ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICE, FREE LIBRARY OF PHILADELPHIA

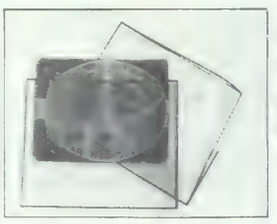
Every effort is made to evaluate carefully the products listed. However, mention here is not an endorsement. Prices are subject to change, and may vary in different geographical areas.

PICTURE BUTTON



SHIPPING POUCH

DESK DOLLY



PLASTIC BAG

WATERING TUBE

Badge making

A badge-making kit that can be used for library promotion and fund-raising, to identify staff members, etc. consists of a precision, hand-cast die press, fronts, pin backs, and plastic discs. Any photograph, magazine cutout, drawing, or art work can be quickly transformed into a permanent picture button with the kit which contains enough material to make 25 badges. Easy, step-by-step color-coded instructions are included; badge parts cost under 15 cents each. Prices: Kit (#71,974) $39.95 ppd.; 100 badge parts (#71,976) $13.50 ppd. Cut-A-Circle accessory (#42,135) $15.50, cuts sharp circles from any printed material or photo in exact size needed for badges. Available from Edmund Scientific Co., 300 Edscorp Bldg., Barrington, N.J. 08007. (609) 547-3488.

Mailing bag

A sturdy canvas (or nylon) book mailing bag designed to complete more than 100 trips is less bulky than padded paper shipping bags and requires no sealing tape or stapling. Called Trans-Sac, the bag is in current use by the Clinch-Powell Regional Library in Clinton, Tenn.

Bags are available in either 10.38 oz. army duck, a durable all-cotton fabric available in a choice of 30 colors, or in mildew proof, 200 denier nylon in 11 colors. Cotton duck is recommended for library use because the weight of the envelope is not a significant factor in determining postage costs. Bags are sealed by an aluminum zipper and security is maintained by a plastic or wire tape which is looped through metal grommets and the punched address tag to prevent movement of the zipper. The postage/addressee label is inserted in a pocket sewn to the bag; made to fit the standard No. 8 shipping tag, it allows ample space for address and postage. Imprinting is provided at no extra charge on orders of 120 or more. Bag sizes range from 8″ x 12″ through 14″ x 18″.

The shipping tag is inserted in a transparent pocket with a cut-out opening to permit cancellation of the postage. To return the books, the patron reverses the tag to expose the pre-addressed side. Prepaid postage has already been affixed to the tag. The library's logotype, address, and mailing information are permanently imprinted on the fabric.

Prices in nylon range from $1.99 each, 8″ x 12″ size to $2.93 each, 14″ x 18″ size (both in quantities of 120). Larger quantities available at corresponding reductions. For the army duck, the prices range from $1.93 (8″ x 12″) to $2.85 (14″ x 18″). Manufacturer will adapt design concepts to meet library requirements. Available from A. Rifkin Co., 1400 Sans Souci Parkway, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. 18703. (717) 824-8748.

Desk mover

Descolator is a time-saving tool that eliminates the back-breaking work and annoyance of moving desks. One person can handle the move easily by rolling the Descolator into position, depressing the handle, and raising and rolling the desk to its new position. Features of the device include: nonscratching vinyl coated lifting arms; maneuverability under all types of steel desks; mechanical safety latch which automatically locks in the raised position; eight ball-bearing full-swivel caster wheels for balance and control; true vertical lift which allows one desk to be removed from a grouping; 750 lbs. capacity; structural steel tubing base frame; and removable handle with rubber hand grip. Also available are a file cabinet mover (Lift-A-File) and a table mover (Table-Ez). From S. & G. Enterprises, Inc., 5626 N. 91st St., Milwaukee, Wis. 53225. (414) 464-5310.

Transparent envelopes

A new method for safeguarding and storing art, photos, and documents, and for use as a portfolio and display folder for visual aids, is Sho-File, a transparent envelope offering 20″ x 24″ flat capacity in a semi-rigid clear plastic carrier, which has heat-welded and sewn edges. A pressure sensitive file label and a cardboard insert for two-sided use is included. Price is $1.75 each, in quantity. Available from Portage, Box 5500, Akron, Ohio 44313. (216) 929-4454.

Indoor hose

Libraries with indoor plantings may be interested in the Little Squirt indoor watering hose. Consisting of a 50′ light vinyl hose, a faucet adapter, and "root feeder" wand to get to the bottom of the plant without splashing, the hose allows hanging or floor plants to be watered with less effort than a conventional watering can requires. A valve in the unit assures a "soft" water pressure and the proper water temperature for the plants can be determined at the faucet. Weight is 14 oz.; price, $12.95; guaranteed for one year. From Casaplanta, 16129 Runnymede St., Van Nuys, Calif. 91406. (213) 988-1850.

Fall Book Announcements

BOOK SELECTION is one of the duties that validates the librarian's claim to professional status. It is in the building of a library collection, balancing the pressures of budgets against the needs of readers, that the very special expertise and experience of the individual librarian is brought into use and focus. The process tests each librarian's knowledge of his or her patrons, it forces the most difficult judgments, it requires constant attention to the published output and the reviews, plus a check on the day-to-day use made of a collection, and the instances when the library fails to fulfill the desires or demands of its users.

But before the librarian even begins his task, thousands of authors, agents, editors, publicists, and other individuals who labor in the book would have gone through the same agonizing processes. Each of the thousands of books published each year is the result of individual creative acts, editorial judgments, and business decisions that may span months and years. Thus, when we are confronted with the massive book output of any fall season, we can't help but wonder in awe, what the impact of each decision, and particularly that final decision to select or reject by the library book buyer, has been. Unlike other industries, where massive numbers of a few products are turned out for a "consuming" public, publishing produces thousands of unique products, each the result of a series of creative acts and difficult judgments, and each risking itself in competition with hundreds of others.

In a modern world where mass and broadcast media dominate, the librarian's decision becomes all the

(Continued on p. 2026)

new fall books new fall books new fall books
new fall books new fall books new fall books
new fall books new fall books new fall books

ADRIAN PRESS, INC.
157 West 57th Street
New York, N.Y. 10019

POPULAR MUSIC
AN ANNOTATED INDEX OF AMERICAN POPULAR SONGS

Edited by Nat Shapiro

Volume 1, 1950-59, 1964, $16.00 ISBN 0-910024-01-4
Volume 2, 1940-49, 1965, $16.00 ISBN 0-910024-02-2
Volume 3, 1960-64, 1967, $18.50 ISBN 0-910024-03-0
Volume 4, 1930-39, 1968, $16.00 ISBN 0-910024-04-9
Volume 5, 1920-29, 1969, $16.00 ISBN 0-910024-05-7
Volume 6, 1965-69, 1973, $18.50 ISBN 0-910024-06-5

Special offer for set on direct mail order. Library discount.

Alaska Travel Publications Inc.

P.O. Box 4-2031, Anchorage, Alaska 99509

EXPLORING ALASKA'S MOUNT MCKINLEY NATIONAL PARK by the Editors of Alaska Travel Publications Inc. 1976. 315 pages. Illustrated with maps, drawings, black and white and color photographs. Second Edition. Paper $8.95. ISBN: 0-914164-04-X. Library of Congress Card Catalog Number: 76-4404.

EXPLORING ALASKA'S PRINCE WILLIAM SOUND by Neil and Elizabeth Johannsen. 306 pages. 1975 Illustrated with drawings, maps, and black and white photographs. First Edition. Paper $7.50. ISBN 0-914164-03-1. Library of Congress Catalog Card Number: 75-1912

EXPLORING KATMAI NATIONAL MONUMENT AND THE VALLEY OF TEN THOUSAND SMOKES by the Editors of Alaska Travel Publications Inc. 1975 276 pages. Illustrated with maps, drawings and black and white photographs. First Edition. Paper $7.50. ISBN: 0-914164. Library of Congress Card Catalog Number: 74-84798

HOWARD ALLEN ENTERPRISES, INC.

Box 76

Cape Canaveral FL 32920

Langerton, Dr. Edward P. The Busing Coverup. 1975 182 pp.
ISBN 0-914576-05-4 .....Paper $ 2.95

Robertson, Wilmot. The Dispossessed Majority. 1975. 586 pp.
ISBN 0-914576-01-1 .....Cloth $12.00
ISBN 0-914576-04-6 .....Paper $ 4.95

Robertson, Wilmot. Ventilations. 1974. 115 pp
ISBN 0-914576-06-2 .....Paper $ 2.95

Swartzbaugh, Dr. Richard G. The Mediator. 1973. 133 pp.
ISBN 0-914576-03-8 .....Cloth $ 4.95

B AND H BOOKS
SMALL PRESS DISTRIBUTORS
330 Paloma Avenue, San Rafael, California 94901
FUR LINE PRESS ISBN PREFIX 0-912662

Luster, Helen
I(EE), BOOK I, IN PISCES. Begins 7 volume alchemical poetry trip. Illus 40 pp "Water Book"
ISBN-0-912662-00-X .....PPBK $2.00
I(EE), BOOK II, THE YELLOW CHRISTMAS. 94 pp. The fiery sun at Winter Solstice
ISBN 0-912662-01-8. Illus. .....PPBK $3.00
I(EE), BOOK III, BELL'S BOOK. 90 pp. Illus. "The air one"
ISBN 0-912662-02-6. Ancient Deities, Technology ..PPBK $2.50
I(EE), BOOK IV, THE HOUSE OF DI. 90 pp. "Earth Book". Illus. After death, resurrection
ISBN-0-912662-04-2 .....PPBK $2.50
I(EE), BOOK V, THE BOOK OF TRE. 95 pp. Illus. "Moon Goddess, Green Tree-god".
ISBN-0-912662-05-0 .....PPBK $2.50
I(EE), BOOK VI, THE BOOK OF ROSE. 1976. 92 pp. Illus. Alchemical marriage of Sun and Moon
ISBN 0-912662-09-3 .....PPBK $2.50

New From AEI:

AEI STUDIES ON CONTEMPORARY ECONOMIC PROBLEMS/1976
edited by William J. Fellner
This collection of studies on economic problems facing the United States features general studies of the recent stagflation—and proposed monetary and fiscal policies to overcome it—and specific studies of wage trends, international interdependence, and trends in oil and farm-product prices. With:
Phillip Cagan
Herbert Stein
William Fellner
Marvin Kosters
Geoffrey H. Moore
Marina v.N. Whitman
George M. von Furstenberg
Gottfried Haberler
Murray L. Weidenbaum
Harold O. Carter
Richard Erb
369 pages paperback, $4.00

TOWARDS A RECONSTRUCTION OF MACROECONOMICS
by William J. Fellner
"This is one of the rare works that can be truly labelled 'required reading' for all serious students of macroeconomic theory and policy. Both Keynesians and monetarists will find some support and some criticism of their views. And every reader will find a great deal of insight and enlightenment, regardless of how much he agrees or disagrees with its original and provocative conclusions."
Arthur M. Okun

"William Fellner's Towards a Reconstruction of Macroeconomics offers many wise and important insights into the defects of our recent demand management policies and the problems that we face in the future."
Milton Friedman
139 pages cloth, $9.00; paperback, $4.00

THE STRATEGIC BALANCE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN
by Jesse W. Lewis, Jr.
"An informative, up-to-date work which provides much data on the Soviet and American naval presences in the Mediterranean, as well as past and potential sources of conflict in the region, but avoids an overly facile evaluation of the 'strategic balance.'" Foreign Affairs.
160 pages paperback, $3.75

CENTRAL ECONOMIC PLANNING
by G. Warren Nutter
Nutter says the United States' recent economic problems are symptoms of political ills, not of flaws in the economic system. He concludes that economic planning would probably fail.
23 pages paperback, $1.50

VERTICAL INTEGRATION IN THE OIL INDUSTRY
edited by Edward J. Mitchell with articles by Wesley J. Liebeler • Richard B. Mancke • Edward J. Mitchell • David J. Teece • Arthur M. Johnson
The authors conclude that breaking up the oil companies along vertical lines would not have any economic benefit, but a very real economic cost. And they say the net result would not make the industry more competitive.
214 pages cloth, $9.00; paperback, $4.00

NATIONAL ECONOMIC PLANNING: RIGHT OR WRONG FOR THE U.S.? with Rep. Clarence J. Brown • Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey • Wassily Leontief • Herbert Stein • John Charles Daly, moderator
"The AEI presented articulate points of view on both sides."
Hobart Rowen,
The Washington Post
51 pages paperback, $2.00 also available in audio and video cassettes

THE CRISIS IN THE LEBANESE SYSTEM: CONFESSIONALISM AND CHAOS
by Enver M. Koury
The author examines the Lebanese system of power-sharing and the way it has responded—or failed to respond—to the revolution of rising expectations. He sets out alternative means of power-sharing to help provide a workable solution.

NORTHERN IRELAND: TIME OF CHOICE
by Richard Rose
The immediate task facing Northern Ireland's politicians is to create a civil government that can work without full public consensus, Rose asserts. He traces the history of the conflict and sets forth five possible outcomes.
175 pages paperback, $3.75

To order, circle the titles you'd like and send this to American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research
Dept. C 1150 Seventeenth St., N.W. Washington, D.C. 20036

Name_____
Address_____
City_____ State_____ Zip_____

more important to the creators of the printed book, for it is the library market that will ultimately decide whether or not the majority of books published will be deemed successful or not. It is an important responsibility. It will make or break many new authors. It will foster or impede the growth in important genre like fiction and poetry. It may, indeed, change the nature of careers in writing and publishing. Finally, the book selection decision will determine whether or not the library, that one free medium that focuses individual creative effort on individual readers, is a success or failure.

This year, as the advertising and indexing in this Fall Announcement Issue of LJ amply testifies, the book selectors' problem is as complex as ever. The publishers have announced thousands of new titles, ranging in subject matter and genre over every possible area of interest or need. To find your way, we suggest you scan all the advertising in this issue, check out the listings that begin below, and if you want more information about any title listed, look up the publisher's ad in the directory on p. 2096. As you develop your want list, you can be sure that LJ has or will try to provide a review. The rest is up to you.

GENERAL REFERENCE

Arco
Tannen, J. How To Identify and Collect American First Editions. Nov.
VanAllen, L. C. & A. G. Mallis. The Comprehensive Catalog and Encyclopedia of U. S. Morgan and Peace Silver Dollars. Nov.

Barnes & Noble: Harper
Hoffmann, A Lives of the Tudor Age. Mar.
Lives of the Stuart Age. Oct.
Palmer, A. & V. Palmer. Quotations in History. Nov.
Thomson, W. A. R. Black's Medical Dictionary. Nov.

Crown
Doherty, E. Antiques Shops and Dealers, U.S.A. Oct.
Kovel, R. & T. Kovel. The Kovels' Complete Antiques Price List. Oct.

Dutton
Rapoport, R. & M. Lind. The California Catalogue. Jan.

Greenwood
Bowden, H. W. Dictionary of American Religious Biography. Dec.
The Equal Rights Amendment. Nov.
Hidaru, A. & D. Rahmato, eds. A Short Guide to the Study of Ethiopia. Dec.
Wakelyn, J. L. Biographical Dictionary of the Confederacy. Dec.

Grove
Cartwright, J. & J. Patterson. Been Taken Lately? Sept.

Longman
Coveney, J. Glossary of English and German Management Terms. Oct.

Morrow
Feinman, J. & M. Weiss. The Catalog of Free Things. Nov.

Norton
Reader's Digest. Strange Stories, Amazing Facts. Oct.

Penguin
Cohen, J. M. & M. J. Cohen. The Penguin Book of Quotations. Sept.
Pitt, V. H. The Penguin Dictionary of Physics. Feb.

Praeger
Hovis, F., ed. The Sports Encyclopedia. Oct.

Prentice-Hall
Deschler, L. Deschler's Rules of Order. Aug.
Dunning, J. Tune in Yesterday. Nov.
Measures, D. Bright Wings of Summer. Oct.

Random
Britchky, S. Seymour Britchky's New, Revised Guide to the Restaurants of New York. Sept.
Dillard, J. L. American Talk. Sept.
Popenoe, C., ed. Books for Inner Development. Oct.
Writers & Scholars Internat. Index to Censorship. Sept.

San Francisco Bk. Co.
Harmon, W. W. An Incomplete Guide to the Future. Sept.

Scribners
Cornell, J. The Great International Disaster Book. Nov.
Dictionary of American History. Oct.
Foss, C. Artillery of the World. Oct.
Foss, C. Military Vehicles of the World. Oct.
Hopkins, J. G. E., ed. Concise Dictionary of American Biography, rev. ed. Jan.
Orrey, L. The Encyclopedia of Opera. Sept.
Taylor, M. J. H. & J. W. R. Taylor. Helicopters of the World. Nov.
Taylor, M. J. H. & J. W. R. Taylor Missiles of the World. Nov.
Vicary, R. Manual of Lithography. Sept.

S. & S.
Consumer Guide Eds. Whole House Catalog. Aug.
Golenpaul, A., ed. Information Please Almanac, 1977. Nov.
Lasser, J. K. Your Income Tax. Oct.
Lovejoy's College Guide. Oct.
Stein, M. L. The T-Factor. Oct.

Taplinger
Ash, B. Who's Who in Science Fiction. Nov.

Universe Bks.
Greif, M. The St. Nicholas Book. Oct.
Grow, L. The Old House Catalogue. Oct.
Montagu & Georgano. Early Days on the Road. Oct.

Franklin Watts
Copley & others. Defense & Foreign Affairs Handbook. Sept.

ARTS

American Heritage
Kidder Smith, G. E. Architecture in America. Oct.

Arco
Biegeleisen, J. I. Art Directors' Workbook of Type Faces. Aug.
Gross, C. The Technique of Wood Sculpture. Nov.

Atheneum
Goodall, J. S. An Edwardian Summer. Oct.

Bobbs
Kominsky, N. More Instant Painting. Aug.

Braziller
Arano, L. C. The Medieval Health Handbook. Jun.
Comini, A. Egon Schiele's Portraits. Sept.
Cosman, M. P. Fabulous Feasts. Nov.
Farmer, D. James Ensor. Oct.
Mutherich, F. Carolingian Painting. Dec.
Nordenfalk, C. Celtic Painting. Feb.
Schapiro, M. Romanesque Art. Vol. 1. Nov.
Smith, W. The Farnese Hours. Oct.
Tao-Chi. Returning Home. Oct.
Waldman, D. Joseph Cornell. Dec.
Weitzmann, K. Late Antique-Early Christian Painting. Feb.

Brigham Young Univ. Pr.
Heaton, A. Ballroom Dance Rhythms. Sept.

Cambridge Univ. Pr.
Dent, E. J. The Rise of Romantic Opera. Oct.
Newman, E. The Life of Richard Wagner. Oct.
Von Westernhagen, C. The Forging of the "Ring." Nov.
Warrack, J. Carl Maria Von Weber. 2d ed. Nov.

Cornell Univ. Pr.
Bialostocki, J. The Art of the Renaissance in Eastern Europe. Sept.
Gombrich, E. H. The Heritage of Apelles. Oct.
Gould, C. The Paintings of Correggio. Oct.

Crown
Adams, J. Here's to the Friars. Oct.
Cherry, D. Preparing Artwork for Reproduction. Aug.
Dumar, G. Nicolas de Staël. Sept.
Goldemberg, R. L. Antique Jewelry. Nov.
Harvey, M. Lettering Design. Oct.
Hummel, C. F. Winterthur Guide to American Chippendale Furniture. Sept.
Klamkin, M. Made in Occupied Japan. Oct.
Lee, L. & F. Stephens. Stained Glass. Oct.
Marshall, H. The Pictorial History of the Russian Theatre. Nov.
Norton, P. Ships' Figureheads. Oct.
Palmer, A. M. A Winterthur Guide to Chinese Export Porcelain. Sept.
Pressland, D. The Art of the Tin Toy. Nov.
Smith, P. R. Modern Collector's Dolls. Aug.
Swan, S. B. A Winterthur Guide to American Needlework. Sept.
Willis, J. Dance World, 1976. Dec.
Willis, J. Theatre World, 1975-1976 Dec.

Delacorte
Wilk, M. The Golden Age of Television. Nov.

new fall books new fall books new fall books
new fall books new fall books new fall books
new fall books new fall books new fall books
new fall books new fall books new fall books

EVERGREEN PRESS

Post Office Box 1711
Oceanside, California 92054

ISBN Prefix 0-913056

The Ford Road Series

Miller, Ray & McCalley, Bruce. FROM HERE TO OBSCURITY, an illustrated history of the Model T Ford. 1971. 300 pp. 996 illustrations.
ISBN 0-913056-01-4.....cloth $22.50

Miller, Ray & Embree, Glenn. THE V-8 AFFAIR, an illustrated history of the pre-war Ford V-8. 1972. 303 pp. 993 illustrations.
ISBN 0-913056-02-2.....cloth $22.50

Miller, Ray & Embree, Glenn. HENRY'S LADY, an illustrated history of the Model A Ford. 1972. 300 pp. 989 illustrations.
ISBN 0-913056-03-0.....cloth $22.50

Miller, Ray & Embree, Glenn. THUNDERBIRD!, an illustrated history of the Ford T-Bird. 1973. 304 pp. 1089 illustrations.
ISBN 0-913056-04-9.....cloth $22.50

Miller, Ray. THE NIFTY FIFTIES FORDS, an illustrated history of post-war Fords. 1974. 320 pp. 1320 illustrations.
ISBN 0-913056-05-7.....cloth $22.50

ALSO:

Miller, Ray. THE REAL CORVETTE, An illustrated history of Chevrolet's sports car. 1975. 320 pp. 1160 illustrations. ISBN 0-913056-06-5 .....cloth $22.50

CASTANEDA'S JOURNEY
the power and the allegory

Richard de Mille

A startling investigation of Castaneda, man and myth-maker.
208 pp., 18 illus. - $4.95

CAPRA PRESS
631 State, Santa Barbara, CA 93101

DAKOTA PRESS

University of South Dakota
Vermillion, SD 57069
ISBN Prefix 0-88249

Evans, Max. SAM PECKINPAH. MASTER OF VIOLENCE, 1972. 92 pp. illus.
ISBN 0-88249-011-7 cloth $ 4.95

Etulain, Richard W. WESTERN AMERICAN LITERATURE, A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF INTERPRETIVE BOOKS AND ARTICLES, 1972, 137 pp.
ISBN 0-88249-010-9 .....paper $ 4.00

Milton, John R. AMERICAN INDIAN SPEAKS. (Poetry, Fiction, and Art by the American Indian.) 1974. 191 pp. illus.
ISBN 0-88249-003-6 .....paper $ 5.00

Milton, John R. THREE WEST. (Conversations with Vardis, Fisher, Max Evans and Michael Straight.) 167 pp.
ISBN 0-88249-006-0 .....paper $ 3.00

Five New Books

IMPROVED AMERICAN RIFLE
by John R. Chapman
This book, first published in 1848 was a primer to learn the care and use of percussion long guns as opposed to the older flintlock ignition system. The most important black powder shooting book ever published. Important to the cartridge collector and gun historian, now reprinted from the original pages. Filled with important and historically valuable information on gun makers and technical data. Library of Congress Number 76-29197. $5.95

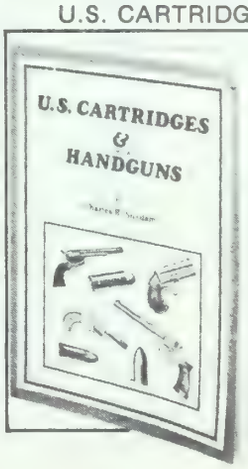
HOW TO MAKE KNIVES
edited by A.G. Russell
The long needed multi-use book for the amateur and professional knifemaker as well as the student of the blade. Here are step by step descriptions of the exact way that a knife should be handmade, supported by large size illustrations. Chapters are written by or with the aid of America's great custom knifemakers and cover every facet of knifemaking. Both a shop manual and a collector's dictionary of guidelines for understanding how to buy, collect or make knives. Library of Congress Number 76-42179. $9.95

ARMSMEAR, THE SAMUEL COLT BIOGRAPHY
Commissioned by Mrs. Colt in 1866, this 400-page reprint is the authoritative biography of one of America's great industrialists and inventors. Written in contemporary Victorian prose, the book is the definitive primary source work on the man, the firearms company, and the family heritage. Indexed with a special list of "persons and places" prominent in Sam Colt's life. Library of Congress Number 76-20422. $24.95

THE BOOK OF WINCHESTER ENGRAVING
by R.L. Wilson
Over 750 photos, more than 60 in color, over 400 pages. The definitive work on Winchester engravers. An important documentary work on many of the great engravers as well as their work. A comprehensive, fundamental source reference book. Library of Congress Number 74-28671 $39.95

I*XL MEANS I EXCEL
William R. Williamson
This a brilliant short history of the I*XL Bowie knife written by America's foremost authority on Bowie-type knives. Over 60 antique Bowie knives are pictured, illustrating the complete history of the I*XL Bowie. This paperback work is the most complete history ever published on the company that supplied knives to the frontiersman of the 1800's.$3.95

U.S. CARTRIDGES AND THEIR HANDGUNS by C.R. Suydam



The first reference book ever on the history of cartridge development in the U.S. Over 300 pages, 200 illustrations of each type of handgun that was used. An important work for the arms and cartridge student. Library of Congress Number 76-20404.
$14.95 Hardbound
$9.95 Softbound

Beinfeld Publishing, inc.

13222 Saticoy Street
North Hollywood, California 91605

Dial
Reynolds, N. Repertory in Review. Feb.

Dodd
Abdul, R. Blacks in Classical Music. Jan.
Doty, R. M. American Folk Art From Ohio Collections. Nov.
Guernsey, O. L., ed. The Best Plays of 1975-1976. Nov.
Lawrence, R. The Great French Operas—and The Famous. Jan.

Dutton
Andrews, B. Lucy & Ricky & Fred & Ethel. Oct.
Barsam, R. M., ed. Nonfiction Film. Sept.
Battcock, G. Why Art. Jan.
Bishop, R. & E. Safanda. A Gallery of Amish Quilts. Oct.
Cockcroft, E. & others. Toward a People's Art. Nov.
Distin, W. H. & R. Bishop. The American Clock. Oct.
Fales, D. A., Jr. The Furniture of Historic Deerfield. Nov.
Freeman, M. B. The Unicorn Tapestries, Oct.
Glimcher, A. B. Louise Nevelson. Oct.
Horwitz, J. They Went Thataway. Sept.
Karageorghis, V. View from the Bronze Age. Oct.
Kolodin, I. The Opera Omnibus. Sept.
Lipman, J. & H. M. Franc. Bright Stars. Oct.
Lippard, L. R. From the Center. Oct.
Porter, E. & M. Harwood. Moments of Discovery. Oct.
Sondheim, A., ed. Individuals. Jan.
Swallow, N. Eisenstein. Feb.
Taylor, M. & C. Dyk. The Book of Rounds. Feb.
Thomas, D. & K. Ronnefeldt, eds. People of the First Man. Oct.

Farrar
Arlen, M. J. The View From Highway 1. Sept.
Artaud, A. Selected Writings of Artaud. Oct.
Avedon, R. Portraits. Oct.
Handke, P. The Ride Across Lake Constance and Other Plays. Nov.
Meiselas, S. Carnival Strippers. Oct.
Siskind, A. Photographs 1966-1975. Oct.
Slavin, N. When Two or More Are Gathered Together. Oct.
Sontag, S. On Photography. Feb.
Sontag, S. Styles of Radical Will. Sept.

Fireside: S & S
Martyn Green's Treasury of Gilbert & Sullivan. Oct.
The Rodgers and Hart Song Book. Oct.

Greenwood
Wade, B. C. Tegotomono. Nov.

Grove
Beckett, S. Ends and Odds. Oct.
Griffiths, T. Comedians. Sept.
Ionesco, E. The Man with the Suitcases. Oct.
Lion, E. & D. Ball, eds. Guthrie New Theater. Vol. 1. Sept.
Truffaut, F. Small Change. Oct.

Harmony: Crown
Brophy, B. Beardsley and His World. Aug.
Carr, R. The Rolling Stones. Aug.
Chierchetti, D. Hollywood Costume Design. Oct.
Clarke, M. & C. Crisp. Understanding Ballet. Sept.
Klimt, G. Gustav Klimt. Sept.
Leavitt, R., ed. Artist and Computer. Aug.
Suarès, J.-C. & S. Chwast. The Illustrated Cat. Aug.

Hastings
Arijon, D. Grammar of the Film Language. Aug.
Barron, D. Creativity 5. Sept.
Booth-Clibborn, E. European Illustration 3, 1976-77 ed. Nov.
Descombes, R. Illustrators 17. Aug.
Design and Art Direction '76. Nov.
Edera, B. Full Length Animated Feature Films. Jan.
Englander, A. A. & P. Petzold. Filming for Television Nov.
Gifford, F. Tape. Jan.
Halas, J. Visual Scripting. Aug.
Herdeg, W. Film and TV Graphics, 2. Oct.
Herdeg, W. Grahis Annual, 1976–77. Oct.
Herdeg, W. Photographs '76. Aug.
Millerson, G. Effective TV Production. Nov.
Peristic, Z. The Animation Stand. Oct.
Ray, S. F. The Lens in Action. Oct.
Robinson, J. F. & P. H. Beards. Using Videotape. Oct.
Samuelson, D. Motion Picture Camera and Lighting Equipment. Jan.
Smith, B. The Penrose Graphic Arts International Annual, 1976. Sept.
Sutphen, D. The Early Illustrators. Nov.
Swain, D. V. Film Scriptwriting. Oct.
Wilkie, B. Creating Special Effects for Film/TV. Jan.
Wirth, K. Drawing. Oct.

Hill & Wang: Farrar
Feiffer, J. Knock, Knock. Sept.
Jones, P. A Texas Trilogy. Nov.
Weinberg, W. & L. Shackelford. Our Appalachia. Jan.
Wilson, L. The Mound Builders. Sept.

Johns Hopkins
Levy, L. S. Picture the Songs. Oct.

Knopf
Arnold, E. The Unretouched Woman. Oct.
Baryshnikov, M. Baryshnikov at Work. Nov.
Debussy, C. Debussy on Music. Jan.
Driskell, D. Two Centuries of Black American Art. Oct.
Dyland, B. The Songs of Bob Dylan. Dec.
Ford, C. & R. Strong, eds. An Early Victorian Album. Nov.
Gowin, E. Photographs. Oct.
Hanf, C. The Camera of My Family. Sept.
Hedgecoe, J. The Book of Photography. Sept.
Kertész, A. Distortions. Oct.
Kertész, A. Of New York. . . . Sept.
Kirkwood, J. & N. Dante. A Chorus Sept.
Kirkwood, J. & N. Dante. A Chorus Line. Oct.
Krementz, J. A Very Young Dancer. Oct.
McCartney, L. Linda's Pictures. Nov.
Seton, E. T. The Worlds of Ernest Thompson Seton. Oct.
van Woerkom, F. Common Life. Oct.
White, N. The Architecture Book. Oct.

M.I.T. Pr.
Davis, D. & A. Simmons, eds. The New Television. Nov.
Eggleston, W. William Eggleston's Guide. Aug.
Lotz, W. Studies in Italian Renaissance Architecture. Dec.
National Collection of Fine Arts, Smithsonian Inst. Images of an Era. Aug.
Venturi, R. & others. Learning from Las Vegas. rev. ed. Dec.
Wurman, R. S. Cities. Sept.

Morrow
Battersby, M. & others. The History of Furniture. Oct.
Cole, B. Miles Davis. Dec.
Hamilton, D. The Best of David Hamilton. Sept.
Hodgson, M. & T. Victor. Quintet. Nov.
Jacobson, R. Reverberations. Aug.
Thomson, D. A. Biographical Dictionary of Film. Aug.
Vercoutter, J. & others. The Image of the Black in Western Art. Oct.

Northland
Abbey, R. D. Rivertrip. Dec.
Cowboy Artists of America Eleventh Annual Exhibition Catalog. Oct.
Howard, J. K. Ten Years with the Cowboy Artists of America. Oct.
Reed, W. John Clymer. Oct.
Truk, R. H., Scholder/Indians. Dec.
Waters, F. Leon Gaspard. Dec.

Norton
Automobile Association of England. Treasure of Britain. Oct.
de Breffny, B. & G. Mott. The Churches and Abbeys of Ireland. Jun.
de Visser, J. & H. Kalman. Pioneer Churches. Oct.
Dogo, G., ed. Treasures of Italy. Sept.
Duncan, D. D. The Silent Studio. Oct.
Gadney, R. Constable and His World. Jul.
Keller, H. The Well-Tempered Clavier by Johann Sebastian Bach. Oct.
McCorkle, D. M., ed. Brahms. Nov.
Sellin, D. The First Pose. Nov.

Ohio Univ. Pr.
Bolsterli, M. J. The Early Community at Bedford Park. Dec.

Overlook Pr.
Haak, N. Rembrandt Drawings. Oct.
Montagu, J. The World of Medieval and Renaissance Musical Instruments. Oct.

Pantheon
Ades, D. Photomontage. Nov.
Brassai. The Secret Paris of the Thirties. Sept.
Lesy, M. Real Life. Oct.
Mellen. The Waves at Genji's Door. Nov.
National Trust for Historic Preservation. America's Forgotten Architecture. Oct.
Williams, G. A. Goya and the Impossible Revolution. Sept.

Penguin
Abbott, R. T. Shells in Color. Aug.
Bentley, E. The Theory of the Modern Stage. Oct.
Edwards, I. E. S. Treasures of Tutankhamun. Nov.
Emsley, M. G. Butterfly Magic. Oct.
Gruen, J. The Private World of Ballet. Dec.
Haas, E. The Creation. Oct.
Steinberg, S. The Inspector. Oct.
Webster, J. Three Plays. Feb.
Winter, G. Country Camera/Cockney Camera. Sept.

Phaidon: Dutton
Brown, C. Dutch Painting. Sept.
Cormack, M. The Nude. Sept.
Davies, D. El Greco. Sept.
Dent, A. Animals in Art. Sept.
Gibson, R. Flower Painting. Sept.
Hillier, B. Travel Posters. Sept.
Illing, R. Japanese Prints. Sept.
Jordan, P. Egypt. Sept.
Lindemann, G. Prints and Drawings. Aug.
Measham, T. The Moderns. Oct.
Roberts, K. Degas. Sept.
Roberts, K. Italian Renaissance. Sept.
Roberts, K. Rembrandt. Sept.
Rowlands, J. Bosch. Sept.
Thomas, D. Abstract Painting. Sept.
Wilson, S. Surrealist Painting. Sept.

Potter
Pointer, M. The Sherlock Holmes File. Oct.
Schnessel, S. M. Icart. Nov.
Twitchett, J. & B. Bailey. Royal Crown Derby. Oct.

Prentice-Hall
Cooper, J. Minolta Systems Handbook. Sept.
Ewen, D. All the Years of American Popular Music. Feb.
Rosnek, C. & J. Stacey. Skystone and Silver. Nov.
Roth, A. America in Cross-Stitch. Oct.

Princeton Univ. Pr.
Brown, J. Murillo and His Drawings. Jan.
Campbell, M. Pietro da Cortona at the Pitti Palace. Nov.
Gibbson, F. Catalogue of Italian Drawings in the Art Museum, Princeton University. Aug.
Hewison, R. John Ruskin. Aug.
Lee, R. W. Names on Trees. Feb.
Mâle, É. Religious Art in France. Feb.
Planchart, A. Repertory of Tropes at Winchester. Jan.
Robertson, D. Sir Charles Eastlake and the Victorian Art world. Oct.
Smith, G. Casino of Pius IV. Oct.

Random
Ernst, B. The Magic Mirror of M. C. Escher. Nov.
Hentoff, N. Jazz Is. Sept.
Lauf, D. I. Tibetan Sacred Art. Oct.
The Rolling Stone Illustrated History of Rock & Roll. Nov.

Scribners
Campbell, R. The Golden Years of Broadcasting. Oct.
Historic Buildings of Massachusetts. Sept.
Impey, O. Chinoiserie. Nov.
Medley, M. The Chinese Potter. Sept.
Reck, D. Music of the Whole Earth. Feb.
Robinson & others. Islamic Painting and the Arts of the Book. Sept.
Yarwood, D. The Architecture of Britain. Oct.

S. & S.
Mendoza, G. Lost Pony. Sept.

Stanford Univ. Pr.
Regnery, D. F. An Enduring Heritage. Oct.

Stein & Day
Edmondson, M. & D. Rounds. From Mary Noble to Mary Hartman. Oct.
Fisher, J. Call Them Irreplaceable. Sept.
Kooper, A. with B. Edmonds. Backstage Passes. Nov.
Sanford, H. Ladies and Gentlemen, the Garry Moore Show. Oct.

Taplinger
Farnworth, W. Approaches to Collage. Aug.
Ingman, N. & B. Brett. The Story of Music. Sept.
Mackay, J. Childhood Antiques. Sept.
Parker, T. Lighthouse. Sept.
Williams, B. & C. Grundmann. 26 Lively Letters. Jan.

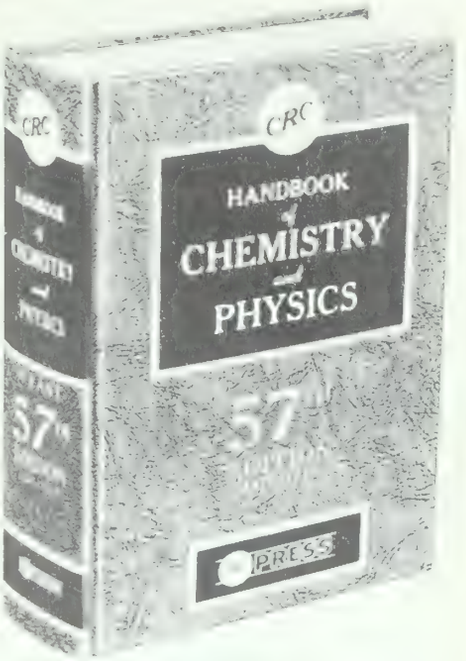
Temple Univ. Pr.
Webster, R. J. Philadelphia Preserved. Nov.

Universe Bks.
Airs, M. The Making of the English Country House. Sept.
Appignanesi, L. The Cabaret. Oct.
Baro, G. 30 Years of American Printmaking. Dec.
Brown, C. F. Star-Spangled Kitsch. Oct.
Darley, G. Villages of Vision. Oct.
Feinblatt, E. Old Master Drawings from American Collection. Oct.

NOW AVAILABLE . . .

The 57th Edition of the Most Frequently Used Reference in the Scientific World

CRC HANDBOOK of CHEMISTRY and PHYSICS



For over 60 years, chemists, engineers, physicists, environmentalists, biologists, mathematicians, teachers, researchers, and a wide variety of other professionals have depended on the comprehensive information the Handbook provides. The proven indispensability of this annually revised classic has earned it the reputation as the "bible of the sciences". Use of this unique reference has proven so great that many librarians annually purchase several copies for their libraries.

The 57th Edition of the CRC HANDBOOK of CHEMISTRY and PHYSICS contains over 2300 pages of pertinent tables, graphs, data and property information that are needed by those involved with science in its many forms. The index has been restructured by professional librarians, arranging subject matter by primary, secondary, and tertiary categories. Information can be located rapidly by this increased cross-reference with page numbers. In addition to the same broad-based data that appeared in previous editions, this edition includes: Fixed Points and Phase Equilibrium Boundries for Parahydrogen, and Thermal Conductivity of Liquid Fluorocarbons. Several sections have been revised, making this the most complete and timely reference in the scientific world.

Send for our free catalog which lists over 150 scientific, technical, and medical publications.

CRC HANDBOOK of CHEMISTRY and PHYSICS, 57th Edition
Edited by Robert C. Weast, Ph.D. $29.95 each (Specify catalog number 457HV when ordering.)

CRC PRESS, INC. • 18901 Cranwood Parkway • Cleveland, Ohio 44128 • U.S.A.

5050-1(HV)

New from the Huntington

THE CENSORSHIP OF ENGLISH DRAMA 1737-1824

by L. W. Conolly

A lively study of dramatic censorship as it operated in England in the 18th and early 19th centuries. "Dr. Conolly's erudite, witty, and sensible study . . . is of obvious interest to scholars and specialists but it deserves a much broader audience."

(Los Angeles Times)

1976, 223 pp., illus., $12.95

HUNTINGTON LIBRARY PUBLICATIONS

San Marino • California • 91108

an exciting new collection for libraries and classrooms

Distinguished Women

poster series

Sojourner Truth

Elizabeth Cady Stanton
Susan B. Anthony

Christabel Pankhurst

Amelia Earhart

Anaïs Nin

Emma Goldman

This special collection includes beautiful sepia prints of twelve women in history who serve as inspirations and models for women everywhere. Taken chronologically, they are stepping stones which can be used to traverse almost 200 years of history.

Printed on 17½ x 23 heavy card stock, each is laminated with seamless mylar for increased durability and attractiveness. A 64-page series guide by librarian and author Marda Woodbury gives extended biographies, historical perspectives of women's rights and groups, suggested discussion questions, and a bibliography of selected tapes, books, records, and films. All items are packaged in a plastic envelope for protection and easy storage. Complete kit is $19.95. Additional copies of series guide are available for $1.50 each.

Not shown: Mary Wollstonecraft, Sarah Bernhardt Helen Keller, Isadora Duncan, Jane Addams, and Margaret Sanger

LES FEMMES PUBLISHING
231 Adrian Road Millbrae, Ca 94030

Haders, P. Sunshine and Shadow. Oct.
Hubala, E. Baroque and Rococo Art. Oct.
Mack, K. The Kiss. Oct.
Ribalta, M. American Neon. Oct.
Thomas, J. C. American and British Pewter. Oct.
Trent, R. Pilgrim Century Furniture. Oct.
Von Blum, P. The Art of Social Conscience. Oct.

Univ. of Illinois Pr.
Anderson, G. B. Political and Patriotic Lyrics in the Colonial American Newspapers, 1773-1783. Oct.
Titon, J. T. Early Downhome Blues. Jan.

Univ. of North Carolina Pr.
Camus, R. F. Military Music of the American Revolution. Jul.

Univ. Pr. of Kentucky
Clarke, K. & I. Kohn. Kentucky's Age of Wood. Nov.
Clarke, M. W. Kentucky Quilts & Their Makers. Nov.
Greene, H. Mind & Image. Jul.
Jones, A. F. The Art of Paul Sawyier. Nov.
Montell, W. L. & M. L. Morse. Kentucky Folk Architecture. Nov.

Urizen Bks.
Bresson, R. The Complete Screenplays. Vol. 1. Feb.
Bresson, R. Notes on Creative Filmmaking. Feb.
Kroetz, F. X. Farmyard and Four Plays. Sept.
Lifshitz, M. The Philosophy of Art of Karl Marx. Sept.
Shepard, S. Angel City, Curse of the Starving Class and Other Plays. Sept.

Viking
Adler, J. & others. Bright Star of Exile. Mar.
Bragstad, J. O. & C. A. Fracchia. Converted into Houses. Oct.
Byron, S. & E. Wells. The National Society of Film Critics on Movie Comedy. Dec.
Cummings, P. American Drawings. Sept.
Deak, G.-G. American Views. Oct.
Eisenstaedt, A. Eisenstaedt's Album. Oct.
Gray, S. Otherwise Engaged and Other Plays. Sept.
Jaffe, I. Trumbull. Sept.
Jean, M., ed. The Autobiography of Surrealism. Mar.
Krauss, R. E. Passages in Modern Sculpture. Mar.
Lipman, J. Calder's Universe. Sept.
Morath, I. & A. Miller. In the Country. Feb.
O'Keefe, G. Georgia O'Keefe. Oct.
Palmer, T. All You Need Is Love. Nov.
Ramie, G. Picasso's Ceramics. Aug.
Reff, T. Manet. Jan.
Simpson, J. The American Family. Oct.
Tomkins, C. The Scene. Aug.

Walker
Downes, E. The New York Philharmonic Guide to the Symphony. Oct.
Jones, E. W. The Santa Claus Book. Oct.
Zerbe, J. Small Castles and Pavilions of Europe. Oct.

Wesleyan Univ. Pr.
Burnham, A. New York Landmarks. Sept.
Norris, A. S. & I. Weber. Medals and Plaquettes from the Molinari Collection at Bowdoin College. Sept.
Stock, J. W. The Paintings and The Journal of Joseph Whiting Stock. Oct.

Yale Univ. Pr.
Green, C. Leger and the Avant-Garde. Aug.
Hanson, A. C. Manet and the Modern Tradition. Nov.
Port, M. H., ed. The Houses of Parliament. Oct.
Saint, A. Richard Norman Shaw. Oct.
Welch, A. Artists for the Shah. Oct.

BIOGRAPHY

Atheneum
Arble, M. The Long Tunnel. Oct.
Chalfont, A. Montgomery of Alamein. Aug.
Scott, O. J. The Professional. Jul.
Sevareid, E. Not So Wild a Dream. Aug.

Barnes & Noble: Harper
Hindley, G. Saladin. Oct.

Beta Bks.
Messer, J. To Know Him Is To Love Him. Sept.

Bobbs
Marx, G. The Groucho/Phile. Nov.
Papich, S. Remembering Josephine. Nov.
Pate, J. The Great Villains. Sept.
Sills, B. Bubbles. Feb.

Crown
Desanti, D. A Woman in Revolt. Sept.
Peters, H. F. Zarathustra's Sister. Nov.

Damascus House: Dial
Roberts, E. His Darling Wife, Evelyn. Oct.

Delacorte
Alexander, S. Talking Woman. Oct.
Banks, L. R. Dark Quartet. Jan.
Carter, F. The Education of a Little Tree. Oct.
Sagan, F. Brigitte Bardot. Oct.

Dial
Fitzsimons, R. Edmund Kean. Oct.

Dodd
Gerson, N. B. Statue in Search of a Pedestal. Sept.
Klinck, C. F. Robert Service. Sept.
McLellan, D. S. Dean Acheson. Sept.
Wheeler, S. P. Dr. Nina and the Panther. Sept.

Dutton
Guthrie, W. Seeds of Man. Sept.
Hayes, B. with W. Hoffer. The Midnight Express. Jan.
Meyer, B. C., M. D. Houdini. Oct.
Younker, L., D. V. M. & J. J. Fried. Animal Doctor. Nov.

Eerdmans
Irwin, G. The Seventh Earl. Aug.

Farrar
Isherwood, C. Christopher and His Kind. Nov.
Leduc, V. La Bâtarde. Oct.
Neruda, P. Memoirs. Nov.
Singer, I. B. A Day of Pleasure. Sept.

Gordon Cremonesi
Strange, I. The Birdman. Oct.

Grove
Fawcett, A. John Lennon. Nov.

Harvard Univ. Pr.
Bernstein, G. L. Japanese Marxist. Nov.
Miller, K. Cockburn's Millennium. Oct.

Knopf
Hemingway, M. W. How It Was. Oct.
Kingston, M. H. The Woman Warrior. Sept.
Lesley, C. Remembered Laughter. Nov.
Rabinowitz, D. New Lives. Oct.
Ziegler, P. Melbourne. Oct.

Liberty Pr.
West, E. G. Adam Smith. Nov.

Liveright: Norton
Lippman, W. Public Persons. Oct.

Morrow
Belli, M. M. with R. Kaiser. Melvin Belli. Oct.
Dayan, M. Moshe Dayan. Sept.
Madsen, A. Malraux. Sept.
Meyers, M. Goodbye, Columbus, Hello Medicine. Oct.
Monsarrat, N. Monsarrat at Sea. Aug.
Mooney, M. M. Evelyn Nesbit and Stanford White. Sept.
Thomas, L. Good Evening Everybody. Aug.
Tobias, A. Fire and Ice. Aug.
Truman, M. Women of Courage. Nov.

Northland
Dedera, D. & B. Robles. Goodbye, Garcia, Adios. Sept.
Bower, D. E. Fred Rosenstock. Oct.
Powell, L. C. From the Heartland. Nov.

Norton
Brace, G. W. Days that Were. Oct.
Higham, C. The Adventures of Conan Doyle. Oct.
Kiernan, T. Arafat. Aug.
Lash, J. P. Roosevelt and Churchill—1939-1941. Oct.
Moglen, H. Charlotte Brontë. Sept.
Sarton, M. A World of Light. Sept.
Stoessinger, J. G. Henry Kissinger. Sept.

Pantheon
Renault, M. The Nature of Alexander. Sept.

Penguin
Bernstein, J. Einstein. Dec.
Giovanni, N. Gemini. Nov.
Greene, G. Lord Rochester's Monkey. Aug.
Lifton, B. J. Twice Born. Feb.
McLellan, D. Karl Marx. Dec.
Maurois, A. Lelia. Jan.
Moggridge, D. E. John Maynard Keynes. Dec.
Spender, S. T. S. Eliot. Dec.
Steinbeck, E. Steinbeck. Sept.
Wan, B. R. & R. Chelminski. Prisoner of Mao. Oct.

Phaidon: Dutton
Mockler, A. Francis of Assisi. Oct.

Prentice-Hall
Gambino, T. Nyet. Oct.
Getty, J. P. As I See It. Aug.
Kennedy, F. Color Me Flo. Oct.
Landvater, D. David. Sept.
Welk, L. My America, Your America. Sept.

Random
Angelou, M. Singin' and Swingin' and Gettin' Merry Like Christmas. Oct.
Dickerson, N. Among Those Present. Oct.
Forest, E. From a Spanish Prison. Oct.
Kelly, L. The Young Romantics. Aug.
Mander, A. V. with S. F. Hofbauer. Blood Ties. Oct.
Wolff, G. Black Sun. Aug.

Rutgers Univ. Pr.
Sidar, J. W. George Hammell Cook. Sept.
Vanderbilt, A. T., II. Changing Law. Sept.

Scribners
Baker, C. Ernest Hemingway. Sept.
Cook, B. Dalton Trumbo. Feb.
Crozier, B. The Man Who Lost China. Oct.
Grant, M. Saint Paul. Sept.
Graves, R. P. Lawrence of Arabia and His World. Jan.
Melville, A. Elizabeth Bayley Seton. Sept.
Nevelson, L. Dawns and Dusks. Nov.
Palmer, A. Bismarck. Sept.
Swanberg, W. A. Norman Thomas. Oct.
White, C. Dulac. Oct.

S. & S.
Dean, J. Blind Ambition. Nov.
Fuldheim, D. Three and a Half Husbands. Sept.
Morgan, K. S. Past Forgetting. Jan.
Pike, D. K. Life Is Victorious! Oct.
Shirer, W. L. 20th Century Journey. Sept.
Thomas, B. Walt Disney. Oct.
Townsend, P. The Last Emperor. Nov.
Wilde, M. C. & O. Borsten. A Loving Gentleman. Nov.

Stein & Day
Burton, A. Josiah Wedgwood. Nov.
Softly, B. The Queens of England. Oct.
Walker, A. Rudolph Valentino. Sept.

Taplinger
Jordan, R. George Sand. Aug.
Pinkerton, K. A Home in the Wilds. Sept.
Vansittart, J., ed. Lifelines. Aug.

Universe Bks.
Wreh, T. The Love of Liberty. Nov.

Univ. of North Carolina Pr.
Greene, N. The Papers of General Nathanael Greene. Vol. 1. Dec.

Univ. Pr. of Kentucky
Burg, B. R. Richard Mather of Dorchester. Nov.
Heck, F. H. Proud Kentuckian. Oct.
Schulman, R. John Sherman Cooper. Oct.
Shine, I. & S. Wrobel. Thomas Hunt Morgan. Oct.

Urizen Bks.
Cliff, T. Lenin. Vols. 1 & 2. Sept.

Viking
Canzoneri, R. A Highly Ramified Tree. Dec.
Donaldson, S. By Force of Will. Mar.
Field, A. Nabokov. Jan.
Greenaway, K. The Kate Greenaway Book. Oct.
Irving, D. Hitler's War. Mar.
Mehta, V. Mahatma Gandhi and His Apostles. Jan.
Sutton, W. with E. Linn. Where the Money Was. Aug.

Walker
Barnard, J. L. Gently Down the Stream. Jan.
Clarkin, W. George Wythe. Jan.
Harms, V. Stars in My Sky. Aug.
Powers, E. The Journal of Madame Royale. Sept.

BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

Arco
Lever, W. E. How To Obtain Money for College. Jul.
Turner, D. R. Associate and Administrative Accountant. Sept.
Turner, D. R. Management Analyst, Assistant-Associate. Jul.
Your Federal Income Tax Annual—1977. Nov.

Atheneum
Freidman, J. J. A New Air Transport Policy for the North Atlantic. Aug.

Latest Titles

FACTS ON FILE BOOKS

Political Profiles Series

Biographies of more than 2,500 of the most politically influential men and women of the postwar era available now in a systematic, convenient and permanent reference work. Each profile of 400 to 2,000 words is a rounded portrait focusing on the public career of its subject, set against the major themes and events of a presidential administration. First two volumes to be published:

The Kennedy Years, 700-800 pages, 500 profiles, 7 x 10, indexed, chronology, appendices. Reinforced library binding. Available in November.
ISBN 0-87196-450-3/Single volume: $45.

The Johnson Years, 750-850 pages, 580 profiles, 7 x 10, indexed, chronology, appendices. Reinforced library binding. Available in November.
ISBN 0-87196-451-1/Single volume: $45.
Set price for both books: $79.90.

Job Bias

Employment discrimination based on race, sex, age, religion, and ethnic background. Major legislation, court decisions, union behavior, government practices, case studies. 6 x 9. Indexed. Available in November. Approx. 230 pages.
ISBN 0-87196-244-6/$9.95.

Welfare & the Poor

The situation of the poor and efforts to help them. Federal and state activities in the field of welfare, food stamps, Medicaid, legal aid, welfare rights organizations, economic strains on the system. 6 x 9. Indexed. Available in December. Approx. 200 pages.
ISBN 0-87196-293-4/$8.95.

Corruption in Business

Dishonesty in business: corrupt industrial and commercial practices, major international bribery scandals, antitrust law conspiracies and illegal political contributions. 6 x 9. Indexed Available in January. Approx. 200 pages.
ISBN 0-87196-292-6/$8.95.

The CIA & the Security Debate/1975-76/Volume Two

Volume Two begins in November 1975. Included: release of Senate Report on CIA, Daniel Schorr affair, Attorney General Levi's attempts to investigate FBI, covert CIA missions in Italy and Angola, Ford's firing of Colby and reorganization of CIA. Hundreds of editorials from more than 100 leading newspapers. 8½ x 11. Indexed. Available in January. Approx. 250 pages.
ISBN 0-87196-364-7/$12.50.

FACTS ON FILE
119 West 57th Street
New York, N.Y. 10019

NEW TITLES FROM IMPACT . . .

The Stop Smoking Book

by Margaret McKean
Written from an intensely personal viewpoint for smokers and for all who care about smokers. Offers 25 ways to stop smoking, but never says "Quit!" Sound methods for behavior change in a non-clinical presentation that amuses and delights as it helps the smoker to make crucial choices.
Summer 1976, $2.95, paper

LEADERSHIP IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

by John D. Lawson, Ed.D., Leslie J. Griffin, and Franklyn D. Donant
Sure to become the basic guide for college activities programs, voluntary community groups, youth and church organizations. Useful, readable, practical and entertaining. Illustrated by Bob Clampett studios.
Summer 1976, $4.95, paper, $8.95, cloth

WALKING: The Perfect Exercise

by Len Unger
A brief but potent invitation to the romance of walking. Speaks to your heart, your weight, your stress, your well-being! Read it for your health; share it with someone you care about.
Summer 1976, $1.95, paper

ASSERTIVE BLACK/PUZZLED WHITE

by Donald K. Cheek, Ph.D
First examination of assertive behavior from a black perspective. Explores in depth the reasons why "assertion" can mean something very different in the black community. Openly discusses the meaning of being black in America. Offers a specific, positive program for black self-assertion.
Fall 1976, $4.95, paper, $8.95, cloth

Publishers of YOUR PERFECT RIGHT and THE ASSERTIVE WOMAN

IMPACT PUBLISHERS, INC.
Box 1094, San Luis Obispo, CA 93406

When buying for the outdoor/survival market, remember Survival Guns, the classic, comprehensive work on the subject of practical arms and their uses, appealing to:

- Sportsmen and Outdoorsmen
- Self-sufficient Living Advocates
- Residents of Crime-ridden Urban Areas
- Farm and Rural Residents
- Wilderness Camping Buffs
- Students of Firearms

"one of the most important books on practical weaponscraft to appear in a decade." – Soldier of Fortune

". . . this one unquestionably gives the reader more reliable information for less money than any others I have seen . . . Tappan has produced a book that is as close to being a good one volume reference as I have seen." –
Co-Evolution Quarterly

458 pages • over 200 illustrations
$7.95 quality paperback
ISBN 0-916172-00-7

Order From:
The Janus Press, Incorporated
Trade Dept.
P.O. Box 75455 • Los Angeles, CA 90075
ORDERS FILLED DAY OF RECEIPT

Aesthetic Realism Publications from DEFINITION PRESS

141 Greene Street
New York, N.Y. 10012
ISBN Prefix 0-910492

Siegel, Eli
THE AESTHETIC METHOD IN SELF-CONFLICT, accompanied by PSYCHIATRY, ECONOMICS, AESTHETICS. Second Edition. 1965. 1976.
ISBN 0-910492-29-8 .....paper $ 2.50

Siegel, Eli
CHILDREN'S GUIDE TO PARENTS AND OTHER MATTERS: Little Essays for Children and Others. 1971
ISBN 0-910492-16-6 .....Hardcover $ 4.00

Siegel, Eli
DAMNED WELCOME: AESTHETIC REALISM MAXIMS. Second Editon. Drawings by Chaim Koppelman. 1972. ISBN 0-910492-17-4 (cloth) 0-910492-18-2 (paper) .....Cloth $5.95; Paper $ 2.95

Siegel, Eli
THE FRANCES SANDERS LESSON AND TWO RELATED WORKS. 1974
ISBN 910492-19-0 .....Paper $ 1.50

Siegel, Eli
GOODBYE PROFIT SYSTEM. Lectures, May 22 to July 10, 1970. Edited by Martha Baird. 1970.
ISBN 0-910492-13-1 .....Paper $ 1.75

Siegel, Eli
HAIL, AMERICAN DEVELOPMENT. Poems. 1968. ISBN 0-910495-10-7 (cloth),
0-910492-23-9 (paper) ..Cloth $ 4.95; Paper $ 2.45

Siegel, Eli
HOT AFTERNOONS HAVE BEEN IN MONTANA: POEMS; With a Letter by William Carlos Williams. 3rd printing, 1975. ISBN 0-910492-05-0 (cloth), 0-910492-20-4 (paper).....Cloth $ 5.00; paper $ 2.50

Siegel, Eli
JAMES AND THE CHILDREN: A CONSIDERATION OF HENRY JAMES'S "THE TURN OF THE SCREW." Edited by Martha Baird. 2nd printing, 1969. ISBN 0-910492-08-5 (cloth),
0-910492-22-0 (paper)...Cloth $ 4.95; Paper $ 2.45

Siegel, Eli
THE MODERN QUARTERLY BEGINNINGS OF AESTHETIC REALISM, 1922-1923. "The Scientific Criticism" and three other essays. 1969.
ISBN 0-910492-09-3 .....Paper $ 1.50

Baird, Martha and Ellen Reiss (editors)
THE WILLIAMS-SIEGEL DOCUMENTARY, Including "Williams' Poetry Talked About by Eli Siegel, and William Carlos Williams Present and Talking: 1952." 1970. ISBN 0-9-10492-12-3 (cloth),
0-910492-25-5 (paper) ..Cloth $ 5.95; Paper $ 2.95

Baird, Martha
NICE DEITY; With a Preface, "The New Simplicity; or, Towards Poetry Again," by Eli Siegel. 1955.
ISBN 0-910492-04-2.....Cloth $ 2.75

Baird, Martha
TWO AESTHETIC REALISM PAPERS: 1. OPPOSITES IN THE DRAMA; 2. OPPOSITES IN MYSELF. 1971.
ISBN 0-910492-15-8 .....Paper $ 1.45

Kranz, Sheldon (editor)
THE H PERSUASION: How Persons Have Permanently Changed from Homosexuality through the Study of Aesthetic Realism with Eli Siegel. By Sheldon Kranz, Ted van Griethuysen, Roy Harris, and Tom Shields; with an essay by Eli Siegel. 1971. ISBN 0-910492-14-X (hardcover); 0-910492-26-3 (paper). .....Hardcover $ 4.95; Paper $ 1.95

Kranz, Sheldon, et al.
PERSONAL & IMPERSONAL: SIX AESTHETIC REALISTS. Poems by Sheldon Kranz, Louis Dienes, Nancy Starrels, Nat Herz, Martha Baird, Rebecca Fein; with a Critical Introduction by Eli Siegel. Published with Terrain Gallery. 1959. ISBN 0-910492-06-9 (cloth),
0-910492-21-2 (paper) ..Cloth $ 3.00; Paper $ 1.45

van Griethuysen, Ted, et al.
AESTHETIC REALISM: WE HAVE BEEN THERE—SIX ARTISTS ON THE SIEGEL THEORY OF OPPOSITES. By Ted van Griethuysen, Dorothy Koppelman, David Bernstein, Chaim Koppelman, Lou Bernstein, Anne Fielding. Essays on art, acting, photography. 2nd printing. 1970. illus. ISBN 0-910492-11-5 (cloth),
0-910492-24-7 (paper) ....Cloth $4.95; Paper $ 1.95

Crown
Lyons, N. The Sony Vision. Sept.
McCann, T. P. An American Company. Oct.

Delacorte
Heller, R. The Naked Investor. Jan.

Dutton
Tinbergen, J., ed. Rio. Oct.

Facts on File
Sobel, L. A. Corruption in Business. Jan.

Farrar
Mamis, J. & R. Mamis. When to Sell. Dec.

Free Pr.
Wallis, W. A. An Overgoverned Society. Aug.

Greenwood
Beenhakker, H. L. Handbook for the Analysis of Capital Investments. Oct.
Davis, B. J., ed. Information Sources in Transportation, Material Management, and Physical Distribution. Sept.
Obudho, R. A. & P. P. Waller. Periodic Markets, Urbanization, and Regional Planning. Nov.

Harvard Univ. Pr.
Bauer, P. T. Dissent on Development. Oct.
Porter, M. E. Interbrand Choice, Strategy, and Bilateral Market Power. Sept.
Yoshino, M. Y. Japan's Multinational Enterprises. Jan.

Hastings
Berry, T. E. Journalism in America. Sept.
Devol, K. S. Mass Media and the Supreme Court. rev. 2d ed. Sept.
Merrill, J. C. Existential Journalism. Jan.
Ulanoff, S. M. Advertising in America. Jan.

Liberty Pr.
Economic Calculation Under Inflation. Sept.
Hutt, W. H. The Theory of Idle Resources. Dec.
Smith, A. The Wisdom of Adam Smith. Dec.

Longman
Brech, E. F. L. The Principles and Practice of Management. 3d ed. Mar.
Marei, S. A. The World Food Crisis. Aug.
Todaro, M. P. Economic Development in the Third World. Apr.
Wood, D. & R. Fildes. Forecasting for Business. Oct.

Morrow
Roberts, P. Any Color So Long as It's Black. Nov.

Norton
Heller, W. W. The Economy. Sept.
Nader, R. & others. Taming the Giant Corporation. Sept.

Penguin
Ansoff, I. H., ed. Business Strategy. Jan.
Barber, W. J. A History of Economic Thought. Feb.
Handy, C. B. Understanding Organizations. Sept.
Howard, M. C. & J. E. King, eds. The Economics of Marx. Sept.
Kneese, A. V. Economics and the Environment. Dec.
Moore, P. G. & H. Thomas. The Anatomy of Decisions. Dec.

Random
Matthews, K. On Your Own. Jan.
Wuliger, B. Dollars and ene. Oct.

Scribners
Bliss, E. C. Getting Things Done. Sept.
Holz, L. How To Sell Your Art and Crafts. Feb.
Malickson, D. L. & J. W. Nason. Advertising—How to Write the Kind that Works. Jan.

S. & S.
Doyle, M. & D. Straus. How To Make Meetings Work. Oct.
Gaylord, S. Sensible Speculating with Put and Call Options. Nov.
J. K. Lasser's Successful Tax Planning for Real Estate. Sept.
Maccoby, M. The Gamesman. Jan.
Silk, L. & D. Vogel. Ethics and Profits. Sept.

Stanford Univ. Pr.
Adelman, I. & S. Robinson. Income Distribution Policy in Developing Countries. Dec.

Stein & Day
Freivalds, J. Grain Trade. Oct.

Universe Bks.
Aliber, R. The Political Economy of Monetary Reform. Dec.

Univ. of Illinois Pr.
Center for Advanced Computation. Energy Flow Through the United States Economy. Oct.

Urizen Bks.
de Brunhoff, S. Marx on Money. Sept.
Linder, M. Anti-Samuelson. Vol. 1: Microeconomics. Vol. 2: Macroeconomics. Sept.

Walker
Woodward, H. N. Capitalism Can Survive in a No-Growth Economy. Oct.

Yale Univ. Pr.
Elzinga, K. G. & W. Breit. The Antitrust Penalties. Oct.
Montias, J. M. The Structure of Economic Systems. Oct.

FICTION

Ashley Bks.
Pohnka, B. & B. C. Griffin. The Nuclear Catastrophe. Dec.
Richey, H. Near Fatal Attraction. Dec.

Atheneum
Crews, H. A Feast of Snakes. Jul.
Engel, M. Bear. Aug.
Furst, A. Your Day in the Barrel. Jul.
Glazebrook, P. The Eye of the Beholder. Aug.
Hill, D. C. & A. F. Hill. The Deadly Messiah. Sept.
Holland, I. Grenelle. Oct.
Jenkins, D. & E. Shrake. Limo. Sept.
Mundis, J. Gerhardt's Children. Jul.
Wright, R. B. Farthings's Fortunes. Oct.

Beta Bks.
Segraves, K. L. The Only Game in Town. Sept.
Segraves, K. L. When You're Dead, You're Dead. Oct.

Bobbs
Campbell, R. The Doll Who Ate His Mother. Oct.
Cohen, M. Others, Including Morstive Steinbump. Dec.
Foxx, J. Freebooty. Sept.
Grade, C. The Yeshiva. Dec.
Harrison, H. & B. Aldiss, eds. Best SF: 1975. Sept.
Kassak, F. Come Kill with Me. Dec.
Lake, P., M.D. Leffert's Disease. Nov.
Raphael, F. April, June and November. Oct.
Silverberg, R. Shadrach in the Furnace. Sept.

Braziller
Gary, R. Your Ticket Is No Longer Valid. Feb.
Sarraute, N. "fools say." Jan.

Crown
Daley, R. To Kill a Cop. Sept.
Ducker, B. Rule by Proxy. Oct.
Harris, L. The Masada Plan. Oct.

Delacorte
Goldman, W. Magic. Sept.
Haber, J. The Users. Oct.
Jeal, T. Until the Colors Fade. Oct.
Rostand, R. A Killing in Rome. Jan.
Tippette, G. The Mercenaries. Sept.

Dial
Baldwin, J. Little Man, Little Man. Oct.
Bourjaily, V. Now Playing at Canterbury. Sept.
Howard, C. The Hunters. Dec.
McLachlan, I. The Seventh Hexagram. Sept.
Stuart, C. Walks Far Woman. Oct.
Winters, N. The Girl on the Coca-Cola Tray. Oct.

Dodd
Brand, M. Shotgun Law. Oct.
Christie, A. Sleeping Murder. Sept.
Collins, M. The Blood-Red Dream. Aug.
Foley, R. Put Out the Light. Nov.
Harper, D. The Hanged Men. Nov.
Johnston, V. Deveron Hall. Sept.
Lovesey, P. Swing, Swing Together. Aug.
McCloy, H. The Changeling Conspiracy. Oct.
Michaels, B. Patriot's Dream. Oct.
Pentecost, H. Die After Dark. Oct.
Perry, W. Murder at the U.N. Oct.
Philips, J. Backlash. Aug.
Seifert, E. Two Doctors and a Girl. Nov.
Wittenborn, D. Eclipse. Jan.

Dutton
Blish, J., adapted. The Star Trek Reader. Oct.
Brenner, M. Tell Me Everything. Nov.
Callison, B. A Ship Is Dying. Oct.
Chapman, L. Legal Relations. Jan.
Conway, L. A Link in the Chain. Aug.
Cravens, G. & J. S. Marr. The Black Death. Jan.
Davis, J. G. Leviathan. Oct.
Delaney, J. & others. The Curse. Aug.
Downing, W. The Gambler, the Minstrel, and the Dance Hall Queen. Aug.
Fox, P. The Widow's Children. Sept.
Gaines, D. Nantucket Woman. Aug.
Gerson, N. B. Special Agent. Oct.
Gredock, F. Shadows Over Castle Rising. Feb.
Jenks, K. The River and the Stone. Jan.
Kaplan, H. The Damascus Cover. Jan.
Kelly, J. The Wooden Wolf. Nov.
L'Amour, L. To the Far Blue Mountains. Oct.
Mills, J. The Seventh Power. Oct.
Neilan, S. The Braganza Pursuit. Aug.
Raymond, E. For Them That Trespass. Aug.
Shepard, M. A Question of Values. Oct.
Woodhouse, M. & R. Ross. The Medici Emerald. Nov.

Ecco Pr.
Calvino, I. The Path to the Nest of Spiders. Sept.
Chandler, R. The Notebooks of Raymond Chandler and English Summer. Nov.

Eerdmans
Williams, C. The Greater Trumps. Sept.

Farrar
Barthelme, D. Amateurs. Dec.
Fuentes, C. Terra Nostra. Oct.
Harris, M. The Balloonist. Sept.
Hesse, H. Tales of Student Life. Sept.
Hoffman, A. Property of. . . . Jan.
Jarrell, R. Fly By Night. Sept.
McPhee, J. The John McPhee Reader. Dec.
Moore, B. The Doctor's Wife. Oct.
Roiphe, A. Torch Song. Jan.
Segal, L. Lucinella. Sept.
Steinbeck, J. The Acts of King Arthur and His Noble Knights. Oct.
Voinovich, V. The Life and Extraordinary Adventures of Private Ivan Chonkin. Dec.

Grove
Beckett, S. Fizzles. Oct.

Hill & Wang: Farrar
Lenz, S. An Exemplary Life. Oct.

Knopf
Bayley, N. The Tyger Voyage. Sept.
Bradbury, R. Long After Midnight. Sept.
Cross, A. The Question of Max. Aug.
Davidson, L. The Sun Chemist. Sept.
Gardner, J. October Light. Dec.
Kotker, Z. A. Certain Man. Nov.
Kotlowitz, R. The Boardwalk. Jan.
Kundera, M. The Farewell Party. Sept.
Macdonald, M. The Rich Are with You Always. Oct.
McElroy, J. Plus. Jan.
Shikibu, M. The Tale of Genji. Sept.
Spencer, S. Preservation Hall. Sept.
Updike, J. Marry Me. Nov.

Seymour Lawrence
Fairbairn, D. Street 8. Feb.
Holt, K. The Race. Sept.
Vonnegut, K. Slapstick or Lonesome No More. Oct.
Yates, R. The Easter Parade. Sept.

Morrow
Cookson, C. Love and Mary Ann. Oct.
Davenat, C. Deborah and the Siege of Paris. Dec.
Davis, R. P. The Pilot. Aug.
Dunmore, S. Ashley Landing. Dec.
Esler, A. Lord Libertine. Jul.
Greene, G. Blue Skies, No Candy. Oct.
Hill, W. The Iceman. Sept.
Kemelman, H. Wednesday the Rabbi Got Wet. Sept.
McCullough, A. Rough Cut. Aug.
Middlebrook, M. Convoy. Dec.
Peters, E. Never Pick up Hitchhikers! Aug.
Scott, P. The Raj Quartet. Dec.
Shannon, D. Streets of Death. Dec.
Sheldon, S. The Naked Face. Dec.
Stewart, M. Touch Not the Cat. Aug.
Susann, J. Dolores. Jul.
Tattersall, J. The Shadows of Castle Fosse. Sept.
Weiss, D. The Venetian. Dec.
West, M. The Navigator. Sept.
Wibberley, L. The Mittenwald Syndicate. Jul.

Norton
Jackson, B. Flameout. Sept.
Lish, G., ed. All Our Secrets Are the Same. Nov.
Stewart, J. I. M. A Memorial Service. Sept.

Overlook Pr.
Larkin, P. A Girl in Winter. Oct.

Pantheon
Orum, P. Nothing but the Truth. Sept.

fortress press fall/winter 1976-77

Critical Studies in Religion

RELIGION AND THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION
JERALD C BRAUER, editor September $2 95 paper

A MARXIST LOOKS AT JESUS
MILAN MACHOVEĆ with an Introduction by Peter Hebblethwaite September $6 50 paper

N.F.S. GRUNDTVIG: Selected Writings
JOHANNES KNUDSEN, general editor and translator September $5 95 paper

LUTHERANISM: The Theological Movement and Its Confessional Writings
ERIC W GRITSCH and ROBERT W JENSON October $7 50 paper

INTRODUCTION TO THEOLOGY: An Invitation to Reflection upon the Christian Mythos
THEODORE W JENNINGS, Jr October $5 95 paper

FEST: The Transformation of Everyday
GERHARD MARCEL MARTIN and translated with an Introduction by M Douglas Meeks October $2 95 paper

THE POETRY OF CIVIC VIRTUE: Eliot, Malraux, Auden
NATHAN A SCOTT, Jr October $8 50 cloth

KARL BARTH: His life from letters and autobiographical texts
EBERHARD BUSCH and translated by John Bowden November $19 95 cloth, illustrated

THE JEWISH PEOPLE IN THE FIRST CENTURY, Vol. One, Part Two
Edited by S SAFRAI and M STERN in co-operation with D FLUSSER and W C VAN UNNIK November $32 50 cloth

BIBLICAL STRUCTURALISM: Method and Subjectivity in the Study of Ancient Texts
ROBERT M POLZIN (Semeia Supplements) November $5 95 paper

PHENOMENOLOGY AND STRUCTURALISM AS LITERARY-CRITICAL METHOD
ROBERT DETWEILER (Semeia Supplements) November $3 95 paper

LOOK FOR THE LIVING: The Corporate Nature of Resurrection Faith
PETER SELBY November $5 95 paper

FALLIBLE FORMS AND SYMBOLS: Discourses on Method in a Theology of Culture
BERNARD E MELAND November $12 95 cloth

THE LAND
WALTER BRUEGGEMANN (Overtures to Biblical Theology) January 1977 $5 50 paper

PSYCHOHISTORY AND RELIGION: The Case of Young Man Luther ROGER A JOHNSON, editor January 1977 $12 95 cloth

PAUL FOR A NEW DAY
ROBIN SCROGGS January 1977 $2 95 paper

AMERICAN RELIGIOUS VALUES AND THE FUTURE OF AMERICA
RODGER VAN ALLEN, editor January 1977 $9 95 cloth

TRADITION AND THEOLOGY IN THE OLD TESTAMENT
DOUGLAS A KNIGHT, editor February 1977 $16 95t cloth

JOEL AND AMOS
HANS WALTER WOLFF (Hermeneia) Winter 1976-1977 price to be announced cloth

FORTRESS PRESS
2900 Queen Lane
Philadelphia, Pa. 19129

Canadian Representative:
G. R. WELCH CO. LTD.
310 Judson Street
Toronto, Ontario M8Z 1J9

Write for Complete Descriptive Catalog

NEW TITLES FROM THE NORTHWEST REGIONAL EDUCATIONAL LABORATORY

TESTS OF FUNCTIONAL ADULT LITERACY: an Evaluation of Currently Available Instruments
ISBN 0-89354-825-1 110 pp. Paper $4.95

ORAL LANGUAGE TESTS FOR BILINGUAL STUDENTS: an Evaluation of Language Dominance and Proficiency Instruments
ISBN 0-89354-003-X 144 pp. Paper $4.75

ELEMENTS OF COMPUTER CAREERS
ISBN 0-13-263483-X 344 pp. Cloth $7.98

EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION: Promising Practices in Rural Areas
ISBN 0-89354-100-1 112 pp. Paper $3.50

SEND FOR FREE CATALOG OF ALL TITLES

Dept. M - Office of Marketing
Northwest Regional Educational Laboratory
710 S.W. Second Avenue
Portland, Oregon 97204
503/248-6950

KRAUSE PUBLICATIONS, INC.

700 E. State St. Iola, WI 54945

Allenbaugh, Carl COINS QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. 1976, 128 pp.
ISBN 0-87341-008-4..paper $ 1.50

Krause, Chester L. GUIDEBOOK OF FRANKLIN MINT ISSUES. 1976, 224 pp.
ISBN 0-87341-009-2..paper $ 6.50

Krause, Chester L. and Clifford Mishler STANDARD CATALOG OF WORLD COINS. 1976, 1376 pp.
ISBN 0-87341-006-8..paper $19.50

Pick, Albert STANDARD CATALOG OF WORLD PAPER MONEY. 1975, 720 pp.
ISBN 0-87341-002-5..paper $15.00

Wilhite, Robert and Clifford Mishler STANDARD GUIDE TO U.S. COIN AND PAPER MONEY VALUATIONS
ISBN 0-87341-010-6..paper $ 1.50

NEIL A. KJOS MUSIC CO., DISTRIBUTOR

Exclusive Representative for GWM, Inc., Pallma Music Corp., Kjos West
4382 Jutland Dr. San Diego, CA 92117
Books on Music

BASTIEN, JAMES W
How to Teach Piano Successfully, 1973, 512 pp., illus
ISBN 9108-42-03-5 ..... cloth $ 11.95

BASTIEN, JAMES W.
A Parent's Guide to Piano Lessons, 1976, 76 pp., illus.
ISBN 0-910842-05-1 ..... paper $ 2.50

BASTIEN, JAMES W. and BASTIEN, JANE SMISOR
Beginning Piano for Adults, 1968, 224 pp., illus.
ISBN 910842-02-7 ..... plastic spiral $ 7.45

DOUBLAS, CHARLES H.; McKENZIE, WESLEY M. (editor) Basic Music Theory, 1970, 64 pp., Programmed text.
ISBN 910842-01-9 ..... paper $ 2.25

ELLSWORTH, A. EUGENE
Aural Harmony, 1970, 312 pp.
ISBN 910842-00-0 ..... spiral $ 7.95
Accompanying tapes—34 ..... full set $134.50

HILES, BETTY GOODMAN
Miss Betty's Happy Songs for Little People, 1973, 52 pp., Recording included, illus. ..... paper $ 9.95

PETERS, CHARLES S. and YODER, PAUL paper $ 1.50each
Master Theory, Book 1, Beginning Theory, 1963, 32 pp. Text/workbook
Master Theory, Book 2, Intermediate Theory, 1964, 32 pp. Text/workbook
Master Theory, Book 3, Advanced Theory, 1965, 32 pp. Text/workbook
Master Theory, Book 4, Elementary Harmony, 1966, 32 pp. Text/workbook
Master Theory, Book 5, Intermediate Harmony, 1967, 32 pp. Text/workbook
Master Theory, Book 6, Advanced Harmony & Arranging, 1968, 32 pp. Text/workbook

REZITS, JOSEPH and DEATSMAN, GERALD
The Pianist's Resource Guide: Piano Music in Print and Literature on the Pianistic Art, 1974, 994 pp.
ISBN 910842-04-3. 1 volume in 5 sections. ..... paper $ 32.75

THOMPSON, ELLEN
Teaching and Understanding Contemporary Piano Music, 1976, 224 pp.
ISBN 0-910842-06-X ..... paper $ 9.95

Penguin
[illegible]
Ballard, J. G. The Wind from Nowhere. Dec.
Bardin, J. F. The John Franklin Bar[illegible]
Bates, H. E. Fair Stood the Wind for France. Nov.
Bates, H. E. The Jacaranda Tree. Jan.
Burroughs, W. S. Junkie. Jan.
Constantine, D., ed. German Short Stories. Vol. 2. Oct.
Davidson, L. Making Good Again. Feb.
Davidson, L. The Night of Wenceslas. Feb.
Davidson, L. The Rose of Tibet. Feb.
Ellin, S. Stronghold. Jan.
Ferrars, E. The Small World of Murder. Aug.
Freeling, N. Dressing of Diamond. Nov.
Fuller, R. The Second Curtain. Oct.
Gesses, P. The Ottawa Allegation. Nov.
Gibbons, S. Cold Comfort Farm. Jan.
Gilbert, M. Flash Point. Aug.
Greene, G. The Comedians. Sept.
Greene, G. The Power and the Glory. Feb.
Hill, S. I'm the King of the Castle. Feb.
Hornung, E. W. Raffles. Aug.
Innes, M. From London Far. Sept.
Innes, M. Money from Holme. Sept.
Innes, M. What Happened at Hazelwood. Sept.
Jacobson, D. The Wonder-Worker. Feb.
Moore, B. I Am Mary Dunne. Nov.
Murdoch, I. Bruno's Dream. Sept.
Murdoch, I. A Severed Head. Oct.
Murdoch, I. A Word Child. Oct.
Naipaul, V. S. A House for Mr. Biswas. Aug.
Naipaul, V. S. The Mimic Men. Aug.
Naipaul, V. S. The Suffrage of Elvira. Aug.
Sims, G. Hunters Point. Feb.
Steinbeck, J. Cup of Gold. Sept.
Steinbeck, J. The Grapes of Wrath. Sept.
Steinbeck, J. The Pearl and The Red Pony. Sept.
Steinbeck, J. To a God Unknown. Sept.
Stevenson, J. Cool Jack and the Beanstalk. Aug.
Waddell, H. Peter Abelard. Oct.
Wodehouse, P. G. The Best of P. G. Wodehouse. Sept.
Wodehouse, P. G. Uncle Fred in the Springtime. Sept.

Random
Adler, R. Speedboat. Oct.
Bryant, D. The Kin of Ata Are Waiting for You. Oct.
Bryant, W. Blue Russell. Oct.
Cass, Z. The Silver Leopard. Sept.
Eberhart, M. G. Family Fortune. Dec.
Foote, S. Shiloh. Sept.
Greenan, R. H. The Bric-a-Brac Man. Nov.
Keppel, C. My Name Is Clary Brown. Aug.
McBain, E. Guns. Sept.
Malone, M. The Delectable Mountains. Jan.
Mewshaw, M. Earthly Bread. Aug.
Millar, M. Ask Me for Tomorrow. Oct.
Pohl, F. Man Plus. Aug.
Reed, I. Flight to Canada. Sept.
Russell, A. J. Pour the Hemlock. Jan.
Seymour, G. The Glory Boys. Oct.
Stewart, S. The King James Version. Jan.
Sumner, R. Mistress of the Boards. Nov.
Weldon, F. Remember Me. Oct.
Weston, C. Rouse the Demon. Aug.

Scribners
Barroll, C. Season of the Heart. Dec.
Brett, S. Cast, in Order of Disappearance. Sept.
Crawford, L. In a Class By Herself. Sept.
Creasey, J. Send Superintendent West. Sept.
Delving, M. The China Expert. Dec.
Fisher, D. E. The Last Flying Tiger. Oct.
Fitzgerald, F. S. Taps at Reveille. Sept.
Gunn, J. The Magicians. Oct.
Hill, P. The Hunters. Nov.
James, H. The Henry James Reader. Sept.
Jones, D. C. The Court Martial of George Armstrong Custer. Oct.
Lardner, R. The Best Short Stories of Ring Lardner. Sept.
Moffat, G. Over the Sea to Death. Nov.
Philipson, M. The Wall Paper Fox. Oct.
Pyle, H. The Story of King Arthur and His Knights. Sept.
Snow, C. P. The Masters. Sept.
Warboys, A. Every Man a King. Feb.
Wharton, E. A Book of Ghost Stories. Sept.
Wolfe, T. Of Time and The River. Sept.

S. & S.
Atwood, M. Lady Oracle. Sept.
Bengis, I. I Have Come Here To Be Alone. Jan.
Brautigan, R. Sombrero Fallout. Sept.
Delderfield, R. F. Charlie, Come Home. Aug.
Erdman, P. E. The Crash of '79. Oct.
Fallaci, O. Letter to a Child Never Born. Jan.
Fleetwood, H. The Order of Death. Nov.
Gould, L. A Sea-Change. Sept.
Gray, F. du P. Lovers and Tyrants. Oct.
Henissart, P. The Winter Spy. Jan.
Jaffe, R. The Last Chance. Aug.
Kane, H. The Tripoli Documents. Oct.
Melville, J. Dragon's Eye. Sept.
Murphy, N. C. Mutual Arrangements. Oct.
Ottum, B. The Tuesday Blade. Jan.
Scott, V. & D. Koski. Walk-In. Oct.
Siddons, A. R. Heartbreak Hotel. Sept.
Stafford, C. Moira. Nov.
Winston, D. Gallows Way. Jan.

Stein & Day
Anderson, J. R. L. Death in the Channel. Aug.
Creasey, J. The Man Who Was Not Himself. Jan.
Crosby, J. Nightfall. Aug.
Graves, R. L. C.L.A.W. Oct.
Heald, T. Let Sleeping Dogs Die. Dec.
[illegible]
Stubbs, J. The Golden Crucible. Nov.

Univ. of North Carolina Pr.
Green, P. "Land of Nod" and Other Stories. Sept.

Urizen Bks.
Ehrenburg, I. The Life of the Automobile. Oct.
Innerhofer, F. Beautiful Days. Oct.

Taplinger
Greenberg, M. H. & J. D. Olander, eds. Tomorrow, Inc. Oct.
Lamb, H., ed. The Taste of Fear. Oct.

Viking
Aller, F. G. Nina Huanca. Jan.
Amis, K. The Alteration. Jan.
Chaix, M. The Laurels of Lake Constance. Jan.
Crisp, N. J. The Gotland Deal. Sept.
Cussler, C. Raise the Titanic! Oct.
Deford, F. The Owner. Sept.
Demers, R. The Circuit. Aug.
Eastlake, W. The Long Naked Descent into Boston. Feb.
Forsyth, F. The Shepherd. Sept.
Harrison, J. Farmer. Aug.
Herrin, L. The Rio Loja Ringmaster. Jan.
Kennedy, A. Love Song. Oct.
Murdoch, I. Henry and Cato. Jan.
O'Brien, F. A Flann O'Brien Reader. Jan.
Rohmer, E. Six Moral Tales. Mar.
Silko, L. M. Ceremony. Mar.
Spark, M. The Takeover. Oct.
Taylor, E. Blaming. Nov.
Warner, S. T. Kingdoms of Elfin. Dec.
White, P. A Fringe of Leaves. Jan.

James Wade: Dial
Ashley, S. Stalking Blind. Nov.

Walker
Ashford, J. Slow Down the World. Nov.
Codd, M. & C. Codd. Chookie and the Ptarmigan. Nov.
Creasey, J. The Baron in France. Nov.
Creasey, J. The Toff Among the Millions. Aug.
Creasey, J. The Toff at Butlins. Dec.
Darcy, C. A Regency Trio. Oct.
Darcy, C. Regina. Sept.
Drummond, J. Slowly the Poison. Oct.
Glaser, D. Amber Wellington, Camp Shadow. Dec.
Haggard, W. Yesterday's Enemy. Dec.
Harvester, S. Siberian Road. Aug.
Jackson, E. Autumn Lace. Sept.
Jeffreys, J. G. A Conspiracy of Poisons. Jan.
Krauss, R. Little Boat Lighter Than a Cork. Aug.
Lemarchand, E. Step in the Dark. Jan.
Rutherford, D. Mystery Tour. Oct.
Yorke, M. Cast for Death. Sept.
Yuill, P. B. Hazell and the Three Card Trick. Sept.

HISTORY & GEOGRAPHY

Arco
Berry, B. Y. Out of the Past. Oct.
Brereton, J. M. The Horse in War. Jul.
Chamberlain, P. & T. Gander. Axis Pistols, Rifles and Grenades. Aug.
Chamberlain, P. & T. Gander. Submachine Guns and Automatic Rifles. Aug.
Chamberlain, P. & T. Gander. Allied Pistols, Rifles and Grenades. Aug.
Green, W. & G. Swanborough. The Focke Wulf FW190. Nov.
Lenton, H. T. German Warships of the Second World War. Nov.
Waggoner, L. T. You Can See the World in 40 Days. Oct.
Woloch, N. S. American History. Sept.

Atheneum
Ollard, R. This War Without an Enemy. Oct.

Barnes & Noble: Harper
Hopper, R. J. The Early Greeks. Oct.
Wachtel, N. The Vision of the Vanquished. Nov.
Wistrich, R. Revolutionary Jews from Marx to Trotsky. Oct.

Bobbs
Bacon, E., ed. The Great Archeologists. Sept.
Burgess, R. F. & C. J. Clausen. Gold, Galleons and Archeology. Dec.
Dupuy, T. N. Land of Darkness, Shadow of Death. Sept.
Lawford, J., ed. The Cavalry. Oct.
Peyrefitte, A. The Chinese. Dec.

Brigham Young Univ. Pr.
Czerny, P. The Great Great Salt Lake. Oct.
Warner, T. J., ed. The Dominguez-Escalante Journal. Sept.
Welsh, S. L. & C. A. Toft. Water Stone Sky. Sept.
Wilkinson, E. L., ed. Brigham Young University. Jun.

Cambridge Univ. Pr.
Auty, R. & D. Obolensky. Companion to Russian Studies. Vol. 1. Jul.
Flint, J. The Cambridge History of Africa. Vol. 5. Oct.
Oliver, R. The Cambridge History of Africa. Vol. 3. Oct.
Shaban, M. A. Islamic History. Jul.
Steinberg, J. Why Switzerland. Oct.
Shaw, S. History of the Ottoman Empire and Modern Turkey. Oct.
Weinberg, M. A Change to Learn. Jan.

Cornell Univ. Pr.
Beckett, J. C. The Anglo-Irish Tradition. Nov.
Greenberg, D. Crime and Law Enforcement in the Colony of New York, 1691-1776. Oct.
Millar, F. The Emperor in the Roman World. Nov.
Orr, L. Jules Michelet. Nov.
Parke, H. W. Festivals of the Athenians. Nov.
Weinstein, F. Indonesian Foreign Policy and the Dilemma of Dependence. Oct.

Crown
Fire Engines, Firefighters. Nov.
Horan, J. D. The Authentic Wild West. Sept.
McCutchan, P. Tall Ships. Sept.
Ruhen, O. & others. This Is Australia. Oct.
Sulzberger, C. L. Fall of Eagles. Jan.
Thorndike, J. J., Jr. The Very Rich. Oct.

Dial
Mitchell, D. Pirates. Sept.
Pick, R. The Last Days of Imperial Vienna. Sept.
Stone, M. When God Was a Woman. Oct.

Dodd
Caldwell, E. Afternoons in Mid-America. Oct.
Flood, C. B. Rise, and Fight Again. Oct.
Teale, E. W. The American Seasons. Sept

Dutton
Australian Union of Students. The Student Guide to Asia. Jan.
Council on Internat. Educational Exchange. The Student Guide to Latin America. Jan.
Farm, A. Automerica. Nov.
Harvard Student Agencies. Let's Go. Feb.
Jenkinson, M. & K. Kernberger. Land of Clear Light. Jan.
Phelan, R. Texas Wild. Oct.

Eerdmans
Ferm, R. Jonathan Edwards the Younger. Oct.
Sutton, R. P. The Prairie State. Oct.

Facts On File
Lichtenstein, N., ed. The Johnson Years. Nov.
Lichtenstein, N., ed. The Kennedy Years. Nov.

Fireside: S. & S.
Butterfield, R. The American Past. Oct.

Fortress
Safrai, S. & M. Stern, eds. The Jewish People in the First Century. Nov.

Free Pr.
Bailey, T. A. Voices of America. Sept.

Gordon Cremonesi
Caffrey, K. The 1900's Lady. Aug.
Calder-Marshall, A. The Grand Century of the Lady, 1720-1820. Oct.

NEWS

For the school and public library, too

Lacrosse: Technique and Tradition
Bob Scott
"This is a long overdue work on lacrosse done by the true master."—Jerry Schmidt, Lacrosse Coach, Hobart College, 1976 NCAA College Division Champions. Communicating the enthusiasm, skill, and understanding of a top coach, this is a book to be savored by the youngest player and the oldest fan. No one is better qualified than Bob Scott, who led Johns Hopkins teams to seven national championships, to write the definitive book on lacrosse – and in this profusely illustrated volume he has done so. The heart of the book, and its great value to coaches, players, and would-be players, is the authoritative and clear explanation of the techniques and tactics of the game now played by 168 colleges and a constantly increasing number of secondary schools.
LC 76-17223 0-8018-1873-7
$12.95 through 12/31/76;
$14.95 thereafter

Picture the Songs: Lithographs from the Sheet Music of 19th-Century America
Lester S. Levy
Neglected until the recent revival of interest in popular culture, the colorful and captivating lithographs and the songs and music they accompany awaken a feeling of nostalgia for America's yesterdays. Picture the Songs reproduces 100 sheet music covers (14 in full color) from the author's own collection, the most important private one in the country. Each is accompanied by a page of text which comments on the words and music and the events that prompted them, as well as on the lithograph itself.
LC 76-13518 0-8018-1814-1
$19.95 through 12/31/76;
$25.00 thereafter

Mary Shelley:
Collected Tales and Stories edited by Charles E. Robinson
This only complete edition of the short fiction of the author of Frankenstein is illustrated with the original 19th-century engravings. "Those interested in early 19th-century Gothic fiction and the development of the short story will find them a delight."—Library Journal
LC 75-36931 0-8018-1706-4 $15.00.

from Johns Hopkins

The Johns Hopkins University Press
Baltimore, Maryland 21218

New • Important • from Canada

Origins of Western Literacy
Eric Havelock traces the cultural and social significance of the Greek invention of an alphabet; his theories on its impact on modern man's intellectual achievement make this important reading. $3.50

The Metric System
Prepared by the Council of Ministers for Education, Canada, this is the authoritative resource book for an easy transition to the metric system—designed for both layman and specialist. $3.00

Ask for a complete list of titles when you order.

All orders of $10 and under must be prepaid with a 5% handling charge.

Order from: Publications Sales
The Ontario Institute for Studies in Education
252 Bloor Street West
Toronto, Ontario
Canada M5S 1V6

INSTITUTE FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF PHILOSOPHY FOR CHILDREN

Montclair State College
(201) 893-4278
Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043
ISBN Prefix 0-916834

Lipman, Matthew HARRY STOTTLEMEIER'S DISCOVERY. 1974. Ages 10-13) 96 pp
ISBN 0-916834-00-X Paper $ 5.00
Lipman, Matthew, LISA. 1976. (Ages 12-15)
ISBN 0-916834-03-4 . . . . . Paper $ 6.00
Lipman, Matthew and Sharp, Ann M. INSTRUCTIONAL MANUAL TO ACCOMPANY HARRY STOTTLEMEIER'S DISCOVERY 1975.
ISBN 0-916834-02-6 . . . . . Plastic Bound $15.00
Lipman, Matthew and Sharp, Ann M. INSTRUCTIONAL MANUAL TO ACCOMPANY LISA. 1976
ISBN 0-916834-05-0 . . . . . Plastic Bound $20.00
Lipman, Matthew, Sharp, Ann M., and Oscanyan, Frederick B. PHILOSOPHY IN THE CLASSROOM: A GUIDE FOR TEACHERS. 1976
ISBN 0-916834-04-2 . . . . . Paper $ 4.00

OHIO LIBRARY Foundation

40 South Third St., Columbis, Ohio, 43215

Sager, Donald J. REFERENCE; A PROGRAMMED INSTRUCTION 1st Rev. 1971. 147 pp. plastic .....$ 4.50
1820 Federal Population Census of Ohio Index (Reprint of 1963 edition) buck.
1 V. 831 pp. $35.00
1830 Federal Population Census of Ohio Index (Reprint of 1963 edition) buck.
2 V. 1389 pp $50.00
Wright, Donald E. LIBRARIES IN SOUTHWESTERN RURAL OHIO: AN OVERVIEW AND A FRAMEWORK FOR FUTURE DEVELOPMENT. 1970. 67 pp.
paper .....$ 2.50

INTER AMERICAN UNIVERSITY PRESS

P. O. Box 3255
San Juan, Puerto Rico 00936
ISBN PREFIX 0-913480

Bender, Lynn Darell
THE POLITICS OF HOSTILITY: CASTRO'S REVOLUTION AND U.S. POLICY, 1975, 168 pp., index.
ISBN 0-913480-27-4 .....paper $ 2.95
ISBN 0-913480-24-X.....cloth $ 7.95

Bray, Wayne D
THE COMMON LAW ZONE IN PANAMA, 1976, 200 pp
.....ISBN 0-913480-35-5
cloth $15.00

Descartes, Sol Luis
CREDIT INSTITUTIONS FOR LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN LATIN AMERICA-AN-OCCASIONAL PAPER, 1973, 81 pp.,
ISBN 0-913480-16-9 .....paper $ 1.50
PUERTO RICO: TRANSFONDO DE SU ECONOMIA, 1973, 50 pp.,
ISBN 0-913480-14-2 .....paper $ 1.95

Farr, Kenneth R.
PERSONALISM AND PARTY POLITICS, Institutionalization of the Popular Democratic Party in Puerto Rico, 1973, 164 pp
English Edition ISBN 0-913480-13-4 ....paper $ 5.00
English Edition ISBN 0-913480-12-6.....cloth $12.50
Spanish Edition ISBN 0-913480-26-6 ..paper $ 2.95
Spanish Edition ISBN 0-913480-25-8 ....cloth $ 7.95

Foster, David William
UNAMUNO AND THE NOVEL AS EXPRESSIONISTIC CONCEIT 1973, 52 pp.
ISBN 0-913480-15-0 .....paper $ 2.50

Goodwin, R. Christopher and Walker, Jeffrey B.
THE EXCAVATION OF AN EARLY TAINO SITE IN PUERTO RICO 1975,
ISBN 0-913480-33-9 .....paper $ 6.50
ISBN 0-913480-21-5 .....cloth $15.00

Irving, Brian, Ed.
GUYANA - A COMPOSITE MONOGRAPH, 1972, 87 pp.,
ISBN 0-913480-05-3 .....paper $ 5.00
ISBN 0-913480-04-5 .....cloth $10.00

Kepler, Kay
COMMON FERNS OF LUQUILLO FOREST, 1975, 112 pp., 52 plates
English Edition ISBN 0-913480-08-8 ....paper $ 5.00
English Edition ISBN 0-913480-06-1.....cloth $15.00
Spanish Edition ISBN 0-913480-09-6 ..paper $ 5.00
Spanish Edition ISBN 0-913480-07-X ....cloth $15.00

Montaner, Carlos Alberto
THE WITCHES' POKER GAME, 1973, 171 pp.,
ISBN 0-913480-18-5 .....paper $ 1.95
ISBN 0-913480-17-7 .....cloth $ 3.95

Nash, Rose, editor
READINGS IN SPANISH-ENGLISH CONTRASTIVE LINGUISTICS, 1973, 249 pp.,
ISBN 0-913480-20-7 .....paper $ 4.50
ISBN 0-913480-19-3 .....cloth $13.50

Perez Sala, Paulino
INTERFERENCIA LINGUISTICA DEL INGLES EN EL ESPAÑOL HABLADO EN PUERTO RICO, 1972, 132 pp.,
ISBN 0-913480-11-8 .....paper $ 3.95
ISBN 0-913480-10-X.....cloth $ 7.50

Senior, Clarence
SANTIAGO IGLESIAS- LABOR CRUSADER, 1972, 98 pp., illustrated, index,
English Edition ISBN 0-913480-02-9 ....paper $ 2.95
English Edition ISBN 0-913480-00-2.....cloth $ 5.00
Spanish Edition ISBN 0-913480-03-7 ..paper $ 2.95
Spanish Edition ISBN 0-913480-01-0 ....cloth $ 5.00

Hagen, V. von. The Royal Road of the Inca. Oct.
Lister, R. P. In Xanadu with Kublai Khan. Oct.

Greenwood
Belz, H. A New Birth of Freedom. Nov.
Blocker, J. S., Jr. Retreat from Reform. Sept.
Burbank, G. When Farmers Voted Red. Nov.
Danilek, R. E. A Loyal Opposition in Time of War. Aug.
Douglass, F. Frederick Douglass on Women's Rights. Aug.
Foner, P. S. Labor and the American Revolution. Oct.
Foner, P. S., ed. The Democratic-Republican Societies, 1790-1800. Dec.
Holt, W. Essays in Nineteenth-Century American Legal History. Dec.
Kehde, N., ed. The American Left, 1955-1970. Aug.
Leigh, M. Mobilizing Consent. Aug.
Reisler, M. By the Sweat of Their Brow. Aug.
Savage, W. S. Blacks in the West. Sept.
Skard, S. The United States in Norwegian History. Nov.
Swierenga, R. P. Acres for Cents. Aug.
Taylor, A. H. Travail and Triumph. Dec.
Walker, J. S. Henry A. Wallace and American Foreign Policy. Aug.

Harvard Univ. Pr.
Ben-Sasson, H. H. A History of the Jewish People. Oct.
Cady, J. F. The United States and Burma. Aug.
Conzen, K. N. Immigrant Milwaukee, 1836-1860. Aug.
Daniel, G. A Hundred and Fifty Years of Archaeology. Oct.
Galpern, A. N. The Religions of the People in Sixteenth Century Champagne. Sept.
Hyatt, I. T., Jr. Our Ordered Lives Confess. Nov.
Keith, R. G. Conquest and Agrarian Change. Sept.
Kilson, F. & others, eds. The African Diaspora. Sept.
Redwood, J. Reason, Ridicule and Religion. Oct.
Schapiro, L. The Origins of the Communist Autocracy. Nov.
West, P. Yenching University and Sino-Western Relations, 1916-1952. Sept.
Whitaker, A. P. The United States and the Southern Cone. Jan.

Hastings
Berchen, W. Bermuda Impressions. Aug.
Courteney, A. 1977 Let's Halt Awhile In Great Britain (including Ireland). Jan.
Farrington, S. K., Jr. Railroading Coast to Coast. Nov.
Folsom, M. Great American Mansions. Sept.
Hannau, H. The Bahamas in Full Color. Sept.
McBride, S. Boston in Color. Sept.
Rouse, P., Jr. Virginia. Sept.
Writers Project of Montana. Copper Camp. Aug.

Hill & Wang: Farrar
Brown, R. D. Modernization. Oct.
Stewart, J. B. Holy Warriors. Oct.

Knopf
Bendiner, E. The Virgin Diplomats. Oct.
Lewis, B. Islam and the Arab World. Sept.
Mossiker, F. Pocahontas. Nov.
Nevils, A. & H. S. Commager. A Short History of the United States. 6th ed. Nov.
Painter, N. I. Exodusters. Jan.
Sachar, H. M. A History of Israel. Oct.
Warner, M. Alone of All Her Sex. Sept.

Longman
Chandler, T. & S. Gregory. The Climate of the British Isles. Dec.
Clark, P. The Early Modern Town. Jan.
Craton, M. & others. Slavery, Abolition and Emancipation. Feb.
Curtis, L. F. & others. Soils in the British Isles. Dec.
Fox, A. Prehistoric Maori Fortifications in the North Island of New Zealand. Jul.
Fyfe, C. African Studies Since 1945. Dec.
Gash, N. Peel. Apr.
Hatem, M. Land of the Arabs. Dec.
Hill, A. & D. Hill. The Sultanate of Oman, a Heritage. Feb.
Hoskins, W. G. The Age of Plunder. Dec.
Hutcheson, A. M. & A. Hogg. Scotland and Oil. 2d ed. Jan.
Jin-Bee, O. Peninsular Malaysia. 2d ed. Aug.
Mingay, G. E. The Gentry. Dec.
Phillipson, D. W. Mosi-Oa-Tunya. Jun.
Uden, G. Longman Illustrated Companion to World History. Jun.

M.I.T. Pr.
Hoffman, P. The History of the German Resistance, 1933-1945. Nov.
Jackson, A. A Place Called Home. Sept.

Morrow
Cadiou, Y. & A. Richard. Modern Firearms. Oct.
Casey, W. J. Where and How the War Was Fought. Jul.
Fielding, N. & T. Fielding. Fielding's Selective Shopping Guide to Europe 1977. Dec.
Fielding, N. & T. Fielding. Fielding's Travel Guide to Europe, 1977. Dec.
Fielding's World Currency and Metric Converter. Aug.
Harman, J. & H. E. Harman. Fielding's Guide to the Caribbean Plus the Bahamas, 1977. Oct.
Keegan, J. & A. Wheatcroft. Who's Who in Military History. Sept.
Root, W. & R. de Rochemont. Eating in America. Nov.
Van Every, D. Disinherited. Aug.

Northland
Briggs, W. Without Noise of Arms. Aug.
Cline, P. They Came to the Mountain. Aug.
Crow, R. & S. Brinckerhoff. Early Yuma. Aug.
Dyck, P. Brule. Dec.
Garbutt, B. The Day of the Horse. Aug.
Lee, K. Ten Thousand Goddam Cattle. Oct.

Norton
Clark, N. H. Washington. Oct.
David, K. S. Kansas. Nov.
Denham, H. M. The Aegean. Jun.
Denham, H. M. The Ionian Islands to Rhodes. Jun.
Denham, H. M. Southern Turkey, the Levant, and Cyprus. Jun.
Denham, H. M. The Tyrrhenian Sea. Jun.
Forde-Johnston, J. Prehistoric Britain and Ireland. Nov.
Greene, J. P. & others. Society, Freedom, and Conscience. Sept.
Hull, R. W. African Cities and Towns Before the European Conquest. Oct.
Hunt, W. R. Alaska. Dec.
Lewis, D. L. District of Columbia. Dec.
Morais, V. A Short History of Anti-Semitism. Jun.
Morgan, E. S. The Challenge of the American Revolution. Oct.
Peterson, F. R. Idaho. Nov.
Rabinowitch, A. The Bolsheviks Come to Power. Oct.
Sprague, M. Colorado. Sept.
Taylor, J. G. Louisiana. Nov.
Williams, J. A. West Virginia. Sept.

Ohio Univ. Pr.
Allen, H. C. & R. Thompson, eds. Contrast and Connection. Sept.
Bowman, L. G. Captive Americans. Oct.
Cowherd, R. G. Political Economists and the English Poor Laws. Oct.

Pantheon
Dorson, R. M. America Rebels. Sept.
Gutman, H. G. The Black Family in Slavery and Freedom, 1750–1925. Sept.

Penguin
Arrian. The Campaigns of Alexander. Oct.
Caesar, J. The Civil War. Nov.
Hampson, N. The Enlightenment. Jan.
Monmouth, G. of. The History of the Kings of Britain. Jan.
Taylor, A. J. P. Essays in English History. Oct.
Trevelyan, G. M. A Shortened History of England. Dec.

Potter
Dennys, R. The Heraldic Imagination. Sept.

Prentice-Hall
Conneau, T. A Slaver's Logbook or Twenty Years' Residence in Africa. Oct.
Hoehling, A. A. Thunder at Hampton Roads. Oct.
Hope, J. Yukon. Oct.

Princeton Univ. Pr.
Cecil, L. German Diplomatic Service, 1871–1914. Sept.
Dols, M. W. Black Death in the Middle East. Nov.
Kent, F. W. Family Life in Renaissance Florence. Dec.
Klaits, J. Printed Propaganda under Louis XIV. Nov.
Livi-Bacci, M. History of Italian Fertility During the Last Two Centuries. Dec.
Lougee, C. C. Le Paradis des Femmes. Oct.
McKay, J. P. Tramways and Trolleys, Aug.
McLachlan, J. Princetonians, 1748–1768. Dec.
Merrill, B. Jefferson's Nephews. Sept.
Pritchard, J. B., ed. Ancient Near East. Vol. 2. Aug.
Wilber, D. W. Iran. Aug.
Wilson, W. Papers of Woodrow Wilson. Vol. 22. Oct.
Wolf, S. G. Urban Village. Nov.

Random
Emerson, G. Winners and Losers. Jan.
Koestler, A. The Thirteenth Tribe. Aug.
Starkey, L. Wilkes Booth Came to Washington. Oct.
Williams, M. & J. A. McPherson. Railroad. Nov.

Rutgers Univ. Pr.
Menzies, E. G. C. Passage Between Rivers. Sept.

Sage, Calif.
Gurr, T. R. Rogues, Rebels and Reformers. Sept.

San Francisco Bk. Co.
Evans, M. America. Oct.
Meisch, L. A Traveler's Guide to El Dorado and the Inca Empire. Oct.

Scribners
Blue, A. G. Pictorial History of the B24 Liberator Bomber. Oct.
DeConde, A. This Affair of Louisiana. Nov.
Holland Smith, J. The Death of Classical Paganism. Nov.
Kennedy, P. The Rise and Fall of British Naval Mastery. Sept.
McKee, A. Death Raft. Jan.
Messenger, C. The Blitzkrieg Story. Dec.
Weitzman, D. Underfoot. Oct.
Whitehall, W. M. & N. H. Kotker. Massachusetts. Oct.

S. & S.
Sinclair, M. Russia. Sept.

Stanford Univ. Pr.
Potter, D. M. Freedom and Its Limitations in American Life. Sept.
Smith, T. C. Nakahara. Jan.

Stein & Day
Durrell, J. Intimate Relations. Aug.
FitzGibbon, C. Secret Intelligence in the Twentieth Century. Feb.
Gardey, J. Alaska. Oct.
Goldberg, M. H. The Jewish Connection. Nov.
Hayes, H. The Last Place on Earth. Feb.
Jenkins, A. The Thirties. Oct.
Judd, D. Eclipse of Kings. Aug.
Plowden, A. The House of Tudor. Oct.
Servadio, G. Mafioso. Oct.
Thomas, G. & M. M. Witts. The Day the World Ended. Dec.
Whiting, C. Bloody Aachen. Oct.
Wilcock, J. An Occult Guide to South America. Dec.
Woods, W. England in the Age of Chaucer. Oct.

Taplinger
Asquith, A. Marie Antoinette. Aug.
Ayerst, P. White Gold. Aug.
Chancellor, J. Charles Darwin. Aug.
Hooper, M. The Story of Australia. Sept.
Luard, E. The Control of the Sea-Bed. Sept.
Norman, B. The Inventing of America. Sept.
Thomas, J. O. The Giant-Killers. Oct.

Universe Bks.
Fisher, J. The World of the Forsytes. Oct.
Thomson, D. Woodbrook. Oct.

Univ. of Illinois Pr.
Foner, P. S. We, the Other People. Jul
Gerber, D. A. Black Ohio and the Color Line, 1860–1950. Dec.
Ladurie, E. The Peasants of Languedoc. Sept.
Meier, A. & E. Rudwick. Along the Color Line. Dec.
Robinson, W. B. American Forts. Jan.
Washington, B. T. The Booker T. Washington Papers, Vol. 5. Dec.

Univ. of North Carolina Pr.
Davis, H. The Fledgling Province. Oct.
Levering, R. B. American Opinion and the Russian Alliance, 1939–1945. Sept.
Olmstead, A. L. New York City Mutual Savings Banks, 1819–1861. Oct.
Schuker, S. A. The End of French Predominance in Europe. Oct.
Snell, J. L. The Democratic Movement in Germany, 1789–1914. Dec.

Univ. Pr. of Kentucky
Andrews, J. A., III. Rebuilding the Christian Commonwealth. Jul.
Crocker, H. B. The Green River of Kentucky. Oct.
Hammack, J. W., Jr. Kentucky and the Second American Revolution. Jun.
Harrison, L. H. George Rogers Clark and the War in the West. Aug.
Ireland, R. M. The County in Kentucky History. Nov.
Karan, P. P. The Changing Face of Tibet. Sept.

Viking
Crankshaw, E. The Shadow of the Winter Palace. Aug.

The Diaries of George Washington

Volume I, 1748-1765 Volume II, 1766-1770

Edited by Donald Jackson

Vol. I, lv, 373 pp.; Vol. II, xviii, 374 pp.; illus., index. $15.00 per volume

The University Press of Virginia is pleased to present the first two volumes of a six-volume set of the Diaries of George Washington. Spanning the years 1748-99, the Diaries include every available written entry made by Washington, from travel journals and daily appointment memos to farm notes and weather observations. The annotation throughout is more complete than in all previous editions and furnishes much new information about Washington and the constantly changing currents of his life in eighteenth-century America. Each volume is also beautifully illustrated with contemporary maps, pictures, and portraits which reveal the social, economic, and political aspects of Washington's society.

Thomas Jefferson's Farm Book

With Commentary and Relevant Extracts from Other Writings

Edited by Edwin M. Betts

xxiv, 178, 552 pp., illus., facs., apps., bibliog., index (American Philosophical Society) $20.00

Thomas Jefferson recorded his contributions to scientific agriculture in his memorandum Farm Book from 1774 to 1826. This edition offers important source material and is as well a contribution to biography. Jefferson's letters and notes here reflect a lifetime of study and experiment in agricultural theories and portray the many-sided Jefferson as a down-to-earth planter in the Virginia hills. A facsimile of the original work is included in the volume.

"One of the most important items of Americana to be published in years."—Saturday Review

University Press of Virginia

Box 3608 University Station Charlottesville, VA 22903

Two Vital Topics for Today from SAGE PUBLICATIONS

PEACE ENDANGERED

The Reality of Détente

by R J RUMMEL Professor of Political Science University of Hawaii

"A chilling report on what the computers are saying . . . Professor Rummel's book is a scientific estimate, in layman's language, of where our present foreign and defense policies are leading us."
The Hon. Clare Booth Luce

A comprehensive analysis of international behavior and the strategic arms balance, this compelling book cannot be ignored by anyone interested in foreign affairs, détente, or world peace.

200pp. L.C. 76-17372 $10.00

Rogues, Rebels, and Reformers

A Political History of Urban Crime and Conflict

TED ROBERT GURR Professor of Political Science Northwestern University

How much can the crime rate be reduced by changing the police, the courts, the prisons, or the law? Criminologists, sociologists, politicians, and citizens have long argued this question. But what if the question is meaningless? What if neither repression nor reform is an effective response to crime - because neither makes a difference in the crime rate!

This sobering conclusion is suggested by ROGUES, REBELS, AND REFORMERS, a landmark analysis of urban crime and conflict. Drawing on a major comparative study of the last 150 years of crime and punishment, this book is dramatic evidence that not only is there no easy solution to the dilemma of crime in our times, but that for modern democratic societies crime may well be one of the inevitable prices we pay for freedom.

208pp. L.C. 76-17370 $10.00

SAGE Publications Inc.
275 South Beverly Drive, Beverly Hills, California 90212

Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale her infinite variety.

OUR OWN HARMS

by Jo Hynes Newman

The Startling Facts Behind Menopause and Estrogen Therapy. Contact your local Bobbs-Merrill representative.

0-89307-005-X $8.95 September

The Quail Street Publishing Company...Watch us fly

de Pauw, L. G. & C. Hunt. Remember the Ladies. Aug.
Keegan, J. The Face of Battle. Nov.
Persico, J. My Enemy, My Brother. Feb.
Ulman, A. B. In the Name of the People. Feb.
West, L. C. They Call It Justice. Jan.

Walker
Radcliffe, V. The Caribbean Heritage. Sept.
Roosevelt, K. The Overseas. Oct.
Salisbury, H. Travels Around America. Nov.

Wesleyan Univ. Pr.
Farber, S. Revolution and Reaction in Cuba. Oct.
Moffat, A. W. Maverick Navy. Nov.
Sellers, C. C. Patience Wright. Nov.
Tipton, F. B., Jr. Regional Variations in the Economic Development of Germany During the Nineteenth Century. Sept.

Yale Univ. Pr.
Geanakoplos, D. J. Interaction of the "Sibling" Byzantine and Western Cultures in the Middle Ages and Italian Renaissance (330–1600). Nov.
Kedar, B. Z. Merchants in Crisis. Nov.
Laqueur, T. W. Religion and Respectability. Oct.
McGee, J. S. The Godly Man in Stuart England. Aug.
Macmullen, R. Roman Government's Response to Crisis, A.D. 235–337. Oct.
Naquin, S. Millenarian Rebellion in China. Oct.

HOME ECONOMICS

Arco
deGros, J. H. Candy Cook Book. Jul.
H. Kuo-Shung. The Chinese-American American-Chinese Cookbook. Aug.

Ashley Bks.
Fisher, T. The International Students Guide to Cooking Without Getting Caught. Nov.
Indianapolis Hospital Staff. Sunny-Side-Up Diet Cooking the Hospital Way. Dec.

Atheneum
Jordan, H. A., M. D. & others. Eating Is Okay. Oct.
Kamman, M. When French Women Cook. Oct.
Lee, K. with A. R. Friedman. Chinese Cooking for the American Kitchen. Nov.
London, S. Eggplant and Squash. Jul.
Lorwin, M. Dining with William Shakespeare. Oct.
Wason, B. The Soup-to-Dessert High Fiber Cookbook. Oct.

Bobbs
Cameron-Smith, M. The Complete Book of Preserving. Sept.
Daniels, G., ed. The Complete Home Carpenter. Sept.
Farrington, D. E. Fireside Cooks and Black Kettle Recipes. Nov.

Crown
Conran, T. The House Book. Aug.
Craddock, H. The Savoy Cocktail Book. Aug.
Lundberg, M. Scandinavian Cooking. Aug.
Ogilvy, S. Making Cheeses at Home. Aug.
Steffek, E., ed. The Complete Book of Houseplants and Gardening. Oct.

Delacorte
Clancy, J. & F. Field. Clancy's Oven Cookery. Oct.
Reingold, C. B. Cuisinart Food Processor Cooking. Oct.

Dial
Maxwell-Hudson, C. The Natural Beauty Book. Oct.

Dutton
Elbert, V. F. & G. A. Elbert. The House Plant Decorating Book. Feb.
Morgan, J. Recipes from San Francisco's Great Chinese Restaurants. Sept.
Straub, P. From the Loving Earth. Feb.

Fireside: S. & S.
Johnson, H. The World Atlas of Wine. Oct.

Grove
Doyle, R. P. & J. L. Redding. The Complete Food Handbook. Sept.

Hastings
Hemingway, M. M. & S. deLima. Food Processor Magic. Oct.

Knopf
Grigson, J. The Art of Making Sausages, Pates, and Other Charcuterie. Oct.
Jones, E. The World of Cheese. Oct.

Morrow
Dixon, J. Jeane Dixon's Astrological Cookbook. Nov.
Libien, L. & M. Strong. Super-Economy Housecleaning. Jul.
Norman, U. & D. Norman. Soup, Beautiful Soup. Nov.
Sherwin, S. Seven Steps to Rock-Bottom Food Costs. Sept.

Northland
The Flagstaff Cook Book 1896. Aug.

Pantheon
Lo, K. H. C. Chinese Cooking on Next to Nothing. Nov.

Penguin
David, E. The Penguin Elizabeth David Cookery Book Set. Sept.

Potter
Miller, A. B. Shaker Herbs. Jan.

Prentice-Hall
Peterson, F. The Build It Yourself Furniture Catalog. Sept.
Philbin, T. & F. Koebel. The Nothing Left Out Home Improvement Book. Nov.
Reiger, G. & B. Reiger. The Zane Grey Cookbook. Oct.

Random
Batterberry, A. & M. Batterberry. The Bloomingdales' Book of Entertaining. Oct.
Johnson, M. The Cuisine of the Sun. Nov.
McCall's Eds. McCall's Cooking School. Nov.
Naar, J. & M. Siple. Living in One Room. Nov.
Reuben, D., M.D. & B. Reuben. The Save-Your-Life-Diet High-Fiber Cookbook. Sept.
Rush, A. F. McCall's How To Cope with Household Disasters. Sept.
Scavullo, F. Scavullo on Beauty. Oct.
Schafer, C. & V. Schafer. Coffee. Oct.
Tarr, Y. Y. The Great Food Processor Cookbook. Nov.

Scribners
Friedman, A. Commonsense Design. Nov.
Hayward, C. Antique Furniture Repairs. Oct.

S. & S.
Beatty, V. L. Consumer Guide Indoor Plant Care. Sept.
Bradford, B. T. Decorating Ideas of Casual Living. Jan.
Bradford, B. T. How To Solve Your Decorating Problems. Oct.
Cobb, H. H. Woman's Day Homeowner's Handbook. Jan.
Consumer Guide Eds. Consumer Guide The Joy of Living Series. Aug.
Kerr, G. The New Seasoning. Aug.
McCall's Sewing for Your Home. Jan.
The Settlement Cook Book. Sept.
Von Furstenberg, D. Diane von Furstenberg's Book of Beauty. Jan.

Viking
Jess, J. L. & K. Jess. The Taste of America. Jan.

James Wade: Dial
Siegal, S. Dr. Siegal's Natural Fiber Cookbook. Sept.

HUMOR

Crown
Mundis, H. No He's Not a Monkey, He's an Ape and He's My Son. Sept.
Schafer, K. The Blunderful World of Bloopers. Aug.

Dodd
Booth, G. Rehearsal's Off! Nov.
Gorey, E. The Broken Spoke. Nov.

Dutton
Amory, C. Cleveland Amory's Animail. Oct.
Charnin, M. The Giraffe Who Sounded Like Ol' Blue Eyes. Aug.

Farrar
Schoenstein, R. Yes, My Darling Daughters. Sept.

Fireside: S. & S.
Thurber, J. The Wonderful O. Oct.

Morrow
Simpson, N. F. Man Overboard. Dec.

Pantheon
Koren, E. Do You Want To Talk About It? Oct.

Penguin
Durrell, G. Fillets of Plaice. Nov.

Random
Elliott, B. & R. Goulding. Write If You Get Work. Aug.

S. & S.
Addams, C. Chas Addams' Favorite Haunts. Oct.
Kelly, W. Pogo's Bats and the Belles Free. Oct.
Viorst, J. How Did I Get To Be Forty . . . and Other Atrocities. Oct.

Stein & Day
Gregory, D. with J. R. McGraw. Up from Nigger. Nov.
Priestley, J. B. English Humor. Nov.

Walker
Asimov, I. More Lecherous Limericks. Aug.

LANGUAGE ARTS

M.I.T. Pr.
Stoy, J. Denotational Semantics. Oct.

Stanford Univ. Pr.
Bright, V. Variation and Change in Language. Nov.

Taplinger
Hooten, M. The First Reading and Writing Book. Aug.

LIBRARY SCIENCE

M.I.T. Pr.
Molz, R. Kathleen. Federal Policy and Library Support.Oct.

LITERATURE

Barnes & Noble: Harper
Callow, J. & R. J. Reilly. Guide to American Literature from Its Beginnings Through Walt Whitman. Oct.
Callow, J. & R. J. Reilly. Guide to American Literature from Emily Dickinson to the Present. Jan.
Jones, M. V. Dostoyevsky. Oct.
Long, M. The Unnatural Scene. Sept.

Bobbs
Newman, E. A Civil Tongue. Oct.
Rosenblatt, J. C. & F. H. Sonnenschmidt. Dining with Sherlock Holmes. Nov.

Cambridge Univ. Pr.
Auty, R. & D. Obolensky. Companion to Russian Studies. Vol. 2. Feb.
Macaulay, T. B. The Letters of Thomas Babington Macaulay. Vol. 3. Oct.

Cornell Univ. Pr.
Andersson, T. M. Early Epic Scenery. Sept.
Hersey, G. L. Pythagorean Palaces. Nov.
Parrish, S., ed. "The Prelude," 1798–1799. Dec.
Regueiro, H. The Limits of Imagination. Nov.
Shaw, W. D. Tennyson's Style. Dec.

Crown
Boyce, J. Aphrodisiac. Sept.

Dial
Mencken, H. L. The New Mencken Letters. Oct.

Farrar
Colette. The Colette Boxed Set. Oct.
Colette. The Complete Claudine. Oct.
Colette. Mitsou and Music-Hall Sidelights. Oct.
Goethe. Goethe's Faust. Pt. 1. Nov.
Wilson, E. Letters on Literature and Politics. Jan.
Wolfe, T. Mauve Gloves & Madmen, Clutter & Vine. Oct.

Fortress
Scott, N. A., Jr. The Poetry of Civic Virtue. Oct.

Grove
Beckett, S. I Can't Go On, I'll Go On. Sept.
Mailer, N. & H. Miller. Genius and Lust. Oct.

Harvard Univ. Pr.
Byron, L. Byron's Letters and Journals. Nov.
Evans, G. B., ed. Shakespeare. Aug.
Henrichs, A., ed. Harvard Studies in Classical Philology. Aug.
Karlinsky, S. The Sexual Labyrinth of Nikolai Gogol. Oct.
Keeley, E. Cavafy's Alexandria. Sept.
Ousby, I. Bloodhounds of Heaven. Sept.
Rampersad, A. The Art and Imagination of W. E. B. Du Bois. Oct.
Richards, I. A. Complementarities. Nov.
Sabin, M. English Romanticism and the French Tradition. Sept.
Spacks, P. M. Imagining a Self. Nov.

Hill & Wang: Farrar
Barthes, R. Sade, Fourier, Loyola. Nov.

Knopf
Camus, A. Youthful Writings. Nov.
Morrell, O. Lady Ottoline's Album. Sept.
Stevens, H. Souvenirs and Prophecies. Jan.

Liberty Classics
Smith, A. The Theory of Moral Sentiments. Nov.

TAFT PRODUCTS, INC.

1000 Vermont Avenue, N.W., Suite 600

Washington, D.C. 20005

(202) 347-0788 ISBN Prefix 0-914756

Bennett, Paul. UP YOUR ACCOUNTABILITY: How to up your serviceability and funding credibility by upping your accounting ability. (NonProfit-ABILITY Series). 1973. 66 pp. illustrated with charts and ledger pages, includes bibliography.
ISBN 0-914756-02-8. .....Paper $ 7.95

Biegel, Len & Lubin, Aileen. MEDIABILITY: A guide for nonprofits. (NonProfit-ABILITY Series). 1975. 110 pp. illustrated with drawings.
ISBN 0-914756-06-0. .....Paper $ 6.50

Brodsky, Jean (editor). TAFT INFORMATION SYSTEM: A method for keeping current on foundations. (Continuing subscription published twice yearly.) September 1976. 672 pp. includes indexes.
ISBN 0-914756-09-5.....Paper $275.00/year

Brodsky, Jean (editor). THE PROPOSAL WRITER'S SWIPE FILE II. More professionally written grant proposals—prototypes of approaches, styles, and structures. (NonProfit-ABILITY Series). 1976. 130 pp.
ISBN 0-914756-11-7 .....Paper $ 5.00

Brodsky, Jean (editor). TRUSTEES OF WEALTH: The Taft guide to philanthropic decision makers. (Continuing subscription published twice yearly). June 1976. 429 pp. includes indexes.
ISBN 0-914756-08-7.....Paper $125.00/year

Lee, James C. DO OR DIE: Survival for nonprofits. (NonProfit-ABILITY Series). 1974. 102 pp. illustrated with charts.
ISBN 0-914756-05-2. .....Paper $ 7.50

RELIGIOUS PUBLISHING COMPANY

198 Allendale Road,
King of Prussia, Pa. 19406

Holck, Manfred, Jr. HOW TO PAY YOUR PASTOR MORE, AND BALANCE THE BUDGET TOO. 1976. 120 pp
ISBN 0-916138-06-2.....$6.95

Johnson, Robert. HE! A contribution to understanding masculine psychology, based on the Parsifal legend, using Jungian concepts. 1974. 96 pp.
ISBN 0-916138-00-3.....$6.25

Johnson, Robert. SHE! A contribution to understanding feminine psychology, based on the Amor and Psyche legend, using Jungian concepts. 1976. 92 pp
ISBN 0-916138-04-6.....$6.25

Sanford, John A. THE MAN WHO WRESTLED WITH GOD. A study of individuation (personal growth toward wholeness) based on four Bible stories. 1974. 126 pp
ISBN 0-916138-01-1.....$6.95

WINE CONSULTANTS OF CALIFORNIA

P.O. Box 15238
San Diego, CA 92115
(714) 287-8740
ISBN Prefix 0-916040

Brennan, John M. (Editor). BUYING GUIDE TO CALIFORNIA WINES—WINTER 1975 EDITION. 162 pp. illustrated with maps, line drawings, and label reproductions
ISBN 0-916040-52-6 .....Cloth $8.95

Brennan, John M. (Editor). BUYING GUIDE TO CALIFORNIA WINES—1977 EDITION. Replaces the Winter 1975 Edition after November 15, 1976. Illustrated with maps, line drawings and label reproductions.
ISBN 0-916040-53-4 .....Cloth $8.95

THE SECRET POLICE IN LENIN'S RUSSIA, Lennard D. Gerson. Groundbreaking study based on many unpublished Soviet and Western official documents. Focuses on Lenin and the man who molded the secret police for him, Felix Dzerzhinsky. "Most impressive. No one can really understand the persisting role of police and terror in the Soviet system without a close reading of the Gerson study."—Harrison E. Salisbury
368 pp. 10 illus. October $15.00
ISBN 085-9

PHILADELPHIA PRESERVED: Catalog of the Historic American Buildings Survey, Richard J. Webster. Introduction by Charles E. Peterson. The richly illustrated product of more than forty years' work by the Historic American Buildings Survey. Includes detailed information on the historical and architectural importance of hundreds of structures.
512 pp. 139 illus. December $20.00
ISBN 089-1

Fall 76 Temple University Press

Philadelphia, Pa. 19122

BLINDNESS, VISUAL IMPAIRMENT, DEAF-BLINDNESS: Annotated Listing of the Literature, Compiled by Mary K. Bauman. The first comprehensive reference on the subject in two decades. The 3,757 entries are accessible through both analytical and author indices. Semiannual supplements available from the Nevil Foundation.
560 pp. December $25.00 ISBN 067-0

REASON AND ART IN TEACHING SECONDARY-SCHOOL ENGLISH, Morris Finder. Foreword by Ralph W. Tyler. Filled with specific teaching suggestions, sample applications, and objectives adaptable to individual situations. Particularly valuable in competency based teacher programs.
240 pp. October $10.00 ISBN 071-9

BROADCASTING IN ASIA AND THE PACIFIC, Edited by John A. Lent. Thirty-five internationally known scholars and practitioners examine the structure, development, ownership, programming, audiences, facilities, and financing of radio, television, and wired services in 44 Asian countries. Comprehensive bibliography of 600 sources.
440 pp. December $25.00 ISBN 068-9

PREJUDICE AND LITERATURE, J. Mitchell Morse. The author of the bestselling The Irrelevant English Teacher debunks many widely accepted clichés of thought such as the "irrational female" and the "alienated artist." A must for all partisans of personal liberty and literacy.
192 pp. December $8.95 ISBN 072-7

SONS OF THE FATHERS: The Civil Religion of the American Revolution, Catherine L. Albanese. Foreword by Martin E. Marty. The Revolution as sacred myth of origins in which Americans founded a civil religion centered on themselves. Uses Mircea Eliade's comparative history of religions approach to examine the American tradition of newness and finds, ironically, in our uniqueness a mark of our similarity with other peoples.
288 pp. December $12.50 ISBN 073-5

CHILDREN'S LITERATURE, Volume V, Francelia Butler, Editor. Pioneering annual features children's literature in America. Articles on the New England Primer, McGuffey Readers, Jack London, and Superman, plus a listing of the Rugby Library's outstanding collection of nineteenth-century books for children.
328 pp.. September cloth $15.00 ISBN 069-7
paper $5.95 ISBN 070-0

PORTENTS OF REBELLION: Rhetoric and Revolution in Philadelphia, 1765–1776, Stephen E. Lucas. A case study of the motifs and rhetorical strategies used in the debate between loyalists and revolutionaries.
376pp. September $17.50 ISBN 087-5

SOCIETY UNDER SIEGE: A Psychology of Northern Ireland, Rona M. Fields. Provocative case study of the long-term effects of stress on both the child and adult population of Northern Ireland. Argues that England has established certain social control mechanisms which result in a process the author calls "psychological genocide."
304 pp. January About $12.50 ISBN 074-3

GENOCIDE IN PARAGUAY, Edited by Richard Arens. This shocking report by anthropologists, a political analyst, a moral philosopher, a psychiatrist, and a lawyer documents the Paraguayan government's policy of exploiting and exterminating the Aché Indians. "This world impregnated with deliberate violence, raw brutality, seems to belong to my own memory."—Elie Wiesel
224 pp. Illus. December $10.95
ISBN 088-3

VOICES OF CONSCIENCE: Essays on Medieval and Modern French Literature in Memory of James D. Powell and Rosemary Hodgins, Edited by Raymond J. Cormier. Eighteen essays offer important new perspectives on topics ranging from Old French etymology to antipolitics in modern French literature.
320 pp. September $12.50 ISBN 090-5

Complete catalog available at your request

Publisher's ISBN prefix is 0-87722.

Liberty Pr.
Hazlitt, F. The Concise Bible. Dec.
They Preached Liberty. Nov.
¡Viva Vivas! Jul.

Longman
Bouce, P.-G. The Novels of Tobias Smollett. Apr.
Burrow, J. English Verse 1300–1500. Feb.
Gordon, I. R. F. A Preface to Pope. Jun.
Williams, M. A Preface to Hardy. Jun.
Wykes, D. A Preface to Dryden. Feb.

M.I.T. Pr.
Underhill, R. Turkish Grammar. Sept.

Morrow
Perkins, M. The Secret Record. Dec.
Simpson, L. Three on the Tower. Aug.
Stern, M., ed. Plots and Counterplots. Jul.

Ohio Univ. Pr.
Fennell, F. L., Jr. The Rosetti-Leyland Letters. Dec.

Pantheon
Afanas'ev, A., coll. Russian Fairy Tales. Sept.
Grimm, J. & W. Grimm. The Complete Grimm's Fairy Tales. Sept.
Lo Kuan-Chung. Three Kingdoms. Nov.

Penguin
Aretino. Selected Letters. Feb.
Austen, J. The Complete Novels of Jane Austen. Sept.
Balzac, H. de. The Black Sheep. Aug.
Balzac, H. de. Lost Illusions. Oct.
Balzac, H. de. Ursule Mirouet. Dec.
Beaumarchais. The Barber of Seville and The Marriage of Figaro. Aug.
Castiglione. The Book of the Courtier. Oct.
Celine, L.-F. Castle to Castle. Dec.
Celine, L.-F. North. Dec.
Chesterton, G. K. The Best of Father Brown. Sept.
Conrad, J. Almayer's Folly. Nov.
Conrad, J. Tales of Unrest. Feb.
Davie, D. Ezra Pound. Dec.
Dickens, C. The Christmas Books. Sept.
Diderot. Rambeau's Nephew and D'Alembert's Dream. Oct.
Fontane, T. Effi Briest. Nov.
Gaskell, E. Cranford and Cousin Phillis. Jan.
Gissing, G. New Grub Street. Sept.
Grant, M., ed. Greek Literature. Dec.
Gray, S. Otherwise Engaged and Other Plays. Sept.
Hesiod and Theognis. Aug.
James, H. The Aspern Papers. Jan.
Johnson, S. The History of Rasselas, Prince of Abissinia. Feb.
King Harald's Saga. Oct.
Lawrence, D. H. Four Short Novels. Nov.
Lawrence, D. H. The Rainbow. Nov.
Lawrence, D. H. Sons and Lovers. Nov.
Lawrence, D. H. Women in Love. Nov.
Lawrence, T. E. Seven Pillars of Wisdom. Oct.
Livy. Rome and the Mediterranean. Aug.
The Mabinogion. Nov.
Melville, H. Redburn. Nov.
Palsson, H. & P. Edwards. Egil's Saga. Jan.
Poe, E. A. The Science Fiction of Edgar Allan Poe. Dec.
Salgado, G. Three Restoration Comedies. Aug.
Schulz, B. The Street of Crocodiles. Jan.
Shaw, B. Selected One-Act Plays. Aug.
Terence. The Comedies. Nov.
Tolstoy, L. War and Peace. 2 vols. Sept.
Twain, M. A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court. Sept.
Wild, O. De Profundis and Other Writings. Aug.

Phaidon: Dutton
Shone, R. Bloomsbury Portraits. Oct.

Potter
Carroll, L. Lewis Carroll Observed. Oct.
Dickens, C. The Annotated Christmas Carol. Oct.
Satty, W. The Illustrated Edgar Allan Poe. Oct.

Princeton Univ. Pr.
Bush, R. Genesis of Ezra Pound's Cantos. Oct.
Carroll, W. Great Feast of Language in Love's Labour's Lost. Oct.
Foulet, A. Medieval French Roman D'Alexandre. Aug.
Frank, J. Dostoevsky. Aug.
Kuhn, R. Demon of Noontide. Oct.
La Belle, J. Echoing Wood of Theodore Roethke. Nov.
Lawler, J. R. Paul Valéry. Feb.
Nash, S. Les Contemplations of Victor Hugo. Nov.
Nohrnberg, J. Analogy of The Faerie Queene. Sept.
Pinchin, J. L. Alexandria Still. Nov.
Showalter, E. Literature of Their Own. Jan.
Todd, W. M., III. Familiar Letter as a Literary Genre in the Age of Pushkin. Sept.

Random
Britton, B., coll. Self-Portraits. Nov.
Proffer, C. & E. Proffer, eds. The Ardis Anthology of Recent Russian Literature. Aug.

Rutgers Univ. Pr.
Keach, W. Elizabethan Erotic Narratives. Nov.
Rosen, S. J. Samuel Beckett and the Pessimistic Tradition. Nov.

Scribners
Krause, D. Sean O'Casey and His World. Oct.
Pudney, J. Lewis Carroll and His World. Sept.
Trilling, L. The Liberal Imagination. Sept.

Stanford Univ. Pr.
Lady Nijo. The Confessions of Lady Nijo. Sept.

Stein & Day
Speaight, R. Shakespeare. Feb.

Taplinger
Boyd, E. F. Bloomsbury Heritage. Aug.
Crosland, M. Women of Iron and Velvet. Sept.
Greenberg, M. H. & J. D. Olander, eds. Isaac Asimov. Jan.
Greenberg, M. H. & J. D. Olander, eds. Arthur C. Clarke. Jan.
Greenberg, M. H. & J. D. Olander, eds. Robert A. Heinlein. Jan.

Temple Univ. Pr.
Butler, F. Chidren's Literature. Vol. 5. Sept.
Cormier, R. J. Voices of Conscience. Sept.
Morse, J. M. Prejudice and Literature. Dec.

Touchstone: S. & S.
Durant, W. & A. Durant. Interpretations of Life. Oct.

Univ. of Illinois Pr.
Williams, E. Harriet Monroe and the Poetry Renaissance. Nov.
Zavarzadeh, M. The Mythopoeic Reality. Dec.

Univ. of North Carolina Pr.
Chamberlin, J. S. Increase and Multiply. Dec.
Cook, S. J. From Tobacco Road to Route 66. Aug.

Urizen Bks.
Bourne, R. The Radical Will. Oct.
Montale, E. Poet in Our Time. Aug.

Viking
Bayley, J. The Uses of Division. Sept.
Bellow, S. To Jerusalem and Back. Oct.
Hardy, T. The Portable Thomas Hardy. Mar.
Plimpton, G., ed. Writers at Work. Nov.
West, R. Rebecca West: a celebration. Feb.

Walker
Wilhelm, J. J. The Later Cantos of Ezra Pound. Dec.

Wesleyan Univ. Pr.
Relyea, S. Signs, Systems, and Meanings. Sept.

Yale Univ. Pr.
Anderson, J. H. The Growth of a Personal Voice. Nov.
Benston, K. W. Baraka. Oct.
Brooks, P. The Melodramatic Imagination. Sept.
Brown, C. S. A Glossary of Faulkner's South. Sept.
Cooke, M. G. The Romantic Will. Oct.
Ende, S. A. Keats and the Sublime. Dec.
Flannery, J. W. W. B. Yeats and the Idea of a Theatre. Aug.
Gumpel, L. "Concrete" Poetry from East and West Germany. Oct.
Hagan, W. T. United States–Comanche Relations. Oct.
Lanham, R. A. The Motives of Eloquence. Oct.
Mokyr, J. Industralization in the Low Countries, 1795-1850. Nov.
More, T. A Dialogue of Comfort Against Tribulation. Dec.
More, T. De Tristitia Christi. Dec.
More, T. Political Writings. Dec.
More, T. Treatise on the Passion; Treatise on the Blessed Body; Instructions and Prayers. Dec.
Nagler, A. M. The Medieval Religious Stage. Nov.
Seung, T. K. Cultural Thematics. Oct.
Taylor, R. The Drama of W. B. Yeats. Sept.

PHILOSOPHY & RELIGION

Abingdon
Batey, R. A. Thank God I'm OK. Sept.
Bloesch, D. G. Jesus Is Victor! Nov.
Cox, J. W. A Guide to Biblical Preaching. Sept.
Crim, K. R., ed. The Interpreter's Dictionary of the Bible. Supplementary Volume. Oct.
Davies, H. & M. Slifer, comps. Prayers and Other Resources for Public Worship. Nov.
Harkness, G. & C. F. Kraft. The Biblical Backgrounds of the Middle East Conflict. Nov.
Harrell, I. B. Multiplied by Love. Sept.
Hulme, W. E. The Fire of Little Jim. Sept.
Ikerman, R. C. A Little Book of Comfort. Sept.
Johnson, S. L. Captain Ducky and Other Children's Sermons. Nov.
Keene, M. H. Patterns for Mature Living. Oct.
Langford, A. J. Meditations and Devotions for Adults. Sept.
Lovelace, A. C. & W. C. Rice. Music and Worship in the Church. Oct.
Mather, J. Learning Can Be Child's Play. Oct.
Potthoff, H. Loneliness. Sept.
Rost, L. Judaism Outside the Hebrew Canon. Oct.
Southard, S. Religious Inquiry. Oct.
White, J. F. Christian Worship in Transition. Oct.

Arco
Kingsland, K. & V. Kingsland. Complete Hatha Yoga. Aug.

Atheneum
Johnson, P. A. History of Christianity. Aug.

Beta Bks.
Segraves, K. L. A Double Minded Man. Jul.

Bobbs
Marx, I. Yoga and Common Sense. Aug.

Cornell Univ. Pr.
Honderich, T. Political Violence. Nov.
Vesey, G. Understanding Wittgenstein. Sept.

Dodd
Duce, I. O. How a Master Works. Jul.

Dutton
Baba, M. Life at Its Best. Aug.
Rejneesh, B. S. Only One Sky. Sept.

Eerdmans
Mouw, R. Politics and the Biblical Drama. Nov.
Wolterstorff, N. Reason within the Bounds of Religion. Aug.

Farrar
Heschel, A. J. The Wisdom of Heschel. Sept.
Merton, T. Disputed Questions. Sept.

Fortress
Brauer, J. C. Religion and the American Revolution. Sept.
Browne, R. E. C. The Ministry of the World. Oct.
Brueggemann, W. The Land. Jan.
Busch, E. Karl Barth. Nov.
Clinebell, H. J., Jr. Growth Counseling for Mid-Years Couples. Feb.
Cobb, J. B., Jr. Theology and Pastoral Care. Feb.
Detweiler, R. Phenomenology and Structuralism as Literary-Critical Method. Nov.
Diehl, W. E. Christianity and Real Life. Sept.
Gritsch, E. W. & R. W. Jenson. Lutheranism. Oct.
Grundtvig, N. F. S. Selected Writings. Sept.
Herhold, R. M. Learning to Die/ Learning to Live. Sept.
Jennings, T. W., Jr. Introduction to Theology. Oct.
Johnson, R. A., ed. Psychohistory and Religion. Jan.
Knight, D. A. Tradition and Theology in the Old Testament. Feb.
Krodel, G. A. & others. Hebrews, James, Peter, Jude, Revelation. Feb.
Machovec, M. A Marxist Looks at Jesus. Sept.
Martin, G. M. Fest. Oct.
Meland, B. E. Fallible Forms and Symbols. Nov.
Polzin, R. M. Biblical Structuralism. Nov.
Rilling, J. W. A Table Before Me. Jan.
Scroggs, R. Paul for a New Day. Jan.
Selby, P. Look for the Living. Nov.
Van Allen, R. American Religious Values and Future of America. Jan.
Wolff, H. W. Joel and Amos. Feb.

Grove
Sopa, G. L. & J. Hopkins. The Practice and Theory of Tibetan Buddhism. Sept.

Harvard Univ. Pr.
Hooker, R. The Folger Library Edition of the Works of Richard Hooker: Of the Laws of Ecclesiastical Polity. Nov.

James, W. Essays in Radical Empiricism. Nov.
Mather, C. Magnalia Christi Americana. Oct.
Wolfson, H. A. Studies in the History of Philosophy and Religion. Dec.

Knopf
The Dhammapada. Sept.
Gibran, K. The Kahlil Gibran Diary for 1977. Aug.
Olson, S. F. Reflections from the North Country. Sept.

M.I.T. Pr.
Body, B. Abortion and the Sanctity of Human Life. Sept.
Klein, J. Green Mathematical Thought and the Origin of Algebra. Sept.

Seymour Lawrence
Young, A. M. The Geometry of Meaning. Sept.
Young, A. M. The Reflexive Universe. Sept.

Longman
Waddy, C. The Muslim Mind. Aug.

Ohio Univ. Pr.
Ihde, D. Listening and Voice. Oct.

Orbis
Barbotin, E. The Humanity of God. Sept.
Cardenal, E. The Gospel in Solentiname. Aug.
Ford, Bishop F. X. Come, Holy Spirit. Sept.
Hastings, A. The Faces of God. Sept.
Johnson, P. G. Caution: God at Work. Aug.
Mbiti, J. S. The Prayers of African Religion. Sept.
Segundo, J. L. The Liberation of Theology. Sept.
Torres, S. & J. Eagleson. Theology in the Americas. Oct.

Overlook Pr.
Al Ghazali. On the Duties of Brotherhood. Oct.

Penguin
Boethius. The Consolation of Philosophy. Aug.
Houlden, J. L. The Pastoral Epistles. Oct.
Schopenhauer, A. Essays and Aphorisms. Nov.

Prentice-Hall
Graham, D. The Practical Side of Reincarnation. Aug.
Pagans, Priests, and Prophets. Nov.
Peale, N. V. The Positive Principle Today. Sept.
Roberts, J. Psychic Politics. Nov.
Sweazy, G. Preaching the Good News. Aug.
Warner, J. & S. Slade. The Mormon Way. Oct.

Princeton Univ. Pr.
Izenberg, G. N. Existentialist Critique of Freud. Sept.
Norton, D. N. Personal Destinies. Dec.

Random
The Blue Cliff Records, Vol. 1. Jan.
Guenther, H. V. Buddhist Philosophy in Theory and Practice. Nov.
Guenther, H. V. The Tantric View of Life. Oct.
Séjourné, L. Burning Water. Sept.
The Blue Cliff Records. Vol. 1. Jan.

San Francisco Bk. Co.
Dement, W. C. Some Must Watch While Some Must Sleep. Sept.
Rhinelander, P. H. Is Man Incomprehensible to Man? Nov.

Scribners
MacQuarrie, J. Principles of Christian Theology. 2d ed. Jan

S. & S.
Davis, G. How To Survive in Suburbia When Your Heart's in the Himalayas. Oct.

Stein & Day
Sitchin, Z. The Twelfth Planet. Oct.

Temple Univ. Pr.
Albanese, C. L. Sons of the Fathers. Dec.

Universe Bks.
Komaroff, K. Sky Gods. Oct.

Univ. of Illinois Pr.
Suppe, F., ed. The Structure of Scientific Theories. Sept.

Univ. Pr. of Kentucky
Boles, J. B. Religion in Antebellum Kentucky. Oct.
Frederick, P. J. Knights of the Golden Rule. Oct.

Westminster
Achtemeier, E. The Committed Marriage. Oct.
Alexander, Z. Till Death Do Us Part or Something Else. Sept.
Barclay, W. The Daily Study Bible. Nov.
Barclay, W. New Testament Words. Sept.
Bright, J. Covenant and Promise. Oct.
Browning, D. S. The Moral Context of Pastoral Care. Sept.
Bulgakov, S. A. Bulgakov Anthology. Nov.
Clements, R. E. One Hundred Years of Old Testament Interpretation. Sept.
Cobb, J. B., Jr. & D. R. Griffin. Process Theology. Oct.
Cupitt, D. The Leap of Reason. Oct.
Griffin, D. R. God, Power, and Evil. Oct.
Hauck, P. How To Do What You Want To Do. Sept.
Herbert, W. Faith Enacted as History. Nov.
Kee, H. C. Community of the New Age. Nov.
Kuske, M. The Old Testament as the Book of Christ. Nov.
McKay, J. R. & J. F. Miller, eds. Biblical Studies. Oct.
Martin, N. Prayers for Children and Young People. Sept.
Mays, J. L. Micah, a Commentary. Sept.
Nelson, J. W. Your God Is Alive and Well and Appearing in Popular Culture. Oct.
Pannenberg, W. Theology and the Philosophy of Science. Nov.
Pruyser, P. W. The Minister as Diagnostician. Sept.
Robinson, J. A. T. Redating the New Testament. Nov.
Russell, C. A. Voices of American Fundamentalism. Oct.
Russell, L. M., ed. The Liberating Word. Sept.
Soggin, J. A. Introduction to the Old Testament. Nov.
Sugerman, S. Sin and Madness. Oct.
Tournier, P. Escape from Loneliness. Sept.
Towner, W. S. How God Deals with Evil. Oct.
Worley, R. C. A Gathering of Strangers. Oct.
Young, N. Creator, Creation and Faith. Oct.

JAPANESE FIVE-NEEDLE PINE

The definitive book on the finest plant for Oriental gardens and bonsai with practical advice on training, propagation, culture and more. Taxonomy section.

ISBN 0-916352-04-8 $9.95 Paperback
ISBN 0-916352-05-06 $15 Library Binding
LC 76-5780

Symmes Systems
Box 8101, Atlanta, Ga. 30306

WESLEYAN
Fall 1976

Archaeology

The Archaeology of the Boat
by Basil Greenhill
ISBN 0-8195-5002-7 $16.95

Architecture

New York Landmarks
edited by Alan Burnham Foreword by Brendan Gill now available in paper
ISBN 0-8195-6045-6 $10.00

Art History

Medals and Plaquettes from the Molinari Collection at Bowdoin College by Andrea S. Norris and Ingrid Weber Distributed for Bowdoin College Art Museum $40.00

The Paintings and the Journal of Joseph Whiting Stock edited by Juliette Tomlinson
ISBN 0-8195-4098-6 $30.00
Prepublication price $25.00

History

Revolution and Reaction in Cuba, 1933-1960
A Political Sociology from Machado to Castro by Samuel Farber
ISBN 0-8195-4099-4 $15.95

Maverick Navy
by Alexander W. Moffat, Captain, USNR (Ret.)
ISBN 0-8195-5000-0 $8.95

Patience Wright
American Artist and Spy in George III's London by Charles Coleman Sellers
ISBN 0-8195-5001-9 $14.95

Regional Variations in the Economic Development of Germany During the Nineteenth Century by Frank B. Tipton, Jr.
ISBN 0-8195-4096-x $22.00

Literary Criticism

Signs, Systems, and Meanings
A Contemporary Semiotic Reading of Four Molière Plays by Suzanne Relyea
ISBN 0-8195-4097-8 $12.00

The Wesleyan Poetry Program

James Tate — Viper Jazz
Ellen Bryant Voigt — Claiming Kin

each, $7.50 cloth; $3.45 paper

Wesleyan
University Press
Middletown, Connecticut 06457

Yale Univ. Pr.
Belnap, N. D., Jr. & T. B. Steel, Jr. The Logic of Questions and Answers. Nov.
Veatch, R. M. Death, Dying, and the Biological Revolution Nov.

POETRY

Atheneum
Dobyns, S. Griffon. Oct.
Levine, P. The Names of the Lost. Oct.
Moss, H. A. Swim Off the Rocks. Oct.

Braziller
Dubie, N. The Illustrations. Oct.

Crown
Harburg, E. Y. At This Point in Rhyme. Nov.

Ecco Pr.
Raab, L. The Collector of Cold Weather. Sept.
Simic, C. & M. Strand, eds. Another Republic. Aug.

Farrar
Bidart, F. The Book of the Body. Nov.
Bishop, E. Geography III. Feb.
Gunn, T. Jack Straw's Castle. Oct.

Harvard Univ. Pr.
Perkins, D. A History of Modern Poetry. Sept.

Liveright: Norton
Cummings, E. E. Tulips & Chimneys. Oct.

Morrow
Ackerman, D. The Planets. Oct.
Pett, S. Pulpit of Bones. Dec.

Norton
Appleman, P. Open Doorways. Sept.
Bankier, J. & others. The Other Voice. Dec.
Lorde, A. Coal. Jul.

Ohio Univ. Pr.
Akhmatova, A. Requiem and Poem Without a Hero. Nov.

Overlook Pr.
Epstein, D. M. The Follies. Feb.

Penguin
Ashbery, J. Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror. Oct.
Gasztold, C. B. de. Prayers from the Ark and The Creatures' Choir. Oct.
Marvell, A. Complete Poems. Dec.
Stallworthy, J. The Penguin Book of Lover Poetry. Sept.
Wordsworth, W. The Prelude. Feb.

Princeton Univ. Pr.
Pinsky, R. Situation of Poetry. Dec.
Rozewicz, T. "The Survivor" and Other Poems. Nov.
Schulman, G. Burn Down the Icons. Oct.

Random
Auden, W. H. Collected Poems. Oct.
Morgan, R. Lady of the Beasts. Oct.
Trungpa, C. First Thought Best Thought. Nov.
Warren, R. P. Selected Poems, 1923-1975. Jan.

Rutgers Univ. Pr.
Pack, R. Keeping Watch. Aug.

Scribners
Creeley, R. Selected Poems. Oct.

Univ. of Illinois Pr.
Smith, D. Cumberland Station. Sept.
Terris, V. Tracking. Sept.

Urizen Bks.
Enzensberger, H. M. Mausoleum. Aug.

Hamburger, M. German Poetry, 1910-1975. Sept.
Handke, P. Nonsense and Happiness. Aug.

Viking
Feldman, I. Leaping Clear. Sept.

Wesleyan Univ. Pr.
Tate, J. Viper Jazz. Oct.
Voigt, E. B. Claiming Kin. Oct.

POLITICAL SCIENCE & PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Atheneum
Phillips, D. A. The Night Watch. Nov.

Cambridge Univ. Pr.
Dunham, V. S. In Stalin's Time. Sept.

Cornell Univ. Pr.
Kalter, R. J. & W. A. Vogely, eds. Energy Supply and Government Policy. Nov.
Rosecrance, R. America as an Ordinary Country. Sept.
Rossiter, C. The Supreme Court and the Commander in Chief. Nov.

Delacorte
Waller, L. Hide in Plain Sight. Sept.

Facts on File
Buncher, J. The CIA and the Security Debate, 1975-76. Vol. 2. Jan.

Farrar
Solzhenitsyn, A. Warning to the West. Oct.

Free Pr.
Alexander, H. E. Campaign Money. Aug.
Barghoorn, F. C. Detente and the Democratic Movement in the USSR. Sept.
Juviler, P. H. Revolutionary Law and Order. Nov.
Kaplan, M. A. Alienation and Identification. Sept.
Kaplan, M. A. Justice, Human Nature, and Political Obligation. Sept.
Luard, E. Types of International Society. Oct.
Rose, R. Managing Presidential Objectives. Sept.
Rosenau, J. N. In Search of Global Patterns. Oct.
Vali, F. A. Politics of the Indian Ocean Region. Nov.
Wong, P. China's Higher Leadership in the Socialist Transition. Nov.

Greenwood
Babunakis, M. Budgets. Oct.
King, F. P., ed. Oceania and Beyond. Oct.

Grove
Faenza, R. & M. Fini. The Americans in Italy. Nov.

Harvard Univ. Pr.
Cocks, P. & others. The Dynamics of Soviet Politics. Jan.
Dreyer, J. T. China's Forty Millions. Nov.

Liberty Classics
Maine, H. S. Popular Government. Nov.

Longman
Fenelon, K. G. The United Arab Emirates. 2d ed. Oct.
Mackerras, C. China. Jun.
Shaw, W. S. Tun Ruzak. Oct.

M.I.T. Pr.
Stockholm Internat. Peace Research Inst. (SIPRI). World Armaments and Disarmaments. SIPRI Yearbook, 1976. Oct.

Norton
Cox, A. M. The Dynamics of Detente. Oct.
Lodge, H. C. As It Was. Nov.
Mollenhoff, C. R. Alleged Assassination Plots Involving Foreign Leaders. Jun.

Orbis
Duggan, W. R. & J. R. Civille. Tanzania and Nyerere. Oct.
Gonzalez Ruiz, J.-M. The New Creation. Oct.
Melady, T. & M. Melady. Uganda. Sept.

Penguin
Ambrose, S. E. Rise to Globalism. Aug.
Burke, E. Reflections on the Revolution in France. Nov.
Godwin, W. Enquiry Concerning Political Justice. Dec.
Halperin, M. H. & R. Borosage. The Lawless State. Nov.
Kahn, E. J., Jr. The China Hands. Sept.

Princeton Univ. Pr.
Axelrod, R. Structure of Decision. Aug.
Barnett, M. R. Politics of Cultural Nationalism. Sept.
Berger, G. M. Parties Out of Power in Japan, 1931-1941. Nov.
Bremer, S. A. Simulated Worlds. Nov.
Gordenker, L. International Aid and National Decisions. Aug.
Hill, L. B. Model Ombudsman. Nov.
Jervis, R. Perception and Misperception in International Politics. Sept.
Ozbudun, E. Social Change and Political Participation in Turkey. Oct.
Rubinstein, A. Z. Red Star on the Nile. Jan.
Thompson, D. John Stuart Mill and Representative Government. Aug.

Random
Dash, S. Chief Counsel. Nov.
The New York Times. If Elected. . . . Sept.
Reich, C. The Sorcerer of Bolinas Reef. Nov.

Rutgers Univ. Pr.
Schwab, G. The Concept of the Political by Carl Schmitt. Sept.

Sage, Calif.
Rummel, R. J. Peace Endangered. Aug.

Scribners
Dolce, P. C. & G. H. Skau. Power and the Presidency. Oct.
Hart, R. A. The Eccentric Tradition. Oct.

Stanford Univ. Pr.
Barton, J. H. & L. D. Weiler, eds. International Arms Control. Sept.
Lewis, J. W., ed. Peasant Rebellion and Communist Revolution in Asia. Sept.

Univ. of Illinois Pr.
Gove, S. K. & others. The Illinois Legislature. Oct.
Matsunaga, S. M. & P. Chen. Rulemakers of the House. Sept.
Nowland, J. D. The Politics of Higher Education. Oct.

Urizen Bks.
Bell, G. The Protestants of Ulster. Sept.
Birchall, I. H. Workers Against the Monolith. Sept.
Boggs, C. Gramsci's Marxism. Sept.
The Bolsheviks and the October Revolution. Sept.
Callinicos, A. Althusser's Marxism. Sept.
Farrell, M. Northern Ireland and the Orange State. Sept.
Harmon, C. Bureaucracy and the Revolution in Eastern Europe. Sept.
Kidron, M. Capitalism and Theory. Sept.
Spriano, P. The Occupation of the Factories. Sept.
Williams, G. A. Proletarian Order. Sept.

Viking
Mintz, M. & J. S. Cohen. Power, Inc. Sept.
Walton, R. J. Henry Wallace, Harry Truman, and the Cold War. Oct.

Yale Univ. Pr.
Autin, L., ed. Japan. Sept.
Bates, R. H. Rural Responses to Industrialization. Oct.
Sacks, P. M. The Donegal Mafia. Dec.
Scott, J. C. The Moral Economy of the Peasant. Dec.

PSYCHOLOGY & PARAPSYCHOLOGY

Abingdon
Strunk, O., Jr. The Secret Self. Sept.

Aroc
Flatto, E. Warning: Sex May Be Hazardous to Your Health. Jul.

Atheneum
Steam, J. A Matter of Immortality. Aug.

Beta Bks.
Segraves, K. L. The Great Flying Saucer Myth. Apr.

Bobbs
Tanay, E., M.D. with L. Freeman. The Murderers. Jan.

Brigham Young Univ. Pr.
Allred, G. H. How To Strengthen Your Marriage and Family. Sept.
Mead, D. E. Six Approaches to Child Rearing. Oct.

Crown
Comfort, A. The Joy of Sex and More Joy of Sex. Aug.
Sharpe, R. & D. Lewis. The Success Factor. Jan.

Delacorte
Ames, L. B. & F. L. Ilg. Your Two Year Old. Sept.
Ames, L. B. & F. L. Ilg. Your Three Year Old. Sept.
Ames, L. B. & F. L. Ilg. Your Four Year Old. Sept.
Postman, N. Crazy Talk, Stupid Talk. Oct.
Puthoff, H. Mind-Reach. Jan.

Dial
Copper, A. & C. Leon. Psychic Summer. Oct.
Kirsten, G. & R. C. Robertiello, M.D. Big You/Little You. Jan.
Raley, P. E. Making Love. Oct.

Dutton
Bord, J. Mazes and Labyrinths of the World. Oct.
Buzan, T. Use Both Sides of Your Brain. Sept.
Grof, S., M.D. Realms of the Human Unconscious. Aug.
Hoffman, B. Getting Divorced from Mother and Dad. Oct.
Holmes, T. Woman's Astrology. Jan.
Malone, M. Psychetypes. Feb.
Shepard, M., M.D. The Do-It-Yourself Psychotherapy Book. Sept.
Soyka, F. with A. Edmonds. The Ion Effect. Feb.
Warren, F. Z., M.D. & W. I. Fischman. Sexual Acupuncture. Feb.

Farrar
Abrahamsen, D. Nixon Vs. Nixon. Feb.
Reich, W. People in Trouble. Nov.
Stern, K. Love and Success. Jan.

Free Pr.
Hermann, M. G. A Psychological Examination of Political Leaders. Nov.
Hofmann, A. D. & others. The Hospitalized Adolescent. Nov.
Miller, K. S. Managing Madness. Sept.

Rosenbaum, M. & A. Snadowsky. The Intensive Group Experience. Sept.

Grove
Allen, P. & M. Allen. Together Sex. Oct.
Berne, E. Beyond Games and Scripts. Nov.
Kerr, C. Feminist Sexual Awareness. Oct.
Walkenstein, E., M.D. Don't Shrink to Fit! Oct.

Harvard Univ. Pr.
Luria, A. R. Cognitive Development. Jan.

Impact
Cheek, D. K. Assertive Black/Puzzled White. Oct.

Knopf
Needleman, J. & D. Lewis, eds. On the Way to Self Knowledge. Oct.

Norton
Erikson, J. M. & others. Activity, Recovery, Growth. Sept.
Kvarnes, R. G., ed. A Harry Stack Sullivan Case Seminar. Sept.

Pantheon
Laing, R. D. Do You Love Me? Oct.

Penguin
Eysenck, H. J. Know Yourself. Sept.
Eysenck, H. J. & G. Wilson. Know Your Own Personality. Aug.
Heim, A. Intelligence and Personality. Sept.
Lowen, A. Bioenergetics. Sept.
Olsen, P. Emotional Flooding. Feb.
Orford, J. The Social Psychology of Mental Disorder. Nov.
Piaget, J. The Child and Reality. Sept.

Prentice-Hall
Bell, T. Active Parent Concern. Nov.
Lee, J. A. The Colors of Love. Oct.
Smith, L. Improving Your Child's Behavior Chemistry. Aug.
White, B. The First Three Years of Life. Aug.

Random
Erhard, W. Making Life Work. Oct.
Suarès, C. The Sepher Yetsira. Nov.

San Francisco Bk. Co.
Gumpertz, R. Dream Notebook. Oct.

S. & S.
Ichazo, O. The Human Process for Enlightenment and Freedom. Jan.

Stein & Day
Chafetz, M., M.D. Why Drinking Can Be Good for You. Dec.
Fellman, S., M.D. & P. Neimark. The Virile Man. Nov.
Miller, M. S. & S. S. Baker. Straight Talk to Parents. Sept.
Sutherland, N. S. Breakdown. Nov.

Taplinger
Cohen, D. Psychologists on Psychology. Jan.
Holroyd, S. PSI and the Consciousness Explosion. Jan.

Temple Univ. Pr.
Fields, R. M. Society Under Siege. Jan.

Touchstone: S. & S.
Frankl, V. E., M.D. The Unconscious God. Sept.
Lifton, R. J. The Life of the Self. Sept.

Urizen Bks.
Borneman, E. The Psychoanalysis of Money. Sept.
Doerner, K. Madmen and the Bourgeoisie. Feb.
Lee, P.C. & R. S. Stewart. Sex Differences. Sept.
Moser, T. Years of Apprenticeship on the Couch. Feb.

Viking
Deleuse, G. & F. Guattari. Anti-Oedipus. Mar.
Ornstein, R. E. The Mind Field. Oct.

Walker
Amit, Z. & E. A. Sutherland. Guide to Intelligent Drinking. Jan.
Lillie, D. L. Teaching Parents to Teach. Nov.

Yale Univ. Pr.
Eissler, R. S. & others, eds. The Psychoanalytic Study of the Child. Vol. 31. Nov.
Muensterberger, W. & others, eds. The Psychoanalytic Study of Society. Vol. 7. Oct.

SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY

Arco
Adams, J. T. Home Handyman's Electricity and Electric Appliances Handbook. Nov.
Adams, J. T. The Metalworking Handbook. Nov.
Carbo, D. Fix It Guide for Women. Sept.
Everett, T. H. How To Grow Beautiful House Plants. Sept.
Foyles Pet Handbooks. 30 vols. Aug.
Gesses, C., ed. The Concise Book of the Horse. Jul.
Gravanis, M.B., M.D. & L. D. Johnson, M.D. Specialty Board Review. Nov.
Gregory, D. Dairy Goats. Aug.
Hazzard, M. E. Medical-Surgical Nursing Review. Oct.
Horemis, G., M.D. Comprehensive Medical Boards Examination Review. Oct.
Horemis, G., M.D. Nursing Comprehensive Examination Review. Oct.
Kitching, J. Birdwatcher's Guide to Wildlife Sanctuaries. Oct.
Morrison, J. W. Certificate in Data Processing Examination. Nov.
Morrison, J. W. Engineer in Training Examination Study Guide. Sept.
Morrison, J. W. Professional Electrical Engineering Examination. Nov.
Papallo, G. What Makes It Work. Aug.
Turner, D. R. Electronic Equipment Maintainer. Sept.
Weissler, P., ed. Auto Repairs You Can Make. Jul.

Atheneum
Dixon, B. Magnificent Microbes. Aug.

Beta Bks.
Kofahl, R. E. Handy Dandy Evolution Refuter. Nov.
Seagraves, K. L. The Great Dinosaur Mistake. Mar.
Segraves, K. L. Search for Noah's Ark. May Segraves, K. L. The Way It Was. Jul.

Bobbs
Claer, V. Common Cagebirds in America. Aug.
Fiennes, R. The Order of Wolves. Sept.
Levitas, I., M.D. with L. Machol. You Can Beat the Odds on Heart Attack. Aug.

Cambridge Univ. Pr.
Baldry, P. E. The Battle Against Bacteria. Oct.
Jones, H. B. & H. C. Jones. Sensual Drugs. Jan.

Cornell Univ. Pr.
Goodwin, D. Crows of the World. Nov.
Naile, F. American Master of Bee Culture. Oct.

Crown
Atkins, R. C., M.D. & S. Linde. Dr. Atkins' Superenergy Diet. Jan.
Burton, R. The Mating Game. Sept.
Dumas, F. Thirty Centuries Under the Sea. Nov.
Postle, D. Fabric of the Universe. Oct.
Winter, R. A Consumers Dictionary of Cosmetic Ingredients. Sept.

Dial
Shealy, N. M.D. Ninety Days to Self-Health. Feb.

Dodd
Durant, M. Who Named the Daisy? Who Named the Rose? Nov.
Rorvik, D. M. & L. B. Shettles. Choose Your Baby's Sex. Oct.
Snow, E. R. Marine Mysteries and Dramatic Disasters of New England. Nov.

Dutton
Brennan, B. & J. P. Heilman. The Complete Book of Midwifery. Feb.
Droscher, V. B. They Love and Kill. Oct.
Glabman, S., MD. & A. S. Freese. Your Kidneys, Their Care and Their Cure. Aug.
Gribbin, J. Our Changing Universe. Oct.
Imperato, P. J., M.D. What To Do About the Flu. Aug.
Kramer, J. Growing Garden Flowers Indoors. Sept.
McCauley, C. S. Pregnancy After 35. Sept.
Sharma, C. H. A Manual of Homoeopathy and Natural Medicine. Aug.

Fireside: S. & S.
Schuler, S. The Gardener's Basic Book of Trees and Shrubs. Sept.

Harvard Univ. Pr.
Antoniades, H. N., ed. Hormones in Human Blood. Sept.
Kistiakowsky, G. B. A Scientist at the White House. Jan.
Marchalonis, J. J. Immunity in Evolution. Jan.
Marshall, K. C. Interfaces in Microbial Ecology. Sept.
Mayr, E. Evolution and the Diversity of Life. Oct.
Weinstein, M. & W. Stason. Hypertension. Jan.

Knopf
Borland, H. Hal Borland's Book of Days. Oct.
Migdalski, E. & G. S. Fichter. Fishes of the World. Oct.
Rosenfeld, A. Prolongevity. Oct.

Seymour Lawrence
Berglund, B. Noah's Ark Is Stranded. Nov.

Longman
Bogdan, A. V. Tropical Pasture and Fodder Plants. May.
British Council. British Scientific Documentation Services. Aug.
Hartley, C. W. S. The Oil Palm. 2d ed. May.
Owen, D. F. Animal Ecology in Tropical Africa. Nov.
Pearce, D. W. Environmental Economics. Aug.

M.I.T. Pr.
Berlinski, D. On Systems Analysis. Sept.
de Neufville, R. Airport Systems Planning. Sept.
Devanney, J. W. & others. Parable Beach. Sept.
Grant, N. & B. C. Giessen, eds. Rapidly Quenched Metals. Nov.
Greep, R. O. & others. Reproduction and Human Welfare. Dec.
Harleman, D. R. F. & others. Heat Disposal in the Water Environment. Oct.
LaVean, G. & W. G. Schmidt. Communications Satellite Development: Systems. Aug.
Lynch, K. A. Managing the Sense of a Region. Oct.
Marcus, H. S. & others. Federal Port Policy in the United States. Sept.
Milora, S. L. & J. W. Tester. Geothermal Energy as a Source of Electric Power. Aug.
O'Toole, J. & others. Energy and Social Change. Oct.
Pacey, A. The Maze of Ingenuity. Oct.
Pugh, A. DYNAMO User's Manual. 5th ed. Aug.
Rakic, P. Local Circuit Neurons. Sept.
Schmidt, W. G. & G. LaVean. Communications Satellite Development: Technology. Aug.
Schwartz, I. R. Aeroacoustics. Aug.
Tong, P. & J. N. Rossettos. Finite Element Method. Oct.
Whitt, F. R. & D. G. Wilson. Bicycling Science. Sept.
Wilson, C. & others. Energy Demand Studies. Nov.

Morrow
Dreyfack, R. Sure Fail. Dec.
Johnston, M. The Last Nine Minutes. Oct.
Ogburn, C. The Adventure of Birds. Sept.
Riker, T. Sex in the Garden. Sept.

Norton
Thomas, B. The Swamp. Oct.

Overlook Pr.
Fisher, J., ed. Thorburn's Birds. Sept.

Pantheon
Bristow, R. Aches and Pains. Nov.
Brook, D. Naturebirth. Oct.

Penguin
Beston, H. The Outermost House. Jan.
Goley, G. with Nassim C. & G. Leach. The Energy Question. Aug.
Francis, P. Volcanoes. Sept.
French, B. M. The Moon Book. Feb.
Penguin Book of the Natural World/ Penguin Book of the Physical World. Sept.
Ridley, B. K. Time, Space and Things. Jan.

Princeton Univ. Pr.
Folland, G. B. Introduction to Partial Differential Equations. Aug.
Hempel, J. 3-Manifolds. Aug.
Lax, P. & R. Phillips. Scattering Theory for Automorphic Functions. Sept.
Lieb, E. H. & others. Studies in Mathematical Physics. Aug.
McCormach, R., ed. Historical Studies in the Physical Sciences. Sept.
Morse, M. Global Variational Analysis. Aug.
Neustadt, L. W. Optimization. Nov.
Sinai, Y. G. Introduction to Ergodic Theory. Aug.

Random
Glasser, R. J., M.D. The Greatest Battle. Nov.
Rush, A. K. Moon, Moon. Oct.

San Francisco Bk. Co.
Katchadourian, H. Human Sexuality. Nov.

Scribners
Dadant & Sons. The Hive and the Honey Bee. Oct.
Feirer, J. L. Wood. Sept.
Lambert, T. Lambert's Birds of Garden and Woodland. Oct.
MacClintock, D. A Natural History of Zebras. Sept.
Manchester, H. New Trail Blazers of Technology. Sept.
Marks, G. & W. K. Beatty. Epidemics. Sept.
Milt, H. Alcoholism. Sept.
Moore, P. Comets. Nov.
Moskowitz, S. Strange Horizons. Oct.

Scheffer, V. B. A Natural History of Marine Mammals. Sept.
Spotte, S. Secrets of the Deep. Oct.

S. & S.
Consumer Guide CB Operator's Kit. Sept.
Consumer Guide Rating and Raising Vegetables. Jan.
Erikson, K. T. Everything in Its Path. Jan.
The International Book of Wood. Oct.
Koch, J. The Total Baby Development Program. Oct.
Selzer, R. Mortal Lessons. Jan.

Stein & Day
Ford, B. J. Microbe Power. Sept.
Fredman, S., M.D. & R. E. Burger. Forbidden Cures. Nov.
Knight, G. Concorde. Jul.

Taplinger
Bristowe, W. S. The World of Spiders. Nov.
Brown, P. L. Megaliths, Myths and Men. Dec.
Chinery, M. Life in the Zoo. Aug.
Fyson, M. Stinkerbelle the Nark. Aug.
Hill, L. & E. Wood. Birdland. Aug.
Hooper, M. Everyday Inventions. Aug.
John, L., ed. Cosmology Now. Nov.
Serventy, V. Desert Walkabout. Sept.
Travers, J. Starting from Scratch. Sept.
Tyler, M. J. Frogs. Aug.

Temple Univ. Pr.
Bauman, M. K. Blindness, Visual Impairment, Deaf-Blindness. Dec.
Lent, J. A. Broadcasting in Asia and the Pacific. Dec.

Universe Bks.
Diener & Romberger. Virology in Agriculture. Dec.
Hunter & Bottrall. Serving the Small Farmer. Dec.
More, D. The Bee Book. Oct.
Reubens, B. Bridges to Work. Dec.
Rivers, P. The Survivalists. Oct.
Roots, C. Animal Invaders. Oct.

Univ. of Illinois Pr.
Jaycox, E. R. Beekeeping in the Midwest. Oct.

Viking
Wickers, D. The Complete Urban Farmer. Feb.

Walker
Asimov, I. How Did We Find Out About Nuclear Power? Nov.
Aylesworth, T. G. Science at the Ballgame. Jan.
Selsam, M. E. A First Look at Animals Without Backbones. Oct.
Simon, S. Animals in Your Neighborhood. Oct.
Simon, S. Everything Moves. Sept.
Thompson, S. L. Diary of a Monarch Butterfly. Aug.

Wesleyan Univ. Pr.
Greenhill, B. Archaeology of the Boat. Nov.

Westminster
Francis, J. & P. Albrecht. Facing Up to Nuclear Power. Nov.

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Abingdon
Stapleton, J. & R. Bright. Equal Marriage. Oct.

Arco
Arco Teacher's Plan Book: Elementary School. Aug.
Arco Teacher's Plan Book: Jr. & Sr. High School. Aug.
Asta, P. & L. Bernbach. Test Your Vocational Aptitude. Oct.
Corwen, L. Your Resume. Jul.
Froe, O. D. & O. B. Froe. The Easy Way to Better Grades. Aug.
MacCloskey, M. Your Future in the Military Services. Aug.
Morton, A. C. The 1976-77 Airline Guide to Stewardess and Steward Careers. Jul.
Morton, A. C. The Official 1976-77 Guide to Airline Careers. Jul.
Turner, D. R. English Grammar and Usage for Test Takers. Nov.
Turner, D. R. Hospital Security Officer. Jul.
Turner, D. R. Senior Typist. Jul.
Wellman, L. Teacher of English as a Second Language. Sept.

Atheneum
Baer, J. How To Be an Assertive (not Aggressive) Woman. Oct.

Bobbs
Spiering, F. The Man Who Got Capone. Jan.

Community Law Reports
Crandall, T. D., ed. FTC Door-to-Door Sales Rule. Nov.
Dunlap, M. C., ed. Sex Discrimination in Employment. Feb.

Cornell Univ. Pr.
Grimes, R. L. Symbol and Conquest. Nov.

Crown
Brain, R. The Last Primitive Peoples. Nov.
Comfort, A. A Good Age. Sept.
Fajardo, R. Helping Your Alcoholic Before He or She Hits Bottom. Oct.

Dial
Shanor, K. The Fantasy Files. Feb.

Dutton
Barthel, J. A Death in Canaan. Nov.
Breslin, C. The Mistress Condition. Sept.
Dickinson, P. A. The Complete Retirement Planning Book. Oct.
Slater, P. Footholds. Jan.

Facts on File
Sobel, L. A. Job Bias. Nov.
Sobel, L. A. Welfare and the Poor. Dec.

Fortress
Arnold, O. Guide Yourself Through Old Age. Sept.

Free Pr.
Benet, M. K. The Politics of Adoption. Aug.
Coser, L. A. & O. N. Larsen. The Uses of Controversy in Sociology. Sept.
Furstenberg, F. F. Unplanned Parenthood. Sept.
Hare, A. P. Handbook of Small Group Research. Nov.
Klockars, C. B. The Professional Fence. Sept.
Leff, A. A. Swindling and Selling. Aug.
Loubser, J. J. & others. Explorations in General Theory in Social Science. Aug.
Merton, R. K. Sociological Ambivalence and Other Essays. Sept.
Reisman, W. M. & B. H. Weston. Toward Work Order and Human Dignity. Sept.
Roazen, P. Erik H. Erikson. Nov.
Thomas, E. J. Marital Communication and Decision Making. Oct.
Unger, R. M. Knowledge and Politics. Oct.

Gordon Cremonesi
Bidwell, S. Red, White and Black. Oct.
Coleman, V. Everything You Want to Know About Ageing. Aug.

Greenwood
Finestone, H. Victims of Change. Aug.
Overbeek, J. The Population Challenge. Aug.
Radine, L. B. The Taming of the Troops. Dec.
Radzinowicz, L. & R. Hood. Criminology and the Administration of Criminal Justice. Nov.
Walker, R. H., ed. American Studies. Sept.
Walsh, M. E. The Fence. Dec.
Weeks, J. R. Teenage Marriages. Sept.

Grove
Crafts, K. & B. Hauther. Surviving the Undergraduate Jungle. Oct.

Harvard Univ. Pr.
Bennett, N. Teaching Styles and Pupil Progress. Sept.
Bracton, H. de. Bracton on the Laws and Customs of England. Nov.
Brown, K. L. People of Sale. Aug.
Hirsch, F. Social Limits to Growth. Oct.

Hastings
Combs, J. E. & M. W. Mansfield. Drama in Life. Sept.
Fischer, H.-D. & J. C. Merrill. International and Intercultural Communication. Sept.

Hill & Wang: Farrar
Von Hirsch, A. Doing Justice. Sept.

Knopf
Chase, A. The Legacy of Malthus. Jan.
Gaylin, W. Caring. Oct.
Leach, P. Babyhood. Sept.
Sennett, R. The Fall of Public Man. Jan.

Liveright:Norton
Adams, H. The Academic Tribes. Nov.
Featherstone, J. What Schools Can Do. Sept.

Longman
Barker, D. & S. Allen. Dependence and Exploitation in Work and Marriage. Dec.
British Council. Higher Education in the United Kingdom '76-'78. Oct.
Green, P. S. The Language Laboratory in School. May.
Moroney, R. M. The Family and the State. Jan.
Peach, G. C. K. Urban Social Segregation. Feb.

M.I.T. Pr.
Flink, J. J. The Car Culture. Sept.
Lynch, K. A. What Time Is This Place? Sept.
Sachs, I. The Discovery of the Third World. Oct.
Sussman, C., ed. Planning the Fourth Migration. Nov.
Sutton, S. B. Cambridge Reconsidered. Oct.

Morrow
Bottomore, T. B. Sociology as Social Criticism. Aug.
Nichols, M. Man, Myth, and Monument. Aug.
Worthy, W. The Rape of Our Neighborhoods. Jul.

Northland
Wright, B. Pueblo Shields. Aug.

Norton
Barracato, J. with P. Michelmore. Arson! Aug.
Bledstein, B. J. The Culture of Professionalism. Nov.
Knapp, M. & H. Knapp. One Potato, Two Potato. . . . Oct.
Komarovsky, M. Dilemmas of Masculinity. Jul.
Peirce, N. R. The New England States. Jul.
Rich, A. Of Woman Born. Oct.
Weiner, J. B. Drinking. Oct.

Orbis
Davies, J. G. Christians, Politics, and Violent Revolution. Aug.
Imfeld, A. China, Model of Development. Sept.

Pantheon
Bailey, R. & M. Brake, eds. Radical Social Work. Oct.

Penguin
Connerton, P. Critical Sociology. Feb.
Klaw, S. The Great American Medicine Show. Nov.
Leach, E. Claude Levi-Strauss. Dec.
Lewis, I. M. Social Anthropology in Perspective. Sept.
Rein, M. Social Science and Public Policy. Oct.
Simpson, R. From the Closet to the Courts. Jan.

Phaidon: Dutton
Collins, D. The Human Revolution. Sept.

Prentice-Hall
Bass, H. & M. S. Rein. Divorce or Marriage. Oct.
Dygert, J. H. The Investigative Journalist. Nov.
Key, W. B. Media Sexploitation. Sept.

Princeton Univ. Pr.
Adams, W. Y. Nubia. Dec.
Dolgin, J. L. Jewish Identity and the JDL. Jan.
Ryan, R. M. Keats. Oct.

Random
Baxandall, R. & others, eds. America's Working Women. Sept.
Medved, M. & D. Wallechinsky. What Really Happened to the Class of '65? Sept.
Redstockings. Eds. Feminist Revolution. Nov.
Sertima, I. V. They Came Before Columbus. Jan.

Scribners
Breasted, J. H. The Dawn of Conscience. Sept.
Goldberg, L. Learning To Choose. Sept.
Leinwoll, S. So You Think You're Covered. Feb.
Shulman, A. The New Country. Oct.

S. & S.
Beck, J. Effective Parenting. Sept.
Cammer, L. Freedom from Compulsion. Sept.
Gordon, T. P.E.T. in Action, Inside P.E.T. Families. Sept.
Halpern, H. Cutting Loose. Nov.
Jones, P. & S. Jones. Parents, Unite! Sept.
Seifer, N., ed. Nobody Speaks for Me! Sept.
Swell, L. Success. Jan.

Stanford Univ. Pr.
Atkinson, D. & others, eds. Women in Russia. Jan.
Broom, L. & F. L. Jones. Opportunity and Attainment in Australia. Jan.
Phillips, D. C. Holistic Thought in Social Science. Sept.

Stein & Day
Tarrant, J. J. The End of Exurbia. Nov.

Taplinger
Aiken, J. & J. R. Laury. The Tote Bag Book. Jan.
Hemery, D. Another Hurdle. Aug.
Laury, J. R. A Treasury of Needlecraft Gifts for the New Baby. Oct.
Warren, G. A Stitch in Time. Oct.

Temple Univ. Pr.
Arens, R. Genocide in Paraguay. Dec.
Finder, M. Reason and Art in Teaching Secondary School English. Oct.
Gerson, L. D. The Secret Police in Lenin's Russia. Oct.
Lucas, S. E. Portents of Rebellion. Sept.

Touchstone: S. & S.
Scribner, H. B. & L. B. Stevens. Make Your Schools Work. Sept.

Universe Bks.
Griffin, K. Poverty and Landlessness in Rural Asia. Dec.
Hunter & others. Policy and Practice in Rural Development. Dec.

Univ. of Illinois Pr.
Isbell, W. H. The Rural Foundation for Urbanism. Dec.
Lewis, O. & others. Living the Revolution. Jan.
Randolph, V. Pissing in the Snow and Other Ozark Folktales. Nov.
Steward, J. H. Evolution and Ecology. Oct.
Stone, V. C., ed. Civil Liberties and Civil Rights. Oct.

Univ. of North Carolina Pr.
Carney, A. Nor More Here and There. Aug.
Williams, J. E. & J. K. Morland. Race, Color, and the Young Child. Nov.

Univ. Pr. of Kentucky
Horowitz, H. L. Culture and the City. Oct.

Urizen Bks.
Arato, A. & E. Gebhardt. The Essential Frankfurt School Reader. Feb.
Pearce, F. Crimes of the Powerful. Sept.
Shaw, M. Marxism vs. Sociology. Sept.
Thonessen, W. The Emancipation of Women. Sept.
van Onselen, C. Chibaro. Sept.

Viking
Gordon, L. Woman's Body, Woman's Right. Oct.
Holme, B. & others, eds. The Journal of the Century. Oct.
Karp, A. J., ed. Golden Door to America. Aug.
Klose, K. & others. Hustle! Jan.
Winn, M. The Plug-In Drug. Feb.
Watters, P. The Angry Middle-Aged Man. Nov.

James Wade: Dial
Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc. Land Use Controls in the United States. Oct.

Westminster
Elias, J. L. Conscientization and Deschooling. Nov.

Yale Univ. Pr.
Brooks, R. R. R. & V. S. Wakankar. Stone Age Painting in India. Sept.
Burk, A. The Stone Circles of the British Isles. Sept.
Jacobsen, T. The Treasures of Darkness. Oct.
Yadin, Y., ed. Jerusalem Revealed. Sept.

SPORTS & RECREATION

Abingdon
Coskey, E. Christmas Cards for Everyone. Aug.

Arco
Burke, E. H. Archery Handbook. Jul.
Conder, A. D. Training the Driving Pony. Nov.
Delano, J. The New Book of Leatherwork. Aug.
Frere, P. The Porsche 911 Story. Jul.
Gertz, A. L. Shoe Your Own Horse. Oct.
Mosemans' Illustrated Guide for Purchasers of Horse Furnishing Goods, Novelties and Stable Appointments. Aug.
Müseler, W. Riding Logic. Aug.
Posey, J. K. The Rider's Handbook. Nov.
Pritchard, A. Maserati—a History. Jul.
Scott, A. Ask Alice Scott About Small Animal Pets. Oct.
Self, M. C. The Problem Horse and the Problem Horseman. Oct.
Sprung, D. B., ed. Dog Visualizations Dog Lover's Complete Guide. Sept.
Stecken, F. Training the Horse and Rider. Nov.
Treves, R. Early American Furniture You Can Build. Jul.
Truscott, A. & D. H. Truscott. Teach Yourself Basic Bidding. Jul.

Atheneum
Gutcheon, B. & J. Gutcheon. The Quilt Design Workbook. Oct.
McCormack, M. H. The World of Professional Golf. Aug.
Morgan, J. Baseball My Way. Aug.
Morley, D. C. The Missing Links. Jul.
Owens, J. with D. O'Connor. Track and Field. Oct.
Shapiro, N. World of Horseback Riding. Oct.
Trevino, L. with D. Aultman. Groove Your Golf Swing My Way. Oct.

Bobbs
Blackburn, G. The Postage Stamp Gazeteer. Nov.
Cohen, R. M. & others. Scrapbook History of Pro Football. Sept.
Farlie, B. L. & C. C. Sloan. Your House in Needlepoint. Oct.
Orshefsky, N. Punch Pillow Craft. Oct.
Snow, M. & P. Snow. Greetings! Sept.

Crown
Clark, H. The World's Greatest Magic. Oct.
Hines, M. American Heirloom Bargello. Nov.
Meilach, D. Z. Creating Art with Bread Dough. Aug.
Moss, F., ed. The Lore of Sportfishing. Oct.
Newman, T. R. Contemporary Southeast Asian Arts and Crafts. Dec.
Official Encyclopedia of Bridge. Nov.
Olsheim, L., ed. Creative Handicrafts Course. Aug.
Rothenberg, P. Decorating Glass. Nov.
Saunders, R. Collecting and Restoring Wicker Furniture. Sept.

Delacorte
Crenshaw, M. A. & N. Kounovsky. Shape Up for Super Sex. Jan.

Dial
Chatterton, P. Patchwork and Applique. Feb.
Kusnick, B. A. The Boatman's bible. Sept.
Page, P. The Big Book of Magic. Oct.

Dodd
Cannel, D. & J. Leather. Modern Development in Yacht Design. Aug.
Curry, G. E. Jake Gaither. Nov.
D'Imperio, D. The Country Antiques Companion. Jan.
Fischler, S. Garry Unger and the Battling Blues. Jan.
Jordan, P. Broken Patterns. Jan.
Libby, B. Goliath. Jan.
Mills, B. Restoring Convertibles. Jan.
Murray, W. Horse Fever. Aug.
Watts, A. Basic Windcraft. Jul.

Dutton
Automobile Quarterly's Great Cars and Grand Marques. Nov.
Brakefield, T. Hunting Big-Game Trophies. Sept.
Eskenazi, G., ed. A Thinking Man's Guide to Pro Hockey. Nov.
Iseman, J. Play Paddle! Sept.
Karas, N. America's Favorite Salt water Fishing. Nov.
Louis, H. & B. Currie. The Classic Motorcycles. Sept.
Outdoor Life Eds. The Story of American Hunting and Firearms. Aug.

Fireside: S & S.
Evans, L. Modern Chess Brilliancies. Sept.

Harmony: Crown
Truscott, L. K., IV. The Complete Van Book. Aug.

Hastings
Heaton, P. The Singlehanders. Aug.

John Hopkins
Scott, B. Lacrosse. Nov.

Knopf
Carson, R. B. The Olympian Cars. Nov.
Cruso, T. Thalassa Cruso's Three-year Gardening Almanac and Calendar. Aug.
Jones, J. Wonders of the Stereoscope. Oct.
McElroy, J. Joan McElroy's Dolls' House Furniture Book. Oct.
Watson, R. A. The Longest Cave. Aug.

Liveright: Norton
Forbis, J. The Classic Arabian Horse. Jul.

Morrow
Clabburn, P. The Needleworker's Dictionary. Oct.
Cushion, J. P. Pottery and Porcelain Tablewares. Nov.
Jarry, M. & M. Dobry. Period Needlepoint for Antique Furniture. Oct.
Thompson, B. & H. Johnson. The California Wine Book. Oct.

Norton
Brown, L. Weeds in Winter. Nov.
Howard-Williams, J. The Care and Repair of Sails. Oct.
Pyles, R. & P. Musser. How To Become an Expert Recreational Skier. Oct.
Sleightholme, J. D. This Is Basic Sailboat Cruising. Jul.

Overlook Pr.
Hechtlinger, A. The Seasonal Hearth. Oct.
Ross, B. & C. Ross. Modern and Classic Woodburning Stoves. Oct.

Penguin
Barr, S. & S. Standard. The Kitchen Garden Book. Feb.
Bonington, C. Everest South West Face. Dec.
Cash, A. ed. The Second Penguin Book of the Sunday Times Crosswords. Jan.
Durrell, G. Catch Me a Colobus. Nov.
MacInnes, H. Climb to the Lost World. Aug.
Tayleur, W. H. T. The Penguin Book of Home Brewing and Wine-Making. Sept.
Todd, L. Trash Can Toys and Games. Sept.

Potter
Huberty, E. & W. B. Wange. Olympics 1976. Oct.

Prentice-Hall
Bennet, T., ed. The Pro Style. Oct.
Brock, L. with F. Schulze. Stealing Is My Game. Sept.
Gildea, W. & C. Jennison. The Fighting Irish. Oct.
Holmes, N. The Dream Boats. Oct.
Leonard, J. E. The Essential Fly Tier. Sept.
Ralbovsky, M. The Namath Effect. Oct.
Reichler, J., ed. The Game and the Glory. Aug.
Zadig, E. The Complete Book of Boating. 2d ed. Aug.

Random
Brondfeld, J. Rockne. Nov.
Casewit, C. W. The Mountain World. Oct.
Cooke, B. & J. Bradshaw. Backgammon. Aug.
Gallwey, W. T. Inner Tennis. Nov.
Gilber, J. The Flier's World. Oct.
Greenfield, J. The World's Greatest Team. Nov.
Klein, D. The Game of Their Lives. Oct.
Tarr, B. & B. Ross. Now You See It, Now You Don't. Oct.
Walt Disney Characters Needlepoint Workbook. Oct.
Ward-Thomas, P. & others. The World Atlas of Golf. Nov.

San Francisco Bk. Co.
Frizzell, C. New Glass. Oct.

Scribners
Berglund, B. Wilderness Living. Sept.
Berloquin, P. 100 Numerical Games. Sept.
Flying Magazine. Sport Flying. Sept.
Gardner, M. The Incredible Dr. Matrix. Sept.
Gross, H. Simplified Bookbinding. Sept.
Hobbs, H. J. Veneer Craft for Every one. Sept.
Jargocki, C. Science Brain-Twisters, Paradoxes and Fallacies. Sept.
Lane, M. Maggie Lane's Needlepoint Pillows. Nov.
Lane, M. Rugs and Wall Hangings. Nov.
Ley, S. Russian and Other Slavic Embroidery Designs. Oct.
Parker, B. & E. Martin. Embroidery Magic on Patterned Fabrics. Nov.
Robinson, B. America's Sailing Book. Dec.
Scharff, R. The Furniture Maker's Handbook. Jan.

S. & S.
Farrar, M., ed. Crosswords from the Times. Jan.
Farrar, M., ed. The Crossword Puzzle Book. Nov.
Harrison, G. H. Roger Tory Peterson's Dozen Birding Hot Spots. Nov.
Lee, S. Bring on the Bad Guys. Oct.
Lee, S. Mighty Marvel Strength and Fitness Book. Sept.
Lee, S. Origins of Marvel Comics and Son of Origins of Marvel Comics. Oct.
The McCall's Book of America's Favorite Needlework & Crafts. Aug.
McCall's Embroidery Book. Jan.
Maleska, E. T. The Crossword Book of Quotations. Sept.
Middleton, T. H. Simon and Schuster Crostics. Oct.
Psychocalisthenics. Nov.
Staples, C. M. The Yarn Animal Book. Nov.
Steinkraus, W., ed. The U.S. Equestrian Team Book of Riding. Oct.
The Woman's Day Book of Gifts to Make. Jan.
Woman's Day Gifts from Your Kitchen. Oct.

Stein & Day
Cirillo, J. The Westchester Book. Oct.
Grounds, R. The Natural Garden. Nov.

Univ. Pr. of Kentucky
Hollingsworth, K. The Kentucky Thoroughbred. Oct.

Viking
Dolensek, E., D. V. M. & B. Burn. A Practical Guide to Impractical Pets. Aug.
Greenaway, K. Kate Greenaway's Book of Games. Oct.
Marein, S. Flowers in Design. Jan.
Snyder, P. V. The Christmas Tree Book. Oct.
Straub, M. Hand Weaving and Cloth Design. Nov.
Thompson, T. Saloon. Nov.

Walker
Gault, F. & C. Gault. Stories from the Olympics. Aug.
Holt, M. Mathematical Puzzles and Pastimes. Jan.
Kramer, J. Decorative Vines. Jan.
Williams, H. T. Window Gardening. Oct.

for all librarians needing information on —

AUTHORS AND THEIR WORKS

Gale Reference Books

CHILDREN'S AUTHORS AND ILLUSTRATORS: An Index to Biographical Dictionaries. First Edition. Edited by Dennis La Beau. Cites 17,686 biographical sketches of children's authors and illustrators in 31 biographical dictionaries and other reference sources emphasizing writers active in this century. This new master index sharply reduces tedious, time-consuming searching through many volumes. 170pp. $15.00. (Ready December 1976)

TWENTIETH-CENTURY LITERARY CRITICISM. Volume 1. Edited by Carolyn Riley and Phyllis Carmel Mendelson. Complementing Gale's popular Contemporary Literary Criticism series, this new series presents long excerpts from representative criticism on the great authors of the period 1900 to 1960—the era most frequently studied in high school and college literature courses. Each 600-page volume provides definitive overviews of about 50 authors. Write for the descriptive brochure containing sample pages plus an extensive list of authors to be included in early volumes. $38.00/vol. (Vol. 1 Ready March 1977)

CHILDREN'S LITERATURE REVIEW. Volume 2. Edited by Carolyn Riley. Each volume in this exciting series provides excerpts from contemporary reviews, criticism, and commentary on about 40 past and present authors of children's books (preschool through teens). "Highly recommended. Essential for any library serving children and young adults" (Gilbert B. Cross, Library Journal, April 15, 1976). $25.00/vol. (Vols. 1 and 2 In Print)

CONTEMPORARY AUTHORS. Edited by Cynthia Fadool. With the publication of Volume 61-64, CA now covers 47,500 authors—70% of whom are not listed elsewhere! Volumes 1-4 through 17-20 have been revised and updated. "Our high recommendation for Contemporary Authors can be repeated: it is a useful series that shows constant editorial improvement" (Bohdan S. Wynar, American Reference Books Annual, 1976).$38.00/4-vol. unit. (Vols. 1-4 through 61-64 In Print)

CONTEMPORARY LITERARY CRITICISM. Volume 6. Edited by Carolyn Riley and Phyllis Carmel Mendelson. Furnishing excerpts from criticism in both major and minor publications, each CLC volume includes criticism on authors not previously covered, plus new criticism on authors already treated. "One cannot imagine a school or academic library, let alone any but the smallest public library, getting along without this work" (Kenyon C. Rosenberg, American Reference Books Annual, 1975). $38.00/vol. (Vols. 1-6 In Print)

SOMETHING ABOUT THE AUTHOR. Volume 9. Edited by Anne Commire. Numerous illustrations, large, clear type, absence of abbreviations, and "sidelights" on authors distinguish this widely-used reference. The nine volumes published thus far offer bio-bibliographical sketches on 1,800 different authors. "[Containing a] wealth of drawings, authors' photographs, and other illustrative material, and the interesting sidelights on the authors, [SATA] will continue to appeal to the young reader" (Frances Neel Cheney, Reference Services Review, July/September 1974). $25.00/vol. (Vols. 1-9 In Print)

. . . and Introducing

YESTERDAY'S AUTHORS OF BOOKS FOR CHILDREN: Facts and Pictures about Authors and Illustrators of Books for Young People. Edited by Anne Commire. Similar in format to Something about the Author, this new series will provide extensive bio-bibliographical information on children's authors and illustrators who died before 1961. Numerous illustrations, expansive sidelights sections, and other special features will make this series attractive to both students of children's literature and to children themselves. $25.00/vol. (Vol. 1 Ready March 1977)

All of these reference books on Authors and Their Works are sent on 30-day Approval and are available on Standing Order.

WRITE FOR COMPLETE DETAILS

Gale Research Co. • BOOK TOWER • DETROIT, MICH. 48226

BOOK REVIEW

The Contemporary Scene

Arble, Meade. The Long Tunnel: a coal miner's journal.

Atheneum. Oct. 1976. ISBN 0-689-10738-2. $8.95. LABOR/PER NAR

The author—middle class, educated, but otherwise unemployable—returns to the coal mining town where he grew up to apply for a job in the mines. His journal, a running account of his experiences, is not just another participant–observation study in which work and workers are viewed by an outsider. The difference is that Arble shared the workers' desperation because he, like them, perceived no way out of the situation. The Long Tunnel truly conveys the sense of alienation and powerlessness of the American worker. The coal miner exemplifies this condition for he works with the knowledge that management's arbitrary and often illegal decisions can lead ultimately to his own physical mutilation, sickness, and even death. If this helplessness is the dominant theme, the lack of any sort of compensatory pride in work is the subordinate one. Arble's journal offers significant insights into the living hell of this dangerous vocation and by extension into the working lives of what Studs Terkel calls "the working wounded among the great many of us." Highly recommended.—Ken Nash, Queens Borough P.L., New York

Rubin, Richard L. Party Dynamics: the Democratic coalition and the politics of change.

Oxford Univ. Pr. 1976. 203p. index. LC 75-32352. $9.95; pap. $3.95. POL SCI

Over the past three decades the Democratic party—the majority party in the electorate—has tended to capture control of Congress but not the White House. The typical result has been policy deadlock. Rubin addresses this problem and asks whether the instability and decline in power of the Democratic Presidential coalition can be reversed and the reversal maintained. The shape of America's political future, Rubin suggests, depends on the outcome of political conflicts that are occurring between competing elements within the Democratic party. While most party analyses have focused on either key electoral groups or party elites, Rubin examines the dynamic interaction of both. The result is a brief but informative and mercifully readable analysis of the changing character of the American party system.—Edward C. Dreyer, Dept. of Political Science, Univ. of Tulsa, Okla.

Salibi, Kamal S. Crossroads to Civil War: Lebanon, 1958–1976.

Caravan, dist. by Internat. Scholarly Bk. Servs. 1976. 178p. photogs. index. LC 75-45397. ISBN 0-88206-010-4. $15. POL SCI/HIST

American journalism rarely succeeds in probing beneath the surface of the tangled developments of the Middle East. In welcome contrast, Salibi carefully describes the political atmosphere and events in Lebanon during the last two decades, and illuminates his detailed report with useful insights into the shifting factions now tearing the country to pieces. He examines the complex political system linking Christians and Muslims in a unique, bireligious state, and explains how the balance disintegrated after the 1968 elections, under the pressure of domestic corruption and inter-Arab intrigue. Salibi sets forth the view that the Palestinian nationalist movement, impotent in the Israeli-occupied areas and defeated in Jordan, exacerbated domestic Lebanese conflicts and pushed the rival groups into self-destructive warfare. Readers need perseverance to penetrate a sometimes dense prose style, but those taking the time will be rewarded with an accurate and objective, if depressing, analysis.—Elizabeth R. Hayford, Assistant Dean for International Education, Oberlin Coll., Ohio

Smith, Joseph Burkholder. Portrait of a Cold Warrior.

Putnam. Oct. 1976. 422p. index. ISBN 0-399-11788-1. $11.95. PER NAR/INT AFFAIRS

Having quit the CIA in 1973 after 20 years of service, Smith has no hesitation in this detailed account of his CIA work in documenting the arbitrariness of this institution's power and the blind commitment to Cold War ideology which has so characterized CIA activities since Truman's Administration. A former teacher of Far East history, Smith joined the CIA looking for a challenge and soon becmae involved in the internal politics of the Phillipines and Indonesia. His career later took him to South America and Vietnam where he used his considerable talents to win friends for the U.S. Throughout his career, he maintained the official view of the CIA concerning the Cold War, although he showed many doubts along the way about the negative treatment the CIA gave to non-Communist social reformers in the Far East and South America. He now feels very strongly that the CIA needs more regulatory control from Congress and less bureaucracy, but he just as strongly believes in the necessity of certain covert activities. Unfortunately, his book is excruciatingly detailed with names, dates, and fragments of verbatim conversations, and this may bog down the general reader. And because of the many recent revelations concerning the CIA, the message of this portrait cannot be considered unusual or even particularly revealing. Perhaps the most important part of this book is that it is written by a former "insider."—Jack Forman, Eastern Massachusetts Regional Lib. System

CONTENTS

The Contemporary Scene	2047
Reference	2048
Art	2051
Biography	2054
Business & Economics	2058
Communications	2058
Education	2059
History	2059
Home Economics	2063
Humor	2064
Literature	2064
Music	2066
Philosophy	2066
Poetry	2068
Political Science & International Affairs	2069
Psychology & Psychiatry	2070
Religion	2072
Science & Technology	2073
Social Science	2076
Sports & Recreation	2079
Theater	2081
Fiction	2082
Mystery, Detective & Suspense	2087
Book Review & Professional Reading Author Index	2089

Library Journal reviews are indexed in Book Review Index and in Book Review Digest.

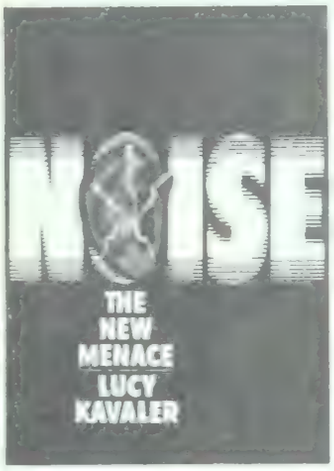
THE CROWELL CORNER · A JOHN DAY BOOK



NOISE: THE NEW MENACE
by Lucy Kavaler

"...well written....The book should be read by anyone who's the least bit concerned about peace and quiet."—Library Journal

ISBN: 0-381-98274-2
LC: 74-9367

$7.95

THE JOHN DAY COMPANY

index to women

Index to Women is a long-needed, comprehensive volume by Norma Olin Ireland, including women of all countries from ancient to modern times: their biographies, portraits, and chief contributions. The volume indexes more than 930 collections, covering approximately 10,000 women. It is arranged alphabetically, with date and identification (nationality and occupation) given for each woman.

Special features of Index to Women include: (1) all women in Current Biography (volume 1 to 1970), New Yorker's "Profiles" (complete to 1970), and Bulletin of Bibliography; (2) many books for young people (starred), especially suitable for smaller libraries; (3) a variety of historical volumes, of interest to researchers; and (4) portraits, as found in the books indexed. In the Useful Reference Series of Library Books. Send for your copy today.

ISBN 0-87305-097-5 Cloth $16.00
664pp. © 1970

F.W. FAXON COMPANY, INC.
Publishing Division

Tinnin, David B. with Dag Christensen. The Hit Team.

Little. 1976. 238p. ISBN 0-316-84590-6. $7.95. INT AFFAIRS

Tinnin, a Time magazine associate editor, describes the operations of an Israeli intelligence unit dedicated to assassinating members of Arab terrorist organizations. The group successfully assassinated 12 men. But on the thirteenth mission, an innocent man was murdered in Norway, and several operatives were apprehended and brought to trial by the Norwegian government. It is the thirteenth mission that Tinnin exposes in depth with the help of Norwegian journalist Christensen. This well-written and apparently well-researched book should provoke a great deal of controversy as well as denials from the Israeli government. Public libraries will want to have this title on their shelves.—Andrea Caron Kempf, Univ. of Northern Colorado Lib., Greeley Wollenberg, Charles. All Deliberate Speed: segregation and exclusion in California schools, 1855-1975.

Univ. of California Pr. Oct. 1976. 200p. bibliog. index. LC 75-46047. ISBN 0-520-03191-1. $10. HIST ED

This historical narrative traces the exclusion of black, Mexican, Asian, and Indian minorities in California's public schools. Utilizing action in the courts to brace his analysis, Wollenberg is able to overview the struggle from a legal perspective and still remain sensitive to the agents as participants in a social process. The book's unifying theme centers on the evolution of two variant views of American education, with the proponents of one view insisting that education should be particularist and reflect community values while proponents of the other view hold that education should be national in character and responsive to universal values. A welcome book that helps to place in perspective the troubling national debate over school busing.—Michael Fenenbock, Washington, D.C.

Worthy, William. The Rape of Our Neighborhoods and How Communities Are Resisting Take-Overs by Colleges, Hospitals, Churches, Businesses, and Public Agencies.

Morrow. 1976. 276p. pref. by Kenneth B. Clark. index. LC 76-2678. ISBN 688-00318-4. $8.95. URBAN AFFAIRS

Representatives of Manhattan's Columbus Hospital had no idea what they were getting into when they tried to raze Worthy's 48-unit apartment house for a parking lot. Five years and untold thousands of dollars later Worthy and his neighbors claimed victory. This and other attempted takeovers are described by journalist Worthy in a factual, well-written, and interesting presentation. Nat Hentoff, who provides the introduction, expresses the hope that this book will confront urban planners, among others, with their social and personal consciences. This is good material for community organizers and citizen activist groups, especially with the inclusion of how-to-do-it appendixes.—John C. McGee, Urban Planning Consultant, Mystic, Conn.

REFERENCE

Abernethy, Peter L. & others, comps. English Novel Explication: supplement I.

Shoe String. 1976. 305p. bibliog. index. LC 73-410. ISBN 0-208-01464-0. $12.50. LIT/BIBLIOG

This is actually the third in a set of critical bibliographies, the earlier volumes being Inglis F. Bell and Donald Baird's The English Novel, 1578-1956 (Swallow, 1959) and Helen H. Palmer and Anne Jane Dyson's English Novel Explication: Criticisms to 1972 (LJ 9/1/73). In this volume the compilers have followed the format used by Palmer and Dyson—the items are arranged alphabetically by author, subdivided by novel title. Accordingly there are no general works on an author's style, only items relating to specific novels. An expansion of the working hypothesis of the "English novelist" has resulted in the inclusion of several authors, such as Hilaire Belloc, not found in Palmer and Dyson. By indexing approximately 600 books plus numerous journals covering the period between 1972 and 1974, the compilers have made this an invaluable addition to the earlier works. Since the first two bibliographies are still in print, perhaps now is the time for libraries to consider purchasing all three.—Sheila Pepper, McMaster Univ. Lib., Hamilton, Canada

Acerrano, Anthony J. The Outdoorsman's Emergency Manual.

Winchester, dist. by Scribners. 1976. 337p. illus. by Helene E. Walker & Dwight Walles. index. LC 76-14371. ISBN 0-87691-221-8. $10. RECREATION REF

This well-organized handbook describes many of the perils of outdoor activities and tells how to cope with them. The dangers of hunting, boating, hiking, etc. are lightly sketched, and innumerable skills and emergency procedures for preventing and surviving emergencies are explained. In a common-sense, nontechnical approach, modern first-aid, survival, and safety techniques are presented. The experienced outdoorsman will relearn partly forgotten skills and discover new ideas on first-aid and camp craft. The subjects are not gone into in great detail, but the comprehensive coverage of the many dangers of outdoor life will make good reading for all ages.—Donald C. Rowland, Black Hawk Coll. Lib., Moline, Ill.

Buchwald, Vagn F. Handbook of Iron Meteorites: their history, distribution, composition, and structure. 3 vols.

Univ. of California Pr. 1976. 1466p. photogs. maps. bibliog. index. LC 74-27286. ISBN 0-520-02934-8. boxed set. $140. EARTH SCI REF

This monumental work on iron meteorites brings together information previously scattered in numerous, sometimes obscure scientific publications. The first volume is a general introduction to meteorites, with material on their origin, distribution, chemistry, physics, and crystallography; volumes 2 and 3 contain an alphabetical list of 532 meteorites, with brief histories and descriptions. In addition to technical data, there are accounts of interesting sidelights such as the judicial controversy over the Willamette meteorite. If extensive accounts have already been published, as for the famous 1947 Sikhote-Alin shower, the reader is directed to this literature and only a brief summary of the incident is given. Despite the imposing size, the text is quite readable. For students and researchers.—Walter P. Coombs, Dept. of Vertebrate Paleontology, Pratt Museum, Amherst Coll., Mass.

A Guide to Reviews of Books from and about Hispanic America: 1972.

924p. ISBN 0-87917-044-1.

A Guide to Reviews of Books from and about Hispanic America: 1973.

980p. ISBN 0-87917-046-8.

ea. vol: Blaine Ethridge. 1976. comp. & ed. by Antonio Matos. index. LC 66-96537. $45. REF

This annual compilation of English- or Spanish-language reviews gathered from scholarly journals includes works in the social sciences, the humanities, and applied science from Spanish-, Portuguese-, Dutch-, and English-speaking countries of the Caribbean and South America. The 1972 Guide indexes and summarizes about 2600 book reviews, and the 1973 volume also includes 341 reviews of periodicals, for a total of 2942 entries. Arrangement is alphabetical by author, and there is a separate title index. Although the Guide is generally well produced and can be very useful, the time lag in publication may impede the utility of the present volumes. However, the publisher promises that "future volumes will appear about 12 months after the close of the year covered."—Carol B. Fitzgerald, CUNY Graduate Sch. Lib.

Harrison, Colin. A Field Guide to the Nests, Eggs and Nestlings of British and European Birds.

Demeter Pr.: Quadrangle, dist. by Harper. (Field Guide Series). 1976. 432p. color illus. index. LC 74-25435. $12.50. ZOOLOGY/REF

This excellent guide supplements the fine European bird guides that assist in the identification of birds and not their nests, eggs, or young. The high-quality color paintings and photographs are an outstanding feature of the present work; and though there are numerous other egg/nest books, none contain illustrations of young birds that compare to those by artist Philip Burton. Nests are for the most part not shown, but they are described in the text along with habitat, breeding season, eggs, incubation, nestling, and nesting period. Ranges of the birds are not described. Harrison stresses that nesting birds should not be disturbed, and he also discourages the collecting of nests and eggs. Highly recommended.—Henry T. Armistead, Thomas Jefferson Univ. Lib., Philadelphia

Johnson, Warren T. & Howard H. Lyon with collab. or C. S. Koehler & others. Insects That Feed on Trees and Shrubs: an illustrated practical guide.

Comstock Pub: Cornell Univ. Pr. 1976. 464p. color illus. bibliog. index. LC 75-12255. ISBN 0-8014-0956-X. $35. ZOOLOGY/REF

This manual provides information on more than 700 species of insects of the U.S. and Canada that feed on and injure ornamental trees and shrubs. The 212 color plates picture injured foliage and the pests in different stages of development. Opposite each plate the text describes the plant injuries and the biology and geographical distribution of the pest. The book, although based on scientific information, is written in nontechnical language so the layman can use it to adequately diagnose plant damage and to identify the responsible pest. A valuable list of sources of information on pest control and a glossary are appended. Highly recommended for those interested in maintaining ornamental trees and shrubs.—William R. Burk, Univ. of Utah Libs., Salt Lake City

National Party Conventions 1831-1972.

Congressional Quarterly. 1976. 216p. illus. index. LC 76-10122. ISBN 0-87187-093-2. pap. $5.25. POL SCI/REF

Once again, CQ has produced a timely, fact-filled book with lucid organization and telling detail. The heart of this volume is a "Chronology of Nominating Conventions": portraits of each candidate appear, and significant events are succinctly placed in political and historical context. The "Key Convention Ballots" section displays both initial and deciding Presidential nomination votes, plus votes on critical issues for Democrats, Whigs, and modern Republicans in tallies by state delegation. As could be expected minor parties receive uneven attention, with the more prominent ones being profiled

"This translation is a godsend... It will have value from high school to post doctoral levels."
—CHOICE

30 volumes, plus index $1,800

THE GREAT SOVIET ENCYCLOPEDIA

The prime source in English of information about the U.S.S.R., its peoples, history and viewpoints. Over 21,000 pages. 30 vols., plus indexes. Approximately 21,000,000 words. A major reference work of international scope.

Convenient purchase plans available. For full information, please write Macmillan Educational Corporation, Department GSE, 866 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

DEFENSE & FOREIGN AFFAIRS HANDBOOK 1976-77

The first complete, one-volume reference source for political and military details of every country in the world.

- Covers 180 countries, dependencies, and territories
- Government composition and structure, and key cabinet ministers
- Complete military information: budgets, key commanders and military personnel, battle order of all armed forces and equipment, manpower statistics and deployment
- Major defense industries, including addresses and products — worldwide
- Economic statistics: full GNP figures, balance of payments tables, budget data
- Who's Who of political, military, and industry figures — worldwide

800 pages SBN: 531-03270-1
$50.00

Distributed by FRANKLIN WATTS, INC.
730 Fifth Avenue
New York, N.Y. 10019

and charted; others are mentioned only in a comprehensive list of Presidential and vice-presidential nominees gleaned from the standard secondary sources and arranged by election year. Recommended for public, undergraduate, and secondary school libraries, including those which already own the scholarly Convention Decisions and Voting Records (Brookings, 1973. rev. ed.) by Richard C. Bain and Judith H. Parris.—Sally Linden, Wellesley Coll. Lib., Mass.

Perry, Frances, ed. Simon and Schuster's Complete Guide to Plants and Flowers.

S.&S. 1976. 522p. color illus. index. LC 75-34618. ISBN 0-671-22246-5. $12.95; pap. $6.95. HORT/REF

This volume is clearly intended for British readers. The 522 pictures consist almost entirely of plants popular in Europe, and though many of these are common in this country, some (e.g., the European mistletoe) are practically unknown in America, and many of our favorites are omitted. The color illustrations vary in quality from fair to poor. However, the format—two pictures on a right-hand page with brief and generally valuable information opposite—is attractive and easy to use. Each entry lists the plant family, place of origin, description, flowering time, use, propagation, environment and light, type of soil, and remarks. This would have been an excellent reference book had it been adapted to American gardens.—Elizabeth C. Hall, Horticultural Society of New York Lib.

The Princeton Encyclopedia of Classical Sites.

Princeton Univ. Pr. 1976. 1019p. ed. by Robert Stillwell. maps. bibliog. index. LC 75-30210. ISBN 0-691-03542-3. $125; until Dec. 31, $100. ARCHAEOLOGY/REF

This first-class reference book includes entries on about 2800 archaeological sites associated with the Greco-Roman world from the mid-8th Century B.C. until the beginning of the 6th Century A.D. Entries range from a few lines to a few pages and give information on the history and archaeological investigations associated with the sites. A bibliography of relevant scholarship is appended to each entry, and there is a glossary of technical terms. The maps are not detailed and give only a rough idea of location, but this is a paltry criticism in light of the immense amount of information collected. More than 370 scholars were responsible for writing the entries, many of which make quite good reading. The book is well printed and bound. It's expensive, but should prove valuable in larger reference collections. Highly recommended.—John D. Campbell, Occidental Coll. Lib., Los Angeles

Smith, Myron J., Jr. & Robert C. Weller. Sea Fiction Guide.

Scarecrow. 1976. 256p. index. LC 76-7590. ISBN 0-8108-0929-X. $10. LIT/BIBLIOG

This work is a straightforward and quite useful bibliography. Arranged alphabetically by author, it lists novels, collected works, and anthologies that deal with the sea (or inland sea as in Huckleberry Finn). The entries are often annotated. A number of noted contemporary authors of nautical fiction (Edward L. Beach, Hammond Innes, et al.) have contributed brief statements on the craft of writing sea stories. There are indexes listing pseudonyms and joint authors, titles, and general subjects. It should be noted that the works cited are not necessarily in print; many from the 19th Century will no doubt be almost impossible to obtain.—Jay Schwartz, Suffolk County Community Coll. Lib., Selden, N.Y.

Wearing, J. P. The London Stage, 1890-1899: a calendar of plays and players. Vol. 1: 1890-1896. Vol. 2: 1897-1899, Index.

Scarecrow. 1976. 1229p. LC 76-1825. ISBN 0-8108-0910-9. set $42.50. THEATER/REF

Modern theater research has been hampered by the lack of a solid statistical basis upon which historical and critical judgments can be made. This calendar (the first of a series covering the period 1890 to the present) is a daily listing of plays and players at the 30 or so theaters of greater London from 1890 to 1900. It has been compiled from newspapers and programs of the day and supplies more than ten pieces of information (ranging from cast lists to reviews) about each play. The detailed index itself takes up 375 pages. Wearing, a well-known theater scholar, is to be commended for supplying this essential scholarly tool, which is very highly recommended for all libraries serving theater students and scholars.—Gilbert B. Cross, Dept. of English, Eastern Michigan Univ., Ypsilanti

Woman's Almanac: 12 how-to handbooks in one.

Armitage Pr./Information House Bk., dist. by Lippincott. 1976. 624p. comp. & ed. by Kathryn Paulsen & Ryan A. Kuhn. illus. index. LC 76-2055. ISBN 0-397-01113-X. $12.50; pap. ISBN 0-397-01138-5. $6.95. REF

The Woman's Almanac is not truly a how-to handbook. It serves rather as an excellent resource and guide in such matters as education, employment, managing money, starting a business, the legal establishment, politics, and health care, though Our Bodies Ourselves (S. & S., 1976. 2d rev. ed.) provides a more detailed presentation of women's health care and sexuality. The 12 chapters consist of articles or excerpts of books reprinted from sources such as Psychology Today and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Male and female would-be entrepreneurs will appreciate the chapters "Your Own Business" and "The Money Manager." The reprint permissions at the end of each article instead of on the verso of the title page allow the reader to easily pursue a subject in depth by consulting the original. The yellow pages section, a directory of national and local women's services and organizations, rounds out the book. The care with which the editors selected and organized this "almanac," and the index, makes it a valuable addition to public and college libraries.—Leslie Kane, IPCD Lib. Project, Central Michigan Univ., Mt. Pleasant

Woods, Richard D. Reference Materials on Mexican Americans: an annotated bibliography.

Scarecrow. 1976. 190p. index. LC 76-10663. ISBN 0-8108-0963-X. $7.50. SOC SCI BIBLIOG

Woods has compiled and critically annotated a list of 387 reference works about the Chicano experience in the U.S. The materials encompassed range from cookbooks and children's literature to government statistics and genealogical sources. The annotations are clear and precise, and there are complete author, title, and subject indexes. A very useful bibliography for libraries that collect Mexican-American material.—Andrea Caron Kempf, Univ. of Northern Colorado Lib., Greeley

ART

Bialostocki, Jan. The Art of the Renaissance in Eastern Europe.

Cornell Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. 351p. illus. bibliog. index. LC 75-38429. ISBN 0-8014-1008-8. $25.

ARCHITECTURE/ART

The publication of Bialostocki's Wrightsman lectures opens broad new perspectives in our understanding of the diffusion of the Italian Renaissance style. While this stylistic transportation has been amply documented in Western Europe, the parallel development in Eastern Europe has been largely neglected. This volume devotes much-warranted attention to the introduction and growth of Renaissance art within the coherent cultural region of 15th- and 16th-Century Hungary, Bohemia, and Poland. Without pretense of comprehensiveness, the author has with great clarity and insight elucidated the key elements of this vital and complex process. The author's discussion coalesces around the functional themes of castle, chapel, tomb, and town architecture and sculpture. There is, in addition, a consideration of the problems of humanism and patronage and the evolution and domestication of the style. Well-written and lavishly illustrated, this work deserves a place in most art history collections.—Robert Cahn, Dept. of Social Sciences, Fashion Inst. of Technology, New York

Easton, Malcolm & Michael Holroyd. The Art of Augustus John.

Godine. 1976. 216p. illus., some color. LC 74-84335. ISBN 0-87923-113-0. $30. ART

Holroyd, author of a two-volume biography of John, and Easton have produced a good survey essay on John's life and art coupled with a selection of 80 plates (25 in good color) representing the works of his long career. (The volume was originally published in Britain in 1974.) John's style-conscious life frequently overshadowed his painting, and the authors devote much attention to this, for they include abundant personal anecdotes along with the plate notes. They have also included exhibition and biographical chronologies. Their book should promote a fair appreciation of John's work, which was first over-valued, then deprecated after his death.—Jack Perry Brown, Yale Univ. Center for British Art & Studies Lib.

Tancock, John L. The Sculpture of Auguste Rodin: the collection of the Rodin Museum Philadelphia.

pub. in assoc. with the Philadelphia Museum of Art by Godine. 1976. 664 p. special photography, some color. by Murray Weiss. bibliog. index. LC 75-5211. ISBN 0-87923-157-2. $40. ART

This is an elegant, scholarly catalog of the collection of the Rodin Museum of Philadelphia by its former curator. Obviously, there is no dearth of material on Rodin's life and work (Tancock's selected bibliography lists 107 monographs), but this catalog is generously documented, rather chastely illustrated, and lucidly written, thus adding greatly to our understanding of the sculptor's methods and his approach to his art. A fine introductory essay outlines Rodin's development, deals with his working habits, and with the problems of multiple castings and the variant versions of a single work. A chronology outlines events in the artist's life, details works and commissions, and records exhibitions. The heart of the work, however, is the catalog of the collection; for each item, a detailed analysis provides history and sources, and compares the work with others to which it relates; these comparisons are illustrated with photographs, thereby extending the range of the book far beyond the Philadelphia collection.

PUBLICATIONS FROM UNITED NATIONS

STANDING ORDER

The United Nations, as a result of its manifold activities, publishes a great number of titles in many categories, such as: Economics, Social Questions, International Law, Human Rights and International Statistics, among others.

To facilitate ordering, and to be sure of getting all publications in your field of interest, use the Standing Order Service. By ordering once, you can receive all titles in any category you choose, or even single recurrent titles, just as soon as they are off the press. Publications on the Standing Order Service receive the same automatic shipment accorded to the official delegations to the United Nations.

Send for the Standing Order Service Guide, which describes in detail how the Service works.

United Nations Publications
Room LX-2300, New York, N.Y. 10017 or United Nations Publications, Palais des Nations
1211 Geneva 10, Switzerland

"Surely the most beautiful university press book of 1976"*

TREASURES FROM THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY
A.G. and W.O. Hassall. With an Introduction by R.W. Hunt.
"A reaffirmation that the art of fine bookmaking is alive and well...Book lovers and libraries will somehow have to find the cash to acquire this anthology of 36 illuminated manuscripts."—Book Forum News*

"This oversize library-bound volume highlights important illuminations from the Bodleian's extensive manuscript collection with full-size (exceptions are noted) color reproductions. The chronologically arranged entries span the 9th to the 16th centuries and each entry is accompanied by full cataloging data and by brief but informative textual material. In most cases this includes an introduction to the manuscript which the illumination represents and a description of the specific page that is illustrated, including facts about its subject, its use of color, and other stylistic features."—Library Journal

"A magnificent sampling for study and reference in the history of the manuscript book...The authors emphasize the importance of presenting such material in correct colors and sizes, arguing that 'in looking at a facsimile with original tints..., we hope to read what was the artist's original intention, instead of a poor shorthand note of it.'"
—Publishers Weekly
LC 75-33231
ISBN 0-231-04060-1 $75.00

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY PRESS
Address for orders:
136 South Broadway
Irvington, New York 10533

Highly recommended for art and college collections.—Margot Karp, Pratt Inst. Lib., Brooklyn

Architecture

Gray, Virginia & Alan Macrae (text) & Wayne McCall (photogs.). Mud Space & Spirit: handmade adobes.

Capra Pr. 1976. 94p. bibliog. LC 76-7958. ISBN 0-88496-059-5. pap. $7.95.
SOC SCI/ARCHITECTURE

An adobe revival is currently under way, and this book captures its essence. Mud Space and Spirit links the almost mystical adobe brick with the awesome space of the Southwest and with the human spirit itself. 18 houses were photographed, interior and exterior, by McCall, and the owners were interviewed by Gray and Macrae. Readers meet a special breed of builder-dwellers, called "new age pioneers" by Noel Young in his introduction, who have transformed Southwest mud into uniquely expressive adobe homes. Inspiring.—Clifton E. Wilson, Dept. of Government, Univ. of Arizona, Tucson

Weber, Nelva M. How to Plan Your Own Home Landscape.

Bobbs. 1976. 286p. photogs. by Molly Adams. index. LC 75-33535. ISBN 0-672-51890-2. $11.95. LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE

Weber, a practicing landscape architect, gives excellent professional advice on planning outdoor space for both the diversity of family living and for realistic levels of maintenance. After a brief introduction describing the topographic regions of the U.S., she agilely constructs a hierarchy of planning procedures, using plant materials as only one of many elements to be integrated into a successful design. She provides practical information ranging from the benefits of proper solar orientation to the method of laying out a graceful curve. Adams' clear and unmannered photographs and the accompanying plans are essential to the usefulness of this volume.—Phyllis Andersen, formerly with Boston Architectural Center Lib.

Decorative Arts & Crafts

Howell, Georgina. In Vogue: sixty years of international celebrities and fashion from British Vogue.

Schocken. 1976. 344p. photogs., some color. bibliog. index. LC 75-42970. ISBN 0-8052-3624-4. $34.95; until Dec. 31, $29.95.
PHOTOG/COSTUME

A large picture book which is also a social history of a specialized sort for the years since 1916. Fashion is by nature ephemeral; past issues of Vogue reveal who, at any given moment, were thought to be the leaders of style and what was the most up-to-date in books, theater, interiors, games, vacation spots, and living. The chief value is the year-by-year record of clothing—the looks and the details, the revolutionary designer collections, the new fabrics and techniques, and the shoes, stockings, undergarments, make-up, and hair styles which finish the picture. The intelligently written text emphasizes the degree to which styles reflect the spirit of a time. Fashion changes with the way women live, the interests they have, and the people they emulate. The book also provides numerous really good examples of commercial photography.—Sally Mitchell, Bloomington, Ind.

Litto, Gertrude. South American Folk Pottery.

Watson-Guptill. 1976. illus. $24.95. CRAFTS

Litto's stunning volume on contemporary South American folk pottery is not to be confused with the usual coffee-table item. The author traveled the entire continent to talk to potters, watch them work, learn about materials, regions, techniques, merchandising; she discusses everything in detail. The pottery shown, in interesting rather than flashy photographs and sketches, is both utilitarian and decorative, and both the process and its coming into being are stressed. While much has been written on pre-Columbian wares, living craftsmen have been given short shrift. With her fine work, Litto is helping to shift the balance.—Judith McPheron, Oklahoma County Libs., Edmund

Graphic Arts

Bader, Barbara. American Picturebooks: from Noah's Ark to the Beast Within.

Macmillan. 1976. 615p. illus., some color. bibliog. index. LC 72-93304. ISBN 0-02-708080-3. $45. GRAPHIC ARTS

Before becoming editor of Kirkus Reviews, Bader was associate editor in charge of children's books. She is eminently qualified to produce this historical study of American children's picture books. Bader attempts to identify "all the picturebooks published since Smith's Story of Noah's Ark (1905)." The result is no mere catalog. The author discusses the nature of the picture book as an art form and examines hundreds of books to reveal how they work and what they say. Bader notes the significant turning points in children's book illustration. Where the Wild Things Are, for instance, marked the end of "the dominion of the tasteful and discreet." The relative merits of illustrators, their place in the history of illustration, and the influence of other illustrators upon them, are all judiciously weighed. The examples of illustration used are carefully chosen and faultlessly reproduced. There are 700 in all—130 in beautiful color. No library will want to overlook this book.—Gilbert Cross, Dept. of English, Eastern Michigan Univ., Ypsilanti

Hoff, Syd. Editorial and Political Cartooning: from earliest times to the present with over 700 examples from the works of the world's greatest cartoonists.

Stravon. 1976. 416p. illus. index. LC 75-45314. ISBN 0-87396-078-5. $12.95. GRAPHIC ARTS

Hoff, a renowned cartoonist himself, traces the progress of his incorrigible colleagues from the Stone to the Space ages, and leaves us with a solid picture of the history, context, and technique of the cartoon. Although Hoff readily admits to unavoidable omissions in his 700-illustration opus, we get a generous, world-wide overview of the art. Cartoons are getting better and better: from his excellent selection among the moderns it looks like Vietnam and Watergate inspired some of the most diabolically powerful cartoons ever done. This one is a boon to those interested in the passing parade of social and political folly, to aspiring cartoonists, and to fans of the cartoon everywhere. Also, a bargain at the price.—Patricia Goodfellow, Leaside P.L., Toronto

White, Jan V. Designing Covers, Contents, Flash Forms, Departments, Editorials, Openers, Products for Magazines.

Bowker. 1976. 176p. illus. index. LC 76-3692. ISBN 0-8352-0900-8. $16.95. GRAPHIC ARTS

This book is a sequel to Editing by Design (LJ 5/1/74), and the author assumes a familiarity with his basic philosophy of verbal-visual communication and with the methods suggested in the earlier book. Designing . . . for Magazines tackles seven specific problem areas in layout, and presents before-and-after examples of design solutions. These draw largely on the author's own work, including pages from the redesigned Library Journal. White is sensitive to what motivates a magazine reader, and examines the design features that both reinforce these motivations and clarify editorial content. Recommended for libraries having the earlier volume.—Christina Bostick, Oberlin Coll. Lib., Ohio

Photography

Galella, Ron. Offguard: a paparazzo looks at the Beautiful People.

McGraw. 1976. 192p. intro. by Bruce Jay Friedman. photogs. index. LC 75-46628. ISBN 0-07-022729-2. $12.95; pap. ISBN 0-07-022733-0. $6.95. PHOTOG

Ron Galella strikes again: this time with a collection of assorted Beautiful People: Robert Redford, Liza Minnelli, Marlon Brando, Sophia Loren, Jackie, of course, and many others. His pictures do make most of them look, at the very least, interesting. His captions and comments range from the reaction of the awed celebrity-worshipper—"Jackie represents the highest ideals of American womanhood"—to the put-down—"Cavett is wearing dark glasses to make sure the horse knows he's a celebrity." The scouting, plotting, and disguises necessary to capture some of his subjects seem to be part of the excitement for him: he describes his adventures with relish. Enjoyable.—Barbara Zelenko, U.S. Attorney's Lib., Southern District of New York

Sobieszek, Robert A. & Odette M. Appel with assist. by Charles R. Moore. The Spirit of Fact: the daguerreotypes of Southworth & Hawes, 1843-1862.

Godine & Internat. Museum of Photography, Rochester, N.Y. 1976. 163p. photogs. bibliog. LC 75-43054. ISBN 0-87923-179-3. $27.50. PHOTOG

While information relating to daguerreotypes has not been lacking, this first major study of Albert Sands Southworth and Josiah Johnson Hawes is particularly welcome, since their work is a vital aspect of American art. The text gives a brief history of the photographic process involved, short biographies of the two men, and a discussion of their achievements in Boston in the middle of the 19th Century. The joy of the book lies in the splendidly reproduced daguerreotypes. Unlike many other examples, which have faded, the daguerreotypes produced by the Southworth & Hawes firm remain clear and clean. The good-sized photos, whether of American greats such as Charles Sumner and Zachary Taylor or of such artists as Jenny Lind, bring a past era vividly to life while showing the photographers' sensitivity to both light and composition. Recommended.—Robert L. Enequist, Coll. of Insurance Lib., New York

Tice, George A. Urban Landscapes: a New Jersey portrait.

Rutgers Univ. Pr. 1976. unpaged. photogs. LC 75-30549. ISBN 0-8135-0812-6. $25; pap. ISBN 0-8135-0813-4. $17.50. PHOTOG

Tice is widely recognized for his achievements in black-and-white photography, both behind the camera and in the darkroom. Here he uses the particular style and approach that his earlier books have made well known to photograph various cities and towns of New Jersey. Using a large-format camera, Tice creates his "still lives," mostly scenes of buildings that people live and work in. His pictures are simple and straightforward, yet his artistry and technical perfection evoke feelings that are rarely experienced by viewing the original scene. The excellently reproduced pictures show the richness and smoothness of tone gradation that characterize the photographic master craftsman. Recommended.—Frank Davidoff, Staff Consultant, CBS TV Network

Worswick, Clark & Ainslie Embree. The Last Empire: photography in British India, 1855-1911.

Aperture. 1976. 149p. photogs. bibliog. LC 76-21208. ISBN 0-912334-86-X. $19.95. HIST/PHOTOG

This work, designed to accompany a traveling exhibition of photographs, is an excellent example of the manner in which visual evidence can bring history alive. In beautifully reproduced photographs it captures the splendor and diversity of India in the heyday of British rule. The carefully chosen illustrations serve to remind us of the high technical standards many photographers achieved in the last century, and accompanying essays on 19th-Century photography and British rule in India round out a delightful book. Recommended.—James A. Casada, Dept. of History, Winthrop Coll., Rock Hill, S.C.

CORRECTION: The hardcover edition of Joshua Taylor's America as Art (LJ 9/15) is available only from Smithsonian Institution Pr. The G.P.O. has undertaken to produce a paperback edition.

YOU OUGHTA BE IN PICTURES... and here's how to do it!

584 pages.
9 x 12".
hard-cover. cloth bound

Art lending collections have become one of the most popular features of the library's expanded role of community service. The New York Graphic Society provides the world's largest selection of fine art prints to more than a thousand libraries across the country.

This Fiftieth Anniversary Catalog of Fine Art Reproductions is essential to every library – as a valuable reference book, as a basic source to your lending collection... with man's richest art achievements, from the temple paintings of Ancient Egypt to the fresh talents of Contemporary America.

This 584 page, cloth-bound book offers:

☐ The world's largest selection of fine art reproductions, with nearly 2,000 large full-color illustrations, each with complete background information.

☐ Biographies of more than 350 artists.

☐ Special Framing Guide, so you can order prints custom framed in one of 18 handsome, durable frames, ready for lending.

☐ Purchase price for libraries is $25 postpaid, but it can be yours free – if you've ordered $250 net in framed pictures in the last year – or if you buy that much in the next twelve months, let us know and we'll credit your account.

For more information, write Department LJ

NEW YORK GRAPHIC SOCIETY

140 Greenwich Avenue, Greenwich, CT 06830

John Galsworthy

A BIOGRAPHY

Catherine Dupré

"Dupré's sympathetic biography portrays Galsworthy as a...champion of causes, campaigning for the humane treatment of prisoners and animals and against the evils of censorship and particularly (in his novels) 'Forsytism,' or middle class hypocrisy." — Library Journal. "The author shows Galsworthy at his best as a satirist and social reformer, and she movingly conveys the disillusionment of his last years, when, despite the award of a Nobel Prize, he realized he would never achieve a lasting place in literary history." — Publishers Weekly. Photos. $12.50

COWARD, McCANN & GEOGHEGAN, INC.
200 Madison Avenue, New York 10016

LIPPINCOTT

"A Hollywood you've never seen before."
—Eddie Albert

THE WESTMORES OF HOLLYWOOD

Frank Westmore and Muriel Davidson

"The anecdotes about the craft of make-up, compliant and difficult stars, and the inevitable hilarious mishaps . . . will move this along through the growing clutter on the cinema shelf." —The Kirkus Reviews. "Good times and bad are here, the people, the happenings, the intricacies of a unique profession neatly patchworked with a stitchery of remembered quips and quirks of the famous, and of course the fantastic Westmores." — Publishers Weekly. 30 photographs.

LC 75-33210
ISBN 0-397-01102-4 $8.95

J. B. Lippincott Company
East Washington Square
Philadelphia, Pa. 19105

BIOGRAPHY

Bowle, John. Charles I: a biography.
Little. 1976. 362p. illus. maps. index. LC 75-45483. ISBN 0-316-10404-3. $12.50. BIOG

Owing to the inauspicious nature of his rule and his singular lack of striking personal characteristics, Charles I has not been a particularly popular biographical subject. This life, by a distinguished British historian, goes some way in rehabilitating the Stuart monarch's place in history (although Bowle's claims regarding Charles's innovativeness are less than totally convincing) and provides a clearly etched picture of the man. While not a definitive study, this will become the standard biography of Charles I. Readable, characterized by careful but unobtrusive scholarship, and excellent for the way it places Charles I in the context of his times, this is an essential acquisition for all college and larger public libraries.—James A. Casada, Dept. of History, Winthrop Coll., Rock Hill, S.C.

Brace, Gerald Warner. Days That Were.
Norton. Oct. 1976. 256p. drawings by the author. ISBN 0-393-07509-5. $8.95. MEMOIR

These memoirs by a septuagenarian scholar/teacher/writer, who has led a peaceful life filled with kind, hospitable people, portray an immensely respectable, complacent family and a small, conventional, quite Victorian world. Brace says old times have no sequence and events come to mind in isolated flashes; his book is organized accordingly. Lengthy accounts of sailing, prep schools, and New England walking tours during college years give another perspective on the early 1920's as seen by a puritanical, old-fashioned prig (his own term). His commentary reflects a changing world, an edge of despair and decadence replacing traditions of competence and responsibility. If this is not an exciting book, it makes its points. If it seems dull, it is because the age it recreates was. The book's value is that the colorless people fade and the ambience, the "days that were," becomes foremost. The book ends on his 21st birthday, so one expects another volume at least.—James J. Martine, Dept. of English, St. Bonaventure Univ., N.Y.

Brunhouse, Robert L. Frans Blom: Maya explorer.
Univ. of New Mexico Pr. 1976. 291p. photogs. bibliog. index. LC 75-40833. ISBN 0-8263-0408-7. $10. BIOG

"One of the least known persons . . . in the roster of Maya studies . . . is Frans Blom." Largely dismissed as a failure after alcoholism caused his forced resignation as Director of Tulane University's Institute of Middle American Research, Blom nevertheless made important contributions to the study of the Maya and to the Institute he headed from 1926 to 1941. The details of Blom's life are meticulously reconstructed here from his published and unpublished writings, the Tulane files, and the accounts of friends. Yet the man himself fails to emerge. Neither our interest nor our sympathy are enlisted; and we don't learn much about the Maya, either. For specialized interests.—Joan W. Stevenson, Yonkers P.L., N.Y.

Carver, Sir Michael, ed. The War Lords: military commanders of the 20th Century.
Little. Oct. 1976. 624p. illus. index. ISBN 0-316-13060-5. $17.95. HIST/BIOG

A collection of 43 well-written essays on this century's major military and naval commanders, with each essay contributed by a qualified specialist, e.g., Martin Blumenson on Patton, Donald Smythe on Pershing. Each essay presents a brief biographical sketch, an overview of the individual's major achievements as well as errors, and a general appraisal and estimate of each commander's career. Sometimes the essays are argumentative, sometimes apologetic, sometimes exonerative, but they are never dull. The selection of biographies was based chiefly on the fact that they commanded large forces in combat, hence excluding important policy-making strategists like Marshall and Alanbrooke. The "war lords" include 13 from World War I and 30 from World War II, and among them are 27 from the U.S. and the British Commonwealth. This volume, though expensive, is worth the cost and should be available in most libraries.—John Buechler, Univ. of Vermont, Burlington

Cockerill, A. W. Sir Percy Sillitoe.
Transatlantic. 1976. 223p. bibliog. index. $8.95. INT AFFAIRS/BIOG

The biography of the early Cold War head of Britain's counterespionage unit, MI5. Sillitoe was a professional police administrator with a genius for organization and reform. As chief police official in Glasgow, he was successful in introducing modern police methods, especially in communications and forensic science. He led an anti-Communist purge within the British government as head of MI5. He later headed the International Diamond Security Organization, and his involvement with the Rand diamond-smuggling case was the basis for Ian Fleming's Diamonds Are Forever. An excellent overview of security procedures, supplementing Sillitoe's autobiography, Cloak Without Dagger (Abelard, 1955). Unfortunately, both books suffer from lack of access to classified security information. Of interest to libraries with special collections in criminology.—Paul G. Ashdown, Dept. of Communication, Western Kentucky Univ., Bowling Green Conneau, Theophilus. A Slaver's Logbook, or Twenty Years' Residence in Africa.

Prentice-Hall. Oct. 1976. 464p. ISBN 0-13-788752-3. $12.50. MEMOIR

This is a transcription of the manuscript memoirs of Conneau, alias Theodore Canot, sometime merchant, master mariner, slave trader, and occasional dabbler in piracy. An expurgated version of his adventures first appeared in 1854, and was revised in 1928. The original manuscript, recently discovered by a Massachusetts rare book dealer, is far superior to both earlier versions. Conneau's account of mutinies, shipwrecks, slaving expeditions, etc., is informative and vivid. The publisher has thoughtfully provided explanatory notes for technical terms and obsolete expressions appearing in the text, and selections from Conneau's correspondence which help to authenticate the text are included as an appendix. Worthwhile as leisure reading alone, and a fruitful source of primary information about the West Indies slave trade, this should be a valuable addition for public and academic libraries.—Robert L. Burr, Coll. of William & Mary in Virginia Lib., Williamsburg

El-Ad, Avri with James Creech III. Decline of Honor.

Regnery. 1976. 364p. photogs. index. LC 75-32959. ISBN 0-8092-8116-3. $15.

INT AFFAIRS MEMOIR

In 1958, Avri Seidenwerg, code name "El-Ad Sarchi," was sentenced as a traitor to his country, Israel. Since 1952, Seidenwerg had been an operative in the Modi'in, the Israeli Military Intelligence Corps, posing as a German non-Jew with business interests in Egypt. This book, written from some documented sources but mostly from his memory, is Seidenwerg's effort to remove some of the burden of guilt from his shoulders and place it upon other agencies and officials of the Israeli government. More interesting than the fairness of the judgments made here, however, are the fascinating details and revealing anecdotes concerning the infiltration of a country by spies and intelligence agents. Although not as well written as Dusko Popov's Spy/Counterspy (LJ 4/15/74), this offers a view of international espionage not usually revealed to the general public.—Marcia R. Hoffman, Woodbridge P.L., Iselin, N.J.

Firestone, Ross. The Success Trip: how they made it, how they feel about it.

Playboy, dist. by S. & S. 1976. c.294p. index. LC 76-15224. ISBN 0-87223-451-7. $10.95.

PER NAR

Firestone has interviewed 34 people he considers successful (Mike Wallace, F. Lee Bailey, Howard Cosell, and others from a variety of fields), edited the transcripts, and chopped up the results into arbitrary topics like "The Rewards," "The Changes and the Dues," "How They Made It," etc. The quick cuts from person to person and back again are distracting and irritating. Firestone never defines success, or sums up his observations for us, believing it necessary to let the "complexities and ambiguities" of the subject speak for themselves. But the result is vagueness and tedium. There are a few interesting comments here (rock concert producer Bill Graham's observations on successful rock groups, for example) but they are buried in masses of trivia and self-preoccupation.—Barbara Zelenko, U.S. Attorney's Lib., Southern District of New York

Fleming, Jo (pseud.). His Affair.

Evans, dist. by Lippincott. 1976. 194p. LC 76-15245. ISBN 0-87131-216-6. $6.95. PER NAR

When she learned of her husband's affair with another woman, "Jo Fleming" sought refuge in her diary. Excerpts from the diary form the basis of this book. Her psychiatrist helps her over the rough spots, and Fleming moves almost too quickly from the depths of depression to the heights of ecstasy. She eventually views her husband's affair as the catalyst for her own growth and recognizes the importance of unconditional, nonpossessive love. Fleming's emotional intensity quickly becomes monotonous, and her insight into infidelity is minimal. Her marriage may be more open, but it is her husband who appears to be liberated.—Victoria K. Musmann, Glendale P.L., Calif.

Jullian, Philippe & John Phillips. The Other Woman: a life of Violet Trefusis; including previously unpublished correspondence with Vita Sackville-West.

Houghton. Nov. 1976. photogs. $10. BIOG

As readers of Nigel Nicolson's Portrait of a Marriage know, Violet Trefusis was the woman with whom Vita Sackville-West had a passionate love affair in the early 1920's. Violet's additional claim to fame was that she was the daughter of Mrs. George Keppel, the mistress of Edward VII. (The King

Muhammad Ali

The People's Champion

Written by Columbus Salley
Illustrated by Harrison Cruse

A new biography for young readers (Grades 2-4) highlights the life of Muhammad Ali: the greatest heavyweight boxing champion of all times and one of the world's most exciting and important personalities. 32 pages with illustration. $2.45 paperback. September.

Two Books for Today's Black Woman

ACCENT AFRICAN
Traditional and Contemporary Hair Styles for the Black Woman

32 Pages of Hair Styles and grooming habits with an African Accent on the Ancient Art of cornrowing illustrated step by step. $1.50

Accent African Fashions

ACCENT AFRICAN FASHIONS is 48 pages of African inspired fashions by Black designers. Also included is a special section on headwrapping. $2.75

COL-BOB ASSOCIATES, Inc.
250 East 52nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10022

Harrison Salisbury writes:
"I cannot think of a book more important, more timely, more valuable."

Han Suyin's Wind in the Tower

Mao Tsetung & The Chinese Revolution 1949-1975

Drawing on her extensive personal knowledge of today's China, Dr. Han concludes the sweeping narrative she began in The Morning Deluge. "We read her," Mr. Salisbury continues, "with an interest and an attention which is unlike that which other works on China arouse. There is no other interpreter of China with her special insights."

$12.95 at all bookstores

Little, Brown

LIPPINCOTT

"A charmer!"
—Robert Newton Peck

GRANDPA AND FRANK

Janet Majerus

"An oddly touching entertainment in the classic American tradition, a first-person narration about a flight for freedom [by] a first novelist whose next story is eagerly awaited."—ALA Booklist. YA. "Out of the heartland, literally and figuratively, this fresh-faced story . . . takes place in a small town in Illinois back in 1947. . . . A sunbeam—try it out for size, old or young."—The Kirkus Reviews.

LC 75-33776
ISBN 0-397-01130-X $7.95

J. B. Lippincott Company
East Washington Square
Philadelphia, Pa. 19105

The world's youngest 80-year-old comedian tells it like it was —and is!

George Burns

LIVING IT UP
Or, They Still Love Me in Altoona

Academy Award-winner for "The Sunshine Boys," George Burns is busier today than ever — touring the world, telling stories as only he can tell them. His own story is peppered with marvelous anecdotes about his career in show biz, his partnership with Gracie Allen (a smash hit both onstage and off), and with advice on everything from finding the right cigar and the right girl to how to stay young. "Burns's warm spirit, his generous tributes to fellow comics and writers, lend his book a special charm." —Publishers Weekly. Illus. $8.95

G.P. PUTNAM'S SONS
200 Madison Ave., N.Y. 10016

wrote the young Violet affectionate notes signed "Kingy.") Toss in a few forgotten novels and that's about all there is. The biography is redolent of the 20th-Century English and French haut monde: country houses, Monte Carlo, the diplomatic set, "lesbian affairs . . . conducted solely for social-climbing purposes." The lesson seems to be that money and status don't necessarily make a person interesting, much less happy. Seventy pages are devoted to Violet's gushy letters to Vita: "All the sublime, the magnificent figures of history hold out their hands to you." From this distance everything seems empty and sad.—Keith Cushman, Dept. of English, Univ. of North Carolina at Greensboro

Leys, Norman & J. H. Oldham. By Kenya Possessed: the correspondence of Norman Leys & J. H. Oldham, 1918–1926.

Univ. of Chicago Pr. (Studies in Imperialism). 1976. 382p. ed. & intro. by John W. Cell. LC 75-27894. ISBN 0-226-09971-7. $20.
HIST/CORRESPONDENCE

This volume makes an important contribution to both the literature and the source material available on the problems Britain faced on imperial fronts in the aftermath of World War I. Cell utilizes the rich Oldham–Leys correspondence to good advantage in revealing the myriad and complex issues engendered by imperial rule and substantial European settlement in Kenya. Leys and Oldham were sensitive, perceptive men, and in many ways their interchange of views speaks for itself. However, Cell's lengthy and incisive introduction, together with his judicious editing, makes the book even more attractive and useful. An essential acquisition for collections supporting imperial studies.—James A. Casada, Dept. of History, Winthrop Coll., Rock Hill, S.C.

Merrill, James. A Sailor's Admiral: a biography of William F. Halsey.

Crowell. Oct. 1976. 320p. photogs. bibliog. index. LC 76-8880. ISBN 0-690-01163-6. $9.95.
BIOG

A popular treatment of the life of William "Bull" Halsey from his birth in 1882 to his death in 1959. Needless to say the emphasis is almost exclusively on his professional career in World War II. Halsey's private papers were unavailable to the author and unfortunately this limits the work. The text seems rather flat and one dimensional despite its many interesting points. We see much of the public figure, the jingo-shouting Halsey, but learn little of the private man. Most libraries could skip this one.—George F. Scheck, SUNY at Oswego Lib.

Pike, Diane Kennedy. Life Is Victorious! how to grow through grief; a personal experience.

S. & S. Oct. 1976. 224p. illus. LC 76-17328. ISBN 0-671-22335-6. $7.95.
PER NAR

Diane Kennedy Pike had been married to Bishop Pike for two years when he died in the Galilean desert in 1969. This is an account of her journey from grief, through shock and suffering, into recovery and a new life. Her intent is to guide others, and the book is structured into progressive stages of the grief process. When she is writing about what she remembers—feelings or events—she is vivid. She has the wonderful gift of emotional clarity and is an excellent guide through a welter of almost overwhelming emotion. Yet she gives startling insights as casual asides, almost as though she doesn't value them, and then will harp tediously on some lesser piece of spiritual advice as though it were pure gold. The cant of self-improvement, explanatoriness, and jargonizing is irritating, but cannot altogether dim the light of a good natural writer and open-hearted traveller in the emotional landscape. She beautifully portrays the vulnerability of grief which leaves one so open to events; she tries to allow this openness to give her a heightened sense of meaning in life, but it seems more wistful than actual.—Rosemary Feitis, New York

Rees, Joan. Jane Austen: woman and writer.

St. Martin's. Oct. 1976. 224p. illus. index. LC 76-2166. $8.95.
LIT/BIOG

So much has already been written about Jane Austen that only insatiable Janeites will welcome another book about her. Scholar and novelist Rees, however, has justified an addenda to the long bibliography by producing a thorough and highly readable critical biography. Emphasis is on the letters and the life—all those relatives and friends, the leisurely correspondence, and the endless visiting, Jane popular and busy in the midst of it all. (The wonder remains that she ever found the time and privacy to write a book.) The reader in a hurry can use the index to find concise résumés and evaluations of all six major novels as well as of the juvenilia and unfinished works, but the true Janeite will want to savor the minutiae at satisfying leisure.—Nina K. Wilson, Los Angeles County P.L.

Sellassie, Haile. The Autobiography of Haile Sellassie I: my life and Ethiopia's progress 1892–1937.

Oxford Univ. Pr. 1976. 335p. tr. & annotated by Edward Ullendorff. illus. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-19-713589-7. $13.75.
HIST/AUTOBIOG

Recent news that Sellassie's death in 1975 was not a natural one makes the appearance of the first translation of his autobiography a timely reminder of the revolutionary changes still engulfing Africa. The book was written in Amharic in 1937, while the Emperor was living in Bath, England, and it was not published in Ethiopia until 1972. The work covers the years from Sellassie's birth through 1937 when he delivered his famous speech to the League of Nations. In an interesting introduction, Ullendorff explains the reasons why he has attempted a "literal" translation rather than a restructuring of the Amharic grammatical patterns. The life that emerges from these pages is one of a developing imperial power, dictatorial yet benevolent. The historical significance of the author makes this a book recommended for most libraries.—Lee Petrasek, Univ. of California Lib., Berkeley

Thomas, Donald. The Marquis de Sade.
New York Graphic Society: Little. Oct. 1976. c.175p. illus. bibliog. ISBN 0-8212-0653-2. $12.50. LIT/BIOG
Biographical and entertaining, descriptive and analytical, engaging and concise, this study of Sade is more than just another biography. As he separates Sade, the man, from Sade, the myth, Thomas skillfully discusses 18th-Century institutions, attitudes, and customs. Although a complex figure, Sade, we are told, was neither a good philosopher, nor a good writer. Even his sexual exploits have been exaggerated. But Sade was imaginative, a trait that Thomas emphasizes. Was Sade also deranged? There is no answer, and ultimately it does not matter. What is important, as well as perplexing, is Sade's "reaffirmation of original sin in an age of 'Enlightenment.' " Having carefully traced Sade's life, Thomas also succeeds in analyzing the psychology of perversion. A solid book. Recommended to public and academic libraries.—Gari R. Muller, Div. of Humanities, New Coll., Sarasota, Fla.

Townsend, Peter. The Last Emperor: an intimate account of George VI and the fall of his empire.
S. & S. Nov. 1976. 352p. photogs. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-671-22328-3. $9.95. HIST/BIOG
This fast-paced, personalized history successfully captures the drama of the decline and fall of the British Empire. Townsend, once attached to the royal household, ties together the career of George VI and imperial history between the late 19th-Century heyday of Victorian imperialism and the post-World War II denouement of decolonization. The seeming inevitability of the trend against empire does not lessen the fascination of the drama, as illustrated in this book. The folly and glory of Empire are richly catalogued here. Britain's early encouragement of nationalist groups—Irish, Zionist, Indian, and Burmese—ironically helped to undermine the empire, and so did both world wars. George VI was a conscientious King/Emperor, but he, his ministers, and his colonial civil servants could not stem the tide of decolonization, particularly in light of Britain's war-weakened economic position after 1945. Townsend has given us no deeply probing study here, but, instead, an interesting, sometimes exciting narrative of imperial decline.—Donald J. Murphy, Dept. of History, Chabot Coll., Livermore, Calif.

Wallace, George C. Stand Up for America.
Doubleday. 1976. illus. index. LC 74-2521. ISBN 0-385-09411-6. $7.95. AUTOBIOG
Wallace discusses briefly his childhood and early adult life, but the major portion of the book is devoted to the period after he became governor of Alabama and a national political figure. Wallace recounts various events in his life in light of his own political and economic philosophy which, at times, is rather simplistic. He attributes the poverty of the rural South to "the discriminatory treatment meted to the South at the end of the War between the States." Certainly other factors were involved. He explains his opposition to the civil rights movement and to all nondiscriminatory legislation as being out of concern for upholding the rights of the states under the Constitution and not because of race. Although Wallace sheds no new light on himself or his philosophy, his book should be available in academic and public libraries because of his place as a major political figure.—William C. Cooper, Laurens County Lib., S.C.

Welk, Lawrence with Bernice McGeehan. My America, Your America.
Prentice-Hall. 1976. 182p. photogs. LC 76-20456. ISBN 0-13-608414-1. $7.95. MUSIC PER NAR
Welk continues his earlier books in this rambling volume that includes personal philosophy, autobiographical anecdotes, and more on the development of his Musical Family. He gives a sketchy account of his "Training and Sharing System" which emphasizes paternalism and free enterprise.—Joan S. Martinez, Los Angeles County P.L. System

White, E. B. Letters of E. B. White.
Harper. Nov. 1976. 704p. collected & ed. by Dorothy Lobrano Guth. illus. index. ISBN 0-06-014601-X. $15. LIT/CORRESPONDENCE
E. B. White, essayist and some-time poet and story writer, will always be identified in most people's minds as one of the chief wits and prose stylists of the New Yorker in its heyday. These letters will hardly disappoint his admirers, for they scintillate and offer much biographically useful material. The editing is scrupulous and sets the letters in perspective. On the other hand, White's correspondence tends toward brevity and pithiness and, with few exceptions, lacks the scope to develop his ideas significantly. For that reason, general readers will prefer to read or reread his essays, as they constitute the essential White. Recommended for university and large public libraries.—John R. Marvin, Dept. of English, Univ. of Massachusetts, Boston

Wilbur, C. Martin. Sun Yat-sen: frustrated patriot.
Columbia Univ. Pr. (Studies of the East Asian Inst.). Oct. 1976. 384p. bibliog. ISBN 0-231-04036-9. $16.50. INT AFFAIRS/BIOG
Drawing on available archival materials in Taiwan, diplomatic documents in various countries, contemporary newspaper reports, and observations of those who knew Sun Yat-sen, as well as on works in Chinese and other languages, Wilbur has tried to piece together a picture of Sun Yat-sen, whose life was a "somber story of shattered dreams." Wilbur concentrates on Sun's fund-raising efforts and his attempts to gain support from foreign powers to help him reunify and modernize China. Why did Chinese overseas and foreign friends continue to finance Sun inspite of all his failures? What type of help did Sun seek from the U.S., Japanese, French, German, and British governments? What was their response? Why did he turn to Soviet Russia: was it change of ideology? or was he trying to use Russia to realize

BEST-SELLERS FROM HARPER & ROW

MY SIDE
The Autobiography of Ruth Gordon

On the eve of her eightieth birthday, the celebrated screen and stage actress "tells all in a delightful, zesty autobiography brimming with reminiscences, anecdotes, philosophical nuggets and film and theatre lore."—Publishers Weekly
Illustrated LC 76-5124
ISBN 0-06-011618-8 $12.95

O K*A*P*L*A*N!
MY K*A*P*L*A*N!

By Leo Rosten. The irrepressible immigrant night-school student whose name has spelled humor for nearly two generations now returns in a completely expanded and rewritten combination of *The Education of H*Y*M*A*N K*A*P*L*A*N* and *The Return of H*Y*M*A*N K*A*P*L*A*N.* "A masterpiece of humor." —Philadelphia Bulletin. Funnier than ever."—Los Angeles Times. LC 74-15891
ISBN 0-06-013676-6
2nd printing, $10.95

SMALL IS BEAUTIFUL
Economics as if People Mattered

By E. F. Schumacher. With an Introduction by Theodore Roszak. A best-seller since its publication in paperback in 1974, this much-discussed and highly praised book is now available in a permanent hardcover edition. For all those who are tired of big government, big cars, over-extended technology and dwindling human resources, Schumacher's down-to-earth economic philosophy will be inspiring. LC 73-12710
ISBN 0-06-013801-7 $8.95

Harper & Row
10 E. 53rd St., New York 10022
1817 his grand vision? And finally, in the larger context, what was it that sustained Sun through all the tragic failures? In providing the answer to these questions Wilbur succeeds in revealing the nature and the character of this enigmatic and controversial leader. The book will be a useful addition to academic collections.—Ranbir Vohra, Dept. of Political Science, Trinity Coll., Hartford, Conn.

Zeman, Zbynek. The Masaryks: the making of Czechoslovakia.

Barnes & Noble: Harper. 1976. 230p. photogs. index. LC 76-2316. ISBN 0-06-497968-7. $16.50. HIST/BIOG

Thomas and Jan Masaryk together dominated nearly the whole of Czechoslovakia's short history. By education a philosopher, Thomas Masaryk metamorphosed into a skillful politician whose negotiations in behalf of his country during World War I led to its recognition as an independent state afterwards. He was elected president four times and finally retired because of ill health. His son Jan was an obedient follower who served his nation as foreign minister during the Nazi era. He mistrusted the postwar Soviet dominance. When he dislocated his shoulder in 1947, a friend remarked that he "must have been leaning too hard on the iron curtain." Jan died under still mysterious circumstances in 1948, just two weeks after the Communist Party completed its formal takeover of his government. This illustrated biography of father and son is a readable, short excursion into Czech history. Suitable for popular history collections, it is strictly an introduction to a subject already supported by other popular and scholarly works.—Barbara Conaty, Madison P.L., Wis.

BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

Faaland, Just & J. R. Parkinson. Bangladesh: the test case of development.

Westview Pr. 1976. 203p. index. LC 76-851. ISBN 0-89158-546-X. $20. GOVT/ECON

If a nation as poor as Bangladesh can succeed in development, there is little doubt that it can be achieved by any other country, according to the authors of this book. The first priority must be population control, for without this economic progress will be lost. There is also a critical need for an effective government administration to ease those controls that inhibit economic growth and to implement policies that would aid the economy (e.g., a progressive tax on agriculture, increased excise taxes, and duties on capital and luxury goods). Programs are outlined for the major sectors of the economy (education, agriculture, industry, trade, etc.) which, combined with generous foreign aid, would help Bangladesh achieve the goals of a stable population and a reasonable standard of living. A worthwhile selection for academic libraries.—Carol Holbrook, Univ. of Michigan Lib.

SUCCESS WITH PEOPLE

The Theory Z Approach to Mutual Achievement

by Willard I. Zangwill

New approach to dealing with interpersonal relations, tension and stress. Demonstrates that only through the broader perspective of humans in life can we truly comprehend the behavior of humans at work. $9.95

Dow Jones-Irwin

1818 Ridge Road, Homewood, Ill. 60430

Gaylord, Sherwood B. Sensible Speculating with Put and Call Options.

S. &. S. Oct. 1976. index. ISBN 0-670-22322-4. $8.95. BUS

Unless the investor relies solely on a broker's recommendations more time will have to be spent monitoring option accounts than is true with stocks or bonds. The trend appears to indicate that the individual is doing more of his own research and Gaylord's books will be a help to the uninitiated as well as to the experienced trader. This present work, representing a conservative approach to this relatively new type of exchange activity, is an overview of all the various types of activity possible—the sale of calls, both covered and naked, the purchase of calls and spreads, plus some discussion of puts, which are still traded with individual brokers. Examples of transactions are sprinkled throughout the text. In covering all types of activities this title varies from that of Ralph Charell's A Great New Way to Make Money (LJ 6/15, p. 1415), which discusses spreads alone. Some of the tax statements in Gaylord's book are already out of date, and the Pacific Exchange is not included, but in this rapidly changing field such errors are impossible to avoid. Recommended for business and public libraries.—Susan A. Singer, Tucson P.L., Ariz.

Goldin, Claudia Dale. Urban Slavery in the American South, 1820-1860: a quantitative history.

Univ. of Chicago Pr. 1976. bibliog. index. $12.95. HIST/ECON

A dedicated cliometrician attempts to explain a particular historical phenomenon, namely the apparent sharp decline in the number of slaves in Southern urban areas during the decade prior to the Civil War. Previous writers have claimed that the cities provided a hostile environment for slavery (since it was harder to control slaves in cities) and that slaves could not cope with factory work. But Goldin argues otherwise. She uses an econometric technique to demonstrate that cities and slavery were not incompatible; indeed, the flow of slave labor from the cities to rural areas might well have been reversed had the Civil War not occurred. She finds the two major causes for the temporary decline in urban slavery were the increase of immigrant labor in Southern cities, and the difference in the elasticities of demand between urban and rural areas. These conclusions are supported by an array of formidable equations whose efficacy could only be evaluated by readers with advanced training.—Ted M. Samore, Sch. of Library Science, Univ. of Wisconsin–Milwaukee

Huntington, Samuel P. & Joan M. Nelson. No Easy Choice: participation in developing countries.

Harvard Univ. Pr. 1976. 202p. bibliog. index. LC 75-31883. ISBN 0-674-62530-7. $10.50. ECON

During the early stages of modernization in developing countries, political control is often exercised by elites interested in protecting their authority by limiting participation of others in the political process. This is an important and original study of the broadening of political participation, especially as it is affected by social and economic development. The authors examine the effects on political participation of such factors as economic development, income inequality, land ownership, education, income, and occupation. It is shown that although the middle classes move fairly readily into political roles, entry into the political system is by no means easy for the poor; therefore, the means by which the poor overcome barriers to entrance into politics assumes an important role in broadening participation. This excellent book is recommended for academic libraries.—Carol Holbrook, Univ. of Michigan Lib., Ann Arbor

communications

Madison, Charles A. Jewish Publishing in America: the impact of Jewish writing on American culture.

Sanhedrin Pr.; Hebrew Pub. 1976. 294p. bibliog. index. LC 76-21272. ISBN 0-88482-902-2. $11.95. PUBLISHING/COMM

Most of this brief history covers the publishing of Yiddish newspapers, magazines, and books in the last 100 years, with thumbnail sketches of the organizations, publishers, editors, journalists, poets, novelists and scholars who contributed to Yiddish culture. There is a glimpse of Hebrew publishing and a roundup of contemporary Anglo-Jewish periodicals, describing their points of view. Madison concludes his book with an essay on the role of Jews in the book publishing industry, crediting them with breaking away from their provincial smugness and for being innovative businessmen. Not a critical work, and marred by poor copyediting, but useful nevertheless.—Milton Meltzer, New York

Rovere, Richard H. Arrivals and Departures: a journalist's memoirs.

Macmillan. Nov. 1976. 288p. ISBN 0-02-605400-0. $10.95. MEMOIR/COMM

Discerning students of the American political scene have long admired Rovere's books and commentaries, particularly those in the New Yorker. Here

Rovere offers sundry essays which epitomize his career. Included are a paean to New York City, home even during his years as a Washington correspondent; a remembrance of school days; glimpses of JFK, Ross of the New Yorker, Walter Lippmann, and Rovere's mysterious father; and several lengthy excerpts from New Yorker profiles. Although most of these pieces have appeared elsewhere, usually in modified form, it is pleasant to have them together. But this is not an essential nor even an important book, and only comprehensive collections will need it.—Kenneth F. Kister, West Palm Beach P.L., Fla.

EDUCATION

Cuban, Larry. Urban School Chiefs Under Fire.

Univ. of Chicago Pr. 1976. 223p. bibliog. index. LC 75-19509. ISBN 0-226-12314-6. $12.50 ED

This study of urban superintendency in the 1960's focuses on three highly respected educators forced out by pressures from outside groups combined with their own handling of conflict—especially in desegregation and curriculum. Cuban examines the superintendency itself; the educational/political/social environments of Chicago's Benjamin Willis, Washington, D.C.'s Carl Hansen, and San Francisco's Harold Spears; the professional backgrounds of these men; and their responses to external pressures. He concludes that new pressures were met with old responses; the superintendent cannot be "a man for all seasons," but must use a "negotiator–statesman" approach that sees conflict as basic to human affairs; the superintendency is a means of influence, not control or even leadership. Although Cuban calls this study an investigation—it has the flavor of a "warmed over" doctoral dissertation—he fails to specify methods and sources. Even his bibliographic listings are in too many instances vague (e.g., "Chicago Defender. 1961-1965"; "San Francisco Examiner. 1957-1965";). Nevertheless, academic libraries might consider this thoughtful treatment of a vital subject, although the price is high. —Adeline Konsh, New York City Public Sch. System

Finder, Morris. Reason and Art in Teaching Secondary-School English.

Temple Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. index. LC 76-9554. ISBN 0-87722-071-9. $10. LANG/ED

This book presents a system for teaching the effects of written works on readers and contains a section on teaching linguistics. The system may work orally, but here it is obvious ("different students have different needs") or vague ("teach until most students acquire facility"). The text suffers from unnecessary jargon, and its diction is unclear. Worst of all, Finder shows less concern for students' learning than for teaching correctly, and he gives unfortunate examples—a Nixon letter, a parody of an Ann Landers column—and questionable literary interpretations. He recommends dated linguistic authorities, and his minimal treatment of "reluctant readers" makes the book useless for today's urban schools.—Diana Bloom, Dept. of English, John Jay Coll., New York

Miller, Mary Susan & Samm Sinclair Baker. Straight Talk to Parents: how you can help your child get the best out of school.

Stein & Day. 1976. 253p. LC 76-6135. ISBN 0-8128-2070-0. $8.95. ED

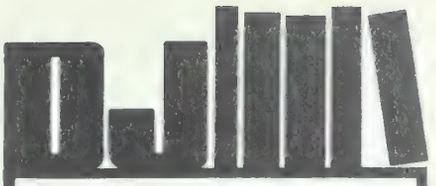
The authors affirm their belief in modern elementary and secondary education and seek to explain its newness (math and the education of the total child, for example), its goals and its problems (mostly with parents who don't understand, it seems) to parents whom they wish to convert to responsive, supportive advocates for their child within the responsive, supportive system of education. Some good common sense ideas are presented, but to many parents who have found the system wanting, who despair at the treatment of the child who does not fit the mainstream, who justifiably question the goals of public education, the book offers only very oversimplified answers.—Ann M. Friedman, Montgomery County Pub. Libs., Md.

HISTORY

Carter, Edward C., II & others, ed. & intro. Enterprise and Entrepreneurs in Nineteenth- and Twentieth-Century France.

Johns Hopkins. 1976. 224p. index. ISBN 0-8018-1717-X. $12.50. ECON/HIST

An uneven but stimulating collection reappraising the much-decried economic function of French entrepreneurs in the period indicated. For M.I.T. historian and economist Charles Kindleberger, French professional schools train outstanding mathematical minds but still breed a damaging elitism. Harvard historian David Landes shows little deference for the old Weberian analysis of the rise of capitalism. He examines the personal papers of a famous Catholic family involved in the textile industry and finds a compulsive energy for hard work and competition. Maurice Lévy Leboyer of Paris-Nanterre argues that the prevalence of the small firm in French business is an outgrowth of external factors such as a stagnant mass market, low labor mobility and productivity, numerous recessions, and state economic policy rather than the result of a deficiency in entrepreneurial drive. Finally, in a most original and imaginative study, Albert Boime, professor of art at SUNY, stresses that the gap between self-styled social revolutionary artists and allegedly conservative businessmen was never as great as usually suggested. The picture emerging from this interdisciplinary research is a rather kaleidoscopic and contradictory one. But it is far more accurate than the conventional image of the French entrepreneur as an inefficient and unmotivated social parasite.



DOW JONES BOOKS RECOMMENDS

"A recounting of the more famous recent swindles—Equity Funding, Investors Overseas Services, Ltd., Home-Stake Production Company, Iowa Beef Processors, and Jack Dick's Black Watch cattle tax shelter. The pieces are thoroughly researched, offering some analysis of why company executives and affluent investors alike went along with their schemes. A fun book that can be highly recommended for popular collections."—Library Journal

SWINDLED!

Classic Business Frauds of the Seventies
By Staff Reporters of 'The Wall Street Journal'
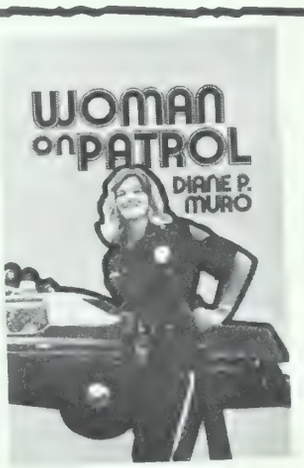
LC 75-32021 $8.95

DOW JONES BOOKS
P.O.Box 300, Princeton,N.J. 08540



"The gunbelt hung heavy at my side. I wondered if I would use the mace, the handcuffs, the nightstick, or even the pistol on this, my first night alone on patrol."

A rookie cop's true story of courage and determination. Diane Muro tells how she faced explosive street situations and violent crime to become the first woman to serve on her city's police force. LC# 76-9858

0-8170-0712-1 Hardbound, $6.95

JP JUDSON PRESS
Valley Forge, PA 19481

Evolution of a distinctively modern society

Brown, Richard D. Modernization: the transformation of American life, 1600-1865.

Hill & Wang: Farrar. Oct. 1976. bibliog. ISBN 0-8090-6980-6. $10; pap. ISBN 0-8090-0125-X. $4.95. HIST

This essay advances a new interpretation of American history. Rejecting both the economic determinist and the consensus approaches of earlier historians, Brown draws on the sociological concept of modernization to suggest a new approach to the history of Western society in general and American society in particular. He defines modernization in the opening chapter and concludes with a brief overview of its consequences over the last century. In the six intervening chapters Brown surveys the evolving modes of thought, lifestyle, work, and institutions that transformed America from a society rooted in the English medieval tradition to one that is distinctively modern. He makes no value judgments about the processes or consequences—Brown is not a "progressive" historian—but rather contents himself with describing and analyzing the transformation as it occurred. The result is as fascinating and instructive as it is readable. It will appeal to students and general readers alike.—Peter J. Coleman, Dept. of History, Univ. of Illinois at Chicago Circle

All in all, this book does contribute to a better and more balanced understanding of a too-often oversimplified problem.—Jacques Fomerand, Dept. of Political Science, Queens Coll., CUNY

Crankshaw, Edward. The Shadow of the Winter Palace: Russia's drift to revolution, 1825-1917.

Viking. 1976. 448p. illus. ISBN 0-670-63782-3. $12.95. HIST

The continuities of Russian history have long fascinated Western observers; for Crankshaw, a distinguished correspondent of the Russian scene under Stalin and Khrushchev, the czarist legacy is reflected still in many of the problems of present-day Russia. His book is a competent study of 19th-Century Russia, lively in style and reasonably full in its coverage of the political, economic, intellectual, and diplomatic issues and events. Addressed to the general reader rather than the specialist, it has more space allotted to matters of personality—of czars, politicians, and revolutionaries—than is typical of scholarly works. While the book is generally coherent in execution, the chapter on the last years of czarism is a bit confused. The revolution of 1917 was, in the author's view, the result of missed opportunities at substantial reform. Recommended for libraries serving a general audience.—John R. Broadus, Dept. of History, Univ. of Chicago

Fischler, Stan. Uptown, Downtown: a trip through time on New York's subways.

Hawthorn. Oct. 1976. 288p. drawings by Ray Judd. photogs. LC 75-41805. ISBN 0-8015-3118-7. $12.95. TECH/HIST

Fischler, top hockey reporter and commentator, here turns to another topic often associated with speed and violence—New York City's subways. Although the subways are dirty, crowded, and noisy, Fischler has a true New Yorker's affection for them and he tells why he considers the New York system the best in the world—more than 700 miles of track, 6800 cars, 635 trains operating simultaneously during rush hour, and still a bargain despite the natives' bitching about fares. Fischler comprehensively covers the political and technological history of the IRT, BMT, and IND, wittily discusses some subway freaks, and provides fact-filled appendixes. Everybody from train buffs to disgruntled strap hangers will enjoy this trip over and underneath the Apple.—Robert R. Harris, "Library Journal"

Flood, Charles Bracelen. Rise, and Fight Again: perilous times along the road to independence.

Dodd. Oct. 1976. bibliog. index. $12.95. HIST

The author has taken four major military defeats suffered by the American Revolutionary Army and described them through the trials and tribulations of the men involved. Out of these military defeats came lessons which led to the American victories over the British Army at Kings Mountain, Cowpens, and finally Yorktown. The experiences of the men involved are real and depict the many aspects of wartime existence. The author's use of primary sources interwoven with his narrative makes lively reading. The notes and the works cited in the bibliography merits further investigation for the inquisitive.—Robert E. Schnare, U.S. Military Academy Lib., West Point

Foley, Paul (text) & Oscar de Mejo (paintings). Fresh Views of the American Revolution.

Rizzoli. 1976. 64p. color illus. LC 75-43455. ISBN 0-8478-0022-9. pap. $9.95; deluxe ed. ISBN 0-8478-0027-X. $125. ART/HIST

Written by a journalist and Revolutionary War buff, this is far from being a comprehensive history. It is, however, a candid, concise, and interesting narrative on the Revolution's principal incidents, personages, and battles, with special attention to the machinations of the major officers on both sides of the conflict. Above all else, of course, looms George Washington, an impressive, quasi-mythological figure, even in his own time. The full-page color illustrations, executed in a primitive style with an obvious narrative content and allegorical significance, are completely charming. An excellent example of popular book design; this will be read and enjoyed.—John Harvath Jr., Houston P.L.

HISTORY

Fourquin, Guy. Lordship and Feudalism in the Middle Ages.

Pica: Universe Bks. 1976. 253p. index. LC 75-11141. ISBN 0-87663-718-7. $12.50. HIST

This translation of economic historian Fourquin's Seigneurie et Féodalité au Moyen Age (1970) is faithful to the French to the point of producing in English a number of awkward passages, of which several in the first chapter are almost incomprehensible. But for those interested in the topic these syntactic problems will be of slight consequence. The author has constructed a synthetic view of the elements, the origins, and the evolution of lordship in France from the 7th through the 15th Century. He views feudalism as just one stage in the development of medieval lordship: acceptance of the domination of one man over another created the social milieu which would allow lordship to survive well beyond the middle ages. This highly technical essay is required reading for students of medieval society and of the development of socioeconomic theories.—Kenneth G. Madison, Dept. of History, Iowa State Univ.

Heaps, Leo. The Evaders.

Morrow. 1976. 245p. photogs. bibliog. index. LC 75-42090. ISBN 0-688-03033-5. $8.95. HIST

The Evaders were 250 Allied soldiers who managed to escape the Germans after the Allied defeat at Arnhem in September 1944. Using personal experiences, interviews, and published and unpublished records, Heaps, a Canadian and one of the Evaders himself, briefly tells the story of the battle, the men, and how they escaped, both single and in groups, with the assistance of the Dutch Resistance. This is an adventure book rather than a straight history and is bound to please those who like to read such things as Great Escape.—John Albert, Licking Valley Schs., Newark, Ohio

Hyde, H. Montgomery. The Cleveland Street Scandal.

Coward. 1976. 266p. photogs. index. LC 76-18894. ISBN 0-698-10775-6. $8.95.

Simpson, Colin & others. The Cleveland Street Affair.

Little. Oct. 1976. illus. bibliog. ISBN 0-316-79244-6. $8.95. CRIME/HIST

Sex was a taboo subject in the Victorian world, and homosexual prostitution was perhaps the most unmentionable topic of all. Thus, the royal scandal attached to the discovery on July 4, 1889 of a male brothel on Cleveland Street in London's West End was a potential disaster for the monarchy. Evidently, a cover-up was engineered by Edward, Prince of Wales, and Lord Salisbury, the prime minister, to protect Lord Arthur Somerset, a royal intimate, and Prince Albert Victor, the heir presumptive to Victoria's throne. Two studies of the events surrounding this scandal have appeared almost simultaneously. Making use of the same collection of official papers recently made available at the Public Record Office, both books present detailed, highly readable narratives. It is a shame that the two books are so much alike: neither has the documentation needed to serve the scholarly community; and one will do as well as the other to titillate the seeker after Victorian scandal.—Sheila R. Herstein, C.C.N.Y. Lib.

Jenkins, Alan. The Thirties.

Stein & Day. Oct. 1976. illus. LC 75-45511. ISBN 0-8128-1829-6. $17.95. HIST

A companion volume to the author's The Twenties (LJ 12/1/74), this new work offers social history in a light, entertaining format interspersed with personal reminiscences. The work covers a wide range of subjects relating to the decade, from economics and politics to religion to foreign affairs, but its main emphasis is upon popular culture—the music, the theater, the books, and the celebrities that gave the period its particular tone. The author's background as a journalist in both Great Britain and the U.S. gives the book somewhat more of an international flavor than the works of Frederick Lewis Allen (e.g., Since Yesterday) which it closely resembles in content and style. This reviewer saw only proofs; but assuming that this work appears in final form in the same beautifully illustrated format as the earlier volume, it can be highly recommended.—Scott Wright, Coll. of St. Thomas Lib., St. Paul, Minn.

Johnson, Stephen. The Roman Forts of the Saxon Shore.

St. Martin's. 1976. 172p. illus. maps. bibliog. index. LC 76-1301. $18.95. HIST/ARCHAEOLOGY

Toward the end of the third Century A.D. the Romans built a number of forts in both Britain and Gaul, on both sides of the English Channel. These forts were designed to intercept seafaring Frank and Saxon raiders who regularly attacked coastal and upriver settlements. Using evidence from archaeological and documentary sources, Johnson places these forts into their historical and military contexts, and he stresses their importance as a maritime frontier, where the Channel was seen militarily as a single unit. Because the maps showing the extent of the Saxon shore appear late in the book, readers can become confused by a prior discussion of forts and fortified towns in other coastal areas of Britain and Gaul. Some repetition also occurs, but in the main this is a useful addition to archaeology collections, and, possibly, military history ones as well.—Priscilla Wegars, Claremont Junior H.S. Lib., Oakland, Calif.

Keegan, John. The Face of Battle.

Viking. Nov. 1976. 352p. illus. maps. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-670-30432-8. $10.95. HIST

Keegan, a civilian instructor at the Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst, opens with a concise evaluative review of military history. He considers the uses and deficiencies of the genre specifically in terms of the modern historian's aims—determining and describing the reality of events and experience. (The book evolved from the author's own attempts to convey the sense and experience of a battle to classes of Sandhurst cadets.) Keegan then provides detailed accounts of three significant battles, Agincourt, Waterloo, and the Somme, focusing on how men behave in battle and their contribution to victory or defeat. Keegan's analysis is trenchant, thorough, and thought-provoking.—Michel Ridgeway, U.S. Military Academy Lib., West Point, N.Y.

HISTORY

The radical vision of the Populists

Goodwyn, Lawrence. Democratic Promise: the Populist movement in America.

Oxford Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. 608p. illus. $19.50. HIST

This original, interesting, and well-written work is the first significant comprehensive study of American Populism since John Hicks's The Populist Revolt (1931). The author's perceptive eye for detail makes this bold reinterpretation of the 1890's agrarian revolt an important book. Goodwyn believes, contrary to traditional interpretations, that monetary reform and economic cooperation were the essence of the Populists' radical democratic aspirations. He devotes the first half of the book to background information on Gilded Age monetary conditions and the crop lien system which contributed heavily to the emergence of the National Farmers Alliance and its cooperative movement. Then he describes the formation of the People's party, its rise to political prominence, and its ultimate disintegration in the hands of William Jennings Bryan and in light of the silver issue of 1896. Because of the author's original approach and the fact that he uses the concluding pages of the text to laud the radical vision of the Populists and examine the failures of democracy in 20th-Century America, this is sure to be a controversial work in historical circles. Although Goodwyn overstates his case and tends to romanticize the Populists' struggles, his book can still be highly recommended for academic and large public libraries.—Kevin M. Rosswurm, Akron P.L., Ohio

Kurzman, Dan. The Bravest Battle: the 28 days of the Warsaw Ghetto uprising.

Putnam. Oct. 1976. 436p. illus. bibliog. ISBN 0-399-11692-3. $10. HIST

This is the first nonfiction attempt at a daily account of one of the most stirring battles in history, the armed uprising that took place in the Warsaw Ghetto in 1942. Kurzman has pieced together interviews, documents, and diaries in his attempt to tell the story through the participants. His interesting approach is a good companion to Ber Mark's superb documentary study, Uprising in the Warsaw Ghetto (LJ 5/15/75). For general and Judaica collections.—Susan R. Panoff, Educational Resource Center, Central Agency for Jewish Education, Miami, Fla.

Laqueur, Thomas Walter. Religion and Respectability: Sunday schools and working class culture, 1780-1850.

Yale Univ. Pr. Dec. 1976. 294p. illus. maps. bibliog. index. LC 75-29728. ISBN 0-300-01859-2. $22.50. HIST

This solid contribution to English social history treats the Sunday school phenomenon as "a central feature of working class community life." Through their commitments to secular education, social service, and the sponsorship of various local activities, the Sunday schools filled a great void in the lives of those who participated, enabling many junior members of the working class to adjust to the heightened tensions of an increasingly complex, industrialized age. Laqueur is thoroughly familiar with his sources and manages to maintain a perfect balance between description and analysis. Less specialized than its title may suggest, Religion and Respectability represents a useful exploration of the grass roots of 19th-Century English life.—Mark R. Yerburgh, SUNY at Albany Lib.

Lucas, Stephen E. Portents of Rebellion: rhetoric and revolution in Philadelphia, 1765-76.

Temple Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. 376p. index. LC 75-30281. ISBN 0-87722-087-5. $17.50. HIST

Lucas chose Philadelphia for his study because he believes it to have been more representative of America than any other city. The author shows how, by the use of rhetoric, Whigs induced Philadelphians to change their perception of their relationship with England. By 1775 the Whigs had developed a rationale for rebellion, with little room left for compromise, thus making independence inevitable. Debate over independence was between moderate and radical Whigs, yet moderate miscalculations and failure to capitalize on their advantages tipped the scales in favor of the radicals. Lucas sees a major change in attitude reflected in the rhetoric of the decade, as the political order changed from elitist to popular. A competently researched monograph that will enhance special collections on the American Revolution.—Bayly Ellen Marks, Dept. of Social Sciences, Catonsville Community Coll., Md.

McGee, J. Sears. The Godly Man in Stuart England: Anglicans, Puritans, and the Two Tables, 1620-1670.

Yale Univ. Pr. (Historical Miscellany, 110). 1976. ISBN 0-300-01637-9. bibliog. index. $17.50. HIST

By comparing and contrasting 17th-Century Anglican and Puritan beliefs, McGee makes a strong case for the existence of only minor religious differences between the two groups. Thorough documentation and an extensive bibliography of primary and secondary materials complement this interpretation of English religiosity, which questions the standard view that Anglicans and Puritans differed profoundly, and argues instead that they placed emphasis on different fundamentals of faith. Recommended for all academic libraries.—George H. Libbey, Paley Lib., Temple Univ., Philadelphia, Pa.

Naquin, Susan. Millenarian Rebellion in China: the eight Trigrams uprising of 1813.

Yale Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. LC 75-18180. ISBN 0-300-01893-2. $22.50. HIST

This scholarly monograph on a North China rebellion sparked by a White Lotus religious sect provides a fascinating glimpse of village and urban society, as well as a picture of leadership below the level of China's orthodox and legitimate elite. Naquin describes the general organization and ideology of White Lotus sects, which attracted respectable persons from a wide range of social and occupational statuses. In the process she explores the transformation of loosely organized, normally peaceful teacher-student groups into a rebel organization by a forceful and persuasive leader, and the concomitant processes of rebel mobilization and government investigation which culminated in the uprising itself. As she shows, the government with its superior organizational and military strength put down the rebels within three months, demonstrating a vigor at odds with the oft-drawn picture of a collapsing dynasty in the decades before the Opium War. Specialist and academic collections should definitely acquire this study which will be sought by those interested in comparative social history, pre-modern mass movements, and in China.—Evelyn S. Rawski, Dept. of History, Univ. of Pittsburgh, Pa.

O'Neill, James E. & Robert W. Krauskopf, ed. & intro. World War II: an account of its documents.

Howard Univ. Pr. 1976. 269p. photogs. index. bibliog. LC 74-34112. $15. HIST

The 18 papers included here were originally presented by scholars and archivists at the Conference on Research on the Second World War sponsored by the National Archives in 1971. The essays dwell on such matters as ever-shifting historical interpretations, problems of bibliographic access, and information on the holdings of specific archival collections. Barbara Tuchman's thoughts concerning the obstacles involved in preparing her biography of General Stillwell are particularly intriguing; many of the other efforts are less so. In any event, this volume should be of considerable interest to graduate students and their mentors; its individual components unite to suggest that World War II generated an unprecedented flood of documents, the explication of which may hold a key to our common survival.—Mark R. Yerburgh, SUNY at Albany Lib.

Rabinowitch, Alexander. The Bolsheviks Come to Power: the revolution of July 1917 in Petrograd.

Norton. Oct. 1976. 432p. photogs. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-393-05586-8. $14.95. HIST

This is hardly just another contribution to an unwieldy existent literature. Discovering nothing particularly inevitable surrounding the outcome ot 1917, Rabinowitch attributes Bolshevik success to flexibility at its top levels of leadership combined with the steady cumulative effect of extraordinarily propitious circumstance. Much of the work's appeal lies in Rabinowitch's ability to detail the ever-shifting actions, reactions, and perceptions of the Provisional Government, the Bolsheviks, and the masses during those unrelievedly torturous months between the collapse of the czarist state and the fulfillment of Bolshevik ambition. Sophisticated historiography, enhanced by a clear and penetrating style.—Mark R. Yerburgh, SUNY at Albany Lib.

Sealey, Raphael. A History of the Greek City States: ca. 700-338 B.C.

Univ. of California Pr. Nov. 1976. 499p. illus. index. LC 75-27934. ISBN 0-520-03125-3. $15. HIST

This well-documented, clearly defined study begins with the assumption that the invasions destroyed all Bronze Age Greek political institutions so the Greeks of the historical period were starting their political developments from scratch. Within the polis, Sealey identifies the existence of social divisions along vertical lines based upon clan membership rather than horizontal cleavages based on economic distribution. He contends that the growth of state authority within the polis was in part a consequence of aristocratic rivalries which would then carry over into the sphere of inter-polis relations and exert a significant influence over the formation and actions of the various leagues and alliances of the fourth and fifth centuries. Where the sources permit, Sealey provides carefully detailed analyses of the internal operations of the various leagues and alliances, particularly of the two Delian Leagues. However, he tends to neglect socioeconomic forces, even where they are of significance in explaining political changes, and this limits an otherwise stimulating and thoughtful study of ancient Greek politics.—J. P. Karras, Dept. of History, Trenton State Coll., N.J.

Spencer, William. Algiers in the Age of the Corsairs.

Univ. of Oklahoma Pr. (Centers of Civilization). 1976. 184p. bibliog. index. LC 75-38728. ISBN 0-8061-1334-0. $4.95. HIST

This work traces the history of Algiers from its Roman origins to the French annexation in 1830 with special emphasis on the heyday of the Muslim corsairs, the Barbarossas and Oruj Reises who terrorized the Mediterranean from the 16th to the 19th centuries. Written in a readable style, the book deals with the lives and customs as well as the political vicissitudes of the algerines; but it unfortunately lacks footnotes that might indicate which sources cited in the bibliography were used. Further, Spencer's unfamiliarity with the languages of the primary sources (Arabic and Turkish) occasionally manifested in orthographic mistakes. Still, this is an enjoyable, semipopular introduction to a relatively unexplored time and place.—Louis Mitler, Library of Congress

Starkey, Larry. Wilkes Booth Came to Washington.

Random. Oct. 1976. bibliog. index. $7.95. HIST

It was probably inevitable that somebody would write this book. Its thesis is that John Wilkes Booth was the agent of a Canadian-based Confederate cabal who hoped to murder Lincoln and Seward in order to provoke a war with England, a war which would rekindle the embers of Confederate independence just as they were finally being extinguished. According to the author, the man really responsible for Lincoln's death was the Confederate agent and courier John H. Surratt. It was he who arranged the whole plot and recruited Booth as the instrument of Lincoln's death. Booth, the author suggests, was not the demented egomaniac most other students of his behavior describe, but only a foolish, trusting Confederate patriot, something of a dupe. This is a banal and unconvincing book reflecting sloppy research and crammed with intuitive conclusions and invariably bad judgments. On several occasions, the author intrudes himself into the narrative to sermonize on current events, pet theories, and historical trivia.—John H. Ashby, Dept. of Social Sciences, Catonsville Community Coll., Baltimore, Md.

Watson, J. Wreford & Timothy O'Riordan, eds. The American Environment: perceptions and policies.

Wiley. 1976. 340p. photogs. maps. bibliog. index. LC 74-32224. ISBN 0-471-92221-8. $21; pap. ISBN 0-471-92222-6. $12.95. ENVIRONMENT/GEOG

Edited by two British geographers, this view of America is an example of one of the relatively new approaches to geography. The environmental perception school believes that culture, technology, and the times determine how people perceive and evaluate their environment. There are 19 essays grouped under four main headings: perceptions of the unfolding environment; perceptions and policies in the American city; transportation and the American environment; and land use. A preface deals with the relationship between the myth and the reality of landscape development and policy making. This collection provides some interesting food for thought, but the price tag puts it in the gourmet food section.—John Whitling Hall, Dept. of Social Sciences, Louisiana State Univ., Shreveport

Whiting, Charles. Bloody Aachen.

Stein & Day. Oct. 1976. LC 76-10132. ISBN 0-8128-2090-3. $10 HIST

The battle for Aachen was part of the American campaign in the Huertgen Forest in World War II, a battle that did not add luster to American commanders from army to divisional levels, but certainly did to the foot soldiers of both armies. Whiting's book is a description of the assault on the city of Aachen in the fall of 1944. His narrative includes attacks by small units, as well as the actions of individuals, decisions of commanders, and defensive efforts by the Germans. He shows especially how the delaying action and prolonged defense by the Germans gave Hitler the time he needed to prepare for the Ardennes offensive later in the year. For large libraries and those having special World War II collections.—John Buechler, Univ. of Vermont Lib.

Wilson, Charles. The Transformation of Europe 1558-1648.

Univ. of California Pr. 1976. 301p. illus. maps. bibliog. index. LC 75-17283. ISBN 0-520-03075-3. $20. HIST

The author of Queen Elizabeth and the Revolt of the Netherlands (Univ. of California Pr., 1970) and other highly acclaimed books draws upon his own research and published accounts to describe the complex developments in Europe from the Treaty of Câteau-Cambrésis to the Treaty of Westphalia. He shows the period to be one in which war was the natural modus operandi that these new European nation-states followed. He further explains the reasons for the civil and religious unrest in France, the decline in Spain, the contrasts in England between the Tudor and Stuart dynasties, and the increasing economic power of the Dutch. This represents historical synthesis at its best. An excellent book recommended for all undergraduate and graduate collections.—Robert O. Lindsay, Dept. of History, Univ. of Montana, Missoula

Travel, Exploration & Adventure

Anderson, Jane. Inn Perspective: a guide to New England inns.

Harper. 1976. 288p. illus. by Peter J. B. Vercelli. maps. index. ISBN 0-06-010138-5. $10; pap. ISBN 0-06-010137-7. $4.95. TRAV

A wife/husband writer/illustrator team has created a delightful guide to the country inns of New England. Anderson provides first-hand information about accommodations, food, and service of 74 inns, including concise driving directions, rates, number of rooms, nearby scenic drives and interesting anecdotes. Meals are discussed at great length and personal dining and lodging experiences are shared. Vercelli's 71 line drawings are charming. Little escapes the author's eye—often she even describes the wallpaper! Travelers who are weary of vinyl-furnished highway motels will find this a pleasant companion to their meanderings along the byways of New England.—Betty Page, Guilford Public Schs. Libs., Conn.

Duncan, William. Thailand: a complete Guide.

Tuttle. 1976. 384p. sketches by Ikuko Duncan. photogs. index. LC 75-28719. ISBN 0-8048-1158-X. $10.95. TRAV

A good guidebook from a library standpoint is one that is not only useful in planning and carrying out a trip but also conveys an understanding of other cultures, has reference utility, and is attractive enough to tempt the browser. This one will serve the tourist well, although my Thai expert tells me that the Thai language is misrepresented in places and the prices cited are out-of-currency. Librarians would be better served by more emphasis on basic background information (there is no central historical sketch, population statistics, or mention of political alliances, for example). These shortcomings aside, the book reads well and it is very nicely illustrated. Along with the Nagel guidebook, it is the best of the single-volume guidebooks to this nation of expanding tourist interest.—Harold M. Otness, Southern Oregon State Coll. Lib., Ashland

Randles, Slim. Dogsled: a true tale of the North.

Winchester, dist. by Scribners. Oct. 1976. 209p. ISBN 0-87691-186-6. $7.95. ADVENTURE

Dogsled recounts two unsuccessful adventures. The first, a sled trip from McKinley Park to Anchorage, had to be abandoned short of its goal when the snow gave out. The second, a trip down the Alaska pipeline, was scrapped after hurricane force winds combined with sub-freezing temperatures to nearly kill Randles. Both experiences come to life vividly, but the stars of the book are the dogs who pulled the sleds. Each had a unique personality that insisted on being expressed, often at the most inopportune time. Randles' book is full of irrepressible good spirits and would be a good addition to any Alaska, travel, or outdoor living collection.—Saul J. Amdursky, Albion P.L., Mich.

Whitnah, Dorothy L. An Outdoor Guide to the San Francisco Bay Area: exploring with boots, bikes, backpacks, buses, boats, books and BART.

Wilderness. 1976. 401p. illus. maps. index. LC 74-79833. ISBN 0-911824-35-9. pap. $6.95. RECREATION/TRAV

Whitnah leads the reader by the hand through the hills, mountains, and valleys that make up the physical geography within a 70-mile radius of the Golden Gate Bridge. Though the photos are of uneven quality, the 84 hiking and biking trail maps are superb. Each map includes explicit directions; length of hike; degree of difficulty; time required; geological, zoological, and botanical features one can expect to encounter on the trail; and a brief history of that particular area. In addition to the popular recreation areas such as Golden Gate and Tilden Parks, secluded natural settings, many with sidestops and detours, are included. Indispensable for recreation and regional natural history collections.—Fraiser McConnell, California Coll. of Arts and Crafts Lib., Oakland

Home Economics

Cookery

De Groot, Roy Andries. Revolutionizing French Cooking.

McGraw. Oct. 1976. illus. by Bill Goldsmith. index. LC 76-10947. ISBN 0-07-016240-9. $15.95. COOKERY

The new French cooking is low in carbohydrates, sugar, and fat but still gives first priority to the high pleasure of eating. De Groot describes the cuisine through conversations with 22 chefs, the majority of whom preside over Michelin starred restaurants. Recipes adapted for American kitchens comprise the bulk of the book. Some of the recipes involve time, talent, and work, but modern kitchen inventions such as a blender or food processor help. Recipes are prefaced with an estimate of time and work involved and end with suggested wines. The majority are for fish, poultry, and meat. A paupiettes of beef was tasty, as was the only bread recipe—a low-fat pot cheese natural bread. This is more than just a cookbook; it is a fascinating explanation of a new haute cuisine.—Christine Bulson, SUNY at Oneonta Lib.

Wason, Betty. The Soup-to-Dessert High Fiber Cookbook.

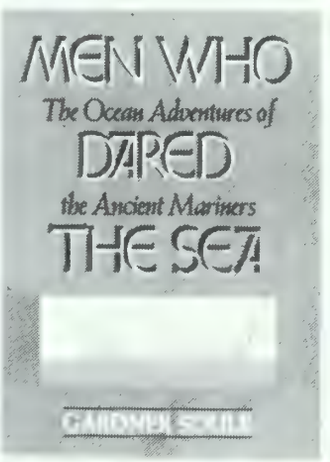
Rawson, dist. by Atheneum. 244p. bibliog. 1976. LC 75-24234. ISBN 0-89256-001-0. $9.95. COOKERY

Concentrated, refined, fiber-free foods have been condemned in recent scientific literature. Wason refers to this data and urges a sensible (and delicious) diet which includes more wholegrain cereals, legumes, nuts, high-fiber vegetables and fruits, and less sugar, meat, and fat. To this end she has developed recipes in all menu categories, from appetizers through desserts, which call for high-fiber ingredients. These are discussed, and fiber content given, in the book's preliminary chapters. Here, too, are excellent and easy suggestions for adding fiber to familiar foods. The well-balanced recipe collection will appeal to natural food enthusiasts, and is strong in main course dishes—substantial soups and other imaginative combinations. Some of these are

THE CROWELL CORNER



MEN WHO DARED THE SEA
The Ocean Adventures of the Ancient Mariners
by Gardner Soule

"Using nontechnical language and a dramatic style, Soule achieves a fast-paced, simplified introduction of ancient marine history suitable for YA's and general readers." –Library Journal

ISBN: 0-690-01095-8
LC: 75-3445

$9.95

T. Y. Crowell
666 Fifth Avenue New York, N Y 10019

from the cuisines of other countries. This carefully developed book is recommended for libraries.—Eleanor H. Broadus, Northern Illinois Univ. Lib., DeKalb

HUMOR

Buchwald, Art. Washington Is Leaking.
Putnam. 1976. 275p. ISBN 0-399-11785-X. $8.95. COMM/HUMOR
Many newspaper readers will have seen much of the contents of this book before, it being a collection of recent columns (written since 1974) by the syndicated columnist. Buchwald is a pitiless chronicler of human folly, particularly as it manifests itself in public officials; the targets of his satire are pretension, inconsistency, and hypocrisy. He makes his readers laugh out loud, then leaves them wondering whether what they laughed at might not equally well have made them weep. If this collection has an obvious fault, it is that too much of the same thing inflicts, at last, the boredom of surfeit. The book is impossible to consume in one gulp; it's one of those things people can read when they're watching TV.—A. J. Anderson, Sch. of Library Science, Simmons Coll., Boston

Literature

Anthony, Geraldine. John Coulter.
Twayne. (World Authors). 1976. 176p. bibliog. index. LC 76-10728. ISBN 0-8057-6240-X. $7.50. LIT
This is a clear, tightly written introduction to the work of a major Irish-born, Canadian playwright. Anthony has "separated the plays ethnically rather than chronologically, beginning with Ulster plays, followed by the plays with Canadian content, and finally those plays that are neither Irish nor Canadian." She has balanced her account nicely: weight is distributed equally among the several facets and periods of Coulter's life and work. Much of the information has never before been presented in one place, and the explication is knowledgeable and lucid. The extensive bibliography of primary and secondary sources provides an excellent lead for the reawakening of interest in this important Canadian writer.—Matthew Hartman, Univ. of British Columbia Lib., Vancouver, Canada

Artaud, Antonin. Selected Writings.
Farrar. Oct. 1976. ed & intro. by Susan Sontag. tr. from French by Helen Weaver. notes by Susan Sontag & Don Eric Levine. illus. $20.
THEATRE
Weaver's skillful translation of these well-chosen selections from among Artaud's poems, essays, correspondence, notebooks, and private papers brings to the English-language reader a rich self-portrait of Artaud. Sontag's thought-provoking introductory essay is an honest evaluation of Artaud, whose ideas and obsessions, particularly those concerning a total art form through the theater, are often difficult to read and to assess. This collection will be of special interest to the learned reader able to keep in perspective and to evaluate judiciously Artaud's writings and to the historian of the theater curious to know more of the author of The Theater and Its Double.—Anthony S. Caprio, Dept. of Foreign Languages, Cedar Crest Coll., Allentown, Pa.

Benston, Kimberly W. Baraka: the renegade and the mask.
Yale Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. c.300p. bibliog. index. LC 75-43302. ISBN 0-300-01958-0. $12.50. LIT
Benston seeks to demonstrate that Baraka (LeRoi Jones) is "one of the foremost American artists of our century," and that far from detracting from his art, Baraka's religious and political ideas are indissolubly linked with it. Concentrating on the plays, but with considerable attention to his fiction, poetry, and essays, Benston traces Baraka's literary and personal development from self-preoccupation in a world largely defined by white Euro-American culture, through a number of often tormented transitions, to his present position as an eloquent advocate of Afro-American unity, the Black Muslim faith, and black separatism. Judiciously placing Baraka in a rather intricate larger context of many other 20th-Century writers—with especially apt comparisons to Jean Genêt—Benston convincingly argues that Baraka has not received the serious critical attention he deserves.—David Isaacson, Western Michigan Univ. Lib., Kalamazoo

Berry, Boyd M. Process of Speech: Puritan religious writing and "Paradise Lost."
Johns Hopkins. 1976. 304p. index. $13.50. LIT
This book, one of the few new books on Milton which might be described as a sources-and-influences study, focuses on the sermons and theological writings of the Puritan divines who argued and preached their own understanding of God. The author treats the evolution of Puritan thought in the century, how Milton reflected that process, and how these attitudes toward God, man, and society shaped Paradise Lost. Berry's general comments about the poet's responsiveness to his intellectual milieu are well stated. But the ordinary reader of Milton, or the undergraduate student, will find this instruction dearly bought, and will turn with relief to the last sections, where actual discussion of the poem takes place. A worthy book, but not essential.—Gerald L. Evans, Dept. of English, Marietta Coll., Ohio

The Critical Evaluation of African Literature by Edgar Wright & others.
INSCAPE Corp., 1629 K St., N.W., Suite 5107, Washington, D.C. 20006. Oct. 1976. 179p. ed. by Edgar Wright. index. LC 76-6048. ISBN 0-87953-404-4. $16.50. LIT
Wright offers a perceptive overview of the many problems in developing critical approaches to the new African literatures written in Western languages. In the six essays which follow his contribution, African and non-African critics provide new insights into the works of major African writers—Soyinka, Ekwensi, Ngugi, and Okigbo. Unfortunately, with the exception of an essay on the Francophone poet Rabéarivelo, the collection focusses on Anglophone writers, and there is no mention of any of the many Luso-African authors. To a large extent, however, the questions raised by Wright and the responses given by his collaborators apply to all African literatures of Western expression, and serve as a useful contribution to the growing discussion about criticism of African literatures today.—Thomas A. Hale, Dept. of French & Comparative Literature Program, Pennsylvania State Univ., University Park

Fly, Richard. Shakespeare's Mediated World.
Univ. of Massachusetts Pr. 1976. 164p. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-87023-199-5. $10. LIT
First off, "mediated" here refers either to characters as go-betweens (Pandarus or Juliet's Nurse), or to language as the medium between experience and art, or both. Fly examines five plays: Romeo and Juliet, Troilus and Cressida, Measure for Measure, King Lear, and Timon of Athens. All five essays show wide reading; but most of them, despite moments of insight, tend to be superficial treatments in the service of showing the progress of Shakespeare's "temporary and experimental probes into the mediated character of playmaking." Fly depends rather heavily upon the studies of Philip Edwards, Sigurd Burckhardt, Norman Rabkin, and others who have taken up Shakespeare's language and structure; but Fly's little space does not allow for much advance in understanding.—James S. Dean, Humanities Div., Univ. of Wisconsin-Parkside

Gerli, E. Michael. Alfonso Martínez de Toledo.
Twayne. (World Authors). Oct. 1976. 184p. bibliog. index. LC 76-4556. ISBN 0-8057-6239-6. $7.95. LIT
Recommended for Hispanic medievalists, Gerli's study is an uneven monograph devoted largely to Martínez's Arcipreste de Talavera o Corbacho—an early 15th-Century treatise on the sin of lust. If the scholar survives the reams of competent but tedious erudition which record the Corbacho's sources, textual history, and debts to the medieval sermon, a worthy prize awaits him: the discussion of Martínez's misogyny as a Christian attack on the conventions of Courtly Love. This convincing interpretation strengthens the link between the Corbacho and the later Celestina, while illuminating a crisis of orthodoxy in late medieval Spain.—Dru Dougherty, Dept. of Spanish & Portuguese, Univ. of California, Berkeley

Heller, Erich. The Poet's Self and the Poem: essays on Goethe, Nietzsche, Rilke and Thomas Mann.
Humanities. 1976. 99p. index. $7.50. LIT
In these four essays, the Lord Northcliffe lectures given at University College London in 1975, Heller suggests that great literary art emerges from and transcends a specific event or situation in a writer's life and, ultimately, serves as a mediator between the routine and the imaginative in life. His title sets the parameters of his thesis—the self (reality) versus the poem (art). His definition of poetry (verbal compositions) and his choice of subjects (a philosopher, a dramatist, a novelist, as well as a poet) support his ideas. This compact study, which demands a familiarity with the works of the authors under scrutiny, may interest serious students of literature.—Patricia M. Hogan, North Suburban Lib. System, Wheeling, Ill.

Hill, Archibald A. Constituent and Pattern in Poetry.

Univ. of Texas Pr. 1976. 157p. index. LC 75-32582. ISBN 0-292-72010-6. $11.95. LINGUISTICS/LIT

This collection and harmonization of 12 essays written between 1951 and 1974 sets forth clearly and exemplifies with well-known poems Hill's contention that poetic analysis can benefit from linguistic method. Poets think in prose, and poems result from (conscious or not) applications of the linguistic devices of transposition and substitution; reversing these processes makes it possible to recover the single real meaning of the poem. Strengths of the book for the literary critic are fairly extended analyses of poems by Hopkins, Blake, Keats, and Dickinson, and the assumption of no knowledge of linguistics. Flaws are that Hill sometimes promises at the beginning of an essay to discuss something he never gets around to, that he is quick to brand as bad poetry lines which he has trouble interpreting, and that the linguistic theory in the early essays is dated.—Peter T. Daniels, Dept. of Linguistics, Univ. of Chicago

Jensen, H. James. The Muses' Concord: literature, music, and the visual arts in the Baroque Age.

Indiana Univ. Pr. Dec. 1976. 320p. illus. index. LC 76-11940. ISBN 0-253-33945-6. $12.95. LIT

In this study of 17th-Century esthetics, Jensen sets out to demonstrate that a faculty psychology and a rhetorical process, commonly understood by creator and spectator alike, underlie the paralleled Baroque art forms. The author moves quickly, as he should on thin ice. He assumes a Baroque agreement on man's nature and the nature of the arts that most modern scholars would dispute, since recent studies persistently emphasize the theoretical ambiguities and transformations. Nor would most scholars be prepared, as the author too readily is, to compress the age's arts into the dimensions of Baroque psychology and rhetoric and to call it an enhancement.—G. A. Masterton, Wayne State Univ. Libs.

Juhasz, Suzanne. Naked and Fiery Forms: modern American poetry by women, a new tradition.

Colophon: Harper. Oct. 1976. bibliog. LC 76-466. ISBN 0-06-090530-1. pap. $3.95; hc ed. Octagon: Farrar. LC 76-16672. ISBN 0-374-94450-4. $11. LIT

In this fine study of the new, feminine tradition of poetry, Juhasz offers sensitive readings of Emily Dickinson, Marianne Moore, Denise Levertov, Sylvia Plath, Anne Sexton, Gwendolyn Brooks, Nikki Giovanni, Alta, and Adrienne Rich. Juhasz points out that the dominant tradition of Western culture has been a patriarchal one in art as well as in politics, and that the woman who aspired to be a poet found herself in a "double bind" of conflict and strain between her role as woman and her desire to write. It was a situation in which she could not win, because the creative qualities required of the artist—strength, independence, and achievement—were qualities which violated society's view of the traditional feminine role. Dickinson escaped the double bind by retreating into an isolated existence within her father's house, while 20th-Century women poets have begun to assert their independence from the masculine mode of poetry and to trust the authenticity of their unique vision of the world. This is a well-written book that should be of interest to both general readers and specialists.—Mary McBride, Dept. of English, Louisiana State Univ., Shreveport

McClelland, I. L. Diego de Torres Villarroel.

Twayne. (World Authors). Oct. 1976. 176p. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-8057-6237-X. $7.95. LIT

McClelland combines biographical and historical criticism to survey brilliantly the writing of one of Spain's most controversial satirists of the 18th Century. Featured is Torres' Life, an imaginative self-analysis that hovers provocatively between autobiography and picaresque fiction. At times blurred by excessive psychological speculation, McClelland's method nevertheless succeeds: Torres' writing acquires extraordinary vitality as it is viewed against prior sources of Spain's Golden Age, the writer's outrageously engaging personality, and the cultural contradictions of 18th-Century Spain. Recommended to specialists and the general reading public as well.—Dru Dougherty, Dept. of Spanish & Portuguese, Univ. of California, Berkeley

Moskowitz, Sam. Strange Horizons: the spectrum of science fiction.

Scribners. Oct. 1976. 304p. ISBN 0-684-14774-2. $8.95. LIT

Moskowitz, a leading sf collector and historian, traces several nontechnological themes (racism, anti-Semitism, women's liberation, birth control, etc.) to show that outside its "hard-science" specialty, sf has been no more precognitive than any other form of literature. Though heavy on pedestrian plot synopses and written in an ungainly style, the book offers a unique focus on 19th- and early 20th-Century popular prejudices as expressed in sf of the day. There is also a good (if nonpertinent) biography of sf artist Virgil Finlay. Recommended for serious subject collections.—Frederick Patten, Los Angeles Science Fantasy Society

Redmond, Eugene B. Drumvoices.

Anchor: Doubleday. Oct. 1976. bibliog. index. LC 75-6171. ISBN 0-385-06168-4. pap. $3.95. LIT

Drumvoices surveys Afro-American poetry (Redmond uses the term in the broadest possible sense to include Negro spirituals and blues lyrics) beginning with Lucy Terry, who wrote a poem 229 years ago, and concluding with contemporary black poets (Redmond is a practicing poet himself and is obviously immersed in the current black poetry scene, upon which his book is particularly strong). As a historical-critical overview, the book contains a mine of raw information and is a much needed, valuable reference tool, especially for the teacher or student of black literature or culture for whom it is intended. Unfortunately, the mineshaft of Redmond's prose is laden with redundancy, superfluity, verbiage, stylistic inconsistencies, and fuzzy logic. For the diamonds of data deep within, recommended—in anticipation of a thoroughly re-edited and completely overhauled version.—Marcia G. Fuchs, Free Lib. of Philadelphia

Rowe, Donald W. O Love O Charite! contraries harmonized in Chaucer's "Troilus."

Southern Illinois Univ. Pr. 1976. 201p. index. LC 76-4816. ISBN 0-8093-0697-2. $12.50. LIT

The thesis of Rowe's study is that Troilus is a deliberate "union of contraries," an artistic paradox that mirrors God's universe. Unfortunately, the development makes dull one of Chaucer's best poems. It cites and summarizes secondary material excessively. It points out the obvious: "Troilus is male; Criseyde, female." It is dully, even awkwardly written; for example, "One such cyclical structure is evident in Book IV, for structurally it reiterates the formal structure of the first three books." Its use of theology is almost blasphemous: "Like the universe itself, Chaucer's poem seeks to incarnate the Word in the flesh of its poetry." The chapters review the concordia discors tradition as a preface to the style, structure, and content of the poem; the contrasts within and among characters; and the ambivalence of the narrator. Rather than being inflated into a book, Rowe's point might have been served with better style and taste as a modest essay.—Hugh T. Keenan, Dept. of English, Georgia State Univ.

Sullivan, J. P. Propertius: a critical introduction.

Cambridge Univ. Pr. 1976. 174p. bibliog. index. LC 75-10038. ISBN 0-521-20904-8. $14.95. LIT

The author presents the Roman poet, Propertius, in the light of modern scholarship as a complex artist who makes a particular response to the ideological and literary trends of the Augustan period. For the first time in book form Sullivan synthesizes his own views, those of other scholars (including the application of Freud's ideas), and the perceptions of Ezra Pound. This is the only broad study available in English at this time. Latin is translated, and many comparisons are made with other literatures, especially modern. The book will be of value to general students of literature, but will be of interest primarily to classicists.—Robert P. Sonkowsky, Dept. of Classics, Univ. of Minnesota, Minneapolis

Tennenhouse, Leonard, ed. & intro. The Practice of Psychoanalytic Criticism.

Wayne State Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. c. 300p. index. $15.50; pap. $5.95. LIT

These 14 essays highlight the variety of thought in psychoanalytic criticism. Taken from the journals American Imago and Criticism, they examine novels, poems, and plays by authors ranging from Thomas More to Saul Bellow. Tennenhouse points out that these critics represent a perspective on literature, not a school of thought such as the New Criticism. Their concerns range from a psychoanalytic dissection of character to a correspondence between a work and the author's life and psyche. They are especially fascinated with the reader's perceptions, subconscious or not, of the literary work. The papers selected strike a balance between critical interpretations that lay readers can comprehend and complex, jargon-filled analyses that require an extensive background in Freudian theory to understand. The last two papers use the ideas of Jung and Reich to good effect. By and large, this is a well-chosen collection for anyone who wants a quick introduction to this aspect of literary criticism.—Morris A. Hounion, New York City Community Coll. Lib./ Learning Resource Center, CUNY

Wilbur, Richard. Responses: prose pieces, 1953-1976.

HBJ. Oct. 1976. 252p. ISBN 0-15-176930-3. $10. LIT

This collection of 16 essays is a potpourri of literary criticism. Most evaluate the work of particular poets (Shakespeare, Housman, Dickinson, Burns, Whitman, and Frost). These short studies, in combination with a few self-critical articles and explorations of general poetic theory and tradition, establish an overall view of Wilbur's personal poetic philosophy and style. In addition, the book contains introductory essays written for anthologies, texts of lectures, a college commencement address, and several articles on the life and works of Poe. For the most part, this is a disjointed collection of odds and ends which, when added to the shelf, along with Wilbur's poetry and critical studies of his art, is of questionable supplementary value to most libraries, especially those on restricted budgets.—Dennis Petticoffer, California Inst. of Technology Lib., Pasadena

VIOLIN ICONOGRAPHY OF ANTONIO STRADIVARI

The monumental work of documentation, 780 pages listing 700 known Strads and their owners-auction prices 1809-1972, frauds lawsuits, reprints of rare Strad literature-1,500 photos of front, back and side of over 400 violins, violas, cellos and guitars.

Rave reviews in the best book journals. Designed and printed by Meriden and Steinhour Presses.

Price: $135.00

Author Publisher
Violinist

Herbert K. Goodkind
25 Helena Avenue
Larchmont, N.Y. 10538

MUSIC

Clark, Dick & Richard Robinson. Rock, Roll & Remember.

Crowell. Oct. 1976. 288p. photogs. index. LC 76-17606. ISBN 0-690-01184-9. $9.95. BIOG/MUSIC

Biography of the radio and TV personality's public life. It is generally a dull and disjointed account except for the reporting of Clark's involvement in the payola scandal. Here a spark is ignited, caused by a sense of injustice at being singled out as the prime purveyor of "junk" music which the good investigators thought could not survive but by deceit and bribery. That scandal behind him, Clark and pop music continue to flourish. It is to be hoped that there is a lot more to Dick Clark than is said here; for starters, where is that Clark portrait made of Beechnut wrappers which is slowly aging in someone's attic?—Gloria Gehrman, Moscow-Latah County Lib. System, Idaho

Horton, John. Grieg.
255p. $7.50.

Kennedy, Michael. Mahler.
196p. $7.

Kennedy, Michael. Richard Strauss.
274p. $8.50.

Norris, Geoffrey. Rakhamaninov.
211p. $7.50.

Routh, Francis. Stravinsky.
202p. $9.50.

Watson, Derek. Bruckner.
174p. $6.50.

ea. vol: Rowman & Littlefield. (Master Musicians). 1976. illus. bibliog. index. MUSIC

Dent's useful and reliable series (distributed in the U.S. by Rowman & Littlefield) is augmented by monographs treating six well-known composers. Each volume offers a concise, smoothly written, nontechnical introduction to the life and works of its subject, as well as a number of commendable reference features: a catalog of the composer's works; a calendar of his life, with a side-by-side listing of contemporary events; a select bibliography; a "personalia" section; and an index. Each of the books under review here at least adequately fulfills the basic purpose of the series, and libraries with fairly sizable music collections will want them all.

Particularly welcome are the books on Rachmaninoff and Grieg, since there is a remarkable shortage of English-language materials on these popular composers. Authors Norris and Horton are authorities on their topics and have made sound and thorough use of Russian and Norwegian sources. Other composers have been better served elsewhere. In particular, small libraries that have Eric Walter White's Stravinsky. (LJ 1/1/67) might forego Routh's Stravinsky, the least satisfactory item in this group. Routh's biography does little more than chronicle events, and provides little insight into the character of one of the most intriguing personalities of 20th-Century culture. Beyond that, Routh's discussion of Stravinsky's music focuses too much on external considerations (e.g., plot descriptions of ballets) and fails to provide an adequate picture of the essential features of the composer's musical style.—John Conyers, Jackson State Community Coll. Lib., Tenn.

Philosophy

Ferre, Frederick. Shaping the Future: resources for the post-modern world.

Harper. 1976. 192p. index. ISBN 0-06-062371-3 $7.95. PHIL

Ferre seeks to document the implausibility of the values of the modern world arising from the myth of scientific consciousness. These values, based on the objective approach of technology, have lead to the approach of ecologic disaster. Man is seen as adjusted to technology and growth, rather than adjusting inventions to human need and growth. The author makes a plea for a post-modern consciousness based on values generated from religious and philosophical resources. Ferre defines his position as "polymythic organicism," an approach to the man-nature relationship in terms of wholeness and depending on a variety of traditions for its development. A clearly developed, persuasive argument.—James S. Nelson, Dept. of Religion & Philosophy, North Park Coll., Chicago

Gill, Jerry H. Ian Ramsey: to speak responsibly of God.

Humanities. (Contemporary Religious Thinkers). 1976. 166p. bibliog. index. $12.50. REL/PHIL

According to Gill, Ramsey attempted to overcome logical empiricism's claim of the meaninglessness of religious language. By taking up a Wittgensteinian approach to truth, he interpreted it as varying in accordance with the different purposes and functions of language. Ramsey's contribution in the area of philosophical theology was the development of an account of religion which, though still concerned with mystery, maintained its basis in concrete human experience and was anchored in ordinary language. This, the first major study of this contemporary English philosopher-theologian, is a straightforward and sympathetic account of Ramsey's thought. However, it lacks

SCHIRMER BOOKS— The Music Master has something for everyone

MOZART
The Man • The Musician
By Arthur Hutchings

A magnificent pictorial biography of one of the world's greatest musical geniuses. Three hundred illustrations, over half of them in color, capture the full flavor of Mozart's life and times. "A triumphant mastery.... a fascinating account of what musical life was like in the later eighteenth century: the lodgings and the coach-journeys, the courts and concert-rooms, the jobs, the money... the passing moments of glory."— Kingsley Amis
9 x 12, 352 pages $35.00
ISBN 0-02-871140-8

JOHN COLTRANE
By Bill Cole

The first serious study of the life and music of one of the most influential jazz musicians of our time, beginning with his apprenticeship with Miles Davis and Dizzy Gillespie, through his brief period with Thelonius Monk, and finally, in his own groups of the sixties. Captures the essence of Coltrane as an innovative force—on the use of the saxophone, on jazz, and on the development of African-American music.
6-1/8 x 9-1/4, 300 pages $12.95
ISBN 0-02-870660-4

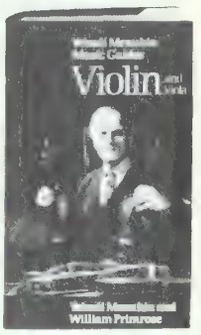
HISTORY OF WESTERN MUSIC
By Christopher Headington

A lively account of the development of Western music, from its beginnings in the temples of Mesopotamia to the electronic music of today. Full of fascinating details and anecdotes, numerous illustrations and musical examples, the book is a rich panorama of musical history, stressing the evolution of musical forms and instruments, and the significant composers of each period.
6-1/8 x 9-1/4, 360 pages $10.95
ISBN 0-02-871090-8

BOULEZ
By Joan Peyser

This is an insightful biography of Pierre Boulez, from his days as an avant-garde composer in postwar Europe through his controversial conducting engagement with the New York Philharmonic. And it is more: using Boulez's career as a focal point, it describes an entire generation of modernists, including Messiaen, Cage and Stockhausen, detailing the politics of success and failure in the world of modern music.
6-1/8 x 9-1/4, 288 pages $12.95
ISBN 0-02-871700-7

THE VIOLIN AND VIOLA
By Yehudi Menuhin
and William Primrose

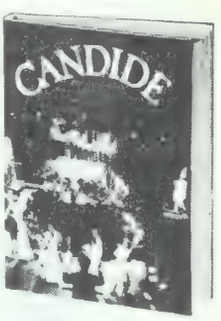


A lucid and practical guide to two beautiful instruments by two absolute masters. Yehudi Menuhin offers expert instruction and profound insights into every aspect of the violin; William Primrose presents a witty and illuminating section on the viola. This is an extraordinary working handbook by musicians and teachers of worldwide distinction. Abundantly illustrated.
5-1/4 x 8-1/4, 256 pages $10.95
ISBN 0-02-871410-5

THE PIANO
By Louis Kentner

One of the most distinguished pianists of our time offers a distillation of a lifetime's experience with his instrument. Invaluable instruction on various aspects of technique, practicing, interpretation, and repertoire, focusing on the works of Beethoven, Chopin and Liszt. A masterly exposition from a great artist.
5-1/4 x 8-1/4, 210 pages $10.95
ISBN 0-02-871420-2

CANDIDE
Music by Leonard Bernstein
Book by Hugh Wheeler
Lyrics by Richard Wilburn, John Latouche, and Stephen Sondheim
Foreword by Harold Prince



A great theatrical experience captured in book form. For the first time, the complete text and the complete musical score of a Broadway hit. This lavish edition includes notes on production, stage directions, and full-color photographs of sets, actors and scenes. For anyone who wants to read the play, or play the music. "By far the most beautiful vocal score I've ever seen."—Alan Whitehead, Music Theater International
9 x 12, 236 pages $35.00
ISBN 0-02-870450-9

SOLO GUITAR PLAYING
Book I, Second Edition
By Frederick M. Noad

One of America's leading guitar method books. The simple step-by-step approach, fully illustrated with diagrams, photographs, and a repertoire of over 100 musical exercises, offers thorough instruction in every phase of solo playing. This edition has new material on chords, scales, right hand exercises, and ensemble playing.
8 x 11, 170 pages Paper, $5.95
ISBN 0-02-871680-9

Schirmer Books
A DIVISION OF MACMILLAN PUBLISHING CO., INC. 100D Brown Street, Riverside, New Jersey 08075

the critical analysis and depth required by some of the issues under consideration such as empirical fit, disclosure, and commitment.—Maurice L. Collins, Dept. of Philosophy, Univ. of New Brunswick, Fredericton, Canada

Krishnamurti, J. Krishnamurti's Notebook.

Harper. 1976. 252p. fwd. by Mary Lutyens. ISBN 0-06-064793-0. $10. PHIL

Krishnamurti, whose books have gained worldwide respect, here gives us a glimpse of the tension, pain, and wonder underlying the life of a dedicated seeker. Written over a period of seven months in 1961, these diary entries include brief descriptions of the daily physical pain of "process" which is evidently a condition of extreme inner tension manifesting on every level of the personality. The interest of the book lies in documenting Krishnamurti's successful transcendence of this pain and tension, and in the powerful evocations of his surroundings he gives (he was often traveling). His insights are, as always, written in plain, nonsectarian language, and give perhaps the best picture we have today of the life of the spirit outside a strictly religious context.—Jeanne S. Bagby, Tucson P.L., Ariz.

Mackie, J. L. Problems from Locke.

Oxford Univ. Pr. 1976. 237p. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-19-824555-6. $13.75; pap. ISBN 0-19-875036-6. $4. PHIL

This book deals with problems that were raised in Locke's Essay concerning Human Understanding and that remain of interest to contemporary philosophers. Mackie is concerned primarily with the problems themselves and only secondarily with Locke's or subsequent philosophers' beliefs about them. The main topics are primary and secondary qualities; representative theories of perception; substance; real essence and nominal essence; abstraction and universals; identification; personal identity; and innate ideas and empiricism. On the whole, Mackie defends several views that are fairly close to Locke's. The book, which incorporates some previously published material, is subtle and insightful. Recommended for professionals.—Robert Hoffman, Dept. of Philosophy, York Coll., CUNY

Toynbee, Arnold J. & Daisaku Ikeda. The Toynbee-Ikeda Dialogue: man himself must choose.

Kodansha, dist. by Harper. 1976. 348p. index. LC 75-34739. ISBN 0-87011-268-6. $13.95. SOC SCI PHIL

Historian Toynbee and Buddhist leader Ikeda converse politely and intellectually on a bewildering miscellany of topics: genetics, old age, pollution, scientific method, a world police force, leadership, motherhood, labor unions, Japan's role in the world, life on other planets, immortality, freedom of the press, euthanasia, nationalism. Sometimes they are insightful, often trite and verbose, always moralistic. Both preach spiritual effort to combat war, greed, selfishness, and rampant scientific technology. The book offers a valuable presentation of Buddhist ethics and world view, and of the advantages of pantheism over monotheism. The good index will be useful for students and generally curious readers.—Thomas C. Hunt, formerly with Center for Integrated Studies, Guatemala, C.A.

POETRY

Harris, Marguerite, ed. A Tumult for John Berryman.

Dryad. 1976. 92p. LC 76-8553. pap. $3. POETRY

Many voices are raised in a tumult of homage—53 poems by as many poets who seek to "take note, pay attention, and remember" Berryman and his work. Biographical fragments, memories, and reactions to Berryman's poems and his suicide are filtered through varied imaginations. Those who pay homage in their own voices (among them Meredith, Matthews, Browne, Lowell, Hecht, Davison) give us the better poems—grieving, cantankerous, lyrical, loving. Less good are those which assume Berryman's voice, although it is clear that imitation here is a gesture of affection. Unfortunately, the collection is marred by typos and omissions in the contributors' notes.—Margaret Gibson, New London, Conn.

Pound, Ezra. Collected Early Poems by Ezra Pound.

New Directions, dist. by Lippincott. Oct. 1976. 352p. ed. by Michael King. intro. by Louis L. Martz. illus. index. $22.50. POETRY

This volume begins the monumental task of establishing the definitive edition of Pound's poetry. King collects all of Pound's early books from A Lume Spento through Ripostes, including the 99 poems Pound excluded from his 1926 collected poems, Personae, as well as 25 poems previously available only in periodicals, and 38 manuscript poems never published before including the complete San Trovaso Notebook. King's succinct notes at the end give publication histories of each poem, substantive manuscript variations, and typically peppery Pound comments from the manuscripts, which occasionally wax to the length of a brief essay. Together the poems and notes, along with Louis Martz's illuminating introduction, provide the first complete overview of Pound's pre-Imagist phase. We see the poet's growth as he pillages the various poetic resources of the Western world, revising and rejecting as he goes, gradually acquiring the skills that were to enable him to redirect English language poetry in the 20th Century. A valuable contribution to Pound scholarship.—James McKenzie, Dept. of English, Univ. of North Dakota, Grand Forks

Rukeyser, Muriel. The Gates.

McGraw. Oct. 1976. $7.95; pap. $3.95. POETRY

The Gates is excellent Rukeyser, displaying the clarity and strength that has deepened over the years. Her primary concern in this new volume is with the way traditions (of art, of politics, of human heritage) manifest themselves in the present, in the moment, and extend towards the future. "Today I asked Aileen/ at the Film Library to help me find/ those girl twins of the long-gone summer./ Aileen, who were they?" "We are the seas through whom the great fish passed/ And passes." "It is the poem, yes/ that it exist that it grow in reach/ that it grow into lives not yet born speaking." For Rukeyser, poetry itself is the ritual that makes these connections. Its language, needing to make magic, can grow grandiloquent and weighted with rhetorical postures (a tendency most evident in the more overtly political poems, such as the long title-poem, but when yoked to the colloquial and to the sharpness of sudden perception, its beauty is memorable.—Suzanne Juhasz, Dept. of English, Univ. of Colorado, Boulder

St. John, David. Hush.

Houghton. (New Poetry Series). 1976. ISBN 0-395-24673-3. $6.95; pap. ISBN 0-395-24672-5. $3.95. POETRY

The 25 poems in this first volume identify St. John as an intelligent involved presence who interrupts "the old shuffle/ through these cities" to speculate about his son (Sometimes, you ask/ about the world; sometimes, I answer back. Nights") and to respond to the world of painting and prose around him (Tanguy, an unfinished Kafka short story). Though occasionally imagepacking obscures a meaning, St. John's music and intensity still compel the reader along, as when "The leaves on the maple/ lift and shiver in the morning—/ like the thin dresses in a closet/ you're opening somewhere." Particularly stunning are two long poems, "You" and "Four O'Clock in Summer: Hope," a poem related to a painting. A voyage takes place here which suggests the poet's vision—"Like a small boy peeing/ off the back of a rowboat, we know a life dissolving/ in its past and a future passing back into its life." It's warming to read these untired poems in which the bard's "blame breaks like faith to solitude."—Rosaly De Maios Roffman, Dept. of English, Indiana Univ. of Pennsylvania

Simic, Charles & Mark Strand, eds. Another Republic: 17 European & South American writers.

Ecco Pr. dist. by Viking. 1976. 300p. LC 75-34558. ISBN 0-912946-28-8. $12.95. POETRY

From the poet-editors' introduction we learn that the purpose of their book is to express gratitude to modern translators, and to pay tribute to those foreign writers who arouse enthusiasm in the editors and to whom they, as well as many other contemporary American poets, feel indebted. Simic and Strand divide their authors into the mythological and the historical. In the former category we have Michaux, Ponge, Popa, Cortázar, Calvino, and Paz. In the latter we are given Amichai, Bobrowski, Celan, Herbert, Holub, Milosz, Ritsos. The origin of the mythological stance is said to be surrealism, while the historical derives from Cavafy, This division might leave one uneasy, but the anthology itself is enjoyable, enriched by the pleasant quality of the editors' personal involvement.—Brian Swann, Dept. of Humanities, Cooper Union, New York

Simpson, Louis. Searching for the Ox.
Morrow. 1976. 93p. LC 75-40950. ISBN 0-688-03008-4. $5.95. POETRY
The deep-imagist title poem is not representative of this collection, which is made up mostly of free verse narratives and character sketches based on the poet's family history, his memories of boyhood and newspaper days, and his more recent experience. Several pieces—"The Stevenson Poster" to name one—do succeed in bringing urban American characters to life. But readers that admire the new breadth of subject may sometimes be unhappy with the often fatuous or sarcastic tone. They should, though, find in the opening section of "The Tree Seat," in "Cliff Road," and in "OK for Keats" reason to hope for richer harmony.—Michael Madigan, formerly with Dept. of English, San Francisco State Univ.

Smith, Sydney Goodsir. Collected Poems, 1941-1975.
Humanities. (Scottish Lib.). 1976. 269p. intro. by Hugh McDiarmid. $18.75. POETRY
This is a title in a series planning to publish the best—one hopes—of Scottish literature, and the present volume proves a most welcome addition. Smith was a fine poet whose poems have only appeared occasionally in this country. As with most Scottish poets, winter and the devil appear frequently in his work. And like poets everywhere, he wrote much about love found and lost. But he did not limit himself to those subjects; he wrote about the modern condition of man in a variety of styles, in poems that are conversational, humorous, and haunting. There are two problems with this edition. Most of the poems are in dialect, and although there is a glossary, it is incomplete; the other problem is the price which will certainly reduce sales, and that is too bad.—John S. Robotham, N.Y.P.L.

Warren, Robert Penn. Selected Poems: 1923–1975.
Random. Jan. 1977. 282p. LC 75-40551. ISBN 0-394-40531-5. $12.50. POETRY
This volume presents a marvelous career, revealing how much good work a man does getting ready for his best. "My mind is intact, but the shapes/ of the world change" Warren wrote in "Island of Summer." In that light the fascinating diversity of his subject matter leads time and again to these thematic questings: how does the beast in us move, and to what form; what can we make of the few precious and terrible instants in which we see truth, or purpose, or ourselves, or simply something else in its blistering otherness? Life itself shapes the multifarious answers to such concerns, and language is the incarnation of them. The poetic modes—lyrical, narrative, aphoristic, allegoric—of that embodiment, discrete in the earlier books, are fused in the later ones, beginning with some poems in Incarnations, and then whole cloth in Audubon. The most recent poems (the first ten in this volume: it is arranged "backward" from the present) are the work of a man who has created a language for his life and thereby can say what he needs to say, the simplest and most severe definition of poetry I know. To Warren's hard-earned line at the close of "Loss, Of Perhaps Love . . ." "We must learn to live in the world" one might add, we must learn also to speak in it. He has, to our increase, and this book gives a splendid measure of that achievement, major in any century.—Dabney Stuart, Poetry Editor, "Shenandoah"

Political Science & International Affairs

Adamolekun, 'Ladipo. Sékou Touré's Guinea: an experiment in nation building.
Barnes & Noble: Harper. (Studies in African History). 1976. 250p. bibliog. index. $17. HIST/POL SCI
French-speaking Guinea has attracted comparatively little attention from English-speaking scholars, and for this reason alone a comprehensive study of post-independence Guinea is very welcome. Since the dramatic vote for independence in 1958 and the unceremonious and hasty withdrawal of the French colonial establishment, Guinea has remained politically isolated from the Western world. Ruled by a mass political party headed by the charismatic Touré, Guinea has pursued a course oriented toward socialism without a dogmatic following of either the Soviet Union or China. Drawing extensively on Guinean archival sources as well as two field trips to Guinea, the author, a Nigerian, examines the roles played both by Touré and by the ruling Democratic Party in the Guinean experiment in national integration, political mobilization, and economic development. Africana collections and libraries with interest in Third World politics will want to acquire this study, although it is overpriced. Inadequate index.—Janet Stanley, Inst. for Scientific Information, Philadelphia

Baker, Christopher John. The Politics of South India, 1920–1937.
Cambridge Univ. Pr. (South Asian Studies). 1976. 363p. maps. bibliog. index. LC 75-2716. ISBN 0-521-20755-X. $28.50. HIST/POL SCI
Baker has drawn upon state documents, party publications, newspapers, and secondary sources and written a competent and insightful account of Madras politics between 1920 and 1937. He examines the transition between diarchial government and provincial autonomy that occurred during these years; the roles of Brahman and non-Brahman castes in politics; and the manipulation of the masses by professional, bureaucratic, and mercantile elements. Unfortunately, Baker's preoccupation with electoral politics leads him to nearly overlook the class interests that affected many of the issues he considers. For specialized area studies collections and students of South Asian history and politics.—B. G. Gokhale, Asian Studies Program, Wake Forest Univ., Winston-Salem, N.C.

Beard, Edmund. Developing the ICBM: a study in bureaucratic politics.
Columbia Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. 288p. bibliog. ISBN 0-231-04012-1. $15. GOVT
One of the major debating points of the 1960 Presidential campaign was the "Missile Gap" that existed between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. In this book Beard relies heavily on primary sources in order to assess the events, decisions, and personalities that led to a situation where a gap could be claimed. He follows chronologically the development of an American ICBM, giving some historical background, but devoting most of the discussion to circumstances during the years 1945-1958, particularly as they related to the Air Force. The picture that ultimately emerges is one of organizational inertia rather than villainy: policy rivalries both within and without the Air Force conspired to impede the development of missiles until a civilian Assistant Secretary forced through a crash program. Recommended for academic and larger public libraries.—Edward Gibson, Washington Coll. Lib., Chestertown, Md.

Hart, Robert A. The Eccentric Tradition: American diplomacy in the Far East.
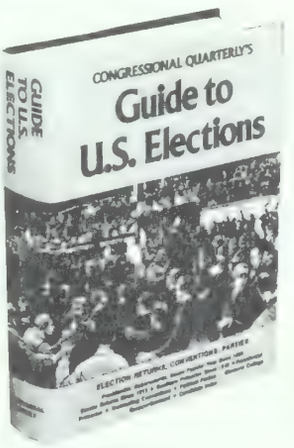
Scribners. Oct. 1976. 320p. $10; pap. $3.95. HIST/INT AFFAIRS
Amazingly, it has been more than two

Previously unpublished data



1,200 pp. 8½" x 11". $48.50

"This spectacular study of American election returns has been overdue for a century. It is the most complete, clear and all-embracing compilation of American election statistics ever made. It is CQ's Bicentennial gift to a nation that has practiced democracy successfully longer than any other in history."

Theodore H. White
November 17, 1975

Send for free descriptive brochure

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY INC.
Box 23, 1414 22nd St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20037

generations since the last full-scale survey of U.S. diplomacy in East Asia. Thus Hart's survey, which uses a wealth of recent scholarship to tell a sprightly and level-headed story full of anecdotes and sharp characterizations, is particularly welcome. The author explores the twists, reversals, and idiosyncrasies of American policy, giving careful attention to opposing arguments while developing his own thesis: i.e., from Manila Bay through Pearl Harbor to Vietnam, America's policy makers too often have lunged after "impossible dreams" and their Far East policies have lacked the realism, flexibility, and balance necessary for achieving notable success. Altogether this is a first-rate popular introduction to a fascinating topic.—Charles W. Hayford, Dept. of History, Oberlin Coll., Ohio

Hecht, Marie B. Beyond the Presidency: the residues of power.

Macmillan. Oct. 1976. 384p. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-02-550190-9. $15.95. HIST/POL SCI

Hecht presents an historical overview of attempts by former Presidents to influence public policy and to create new careers. Her study of post-White House activities focuses on such topics as the ex-Presidents' participation in the foreign policy endeavors of their successors, their own attempts to seek further elective office, the personal travels of ex-Presidents, their financial circumstances, and later career choices. By combining anecdotes previously scattered among Presidential histories and autobiographies, Hecht does perform a research service. However, in the final analysis her book is disappointing: even with the inclusion of anecdotes, the text is generally uninteresting, and the historical overview is misleading. The various historical points seem selected at random without thematic purpose or analytical summary to tie the facts into a coherent whole. Still libraries with comprehensive American history holdings or collections serving high school students in search of accessible research material for term papers might wish to add this book.—Carol S. Greenwald, Dept. of Political Science, Richmond Coll., CUNY

Huckshorn, Robert J. Party Leadership in the States.

Univ. of Massachusetts Pr. 1976. 300p. LC 75-32487. ISBN 0-87023-201-0. $15. POL SCI

At a time when many political observers have proclaimed the demise if not the death of organized political parties, Huckshorn's detailed and optimistic report on state party chairmen suggests that at least in many areas of the country the formal party organization is very much alive and well. In describing the practice as well as the promise of state party organizations Huckshorn has filled one of the most glaring gaps in the existing literature on American political parties. An especially important aspect of this work is the author's integrative treatment of the traditional party functions of candidate recruitment, patronage, and issue development with the newer activities originally developed and refined by extra-party agencies: electronic data processing, polling, and fund raising. With this scholary, informative, and wideranging study, state party organizations can no longer be viewed as unknown or unimportant political institutions.—Edward C. Dreyer, Dept. of Political Science, Univ. of Tulsa, Okla.

Laqueur, Walter, ed. Fascism: a reader's guide; analyses, interpretations, bibliography.

Univ. of California Pr. Nov. 1976. c. 500p. index. LC 75-13158. ISBN 0-520-03033-8. $25. HIST/POL SCI

This is a synoptic work of bibliographic criticism, scholarly synthesis, originality of interpretation, and guide to further research in the study of fascism. The essayists are internationally known scholars (mostly historians) who dissect fascism as a comparative social, economic, political, and intellectual phenomenon. The focus, inevitably, is on the fascisms of Italy and Nazi Germany, but smaller fascist movements of Eastern and Western Europe and of Latin America are also examined. Eugen Weber concludes the collection with a searching critique of some oversimplified contemporary concepts of revolution and counter-revolution. Fascist movements are carefully distinguished from other rightist groups and regimes; the unities and divergences of German Nazism and Italian Fascism are explained; and Marxist constructs that have fascism as the crisis-response of monopoly capitalism are found wanting. This tome should prove indispensable to university libraries, especially for its exhaustive and critical bibliographies it is also a worthy purchase for large public libraries.—Donald J. Murphy, Dept. of History, Chabot Coll., Livermore, Calif.

Steiner, John M. Power Politics and Social Change in National Socialist Germany: a process of escalation into mass destruction.

Humanities. (Issues in Contemporary Politics). 1976. 466p. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-391-00525-1. $22.50. HIST/POL SCI

This study examines the sociological and cultural dynamics that led to the creation of the Third Reich and made it evolve into a destructive totalitarian system. Steiner, a victim of Nazism who spent several years in concentration camps, argues that National Socialism engulfed all Germans because "the Elite, or any public authority, has no power in itself; power must be transferred to it by the people. As it appears, the German society was willing to make this transference." His work is interesting and stimulating insofar as it relies mainly on hitherto unpublished primary sources, such as interviews from former Nazi leaders, case studies, and biograms written by Hitler, Goering, Rosenberg, and other Nazi officials. But Steiner's style is heavy, awkward, and didactic. Discussion often rambles and is repeatedly interrupted by unending quotations (approximately half the volume consists of notes and appendixes). Academic and specialized libraries may be interested in acquiring this poorly translated German dissertation.—Jacques Fomerand, Dept. of Political Science, Queens Coll., CUNY

Wong, Paul. China's Higher Leadership in the Socialist Transition.

Free Pr. Nov. 1976. 384p. bibliog. index. LC 76-7179. $15.95. INT AFFAIRS/POL SCI

This formidably organized and fact-filled monograph combines the computer-aided methodology of the political scientist with the techniques of a "Sino-Marxologist." Wong uses complex statistical theory to examine the backgrounds and careers of 1000 to 2000 holders of higher government and party position in China, and asks whether they have solidified into a "state bourgeoisie," that is, self-perpetuating elites—cholesterol in the arteries of the revolutionary body politic. He emerges with a number of points that will be of methodological, theoretical, or descriptive interest to specialists, though the less dedicated reader will find this tough going.—Charles W. Hayford, Dept. of History, Oberlin Coll., Ohio

Psychology & Psychiatry

Erikson, Joan M. & others. Activity, Recovery, Growth: the communal role of planned activities.

Norton. 1976. 278p. photogs. bibliog. LC 76-9018. ISBN 0-393-01126-7. $10.95. SOC SCI/PSYCH

After a brief overview of the history of rehabilitative efforts, the main body of this work is devoted to an account of the activities program the author developed since 1951 for Austin Riggs Center, a small, private institution in Stockbridge, Massachusetts with a patient population of about 40 (mostly young patients being treated for severe psychoneuroses, together with a few psychotic patients). Specific opportunities offered included a basic workshop, a drama group, art program, nursery school, garden and greenhouse, and an "activities planning group" which involved patients in the decision-making process. The rationale for the integrated activities followed Erik Erikson's theories of psychosocial development within the broader framework of psychoanalytic theory. There are direct reports by activity directors, professional instructors, patients, therapists, and the authors. Emphasis is placed on the various programs' interrelatedness and the desire to bring staff, patients, and townspeople into an integrated, responsible community. The book's last chapter presents a proposal to apply the insights gained to community life in general. Erik Erikson provides an excellent postscript, giving the therapist's point of view. A book that will interest the layperson and professional alike, and highly recommended.—Lowry C. Fredrickson, Dept. of Psychology, Coe Coll., Cedar Rapids, Iowa

Faber, Heije. Psychology of Religion.

Westminster. 1976. 338p. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-664-20748-0. $12.50. REL/PSYCH

During the past quarter century there has been a remarkable collaboration between clergymen and mental health professionals. However, within this aura of good will and clinical collaboration fundamental issues of the psychology of religion have been ignored. This book speaks to this oversight. The author is a leading European figure in pastoral counseling, and author of several major books in the field. Here he devotes attention to the specifics of psychoanalytic theory as applied to religious thought, belief, and action. The first section reviews the contributions of Freud, Jung, Rumke, Fromm, and Erikson to the psychology of religion. The second section examines the major developmental stages of religion in terms of the psychosexual stages of development (oral, anal, oedipal, and adolescent). Although the validity of the psychoanalytic propositions used is open to serious question, the author presents a superb scholarly demonstration of the utility of psychoanalytic insights. The book is both an apt summary and provocative contribution to our fundamental knowledge of human psychology as reflected in religious life.—E. Mansell Pattison, M.D., Dept. of Psychiatry, Univ. of California, Irvine

Fein, Sylvia (text) & Heidi Scheuber (drawings). Heidi's Horse.

Exelrod Pr., Box 2303, Pleasant Hill, Calif. 94523. 1976. 159p. LC 74-76077. pap. $15. PSYCH

This is a remarkable collection of 250 drawings by a young girl, starting with Heidi's kinesthetic scribblings at age two and progressing in chronological order until age 17. Heidi's keen powers of perception and her intellectual capacity are evident in the advanced level of her drawings. Because of her familiarity with horses and equitation, she chose to focus her efforts on resolving the difficulties inherent in correctly drawing the horse. Her first attempt (at 4 years, 3 months) is ahead of schedule but typical of the way in which all children draw animals: multilegged and with a human fullface. Gradually, there emerges a figure clearly recognizable as a horse which is gradually transformed in the drawings by the adolescent into a graceful, fully equipped specimen. A valuable contribution to epistemology and an affirmation of the role played by active participation in the visual arts towards the intellectual and aesthetic development of children.—Joseph H. Di Leo, M.D., Director, Developmental Clinic, New York Foundling Hospital

Fenwick, Sheridan. Getting It: the psychology of est.

Lippincott. 1976. 192p. $7.95.

Hargrove, Robert. est: making life work.

Delacorte. 1976. 256p. LC 76-7033. ISBN 0-440-02405-6. $7.95.

Rhinehart, Luke. The Book of est.

Holt. 1976. $7.95; pap. $3.95. PSYCH

What do you "get" in Erhard Seminar Training? Is it merely an emotional high, are there lasting behavioral changes, can you be psychologically hurt by the process? An est trainer would probably answer that you get what you get and that he does what he does because it works. That kind of with-it diffuseness which disallows any intelligent understanding on principle is the subject and the problem in all of the books considered here. They are among the first in what is likely to be an estian deluge [See also Adelaide Bry's and Carl Frederick's books on est, (LJ 5/15/76)—Ed.], and all three attempt a day-by-day description of the est training.

Novelist Rhinehart uses a fictionalized approach to create a prototypical est training, dramatically portraying each est process in some detail. Hargrove is more discursive and impressionistic, and a good deal more personal. He remains center stage throughout, frequently losing the details of the training in his own reveries and reactions. Both authors are enthusiastic and impressed by what they see, but with reservations. Rhinehart is the least critical. His concluding chapters focus on the similarity of Werner Erhard's training philosophy to zen and Castaneda's don Juan, and to his own "dice" process. Questions of effectiveness or possible harm are hardly considered. Hargrove follows the trainee beyond the two-week initiation and relates his experiences in the est organization. His portrait of the mystification and authoritarianism by Erhard and his disciples is both amusing and chilling; yet Hargrove too dismisses his second thoughts as trivial in the face of the fact that est "works".

Fenwick (who teaches psychology at Columbia University) provides the only useful critical look at this essential issue. After a brief description of her own est experience, she examines closely the claims for, and the techniques of, est. Her analysis of the function of the group, the restrictive rules, and the enforced discomfort is convincing. That est uses a variety of powerful behavioral tools to provide a strong and stressful emotional experience is not in doubt. But, Fenwick concludes, with present information we just don't know if est produces any more than a superficial catharsis, or whether it might be harmful to certain people. The secrecy of the est organization makes study difficult and the few studies quoted by est are inadequate and inconclusive. So we are left with questions, and with a phenomenon whose immediate power and attraction are considerable, but whose long-range effects are unknown.—James Charney, M.D., Dept. of Psychiatry, Yale Univ. Sch. of Medicine

Freeman, Thomas. Childhood Psychopathology and Adult Psychoses.

Internat. Univs. Pr. 1976. 293p. pref. by Anna Freud. index. LC 75-31854. ISBN 0-8236-0775-5. $16.50. PSYCH

With an eye to fine detail, the author (who is the only Freudian psychoanalyst in Ireland) meticulously delineates and clarifies the issues involved in whether the underlying disordered processes in childhood and adult psychosis are identical or different in nature. His book includes a scholarly examination of the current psychoanalytic views of etiology of psychosis as well as those of Freud's. Especially valuable are the chapters on the metapsychology of persecutory ideas and on predisposition for schizophrenia. Illustrating Freeman's theoretical formulations are case reports which he subjects to a profile schema developed at the Hampstead Clinic by the Anna Freud team. A solid scholarly contribution, for the professional reader.—Sydney L. Pomer, M.D., Dept. of Psychiatry, Univ. of Southern California Sch. of Medicine, Los Angeles

Fromm, Erich. To Have or To Be?

Harper. (World Perspectives, Vol. 50). Oct. 1976. 224p. bibliog. ISBN 0-06-011379-0. $6.95. SOC SCI/PSYCH

Fromm compares and contrasts two modes of existence, the "being" mode of authentic, nonalienated productive activity and the "having" mode of selfish acquisitiveness. The having mode can never produce happiness because the person caught up in it always wants more and more and is consequently never satisfied. Fromm considers capitalism, communism, and modern forms of socialism as equally guilty of furthering the perpetuation of the having mode, and warns that unless the being mode prevails, our planet faces economic and ecological disaster.—Douglas S. Marsh, Memphis Shelby County P.L., Tenn.

Geiser, Robert L. Behavior Mod and the Managed Society.

Beacon, dist. by Harper. 1976. index. LC 75-36041. ISBN 0-8070-2960-2. $9.95. SOC SCI/PSYCH

Here is a well-balanced, unusually informative attempt to survey the fields of application of behavior modification techniques, with particular attention to their moral, ethical, and practical limitations. Broader in scope and generally more technical in approach than Stephen J. Sansweet's recent effort (LJ 4/15/76), Geiser provides a very readable analysis of the real and potential strengths and dangers of the "behavior mod" movement. He quite rightly emphasizes the fact that the techniques (and often the purveyors) have no inherent social philosophy. Thus, although the method is neutral, its uses may not be, and therein lies the danger. Although generally positive about the future, Geiser's concern about the misuse of behavior modification is most obvious when he reviews its use in education. The last chapter, in which the author discusses the restricted view of man that he feels Skinner proposes is weakened by the fact that Geiser misunderstands the way in which Skinner defines freedom.—Dennis Cogan, Dept. of Psychology & Statistics, Texas Tech Univ., Lubbock

Guthrie, R. Dale. Body Hot Spots: the anatomy of human social organs and behavior.

Van Nostrand Reinhold. 1976. 240p. illus. bibliog. index. LC 75-44118. ISBN 0-442-22982-8. $8.95 BIOLOGY PSYCH

A wide-ranging mass of information (culled from the fields of anthropology, human and animal anatomy, psychology, sociology, ethology, and evolution biology) on how anatomy is used in social interactions is somehow all fitted together here into a conglomeration of information about certain physical-behavioral-social characteristics of animals (among them baboons, songbirds, fish, caribou, wolves), Bushmen, and movie stars; and the fitting is perceptive, imaginative, and vastly entertaining. Rank, aggression, cooperation, sex appeal, survival are discussed in a graphic, explicit, and slangy style that not only avoids technical jargon and scientism but does not exactly shy away from the more sensational facets of what is essentially a review of anatomical characteristics of humans and animals. The level of speculative interpretation and extrapolation is quite high, but fact and hypothesis seem not to be confused although both come fast and furiously. All in all, this is a fascinating and idea-provoking survey, although it's occasionally marred by unfortunate lapses into cuteness, especially in chapter titles.—George Adelman, Neurosciences Research Program, M.I.T., Boston

No Single Thread: psychological health in family systems by Jerry M. Lewis M.D. & others.

Brunner/Mazel. 1976. 260p. LC 75-25777. ISBN 0-87630-111-1. $13.95. PSYCH

The usual focus in family research has been on pathogenic families—generally, families containing an identified psychiatric patient. The present volume is the report of an attempt to study healthy nuclear families, and to isolate the characteristics of healthy family systems. Videotaped family interactions of 33 families were studied, and the authors discuss six "optimally" and six "adequately" functioning families in detail. Optimally functioning families are seen as having distinct characteristics, such as open expression of feelings, spontaneity, and respect for the subjective world view of others. It was found, also, that the health of the parents' relationship "related positively to total family health." Aside from the chapters on methods the book is interesting, although the findings are not particularly startling. In addition, the sample was very limited, consisting entirely of white, urban, middle to upper-middle class, churchgoing Protestants.—Dianne Kraft Kadish, Training Inst., National Psychological Assn. for Psychoanalysis, New York

Schopler, Eric & Robert J. Reichler, ed. & pref. Psychopathology and Child Development: research and treatment.

Plenum. 1976. 395p. index. LC 75-44351. ISBN 0-306-30870-3. $22.50. PSYCH

This is a collection of papers from the First International Kanner Colloquium on Child Development, Deviations, and Treatment, held in 1973. Leo Kanner, known for his pioneering description of autism (a topic widely discussed at the colloquium), was one of the prominent contributors. His chapter "Historical Perspective on Developmental Deviations" provides excellent reading. Nineteen other papers are grouped into three main content areas: biological research, developmental research, and intervention models. The editors summarize the papers of each section in a special discussion chapter. A commendable attempt at communication and clarification among fields of diverse yet interrelated research and of clincial issues in deviant child development, which offers a wide-ranging perspective of the current state of knowledge concerning children's malfunctioning, of interest especially to a professional readership.—Miluse Soudek, Northern Illinois Univ. Lib., De Kalb Timpanaro, Sebastiano. The Freudian Slip: psychoanalysis and textual criticism.

Humanities. 1976. 236p. tr. by Kate Soper. Index. $13.50. PSYCH

Timpanaro levels a two-pronged attack on both the Freudian notion that all slips of the tongue are explanable as repressed material emerging to consciousness and against the general bourgeois assumptions of psychoanalytic doctrine. The author, an avowed Marxist and a textual critic, applies insights derived from both these persuasions to build his thesis that all of Freud's interpretations of his patients' "slips" are equally amenable to the types of explanation given by textual critics to analogous slips or errors found in copyists' works. Timpanaro then implies—though not very insistently—that, since much of Freud's general psychological theory rests on the validity of Freud's interpretation of such slips, the general theory too is weakened. However, Timpanaro ignores that many of Freud's followers also reject Freud's extremism on this aspect of psychoanalytic application yet still effect therapeutic cures. His references show little perusal of the pertinent psychoanalytic literature on this topic. His tangential critique of the class-centeredness of psychoanalysis is a valid yet unnovel one. The book thus represents an interesting point of view, but it is not an essential addition to works dealing with the shortcomings of Freudian dogma.—Moshe H. Spero, Sch. of Applied Social Sciences, Case Western Reserve Univ., Cleveland

Parapsychology & Occultism

Holroyd, Stuart. Psi and the Consciousness Explosion.

Taplinger. Nov. 1976. bibliog. index. LC 76-12188. ISBN 0-8008-6556-1. $9.95. PARAPSYCH

Holroyd's compelling thesis is that the interests and aims of contemporary parapsychology and the consciousness-expansion aspects of the counterculture are converging to form a "new gnosis," defined as "the knowledge that enables man to develop spiritually." The author examines and relates the latest findings in parapsychology and the hard research and theoretical work being done on the frontiers of physics, anthropology, and psychology. He asserts that a new scientific paradigm will emerge which must and will include the facts of paranormal phenomena. This is not "just another book on the occult." It is interesting, readable, well researched, even scholarly. Though it does not supplant any of the "classics" in this field, it is certainly a valuable supplement to them.—David P. Goding, Boston Univ. Libs.

Story, Ronald. The Space-Gods Revealed: a close look at the theories of Erich von Däniken.

Harper. 1976. 139p. fwd. by Carl Sagan. index. LC 75-30347. ISBN 0-06-014141-7. $7.95. SCI/PARAPSYCH

The theories that Erich von Däniken has set forth in Chariots of the Gods and his other books are discounted by most scientists because of loose logic (such as his use of imaginative scenarios as "evidence") and errors of fact (especially the omission of facts at odds with his theories). In this book, Story presents alternative explanations for von Däniken's major points. For example, von Däniken claims that the Easter Island statues were constructed by bored visitors from another planet waiting for their ship to return. Story shows that the island's present (human) inhabitants still possess the skills to carve out, move, and erect the ponderous monuments. Occasionally, Story's ideas seem as unlikely as von Däniken's: do the markings on the Nazca Plain indicate that it was an alien spaceport, or that the ancient Indians could use hot-air balloons? Still, Story shows that none of von Däniken's evidence requires visits to Earth by space travelers. Recommended for any library that has purchased books by von Däniken.—Raymond L. Hough, Dept. of Chemistry, Univ. of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Religion

Cotham, Perry C. Politics, Americanism and Christianity.

Baker Bk. House. 1976. 335p. bibliog. index. LC 75-39165. ISBN 0-8010-2377-7. $8.95. POL SCI/REL

Addressing primarily an evangelical Christian audience, Cotham argues that the Bible and Christian teachings provide an instructive perspective from which to view responsible citizenship and the workings of government. The opening survey of allusions to political structures found in the Old and New Testaments seems intended to secure legitimacy of the book's main theme for doubtful readers. Subsequent discussions deal with personal involvement in political life, characteristics of a Christian nation, prospects for renewal of our national life, and Christian patriotism. Persons unper-suaded by the evangelical orientation may find some of the author's ideas on these topics curious or unhelpful. The section on American civil religion, however, is insightful and worthy of broad readership.—Robert Dvorak, Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary Lib., South Hamilton, Mass.

Gonzalez-Ruiz, Jose-Maria. The New Creation: Marxist or Christian?
Orbis. Oct. 1976. ISBN 0-88344-327-9. $6.95. POL SCI/REL

In the minds of their adherents the terms Marxism and Christianity have long held mutually exclusive meanings and conflicting values. Inevitably, so the traditional argument runs, "one rejects what the other regards as its very essence." The purpose of this book is to provide a careful and painstaking critique of both ideologies and of their institutional framework. We are living in an epoch of tremendously accelerated change, the author asserts, and we shall soon see everywhere "Marxists who regard themselves as Christians and Christians who have chosen Marxism and are struggling to put into practice." Written from the standpoint of Vatican II, the book calls for a strong working relationship between these two ideological blocs that will demolish the "Berlin Wall" erected by their bitter rivalry in the past. Its topicality for contemporary issues makes this volume a useful purchase for medium-sized or larger libraries where there is an interest in world politics and in religion.—J. A. Clarke, Univ. of Wisconsin Library Sch., Madison

Heilman, Samuel C. Synagogue Life.
Univ. of Chicago Pr. Oct. 1976. 304p. LC 75-36403. bibliog. index. $12.95. SOC SCI/REL

This is a rare book for both sociology and Judaic studies. Heilman spent one year observing, interacting, and "living" with the members of an Orthodox synagogue. Using a field-research technique and the theoretical perspective of symbolic interaction, he examines with unusual perceptive skill the details of synagogue life. No topic goes undiscussed; he describes such activities as gossip, joking, praying, singing, swaying, and arguing. The result is a solid contribution to the sociology of religion. Highly recommended.—Arthur St. George, Dept. of Sociology, Univ. of New Mexico, Albuquerque Jacobsen, Thorkild. The Treasures of Darkness: a history of Mesopotamian religion.

Yale Univ. Pr. Nov. 1976. index. $12.50. ARCHAEOLOGY/REL

Here is the latest scholarly contribution by one of the foremost interpreters of cuneiform texts. The book begins with definitions of scope and terminology. This is followed by lengthy expositions on the various periods in Mesopotamian religion, with copious illustrative translations added. Names and functions of the gods are defined are related to man and society. For the historian, cuneiform expert, the student of religion this work will be of prime importance.—Frederick M. Lauritsen, Eastern Washington State Coll., Cheney

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Angelucci, Enzo & Alberto Bellucci. The Automobile: from steam to gasoline.
McGraw. 1976. 278p. illus., mainly color. index. LC 75-19486. ISBN 0-07-001870-7. $19.95. HIST/TECH

Among the many auto books written this year, this work stands out as one of the best. Beginning with the ox-drawn cart and continuing to the gasoline engine, the authors fully describe over 1000 models from all over the world. Their succinct narration traces the advent of steam; the auto industries of the U.S., Europe, Australia, and Japan; dune buggies, dragsters, and lunar vehicles; the use of the automobile in wartime; and more. One of the book's strong points is the superb collection of drawings, engravings, and reproductions of posters. Appendixes offer much technical data. This readable and enjoyable book is essential for car buffs and auto collections.—Joy Hastings, Santiago Lib. System, Orange County, Calif.

Mixon, S. R. Handbook of Data Processing Administration, Operations, and Procedures.
AMACOM: American Management Assn. 1976. 395p. index. LC 75-38914. ISBN 0-8144-5400-3. $24.95. REF/COMPUTERS

Perhaps data processing is too broad a field to be covered in a single handbook. Mixon has made a good effort, the first such, and has successfully collected a great deal of useful information; but his book is too cursory for the seasoned analysts and project managers to whom it is in part addressed. Many of the ideas presented are excellent (though not always original), but they appear in an avalanche of terminology and technical concepts. Inclusion of an annotated bibliography would increase the book's usefulness as a training and reference tool. Attention to such current topics as structured programming and HIPO documentation would help to dispel the impression that this handbook is several years out of date. With substantial revision this could become a helpful handbook for professionals; in its present form the book might be used in a survey course on data-processing systems.—Naomi Lee Bloom, American Insts. for Research, Palo Alto, Calif.

Willett, Joseph W., comp. The World Food Situation: problems and prospects to 1985. 2 vols.
Oceana. 1976. 1136p. LC 75-37594. ISBN 0-379-00572-7. $70. ENVIRONMENT/AGRICULTURE

Reports from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.N.'s 1974 World Food Conference, a fascinating 300-page 1975 conference report on food research priorities, and numerous articles and documents make up this weighty set. Contrary to the editor's assurance that "a wide range of issues and viewpoints have been included," the perceptions and conclusions are strikingly uniform: food production is considered largely a technical problem, with vital social issues, particularly problems of distribution, given short shrift. In an-

The final 2 volumes in the new, revised edition of

Photo Ronald Falconer

WILLIAM BARCLAY'S THE DAILY STUDY BIBLE

The revised edition of this phenomenally best-selling series is reset in new type, and available in a choice of two formats — Hardbound Deluxe @ $6.25; Soft Cover @ $3.45. The first six volumes, The Gospels: special set price (Hardbound Deluxe only) $35.75 (21317-0)

COMING IN NOVEMBER
The Acts of the Apostles
(Hard 21306-5; Soft 24106-9)
The Letters to the Galatians and Esphesians
(Hard 21309-X; Soft 24109-3)

READY NOW
The Gospel of Matthew, Vol. 1
(Hard 21300-6; Soft 24100-X)
The Gospel of Matthew, Vol. 2
(Hard 21301-4; Soft 24101-8)
The Gospel of Mark
(Hard 21302-2; Soft 24102-6)
The Gospel of Luke
(Hard 21303-0; Soft 24103-4)
The Gospel of John, Vol 1
(Hard 21304-9; Soft 24104-2)
The Gospel of John, Vol. 2
(Hard 21305-7; Soft 24105-0)
The Letter to the Romans
(Hard 21307-3; Soft 24107-7)
The Letters to the Corinthians
(Hard 21308-1; Soft 24108-5)
The Letters to the Philippians, Colossians, and Thessalonians
(Hard 21310-3; Soft 24110-7)
The Letters to Timothy, Titus, and Philemon
(Hard 21311-1; Soft 24111-5)
The Letter to the Hebrews
(Hard 21312-X; Soft 24112-3)
The Letters of James and Peter
(Hard 21313-8; Soft 24113-1)
The Letters of John and Jude
(Hard 21314-6; Soft 24114-X)
The Revelation of John, Vol. 1
(Hard 21315-4; Soft 24115-8)
The Revelation of John, Vol. 2
(Hard 21316-2; Soft 24116-6)

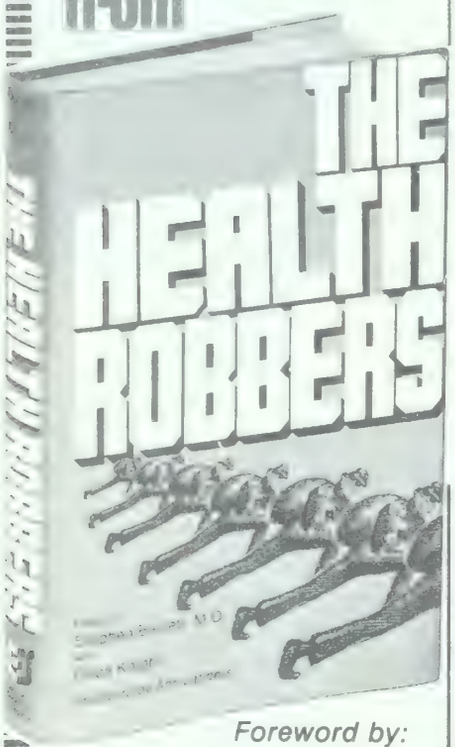
NOW IN SOFT COVER
New Testament Words
by William Barclay
Sept. 7. $3.45 (24761-X)

Please add Westminster's prefix, 0-664-, to all ISBN's

THE WESTMINSTER PRESS
920 Witherspoon Bldg.,
Phila., Pa. 19107

See full-page ad for our entire Fall list elsewhere in this issue.

How to protect your money and your life from



Foreword by:
Ann Landers
Edited by:
Stephen Barrett, M.D. and Gilda Knight

PHONY SEX CLINICS
FOOD FADS & FAKES
SPINE SALESMEN
PILL PEDDLERS
DUBIOUS DENTISTRY
QUACKUPUNCTURE
EYE EXORCISORS
MISERY MERCHANTS
THE GADGETEERS
POISONMONGERS
AND MORE!

The book that exposes health frauds—from sex to the water you drink.

ISBN 0-89313-001-X
352 pages • $10.50
Publication: October 5th

George F. Stickley Co.
210 W. Washington Sq.
Philadelphia, Pa. 19106

other prefatory misfire, the editor calls attention to the outstanding series of articles on food in the May 1975 issue of Science magazine yet has failed to include a single article from that issue. Finally, it's a pity that such a costly and impressive compilation of technical information should lack an index.—Frank D. Doble Jr., Onondaga Community Coll. Lib., Syracuse, N.Y.

Biology

Rosenfeld, Albert. Prolongevity.

Knopf. Oct. 1976. 288p. bibliog. LC 76-13705. ISBN 0-394-48929-2. $8.95. BIOLOGY

The spiritual descendants of Ponce de León are alive and well but their search for longevity is pursued these days in laboratories, not on ships. And they are coming excitingly close to their goal, as this comprehensive survey of research directed to extending the life span reveals. Rosenfeld devotes the major portion of his book to an examination of the many theories of aging and dying and to a description of current research on decelerating the aging process. In the second part of the book he tackles the provocative implications of prolonging the life span. The author has expertly assimilated an encyclopedic amount of medical and scientific material into a comprehensible and lucid report for the lay reader. The book is the most thorough review to date of an important new area of science which appears on the verge of a spectacular breakthrough.—Mary J. Mayer, New York City Dept. for the Aging

Winter, Ruth. The Smell Book: scents, sex and society.

Lippincott. Oct. 1976. 176p. illus. index. ISBN 0-397-01163-6. $7.95. PSYCH/BIOLOGY

Winter presents an overview of the role of smells in animal and human behavior. She supports her belief in the importance of the olfactory sense with examples and with explanations of related physiology. In a discussion of the history of the taboo surrounding the human body odors in our society, Winter notes that there are racial and cultural differences and suggests that odor anxiety may be sexually unproductive. She discusses the perfume and scent industry as an illustration of our ambivalence about smells. This book is most appropriate for public libraries.—Jane S. Port, Levy Lib., Mt. Sinai Sch. of Medicine, New York

Botany & Horticulture

Hudak, Joseph. Gardening with Perennials: month by month.

Demeter Pr: Quadrangle, dist. by Harper. 1976. 398p. photogs., some color. index. LC 75-36250. ISBN 0-8129-0612-8. $12.50. HORT

This book is sequentially arranged, from March through September. Each chapter begins with a guide to color values of flowers blossoming that month; then continues with cultural requirements—planting time, maintenance, propagation, pests, and diseases. This information is complete yet concise, although major categories (such as lilies) are given extended coverage. Most plants that are considered are hardy in the Boston area. Lists in the final chapter include: plants needing moist soil; those needing dry conditions; or those needing deep shade; plants with winter foliage or showy fruit or long blooming seasons; and bonus foliage effects. A useful book.—Mary Lynn Dufur, Dolores P.L., Col.

Kramer, Jack. Gift Plants: house plant beauty all year long.

Putnam. Oct. 1976. c.128p. photogs. illus. by Michael Valdez. ISBN 0-399-11715-6. $8.95. HORT

What do you say about a $24 plant that died? If you ever got one or gave one that did, you know that there is a need for this book. Kramer's latest tells how to save a greenhouse-raised beauty from the almost inevitable collapse when mere mortals assume its care. The book has drawbacks—Kramer is repetitious, not very careful about the use of insecticides in the house, somewhat arbitrary in his listings of gift plants (flowering plants are discussed almost exclusively), and a bit negligent in his glossing over the poisonous characteristics of a number of common plants. He does, however, provide a guide to sensible care of a number of spectacular house plants. A better book on the subject will be written, but buy this one in the meantime.—Malcolm K. Hill, Haverhill P.L., Mass.

Leighton, Ann. American Gardens in the Eighteenth Century: "for use or for delight."

Houghton. Nov. 1976. 448p. illus. bibliog. index. LC 76-21621. ISBN 0-395-24764-0. $17.50. HIST/HORT

This is similar in format, presentation, and quality to Leighton's Early American Gardens (LJ 7/69), in which she covered the 17th Century. Here Leighton presents a most entertaining account of the plants and gardens of a fascinating era, based on the letters, journals, invoices, and books of men and women (among them George Washington, Manasseh Cutler, and Jane Colden) who were interested in the discovering, the growing, and the exchanging of plants of the New and Old World. Particularly useful are the alphabetical listing of the plants mentioned in the text and the extensive bibliography which includes, after each title, the name of the library, either in this country or abroad, where each item may be found. The book also contains 189 fine reproductions of illustrations of the period. Highly recommended for Americana, botanical, and horticultural collections.—Elizabeth C. Hall, Horticultural Society of New York Lib.

Miles, Bebe. Wildflower Perennials for Your Garden.

Hawthorn. 1976. 288p. illus. by H. Peter Loewer. LC 75-41802. ISBN 0-8015-2914-X. $12.50. HORT

The first part of this book is a general guide to wild-flower perennials, and it includes a list of suppliers, hints on cultivation, and information on preparing, placing, and propagating various species in the garden. The remainder of the book is devoted to 100 specific plants, each illustrated by a full-page line drawing. For each plant, the author lists botanic and popular names, habitat, description, bloom period, outstanding features, geographic range, culture, recommended hybrids and selections, and related species. This is an excellent guide, but its limited coverage and high price will restrict its purchase to libraries with very large gardening collections.—Marilyn Chandler, Brooklyn P.L.

Smith, Robert F., Jr. Organic Gardening in the West: raising vegetables in a short, dry, growing season.

Sunstone Pr., Box 2321 Santa Fe., N.M. 87501. 1976. 96p. illus. ISBN 0-913270-61-X. pap. $4.95. HORT

The late and early frosts, cold nights, hailstorms, and dry, windy, springs of northern New Mexico are hardly ideal organic-gardening conditions. But Smith learned to cope with them and shares his experiences in this book. For example, the dry, windy, springs necessitate an unusual method of planting in depressed beds. Smith devotes the second half of his short book to the culture and care of specific crops. Only organic gardeners who live in similar adverse climates will find the book of value.—Charles H. Kemp, Pacific Univ. Lib., Forest Grove, Ore.

Health & Medicine

Brook, Danaë. Naturebirth: your self, your body, and your baby.

Pantheon. Oct. 1976. 304p. illus. index. ISBN 0-394-49571-3. $8.95; pap. ISBN 0-394-73259-6. $3.95. HEALTH

There is a great deal of useful information in this book by an Englishwoman deeply committed to prepared childbirth. In the first part is her justification for limited intervention in birth's natural process, which she bases on the historical development of obstetrics as a male-dominated profession and on the highly technological approach of modern medicine. "Naturebirth" is Brook's own term for the ideal experience. Part II and the appendixes contain factual material about education for pregnancy and childbirth. A Lamaze approach is used, although the breathing techniques are somewhat different from those taught in the U.S. A discussion of herbal medicine is included. Broad generalizations and minor inaccuracies mar Part II; a rambling style makes Part I unstimulating. Naturebirth is another personal testimony to the joy of childbirth but not a primary reference.—Elizabeth M. Johnson, R.N., Lamaze Childbirth Assn., Columbus, Ohio

Hendin, David. The Life Givers.

Morrow. 1976. 260p. index. LC 75-42119. ISBN 0-688-03035-1. $8.95. MED

The six pioneering doctors whose careers are described by medical writer Hendin are Jonas Salk; Howard Rusk, rehabilitator of the handicapped; Walter Lillehei, open heart surgeon; Irving Cooper, who perfected cryosurgical techniques for Parkinson's disease; Nathan Kline, who relieved mental illness with drugs; and Catholic John Rock, one of the fathers of the Pill. All six have done most of their work since 1950, all were still living when Hendin wrote the book, all were mavericks of whose work it was said "it couldn't be done." Hendin explains how the doctors got into medicine and gives their educational background. However, he tells almost nothing of their personal lives, which was what made Roger Rapoport's The Super-Doctors (LJ 3/1/76) rather scandalously entertaining. Solidly researched, Hendin's book is absorbing reading, especially recommended for YA's.—Peggy Champlin, California State Univ. Lib., Los Angeles

Newman, Jo Hynes. Our Own Harms: the startling facts behind menopause and estrogen therapy.

Quail Street Pub., dist. by Bobbs. Oct. 1976. 200p. illus. ISBN 0-89307-005-X. $8.95. MED

Newman considers menopause and menstruation: their physiological causes, symptoms, and the various therapies that are currently being used to deal with their complications. The information she supplies is reasonably accurate and up to date. Newman provides reassurance—what's happening to you is normal and common—and takes a sensible laywoman's look at such complaints as hot flashes, irregularity, and osteoporosis. She also evaluates some of the drugs (especially estrogens) used for these complications, and mentions their side effects. The book's strength lies in its clarity and the warm reassurance Newman provides; its weakness, in its curious blend of feminism and cutesy condescension toward the female reader.—Margery Read, formerly with Bergen Community Coll. Lib., Paramus, N.J.

Palmer, Bruce. Body Weather: how natural and man-made climates affect you and your health.

Stackpole. 1976. 180p. bibliog. index. LC 76-922. ISBN 0-8117-0245-6. $8.95. ENVIRONMENT/HEALTH

Palmer explores the relationships among weather, environment, and diseases—both physical and emotional. His information and examples range from the curious and almost unscientific to basic concepts that have been thoroughly documented elsewhere. His chapters on mood and sexuality are interesting; however, Palmer should have developed the interesting topic of body weather more substantially.—James E. Bobick, Temple Univ. Libs., Philadelphia

Schoen, Linda Allen, ed. The AMA Book of Skin and Hair Care.

Lippincott. Oct. 1976. 352p. illus. ISBN 0-397-01157-1. $8.95; pap. ISBN 0-397-01158-X. $4.95. HEALTH

Thankfully, this is not another glamour guide but a sensible series of questions and answers collected from "The Look You Like" column of Today's Health. Both men and women are given demythologized information on beauty preparations, skin problems from head to

LIPPINCOTT

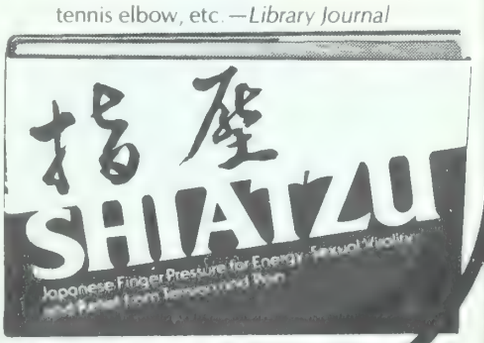
"Extremely beneficial... Miss Irwin's Shiatzu method was the only treatment that helped me."—Patricia McBride, New York City Ballet

SHIATZU

YUKIKO IRWIN with James Wagenvoord

"Shiatzu is often referred to as acupressure—close to acupuncture, using the same pressure points, but systematically applying pressure from the thumb, fingers, and palms instead of using needles. Designed to maintain health and keep the body in balance, it is a product of 4000 years of Oriental philosophy and medicine and is widely practiced in Japan, with a growing following here. This book is intended as an introduction to the fundamentals of treatment for oneself and others. Irwin is herself a qualified practitioner with credentials from Japanese as well as American sources. She deftly points out necessary cautions and then shows in detail shiatzu as a means for general good health maintenance and as a remedy for specific disorders such as headaches, low back pain, tennis elbow, etc.—Library Journal

LC 75-17556
ISBN 0-397-01054-0 $9.50
ISBN 0-397-01107-5 $5.95 paper



J.B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY East Washington Square Philadelphia, Pa. 19105

toe, and hair care. The topics discussed include sunning, hair loss, perspiration, birthmarks, acne, diet, fragrances, plastic surgery, tattoos, shaving, and exotic-ingredient cosmetics. Although the repetitiveness of the original columns has not been edited out, making lengthy reading irritating, this tome is worth acquiring because of its extensive coverage and accuracy.—Frances S. Worthington, formerly with P.L. of Nashville & Davidson County, Tenn.

Natural History & Zoology

Brown, Vinson. Sea Mammals and Reptiles of the Pacific Coast.

Macmillan. Oct. 1976. 256p. ISBN 0-02-517310-3. $10.95; pap. ISBN 0-02-062280-5. $5.95. ZOOLOGY

Brown introduces the reader to the polar bears, sea otters, seals, whales, and sea turtles that frequent the west coast of North America. For each animal he gives a thumbnail description of morphology, range, and life history that should be sufficient for casual readers. However, there are some inaccuracies—for example, that marine turtles have teeth in the lower jaw—so those seeking more detailed, authoritative information should still consult standard reference works. The book's strongest attraction for most readers will be the short life stories of 11 representative species, written in a style reminiscent of Victor B. Scheffer's The Year of the Whale (LJ 5/1/69). Though too anthropomorphic at times, these sketches succeed at portraying the variety of habits of and promoting concern for these too-often-forgotten sea creatures.—Margery C. Coombs, Dept. of Zoology, Univ. of Massachusetts, Amherst

Dröscher, Vitus B. They Love and Kill: a natural history of social behavior.

Sunrise: Dutton. Oct. 1976. 384p. illus., some color. index. LC 76-5806. ISBN 0-87690-215-8. $15.50. ZOOLOGY

This is an absorbing and thorough account of animal sexuality and pair bonding, well translated from the German original. Dröscher uses numerous examples to illustrate the evolution of males, methods of attracting mates, and various kinds of "marriage" in the animal world, from mass rape to lifelong monogamy. He carefully points out that most pairing behavior patterns are distributed according to the advantage conferred to each species, not in a discernible "lower-to-higher animal" order; thus lifelong monogamy is most common in bird species where males and females have similar coloration and child-rearing roles. The sexual attraction between males and females is often not indiscriminate but based on a stronger and more permanent social bonding instinct. This book should reach a large audience.—Margery C. Coombs, Dept. of Zoology, Univ. of Massachusetts, Amherst

Some of Our Best Friends are Animals

Peter Spence

Cartoons by Bruno Cassiers

"Spence traces the development of the West Country Wild Life Park in Somerset, England, with much good humor and numerous anecdotes...Spence writes well, and the cartoons and photos add nicely to the book."—Library Journal (7/76)

156 pp. LC 75-40807 $7.95

St. Martin's Press

175 Fifth Avenue

New York 10010

Social Science

Durden-Smith, Jo. Who Killed George Jackson?: fantasies, paranoia and the revolution.

Knopf. 1976. 292p. index. LC 75-36811. ISBN 0-394-48291-3. $10. SOC SCI

An English film producer and journalist deals with the circumstances of Jackson's prison death, with the failure of the New Left in the Sixties, and with his own political commitment. The author's confusing account of Jackson's death and his research into it emerges as a vehicle for what the book is really about: Durden-Smith's own disenchantment with the New Left and its espousal of Jackson. The book's strength lies in its incidental insights into the workings of the New Left, the thinking of "interventionalist liberals," and the nature of prison life. As investigative journalism it suffers from being undisciplined and verbose; a combination of unedited detail and speculation. The "unshucking" style in which Durden-Smith couches his "politics of feeling" does not always work; he's simply "too bearded, too English."—Philippa Merriman, Brunswick, Me.

Hafkin, Nancy & Edna G. Bay, eds. Women in Africa: studies in social and economic change.

Stanford Univ. Pr. 1976. 320p. index. LC 75-44901. ISBN 0-8047-0906-8. $15. SOC SCI

Although the literature on African women is not as sparse as the editors of this collection would have us believe, the fresh perspective provided in these 12 essays is perhaps needed. The contributors, mainly female, are on the whole relative newcomers. They attempt to correct the existing perspective, too prevalent in the literature on African women, that views women solely in terms of their relationship to men or in terms of prevailing Western attitudes. They focus on women not as objects but as actors—entrepreneurs, political activists, and cult leaders. The papers reveal that the detrimental changes in the position of African women under colonialism have continued into the postindependence period. While seeking to portray African women in their traditional setting, the authors have wisely avoided the temptation to glorify that status. The selection reveals a slight geographical imbalance—there are six papers from West Africa (including two on Igbo women), four from East Africa, two on Africa generally, and none from Central or Southern Africa. Recommended for Africana, anthropology, and women's studies collections.—Janet Stanley, Inst. for Scientific Information, Philadelphia

Kamerman, Sheila B. & Alfred J. Kahn. Social Services in the United States: policies and programs.

Temple Univ. Pr. 1976. 561p. index. LC 75-35492. ISBN 0-87722-065-4. $15; pap. ISBN 0-87722-066-2. $7.95. SOC SCI

The authors have identified six areas—child care, child abuse and neglect, children's institutions, community services for the aged, family planning, and delivery of social services—where they see new systems emerging that differ from traditional social welfare in important respects. For each area, programs and policies are covered extensively, findings from in-depth case studies are presented, trends are identified, and the whole is analyzed for prediction of future direction. Kamerman and Kahn argue that a continuation of stopgap programs is wasteful of all resources. In an appendix they provide a short but intense survey of publicly financed American efforts in income maintenance, health programs, education, housing, and employment. Their analyses and recommendations are well developed and their study is well organized. It will be of most value to students or others with responsibility for developing or implementing social programs.—Suzanne W. Wood, SUNY at Alfred Lib.

Luckert, Karl W. Olmec Religion: a key to Middle America and beyond.

Univ. of Oklahoma Pr. (Civilization of the American Indian). 1976. 185p. illus. bibliog. index. LC 75-12869. ISBN 0-8061-1298-0. $9.95. REL/ANTHROPOLOGY

Interpretation of pre-Columbian religions is traditionally the province of archaeologists and art historians, so it is fascinating to see how different the result can be when a scholar from another intellectual tradition—in this case the history of religions—deals with the same material. Luckert began with a study of Navajo and Pueblo religion. His work led him to the Olmec—the first of the great civilizations of Middle America, which arose on the Gulf coast

A Distinctive Fall List

AUGUST

CAMPAIGN MONEY
Reform and Reality in the States
Ed., Herbert E. Alexander
900410-1 $10.95

THE POLITICS OF ADOPTION
Mary Kathleen Benet
902500-1 $8.95

STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT
The Political Economy of Reform
Eds., Alan K. Campbell and Roy W. Bahl
905180-0 $13.95

SWINDLING AND SELLING
Arthur Allen Leff
918390-1 $10.95

EXPLORATIONS IN GENERAL THEORY IN SOCIAL SCIENCE
Essays in Honor of Talcott Parsons
Eds., Jan J. Loubser, Rainer C. Baum, Andrew Effrat, and Victor Meyer Lidz
919370-2 Volume One $32.50
919381-8 Volume Two $32.50
919360-5 Two-vol. set $60.00

AN OVERGOVERNED SOCIETY
W. Allen Walis
933710-0 $10.00

SEPTEMBER

VOICES OF AMERICA
The Nation's Story in Slogans, Sayings, and Songs
Thomas A. Bailey
901260-0 $12.95

DETENTE AND THE DEMOCRATIC MOVEMENT IN THE USSR
Frederick C. Barghoorn
901850-1 $12.95

THE USES OF CONTROVERSY IN SOCIOLOGY
Ed., Lewis A. Coser and Otto N. Larsen
906830-4 $14.95

ALIENATION AND IDENTIFICATION
Morton A. Kaplan
916790-6 $10.95

JUSTICE, HUMAN NATURE, AND POLITICAL OBLIGATION
Morton A. Kaplan
916890-2 $12.95

SOCIOLOGICAL AMBIVALENCE AND OTHER ESSAYS
Robert K. Merton
921120-4 $12.95

MANAGING MADNESS
The Case Against Civil Commitment
Kent S. Miller
921280-4 $9.95

TOWARD WORLD ORDER AND HUMAN DIGNITY Essays in Honor of Myres S. McDougal
Ed., W. Michael Reisman and Burns H. Weston
926290-9 $25.00

MANAGING PRESIDENTIAL OBJECTIVES
Richard Rose
926840-0 $12.95

THE INTENSIVE GROUP EXPERIENCE
Ed., Max Rosenbaum and Alvin Snadowsky
926950-4 $13.95

OCTOBER

UNPLANNED PARENTHOOD
The Social Consequences of Teenage Childbearing
Frank F. Furstenberg, Jr.
911010-6 $13.95

THE PROFESSIONAL FENCE
Carl B. Klockars
917820-7 Paper, $3.95

TYPES OF INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY
Evan Luard
919450-4 $14.95

IN SEARCH OF GLOBAL PATTERNS
Ed., James N. Rosenau
927050-2 $15.00

MARITAL COMMUNICATION AND DECISION MAKING
Edwin J. Thomas
932570-6 $12.95

KNOWLEDGE AND POLITICS
Roberto Mangabeira Unger
932870-5 Paper, $4.95

NOVEMBER

HANDBOOK OF SMALL GROUP RESEARCH, Second Edition
A. Paul Hare
913841-8 $19.95

A PSYCHOLOGICAL EXAMINATION OF POLITICAL LEADERS
Ed., Margaret G. Hermann
914590-2 $15.95

THE HOSPITALIZED ADOLESCENT A Guide to Managing the Ill and Injured Youth
Adele D. Hofman, R. D. Becker, and H. Paul Gabriel
Foreword by Anna Freud
914790-5 $14.95

REVOLUTIONARY LAW AND ORDER Politics and Social Change in the USSR
Peter H. Juviler
916800-7 $13.95

ERIK H. ERIKSON
The Power and Limits of a Vision
Paul Roazen
926450-2 $8.95

POLITICS OF THE INDIAN OCEAN REGION
The Balances of Power
Ferenc A. Vali
933080-7 $14.95

CHINA'S HIGHER LEADERSHIP IN THE SOCIALIST TRANSITION
Paul Wong
935600-8 $15.95

The Free Press ISBN prefix is 0-02

the Free Press
A Division of MACMILLAN PUBLISHING CO., INC., 100D Brown Street, Riverside, New Jersey 08075

"Demands the attention of students of contemporary American culture"*

ROSE HILL

By Reed Wolcott

"Using the technique pioneered by Ronald Blythe in Akenfield, Wolcott turns her attention on a small (population: 1700) North Carolina town called Rose Hill. She provides interviews with all segments of the town's population, from local businessmen and politicians to waitresses, garage mechanics, and bootleggers.... Wolcott has done an excellent job of gaining the confidence of and engendering candor in her subjects. The book depicts a side of American life often overlooked." — Library Journal.* "A vital documentary portrait . . . [that] reveals Rose Hill's authentic soul." — Publishers Weekly. Illus. $9.95

G.P. PUTNAM'S SONS
200 Madison Ave., N.Y. 10016

COMMUNITY LAW REPORTS, INC.

A people-oriented reference series

Dunlap, Mary C., ed., SEX DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT: APPLICATION OF TITLE VII. Feb. 1976. ISBN 0-89035-001-9. Postbound. CIP. $22.00.

Crandall, Thomas D., ed., FTC DOOR-TO-DOOR SALES RULE. Nov. 1976. ISBN 0-89035-002-7. Postbound. CIP. $22.00.

COMMUNITY LAW REPORTS, INC.
P.O. Box 1234, Santa Cruz, CA 95061

of Mexico shortly before 1000 B.C. Luckert argues that a nonscientific, almost empathic, approach to Olmec art and archaeology can produce an understanding of Olmec religion that is beyond the reach of the usual iconographic analysis and analogy with later, better-known Middle American religions. His basic thesis is that the serpent—not the jaguar, as in the traditional view—was the focus of Olmec art and religion. Luckert's provocative ideas will be received with enthusiasm in some quarters, disdain in others. For specialized collections only.—John S. Henderson, Dept. of Anthropology, Cornell Univ.

Nisbet, Robert. Sociology as an Art Form.

Oxford Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. 160p. LC 76-9278. ISBN 0-19-502103-7. $8.95; pap. $2.50. SOC SCI

This is actually an extended essay on topics (community, power, alienation, etc.) about which Nisbet has written far better in his earlier works. The theme of this work, which is expressed in the title, is asserted again and again through a selection of quotes that essentially rephrase the original analogy. Yet it is never made to come vividly alive, as it is, for example, in the far superior work on the subject by the late Jacob Bronowski, Science and Human Values (Harper, 1972. rev. ed.). Nisbet's is a highly personal work the general relevance of which may be "as a kind of prophylaxis against . . . scientism" among sociologists. As such, the book should make entertaining reading (it is well written) among budding and professional sociologists.—Egon Mayer, Dept. of Sociology, Brooklyn Coll.

Law & Criminology

Bates, Frank, ed. The Child and the Law (the Proceedings of the First World Conference of the International Society on Family Law held in Berlin, April 1975). 2 vols.

Oceana. 1976. 636p. LC 76-16350. Vol. 1, ISBN 0-379-10032-0. Vol. 2, ISBN 0-379-10033-9. set. $50. REF/LAW

This work addresses an important question: To what extent are minors' rights considered in cases involving foster homes, adoption, illegitimacy, divorce, separation, custody, or welfare? The participants of this international conference cover in detail the broad historical bases of current law. The articles are well written and well translated; however, the footnotes tend to be in languages other than English. This set is probably too expensive and specialized for the public library seeking a good beginning work. But it provides valuable international background for the law collection.—Dianne Witkowski, Schiff Hardin & Waite Lib., Chicago

Kidner, John. Crimaldi: contract killer.

Acropolis. Oct. 1976. 296p. ISBN 0-87491-206-7. $8.95. CRIME

Here's yet another former Mafia bad boy gone good. Crimaldi's rise from street punk to hit man for the sadistic loanshark, Sam DeStefano, is the usual cataloging of robbery, graft, and general thuggery. By his own account, Crimaldi "enjoyed every damn minute of it," only choosing to turn against his boss when DeStefano began trafficking in drugs, which was apparently just too much for the hit man whose brother had been destroyed by dope. The story is often brutal, sometimes revolting, and never very exciting. Some brief discussion of the CIA connection to Capo Sam Giancana's unsolved murder and plots against Fidel Castro spice it up, as does a quick aside to the recent Hoffa disappearance. Crimaldi, having turned drug informer, is now in hiding with a $50,000 contract on his head. One expects a sequel by the man who collects it.—Jerry Maioli, Walla Walla County Rural Lib. District, Wash.

Nelli, Humbert S. The Business of Crime: Italians and syndicate crime in the United States.

Oxford Univ. Pr. 1976. 314p. illus. bibliog. index. LC 75-32350. $12.95. CRIME

Every policeman believes that the Mafia exists; many sociologists regard it as a myth born of a national need to find or invent social scapegoats; historians, who have just begun to enter the fray, are still uncertain. Nelli's "apparently's" would choke the life from even the most modest generalization and his refusal to conceptualize about the Italian role in syndicate crime (or the nature of such crime itself) is maddening. His immodest belief that this slim volume is the "first comprehensive history" of the subject is true only in the narrow sense that it disgorges the names of hundreds of mobsters, great and puny, without perspective. An occasional insight—often reflecting the work of others such as Frances Ianni—manages to surface above the fragmentary debris of fact. It is well to be reminded of certain "truths"—that organized crime is more than the Mafia, that it is a confederation rather than a monolith, that various ethnic groups have participated in it; but a comprehensive history should be more than just a rehash or, for that matter, a mishmash.—Isidore Silver, Dept. of History, John Jay Coll. of Criminal Justice, CUNY

Ross, Nicholas (pseud.) The Policeman's Bible, or the Art of Taking a Bribe.

Regnery. 1976. 192p. ISBN 0-8092-8098-1. $7.95. CRIME

Ostensibly a guide for police rookies on how to accept bribes and steal on the job, this breezy, anecdotal book lends credence to the notion that the main difference between crooks and cops is that one group has a penchant for wearing blue garments. Police corruption is no secret. What is new is this unabashed apologia for it, the rationalization being that everybody does it—"99%" of society are "hustlers." The pseudonymous author, the antithesis of a Serpico, claims to have spent 15 years on the force and there is a ring of truth to these worldly-wise revelations. What is disturbing (besides the use of racial slurs) is the reader's growing realization that what Ross is describing and condoning is not merely petty corruption, but police-state practices and a perverted, venal view of law enforcement.—Gregor A. Preston, Pennsylvania State Univ. Lib., University Park

SPORTS & RECREATION

Brackin, Ivan & William Fitzgerald. All About Darts.

Greatlakes Living Pr., 3634 W. 216th St., Matteson, Ill. 60443. 1976. 165p. illus. index. pap. $4.95. GAMES

The emphasis here is on how to throw a winning game, and not surprisingly this topic gets six of the ten chapters. In a delightfully light style that perfectly suits their subject, the authors delve into every conceivable aspect of darts—selecting, gripping, and throwing darts; scoring, rating, and winning games; and planning, forming, and managing a team. Nothing is neglected. And the text is enlivened with entertaining cartoons and instructive drawings. Libraries should consider purchasing either this title or The Book of Darts (LJ 9/1/76) by Paddy Whannel and Dana Hodgdon for their recreation section.—Marshall E. Nunn, Glendale Coll. Lib., Calif.

Cox. Mark. Lawn Tennis: how to become a champion.

Hippocrene, dist. by Optimum Bk. Marketing. 1976. 123p. photogs. pap. $4.95. SPORTS

There are some good things in this book. It's a standard, old style, here's how to be a champion text covering equipment, strokes, tactics, etc. As befits any recent book, it covers the pros and cons of using two-handed strokes, and the points on who should play the deuce court and who the ad court in return of serve in doubles are worth reading. But those points in favor do not a necessary purchase make. Not that this is a bad book; it isn't, but this reviewer feels that libraries should spend their money on extra copies of the outstanding titles in this field, i.e., Ed Faulkner's Tennis (LJ, 10/15/70), Jack M. Barnaby's Advantage Tennis (Allyn & Bacon, 1975), Bob Harman and Keith Monroe's Use Your Head in Tennis (Crowell, 1975, rev. 2d ed.), and Pancho Segura's Championship Strategy (LJ 5/1/76).—David Peele, Staten Island Community Coll. Lib., New York

Davidson, Ben. The Skateboard Book.

Grosset & Dunlap. 1976. 109p. LC 76-8036. ISBN 0-448-12591-9. pap. $3.95. RECREATION

This attractive oversized entry joins the growing number of skateboard books in the wake of the pastime's renewed popularity. Like Tom Cuthbertson in Anybody's Skateboard Book (LJ 9/15/76) Davidson tells how to buy, build, and maintain boards; gives tips on riding, racing, and trick performing; and provides safety precautions. Although Cuthbertson pays more attention to getting started and to maintenance and repair, Davidson offers skateboard history and info on competition skating and skateboard organizations. This one should be added to all sports collections serving young adults.—Morey Berger, Monmouth County Lib., Freehold, N.J.

Gardner, Paul. The Simplest Game: the intelligent American's guide to the world of soccer.

Sports Illustrated: Little. Oct. 1976. 228p. illus. index. ISBN 0-316-30376-3. $8.95. SPORTS

More than a dozen new soccer books have been published in the U.S. already this year. Gardner's volume approaches the game from a world-wide, historical perspective to give the reader a feel for why soccer is the most popular sport in the world. Illustrated and indexed, the volume also features a lengthy statistical appendix. Recommended.—Howard R. Downey, Bellingham P.L., Wash.

Gildea, William & Christopher Jennison. The Fighting Irish.

Prentice-Hall. Oct. 1976. 324p. illus., some color. LC 76-20566. ISBN 0-13-314641-3. $12.95. SPORTS

A readable history of Notre Dame football, done in episodic fashion rather than in the more traditional chronological format. With frequent flashbacks, the book concentrates on the eras of the three great coaches—Rockne, Leahy, and Parseghian. In a second section, the great games Notre Dame was involved in are recounted, and an extensive appendix details the school's all-time team and individual records. If

BASEBALL, BOCCIE, HORSESHOES, HOCKEY--

THEY'RE ALL IN

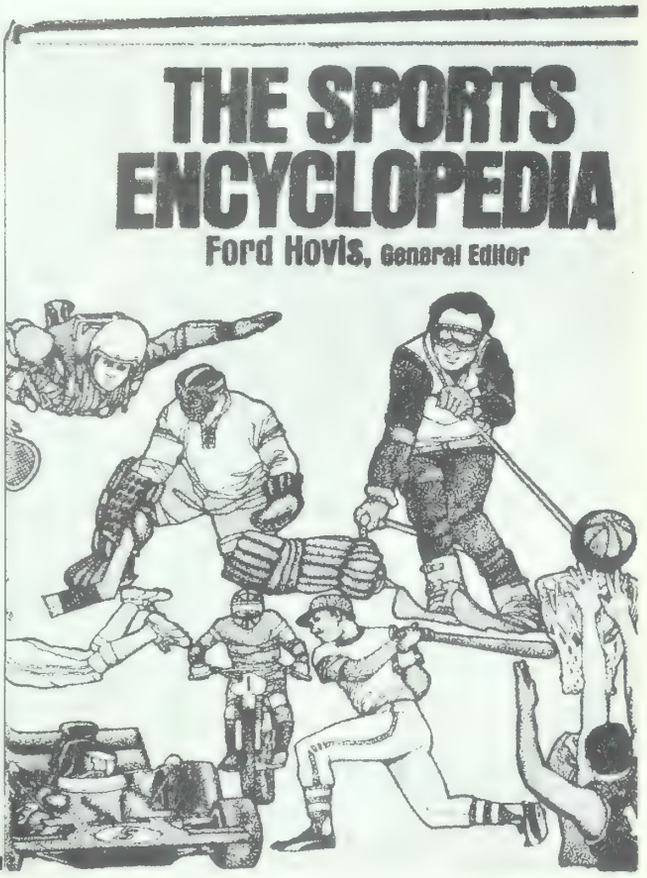
THE SPORTS ENCYCLOPEDIA

Edited by Ford Hovis

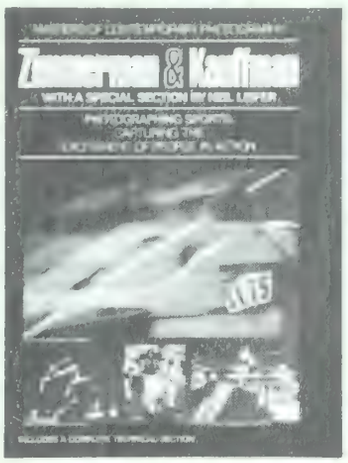
Focusing on the enduring qualities of each sport, rather than its stars, records, and highlights of the moment, THE SPORTS ENCYCLOPEDIA comprehensively covers fifty-six sports, complete with diagrams and illustrations. Each chapter details the history of a specific sport with fascinating facts and anecdotes, explains playing techniques and strategy, equipment, rules, competition and organizations, and provides a glossary of terms. Readable, informative, and entertaining, THE SPORTS ENCYCLOPEDIA introduces fans of all ages to the wide and varied world of sports.

224 pp. 200 photos 8½" x 11"
LC 76-16643 ISBN 0-275-23400-2
Pub. Date: Oct. 22
$12.95 A Rutledge Book

PRAEGER PUBLISHERS



THE CROWELL CORNER



PHOTOGRAPHING SPORTS
John Zimmerman, Mark Kauffman and Neil Leifer
New in Crowell's 7 vol.
Masters of Contemporary Photography Series

"Three top professionals exhibit their diversified skills in the consuming milieu of sports photography, capturing the color, grace under pressure, speed, and athletic mastery that together mean excitement."
— ALA Booklist

An Alskog Book — Illustrations
ISBN: 0-690-00785-X — $8.95

T.Y. CROWELL
666 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10019

EVERY BOY'S JUDO
By A. P. HARRINGTON

"Youngsters . . . will be fascinated by the information concerning proper footwork, various throws and counters, balance and position, and specific holds and locks. Comprehensive, detailed account written simply and vividly, ranging from simple to more complex techniques and further clarified by 87 illustrations. Glossary of Japanese terms."—School Library Journal
87 line drawings
SBN #87523-125-X — $5.95

EVERY GIRL'S JUDO
By A. P. HARRINGTON

"Designed as a basic introduction to Judo exclusively for girls and young women. Although due attention is given to self-defense, the author keeps in mind throughout the book the exercise value of the art. An introductory chapter covers preparatory exercises intended to increase suppleness and strength. Speed and smoothness of action are emphasized throughout. Line drawings and photographs are used for illustration."—Strength and Health.
SBN #87523-127-6 — $5.95

EMERSON BOOKS, INC.
Buchanan, New York 10511

your library does not have Ken Rapoport's Wake Up the Echoes (LJ 3/1/76), you might consider this one.—Don Marion, Univ. of Minnesota Libs., Minneapolis

Klein, David. The Game of Their Lives.
Random. Oct. 1976. 234p. $7.95.
PER NAR/SPORTS

Huff, Marchetti, Ameche, Webster, Sample, Grier, Conerly, Gifford—these football greats all played in that momentous 1958 NFL Championship Game between the Giants and the Colts. In this skillfully woven book each one of them (plus five others) looks back on the fearsome action and flow of the contest that propelled pro football into national prominence. Klein has interviewed each of the 13 players, filling in the details of their present lives, sketching in the story of their early days, and then letting each star recall in his own words the action of that big game. And Klein's portraits of these men are clear, honest, and completely unmuddled by hero worship and sentimentality. An exceptionally well-done sports book.—Marshall E. Nunn, Glendale Coll. Lib., Calif.

Lin, Willy. T'ien Shan P'ai Kung Fu.
Ohara Publications, Inc., 1847 West Empire Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91504. 1976. 160p. photogs. LC 76-15348. pap. $4.95. SPORTS

This manual of an eclectic style of Kung Fu is competently written and clearly illustrated. A discussion of the historical and philosophical bases of the art and its components provides a useful background for technical portions of the book. Explanations of fighting methods begin with basic stances and continue through complicated two-man forms. The organization is logical, and the photographs are reasonably clear and appropriate to the text. The relative obscurity of this particular art in the U.S. may limit demand for the book, but it would be a valuable aid to regular instruction.—John Newman, Colorado State Univ. Libs., Fort Collins

Lord, Sterling. Returning the Serve Intelligently.
LC 73-20532. ISBN 0-385-05297-9.
Schwed, Peter. The Serve and Overhead Smash.
LC 76-10521. ISBN 0-385-11487-7.
ea. vol: Doubleday. (U.S. Tennis Assoc. Instructional Series). Oct. 1976. illus. pap. $3.95.
SPORTS

Lord has written a whole book on the subject of the return of service, a topic which, in standard tennis instruction books, requires no more than a chapter. Is it worth it? Yes and no. The instruction is accurate and clear, the material is organized and presented well, and the book tells you all about returning serves in singles and doubles, in the deuce court, in the ad court, and on different kinds of surfaces. Nevertheless, I don't feel the topic rates a book.

In a relaxed, lightly humorous style that becomes, on occasion, a little overcute, Schwed tells the player who wants to raise his game a notch how it can be done for the serve and the overhead. A paragraph or two on how the serve acts on different court surfaces is all this reviewer missed in this thorough volume that covers all aspects of the different types of serves and how to execute them, as well as the smash. I reviewed from galleys so did not see the line drawings, but for the serve a series of sequence photography shots would probably have been more valuable (but would, of course, have added to the expense). Still this is a good book, and it's inexpensive.—David Peele, Staten Island Community Coll. Lib., New York

Marinaro, Vincent C. In the Ring of the Rise.
Crown. Oct. 1976. c. 130p. illus. LC 76-7356. ISBN 0-517-52550-X. $12.95. SPORTS

Marinaro, author of numerous articles on fly tying and fly fishing, has written a complete book, with three sections: "In the Ring of the Rise," "Adventures with Special Fly Patterns," and "Trout Rivers in Profile." The first section deals with a variety of aspects of fly fishing, and there is much discussion of fly rods, water refraction, and fly casting. Most of the material is for advanced fly fishermen, but many novices will find this information useful. "Adventures with Special Fly Patterns" deals with the tying of flys and materials used to produce more realistic flys. Also, some techniques of fishing for trout are given. The last section discusses areas in which to fish for trout. The author's description of Michigan's Au Sable River is absorbing. The text is well done and detailed. (This reviewer has not seen the photographs or the line drawings.) Recommended for libraries serving readers interested in trout and fly fishing.—Steve George, Yuma City-County Lib., Ariz.

Merchant, Larry. Ringside Seat at the Circus.
Holt. 1976. 241p. LC 76-3959. ISBN 0-03-015631-9. $7.95. SPORTS

From 1966 to 1975 New York sports fans could look forward to Merchant's column in the afternoon Post. Now through this book, which contains about five percent of his output for the above years, fans everywhere can partake of Merchant's trenchant analysis of the sporting scene. Merchant always calls 'em as he sees 'em, and his columns are infused with that same truth-seeking, let's-explode-the-myths attitude that was evident in his last book, The National Football Lottery (LJ 8/73). He discusses everything from baseball to streaking, and he's always funny, articulate, and penetrating. Join him at "ringside."—Robert R. Harris, "Library Journal"

Page, Patrick. The Big Book of Magic.
Dial. Oct. 1976. 256p. illus. by Eric Mason. ISBN 0-8037-0565-4. $9.95. RECREATION

This book contains hundreds of magic tricks for all ages and degrees of skill—from simple sleight-of-hand to escapes and grand illusions. It makes a good complement to David Charney's Magic (LJ 8/75). Recommended for public libraries and special collections.—Ann Zaeske, MacMurray Coll. Lib., Jacksonville, Ill.

odhajsky, Alois. The Art of Dressage: asic principles of riding and judging.

Doubleday. 1976. 185p. tr. by Eva Podhajsky. photogs. by Werner Menzendorf & others. index. LC 75-21241. ISBN 0-385-01552-6. $8.95. SPORTS

'his last book by the late author complements his previous works, The Complete Training of Horse and Rider (LJ /15/67) and The Riding Teacher (LJ 3/ /73). Drawing on his long experience nd through reference to actual competitions, Podhajsky demonstrates vhat should be expected of competitors and judges. To anyone interested in the equestrian world, and especially to those interested in dressage, his book is essential.—William R. 'hamberlain, Virginia State Lib., Richmond

Ralbovsky, Martin. The Namath Effect.

Prentice-Hall. Oct. 1976. 224p. LC 76-16196. $7.95. SPORTS

Ready for another book on Joe Namath? In this one, Ralbovsky attempts o show the many ways in which Namath has changed the face of American sport and the life style of the American athlete as well. Ralbovsky feels that the 'ripples'' of the ''Namath effect'' have reached far and wide. Focusing on several major events of Namath's career, he weaves into the narrative his ideas about Namath's influence on players' salaries, sexual mores, free speech in sports, NFL coaches, the entire AFL, etc. No one can deny Namath's impact, and much of what Ralbovsky says s valid. However, he makes too many misleading statements while acknowledging Namath as the direct cause of everything from the changing fashions n mens' clothing to the appearance of girls on boys' Little League teams. I am tempted to say that Ralbovsky credits Namath with too much influence, but then Namath was the only athlete on Nixon's ''Enemies List.''—Josephine A. DeLapo, Queens Borough P.L., New York

Silber, Mark. Racing Stock.

Dolphin: Doubleday. Oct. 1976. illus. LC 75-44525. ISBN 0-385-11172-X. pap. $4.95. SPORTS

Silber here interviews most of the standard figures in the sport of stock car racing—from Junior Johnson to Richard Petty to the widow of a man killed while driving a stocker. The text s relatively brief, but about 100 photographs (which I have not seen) are also ncluded in the book. Racing Stock sn't bad, and those libraries serving areas with a high level of interest in stock car racing should probably buy it. But libraries wanting only one book on he subject would be much better served by Jerry Bledsoe's The World's Number One, Flat-Out, All-Time Great, Stock Car Racing Book (LJ 1/ 5/75).—John Smothers, Monmouth County Lib. System, Freehold, N.J.

Whiting, Robert. The Chrysanthemum nd the Bat.

Dodd. 1976. illus. ISBN 0-396-07317-4. $10. SPORTS

Japanese baseball, even more than its American counterpart, is a game of custom and tradition, a sport which has acquired staggering appeal. Children play baseball 12 months a year; major league players are treated with deference reserved for royalty and clergymen. Whiting touches upon these topics in this definitive work on Japanese baseball, and he dwells at length on virtually every aspect of major league ball imaginable—playing caliber, front-office wrangling, public relations, Japanese televising ventures. For baseball buffs, this is a detailed, authoritative book; for more casual observers, however, the minutiae tends to overwhelm. The prose style, while lucid, seldom vergers on incisive; and the book gets a bit tedious. Baseball fans will overlook these faults; for them, the abundance of facts is the book's saving grace.—Curt Smith, Assist. Director of Communications, Hamilton Coll., Clinton, N.Y.

THEATER

Adams, Joey. Here's to the Friars: the heart of show business.

Crown. Oct. 1976. 288p. photogs. LC 76-18995. $8.95. THEATER

Adams has written a superb, fast-moving, fun-filled reminiscence of the founding and hectic history of the Friars Clubs both in New York and Hollywood. All the names are here: Burns, Berle, Sinatra, Hope, Caruso, Cantor, Benny, Cohan, along with stories of other show business clubs like the Round Table and the Lambs. Theater people will enjoy this book and so will you.—Elizabeth S. Brand, Grice Middle Sch. Lib., Hamilton Township, Trenton, N.J.

Drutman, Irving. Good Company: a memoir, mostly theatrical.

Little. Oct. 1976. c. 250p. illus. ISBN 0-316-19355-0. $7.95. MEMOIR/THEATER

Add to a half-century of literary and theatrical experiences a dash of wit and humor, season with charm, blend with style and craftsmanship, and the result is a delicacy of artistic enlightenment. Such is the work of Drutman, journalist, writer, press agent, and connoisseur. Among his memoirs are illuminating portraits of Oscar Levant, S. N. Behrman, Tallulah Bankhead, Mae West, W. H. Auden, Janet Flanner, Ira Gershwin, and others. The book is further enhanced by a number of aptly chosen caricatures and photographs. All in all, Good Company makes for good reading and reminiscing.—Louis A. Rachow, Walter Hampden-Edwin Booth Theatre Collection & Lib., New York

Lesley, Cole. Remembered Laughter: the life of Noel Coward.

Knopf. Oct. 1976. photogs. bibliog. index. $12.95. BIOG/THEATER

The purpose of this volume is to better acquaint readers with Coward. Lesley begins with Coward's parents, and after that follows a predictably linear narrative. But while this might bother some readers, who might feel this technique would be tiresome, Lesley's effect is just the opposite. The author

"TOP CALIBER"

TEACH YOURSELF BASIC BIDDING

By Alan Truscott & Dorothy Hayden Truscott

The Truscotts are two of this country's leading bridge players, and their latest book is also top caliber. Following a do-it-yourself format, the beginner is led through the basics of bidding on to more complicated sequences. Intermediate as well as novice players will benefit from the discussions of bidding theory; especially interesting is a new method of evaluating the point value of a hand. This is a good choice for a basic introductory bidding book, but not really an essential addition to an otherwise comprehensive collection.

—Gail R. Haar
Library Journal

224p. LC 75-7889
ISBN 0-668-03836-5
LR $8.95

arco PUBLISHING COMPANY, INC.
219 Park Avenue South, New York, N.Y. 10003

"... no praise high enough for this immense work." N. Y. Times

REFERENCE GUIDE TO Fantastic Films

COMPILED by WALT LEE

3 VOLUMES $29.40 PER SET

20,000 TITLES 50 COUNTRIES
75 YEARS MANY RARE PHOTOGRAPHS

This 3-Volume Reference Guide to FANTASTIC FILMS covers virtually every science-fiction, fantasy, and horror film ever made from 1896 through today's modern giants like 2001: A Space Odyssey.

"A monumental reference work ... a major source for films within its scope."
Library Journal

"... Comprehensive ... we strongly recommend purchasing this worthwhile project." American Reference Book Annual

CHELSEA-LEE BOOKS BOX 66273
Los Angeles, Ca. 90066

knows his subject well, and the result is totally enjoyable. The outstanding use of photographs enriches the fine prose. Essential for all large collections.—Andrew Aros, Rosemead P.L., Calif.

Marx, Samuel & Jan Clayton. Rodgers and Hart: bewitched, bothered, and bedeviled! an anecdotal account.

Putnam. Oct. 1976. 280p. illus. index. ISBN 0-399-11786-5. $10. MEMOIR/THEATER

Anyone interested in the evolving careers of two of the greatest musical comedy collaborators this country has produced will want to read this. Both authors knew Hart and know Rodgers well, and they acknowledge more than 70 individuals who contributed their "impressions and memories." The book starts by touching on the earlier years before Rodgers and Hart met; this is valuable to set the stage for the continuing and contrasting family relationships that color the personal lives of both men. There is at least something here about nearly all the musicals and much about some of the more famous. However, in no way should this book be mistaken for a reference source or an authoritative biography; but despite a few lapses of style and grace, it is fascinating reading. Probably for the first time, the subject of Hart's sexual activities is brought to the fore; the speculations about his homosexuality are intelligent and sympathetic, but may surprise some and disturb others.—Richard M. Buck, N.Y.P.L.

Skinner, Cornelia Otis. Life with Lindsay & Crouse.

Houghton. Oct. 1976. 256p. fwd. by Brooks Atkinson. illus. 0-395-24511-7. $10. THEATER

Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse were among the most successful teams in the 20th-Century American theater; and Skinner is the ideal author to bring their lives to the printed page. Her easy style fits them well, and she knew them and saw their productions. She treats each separately and tells of their professional careers up to the point of their collaboration, and then concludes with a section that treats them jointly. The book is filled with amusing anecdotes, as well as interesting factual material, and is recommended for both special and general collections.—Paul Myers, N.Y.P.L.

Cinema

Gould, Michael. Surrealism and the Cinema (open-eyed screening).

A. S. Barnes. 1976. 171p. illus. bibliog. index. LC 74-9284. ISBN 0-498-01498-3. $9.95. CINEMA

Ostensibly this book is a subjective, personal appreciation of the surrealistic techniques of a few directors, particularly the effects achieved by the density or sparsity of their frame construction. While defining surrealism so broadly as to include DeMille's parting of the Red Sea and the cameo appearances of Hollywood all-stars in The Greatest Story Ever Told, Gould ignores the uniquely cinematic surrealism of Hollywood comedies from City Lights to Silent Movie. Also missing are the brilliant films of Maya Deren and the Zagreb animations. These absences are emphasized by Gould's preference for delivering provocatively quirky opinions. The value of these opinions decreases with the increase of his errors. His misremembrance of sequence arrangement in Bambi weakens his interpretation; he misperceives a key scene in the classic Un chien andalou; and the book suffers from a deplorable lack of proofreading. All these faults are unfortunate since Gould's fine discussion of the relationship of technique and theme in Hitchcock's Vertigo and The Birds shows his competence. A slender book, both in size and substance.—Charles Michaud, Brockton P.L. System, Mass.

Koszarski, Richard. Hollywood Directors, 1914-1940.

Oxford Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. 384p. pref. by François Truffaut. illus. index. $13.95; pap. $3.95. CINEMA

Koszarski outlines the various stages of American film history between 1914 and 1940 through a collection of essays written by the directors themselves. The directors included range from some of the best known (George Cukor and King Vidor) to some of the most obscure (Lois Weber and Herbert Brenon), with some arbitrarily included in sections on periods they are not necessarily best remembered for. The articles are short and are reprinted from contemporary sources that usually are not found in research libraries. But, unfortunately, most of the essays are merely personal glimpses of the film makers; others contain nothing more than the directors' views about the film medium or acting in general. Although most of the pieces are interesting, they are nonspecific and rarely relate facts about methods or particular styles. They do not seem vital to the study of film, and purchase should depend on demand, with a cautious view toward the price.—Deborah Elliott, formerly with Grad. Sch. of Library Science, Univ. of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Luhr, William & Peter Lehman. Authorship and Narrative in the Cinema: issues in contemporary aesthetics.

Capricorn: Putnam. Oct. 1976. 286p. illus. ISBN 0-399-11785-7. $8.95. CINEMA

An ill-conceived collaboration based on the authors' Ph.D. dissertations: Lehman's on auteurism and John Ford and Luhr's on narrative, Victorian fiction, and films using it as a source. Through this amalgam the authors seek to establish guidelines for the development of a "formally precise aesthetic" in film criticism. The end result gives one the feeling that two completely separate works have been lumped together and passed off as a unified whole. The discussion of film aesthetics is merely a rehash of principles developed by pioneering theorists. Detailed "model analyses" of two Ford films demonstrating the "nature and complexity of elements that cohere to make an effective film" constitute the only worthwhile contribution. The second part of the book advances the less than ground-breaking premise that narrative elements play a subordinate role in film by focusing on an analysis of the function of narrative in Stevenson's The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr Hyde and films based on it. This book is a glaring example of the intellectual muddle prevalent in film scholarship, a muddle for which the authors were supposedly offering a corrective.—Beverly Feldman, Pennsylvania State Univ. Libs., Abington

Martin, Tony & Cyd Charisse as told to Dick Kleiner. The Two of Us.

Mason/Charter. Oct. 1976. photogs. ISBN 0-88405-363-0. $12.50. MEMOIR/CINEMA

Mr. and Mrs. Martin reminisce about their show business careers, he as a singer and sometime actor, she as a dancer and actress. Of the two, Charisse is the more perceptive and entertaining, particularly when comparing Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly or discussing her involvement in a few important musical films (Singin' in the Rain, The Band Wagon, Silk Stockings); Martin prefers to name-drop and complain. Unfortunately, this poorly written book concentrates on incidents of little interest to those concerned with the history of popular music or of film—e.g. two chapters on Martin's war experiences. If your library specializes in musical films, this book will be of slight interest; but it fills no gap in the history of the cinema.—W. H. Lyles, Dept. of English, Univ. of Maryland, College Park

Otash, Fred. Investigation Hollywood memoirs of Hollywood's top private detective.

Regnery. Oct. 1976. ISBN 0-8092-8013-2. $9.95 MEMOIR/CINEMA

A former policeman, Otash has been a private investigator in Hollywood since the late 1940's. His cases involved drugs, divorce, and sleazy sex scandals; his clients included Judy Garland, Jeffrey Hunter, and Yma Sumac. This book is not the gossipy camp work one might wish for. The dish on the celebrities is banal and unrevealing. Otash has written a self-serving memoir in dreary, humorless, submacho prose that would make Mickey Spillane look classy. To be avoided.—William J. Harding, Free Lib. of Philadelphia

fiction

Bennett, Hal. Seventh Heaven.

Doubleday. 1976. ISBN 0-385-06659-7. $7.95.

In a powerful, explicit, sensitive inventive, and depressing book, Bennett recounts the sexual odyssey of Bill Kelsey, starting from a low-cost ghetto housing project for blacks, Puerto Ricans, and a sprinkling of Italians in New Jersey (which Bill helped to construct) and going backward in time to his escape from a black ghetto in the South. Anthony Homes and its environs—where welfare checks support the majority of the population and where rotgut winedrinking, murder and male and female prostitution are a

NEW YORK GRAPHIC SOCIETY
SUMMER-FALL 1976

uly

ATTERN
A Historical Panorama
ased on the Collections of the ooper-Hewitt Museum of esign, Smithsonian Institution y William Justema.
76 b & w ills. 208 pp. 8½ x 11 ins.
BN 0-8212-0665-6 $15.00

00 YEARS OF AMERICAN EATING FURNITURE hairs and Beds from the Mabel rady Garvan and Other ollections at Yale University y Patricia E. Kane.
8 color, 400 b & w ills. 336 pp.
½ x 10 ins. SBN 0-8212-0678-8
25.00

RIENTAL RUGS
A Comprehensive Guide
Revised and Expanded Edition
y Murray L. Eiland. 48 color,
00 b & w ills. 256 pp. 9 x 12 ins.
BN 0-8212-0643-5 $24.50

August

HE LIGHTHOUSE
A Calendar for 1977
y Dudley Witney. 17 color ills.
3⅝ x 11⅛ ins. With mailing nvelope. SBN 0-8212-0697-4
5.95

THE BROTHERS DUCHAMP
Jacques Villon, Raymond Duchamp-Villon, Marcel Duchamp
By Pierre Cabanne. 50 color, 130 b & w ills. 260 pp. 10 x 11 ins.
SBN 0-8212-0666-4 $49.50

September

THE ARCHITECTURE OF LUIS BARRAGAN
By Emilio Ambasz. 28 color, 37 b & w ills. 128 pp. 9¼ x 11⅝ ins.
The Museum of Modern Art.
SBN 0-87070-234-3 $27.50

October

CALIGARI'S CABINET AND OTHER GRAND ILLUSIONS
A History of Film Design
By Léon Barsacq. Foreword by René Clair. Revised and Edited by Elliott Stein. 160 b & w ills. 272 pp. 8½ x 11 ins. SBN 0-8212-0620-6 $18.50

PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE SOUTHWEST
By Ansel Adams. With an Essay on the Land by Lawrence Clark Powell. 100 duotone b & w ills. 128 pp. 12 x 9¼ ins.
SBN 0-8212-0699-0 $32.50

THE MARQUIS DE SADE
By Donald Thomas. 75 b & w ills. 224 pp. 7 x 10 ins.
SBN 0-8212-0653-2 $12.95

SONG FROM THE EARTH
American Indian Painting
By Jamake Highwater. 32 color, 130 b & w ills. 224 pp. 8½ x 11 ins.
SBN 0-8212-0698-2 $19.95

THE LOST WORLD OF THE IMPRESSIONISTS
By Alice Bellony-Rewald. 48 color, 250 b & w ills. 288 pp. 8½ x 11 ins.
SBN 0-8212-0687-7 $32.50

NEEDLEWORK PATTERNS FROM THE METROPOLITAN MUSEUM OF ART
By Susan Siegler. 24 color, 60 b & w ills., 65 line drawings. 184 pp. 9⅜ x 11 ins.
SBN 0-8212-0639-7 $17.50

November

KARSH PORTRAITS
By Yousuf Karsh. 48 b & w gravure ills. 208 pp. 9½ x 12 ins.
SBN 0-8212-0606-0 $24.95

NEW PAPERBACKS

September

LOOKING AT PHOTOGRAPHS
100 Pictures From the Collection of The Museum of Modern Art
By John Szarkowski. 100 ills., 15 in browntone. 216 pp. 9 x 11 ins.
The Museum of Modern Art.
SBN 0-87070-515-6 $9.95 paper

Prices shown are Little, Brown and Company prices only and do not necessarily reflect the prices of other suppliers

NEW YORK GRAPHIC SOCIETY
Boston, Mass. 02106
Books available through Little, Brown and Company, 34 Beacon Street, Mass. 02106 way of life—is the base for certain of Bill's projects: an attempt to impregnate a male friend to win the million dollars offered to the first man to have a baby; a big-bottom contest to help elect the local Italian politician; Bill's desertion of his black provider Dicey for the white daughter of the housing project's founder; and the bizarre funeral of a black prostitute killed by juju. Certainly not a novel for the fastidious, Seventh Heaven brings a message of black despair, black rage, and at the same time black ebullience and resilience.—L. W. Griffin, Univ. of Wisconsin Lib., Madison

Bonallack, Basil. The Flame in the Dark.
St. Martin's. 1976. 212p. LC 75-26176. $8.95. F
This adventure tale, fictionalized from historical events, is a respectably engrossing account of Alfred of Wessex and his crucial battles against the Viking invaders—battles that shaped modern England. Narratives simulating the style of the singers of tales are enjoying a new popularity at present and Bonallack's is one of the good ones, full of high purpose and suspense, courage and humanity. Historically authentic, simple in both language and form, the book is well suited to YA's. For school libraries and large collections of historical fiction.—Jo-Ann D. Suleiman, Wright Patterson Air Force Base Medical Lib., Dayton, Ohio

THE HEARING TRUMPET
by Leonora Carrington
Illustrations by Pablo Weisz-Carrington
"This book is a masterpiece of surrealistic fantasy, combining rich symbolic suggestion with a gripping narrative."—Library Journal (8/76) "Already a success in France and when readers meet the zany, irrepressible Marian Leatherby, it may well catch on here."—Publishers Weekly (8/9/76) 160 pp.
LC 76-6532
$7.95
St. Martin's Press
175 Fifth Avenue
New York 10010

Brautigan, Richard. Sombrero Fallout: a Japanese novel.
S. & S. 1976. ISBN 0-671-22331-3. $6.95. F
Only Brautigan could squeeze 2½ plots into so little space, call the concoction a novel, and still maintain the bittersweet insanity that has marked his work from the very beginning. Try, for instance, in your head to intertwine these stories: one hour in the life of an American humorist who is mourning having been left by his Japanese girlfriend; include in this story scenes of his meeting her for the first time, various images of her now making love with other men, and the excruciating impact of finding one of her hairs in his apartment. Add a sombrero which falls from the sky, has a temperature of 24 degrees below zero, and is the cause of an entire town going berserk and battling it out with U.S. troops. This turns out to be the story the American humorist is writing at the time. Add further: the Japanese girl, asleep in bed, and her cat, who gets hungry. It may be Brautigan's shortest novel, but there isn't a page that won't make you scratch your head, smile, or want to start it all over again.—Timothy Daum, Ohio Univ. Lib., Athens

Cline, Linda. The Miracle Season.
Berkley, dist. by Putnam. 1976. 182p. LC 76-18070. ISBN 0-399-11654-0. $6.95. F
In The Miracle Season Cline describes an imagined world in which animals can communicate, and ESP and soul-traveling exist. In her world abide geniuses or "thinkers" who can not only talk with others of their own kind, but can also commune across species lines and transcend their own lives. This is the story of Crow Mayor, a figure reminiscent of John the Baptist; Crow Corvus, the foretold savior of crowdom; four armadillos named Dill who live as a unit; Adam, a rattlesnake whose misfortune it is to be the only thinker of a loveless silent breed; and Lotor the racoon, who teaches Crow Corvus about visions and whose fate it is to find destruction in over adaptation to life with man. The doom that threatens this animal world is the ecological crisis predicted in Rachel Carson's Silent Spring, and the message Crow Corvus brings crowdom is adapt or die. He teaches that animals must learn to stay away from poisons and poisonous places in the environment, and that no animal lives alone. This beautifully written fable for our time is highly recommended.—Dorothy Sternlicht, SUNY at Oswego Lib.

Cox, Bob. Jamaican American.
Quail Street Pub. Co., dist. by Bobbs. Oct. 1976. 700p. ISBN 0-89307-003-3. $10. F
There ought to be a law to prevent books this bad from being published. Instead, they are bought for movies, as this one has been. It concerns six USC graduates, four of whom—an Anglo, a black, a Chicano, and a Jew—had formed a close friendship while in college during the 1950's. The fifth is a voracious female who starts her own agency with the sixth, a football hero, as its general manager. They sign up the other four as clients: one as novelist screenwriter, cameraman, etc., etc.; another as actor and singer; and the others as sports stars, because they know sports are bound to become the big thing. The language is stilted and full of clichés. Unreadable.—Frances Seamster, Kern County Lib., Bakersfield, Calif.

Demers, Ralph M. The Circuit.
Richard Seaver: Viking. 1976. 256p. ISBN 0-670-22268-2. $8.95.
There's always a risk in undertaking novels in which the primary focus is an activity—chess, shipbuilding, baseball, etc., etc. The human factor often tends to be swamped and the novel becomes, in effect, a textbook with the players used to illustrate various fine points of technique. In this case, the activity is organized lawn tennis as it is practiced by and among the international stars on their way to and in Wimbledon—the circuit. Aside from the game itself, which Demers knows intimately and teaches well, the only other activity described at length takes place on a bed or some other reliable substitute.—Aaron L. Fessler, Merrick, N.Y.

Epstein, Leslie. The Steinway Quintet plus four.
Little, Oct. 1976. ISBN 0-316-24569-0. $8.95.
All five stories in this collection take place in a world permeated with physical and emotional brutality. Only the title story, however, bears any trace of the rib-tickling humor that served to mitigate the horror in Epstein's P.D. Kimerakov (LJ 6/15/75). "The Steinway Quintet" is narrated by an aging Jewish musician whose off-key perspective turns a potential night of terror into a comic interlude with serious resonances. The mood of the other four stories ranges from grim to horrifying. In "Tell Me My Fortune," a young girl is forced to play the part of a gypsy for her school carnival with results as bone-chilling as anything one might find in Shirley Jackson. —Ronald A. Carter, Dept. of English, Rappahannock Community Coll., Warsaw, Va.

Fox, Paula. The Widow's Children.
Dutton, 1976. LC 76-10211. ISBN 0-525-23377-6. $8.95.
Most of this novel takes place at a cocktail and dinner party. The guests are not only very interesting, they're mildly unpleasant. They don't do anything evil or repulsive. In fact, they don't actually do anything, but they talk a lot and have inner thoughts about any number of things, including memories of other people whom the reader never does get to meet. Throughout all of the above, Laura, the middle-aged woman who is giving the party, keeps secret that her mother has died that day in a nursing home. It is unclear why she keeps this secret or for that matter why later she does not want her daughter to go to the funeral. The novel ends abruptly. It's minor-league Henry James with cocktails.—Larry Gray, Dept. of English, Southeastern Louisiana Univ., Hammond ried, Albert. The Prescott Chronicles.

Putnam. 1976. 475p. fwd. by Julian K. Prescott. ISBN 0-399-11711-3. $9.95. F he Prescott Chronicles trace the politi-al involvement of a Boston family om 1630 through 1973. Romping hrough selected portions of America's istory the chronicles focus on the ore illustrious members of the Pres-ott family such as John, observer of en Franklin and other dignitaries; An-rew, a radical who with Sam Adams arly urged independence for the colo-ies; Bartholomew Flagg, Lincoln's ecretary in the field; and Anthony lagg, restless intimate and confidant f FDR. Each man, through his diaries, orrespondence and/or published ork, projects a personal and some-mes irreverent view of events and eople. Like the fictional Prescotts, the istorical greats are presented warts nd all. A delightful way to administer dose of history. Should have wide Bi-entennial appeal.—Jean W. Farring-n, SUNY at Albany Lib.

aines, Diana. Nantucket Woman.
Dutton. 1976. LC 76-11260. ISBN 0-525-16380-8. $8.95. F
aines has chosen as the subject of this ctionalized biography Kezia Coffin 723-1798), neé Folger, a descendant f Peter Folger and cousin of Benjamin ranklin. Kezia is usually character-ed as a mean-hearted penny pincher ho took advantage of the pre-ominantly Quaker population of the is-nd for self-aggrandizement. Gaines eats her with kindness and attempts o induce compassion for Kezia as a lib-rated woman before her time, and uses exual frustration as the explanation or Kezia's acquisitiveness and rank in-ividuality. The descriptions of daily fe and surroundings of Nantucket how evidence of research into 18th-entury sources as well as genuine re-pect for and understanding of the is-nders' separationist way of life. Effec-ve use is made of the known facts of ezia Coffin's life, including her in-ictment for high treason in 1780 for onopolization of trades during the evolutionary War. Gaines doesn't al-ways manage to make Kezia's motiva-ons clear, but nevertheless has pro-uced a convincing sometimes com-elling tale of a salty character in a time f changing attitudes and beliefs.—Vir-inia L. Fetscher, Katonah Village ib., N.Y.

lass, Leslie. Getting Away with It.
Doubleday. 1976. LC 76-2774. ISBN 0-385-12113-X. $7.95. F
What's it like to work in the editorial of-ces of a major gossip magazine? Ac-ording to the author, not much gets ac-omplished but staff gossip—and Glass erself doesn't accomplish much in this ull novel, either. A gripping series of ubplots, as found in Arthur Hailey's ovels, might have helped; then we ould care more about the sexual and fi-ancial vicissitudes of the not-very-ompelling characters. Dialogue and atire are razor-sharp and might have een better showcased in a one-act lay; in the novel's best scene, a tough-skinned editorial assistant fends off an irate phone caller with brilliant double-talk in a thick Southern accent. But it's difficult for the reader to work up any enthusiasm about the cold-blooded assistant editor whose marriage to a stellar staff writer is shattering.—Joyce Smothers, Monmouth County Lib., Freehold, N.J.

Gluyas, Constance. My Lord Foxe.
McKay. 1976. ISBN 0-679-50568-7. $10.95. F
Henrietta Maria of France was only 15 when she married Charles I of England. Her high-spirited scorn of all things English and her ardent Catholicism caused difficulties for the king whose reign was to be marked by clashes with Parliament culminating in his execution in 1649. Gluyas' drawing room version of this period focuses on the royal couple and the king's loyal friend Brett Foxefield, Earl of Foxefield, and his ward and later wife Meredith. The action is chiefly offstage and related in musings and dialogue. Gluyas has a smooth prose style and her novel is light and easily read. For historical fiction collections with comfortable budgets.—Ellen Kaye Stoppel, Drake Univ. Law Lib., Des Moines

Goldstein, Ruth Tesler. The Heart Is Half a Prophet.
Macmillan. 1976. 256p. ISBN 0-02-544590-1. $8.95. F
Zalman Hirsch, an Orthodox Jew struggling to sustain his family through the Depression, fancies himself a devout and pious man, but is, in reality, a fanatic, a slave to his own pride. Observing religious law in its literal sense, without comprehending its spirit, he is blind to the rifts he is causing among his family—his long-suffering wife Malka, who has come to dislike her husband, and their three dutiful but free-thinking children. Only when great tragedy strikes does Zalman realize that he, being the sole cause, must do his penance alone and in silence. This moving and compassionate first novel is superbly told, and rich with "Yiddishkeit" and the flavor of Jewish life in the 1930's on New York City's Lower East Side.—Marcia R. Hoffman, Woodbridge P.L., Iselin, N.J.

Gray, Francine du Plessix. Lovers and Tyrants.
S. & S. Oct. 1976. ISBN 0-671-22338-0. $8.95. F
Most of this book reads like an autobiography: the first-person account of an only child growing up in a claustrophobic French milieu. A retrospective tone is similarly employed for the protagonist's transplantation to America, her relationship with her mother, her marriage to a staid architect. Suddenly Stephenie, no longer the narrator, exists in the present tense: she is touring the Southwest with a homosexual 20 years her junior, having left her husband and college-age sons in suburban Massachusetts. Moreover, she seems

WHOLE HOG

"A wryly amusing slice of Americana that is ingenious entertainment."
—Publishers Weekly

A novel by DAVID WAGONER
author of Tracker, The Road to Many a Wonder, and many other novels.

$8.95 at all bookstores
ATLANTIC-LITTLE, BROWN

to have developed a fashionable case of women's lib blues, for which the reader is ill-prepared, based on previous self-disclosures. Lovers and Tyrants is elegantly written by an author of superior intelligence and sensitivity, but as a novel it is narcissistic and one-dimensional.—Frances Esmonde de Usabel, State Reference & Loan Lib., Madison, Wis.

Greenberg, Joanne. Founder's Praise.
Holt. Oct. 1976. $8.95. F
Set in the spare, dry farmlands of eastern Colorado, this is the saga of three generations of an American family and their involvement in the founding and decline of a native religion. Edgar Bisset comes to manhood in the time of the Dustbowl and miraculously finds faith in the midst of devastation. His belief in the future and in the goodness of life inspires those around him to group together in informal religious meetings called Praises, which, after his death, develop into a ritualized faith. His nephew, Andy, becomes guardian of the faith and fosters its growth across the U.S. And it is Andy's son, young Edgar, who knowingly but helplessly betrays the faith and in doing so exposes the hollowness of a religion with no concept of evil. This vivid evocation of the land during one of its worst trials and the reaction of the people who are tied to that land produces a spendid novel that has a stunning impact on the reader.—Jane Belon Shaw, Lisle P.L., Ill.

FRIGHTS
New Stories of Suspense and Supernatural Terror
Edited by KIRBY McCAULEY
Introduction by FRITZ LEIBER
"In this impressive anthology of sophisticated tales of suspense by contemporary writers the genre is firmly established as a serious literary form...(The fourteen original stories contain) a deliciously titillating inventiveness, as well as literary grace." —Publishers Weekly (6/14/76)
256 pp. LC 75-40798 $8.95
St. Martin's Press
175 Fifth Avenue

Holt, Kare. The Race.
Seymour Lawrence: Delacorte. 1976. 288p. tr. from Norwegian by Joan Tate. ISBN 0-440-07198-4 $8.95 F
This narrative evokes the rivalry of Amundsen and Scott to be the first man to reach the South Pole in chapters alternating between the two principals. The Norwegian author reveals the Norwegian Amundsen as devious, arrogant, and cold-blooded. The Englishman Scott is treated somewhat more sympathetically as a stickler for discipline and principle, but indecisive and lacking the necessary ruthlessness for the venture. Although the book is called "a novel of polar exploration" the author spreads merely a thin veneer of fiction over the factual narrative of the historical journey to the South Pole. Only the private thoughts of the participants and an imaginary dialogue between Scott and Amundsen seem to be fiction. The rest is a gripping true tale of great suffering, endurance, and human failure graphically chronicled. It holds the reader to the end, although he already knows the final triumphant and tragic outcome.—Jonathan F. Husband, Boston State Coll. Lib.

Kay, Terry. The Year the Lights Came on.
Houghton. 1976. 288p. ISBN 0-395-24403-X. $8.95. F
This autobiographical novel introduces Colin Wynne, in 1947 a naive, unremarkable seventh grader who lives with his family in a small, sprawling north Georgia town. Colin's simple story concerns two youth gangs whose rivalry derives from the fact that one group lives in the neighborhood served with electricity and the other does not. As justice must prevail, the REA (Rural Electrification Association) electrifies the entire village by year's end and defuses all the adolescent antagonisms. If you can ignore this rather silly framework, there is a readable crime sequence at the core of the book and considerable local detail to enhance an otherwise bland, flimsy narrative.—James Peters, Leonia P.L., N.J.

Le Guin, Ursula K. Orsinian Tales.
Harper. 1976. 192p. LC 76-5545. ISBN 0-06-012516-6. $7.95. F
The unimportant concerns of insignificant people are crystallized into treasured portraits of human life in these eleven short stories. Set in an unspecified European location, in time periods ranging from 1150 to 1962, each vignette shows a turning point in the lives of its characters. The most memorable, "Conversations at Night, 1920," traces the growing love of a young woman for a blind man. Against parental opposition, and Sanzo's own bitterness at his fate, Lisha finds courage enough for both of them. A pair of stories studies the grandfather and grandson of one family, 42 years apart. Some of the others show us individuals who worship an unspeakable ancient god, who besiege a medieval castle, and who spend pleasant summer holidays in the country. Each evocative portrait is worthy of every reader's leisurely perusal.—Marcia R. Hoffman, Woodbridge P.L., Iselin, N.J.

Miller, Hugh. The Dissector.
St. Martin's. 1976. 239p. LC 76-5377 $8.95. F
Though Miller frequently states that Iain Ross, renowned pathologist, is more at home with the dead than the quick, his narrative belies this appraisal. Nor is the reader enlightened more than a wee bit about impoverished Glasgow where this story of forensic pathology takes place. Ironically, it is the brilliant detection of bizarre murders via the dissection table rather than the characters that gives life to this novel. Warning: the post mortems are so vividly described that only the most avid medical fiction buffs will enjoy the book, and they are likely to feel queasy.—Marion Hanscom, SUNY at Binghamton Lib.

Nation, Terry. Survivors.
Coward. 1976. ISBN 0-698-10664-4. $8.95. F
A passenger on a Boeing international flight falls ill with the flu. Soon countries all over the world report cases of the virus, and people begin to die. Only a handful survive the epidemic and set out to organize new lives for themselves in the disease-ravaged English countryside. This is an entertaining but unremarkable novel of survival.—Margery Read, formerly with Bergen Community Coll. Lib., Paramus, N.J.

Rae, Hugh C. Harkfast: the making of the king.
St. Martin's. 1976. 227p. LC 75-26196. $7.95. F
This tale of Britian after the Romans bears little resemblance to historical fact, achieving verisimilitude mainly through a liberal sprinkling of Celtic and Pictish names for customs, places and things. Rae is capable of turning a beautiful phrase to create a breathtaking word-picture, but when he strives for impact through understatement he occasionally leaves his characters ragged and his plot lines insufficiently defined. The last section does not fulfill the book's early promise. The ending is abrupt and disappointing, the message obscure.—Jo-Ann D. Suleiman Wright Patterson Air Force Base Medical Lib., Dayton, Ohio

Scott, Virgil & Dominic Koski. Walk-In.
S. & S. Oct. 1976. ISBN 0-671-22327-5. $7.95. F
Sino-American relations are jeopardized when Colonel Li, a top Chinese intelligence officer, defects ("walks in") to the Americans. The Chinese want Li back dead or alive before he spills the bean sprouts: if they don't get their way, the Mao-like Premier may cancel his upcoming trip to Washington. U.S. officials naturally want to keep their hot walk-in but on the other hand the President sorely needs the good political vibes generated by visiting Oriental potentate. A highly placed double agent, code-named Southwind, bloodies the plot irreparably, though not before Li and an improbable Mata Hari conduct a three-paragraph romance. A slow, prefabricated novel, competently written but lacking that killer instinct.—Kenneth F. Kister, West Palm Beach P.L., Fla.

FICTION

Siddons, Anne Rivers. Heartbreak Hotel.
S. & S. 1976. ISBN 0-671-22315-1. $7.95. F
Siddons has captured the essence of growing up privileged in the South circa 1950. Her heroine, Maggie Deloach, is one of the special Southern girls for whom all comes easy, one for whom the rules hold true. But Maggie is too bright for the mold, and in a confrontation with a black escaped convict, her world shatters. A compelling and gripping story of one summer in the life of a very real girl growing into womanhood. Highly recommended.—Donna J. McColman, Charles Taylor Memorial Lib., Hampton, Va.

Stevens, R. T. The Summer Day Is Done.
Doubleday. 1976. c.448p. ISBN 0-385-12041-9. $7.95. F
With phrases such as "her figure waisted by her crisp, white uniform" and an often awkward writing style, this reads like a novel written 40 years ago. In 1911, John Kirby is in Russia as an English undercover agent; later he becomes a British officer, a Russian Army officer, and, finally, a refugee. With some fortuitous sponsors, he develops a special friendship with the Tsar's family. A hopeless love evolves between Kirby and the Tsar's eldest daughter Olga. Throughout, the author seems to be attempting to humanize the royal family. Along with allusions to Nicholas' difficulties with the Duma, there are long passages on Nicholas and Alexandra, their consideration for others and their closeness as a family. In sum, this is a simple historical romance without explicit sex or violence.—Ellen Kaye Stoppel, Drake Univ. Law Lib., Des Moines, Iowa

Syers, William E. The Devil Gun.
Putnam. 1976. 450p. LC 75-34380. ISBN 0-399-11670-2. $8.95. F
The Civil War in the Southwest seen from the Confederate side is the setting of this action-packed novel. The South's strategy to invade Colorado and California launches a poorly equipped brigade from Texas into New Mexico and Arizona. After suffering incredible hardships the defeated survivors return to San Antonio and a war that is coming ever closer to home. They drag a cannon with them—the devil gun—which comes to symbolize the evil of war. Divided loyalties, unscrupulous businessmen, vendettas, ambushes, love are all present as the action develops in the desert and mountains and the Mexican side of the Rio Grande. A novel with a distinct flavor that should interest many readers.—Albert Hausmann, Wallingford P.L., Conn.

Vonnegut, Kurt, Jr. Slapstick: or lonesome no more!
Seymour Lawrence: Delacorte. Oct. 1976. 243p. LC 76-15605. ISBN 0-440-08046-X. $7.95. F
Dr. Wilbur Daffodil-II Swain sits reminiscing among the ruins of Manhattan's Skyscraper National Park. The Earth's gravity is no longer stable, most of civilization has broken down, a terrible plague has been loosed by the Chinese, who have reduced themselves to the size of microbes in answer to overpopulation. But Wilbur had managed, before it all went to pot, to institute a Federal program to alleviate loneliness. He is now writing an autobiography about his steadfast efforts to achieve happiness, meaning, and even complacency in an oddly uncaring universe. Incredibly funny, but with a bite. One of Vonnegut's best.—Timothy O'Reilly, Watertown, Mass.

Science Fiction

Yarbro, Chelsea Quinn. Time of the Fourth Horseman.
Doubleday. 1976. ISBN 0-385-11076-6. $5.95. F
Take the most extreme elements of Paddy Chayefsky's Hospital and Richard Nixon's Watergate, mix in severe overpopulation and a declining food supply, and you have a rough notion of what is going on here. It is grim. But there are too many ill-defined characters, subplot that never develops or resolves itself, and altogether too much emphasis on medical procedure and disease make this effective. Despite a nice twist at the end this is basically a good short story that got overexpanded into a mediocre novel. Only for really dedicated collectors of sf.—Charles A. Seavey, Univ. of Northern Iowa, Cedar Falls mystery ... detective ...suspense...

The Hunters by Peter HILL (Scribners. Oct. 1976. ISBN 0-684-14807-2. $6.95) is a first novel, a rather good Scotland Yard police procedural. A young woman is found raped and murdered near a pretty village in East Anglia. The investigation is in the hands of the two top Yard murder squad cops, the leader wise but lower-class and rough, and the assistant, upper-class, drunken and a girl chaser, but conscientious. Through detailed and knowledgeable techniques of questioning, a lunatic killer is tracked down. To perk things up there are touches of witchcraft, evil spells, and a lovely incantation to the Demon Pazuzu. I enjoyed this one.

A Smell of Fraud (St. Martin's. 1976. $7.95) by Gil HOGG is another first novel, English, with an international flavor. The death of a whiz accountant in a plane crash in Hong Kong triggers an investigation into the takeover financing of a British conglomerate by a New York bank, awash with money. A drunken but astute lawyer uncovers a vast fraud and devilish machinations by the upper echelons of international finance. There is plenty of action: sluggings, knifings, not to mention market manipulations and financial panics. I rather liked an attack by killer chows. However Hogg was badly served by his editor. The sex scenes are ludicrously

If you'd like to critically review sf or books on UFO's, the occult, or other otherworldly phenomena, please contact Ellen Kozlowski, the Book Review, and enclose two sample reviews.

RECOMMENDED FICTION

"Year after year, ELLERY QUEEN has been turning out splendid anthologies...

"Queen (Frederick Dannay and the late Manfred B. Lee), more than any other literary figures, have kept the short story alive in America today. True, the short stories featured in their anthologies are basically mystery yarns. Still, they are high quality tales, and always entertaining." —Boston Globe, on ELLERY QUEEN'S ACES OF MYSTERY.
"A feast served up by some of the finest practitioners of the genre...something special for mystery fans." —San Francisco Examiner, on ELLERY QUEEN'S MASTERS OF MYSTERY.
"The mystery story is alive and flourishing...the Queen standards of excellence still prevail." —Los Angeles Times, on ELLERY QUEEN'S ACES OF MYSTERY.

Recent Ellery Queen anthologies from The Dial Press:

ELLERY QUEEN'S MASTERS OF MYSTERY.
ISBN: 0-8037-5398-5 $8.95
ELLERY QUEEN'S ACES OF MYSTERY
ISBN: 0-8037-4515-X $8.95
ELLERY QUEEN'S GIANTS OF MYSTERY.
ISBN: 0-8037-2280-8 $8.95
ELLERY QUEEN'S MAGICIANS OF MYSTERY
ISBN: 0-8037-4362-9 $8.95
(Coming in November)

THE DIAL PRESS

DELL PUBLISHING CO., INC.
1 Dag Hammarskjöld Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10017

inappropriate, floating on the surface like turds on a lily pond, and the garnish of local color is not always successful. Nevertheless, corrupt business and big money are always fascinating.

Cast, In Order of Disappearance (Scribners. 1976. ISBN 0-684-14804-8. $6.95) by Simon BRETT is yet another first novel, also English, about theatrical life as observed from the inside. A failing BBC radio actor, a drinking man, is approached by a young woman to look into the sudden breaking off of her affair with a powerful theatrical magnate. There is a wiff of blackmail over some artistic but pornographic pictures, and hints of a mysterious disappearance and perhaps murder, with an inheritance as motive. Not very substantial, but Brett's style is fluent and relaxed, and the plot is entertaining and fast.

Steven ASHLEY's Stalking Blind (Dial. 1976. ISBN 0-8037-7909-7. $6.95) is an engrossing thriller in a new and exceptionally convincing area, the backwoods of West Virginia. The sheriff, a recently widowed farmer, a quiet, modest, decent man, is called upon to investigate the killing of a young hippie found shot and trussed up like a hog. Tensions are built up and suspicion hovers over a couple of hillbillies, hot for the man's girl friend, and veers to the girl friend herself. The matter gets much more complicated with the discovery of a patch of healthy marijuana and the introduction of big-city gangsters. The sheriff goes to New York, a little hayseedy and uncertain, in the search of a top Mafioso. The atmosphere is redolent of the backwoods and of hard times, and the people are full of life. As a dividend, the plot is both exciting and rapid.

Shah Mak (Coward. 1976. $8.95) by Alan WILLIAMS is a stunning story of international intrigue, fortunately not too likely, that goes far on the road toward baroque horror. A despotic Oriental potentate, possibly the Shah of Iran, and a notorious stirrer up of trouble, has employed a fat Frenchman to kill him and thus test his entourage. The Frenchman thence employs a Welsh murderer, an unsuccessful secret agent who, with the assistance of an amoral English lady, starts the assassination plot. The action moves like a flash from a chic ski resort in Switzerland to Holland, taking in disreputable private Swiss bank, a shooting during an avalanche, and the usual tortures, until it fetches up in Iran, or wherever the oil-rich empire is supposed to be. Sinister, inventive, smashing.

Swing, Swing Together (Dodd. 1976. LC 76-14865. $6.95) by Peter LOVESEY is the blend of a historical novel and a thriller that takes place in England in 1889. A respectable yet susceptible young woman in training to become a teacher goes on a midnight skinny dip in the Thames, is caught by men, and is the witness to a crime committed by three men in a boat with a dog. The connection with Jerome K. Jerome is underlined by a parallel trip down the Thames on the trail of the murderers of a tramp, and also perhaps of a prominent Oxford don. The investigation is in the hands of a good-looking policeman, putty in the hands of the beguiling schoolteacher, leading to a totally new and unguessable motive. I fear that the considerable period charm may be a little too special for a very wide audience, but those who persevere are well rewarded.

The Deadly Messiah (Atheneum. 1976. ISBN 0-689-10746-3. $8.95) by David Campbell HILL and Albert Fay HILL is an irresistible page turner, a widely absurd combination of medicine and the occult which may well be successful. It starts out at a gallop in Kentucky where an entire town falls ill with a mysterious ailment which appears to intensify already existing diseases. While the town is wiped out in 40 pages of vomit and pus, doctors quarrel about the cause—a death ray, a gas, a mutated germ. The FBI and the CIA are called in, and panic hits when another town is stricken. In desperation, an astrologer is consulted who foretells a third and fourth disaster, and who casts the horoscope of the villain. This one cannot be put down.

Dancing Aztecs (Evans, dist. by Lippincott. Oct. 1976. $8.95) is one of Donald WESTLAKE's funny super-heists, cheerful and as fast as a bullet. Jerry Manelli, a small-time crook, has latched onto a lucrative hustle, air-cargo theft, and in branching out tries to steal, on the order of a bunch of tough Latins, a crate supposed to contain a valuable gold artifact. However, through a misunderstanding, the wrong crate is stolen, this one containing copies. The Latins, understandably cross, make Manelli trace the copies, among which the real object has been hidden, which have been distributed as prizes to a group of Upper West Side liberals. Westlake has a fine imagination for the illegal, and a finer taste for knockdown farce. His gallery of New Yorkers: the quarrelsome intellectuals, the hustling gangsters, the feckless schleps, are only slightly exaggerated. Vintage Westlake.

The French Kiss (Crowell. Oct. 1976. LC 76-6549. ISBN 0-690-01099-0 $6.95) by Peter ISRAEL is a story about the international art market, a hotbed of crime and intrigue, as is well known. An American art dealer, a gambler and a crook, has opened a fancy gallery in Paris and is showing what purports to be late works of an American painter recently dead of drink. This leads to a lot of Parisian hugger-mugger involved one lot of fake paintings falsely authenticated by the painter's widow and another batch verified by his mistress. The investigation doesn't make too much sense, but it does involve wrongdoing in high places, which helps. Diverting enough, but the pace lurches and the plot does not inspire confidence.

The Last Flying Tiger (Scribners. 1976. ISBN 0-684-14751-3. $7.95) by David E. FISHER takes place in Miami where a middle-aged, middle-class man, a selfish, fantasizing romantic who is perhaps a little mad, falls upon a scheme of murder to provide a large sum of money to brighten his tedious life. This plot seems to involve either a plan to murder his wife for the insurance money, a plan to bilk the insurance company, or a plan to kill a beautiful whore to provide a suitable corpse. There is endless discussion between three rather stupid people: the sensible but slightly poisonous wife, the man, and the leftist but nonviolent whore. Fake bombings accidentally culminate in the real thing, and pursuit is by a cop with marital problems. The ending is regrettably predictable.

Rite of Expiation (Putnam. 1976. LC 76-10210. ISBN 0-399-11807-1.) by Dick RILEY is a straightforward mystery in which a rundown newspaperman in a decaying city in New Jersey is employed to look into the disappearance of a young woman, a very devout Catholic, a quiet, good girl. Her car shows up without a body in it, and the girl turns out not to have been quite as good as was thought. Things get elaborate when a notorious Mafioso is found shot in a sleazy motel, and a well-connected but crooked local lawyer is also murdered. The plot is unfortunately tied together by a very long and lucky coincidence. I also guessed the solution entirely too soon.

Murder at the UN (Dodd. Oct. 1976. $6.95) by Will PERRY is just a little better than run of the mill. The Secretary General of the UN, an African general isolated and suspicious, seems to be the focus of a plot of murder by two paid killers. The first attempt is thwarted by an aging secret agent, but the scheme succeeds when the African is found naked and dead in a tacky Broadway hotel. Suspicion falls with a thud on the devoted bodyguard as well as on his white wife from Alabama, and the whole is decorated with unlikely political and sexual shenanigans.

C.L.A.W. (Stein & Day. Oct. 1976. LC 76-13620. ISBN 0-8128-2087-X $8.95) by Richard L. GRAVES is a limp novel of international intrigue set in the United States during an unusually stuporous election year. A wily and inscrutable Vietnamese is using Third World guerrillas for his own fell purposes. These, it turns out, are murderous attacks on the President as well as on the opposing candidate, the blame to fall on the Russians, and thus to precipitate a disastrous war between the United States and Russia. The CIA is baffled and the KGB is called in, the contact being a glamorous colonel, also wily and Oriental even though Russian. There is a lot of brilliant deduction from flimsy evidence helped by good luck, and there is not a believable word anywhere.

The Kobra Manifesto (Doubleday. 1976. LC 75-40703. ISBN 0-385-05108-5. $7.95) by Adam HALL again features Quiller, the British neo-Bondian comic strip supersecret agent, this time bringing in a Yugoslavian defector from Zagreb. This fails but leads to a sensitive situation of tracking down Kobra, a consortium of top terrorists. The first stop is a chase and a fire at Rome's airport, then Phnom Penh under siege, a dead contact, and another explosion and so to Taiwan to pick up American help, and from there to murder in Washington and mugging in New York, fetching up in Belém and Manáos, and the final confrontation. There is plenty of action, most of it aimless and mechanical, and the genre is getting pretty tired after all these years.

Hellspout (Doubleday. 1976. LC 76-2788. ISBN 0-385-11546-6. $5.95) by Bill KNOX is a highly atmospheric tale of adventure in the Outer Islands of Scotland. An ocean-going cop whose job it is to prevent seal poaching and other such maritime misdeeds investigates the disappearance of a pair of scientists from an otherwise deserted island. All act with the greatest suspicion: the local doctor with a randy wife, the local shipbuilder with rather too much money, and the local seal-poaching brothers with a doughty but disagreeable mother. The crime turns out to be a treble murder, not that it matters very much, since the salty, nautical ambience in itself makes for a most pleasant read.

In The Very Fall of the Sun (Hudson Review, 65 E. 55th St., N.Y.C. 10022. Oct. 1976. pap. $2.50) by Samuel HAZO a dull American couple arrives in a foreign country, a repressive dictatorship, to give a lecture. They inadvertently get involved with the dictator's henchmen, and shortly with a guerrilla of the underground movement. They undergo incredible hardships and at the same time extensively discuss law, justice, and revenge. This occurs abroad, but it could be anywhere and anytime, and how they talk and talk. Worthy, polemical, but self-destructive.

In The Blood-Red Dream (Dodd. 1976. $6.95) by Michael COLLINS the ethnic immigrants of the Upper East Side of New York display a disconcerting tendency toward political activism. An old Yugoslavian vanishes and his Lithuanian granddaughter employs a private eye to find him. The old man has been wounded and may have had something to do with a political rally at which a Hungarian has been shot. The plot is full of all varieties of freedom fighters and champions of lost causes, some young and some rather long in the tooth, few wise, but some very violent. The effect is grim, dusty, and not knowledgeable at all.

In spite of the appetizing title, Funny, Jonas, You Don't Look Dead (Doubleday. 1976. LC 76-2797. ISBN 0-385-11415-X. $5.95) by Mary McMULLEN is just one of the many romantic thrillers low on suspense. An attractive woman, divorced from her husband and living in New York, is telephoned by him from Philadelphia while he is being murdered. The Philadelphia police, not being stupid, assume that the women is mad when she calls long distance to complain, and refuse to help. Thereupon the woman goes herself to Philadelphia and does her own investigating. The plot she uncovers is of very little interest.

Murder at the Frankfurt Book Fair (Doubleday. 1976. LC 73-22790. ISBN 0-385-03453-9. $6.95) by Hubert MONTEILHET is dangerously described as wicked and witty. It is neither. THE GORDONS' latest novel is called Ordeal (Doubleday, 1976. LC 75-40726. ISBN 0-385-07806-4. $6.95). Isaac ASIMOV has produced another collection of short stories, More Tales of the Black Widowers (Doubleday. Oct. 1976. ISBN 0-385-11176-2. $5.95).—Henri C. Veit, Brooklyn P.L.

INDEX.

Abernethy, P. L., 2048
Acerrano, A. J., 2048
Adamolekun, L., 2069
Adams, J., 2081
Anderson, J., 2063
Angelucci, E., 2073
Anthony, G., 2064
Arble, M., 2047
Artaud, A., 2064
Ashley, S., 2088
Asimov, A., 2089

Bader, B., 2052
Baker, C. J., 2069
Bates, F., 2078
Beard, E., 2069
Bennett, H., 2082
Benston, K. W., 2064
Berry, B. M., 2064
Bialostocki, J., 2051
Bonallack, B., 2084
Bowle, J., 2054
Brace, G. W., 2054
Brackin, I., 2079
Brautigan, R., 2084
Brett, S., 2088
Brook, D., 2075
Brown, R. D., 2060
Brown, V., 2076
Brunhouse, R. L., 2054
Buchwald, A., 2064
Buchwald, V., F., 2048

Carter, E. C., 2059
Carver, M., 2054
Clark, D., 2066
Cline, L., 2084
Cockerill, A. W., 2054
Collins, M., 2089
Conneau, T., 2054
Cotham, P. C., 2072
Cox, B., 2084
Cox, M., 2079
Crankshaw, E., 2060
Critical evaluation of African Literature, 2064
Cuban, L., 2059

Davidson, B., 2079
De Groot, R. A., 2063
Demers, R. M., 2084
Droscher, V. B., 2076
Drutman, I., 2081
Duncan, W., 2063
Durden-Smith, J., 2076

Easton, M., 2051
El-Ad, A., 2055
Epstein, L., 2084
Erikson, J. M., 2070

Faaland, J., 2058
Faber, H., 2071
Fein, S., 2071
Fenwick, S., 2071
Ferre, F., 2066
Finder, M., 2059
Firestone, R., 2055
Fischler, S., 2060
Fisher, D. E., 2088
Fleming, J., 2055
Flood, C. B., 2060
Fly, R., 2064
Foley, P., 2060
Fourquin, G., 2060
Fox, P., 2084
Freeman, T., 2071
Fried, A., 2085
Fromm, E., 2071

Gaines, D., 2085
Galella, R., 2053
Gardner, P., 2079
Gates, J. K., 2020
Gaylord, S. B., 2058
Geiser, R. L., 2071
Gerli, E. M., 2064
Gildea, W., 2079
Gill, J. H., 2066
Glass, L., 2085
Gluyas, C., 2085
Goldin, C. D., 2058
Goldstein, R. T., 2085
Gonzaliz-Ruiz, J., 2073
Goodwyn, L., 2061
Gordon, 2089
Gould, M., 2082
Graves, R. L., 2088
Gray, F., 2085
Gray, V., 2052
Greenberg, J., 2086
Guide to reviews of books from and about Hispanic America, 2049
Guthrie, R. D., 2072

Hafkin, N., 2076
Hall, A., 2088
Hargrove, R., 2071
Harris, M., 2068
Harrison, C., 2049
Hart, R. A., 2069
Hazo, S., 2089
Heaps, L., 2060
Hecht, M. B., 2070
Heilman, S. C., 2073
Heller, E., 2064
Hendin, D., 2075
Hill, A. A., 2065
Hill, D. C., 2088
Hill, P., 2087
Hoff, S., 2052
Hogg, G., 2087
Holroyd, S., 2072
Holt, K., 2086
Horton, J., 2066
Howell, G., 2052
Huckshorn, R. J., 2070
Hudak, J., 2074
Huntington, S. P., 2058
Hyde, H. M., 2060

Israel, P., 2088

Jacobsen, T., 2073
Jenkins, A., 2061
Jensen, H. J., 2065
Johnson, S., 2061
Johnson, W. T., 2049
Juhasz, S., 2065
Jullian, P., 2055

Kamerman, S. B., 2076
Kay, T., 2086
Keegan, J., 2061
Kennedy, M., 2066
Kidner, J., 2078
Kim, U. C., 2020
Klein, D., 2080
Knox, B., 2089
Koszarski, R., 2082
Kramer, J., 2074
Krishnamurti, J., 2068
Kurzman, D., 2061

Laqueur, T. W., 2061
Laqueur, W., 2070
Le Guin, U. K., 2086
Leighton, A., 2074
Lesley, C., 2081
Leys, N., 2056
Lin, W., 2080
Litto, G., 2052
Lord, S., 2080
Lovesey, P., 2088
Lucas, S. E., 2061
Luckert, K. W., 2076
Luhr, W., 2082

McClelland, I. L., 2065
McGee, J. S., 2061
Mackie, J. L., 2068
McMullen, M., 2089
Madison, C. A., 2058
Marinaro, V. C., 2080
Martin, T., 2082
Marx, S., 2082
Merchant, L., 2080
Merrill, J., 2056
Miles, B., 2074
Miller, H., 2086
Miller, M. S., 2059
Mixon, S. R., 2073
Monteilhet, H., 2089
Moskowitz, S., 2065

Naquin, S., 2062
Nation, T., 2086
National party conventions, 1831-1972, 2049
Nelli, H. S., 2078
Newman, J. H., 2075
Nichols, H., 2020
Nisbet, R., 2078
No single thread, 2072
Norris, G., 2066

O'Neill, J. E., 2062
Otash, F., 2082

Page, P., 2080
Palmer, B., 2075
Perry, F., 2050
Perry W., 2088
Pike, D. K., 2056
Podhajsky, A., 2081
Pound, E., 2068
Princeton encyclopedia of classical sites, 2050

Rabinowitch, A., 2062
Rae, H. C., 2086
Ralbovsky, M., 2081
Randles, S., 2063
Redmond, E. B., 2065
Rees, J., 2056
Rhinehart, L., 2071
Riley, D., 2088
Rosenfeld, A., 2074
Ross, N., 2078
Routh, F., 2066
Rovere, R. H., 2058
Rowe, D. W., 2065
Rubin, R. L., 2047
Rukeyser, M., 2068

St. John, D., 2068
Salibi, K. S., 2047
Schoen, L. A., 2075
Schopler, E., 2072
Schwed, P., 2080
Scott, V., 2086
Sealey, R., 2062
Sellassie, H., 2056
Siddons, A. R., 2087
Silber, M., 2081
Simic, C., 2068
Simpson, C., 2060
Simpson, L., 2069
Skinner, C. O., 2082
Smith, J. B., 2047
Smith, M. J., 2050
Smith, R. F., 2075
Smith, S. G., 2069
Sobieszek, R. A., 2053
Spencer, W., 2062
Starkey, L., 2062
Steiner, J. M., 2070
Stevens, R. T., 2087
Story, R., 2072
Sullivan, J. P., 2065
Syers, W. E., 2087

Tancock, J. L., 2051
Tennenhouse, L., 2066
Thomas, D., 2057
Thomas, P. A., 2020
Tice, G. A., 2053
Timpanaro, S., 2072
Tinnin, D. B., 2048
Townsend, P., 2057
Toynbee, A. J., 2068

Vonnegut, K., 2087

Wallace, G., 2057
Warren, R. P., 2069
Wason, B., 2063
Watson, D., 2066
Watson, J. W., 2062
Wearing, J. P., 2050
Weber, N. M., 2052
Welk, L., 2057
Westlake, D., 2088
White, E. B., 2057
White, J. V., 2053
Whiting, C., 2062
Whiting, R., 2081
Whitnah, D. L., 2063
Wilbur, C. M., 2057
Wilbur, R., 2066
Willett, J. W., 2073
Williams, A., 2088
Wilson, C., 2063
Winter, R., 2074
Wollenberg, C., 2048
Woman's almanac, 2050
Wong, P., 2070
Woods, R. D., 2051
Worswick, C., 2053
Worthy, W., 2048

Yarbro, C. Q., 2087

Zeman, Z., 2058

FIRST NOVELISTS

fall 1976

fifteen new writers discuss their first published novels

Donna Alverson
Drum Runnin' Fool
(Reader's Digest Pr.—October)
"I cannot recall a period of my life that I have not been involved in some way with the charismatic world of the horse. The love of horses is a family affair.

"My novel, Drum Runnin' Fool is the story of Jeep Honeycutt, the greatest quarter horse that I have owned during a lifetime with horses. Jeep Honeycutt, his indomitable courage and tremendous ability as an arena horse, exerted a great influence on my life. Drum Runnin' Fool is his story and the story of Anna Norman, the young woman whose life was molded by the ownership of Jeep Honeycutt.

"I owned Jeep 26 years. He died a pensioner at the age of 29 on April 28, 1976 and is buried on my farm. He left behind many good memories woven through the warp and woof of my life.

"I became interested in writing as a child, and during childhood composed lengthy poems and prose. With the desire to be the World's Champion barrel racer, I laid my literary dreams aside for a time.

"I did not write seriously again until 1968 when I retired from professional rodeo and became the editor of The Quarter Racing Record in Fort Worth, Texas.

"After a 3-year stint in that capacity, my son and I moved to Okeechobee, Florida. There I sold a First Person Award article to Reader's Digest based on an incident that happened to me and Jeep Honeycutt. There also, the first draft of Drum Runnin' Fool was completed.

"My philosophy: Steadfastly follow one's dreams. They will come true."

photo by Ernie Collins

Donna Alverson

N. J. Crisp
The Gotland Deal
(Viking—September)
"A number of my early short stories were published in Saturday Evening Post. Later, I turned to television, and the B.B.C. produced my first play in 1959.

"Since then, I have written countless hours of television drama, won awards, devised series, seen my work sold all over the world—and kept my children fed.

"I have explored various t.v. forms, original plays, series, and eventually multi part thriller serials, one of which, The Man Who Was Hunting Himself was shown in the U.S.A. under the Masterpiece Theatre banner. Perhaps I was ready to write a novel.

"The Gotland Deal concerns a man who finds himself in a situation where all the world is against him, and he does not know whom he can trust. In my eyes, our "civilisation" is an exceedingly fragile object, and the jungle is closer than we care to think.

"Some incidents in the book, although much altered, were real life events, which I came across in my research. The leading character, Detective Inspector Sidney Kenyon, is able, hard, ruthless, bends the rules, and has his own personal code of morality. Coppers and villains dance to the same tunes.

"The book contains both my impression of what it is really like to be an overworked C.I.D. officer in the increasingly violent London of today and the assertion that Russia is a dangerously aggressive, imperialist power. Unpleasant facts do not go away if we close our eyes.

"My second novel, The Odd Job Man, is now with my publishers. Its structure is more ambitious, and the leading character, George Griffin, is explored in greater depth, but I hope it is equally exciting. . . ."

Stephen Dixon
No Relief
(Street Fiction Pr.—October)
"What I have tried to do with each of these five pieces is write as well as I can at the time I was writing them. There is a connecting theme through all five pieces: no relief, just like the title says. I thought up the title for one of the stories, "No Relief," the concluding one, but I wasn't smart enough think up the title for the book. I wanted "Last May," the title of the novella. thought that because that piece was far the longest of the five, then it deserved to give its name to the title of e book. My editor, Warren Jay echt, didn't exactly disagree with me. hat he did was send me a postcard (after I sent him a letter why I wanted the le to be "Last May") with the word No Relief" written tall and wide and ing the only words on the card. It immediately struck me that he was right id I was wrong. "Last May" signifies thing except what it means to the sto- whose title it bears. No Relief wraps up for all the stories. Simply put, ithout wanting to say very much and ve away the ending, there is no relief life, in love, in dying. There are temrary exuberant stops, without which e would be unsustainable, or at least seems that way to me for the time ing, and "time being" can last for 60- years. Anyway, I've said too much. don't really have a philosophy or credable or credible religious belief. I ork on what I see and feel and under- and through my mind and senses—mple stuff, that—and from it all I try id create fiction. I think my fiction presents certain extremes. I think ve gone as far as I can with these exemes in these stories, but I hope to go rther than that with my future work. collection I'm working on now is actally called Extremes. I wish I had the wer to be even more extreme than I n now, but I don't have it yet, I may ever get it; so consider what I want to a fantasy unrealized and what I've ne a realization unfantasized.

"This is my first book to be published. I've been writing seriously now r about 18 years. I've had about 50 ories published, about 40 of them in e last three years. I have about 15 ore stories coming out in various litery magazines. . . ."

uth Tessler Goldstein
he Heart Is Half A Profit
Macmillan—November)
If I find that my writing has revealed eauty or in another way given pleare, I will be pleased. If when my characters—the unattractive as well as the dmirable—are unhappy, they are pitd, if readers come to appreciate that eneath our varied surfaces are similar ailties and flaws, if they hear the uted anguish and yearning, I will feel atified. And there are philosophic dimmas with which I have been struging a good part of my life that I try to xplore simply and yet engagingly.

"The characters in The Heart Is Half Profit, set principally in the urban overty of the nineteen thirties, wrestle ith their situation, with each other's roblems and pains, and with themelves—the higher self with the lower, eason with passion. They contend ith some of my dilemmas: Faith in od versus skepticism and whether the ad of rationality is the only one to uth. What is truth and what illusion? hich is ultimately more beneficial? nd how do we decide who among us is righteous? In subsequent writing I hope to continue pursuing these and other enigmas in different frameworks. But since there is little liklihood that I will arrive at ultimate verities, I want, at least, to jar self-righteousness and complacency and, at the same time, promote a fair share of forgiveness for ourselves as well as others. And I'd like to dispel gloom.

"My kind of childhood—culturally conflicted, economically deprived, lacking in intellectual or aesthetic encouragement—made the road ahead a bit rough and postponed certain possibilities, like writing a novel. But it did not, as popular belief would predict, make me an unhappy child or a dismal adult. I keep wondering what the magic ingredient was. Perhaps it was love. . . ."

Francine du Plessix Gray
Lovers and Tyrants
(S.&S.—October)
"Lovers and Tyrants is my third book and my first novel, and took 12 years to write. I began it in the winter of 1964 and finished it in the autumn of 1976, interrupting it for several years to write two volumes of non-fiction, "Divine Disobedience: Profiles in Catholic Radicalism," (Knopf, 1970) and "Hawaii: The Sugar-Coated Fortress," (Random House, 1972), both of which were serialized in The New Yorker Magazine.

"Lovers and Tyrants depicts one woman's life from earliest childhood memories to middle age, and is structured around eight critical periods of her growth to self-knowledge, of her attempts to liberate herself from a variety of oppressors. It follows her from her childhood in France through her picaresque schooling in New York, her tempestuous sexual relationships with several lovers, her engagements in many major conflicts of modern times—marriage, the sixties' politics, the feminist movement, religious quests. The book's main theme is the painful ambivalence toward the irreconcilable poles of love and liberation, security and freedom, which particularly marks the lives of women. Towards the book's end, the heroine is led to the verge of a nervous breakdown by the contradictions of a highly civilized, rigidly structured marriage, and seeks refuge with a young bisexual twenty years younger than herself who refuses to accept the rigors of "civilization and its discontents"—indeed I often view my book as a fable upon that particular essay of Sigmund Freud's.

"I have meant this novel to be a feminist work in the deepest sense of the word—it intensely communicates female selfhood and sexuality, and portrays the measures of oppression we still suffer after a century of feminist efforts to defeat them. And yet I have profoundly taken to heart Virginia Woolf's advice to stay away from all feminist rhetoric and polemical language, to never consciously plead a cause, to achieve my ends through the power of metaphor and narrative, in other words, of art.

Gael Greene

Gael Greene
Blue Skies, No Candy
(Morrow—October)
"I am a reader. I read novels. I grew up reading—lining up novels and devouring them with a passion one might associate with secret forbidden wickedness. Journalism was how I would earn my living—first as an investigative reporter for the New York Post, then free lancing for magazines, now as New York Magazine's restaurant critic. There were three books, all journalism. But a novel—that was creation of a higher order. No wonder it was so difficult and took so long.

"Blue Skies, No Candy, a line from a poem by a Chinese artist. What does it mean? Life is so beautiful. Why aren't I happy? That is Kate Alexander, confronting her own anxiety. Kate the successful screenwriter and self-styled great American adulteress. I started out to write a novel about how difficult it is to be a successful woman. Only after I began writing did I realize how much this book would be about sex. For Kate Alexander, sex has become the antidote for a growing malaise. In bed she recaptures a sense of the womanliness she seems to lose in her work. In bed she is passive, submissive—she plays fantasy games, classic female roles: victim, queen, slave. The book is funny, I hope because, thank heaven, Kate can see the humor in it all. Kate sees everything with a kind of camera eye, rewriting her life into old movie scenes. She has a curious distance and a maddening lack of self-awareness. But Blue Skies, No Candy is also about a certain kind of marriage—a loving dependency—and about an extraordinary sexual obsession—Kate's uncontrollable exploration of sexuality with her urbane cowboy, Jason.

"Writing this book, I became caught up in the challenge of communicating the touch, smell, taste, texture, temperature of what making love feels like for this woman. The novel is written in the present tense deliberately for the sense of now. I wanted the reader to feel with Kate. Her restlessness, her frustration, her pain and terror, the ecstasy, shock, sexual exhaustion, that feeling of vulnerability, the love that burns your skin away.

"I won't stop writing my columns about food and restaurants: the food world provides a life too heady to abandon. But I have begun work on a new novel, The Sexual Archives of Dr. Barney Kincaid, trying to crawl into the mind and sense of a man as he tells his story. I'm not sure I will be successful but I'm loving the challenge. . . ."

Leonard Harris

Joseph Howatch

Leonard Harris
The Masada Plan
(Crown—October)
"In what it seems like another life, when I was a critic and interviewer, Tennessee Williams inscribed four volumes of his plays to me with something like, "still it continues—and continues—and continues." He was referring to his career, and I thought it egotistical of him to dwell on himself in an inscription to me. Only now do I understand the immense, justifiable pride a writer feels in his work. In the planning, writing, revising, not to mention the dreaming, the discovery, the agonizing. Quality is not the point here; Williams is, I'm sure, no prouder than I. God knows The Masada Plan is no Streetcar, or Menagerie, or Cat, and I am no Williams. Let me make that clear! But I'm proud of my work, and now I understand his pride.

"Now, for the first time, I understand many things. Writing one novel has taught me more about art, the creative process, than I learned in a dozen years as a critic.

"Once I had the nerve to ask Williams if Blanche duBois were really he. Yes, he said. All his characters were he, in a way. Once Harold Pinter told me, when he put a clean sheet in his typewriter he never knew what would appear. Once Neil Simon told me he used to outline a play before writing it. But the play never wanted to stay in the outline, so he finally learned to let it go its own way.

"Now, for the first time, I understand all that.

"I began The Masada Plan as a Doomsday story, an adventure, and it still is that, I hope. But in writing it, I began to experience startling, exhilarating revelations. Expansions of my awareness. Deep excavations into my memories. Tough battles with the unresolved theses and antitheses which play tennis in my conscious mind. None of this ever happened to me before, not as a newspaperman, TV critic, radio interviewer, communications teacher, dabbling actor, or any of the other things I've done.

"I suppose I'm too old to be a first novelist, but it is a designation I claim happily. I'll be even prouder to claim a second novel—I'm half way through a rough draft of one now—and a third, and so forth. I'm a long way from those other guys I mentioned, but it doesn't matter. I'll get better. Maybe never close to them, but it doesn't matter. I'm proud and happy, and if the river stays 'way from my door, expect to continue—and continue. . . ."

Joseph Howatch
Antonio, Antonia
(Houghton—October)
"To an outsider, a reader of newspaper reports, Antonio Contiorli might appear a first-rate villain—a swindler, slanderer, traitor to his country and murderer of his wife, son and infant daughter, Antonia. The narrators of the story, however, find him an exceptional man; noble, compassionate, loyal, courageous, loving—a man with an extraordinary capacity for joy, and a man incapable of hurting anyone.

"The concept of 'blame' intrigues me and a central theme of the novel is the occurrence of tragedies without any apparent villain, just as in life.

"Humankind has the habit of assigning responsibility to someone for having done something wrong, thereby ruining things for the rest of us. Often this process has value, but perhaps even more often 'blaming' becomes a means of explaining the world. As soon as we can assign responsibility for an error or tragedy, we feel satisfied that we've pursued a puzzle to its end. Blaming is a curious phenomenon which in the known universe occurs only among humans. I think it is an anti-life process, one which stops flow and progression because it prevents us from understanding the world and ourselves.

"Mostly, I suppose, I wrote the novel in order to set free in the world a group of characters who have intrigued and inspired me."

Nonie Carol Murphy
Mutal Arrangements
(S. & S.—October)
"Having appeared on over 100 commercials and producing some of my own, it seemed quite natural for me to use my intimate knowledge of the television world as a background for Mutual Arrangments. Behind the scenes revelations and the intrigue of a high powered industry have always held great appeal to readers. Because I had a message, something I felt was important to say, I wanted to reach the largest audience possible. Deciding to make my novel a commercial one, without compromising the integrity of any of the characters, I saw no reason why—where appropriate and honest—business intrigue and sex shouldn't be included. It was just as easy to couch what I had to say in commercial tone as esoteric ones, and adventure, twists and turns of plot and tension haven't diminished any truths.

"Mutual Arrangements concerns a symbiotic relationship between a woman and her 23 year old daughter. Angie cannot seem to escape her overly possessive mother and their 'neurotic arrangement.' She feels trapped, unaware of the terrifying secret that it really holds. She only knows her private agony: her self-destructive preoccupation with food. Powerless to control her bouts with compulsive overeating, she throws up afterwards in order to maintain the 'perfect' image of herself. Her body is the only thing she feels she can control that is outside her mother's influence. And it leads her to a shocking revelation. . . ."

Toby Olson
The Life of Jesus
(New Directions—November)
"I've come to think of much of my writing (both poetry and fiction) as being like a 'salvage operation,' a way of rescuing and preserving, and hopefully finding a shared meaning in, events from my own personal history.

"To a boy raised in the bosom of the Catholic Church in the early 1940's, the life of Jesus and the Holy Family was felt as his own idealized autobiography. His mother was of course a Virgin. His father, who was ill and died young, was more a watcher than a participant. And he himself was guilty, because he was not Jesus and could not cure his father. The Life of Jesus is a result of that somewhat tortured matrix.

"As the novel proceeds from the fairy-tale like childhood of Jesus through his public life of miracles, temptations, and teachings, it moves close to autobiography. Only after Jesus has lived through the difficulties of being neither completely God nor Man is he able to proceed to his own necessary death, to return to his father. . . ."

Leslie M. Silko
Ceremony
(Viking—January)
"I grew up with storytelling. My earliest memories are of my grandmother telling me stories while she watered the morning glories in her rd. Her stories were about incidents om long ago, incidents which ocrred before she was born but which e told as certainly as if she had been ere when they happened. The Lana Pueblo people have always had e highest regard for the oral literature cause it contains all our history; the ories hold our very identity as a com-unity, as a group of people. It is only cism and ethnocentrism which has inded the non-Indian scholars to the ct that the storytelling of Native nerican communities is among the ost sophisticated of all literary forms.

"Ceremony is full of stories, begin-ng with the creation story as the old ople from Laguna know it—when
'its'tsi'nako, Thought Woman, eated the Universe simply by think-g of the stars and planets. Although me of the stories are from long ago, uch of the novel deals with the great nflicts which the World War II veters brought with them when they rerned to the Reservation. The main aracter is a young veteran who is ying to recover from the alcoholism d despair which afflicts him and any others of his generation. As the vel follows his search for a "cure" to is illness, the old stories and beliefs out witchcraft and Evil must also be plored in order to understand the car-ge and brutality of the 20th Century.
the end, it is the old story about the other Creator and her love for the ople which leads the main character a search which becomes a ritual;
m this ritual search, a powerful new ring ceremony emerges.
"In this novel, as in all my short stos and poetry, I want the non-Indian rld to be able to experience and to e the world which Laguna Pueblo ve me. I believe that is the greatest ntribution a community can make: to ve other human beings new visions, w perspectives with which to see eation. . . ."

aren Snow
illo treet Fiction Press—October)
'd been writing Willo, in patches of rdwon solitude, for about 14 years, hen my husband announced that he as about to retire, prematurely, from s career in government. With that litude threatened, I frantically pared the sprawling manuscript to fifth of its volume and submitted the capsule to a series of editors.

"Although I've been writing since the age of seven, I scarcely think of myself as an author. The process is therapy, and only insofar as an occasional someone-out-there responds to it does it feel like art. In spite of a master's degree from the University of Michigan, two major Hopwood awards, and some poems in the Beloit Poetry Journal, I'm not a literary person. I have read little and absorbed less. In the working class home of my childhood, there were no books except a Sears catalogue, the Holy Bible, and some shabby Peter Rabbit books salvaged from the neighborhood paper mill. Maybe that's why I'm less a reader than a dreamer. . . ."

Stanley Stewart
The King James Version
(Random—January)
"From the day the Overbury scandal broke over 17th-Century London, broadsides, pamphlets, histories, plays, novels and poems have tried to capture the horrors of the complex conspiracy behind it. I wrote The King James Version with two major aims in mind: first, to write an entertaining and exciting book about the most celebrated scandal ever to shake the English aristocracy; and second, more fully than my predecessors, to exploit the literary possibilities of a momentous state drama in which authors (King James, John Donne, Francis Bacon, et al.) played important roles.

"Through the subject of drama and fiction and historical speculation from the 17th Century on, the scandal surrounding the "nullity" trial and Overbury's controversial imprisonment has never received very spirited treatment; this nobody's fault. Until quite recent times literary norms made candid representation of Lady Frances Howard's activities impermissible. In The King James Version the desires and ambitions of Lady Frances emerge against the resisting medium of court intrigue and social ferment in the years following the death of Elizabeth, the succession of James, and the Gunpowder Plot. It is ironic that this, the most corrupt, self-indulgent court of English history, is associated in the popular mind with Holy Writ. . . ."

Clifford Stone
The Great Sunflower
(Vanguard—June)
"In The Great Sunflower I set out to express what I felt had happened to an actual New England town during the 1960's. In this time New London, Connecticut underwent a radical transformation as extensive areas of that historic city were obliterated in an attempt at "renewal." I believed what passed in New London was representative of a phenomenon in the United States during the decade: a sacrificing of a city's soul for an impersonal plastic vision, and the irreplaceable loss to us all.

"Of course, I also wanted to try my hand at writing. The Great Sunflower was my first attempt at a long piece of prose and at 25 it would be premature to claim I have a fixed literary theory. I did find myself working under several considerations: develop a viable aesthetic, tell a good story, struggle with that uniquely American concern which rejects art for art in favor of the "moral" novel, and more. Also having been a French major in college there was the great influence of a literature exterior to my own culture and in many ways opposed to it, and a need to reconcile the two.
"Writing is primarily self-discovery. I am still surprised at some things I wrote in my novel, even more surprised at some things other have found. The bare-bonedness of it all can be frightening at times. Even in my current work, a historical novel where it is so much easier to submerge oneself and hide, this aspect works through. For myself this is writing's greatest risk. Happily, the writer can have the fine reward of knowing he has touched with his work, which is perhaps what the risk is and really should be all about."

Clarissa Watson
The Fourth Stage of Gainsborough Brown
(McKay—January)
"There has hardly ever been a time when I was not either reading, drawing or writing. As a child whiling away the lovely summers on the shores of Lake Superior, I read my way through every book in the Children's department of the Ashland Public Library, Ashland, Wisconsin, and was graduated to the adult section lest I run out of things to read. I recall a particular pleasure in the books—was it?—of Joseph Altshuller and in anything at all to do with either the Civil War or American Indians.

"During those same years, inspired by my cousin's German governess, I was drawing everything in sight. During the winters in Milwaukee I went dutifully to Saturday art classes at the Layton Art School. Habits learned then of keeping pencils and paints at hand remain to this day.

"The Fourth Stage of Gainsborough Brown is on one level a novel of suspense. On an entirely different level it is an expression of my rueful affection for this art world I know so well through my work as a gallery owner and director."

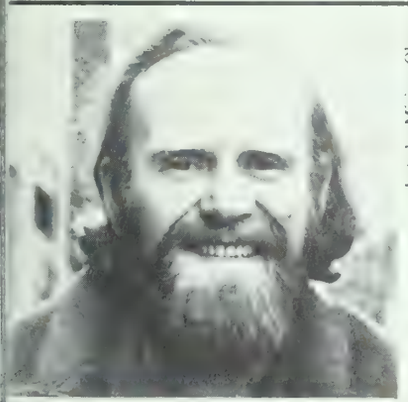

photo by Miriam Olson

Toby Olson

photo by Charles Clopsey

Stanley Stewart

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

All advertisements for the Positions Open and the Positions Wanted classifications will be edited to exclude direct or indirect references to race, creed, color, age, and sex as conditions of employment. Positions open and positions wanted, $1.70 per line, minimum charge, $5.10, all other types of ads, $2.60 per line, minimum charge $7.80. If vouches forms are required for billing, please send them at the time advertisements are submitted for insertion. Copy for ads and requests for cancellations must be received at the LJ office 45 days preceding date of issue. Write: Classified Advertising Department, Library Journal, 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10036.

OUT-OF-PRINT

EXCLUSIVE WANT LISTS get prompt attention, wide search, reasonable prices, from International Bookfinders, Inc., Box 1-LJ, Pacific Palisades, Calif. 90272.

COLONIAL "out-of-print" Book Service, Inc. Want Lists invited, 23 E. 4th St., New York City 10003.

EXCLUSIVE WANT LISTS advertised & searched plus 150,000 vol. indexed stock. PAB 2917 Atlantic, Atlantic City, NJ 08401.

IRREGULAR SERIALS are one of our specialties. Foreign books and periodicals, current and out-of-print. Albert J. Phiebig Inc., Box 352, White Plains, N.Y. 10602.

WE FIND BOOKS. Free International Search. Exclusive want lists invited. Realistic prices. Eva Davis Books. 108 Prince Charles, Williamsburg, VA 23185.

OUT OF PRINT books located. Send in title, author to: Free Search Service, Dept. LJ, 41 Union Square West, New York, NY 10003.

MAGAZINES—BACK NUMBER

INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY Booksellers, Inc., 101 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10003. We buy: Would like to hear of periodical backfiles of scholarly significance, individual titles or entire collections, surplus to your present needs. We sell: We carry one of the most comprehensive inventories of periodicals in all fields and langauges and are a major supplier to academic libraries in all parts of the world. Call or write Mr. Becker.

BACK ISSUE MAGAZINES, general, scholarly, technical. Designed to serve high school and jr. college libraries. Please send want lists to Back Issues West; P.O. Box 6688, Tucson, Arizona 85716.

BUY, TRADE, SELL National Geographic Magzines & related material. Box 30045, Denver, CO 80230.

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC Magazine: (1888-1976) Any issue from 1910. (Fine cond.) Reasonable. Price list furn. Don Smith, 3830 Rankin St., Louisville, KY 40214.

LACKING ISSUES. Subscribers to journals listed in Science Citation Index have a good chance of immediately locating lacking issues for years 1970-1975 with the Replacement Serials Section of M.S.I., the worldwide back-issue house. Please address your queries to Maxwell Scientific International (now a Pergamon Press, Inc. division), Fairview Park, Elmsford, New York 10523.

OVER 2,000,000 backdate magazines. Send want lists. Magazine Center, Room 406, 145 West 29th, New York, NY 10001.

MICROFORMS

MICROFORMS. Good second-hand microfilm of periodicals of established micropublishers bought and sold. Write or call Microforms International Marketing Company, Fairview Park, Elmsford, New York 10523. (914) 592-9141.

SERVICES—PERSONNEL

THERESA M. BURKE Employment Agency, 8 West 40th St., N.Y., N.Y. 10018. Specializing in the recruitment of library and information personnel for special, academic, and public libraries.

FOR SALE

BOOKMOBILES: Two 35' Gerstenslagers. Rebuilt engines, low mileage, mech. excel., auxiliary gen., air, plush carpeting, paneled walls, new custom shelving, structurally sound, body condition good, blue with gold trim. $7,500 each. Choctaw Nation Multi-County Library System, 401 North 2nd, McAlester, Oklahoma 74501, (918) 426-0456.

CHEMICAL ABSTRACTS 1926-1969, Volumé 20 through 71, with 3rd, 4th and 5th Decennial Indices, all bound and in very fine condition. Contact R. W. Martin, The Trane Company, La Crosse, Wisconsin 54601. Telephone: (608) 782-8000, ext. 2288.

WANTED TO BUY

WANTED: OLD CBI'S. Pre 1957. Will a range pick-up or shipping, etc. Please co tact: Craig Joyce, Reference Dept. The I brary, 2 Jean Walling Civic Center, Ea
Brunswick, N.J. 08816. (201) 254-1220.

POSITIONS WANTED

CATALOGER, four years' experience, d sires position preferably in Southwest. F miliar with OCLC, LC class, and both mon graphic and serial cataloging. Total of years' experience including bibliograph searching, govt. doc. collection, general re erence & bookmobile. Currently working able to wait until early 1977 for right po tion. Enjoys challenging, professional friendly atmosphere. G 88.

POSITIONS OPEN—NORTHEAST

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR for Technic
Services: Administrative responsibility f planning and directing of all areas of techr cal services. Graduate library science d gree and extensive professional experienc in academic technical services. Strong s pervisory, directing and administrative abi ty. Imagination and initiative to plan an e fective and responsive technical servic facility and program. Familiarity with med cataloging and library automation nece sary. Position available January 1, 1977. Sa ary $16,783 (12 months). State mandate benefits. Send résumé to: Raymond Frankle, Director of Library Service
Stockton State College, Pomona, NJ 0823
Affirmative action/equal opportunity er ployer.

TECHNICAL SERVICES Supervisor—S
Librarian. Two years public library catalo ing experience and Master's degree in brary science required. Position is in the ci il service with very liberal fringe benef and a salary scale of $11,622-$14,528. Se résumé and list of references to: Richard
Sweeney, Library Director, Atlantic Ci
Free Public Library, Illinois and Pacific Av
nues, Atlantic City, N.J. 08401 by Octob
31, 1976.

BRARY DIRECTOR: Imaginative, ener-ic, and management-oriented library di-tor needed to administer a broad program quality library service in a community of 000 in western Suffolk County, Long Is-d, New York. 1976-77 operating budget 107,452. Total staff of 90 with over 20 pro-sionals. A minimum of six years' experi-e after M.L.S. including substantial com-nity relations and administrative experi-e. Salary open. Send detailed résumé references to Dr. Anthony Uzzo, Presi-t, Board of Trustees, Half Hollow Hills mmunity Library, 55 Vanderbilt Park-y, Dix Hills, N.Y. 11746.

BRARIAN III: Organizing and maintain-periodicals collection and services, gen-l reference work, and inter-library loan. elve month faculty appointment. Salary ge: $12,300-16,946. Requirements: ALA accredited M.L.S. plus second Master's 30 additional credits, and three (3) years' perience in periodical/reference. Position ective December 1, 1976. Send appli-ion and résumé by October 22, 1976 to: s. Helen G. Shaughnessy, Director of rsonnel, Worcester State College, 486 andler Street, Worcester, MA 01602. An ual opportunity/affirmative action em-yer.

POSITIONS OPEN—NORTHWEST

TALOG LIBRARIAN: to catalog mono-phs and other non-serial material, using C, with some original cataloging includ-ALA accredited M.L.S. or equivalent owledge of one or more modern foreign guages required, Russian preferred. At st one year of academic library experi-ce preferred. Salary up to $11,500 depend-t upon qualifications. Faculty rank, nor-l benefits. Contact: Dean of Library Serv-, University of Montana, Missoula, MT 801 (406-243-6800) by November 1, 1976. e University of Montana is an equal op-rtunity employer.

POSITIONS OPEN—MIDWEST

BRARY SCIENCE faculty position, fall 77. Teach multi-media concepts in librar-, library services to children and young ults, other core courses or advanced urses depending on interest and back-ound. Teaching load 9 semester hours one m, 6 hours the other. M.A. and Ph.D. or ndidate in L.S. Library experience, pref-bly in public library, and teaching experi-ce. Minimum beginning salary as assistant fessor, $14,500; additional for summer m. Student enrollment limited to 75. od fringe benefits, working and living con-ions. Send résumé to: Frederick Weze-n, Director, School of Library Science, niversity of Iowa, 3087 Library, Iowa y, Iowa 52242. Telephone (319) 353-3644.

POSITIONS OPEN—SOUTHEAST

EFERENCE-CIRCULATION. Assistant niversity Librarian. Performs reference nctions, including MEDLINE. Supervises rsonnel at circulation and reserve desk. aduation from college with Master's de-ee in Library Science; or any equivalent mbination of experience and training. One ar's experience in library work. Salary: ,328. Open November 19, 1976. Apply to: la Bowen, Head, Public Services, Medi-l Center Library, 12901 North 30th Street, ox 31, University of South Florida, Tam-. Florida 33612. An equal opportunity/af-mative action employer.

ART LIBRARIAN: Head of art college library collection consisting of approximately 13,000 monographs (all visual art), 200 periodicals, audiovisual department and slide collection of 25,000. Responsible for collection development, reference service, original cataloging, and supervision of professional, clerical and student staff of 7. Required Master's degree from ALA accredited library school, plus minimum of 3 years' progressive library experience, preferably in an art library. Art background essential although non-masters will be considered. Salary commensurate with experience and qualifications. Send résumé and names of 3 references, preferably from former employers, to: Sarah Daniels, Acting Librarian, Atlanta College of Art, 1280 Peachtree St., N.W., Atlanta, Georgia 30309. No applications accepted after November 15. An equal opportunity employer.

LIBRARIES DIRECTOR, expanding state-supported institution near Washington, D.C. Fourteen full-time professional librarians; SOLINET member. Current enrollment 8,500. Sixteen Master's degree programs. Responsibilities: (1) Direct modern university library, central part of five-member consortium. (2) Implement modern administrative procedures, including participatory management. (3) Develop/implement long-range planning. (4) Work with deans, faculty, administrators, and students in achieving University goals. Qualifications: (1) M.L.S. minimum. (2) Five years managerial experience in academic or research library. (3) Demonstration of scholarly and/or professional growth. Appointment: January, 1977, or soon as possible thereafter. Salary range: $23,000-$26,000. Send letter, résumé, three references by November 1, 1976 to: Chairperson, Library Director Search Committee, 3307 Robinson Hall, George Mason University, Fairfax, Virginia 22030. AA/EOE.

POSITIONS OPEN—SOUTHWEST

SUPERVISOR for Mesquite Public Library. M.L.S. degree from ALA accredited university. Experience needed with demonstrated administrative ability. Small library with potential to grow. 3 weeks vacation, sick leave, Blue-Cross Blue Shield health and life insurance and other fringe benefits. Salary $956–$1,281 per month. Contact: Mrs. Nelleen S. Womack, City Librarian, Mesquite, Texas 75149.

CHAIRPERSON: Department of Educational Technology and Library Science, Arizona State University. The department offers academic programs in educational technology (M.A. and Ph.D.), instructional media (M.A.), and school librarianship (B.A. minor and M.A.). Desired qualifications include (1) five or more years of post-doctoral experience in educational technology, instructional development, or library education; (2) a distinguished professional record as indicated by publications, research and development activities, and/or leadership in professional organizations; and (3) experience in program development in a university or educational research and development agency. Rank: Professor or Associate Professor. Salary open. Starting date: January or July, 1977, subject to availability of successful applicant. Application deadline: Nov. 15, 1976. Send letter of interest and vita to Dr. Robert E. Grinder, Associate Dean, College of Education, Arizona State University, Tempe, AZ 85281. A written description of the department will be furnished upon request.

POSITIONS OPEN—WEST

ASSISTANT HEAD, Technical Services Department (Cataloging). As an assistant head, shares with the head responsibility for the administration of the department which is comprised of four divisions and has a staff of 83.5 career positions. Gives general direction to all cataloging activities. The cataloging division, with a staff of 17 librarians and 22 staff personnel, has an annual output of approx. 55,000 titles. Candidate must have an M.L.S. and at least ten years of successful professional work in a large academic library, five of these in an administrative capacity in technical services. Must have recent cataloging experience, both with monographs and serials, and must have experience working with an automated cataloging system, preferably in an OCLC participating library. Salary range: $20,268-$25,512. Send résumé to: Anthony Greco, Assistant University Librarian, University of California, Los Angeles, CA 90024. An equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

HEAD, PUBLIC AFFAIRS Service. Administration of the Public Affairs Service: planning, organizing, directing, monitoring, and coordinating the activities of the department. Candidate must have an M.L.S., a minimum of ten years' professional library experience including at least five years experience in a large documents department, and proven management ability. Salary range: $20,268-$25,512. Send résumé to: Anthony Greco, Assistant University Librarian, University of California, Los Angeles, CA 90024. An equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

DIRECTOR of Technical Services in new learning activities resource center incorporating library and media services. Under general direction of associate director of libraries, will have major responsibility for planning, directing, and coordinating efforts of technical services division consisting of order, serials, and catalog departments. Participation in development or improvement of library policies. Involvement in planning for use of automated and computerized procedures in technical services. Staff consists of twenty-five positions, including five librarians. Annual budget over $500,000 for books, periodicals, non-print media, binding, equipment, and supplies. Qualifications: Graduate degree from an ALA accredited school of library science, plus second Master's degree in appropriate discipline or equivalent academic or professional achievement and experience. Minimum of four years of professional experience involving supervision in technical processing areas of academic library essential. Experience with automated procedures desirable. Familiarity with concepts and techniques of computerization as it involves technical processes essential. Experience in cataloging, acquisition, and/or serials work necessary. Salary range: $17,304-$20,856 (associate librarian). Tenure-track position. Applications and résumés by November 1 to: Dwight W. Shannon, Associate Director of Libraries, California State Univeristy, Chico-Chico, CA 95929. An equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

INDEX TO ADVERTISERS

Abingdon Press 1890, 1891
Adrian Press 2025
Alaska Travel Publications 2025
Howard Allen Enterprises 2025
American Enterprise Institute 2025
American Society of Agricultural Engineers 1998
Acro Publishing Co. 1892, 1893, 2081
Arlington House 1894
Atheneum Publishers 1895

B & H Books 2025
Baker & Taylor Co. 1985, 1997
Barnes & Noble 1896
Beinfeld Publishing 2027
Beta Books 1897
Bobbs-Merrill Co. 1898
R. R. Bowker Co. 1900, 1901, 1980, 1988, 2002
George Braziller 1899
Brigham Young University Press 1902
Brodart 1991
Brooke House Publishing 1903

CRC Press 2029
Cambridge University Press 1904
Capra Press 2027
Celestial Arts 1905
Chelsea-Lee Books 2081
Col-Bob Associates 2055
Columbia University Press 2052
Community Law Reports 2078
Congressional Quarterly 2069
Cornell University Press 1906
Coward, McCann & Geoghegan 2054
Thomas Y. Crowell Co. 1908, 1909, 2048, 2063, 2080
Crown Publishers 1907

Dance Horizons 1910
Davey Co. 1992
Definition Press 2031
Delacoret Press 1912, 1913
Dial Press 1911, 2087
Dodd, Mead & Co. 1916
Dow Jones & Co. 2059
Dow Jones-Irwin 2058

E. P. Dutton & Co. 1914, 1915
Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Co. 1917
Emerson Books 2080
Evergreen Press 2027

Facts on File 2031
Farrar, Straus & Giroux 1918
F. W. Faxon Co. 2048
Les Femmes Publishing 2029
Florida Educational Paperbacks 1996
Fortress Press 2033
Franklin Watts 2050
Free Press 2077

Gale Research Co. 2046
Gaylord Bros. 1994, 1995

Herbert K. Goodkind 2066
Greenwood Press 1919
Grove Press 1920

G. K. Hall & Co. 1921
Hamlyn/America 1922
Harper & Row, Publishers 2057
Harvard University Press 1923
Hastings House, Publishers 1924
Victor Hotho & Co. 1925
Huntington Library Publications 2029

Impact Publishers 2031
Independent Publishers Group 1927
Institute for the Advancement of Philosophy for Children 2035
Inter American University Press 2035
International School Services 1996

Janus Press 2031
Japan Publications Trading Co. 1928
Johns Hopkins University Press 2035
Judson Press 2059

Neil A. Kjos Music Co. 2033
Alfred A. Knopf 1930
Kodansha International 1931
Krause Publications 2033

Larousse & Co. 1932
Liberty Fund 1934, 1935
J. B. Lippincott Co. 1933, 2054, 2056, 2075
Little, Brown & Co. 1936, 2055, 2083, 2085
Longman 1937

M.I.T. Press 1938
McGraw-Hill Book Co. 1939
McGregor Magazine Agency 1992
Macmillan Co. 1940, 1941, 1942, 2049, 2067
Mason/Charter Publishers 1943
Microfilming Corp. of America 4th Cover

Naval Institute Press 1946, 1947
New American Library 1945
New Republic Book Co. 1948
NewsBank 1993
New York Graphic Society 2053
Northland Press 1950
Northwest Regional Educational Laboratory 2033
W. W. Norton & Co. 1951

Ohio Library Foundation 2035
Ohio University Press 1952
Ontario Institute for Studies in Education 2035
Orbis Books 1953
Oxmoor House 1954, 1955

Pantheon Books 19
Penguin Books 1957, 1958, 19
Praeger Publishers 20
Prentice-Hall 19
Princeton University Press 1960, 19
G. P. Putnam's Sons 2056, 20

Quail Street Publishing Co. 1982, 2

Rand McNally & Co. 19
Random House 19
Religious Publishing Co. 20
Rodale Press 19
Rutgers University Press 19

St. Martin's Press 2076, 2084, 20
Sage Publications 20
Charles Scribner's Sons 19
Sheed Andrews and McMeel 19
Simon & Schuster 19
Standard Change-Makers 19
Stanford University Press 19
Stein & Day Publishers 19
George F. Stickley Co. 20
Symmes Systems 20

Taft Products 20
Taplinger Publishing Co. 19
Temple University Press 20
Today Publications & News Service 2nd Cov

United Nations 20
Universe Books 19
University of Illinois Press 19
University of Nebraska Press 19
University of North Carolina Press 19
University of South Dakota Press 20
University Press of Kentucky 19
University Press of Virginia 20
Urizen Books 3rd Cov

Viking Press 1974, 1975, 19

Walker & Co. 19
John Weatherhill 19
Wesleyan University Press 20
Westminster Press 1978, 20
Winchester Press 19
Wine Consultants of California 20

Yale University Press 19

OCTOBER 15, 1976/ISSN 0000-0027

LIBRARY JOURNAL

LJ

The $50 Reading Machine and Other Micromarvels
User Environment and Attitudes in an Academic Microform Center
The Display Medium and the Price of the Message
In the News: Ohio court bars book seizure by school boards;
OCLC appoints advisory council; $$ slashing in U.S. and abroad

94010JAN12 76 10 1JA0509
Burlingame Pub Lib
480 Primrose Rd.
Burlingame, CA 94010

MICROFORM ISSUE

How four major academi up to 88% with the "Tattle

Book Losses: The perennial drain on budgets.

Two generations ago, [illegible] patrons would dream of stealing a book from a library. A book was a sacred thing, and the library represented the means by which people could find precious knowledge and make their way up in the world.

Today, we're living in a different world. Patrons know how easy it is to steal books, and they know the odds of getting caught are miniscule. And a strange new "morality" in many peer groups deems book thefts acceptable.

You can wish for the old days, but they're not coming back.

So unless you want your good patrons to suffer because of your bad patrons, the only alternative is to stop book thefts. And it can be done. The following case studies show how four large universities did just that.

Case One: A large Midwestern university

During the period from Winter Quarter 1970 to Winter Quarter 1974, this university conducted sixteen separate inventories of their Core Collection (36,000 volumes) to determine the severity of their book loss problem.

During the Fall Quarter of 1972, the library installed a "Tattle-Tape" Book Detection System to protect this Collection.

What effect did it have on losses? This is a quotation from the official report:

"As shown on the summary below, 44 books were lost during this sixth quarter with the electronic security system. When compared to Winter Quarter 1971, this figure represents an 89 percent reduction in the number of books lost. When compared to Winter Quarter 1972, this is an 88 percent reduction in losses."

Case Two: A Canadian university library

This university library conducted sample stock-takings in 1970 and 1971 that indicated an average annual loss rate of approximately 2.5 percent, which would have a monetary replacement value of approximately $125,000 per annum.

After installation of a "Tattle-Tape" system, a complete inventory was conducted in 1972 and again in 1973, using specially designed print-outs from the library's automated catalogue records to ensure accuracy. In comparing the 1973 holdings with those in 1972, the new loss rate was established at .5 percent, a decrease of 80 percent from the previous years.

Case Three: A Western university

The first complete inventory in eight years was made at this library during the installation of a "Tattle-Tape" system. Comparison of the actual number of volumes missing with the shelf list information showed an annual loss rate of 1.5 percent. Not included in this figure, however, were the number of items withdrawn over the period because they had been declared lost. "Including braries cut book losses ape®"Book Detection System.

these, the loss rate would have been closer to 2 percent annually."

During the first year of operation, a sample inventory of 27,278 volumes was taken at the end of the first semester and again at the end of the second semester. This inventory indicated "...a missing rate of 0.74 percent for the year or a reduction of the missing rate by more than 50% from the previous 1.5 to 2.0 percent."

Case Four: A large Eastern university

Anticipating the installation of a book detection system, slips representing 4,491 monographs (added January-June 1969) were collected. An inventory of these was taken early in 1970 and 10.2 percent were reported missing. A parallel study was made involving 5,832 volumes (added September 1970-April 1971) after the installation of a "Tattle-Tape" system. The results from this study showed only 1.8 percent were reported missing.

In addition, it was found that open shelf losses in two specific libraries dropped from slightly more than 8 percent to less than 1 percent.

In the official report, library officials noted that "...a most surprising thing is that students who are caught show no apparent sense of guilt when they are called back to the desk."

Better service for patrons.

Important as the fact is that the "Tattle-Tape" system really works...is what it means to you. And that, simply, is that it lets you give better service to your patrons.

Books no longer "disappear." They can be kept on the shelves, available for patron use.

And your funds can be used to buy more new books for your patrons rather than to replace those lost.

3M's interest in libraries.

The "Tattle-Tape" Book Detection System is just a part of our growing commitment to the library field. We are also servicing libraries in areas such as microfilm equipment and cataloging information services. And we recently introduced our 3M Brand Inventory Control System, a completely new, state-of-the-art, automated system that we are confident will become the standard of the industry.

It is our intention here at 3M to put together a whole division whose mission is to work with libraries and assist them in improving their services and capabilities. We know your job is to spread knowledge to Americans everywhere... and that's a goal we'd like to help you reach.

To learn more about our products, write to 3M Company, Library Systems, Bldg. 220-9E, 3M Center, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101. Detailed reports on the university case studies above are also available upon request.

Tattle-Tape®
So you can run a lending library. Instead of a stealing library.

Library Systems 3M COMPANY
MICROFILM PRODUCTS DIVISION
3M CENTER · SAINT PAUL MINNESOTA 55101

WE AT PERGAMON ARE TRYING HARDER— EVEN IN MICROFORMS

Pergamon Journals

Pergamon Press' publishing program for 1977 includes some 250 research and review journals, internationally recognized as major publications in the pure and applied sciences, the behavioral and social sciences, medicine and education.

For each journal we are producing:

- A microfiche edition distributed simultaneously with the paper edition.
- A microfilm edition distributed upon completion of the publication schedule each year.
- All back files on microfilm. There are over a million pages of back files readily available, in open reels or cartridges. Back files on microfiche are in active production.
- Paper reproduction (copyflo), from microfilm, of any out-of-print back issue.

Pergamon Books

Pergamon Press publishes several hundred books and monographs each year. There are some 3,000 titles on our active back list, and over 2,000 titles are officially out-of-print.

Each out-of-print book can still be supplied:

- In microfilm; in microfiche.
- In paper reproduction, from the film.

U.S. Serial Publications

In 1975, Pergamon began to micropublish INDEX MEDICUS and its cumulations, and in 1976 expanded its micropublishing to include 67 U.S. Government serial publications.

For 1977, Pergamon offers a combination subscription to U.S. Government serial publications, including a simultaneous edition in microfiche and an annual edition in microfilm.

British Parliamentary Debates (Hansard)

Pergamon has microfilmed all the back files of the Debates, as well as its forerunner, the Cobbett papers, starting in 1066. Microfilm of current papers is also available on a subscription basis as the annual volumes are released.

Thousands of Other Micropublications Produced and/or Distributed and the Trade-in Program

Through its division, Microforms International Marketing Company (MIMC), Pergamon Press is distributing several thousand basic serial publications in microforms, produced by MIMC and/or by major micropublishers. This enables us to offer a unique trade-in program: all Pergamon Press hard-copy back files as well as most major serials publications can be traded in against the purchase of any microform we have available, on liberal terms. Surplus hard-copy back files can also be offered for sale by libraries through a regular Mail Auction Program of our Maxwell Scientific International Division.

In short, we offer librarians a complete program on how best to implement their decision to go "the microform way."

We at Pergamon are trying harder—even in microforms!

For more information regarding our microform program, call

Pergamon Press, Inc.,
Fairview Park,
Elmsford, New York, 10523
(914) 592-7700,
Mrs. Barbara Tilley,
Executive Assistant to the President

LIBRARY JOURNAL

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF: John N. Berry III
SENIOR EDITORS: Shirley Havens, Karl Nyren
EDITOR, BOOK REVIEW: Janet Fletcher
ASSOCIATE EDITORS:
Book Review: Robert R. Harris
Bibliographic: Bette-Lee Fox
News: Noël Savage
PRODUCTION EDITOR: Ellen Mangin
ART EDITOR: Carlos Delgado
REVIEW EDITORS: Marlene Charnizon, Ellen Kozlowski, Anneliese Schwarzer
ASSISTANT EDITORS: Maureen Crowley, Ann Sankar
PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS: Nancy Brown, Ann Yazejian
EDITORIAL ASSISTANT: Anne Richter
ADV. SALES MANAGER: Richard H. Brown
ADV. PRODUCTION: Maureen J. Rose
PUBLISHER: Paul J. Carnese

LIBRARY JOURNAL is published by R. R. Bowker Co., a Xerox company. Robert F. Asleson, President.

Direct editorial and advertising correspondence to 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York 10036. Telephone: (212) 764-5100. Subscription inquiries and changes of address should be directed to R. R. Bowker Company, Subscription Dept., P.O. Box 67, Whitinsville, Mass. 01588. Publications Offices at 117 Church Street, Whitinsville, Mass. 01488. Issued twice a month, September through June, monthly in July and August. Second class postage paid at Whitinsville, Mass. and additional mailing offices. Copyright © 1976 Xerox Corporation.

LIBRARY JOURNAL is indexed in Library Literature, Library & Information Science Abstracts, and Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature. SUBSCRIPTIONS: USA: 1 year $19.00; 2 years $36.00; 3 years $51.00. Canada and Postal Union of the Americas and Spain, add $2 per year; elsewhere, add $3 per year. Single copy $1.35. Spring, fall, and winter announcement numbers, $3.25 each. POSTMASTER: Please send Form 3579 to R. R. Bowker Company, P.O. Box 67, Whitinsville, Mass. 01588.

LIBRARY JOURNAL reserves the right to make its own independent judgment as to the acceptability of advertising copy and illustrations in advertisements. Advertiser and advertisng agency assume liability for all content (including text, representation and illustrations) of advertisements printed, and also assume responsibility for any claims arising therefrom against the publisher. Offers to sell products, which appear in LIBRARY JOURNAL, are subject to all laws and regulations and are void where so prohibited.

Letters 2101
Calendar 2102
Editorial 2105

News:

More funding, pro staff, & co-op reported by Ohio . . . NCLIS starts work on nat'l. AV data base . . . NAL & Cornell to add agricultural serials listings to CONSER . . . publisher/library friction seen growing . . . $$ for Canadian book buying . . . Ohio court bars book seizure by school boards . . . N.Y., Wyoming, & British Columbia libraries suffer $$ losses . . . OCLC names advisory board . . . BCR-Denver attracts two more statewide customers 2109

People 2131

FEATURES

The $50 Reading Machine and Other Micromarvels
BY CARL SPAULDING 2133

User Environment and Attitudes in an Academic Microform Center
BY ARTHUR TANNENBAUM & EVA SIDHOM 2139

The Display Medium and the Price of the Message
BY S. MICHAEL MALINCONICO 2144

Professional Reading 2151
Checklist 2155
Magazines 2157

THE BOOK REVIEW

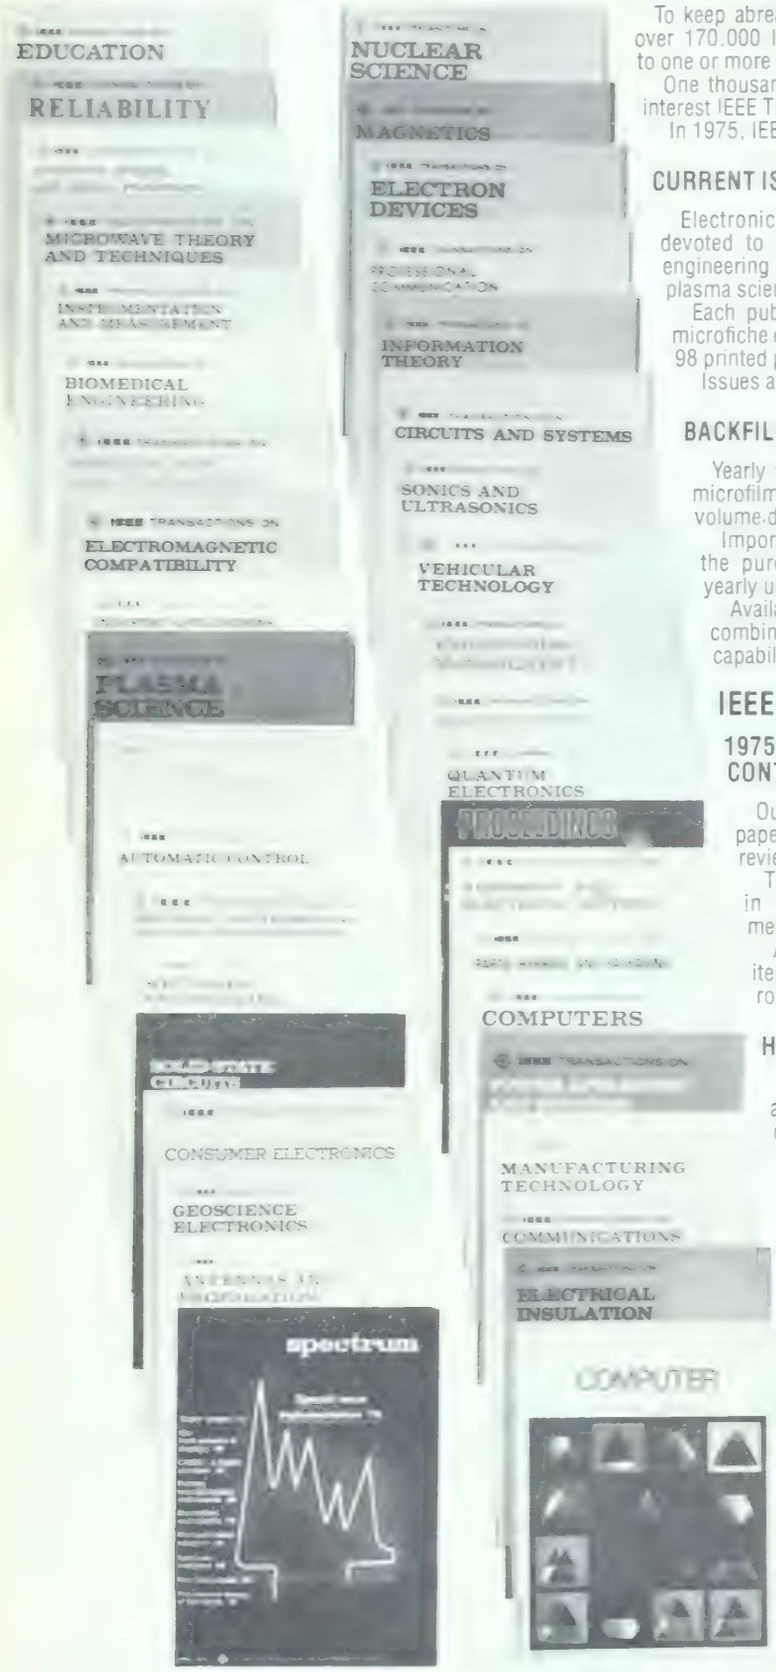
Book Reviews 2159
Index to Reviews and Professional Reading 2197

Classified 2198
Index to Advertisers 2200

IN HARDCOPY, MICROFICHE, AND MICROFILM EDITIONS

38 IEEE PERIODICALS REPORT NOTEWORTHY ADVANCES IN EVERY FACET OF

ELECTROTECHNOLOGY



To keep abreast of new developments in electrical/electronics science and technology, over 170,000 IEEE members and over 15,000 libraries throughout the world subscribe to one or more of the 38 IEEE periodicals.

One thousand technical libraries worldwide subscribe to every one of the 36 special-interest IEEE Transactions and Journals.

In 1975, IEEE periodicals contained a total of 29,800 editorial pages.

CURRENT ISSUES AVAILABLE IN HARDCOPY AND MICROFICHE

Electronics applications are now so pervasive that there are IEEE periodicals devoted to fields of interest that might surprise you—such as biomedicine . . . engineering management . . . geoscience . . . information theory . . . nuclear and plasma science . . . education . . . professional communications.

Each publication (except Computer Magazine) is available in both hardcopy and microfiche editions. The microfiche is a positive transparency, 105 × 48mm, containing 98 printed pages with a reduction ratio of 24:1.

Issues are sent by first-class mail and by air mail overseas.

BACKFILES ON MICROFILM

Yearly volumes of all IEEE periodicals are made available on 16mm and 35mm microfilm in June of the following year. Complete backfiles of every IEEE periodical volume dating back to 1884, may also be purchased.

Importantly for your budget, the IEEE offers sizable discounts to libraries on the purchase of complete backfiles and complete Transactions and Journals yearly updates.

Available in both positive and negative, IEEE publications on microfilm—in combination with our annual combined Index—provide a retrospective search capability unequaled by any other source of information in this field.

IEEE PUBLICATIONS INDEX

1975 INDEX LISTS OVER 10,000 PAPERS, CONTAINS OVER 60,000 INDEX ENTRIES

Our 1975 combined author and subject Index covers all technical items—papers, short communications, abstracts of conference publications, book reviews, etc.—published in the 38 IEEE periodicals in 1975.

The Index also covers all documents issued by the IEEE Standards committee in 1975, and papers from over 100 IEEE-sponsored or cosponsored meetings held during 1975.

As a special service to microfiche-edition subscribers, each entry for items from periodicals includes a fiche code that identifies the fiche number, row, and frame number of the starting page for the item.

HOW TO ORDER THE 1975 INDEX

A model of the indexers art, the 1975 Index also contains three helpful appendixes: a listing of all 1975 conference publications and prices; a complete listing of all IEEE periodicals, their 1975 volume numbers and frequency of issue; a listing of special issues published during that year.

The 1975 INDEX TO IEEE PUBLICATIONS is an essential reference volume for every comprehensive technical library and we suggest you send for your copy now. Some earlier editions are also in stock, and now is an ideal time to purchase them before they go out of print.

Please send your purchase order to: IEEE Service Center, SPSU, 445 Hoes Lane, Piscataway, N.J. 08854. Be sure to include title and product number as listed below:

1975 INDEX, 461 pp. JH36798 . . . . . $50.00
1974 INDEX, 469 pp. JH31401 . . . . . $35.00
1973 INDEX, 472 pp. JH26252 . . . . . $35.00

FOR FURTHER DETAILS . . .

For full details on the impressive range and scope of IEEE periodicals, books, conference records, monographs, microforms, and reprints, call Mr. Dudley Broderick at (212) 644-7876, or write to him at the address below.

INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONICS ENGINEERS INC
345 EAST 47th STREET, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10017

SEND FOR COMPLETE INFORMATION TODAY.

LETTERS

Reference Rugh-barb!!!

Geraldine Radford
Reference Librarian, Loretto Memorial Library, Staten Island Campus, St. John's University, New York:

Rugh has a few misconceptions of his own ("Reference Standards and Reference Work," LJ, July, p. 1497-1500). First, the business of libraries is not just books. The library must be the informational center for the community, and every member of that community, not only the literate elite, should know that it can meet his or her informational needs.

Second, when a library aggressively advertises that it is an information center, the reference librarian will receive some pretty nontraditional questions, and the answers are not always found in the hallowed pages of the codex. Ask any librarian who has worked in information referral.

Third, training in library schools cannot be principally training in bibliography. We must emphasize training in interpersonal relations as well. Perhaps RASD has, in an effort to make the library more relevant to the community, gone a bit overboard with such statements as "the key element of reference service [is] the relationship between patron. . . ." However, we must applaud its attempt to articulate the need for reference librarians to recognize the fact that we are in a people business. Rugh's article indicates that some of us in the profession are still too book-oriented. We must never forget that if we as librarians fail in interpersonal communication, we will be left with our books and our bibliographic know-how and no one with whom to share it.

Larry Hardesty
Head of the Reference Department, West Library, DePauw University, Greencastle, Indiana:

While I believe RASD's "A Commitment to Information Service" (LJ, April 15, p. 973-74) to be less than a perfect document, I am more concerned by Rugh's view of reference work. Certainly Rugh does offer some perceptive insights, and I can agree with many of his observations.

However, I must disagree with his contention that the business of libraries is books rather than information. He is confusing, if you will excuse an overworked phrase, the medium with the message. He chooses to accept a broad definition of books and a narrow definition of information, and this results in a "classical" or mechanical view of reference service.

First, I would suggest that if information is defined more broadly so as to include all types of knowledge, then this would include even the books of poetry which Rugh mentions. They would be providing information (knowledge) which results in pleasure. Second, all information in libraries is not in books. A great deal of information is provided to the library user directly from the reference librarian. This information is needed to better able the library user to develop a search strategy and obtain a better focus on the topic of research. This type of information is much more than just the information gained as a result of education in library school on the bibliographic structure of libraries and literature. It is the result of several years of both informal and formal education. No doubt this is one reason why a good general undergraduate background, a thirst for knowledge, and even an advanced subject degree are such desirable assets to reference librarians.

This brings me to another point of disagreement with Rugh. I believe he has a valid point in that "without solid training in bibliography there is no point in a reference librarian interviewing anyone in the first place." Those with the classical view would agree with Rugh, but there is another side to this statement. Without knowing how to interview and relate to people, there is no point in having a solid training in bibliography. This is the "romantic" view of reference librarianship.

The interview is only a technique involved in reference work, but so is using the card catalog, and a knowledge of both psychology and bibliography are necessary in order to provide good reference service. Certainly we can overemphasize the psychological aspect of reference service at the expense of the bibliographic aspect, but traditionally the reverse has been true. Rugh is continuing this tradition. . . .

A librarian must be able to relate to people. The profession has traditionally had an image problem, often because it lived up to its image. All too often we have emphasized the mechanical and technical aspects of our profession without considering the other aspects. As long as we continue to overemphasize these aspects of the profession (as Rugh does), people will continue to stay away from libraries and librarians in droves.

Judy Pearce
Outreach Librarian, City Library, Casa Grande, Arizona:

Rugh has, I feel, touched upon a growing weakness within the entire library profession, which is a distrust of, dislike of, and apology for our reason for existing—books. This unease with print material is inherent in our growing dependence on and faith in the infallibility of computers and technology.

Rugh's most cogent point for all librarians is that the computer merely "calls up" what has already been compiled by people from books. The computer is another aid, or tool for us to utilize in our primary task, which is to bring people and books together.

Clearly, libraries are on the defensive in these days of media and low reading levels. Our response to the media onslaught has been to justify ourselves through our own use of technology rather than concentration on print material. If some librarians had their way, books would disappear from the shelves and computer terminals would take their place. In anticipation of that day I will avail myself of current knowledge concerning technology; in the meantime, I will continue to encourage "the user who is only in pursuit of a book"!

ED. NOTE—Author Rugh has shared his response to Ms. Pearce with LJ's readers:

Archie G. Rugh
Humanities Librarian, University Library, Wichita State University, Wichita, Kansas:

Thank you for taking the time to respond to my article. I feel, however, that you have misunderstood me. The article was not intended as a defense of "books" in the popular sense of the word, as you seem to have gathered. It was meant to correct several popular misconceptions, one of which is that libraries are concerned primarily with information.

As I tried to show, this is not a view which can help us in the process of professionalization because 1) as a matter of fact not all people come to the library for "information"; 2) not all library materials embody solely "information," when by "information" we mean a semantic and a pragmatic concept (see my discussion of the information concept in RQ, Summer 1975); 3) any information for which people do come to the library is embodied in some material vehicle; 4) the techniques which are actually practiced in all aspects of library work and which, once formalized, would comprise one basis for any claim to professionalism as the sociologists understand this—these techniques have to do with the way library materials are housed and represented in catalogs and other bibliographic tools, not with the existence of some disembodied "information."

In my article I used the term "book" to stand for this concept of library material—whether in print, nonprint, or data-bank form. This I stated explicitly in note 2 on page 1500. As I explained in a meeting at the recent ALA convention, I chose the term "book" because we need some simple term for this generic concept, because "book" has already been used in our profession in this sense (Louis Shores introduced it around 1946), and because to the best of my knowledge no one has come up with anything better. But I grant that it is confusing because of the familiar, popular meaning, and in the meantime, a solution has occurred to me: use the term "library materials" for the generic concept.

Malcolm Alexander

Coordinator for Public Services, Bouillon Library, Central Washington State College, Ellensburg:

In spite of his good intentions, Archie Rugh misses the boat. People go to reference desks for information, facts, data, concepts, or help in locating them. The average person doesn't give a hoot whether it is in a book, on tape, on film, in someone's head, in a computer, or on file at the local Chamber of Commerce. Any modern reference department that is worth its salt will utilize all possible resources available to it to satisfy the needs of the user.

The MLS, non-pros, & minorities

John L. Ayala

Past President, REFORMA, The National Association of Spanish Speaking Librarians in the United States:

In response to the letter from Gramer, Hintzman, and Parsil (LJ, July, p. 1467) criticizing my letter (LJ, April 1, p. 842) I would like to say that specifically I was speaking about the ploy used by library personnel to give equivalencies to "non-professionals" in public libraries and not other types of libraries.

In further response to those "non-professionals" of the University of Arizona Library, Tucson—you might be qualified through experience to hold your positions, but have you ever thought about the degreed librarians you're taking jobs away from. They've been trained for the type of work you're doing. Just as you have been trained in a definitive discipline. With access to such a fine library school as University of Arizona at Tucson, I find it difficult to understand why you have not undertaken to legitimize yourselves in your chosen profession. I still believe that an M.L.S. should be the criterion for a working librarian. I would also suggest that you reread my letter in the April 1 LJ concerning the implications it has for minorities who are underrepresented in the library profession.

Women: used again?

Marcia Ann O'Neil

Librarian, Los Angeles Public Library:

I was amused by Muriel Bodek's letter in the July LJ (p. 1467) in which she expressed righteous indignation over the decision of ALA to hold their convention in a state which had not ratified the ERA. Ms. Bodek, a Los Angeles public library commissioner, is currently proposing that librarians and clerical staff work Sundays from 9:00 to 5:30 on a rotating basis to staff the seven regional branches. The catch is that the LAPL employees (predominately women, many of whom are single parents) would be expected to work on a mandatory basis with no salary increase at a time when they already have to rearrange their lives and those of their families in order to keep the branch libraries open on Saturdays (at no extra pay of course) and to provide library service five nights a week. Sunday service is a great notion, but the staffing should be voluntary and on a time-and-a-half salary basis.

That women workers are being used again is not too surprising, but that this particular idea is being pushed by someone who is apparently in sympathy with the women's movement is, to use Ms. Bodek's phrase, "astonishingly insensitive."

Chile: quantitative freedom

Barry Fast

Marketing Manager, Taylor-Carlisle, New York, New York:

In LJ, May 15, p. 1158, three librarians from Chile claim that they live in an "absolutely free country." As proof they indicate that only 50 of the 60,000 books in their collection were removed by the government. And those were taken only because they "changed the real history of Chile or praised Marxism." It is sad to see "university librarians" denying the fact that intellectual freedom is determined by qualitative, not quantitative, criteria.

PM: who's accountable?

Virginia E. Potter

Supervisor, Reader Services, Wisconsin State Reference and Loan Library, Madison:

Participatory management in some form or other has been around for a number of years. However, the recent abundance of articles in the literature of commmittee authority/administration/management, especially the Toronto experiment (LJ, July, p. 1469), compels me to raise the question: "Who is held accountable for the final results?"

Connor D. Tjarks

Assistant Director of University Libraries, Virginia Commonwealth University, Richmond:

The articles on participatory management seemed to skirt the primary issue—leadership as a managerial quality. Most managers use staff expertise to assemble the data on which decision making is based. It is axiomatic that as the degree of participation by the staff increases, so must the degree of leadership exercised by the administrator. When all the valid opinions and alternatives are considered, it is he who must decide upon a course of action for which only he can be held accountable.

CALENDAR

OCT. 14-17—NEW YORK LA, Lake Placid. Contact: Victoria Wallace, Chairman, Exhibits Committee, New York Library Association, 60 E. 42 St., Suite 1242, New York, N.Y. 10017.

OCT. 17-21—COLORADO LA, Colorado Springs, Four Seasons Motor Inn. Theme: "Unity Through Diversity." Contact: Susan Kaufman, Executive Secretary, Colorado Library Assn., 1151 E. Costello Ave., Littleton, Colo. 80122.

OCT. 20-22—MISSISSIPPI LA, Biloxi, Biloxi Hilton Hotel.

OCT. 21-23—SOUTH CAROLINA LA, Columbia, Wade Hampton Hotel. Contact: Mrs. Davey-Jo Ridge, Associate Director of Libraries, Thomas Cooper Library, University of South Carolina, Columbia, S.C. 29208.

OCT. 28-29—LIBRARY MICROFORM CONFERENCE, Atlanta, Georgia.

OCT. 29—NEW JERSEY LA, Morristown, Governor Morris Inn. Contact: Thomas Leonard, Cape May County Library, Cape May Court House, N.J. 08201.

NOV. 11-13—SOUTHWESTERN LA/MOUNTAIN PLAINS LA, Albuquerque Convention Center. Contact: Marion Mitchell, SWLA Office, 7371 Paldao Dr., Dallas, Tex. 75240.

NOV. 18-20—VIRGINIA LA, Roanoke, Hotel.

INTRODUCING BRODART'S BOOK INFORMATION SYSTEM. IT'S ABOUT TIME.

Think of the time you spend verifying citations. Think of the time you spend preparing and placing an order for books.

Think of the time you waste ordering unavailable books from sources that are weeks, sometimes months old.

Brodart's new Book Information System can save you that time. It offers you the combined intelligence of numerous data bases, including Brodart's own inventory file, and is updated and fully cumulated monthly to keep you current.

The new desktop ROM 3 COMTERMINAL® makes The System compact and easy to use in your library.

Faster order placement, more complete order fulfillment, more timely and accurate publication status and cost information for tighter budget control. If those are benefits that interest you, then so should our new Book Information System. Whether you use it to order from us or not, it's still the most complete, convenient, affordable citation verification tool ever offered to the library community. And it's about time. The time you save.

AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION 1876–1976 ALA 100

Mr. Lee Handley
Vice President/Library
Automation Division
BRODART INC. Dept B106
1609 Memorial Avenue
Williamsport, PA 17701

Dear Mr. Handley:
I would like to know more about your new Book Information System.
☐ Please send me your brochure. ☐ Please have a Brodart Representative contact me for an appointment

Name_____

Title_____ Phone_____

Institution_____

Address_____

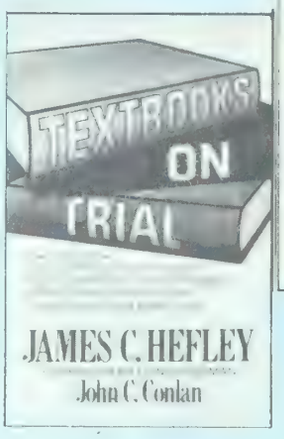
City_____ State_____

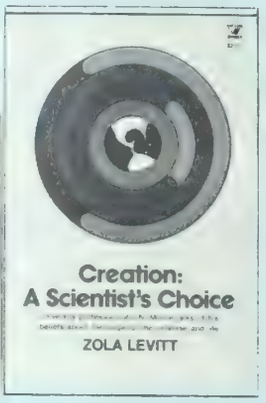
BRODART

THE LIBRARY COMPANY

1609 MEMORIAL AVE., WILLIAMSPORT, PA 17705 1236 SO. HATCHER ST., CITY OF INDUSTRY, CA 91749 6 EDMONDSON ST., BRANTFORD, ONTARIO N3T 5N3

Christian Living—studies for personal growth and harmonious family relationships.





VICTOR BOOKS

... ASSURE MAXIMUM SALES! BE SURE YOUR SHELVES ARE STOCKED.

Victor Book electives meet human needs. These attractive paperbacks, designed for use in Bible-based study groups—in Sunday School elective programs or in neighborhood Bible studies—are study books for victorious living in today's troubled times. A corresponding leader's guide is available for each book—at a cost ranging from 95c to $1.95.

All Victor Books provide informative, inspirational reading for the individual reader as well as for group study.

SAY IT WITH LOVE. Howard Hendricks. How to communicate the Good News of salvation with love 6-2043 (cloth), $4.95; 6-2050 (paper), $1.95.

BORN TO GROW. Larry Richards. How to develop spiritual attitudes and awareness of God. 6-2708, $1.75.

THE FRAGRANCE OF BEAUTY. Joyce Landorf. Attitudes that mar a woman's beauty—and how to correct them. 6-2231, $1.50.

BUILDING A CHRISTIAN HOME. Henry Brandt. Psychologist's guide to harmonious family relationships. 6-2051, $1.95.

DISCIPLES ARE MADE—NOT BORN. Walt Henrichsen. What discipleship is and how they are trained. 6-2706, $1.75.

THE STRONG WEAK PEOPLE. Jay Kesler. Practical, soundly biblical help in deciding right Christian priorities. 6-2739, $2.25.

PEOPLES: CHURCH ON THE GO. Bernard Palmer The aggressive program of this Toronto church led to dynamic growth through a two generation outreach. 6-2656, $2.50.

JOYCE, I FEEL LIKE I KNOW YOU. Joyce Landorf. Help on such matters as loneliness, homeliness, being single and divorced. 6-2742, $1.75.

BUILDING UP ONE ANOTHER. Dr. Gene Getz Commands to the New Testament Church involving the phrase, "one another." 6-2744, $2.25.

I LOVE GOD—AND MY HUSBAND. Marion Stroud How a wholehearted commitment to Christ can lead to a full husband/wife relationship. 6-2734, $1.50.

GOD CAN MAKE IT HAPPEN. Russ Johnston Biblical principles of faith turn ordinary living into a spiritual adventure. 6-2741, $1.95.

COME CLEAN! Charles W. Keysor. How to cope with guilt—using David's sin as the example. 6-2732, $1.75.

WHAT DID JESUS SAY ABOUT THAT? Stanley Baldwin. Jesus' teachings on sin, faith, prayer, money, etc. 6-2718, $2.25.

HEAVEN HELP THE HOME. Howard Hendricks Biblical principles concerning discipline, money, worship, sex education, and more. 6-2240, $1.95.

HOW GOD CAN USE NOBODIES. James Boice Old Testament greats—Abraham, Moses, David—and how they grew. 6-2027, $1.75.

THE WONDERFUL DIFFICULT YEARS. Richard De Haan. Bible-based counsel for parents and teenagers. 6-2242 (cloth), $3.95; 6-2241 (paper), $1.50.

FACING TODAY'S PROBLEMS. Symposium discusses Christian reactions to drugs, race, pollution, crime, and other issues. 6-2025, $1.50.

WINNING WAYS. LeRoy Eims. Practical helps for soul-winners. 6-2707, $1.75.

THE KINK AND I. James Mallory, Jr. A Christian psychiatrist's guide to untwisted living. 6-2237, $1.95.

YOU CAN BE THE WIFE OF A HAPPY HUSBAND. Darien Cooper. Apply Bible principles to achieve a happy marriage. 6-2711, $2.25.

JUST OFF THE PRESS:

TEXTBOOKS ON TRIAL. Mel and Norma Gabler's story of their ongoing battle to clear up textbooks in Texas schools. A challenge to nonviolent action against objectionable textbooks. 6-2738, cloth, $6.95.

THE FAMILY THAT MAKES IT. Symposium stresses Scripture-based guidelines for the Christian home. 6-2045, $1.75.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN WOMEN PRAY. Evelyn Christensen/Viola Blake. Primer on prayer, praying, and prayer methods. 6-2715, $1.75.

WHAT EVERY CHRISTIAN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT GROWING. LeRoy Eims. Seven basic steps to discipleship. 6-2727, $1.95.

Bible Studies . . .

THE CHURCH STANDS CORRECTED. Paul R. Van Gorder. A clear-cut exegesis of I Corinthians. 6-2733, $1.75.

BE RICH. Warren W. Wiersbe. A study of Ephesians and true wealth. 6-2730, $1.75.

WHAT WORKS WHEN LIFE DOESN'T? Stuart Briscoe. Explanatory study of 12 selected Psalms with practical applications. 6-2725, $1.95.

THE ART OF STAYING OFF DEAD-END STREETS (Ecclesiastics). Richard De Haan. Contemporary look at Solomon's dead-ends—turning points for life's true values. 6-2709, (cloth), $4.95; 6-2710 (paper), $1.75.

THE ACTS—THEN AND NOW. Henry Jacobsen Triumphs of early Christians—and how believers can be triumphant in spite of circumstances. 6-2239, $1.95.

BE FREE (Galatians). Warren Wiersbe. Expository study to help believers grow in Christ. 6-2716, $1.75.

BE JOYFUL (Philippians). Warren Wiersbe. Identifies the joy stealers—circumstances, people, things, worry—and recommends attitudes that assure joy. 6-2705, $1.75.

THE COMPLETE CHRISTIAN (Hebrews). Larry Richards. Reaching spiritual maturity through growth and faith. 6-2714, $1.75.

GOOD NEWS FOR BAD TIMES (I Peter). Richard DeHaan. Encourages confidence during bad times through dependence on Christ. 6-2719, $1.75.

BE REAL (I John). Warren Wiersbe. Discusses worldliness, hypocrisy, and the importance of right doctrine. 6-2046, $1.95.

THE WAR WE CAN'T LOSE. Henry Jacobsen Revelation—God's guarantee that His Son will one day reign over earth. 6-2047, $1.25.

DISCOVERING THE BEST IN LIFE. V. Gilbert Beers. Bible answers to some of life's most important questions. 6-2232, $1.75.

Faith and Doctrine . . .

GREAT CHURCH FIGHTS. Leslie Flynn. Interprets New Testament controversies for the modern-day church. 6-2743, $1.95.

CREATION: A SCIENTIST'S CHOICE. Zola Levitt. A well-reasoned, unemotional approach—by a scientist—to the creation vs. evolution furor. 6-2629, $2.25.

NOW A WORD FROM OUR CREATOR. Leslie Flynn. A meaningful exposition of the Ten Commandments. 6-2728, $2.25.

KNOW THE MARKS OF CULTS. Dave Breese. Common, characteristic errors of all cults. 6-2704, $1.50.

KNOW WHY YOU BELIEVE. Paul Little. The rationality of Christianity, giving reasons for faith. 6-2022, $1.75.

KNOW WHAT YOU BELIEVE. Paul Little. The validity of the evangelical position on vital doctrines of the Christian Church. 6-2024, $1.75.

19 GIFTS OF THE SPIRIT. Leslie Flynn. Spiritual gifts, their purposes, and how believers can discover and use their gifts for God's glory. 6-2701, $2.50.

GOD, I DON'T UNDERSTAND. Kenneth Boa. Inscrutables of the Christian faith and man's inability to resolve two-sided truths. 6-2722, $2.25.

Special Interest . . .

WEIGHT! A BETTER WAY TO LOSE. Roger F. Campbell. A permanent solution in the dieter's dilemma—a biblical lifestyle. 6-2735, $1.50.

AMERICA: ONE NATION UNDER GOD. James Hefley. Review of America's birth, Christian ideals and heritage, with suggestions for reform. 6-2721, $1.95.

HOW TO SUCCEED IN BUSINESS WITHOUT BEING A PAGAN. Glen Bump. Can a Christian run a business without trading Christianity for paganism? 6-2712, $1.50.

THE SPIRIT WORLD. McCandlish Phillips. How to overcome satanic deceptions, found in the occult, through God's superior power. 6-2048, $1.75.

WHERE IN THE WORLD ARE THE JEWS TODAY? James and Marti Hefley. Overview of God's chosen people from Bible times to the present day 6-2700, $1.75.

BE THE LEADER YOU WERE MEANT TO BE. LeRoy Eims. Study of successful Bible leaders and how leaders today can follow the principles they practiced. 6-2723, $1.95.

24 WAYS TO IMPROVE YOUR TEACHING. Kenneth Gangel. Effective teaching methods and how and when to use them. 6-2463, $1.95.

THE STRUGGLE FOR PEACE. Henry Brandt. Scriptural counsel on family problems by a Christian psychologist. 6-2023, $1.50.

VICTOR BOOKS
a division of S.P. Publications, Inc.
WHEATON, ILLINOIS 60187

EDITORIAL

Nickel victories—II

"Surely we run our libraries with our heads—or ought to. I think you've been away from the business too long. We cannot be syrupy about the purity of the human animal—especially in hard-nosed city environments. There are enough of our patrons who operate as rip-off artists to force us to take some disciplinary action. Access is not inhibited by a fines policy—only abuse of that access is. Surely this is not difficult to grasp.

"If all our clients were honest and full of integrity we could open the doors and let the place go unattended. But Dr. Pangloss was skewered by Voltaire 200 years ago, and I should have thought you would not be taken in by romantics who simply ignore the evidence of human behavior."

Those two paragraphs come from one of LJ's favorite correspondents, Ervin Gaines of the Cleveland Public Library. The subject was library fines. He had been reminded of our February 15, 1975 editorial ("Nickel victories," p. 351), and Gaines wrote to tell us we "ought not to promote foolishness" in advocating an end to library fines and penalties for overdue books.

Chaired by Tom Alford, the Fines and Penalties Committee of ALA's Library Administration Division, Circulation Services Section is studying fines as a result of a resolution passed at the 1975 ALA Midwinter meeting. The Committee made real progress this summer in Chicago. Their working papers, and the documentation they collected, show, once again, the wide differences in the administration point of view about fines from one library to another. They also show that experiments abandoning fines have been inconclusive.

For example, the Gaston County Public Library in North Carolina, after an experimental suspension of fines, decided to reinstate them despite the fact that nearly 75 percent of the patrons responding to their survey agreed with the no fine policy. Gaston County's overdue book problem grew so much that it required almost double the staff time, as well as twice the postage bill. In Burlington, Vermont, however, the librarians found that refusing offers of money under a no fines policy "usually results in the return of material more readily than any other method we've tried." Preliminary results of the experimental no fine policy in the San Francisco Public Library's children's department lead to the conclusion that a fine-free policy "may promote the use of juvenile materials" and "does not seem to promote a better rate of return . . . However, neither is the return rate worse." As fringe benefits San Francisco listed "a more positive service image," the elimination of monetary pressure on children, and "the fine-free policy seems to encourage children to return materials for the right reasons. Further, it allows the library to make policy for the responsible majority of children."

There are many more reports in the Committee's files, and the working papers distributed in Chicago from the Committee's three task forces (academic, public, and school libraries) did come to some conclusions. The academic librarians decided that fines were relatively unimportant, have "only a slight effect on borrowing or return," and that fines policy should be left to each library. The school librarians task force "recommends that fines and penalties be eliminated from school library media centers." They backed their recommendation by summarizing findings which showed that in schools fines are still widely used; in general they work (get the book back), but intimidate children, discourage them, punish them, and leave them reluctant to check out books. The public librarians decided from their evidence that fines get the book back earlier, but not on time; that fines don't produce income if the costs of collecting them are considered; and that high fines can be a detriment to circulation and increase theft and mutilation. They conclude that no fines or low fines should be considered for patrons who have real difficulty paying them (children, the aged, the institutionalized, the economically deprived, etc.), and that libraries should be more sensitive on the whole question.

The Committee's results will be polished and delivered to its parent groups at midwinter in January. In the meantime, Tom Alford is still interested in reactions. (Write him at the Macomb County Library, 21930 Dunham Rd., Mount Clemens, Michigan 48043.) Where the matter goes from there is still undecided.

What the committee's fine work did for us, as it probably will do for you, was buttress our original view: The cost in deterred users, a marred service image, and a generally punitive approach isn't worth the earlier return of a few books. As we said back in February 1975, Ervin: "Those nickel victories are only worth five cents."

John Berry

The Right Wing Collection of the University of Iowa Libraries

Although the right wing has significantly influenced American politics throughout the 20th century, systematically organized literature on its ideals and attitudes has been generally unavailable — with one major exception: the Social Documents Collection of the University of Iowa. Begun in the late 1940's by Ralph Ellsworth, a pioneer scholar of the right wing and librarian at the University, this authoritative collection provides information and insight on a wide range of contemporary issues, including anti-Communism, religious fundamentalism, integration, open housing, socialized medicine and the United Nations. Among the 1,200 publications selected for the microform program from the Social Documents Collection are periodicals, newsletters, flyers and broadsides, reflecting a wide diversity of right wing points of view.

The micropublication of these materials in an easily stored, maximally retrievable form will fill a major gap in the availability of primary resources for studying the full range of the American political spectrum.

Approximately 480,000 pages on 200 reels of 35mm microfilm. $4,950. (Includes a separate printed Guide for convenient bibliographic control and access.)

To order, or for further information, write or call:

Microfilming Corporation of America

NYT

A New York Times Company
21 Harristown Road
Glen Rock, New Jersey 07452
(201) 447-3000, Ext. 216

The American Civil Liberties Union Records and Publications, 1917-1975

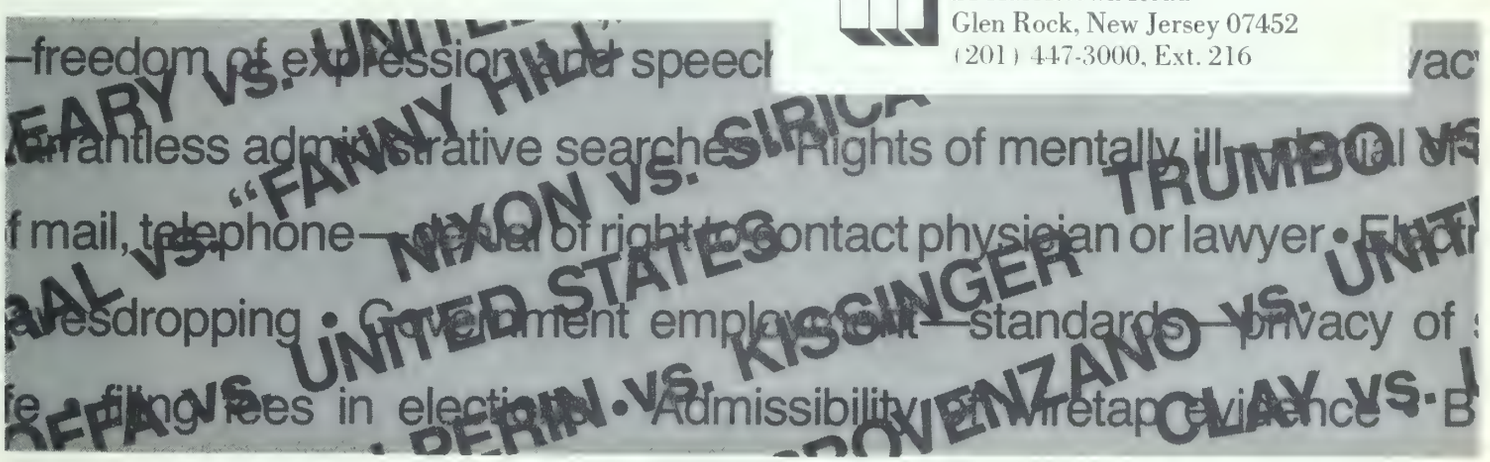
Growing out of the American Union Against Militarism, which was formed to prevent American involvement in World War I, the ACLU since 1920 has vigorously defended the civil liberties of all American citizens. It has been in the forefront of virtually every significant civil liberties case of the last half-century — including Sacco and Vanzetti, the Scopes "monkey" trial, the Scottsboro case and, more recently, Brown vs. Board of Education, Clay (Muhammad Ali) vs. U.S., and Miranda vs. Arizona. Interestingly enough, the ACLU has a longer history of representing avowed right wing spokesmen than probably any other civil rights organization. Over the years, ACLU membership has included some of America's most distinguished citizens, among them Clarence Darrow, Felix Frankfurter, Pearl Buck, Thurgood Marshall, Robert M. Hutchins and A. Philip Randolph.

Approximately 200,000 pages on 100 reels of 35mm microfilm. $2,900. (Includes a separate printed Guide for convenient bibliographic control and access.)

To order, or for further information, write or call:

Microfilming Corporation of America

A New York Times Company
21 Harristown Road
Glen Rock, New Jersey 07452
(201) 447-3000, Ext. 216



NOW COMPLETE

after 5 years in preparation

The Bibliography of

The Goldsmiths'-Kress Library of Economic Literature

. . . Nearly 9,000 titles on the economic, social, business, technological, and political history of modern industrial society

This is Volume I, which covers titles ranging from the 15th century through the year 1720, of a 3-volume set cataloging 30,000 titles through 1800. A valuable bibliography in its own right, the volume also serves as a guide to the RPI microfilm collection of the combined holdings of two libraries which have traditionally stood unrivalled for their superb collections of early works in the literature of business and economics: The Goldsmiths' Library of Economic Literature at the University of London and The Kress Library of Business and Economics at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration in Boston. The bibliography constitutes a major research source for all social scientists and historians, as well as for economists.

The bibliography is available for a 60-day free examination by librarians and members of the faculty of recognized educational institutions.

Descriptive brochure available upon request

also available

Two Important Women's History Resources on Microfilm

History of Women

Nine of the world's most distinguished library holdings of women's history materials were brought together to create the most comprehensive collection ever assembled on the subject. The two major and renowned women's history libraries forming the core of the collection are the Sophia Smith collection at Smith College and the Schlesinger Library at Radcliffe College. The 2,000,000-page collection is organized by five categories of material: printed books; pamphlets; periodicals; manuscripts; and photographs. Part I of the collection, through 1869, is now complete and available.

The Bibliography includes a reel index, subject index, and author index. A complete set of catalog cards, with overtyped subject tracings, is also available.

The Bibliography is available for a 60-day free examination by librarians and members of the faculty of recognized educational institutions.

Bibliography of American Women

by Dr. H. Carleton Marlow
Part I on microfilm

As a reference tool to aid researchers in the field of women's history, RPI has micropublished this comprehensive Bibliography of American Women. The bibliography spans the entire field of materials written by and about women. This section, covering the period to 1904, contains some 50,000 printed books and titles. Each of the titles is entered in three separate listings; the works are arranged chronologically, alphabetically and by topic, for a total of approximately 150,000 entries.

Descriptive brochures are available upon request.
For more information contact:

Customer Order Department
RESEARCH PUBLICATIONS, INC.
12 Lunar Drive
Woodbridge, Conn. 06525
(203) 397-2600

NEWS

More $$, pro staff & co-op reported by Ohio study

Contrasting with reports of budget blight affecting many libraries across the nation is the healthy growth pattern revealed in data included in the 1976 Ohio Directory of Libraries. The directory reports 1975 expenditures for all types of libraries at a new high of $150 million; more book buying and circulation growth; increases in the numbers of professional staff employed; and the growth of multitype cooperative systems and consortia.

• Public library statistics: Public library expenditures went up from $64,604,553 to $68,273,425 between 1974 and 1975. Expenditures for staff went up from $33,033,411 to $35,636,076, but this represents a 1.9 percent decrease in the percentage of the total budget. Expenditures for books made up 16.1 percent of the 1975 budget. Ohio public libraries added 1.5 million new library materials in 1975—an 8.8 percent increase over 1974's total; the total number of volumes held by Ohio libraries was reported at 27.6 million. Circulation in 1975 reached an all-time high of 62 million, a 6.1 percent jump over the 1974 total.

• Tax revenue: Ohio collected more intangibles taxes in 1975 ($70.4 million), and $63.9 million in this kind of tax revenue went to support Ohio libraries—a 10.2 percent increase over 1974. The new directory notes that fewer Ohio libraries are without professional staff than was the case in 1971; of the 5,109 people employed by libraries in 1975, 1,017 (20 percent) were professionals—an increase of 5.8 percent over 1971's total.

• Academic libraries: The directory's survey of 120 academic libraries pegged expenditures in 1975 at $37.4 million; personnel costs went up, and at $20.3 million accounted for 54.7 percent of the total budget. Expenditures for printed materials totaled $10.2 million, while those for nonprint materials totaled $680,886. (In contrast, school library media centers, incidentally, spent $8.2 million for books in 1975 and $7.4 million for AV materials.) Total expenditures for 11 major academic libraries, notes the directory, came to $21.9 million; each large academic library has spent $1 million or more in the past three fiscal years, and their expenditures make up 58.7 percent of the total spent by postsecondary institution libraries in 1975. Total expenditures for the 11 libraries went up 6.3 percent in 1975, while they inched up only two percent during the 1973-74 period. Only two of the 11 major academic libraries reported decreased expenditures in 1975.

• Interlibrary cooperation: The directory takes note of increased participation in multicounty cooperatives by libraries of all types; a growing pattern of statewide and regional cooperation—with 15 consortia and metropolitan area cooperatives listed in 1975; and "significant growth" in participation in the OCLC (Ohio College Library Center) system—with 150 libraries of all types utilizing this service.

NCLIS task force starts work on nat'l AV data base

Noting that the problem of locating and retrieving nonprint materials will soon reach "crisis proportions," the Task Force on Nonbook Media of the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science (NSLIS) has undertaken a project aimed at creating a nationwide database of information on nonprint materials. One goal of the project is to make it possible for the individual user to find out from one key source the availability, costs, and location of any nonprint item he requires instead of "struggling with a variety of different sources to track down a needed film or filmstrip."

NCLIS and the Association for Educational Communications and Technology are cooperating in the project, which in its first phase will set forth goals, objectives, and functional specifications for the bibliographic control of nonbook media. Essential to the nationwide database is the creation of basic minimum specifications for bibliographic information. An advisory team working under the aegis of NCLIS and AECT—including a number of specialists from both private and public sector agencies—will assist in drafting the specifications. On the advisory panel are: Wes Doak (California State Library); Emery Koltay (R.R. Bowker); Janice Gallinger (Plymouth State College); Suzanne Massoneau (University of Vermont); Kay Guiles (Library of Congress); Jean McCauley (National Audiovisual Center); William Quinly (Florida State University) and Thomas Risner (National Information Center for Educational Media).

The actual development and writing of recommendations is to be done by a team headed by Jerry Brong of Washington State University. Other team members include: George Abbott (Syracuse University); James Brown (ERIC/Information Resources) and Jenny Johnson (American Association of Medical Colleges). Ruth Tighe of NCLIS is project liaison officer; Clint Wallington of AECT is project director.

The forthcoming AV standards recommendations are slated for forum hearings at the national conventions of the American Society for Information Scientists, AECT, and at ALA Midwinter.

BIOSIS gets NSF grant for media study

The National Science Foundation has awarded a grant to BIOSIS (BioScience Information Service of Biological Abstracts) for a study on the effectiveness of various instructional media in educating several types of audience in the use of scientific and technical resources.

The study, which is to be conducted with the cooperation of Chemical Abstracts Service and Engineering Index, Inc., is the first phase of a program "to develop, produce, and test innovative instructional media which will increase user awareness of available scientific and technical information re-

How to get the best Circulation Control System now. And guarantee your library the best system 20 years from now.

The Gaylord Computerized Circulation Control System: An answer to the growing demands of library service.

Plain and simple, libraries provide a service. And for 80 years now, Gaylord has been exclusively dedicated to maximizing that service. In response to the latest demands of today's libraries and library networks, Gaylord, in consultation with computer experts and librarians, has created the Gaylord Circulation Control System.

A complete service

The system satisfies virtually all circulation needs, from handling, issuing and returning items to automatically indicating delinquent borrowers and calculating overdue fines.

It's a complete service that includes equipment, its installation, maintenance and updating, processing of information, preparation of notices and reports, and staff training.

Flexibility

The system has been designed to improve the sharing of library resources, and is expandable regionally, statewide and nationally.

Since you can lease the equipment, rather than purchase it, you will never be "stuck" with obsolete equipment. Gaylord will continuously incorporate whatever technological advances are made, so you will always have the most advanced system available: 5 years from now . . . 20 years from now.

Simplicity

With our system, there is no need to add specialized technicians to your staff. As a matter of fact, Gaylord will teach your present library personnel to operate the system practically overnight.

Economy

Since five to eight people would be needed to perform the tasks that the system does automatically, it saves the library a great deal of money and frees the librarian to improve patron services. Yet it requires no large capital expenditure, and in fact, the system's cost can be defrayed even further if you share it with other libraries.

Gaylord reliability

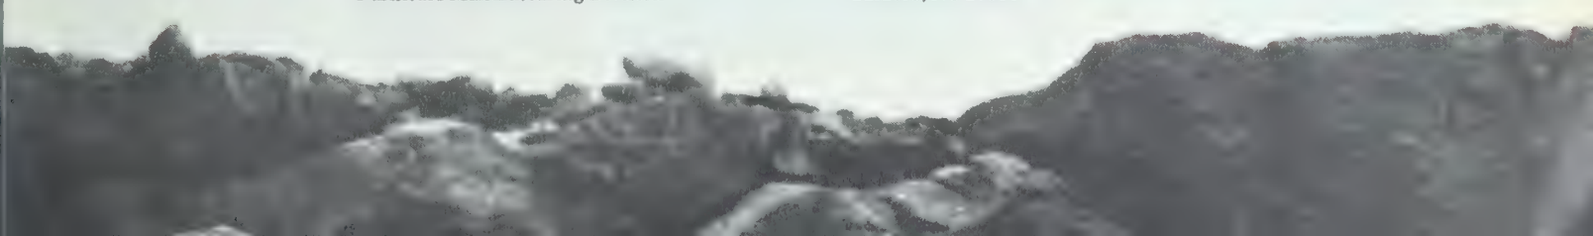
Responsibility for the complete system rests with Gaylord, thereby eliminating the problems that can occur when individual parts of a system are the responsibility of several sources. Moreover, the servicing of the equipment is the finest in the industry— it is backed nationwide by 1,300 Digital servicemen who can be in your library within two to four hours.

Because Gaylord is committed to meeting changing library needs, the Gaylord Circulation Control System was designed with the future in mind. It will not only be the most effective circulation control system today: it will be the most effective one tomorrow.

The Gaylord name is your guarantee.

GAYLORD...ask any librarian.

GAYLORD BROS., INC., LIBRARY SYSTEMS, SUPPLIES, EQUIPMENT & PUBLICATIONS
Syracuse, NY 13201 TWX 710 545-0232 Stockton, CA 95208
Furniture Manufacturing Division Sanford, NC 27330



sources and enhance user ability to acquire and apply these resources."

The study team, headed by Arthur Elias of BIOSIS, will work with four types of audiences: end users of scientific and technical information; educators; managers; and "information intermediaries" (such as reference librarians and information scientists). User media panels, made up of representatives from each audience, are to evaluate various printed, audio, and visual instructional materials developed by the three participating services as well as other organizations which are involved in this effort.

NAL & Cornell add listings to CONSER data base

The National Agricultural Library and Cornell University Libraries have signed a cooperative agreement to input into the CONSER (Conversion of Serials) data base bibliographic records of their agricultural serials and journals.

Under the agreement, NAL will contribute $20,000 to partially defray costs. Cornell will convert to CONSER standards the records of titles in its Albert R. Mann Library collection, which specializes in such subject areas as agricultural engineering, agricultural economics, rural sociology, biological science, food science, human ecology, and natural resources. Titles held by Cornell's College of Veterinary Medicine Library will also be converted. The addition of agricultural bibliographic information to the CONSER data base is scheduled for completion by March 31, 1977.

Project directors are Rayburn M. Ross, Cornell Libraries' assistant director, and Jeanne M. Holmes, NAL's deputy director for resource development.

The Big One is Still The Best!

Soon after Information Design's microfilm reader was introduced in 1973, it was rated "best" in side-by-side tests with virtually every 35mm roll film viewer in use. It's still the easiest reader for patrons to use. And it's still the only reader that offers you all of these advantages: a big 24″ screen that projects an entire newspaper page; an automatic film gate that protects your film from being scratched; full 360° image rotation.

Since 1973, we've made dozens of engineering modifications to improve the I.D. 201's performance and ease of operation. Prove it to yourself—the big one's still the best and better than ever!

For a copy of the study entitled "User Evaluations of Microfilm Readers," or to arrange a demonstration of the Model 201-1 Microfilm Reader, write to Information Design, Inc., 3247 Middlefield Road, Menlo Park, CA 94025. Or telephone (415) 369-2962.

INFORMATION DESIGN, INC.

NASIC offers training to libraries nationwide

With the impending expiration of its National Science Foundation grant, the NASIC (Northeast Academic Science Informational Center) program of the New England Board of Higher Education is going national: all types of libraries and consortia are eligible to affiliate with NASIC and can then sign up for NASIC's workshops in data processing, indexing, and online searching.

NASIC charges an affiliation fee of $300 annually. The charge for workshops held at NEBHE headquarters is $25 per person per day. If a NASIC training team travels to an institution, the going rate is $100 per staff person per day plus any travel and housing expenses incurred. NASIC affiliates get copies of pertinent system manuals, NASIC Search Aids, NASIC workbooks, and service implementation guides.

NASIC reports that so far 33 institutions and three consortia have decided to affiliate. Among them: FAUL (Five Associated University Libraries), the State University of New York, the Kansas City Missouri Cooperative Network, and the Worchester, Massachusetts, Consortium for Higher Education.

For more information, contact NASIC, New England Board of Higher Education, 40 Grove St., Wellesley, Mass. 02181. The number to call is (617) 235-8071; Phyllis Lary is Director of Public Information.

Fund-raising in Indiana

Indiana University Libraries credits IU's Basketball Coach Bobby Knight with a successful fund-raising drive; "#1 Library Fund" has drawn nearly $22,000 in contributions for library books and materials. Knight wrote a fund-raising brochure and explained the budget plight of the University Libraries in a videotape that was televised during one of IU's basketball games.

Working bibliographic tools that save time, space, and money.

Now on Microfiche, Library of Congress/National Union Catalogs.

As a librarian, you already know the reference value of the Library of Congress/National Union Catalogs Now discover the working value of LC/NUC on fiche. You will find it's a useful tool that can make your cataloging and bibliographic searches more convenient, more productive, and more economical.

The entire 1898-1974 series—more than 500 volumes—can be stored in less than 15 lineal feet of drawer space. Just a fraction of the 86 feet of shelving required for hardbound volumes. Apart from substantial storage cost savings, this format greatly simplifies access and increases useability.

With the tip of your finger you can quickly flip through eye-legible headers to the entry you seek. No heavy volumes to handle; and since you retrieve individual fiche, many people can access the file simultaneously.

Need a catalog card? The touch of a button yields a full-size master for copying, in a matter of seconds.

With all these benefits, LC/NUC on microfiche costs 55% less than hardbound. Considering the savings, you can afford to place this invaluable tool in most reference and technical departments in your library

The Library and Education Division of Information Handling Services (formerly Microcard Editions) offers a full series of LC/NUC on fiche. This includes complete Library of Congress Catalogs from 1898 to 1952 and National Union Catalogs from 1952 to the present. They are available by section, but if you purchase the entire 1898-1974 series, we will include a Vantage I reader, free.

Rounding out our comprehensive bibliographic services, we now publish the 1942-1962 Master Cumulation on fiche, and we offer a monthly LC/NUC service to keep your catalogs complete and up-to-date

To learn more about how LC/NUC on fiche can help make your work easier and more productive, please clip and mail the coupon or call IHS directly. Information Handling Service, Library and Education Division, P.O. Box 1154, Englewood, Colorado 80110. Telephone (303) 771-2600 TWX 910/935-0715

Information Handling Services
Library and Education Division
Formerly Microcard Editions
P.O. Box 1154
Englewood, CO 80110
Telephone (303) 779-0600
TWX 910/935-0715

☐ I'd like to see your LC/NUC Series Please have your representative call for an appointment

☐ Send information about your complete LC/NUC Series

Name _____

Title _____

Institution _____

Address _____

City/State/Zip _____

Telephone _____

LJ 10/15/76

Information Handling Services
Library and Education Division
Formerly Microcard Editions

CATALOG AUTOMATION

From card catalog conversions . . . to computerized processing for production and maintenance of printed, microfiche or microfilm catalogs . . . to its microfilm reader . . . Auto-Graphics has the TOTAL professional experience.

AUTO-GRAPHICS, INC.

751 Monterey Pass Road • Monterey Park, Calif. 91754
phone (213) 269-9451

THE MICROFILM READER

BI-FOCALS OR NOT, YOU'LL LOVE THIS READER.

It lets you read microfilms the same way as you read books and newspapers.

for brochure write to:
LIBRARY MICROFILMS & MATERIALS CO.
5709 MESMER AVENUE • CULVER CITY, CA 90230

especially designed for LIBRARIES

Probe library/industry interface in data bases

"The university library/commercial sector interface in the provision of social science data base service, the library's impact on these services, and . . . emerging policy implications" are the foci of a study to be undertaken by Anita Schiller (University of California, San Diego). The Council on Library Resources awarded her a fellowship for the project.

Zeroing in on the library's role as "the intermediary between data base service suppliers and the ultimate consumer," the study will ask what the library is doing to develop information transfer within various subject fields and among user groups, and whether library involvement in the new information technology is strengthening library concern for effective and equal information access.

The study will attempt to determine what libraries are doing to affect data base subject coverage and to evaluate the effectiveness of services. And it will ask what is being done to "develop a knowledgeable cadre of librarians trained and prepared to participate in policy as well as technical decisions."

As for the private sector, Schiller's study will ask what standards govern input into data bases, or determine the design and improvement of specific computer programs; whether suppliers are responsive to input from librarians and library users; and what "library role is perceived by data base generating agencies."

Publisher-library friction seen growing

The rapid growth of library networks and library resource sharing are contributing to "an adversary relationship . . . among organizations (publishers and libraries) which rely heavily on each other," says Susan K. Martin of the University of California-Berkeley. Network development, she observes, has speeded up since 1974, and libraries will probably eventually have access to a centralized computer data base, which will help them decide whether or not to buy a book. Said Martin, "Network processing, when viewed simplistically, allows libraries to make negative decisions about potential purchases." Her views are expressed in a book just released by the firm, Knowledge Industry Publications.

Martin's Library Networks, 1976-77 also pegs major current networking problems such as the lack of standardization and operating delays at the Ohio College Library Center (OCLC). But she forsees a possible "linkage" of computer systems—one enabling a user to query via computer terminal both a reference data base and a cataloging location data base—but she notes that this development "is still hampered by both technical and economic difficulties." As for the development of a national library network, Martin contends that its prospects "will depend heavily on actions of the Library of Congress and on the support of other governmental and private organizations." She also profiles 25 U.S. networks using computer-based services in her book.

Martin is in charge of UC's Library Systems Office, and she edits the Journal of Library Automation. Her book, Library Networks, 1976-77, is available for $24.50 from Knowledge Industry Publications, 2 Corporate Park Dr., White Plains, N.Y. 10604.

Library grant program to fuel Canadian book buying

Ottawa's Minister of Culture and Recreation Robert Welch has announced the expansion of the Wintario grant program, with $1.5 million to be made available this year to enable Ottawa libraries "to buy more Canadian books, periodicals, and films; expand collections of French and foreign-language books; and make more materials available to the handicapped." Welch stressed that "every library board, Indian band council, and community library group" in the province will be eligible for special grants of $2000-$6000, depending on the population served. Libraries serving a population over 50,000 can get $6000 plus an extra $1000 for each additional 10,000 residents.

The government has also put up $500,000 for grants to pay for the expansion of library facilities to accommodate increased Canadiana collections; the ministry will provide up to $25,000 to cover half the cost of new library furnishings and equipment. Libraries can also apply for regular Wintario capital grants to match any non-public funds donated for capital construction. All grants mentioned come on top of regular provincial grants to libraries—estimated to come to $19,612,000 this year.

HIT OF THE SHOW

MICRO PHOTO 16·35

MICROFILM READER

$980 INTRODUCTORY PRICE

Bell & Howell's MICRO PHOTO 16•35 Microfilm Reader proved to be a smash hit at the A.L.A. Summer Conference in Chicago. Over and over, librarians told us: "These are the features we've been asking for!"

The MICRO PHOTO 16•35 presents some truly outstanding innovations:

* Screen is almost horizontal, at desk level — eliminates up-and-down head movement while copying or note-taking . . .
* Film travel is fully motorized, with variable speed . . .
* Image remains in focus during slow scan . . .
* A single lever controls direction, speed and vertical movements . . .
* 16mm and 35mm rolls can be used interchangeably without any adjustments . . .
* Parts warranty is for three years, instead of the usual one year.

If you act now, you can still get your MICRO PHOTO 16•35 with these revolutionary features at the introductory price — $980. Just fill out and mail the coupon below.

PLANNING MAJOR FILM PURCHASES? We plan to offer the MICRO PHOTO 16•35 Microfilm Reader in "package" combinations with our 35mm microfilm products. Ask your Micro Photo Sales Representative about possible savings.

MICRO PHOTO DIVISION

BELL & HOWELL

The Microfilm People

MICRO PHOTO DIVISION

Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691

☐ Please enter my order for _____ (Quantity) Bell & Howell MICRO PHOTO 16•35 Microfilm Reader(s), at the introductory price of $980 each, F.O.B. Orange, California.

☐ Please have a Micro Photo Sales Representative contact me.

SIGNED _____ TITLE _____

LIBRARY OR INSTITUTION _____

ADDRESS _____ PHONE _____

CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____

DATE _____ P.O. NUMBER _____ LJ10/76

TWO NEW MICRO-RESEARCH COLLECTIONS FROM

PUBLISHING CORPORATION
21 WEST STREET
NEW YORK, N.Y. 10006

THE COMPLEX WORLD OF CURRENCY
YESTERDAY AND TODAY
4100 BC - 1974 AD

1955-1974
PICK'S CURRENCY YEARBOOK
By Franz Pick, 19 volumes
Containing 11,568 pages on four microfilm reels (16mm, 20:1 reduction Positive image). ISBN 0-87551-651-5.
The most complete single source of current monetary information. Contains a comprehensive description and appraisal of all major currencies, including free and/or black market rates monthly since 1946, a supplementary review of minor monies, and latest developments in international gold markets with monthly bar and coin prices since 1947. There is also a complete survey of official exchange rate structures as well as a ten-year record of monetary depreciation. A special section on the Eurocurrency market is included with interest rate tables for Eurocurrency varieties. Resident and nonresident transferability regulations regarding international commercial and financial dealings are discussed, as are domestic currency restrictions.
PRICE . . . . . .$350.00

ALL THE MONIES OF THE WORLD
A Chronicle of Currency Values
By Franz Pick and Rene Sedillot.
One volume containing 620 pages on seven, 105mm x 148 mm microfiche cards. ISBN 0-87551-706-4.
Their birth, life and death through state bankruptcies are recorded in this unique publication. Fulfills the need for a standard reference work for students and professionals alike, who search through the hundreds of books in various languages for isolated information on monetary systems and institutions, depreciation of monies, devaluations, black market currency rates, etc. Recommended by Library Journal for business, financial and economics libraries. The volume is a chronology of kinds and values of currencies used in the world since man's first known experiments with a medium of exchange, i.e., 6,000 years of monetary history.
PRICE . . . . . .$24.95

LIBRARY AND BOOKDEALER DISCOUNT OF 20% ON PREPAYMENT ORDERS ONLY

"The new info professional" is focus of AALS meet

At the Association of American Library Schools annual meet, slated for January 28-30 in Washington, D.C. (immediately preceding ALA-Midwinter), there will be presentations and panel discussions on "The New Information Professional." The conference, which will be chaired by Brigitte L. Kenney of Drexel, will focus on such topics as alternative programs for professional education, content of curricula, recruitment, markets for the new information professionals, and planning relevant educational programs.

Among the speakers and presentations slated: Keynote Speaker Ronald G. Havelock of the University of Michigan's Institute of Social Research will zero in on "Information Professionals as Change Agents"; Robert S. Taylor (Syracuse University's School of Information Studies) and Robin D. Crickman (University of Michigan's Mental Health Institute) will tackle academic aspects of the education of new information professionals and training in interpersonal communications.

Also slated: a meeting showcasing the information science programs of the University of Western Ontario and the University of California, Los Angeles, with Elaine Svenonius (UWO) and Diana Thomas (UCLA) as speakers; a program on education in government documents, a session run with the cooperation of ALA's Government Documents Roundtable (GODORT); and a program exploring such topics as school media certification, joint degree programs, sixth-year programs, and off-campus education.

Building America's libraries: more joint occupancies

The budget crunch, coupled with a broadening of the library's role as an institution, seems to be paving the way for more joint occupancies. One recently reported example is a $6.6 million "educational cultural complex" housing the newest branch of the San Diego Public Library: the 8000 square foot facility is described as "a one-stop adult center to meet the cultural and educational needs of the economically depressed southeast San Diego community." Sponsors of the project are the federal government, and both the city and county of San Diego. The cultural complex is staffed by the county community college district and comes under its administration. The James P. Beckwourth library was built and will be operated by the city of San Diego; it has been named for James Beckwourth, the black trapper and explorer who discovered the Sierra Nevada pass that bears his name. Residents, students, and faculty members have access to the new facility.

Other reports of joint occupancies include a joint museum/library complex in Cokato, Minnesota—the newest branch of the Great River Regional Library. Cokato voters had okayed in 1974 a $170,000 bond election to pay construction costs. But the library will be open only 20.5 hours a week for starters "due to budgetary constraints." And in Arlington County, Virginia's Aurora Hills section, ground has been broken for a new branch public library to be housed with a recreation center and a fire station.

NYLA plans to survey adult book selection policies

The Resources Committee of the New York Library Association's Resources and Technical Services Section reports a forthcoming survey of adult material selection practices in New York libraries. The new study, says NYLA's Resources Committee, is a spin-off of the survey conducted last year by a joint committee of the Association of American Publishers and ALA's Resources and Technical Services Division. NYLA plans to mail out questionnaires to some 144 libraries.

More information about the project is available from William J. Myrick, Jr., Associate Librarian for Administrative Services, Brooklyn College Library, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11210.

Pay raises at UC-Berkeley

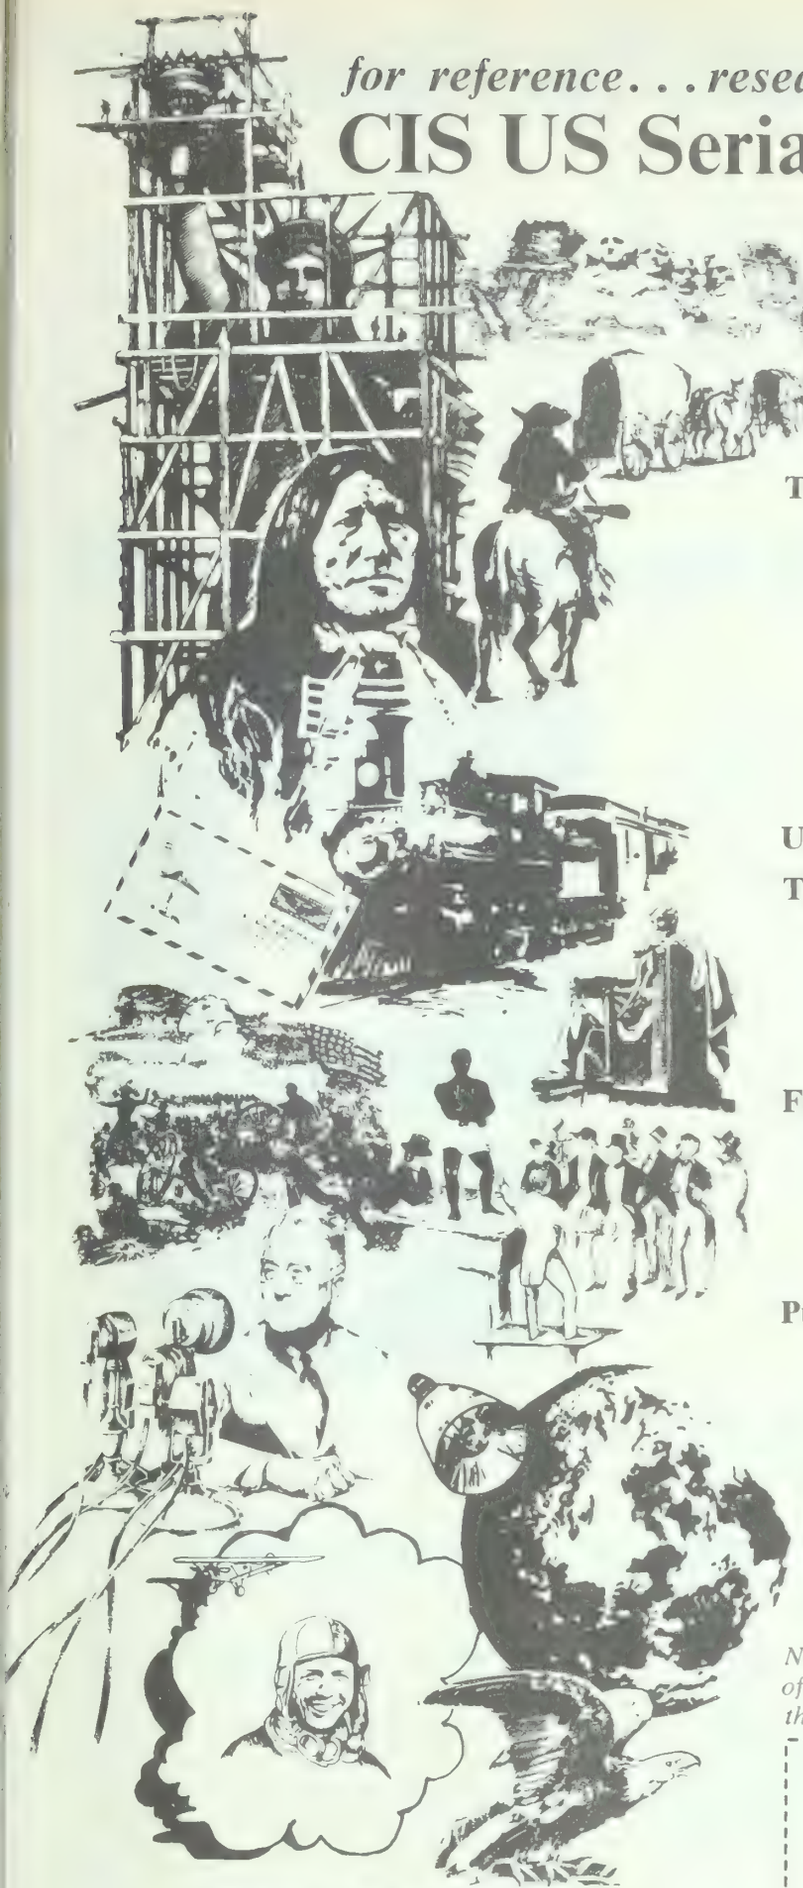
The University of California-Berkeley reports that all library personnel recently got a $70 per month salary raise. The pay scale for Assistant Librarian I went from $11,472 annually to $12,312; for Librarian V, salaries climbed from $27,252 to $28,092. Student assistant employees also got salary increases.

UC library assistants

The University of California-Irvine reports that its Library Assistant Staff Advisory Committee—a group that was formed to assist in a study of library assistant job reclassifications—now plans "a systemwide organization of library assistants with the ultimate aim of achieving official recognition from the university administration via the Library Council."

for reference . . . research . . . cataloging

CIS US Serial Set Index 1789-1969



The events that shaped America . . .

are recorded in depth and detail in the U.S. Serial Set, America's oldest on-going and most valuable document series. Every significant phase and facet of our nation's growth and development is thoroughly documented—explorations and expeditions . . . commerce and industry . . . social concerns and problems . . . foreign and domestic activities. It's all in the Serial Set—a massive collection of more than 325,000 individual titles containing over 11 million pages—but it has never been indexed in its entirety.

Until now.

The CIS US Serial Set Index . . .

will allow scholars and researchers to access fully—for the first time ever—the wealth of important information included in this primary reference source. The Index is an invaluable finding aid—complete, well-organized, and easy-to-use. It is also an authoritative shelf list.

Full text documents . . .

of the Serial Set are being published by CIS on silver-halide, archival quality microfiche to enable any library to acquire this vital historical reference source, in its most inclusive, compact, and durable form . . . fully catalogued and ready to use.

Published in twelve Index parts . . .

with companion Microfiche groups, the project that began in 1975 will be completed in 1979. Three parts are already available and a fourth will be published this year. The entire project will encompass the American State Papers and Serial Set publications of the 15th Congress through the 91st Congress, First Session. On standing order, each of the twelve Index parts is $360. Ordered individually, each part is $400. Companion Microfiche groups are available separately at an average cost of $8,950 per group.

Now for the first time, your library can have access to 180 years of documented American history. For further information, return the coupon below.

Congressional Information Service, Inc. SL 106-1
7101 Wisconsin Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20014

☐ Please send me descriptive information on the CIS US Serial Set Index and Microfiche, 1789-1969.

Name_____

Position_____

Library/Organization_____

Address_____

City_____ State_____ Zip_____

CIS

Congressional Information Service, Inc.
Washington, D.C.

Ask Your Wholesaler

Text-Fiche is a new kind of illustrated publication that can make available visual materials at a price that would not be possible in a book. Text-Fiche uses full color whenever appropriate—no need to settle for black-and-white for reasons of economy. Text-Fiche publication combines text and captions printed in a booklet with illustrations provided compactly and inexpensively on 4″ x 6″ transparent film cards.

With These Readers

The PMR-Pictorial Microfiche Reader-Projector

Bell & Howell's newly designed PMR unit offers the following features:

- An 11″ x 11″ gray neutral reader screen that doesn't distort color images as tinted screens do.
- A hinged door on the back of the reader can be lifted to project a three-foot-square image on a projection screen nine to twelve feet away without significant loss of color density.
- PMR comes equipped with a 25mm drop-in lens that has a 24x reduction ratio—the best magnification for pictorial fiche images—but equally appropriate for most common microfiche formats (For specialized applications, other drop-in lenses are also available).
- Focus is easily controlled by adjusting the knob on the side of the reader.
- The special high/low switch allows you to determine the amount of light necessary to illuminate the image.

$198.50

$34.95

NCR 456-113 Hand-Viewer

- The NCR Hand-Viewer is a monocular, ambient (stray) light reader. To use, the fiche is slipped into the plastic frame behind the lens and is moved manually to reposition each image.
- The lens is a front focus, 5-element lens with a magnification of 13x.
- A protective eye shield blocks vision in the eye not used for viewing.
- The NCR Hand-Viewer comes in a padded vinyl case and has a lens cap.
- Each image appears without distortion, and the Hand-Viewer's balanced illumination helps prevent eye fatigue.

These readers may be ordered through your distributor or the University of Chicago Press Text-Fiche Division
5801 S. Ellis Avenue, Chicago, IL 60637
Write for further information.

Text-Fiche Publication Division

About Text-Fiche...

T-F does for published pictures what the LP did for recorded music.

Just as, with LP records, music lovers can bring concert halls into their own homes, art lovers can bring art galleries and museums into theirs with T-F.

You Can See...

PHILLIPS COLLECTION / Foreword by Milton W. Brown. A COLLECTION IN THE MAKING: WORKS FROM THE PHILLIPS COLLECTION. 419 pictures on 5 color fiche. Text: ix, 60 pp. $27.50

NATIONAL COLLECTION OF FINE ARTS, SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION / Peter Bermingham. AMERICAN ART IN THE BARBIZON MOOD. 125 pictures on 2 color fiche. Text: 48 pp. Price to be announced

INTERNATIONAL MUSEUM OF PHOTOGRAPHY AT GEORGE EASTMAN HOUSE / Robert A. Sobieszek. BRITISH MASTERS OF THE ALBUMEN PRINT. 215 pictures on 3 color fiche. Text: 48 pp. $17.50

DUMBARTON OAKS COLLECTIONS / Edited by Elizabeth P. Benson. PRE-COLUMBIAN ART. 83 pictures on 1 color fiche. Text: iv, 16 pp. $7.95

SUE ALLEN / VICTORIAN BOOKBINDINGS: A PICTORIAL SURVEY. Revised Edition. 251 pictures on 3 color fiche. Text: v, 53 pp. $16.00

ISABELLA STEWART GARDNER MUSEUM / A SELECTION OF PAINTINGS, DRAWINGS, AND WATERCOLORS. 167 pictures on 2 color fiche. Text: 16 pp. Price to be announced.

BALTIMORE MUSEUM OF ART / Edited by Robert Flynn Johnson. AMERICAN PRINTS, 1870-1950. 81 pictures on 1 color fiche. Text: 48 pp. Price to be announced

WHITNEY MUSEUM OF AMERICAN ART / SELECTIONS FROM THE PERMANENT COLLECTION. 167 pictures on 2 color fiche. Text: 15 pp. Price to be announced

CHENEY COWLES MEMORIAL MUSEUM OF THE EASTERN WASHINGTON STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY / CORNHUSK BAGS OF THE PLATEAU INDIANS. 335 pictures on 4 color fiche. Text: v, 27 pp. $25.00

JOHN WHITE / POTTERY TECHNIQUES OF NATIVE NORTH AMERICA: AN INTRODUCTION TO TRADITIONAL TECHNOLOGY. 335 pictures on 4 color fiche. Text: vii, 53 pp. $25.00

ORIENTAL INSTITUTE / PERSEPOLIS AND ANCIENT IRAN. 82 pictures on 1 color fiche and 917 pictures on 11 b&w fiche. Text: viii, 49 pp. $25.00

ORIENTAL INSTITUTE / THE 1905-1907 BREASTED EXPEDITIONS TO EGYPT AND THE SUDAN: A PHOTOGRAPHIC SURVEY. Volume 1: 485 pictures on 6 b&w fiche. Text: viii, 13 pp. $12.50. Volume 2: 571 pictures on 7 b&w fiche. Text: viii, 16 pp. $12.50

Watch for more Text-Fiche coming this Fall and in the Spring.

The University of Chicago Press

Do Your Cassette Albums Pass the "Crunch Test"?

Let Tom show you how "the company that cares" builds extra durability into albums that you can "squeeze with ease." Step up to Blackbourn audio & video cassette albums, multi-media packaging, and loose-leaf binders.

Call Tom at (612) 646-2781
For Free Brochure, Quotes, or Additional Information.

blackbourn inc.

1821 University Ave.
St. Paul, Minnesota 55104

For Information, Circle 103 on Post Card

INTELLECTUAL FREEDOM

Ohio court bars book seizure by school boards

Asserting what it sees as "the right of students to receive information which their teachers desire them to have," Cincinnati's Court of Appeals recently ruled that school officials cannot arbitrarily remove from a school library books they find offensive. The ruling is of significance to the growing number of school libraries that have had their collections weeded by school board members asserting what they see as their right to protect youngsters from "vulgar, ungodly, communist" books. It marks a major setback for school board members who have appointed themselves censors and have forced school libraries to remove books—which have often classics—from their shelves.

The Appeals Court had ruled in the case of the Strongsville school district, where school officials had ordered the removal of Kurt Vonnegut's Cat's Cradle and Joseph Heller's Catch 22. The board's action, taken in 1972, had been upheld in 1974 by a U.S. District Court. But the parents of five public high school students, who had sued to get the books reinstated, then went to the appeals court, where the board's action was censured.

In its unanimous ruling, the Sixth Circuit Appeals Court wrote: "A library is a storehouse of knowledge. When created for a public school, it is an important privilege created by the state for the benefit of the students in the school. That privilege is not subject to being withdrawn by succeeding school boards whose members might desire to winnow the library for books the content of which occasioned their displeasure or disapproval." The court noted that even though the books in question might be available outside school, their removal from school library shelves would seriously impair the students' ability to get them—a situation that "runs counter to the First Amendment guarantee of free speech and press."

The court's ruling affects only books already on the shelves; it does not have any bearing on books that the board might want to acquire in the future. And the court did specifically uphold the board's right to disapprove of books used as texts in the classroom.

Alaska school board bans "vulgar" dictionary

The Anchorage, Alaska, School Board has voted to remove 1975 editions of the American Heritage Dictionary from all elementary schools in the municipality on the grounds that it contains definitions of "vulgar, slang words" that are "better left in the gutter." The board's action drew strong criticism from the city assembly, which after a unanimous vote sent off a stern letter opposing the ban.

But board members complained that city fathers should stick to fiscal matters and not interfere with the board's "right to set school policy . . . and make philosophical decisions." The board had, incidentally, rejected a school administration recommendation not to ban the dictionaries entirely but merely to more closely supervise their use by youngsters.

Also banned by the board were three textbooks on Mexico; these had drawn criticism from one resident, who condemned their purported use of stereotypes.

Britain's medical journals face government threat

Britain's Sunday Telegraph reports that a number of widely-used medical journals face financial ruin if the government goes ahead with its plan to channel most pharmaceutical advertisements into a limited number of publications that get "approved" by the Department of Health. Many of the threatened journals, contends the newspaper report, have been prominent in attacking government health policy and exposing shortcomings in the National Health Service. Among the journals threatened: World Medicine and Pulse.

David Burnett, director of the Periodical Publishers' Association, warns that "by interfering with advertising the government could distort . . . the current formula for press freedom" and that such a policy could set a dangerous precedent for the withholding of advertising from any publication whose editorial policy irks government officials. The present plan, contends Burnett, would mean death for some of the 20 or so "campaigning" publications (sent free to doctors) which stand to lose about £5,500,000 a year.

But the government says it has made a commitment to reduce drastically the amount spent by private drug companies on promotion and advertising. The National Health Service has been paying the advertising bills under a special arrangement which has successfully prompted drug companies to seek government approval before upping their prices. The government now wants to curb advertising—which made up about 14 percent of the National Health Services 1974 expenditure—by refusing to pay for any ad placed in medical publications not approved by NHS. It claims that "approved" journals are those which support themselves via subscription sales and are more likely to be read by doctors than the free publications.

"Sexist" biology books opposed

In Texas, the National Organization for Women has assailed biology books as "sexist," citing as one example a male figure used in a drawing showing a woman's ovaries. A more conservative women's group, the Austin Awareness League, has picked a different target for criticism: the sexual slang they found in the Random House Dictionary proposed for high school use.

THE LIBRARY DOLLAR

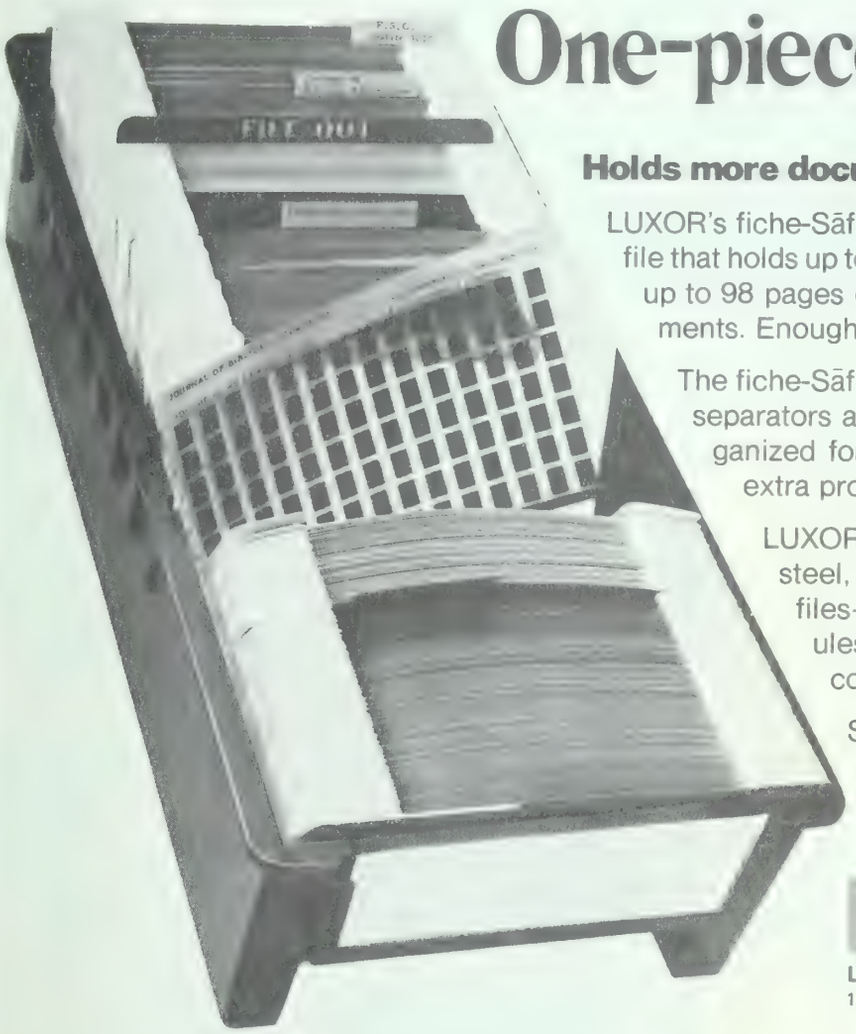
Budget cuts: N.Y., Wyoming, & British Columbia

Service and staff reduction at New York's Buffalo and Erie County Public Library, a new round of budget slashing affecting New York Public Library's branch system, and the scuttling of a proposed library system in British Columbia because of a loss in promised funding are among the latest reports of budget gloom to come to LJ.

• Trouble in Buffalo: New York's Buffalo and Erie County Public Library reports that budget cuts have forced the closing of one branch, reduction of service hours at all remaining branches to half-time, and drastic cuts in service to schools. As for staff, Buffalo has had to lay off 87 full-time employees and many past-time workers. Branches put on alternate day schedules have been paired, with one staff running two libraries on alternate days. Contracting libraries outside Buffalo must also develop curtailment plans.

• N.Y. libraries fight $$$ slashing: Supporters of New York's Columbia branch, one of several libraries that was the site of a sit-in earlier this year aimed at getting the branch reopened, are at it again—fighting what they see as a refusal of city government "to resume its financial responsibility to guarantee the survival of culture and literacy." Columbia branch supporters held a new sit-in in August and met with city officials early in September in efforts to stave off threatened layoffs of "at least 60 library staffers." New York's branch system lost $1.2 million in city aid on July 1, another $150,000 July 26, and now faces the loss of an additional $300,000. Also affected by city budget slashing is Harlem's Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture; Schomburg staffers are protesting the loss of two key positions—layoffs which they view as an example of racial discrimination.

• B.C. system proposal scuttled: The British Columbia Library Association's newsletter reports that a proposal for the creation of the Kootenay Library System has been scuttled because the government was unable to come up with funds for the establishment and op-



One-piece fiche-ing fleet

Holds more documents than four 4-drawer files

LUXOR's fiche-Sāf™ file is a compact (16" x 7¾"), self-contained file that holds up to 500 microfiche. Since each fiche reproduces up to 98 pages of 8½ x 11 size, that's a total of 49,000 documents. Enough to fill four 4-drawer files.

The fiche-Sāf file is available with all the necessary dividers, separators and envelopes for keeping fiche efficiently organized for easy retrieval. Plus optional dust cover for extra protection and easy stacking.

LUXOR's Microform Filing Center includes sturdy steel, lockable cabinets which hold up to 45 fiche-Sāf files—or 2,205,000 documents! Wide variety of modules fits your exact needs, and expands as your collection grows.

Send for FREE brochure on LUXOR Microform Filing Systems.

LUXOR

LUXOR CORPORATION
104 LAKEVIEW AVENUE • WAUKEGAN, ILLINOIS 60085
(312) 244-1800

Duplicate their efforts.

NEW Article Reprint Service.

University Microfilms International, in cooperation with publishers of journals, now offers a highly convenient Article Reprint Service. Now you can offer your patrons still another way of obtaining current information as well as provide your existing collections with valuable supplemental information. From a single article to a complete issue, you can receive reprints soon after placing your order. And, at reasonable prices, too.

YES! I would like to know more about the Article Reprint Service. Please send me full details on how I can order.

☐ Please include catalogue of available titles.

State . Zip .

Mail to:
University Microfilms International
Article Reprint Service, Dept. L.J.-10
300 North Zeeb Road
Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106

Consider these outstanding features:

- All available information is readily accessible.
- Retrieval of information simplified.
- Articles are duplicated to original size, up to 8½ x 11 inches.
- Titles are available from over 5,000 journals (1665 through current issues).
- Complete issues furnished with soft cover binding at no extra cost.
- Your order is acted upon immediately.

..and reduce yours.

NEW Serials Subscription Service.

Now you can take away the time-consuming duty of acquiring current periodicals for your collection. University Microfilms International has devised an all new Serials Subscription Service on Microform, that gives you the periodicals you want—in your choice of microfilm (16 or 35mm.) or microfiche.

ıst look at these advantages:

- Provides automatic delivery of the periodical's test publication year in Microform.
- Storage requirements are reduced by more than) per cent.
- Saves money ordinarily spent on binding copies.
- Single annual invoice provided with guaranteed nnual prices.
- Provides quarterly status reports.
- Easier control of fiscal year expenditures via renewal notices.
- Mutilation is reduced and access made easier.
- Over 7,000 titles available for selection.

YES! I would like to learn more about UMI's all new Serials Subscription Service. Please send me full details on how I can subscribe to this service.

☐ Please include catalogue of available titles.

Name _____

Title _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Mail to:
University Microfilms International
Serials Subscription Service, Dept. L.J.-10
300 North Zeeb Road
Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106

MARCFICHE . . . $295

MARCFICHE is cataloging and indexes on standard microfiche. It is the least expensive and most up-to-date source for cataloging data.

MARCFICHE contains ten years of English-language books, "popular" titles since 1900, recent films, maps, serials, and European-language publications. The eight hundred thousand items now on MARCFICHE grows by thousands of new titles each week.

MARCFICHE makes cataloging data easy to find. Even last week's LC cataloging may be approached from five directions: Card Number, ISBN, Main Entry and Title, and Call Number.

MARCFICHE is updated and cumulated weekly. The entire index of over three million entries is re-indexed quarterly. All MARC is included.

MARCFICHE is offered for free trial use. The complete set will be sent to your library without cost or obligation. To receive MARCFICHE, only a few samples, or additional information, phone (301) 840-1480 or write:

MARC APPLIED RESEARCH COMPANY
Post Office Box 40035, Washington, D.C. 20016
A Division of The Library Corporation

eration of the system. The government will continue to give direct library assistance to individual libraries in the Kootenay area, but it has withdrawn funding for a bookmobile demonstration project.

• Natrona Co. loses out: Losses in oil tax revenue, a major source of library funding support in Wyoming's Natrona County, are blamed for a "sharp cut" in the budget of the Natrona County Library. Director John Peters says the cutbacks will reduce staff positions in the special services department, the bookmobile, and the AV department.

• Wood pulp price hike in the offing: According to a recent Predicasts, Inc. study, wood pulp prices are expected to rise sharply in the coming year because of slowing production; the price hikes will undoubtedly be felt by the publishing industry, which will probably be forced to up the going price for books and periodicals.

Funding in California: $$ for salaries, circulation

California State Librarian Ethel Crockett reports that the State Library got a 1976-77 general fund appropriation of $3,661,065; the appropriation will go up to $3,835,000 when salary increases ($70 for all employees) go into effect. Also approved by the governor was the State Library's request for $286,000 for an automated circulation system for materials for the blind and physically handicapped.

But Crockett notes that per capita public library aid in California is only four cents; the California Library Association is pressing for new legislation to up per capita aid.

Florida's Broward Co. system wins funding boost

The two-year old Broward County Library System has won a $600,000 boost in funding for fiscal year 1976-77 thanks to the coordinated efforts of board members, Friends, and interested citizens, reports Director Stephen Whitney. The Board of County Commissioners approved a budget of $2,653,000 for the library system.

The budget for books, periodicals, and films, says Whitney, is up from last year's total of $278,000 to $564,000. The 1976-77 budget will also pay for a new library facility in the western part of Broward County, expansion of the Coral Springs branch, and renovation of the interiors of the Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood libraries.

LIBRARIAN'S SPECIALTIES

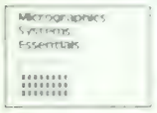
Preservatives, book & document stands, page weights, slip cases, boxes, restoratives, bookplate remover, etc.

Send for illustrated brochure listing items for book and document care and preservation.

THE CURRENT COMPANY
P.O. Box 46 / Bristol, R.I. 02809

Booksellers/Publishers
specializing in
Calligraphy & Paleography
Pentalic Corporation
152 West 22nd Street New York, N.Y. 10011
catalog on request

FREE CATALOG
101 MICROGRAPHIC ESSENTIALS



...practical products that help improve any micro system.

TAYLOR-MERCHANT
MICROGRAPHICS

Minneapolis reduces service hrs.

Faced with a potential 1977 budget deficit of $200,000, the Minneapolis Public Library and Information Center's board of trustees recently ordered a reduction in hours of service at 14 MPLIC community libraries. But the Central Library and North Regional Library were not affected by the cutback in hours. In paring costs, the board decided against reducing the budgets for materials or staff. Despite the shortened schedule, it does not anticipate any layoffs and plans to redistribute present permanent full- and part-time employees among community libraries. Minneapolis depends on local sources for 94 percent of its budget; hours of service will be restored if increases in state or federal aid are okayed.

Minnesota building $$

Ralph Hopp, who will retire July 1 from his post as director of Libraries at the University of Minnesota, reports that the Minnesota legislature has voted nearly $5 million for a major addition to the St. Paul Campus Library; it had earlier approved $12 million for a new Law School Building—a large part of which will be library.

Beating the budget crunch

The status of state and national funding, fund-raising and grantsmanship, and stretching limited library budgets were among the topics discussed at a recent New York Library Association institute on "Beating the Budget Crunch." Both audio and video tapes of the institute are now available. To get the tapes, contact Mary F. Bobinski, Director, Amherst Public Libraries, 770 Hopkins Rd., Williamsville, N.Y. 14221.

Denver's budget plight worse

Denver Public Library Director Henry Shearouse, Jr. has told LJ that the library's budget plight is a lot worse than had been reported in LJ's August issue. Through a misreading of DPL's newsletter The Inkling, which stated that all Denver city agencies were asked to budget for a 20 percent cut in 1977 (a cut on top of a 1976 cutback of ten percent) LJ did understate the extent of the budget plight of DPL. Shearouse said that "we do not know what the final effect [of city-mandated cutbacks] on all city agencies will be [at this time], although we anticipate that it will probably be in the neighborhood of 13 to 15 percent."

Oregon library support up

Says the new Directory of Oregon Libraries, the rate of increase in library aid from city, county, and federal government dropped from 1974's 17 percent to a mere eight percent—mostly Revenue Sharing allocations with five LSCA grants reported. But library expenditures went up from 16 to 21 percent, a rise partly resulting from the reporting of grant expenditures. Per capita statewide spending went up from $3.60 to $4.29 for a population estimated up in 1974 by 11 percent; some 19 percent (432,251) of the population are still without public library service. But circulation is up 11 percent, bringing per capita circulation to 5.2—actually 6.4 in served areas—with Baker County leading with an 11.2 per capita and expenditures per capita at $7.44.

Grant listings on microfiche

The Foundation Center (New York City) announces a new service that could help grant-seekers select those major foundations which might fund research in a specific subject area: computer-generated listings on microfiche of 1975 grants in 43 broad subject fields. Each microfiche subject card (in most cases one card lists all grants available) contains such information as the grant amount, name and location of the recipient organization, a description of the activity funded, and the like. Each category includes its own alphabetical index to foundations which have made grants in that field. The microfiche, which costs $3 per card, can be ordered from The Foundation Center, 888 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10019.

Jewish studies at Harvard

Pointing to what they see as "the need to strengthen and expand the program in Jewish studies at Harvard," University President Derek Bok and the Fellows of Harvard College have authorized a campaign to raise an endowment for a Harvard University Center for Jewish Studies. Of a target sum of $15 million, $2.5 million is earmarked for the endowment of additional book funds and curatorships in the Harvard Judaica Collection. The fund-raising campaign will be run by some 225 volunteers under the chairmanship of Gerard Weinstock of Larchmont, New York; chairman of the Campaign Library Committee is William Lee Frost, vice president of the Friends of the Harvard Judaica Collection. Frost announced the establishment of 12 new Judaica book funds, ranging in size from $5000 to $100,000—a combined endowment which totals almost $250,000.

OUTSTANDING

NEW OFFERINGS

from KTO Microform

The Constitutions and Laws of the American Indian

This collection, based on the acclaimed Bibliography of the Constitutions and Laws of the American Indians by Lester Hargrett, gathers documents of the Cherokee, Creek, Nez Perce, Seneca and many other nations. Hardbound copy of the Hargrett bibliography included.

35mm microfilm. Immediately available.

State Secession Debates 1859-1862

The complete official record of fifteen states' discussions of the crucial issue whether to secede. Journals, proceedings, acts, proclamations, resolutions, and other documents. With printed bibliographic index.

35mm microfilm. Immediately available; complete or by state.

Boston Symphony Orchestra Program Notes 1881-1975

Ninety-five years of detailed description of over 4,000 orchestral works performed by the famed Boston Symphony Orchestra. These notes have become a standard by which program literature is measured. Index includes a listing of the conductor, soloist and date of performance of every piece performed.

35mm microfilm. Immediately available.

U.S. Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System. Statistical Releases

The complete statistical breakdown of all published Federal Reserve data, from 1919 through 1975. Releases are organized chronologically by subject, with an index both on microfilm and hardbound copy, enabling users to locate specific releases.

35mm microfilm. Available March, 1977.

Descriptive brochures on request.

Also, write for a free copy of our General Microform Catalogue which contains more than 700 publications—journal and newspaper backfiles, current subscription titles, official government gazettes, and additional special collections of scholarly resource material.

KTO MICROFORM
A U.S. Division of Kraus-Thomson Organization Ltd.
Route 100
Millwood, New York 10546

ECONO-CLAD BOOKS

THE ECONOMICAL ALTERNATIVE TO PUBLISHER'S HARDBACKS

(paperbacks in permanent covers)

* Over 2,500 titles in stock
* For grades K-14
* Outlast paperbacks 6 to 1
* 1/2 - 1/3 the cost of publisher's tradebound editions
* Guaranteed satisfaction

FOR FREE CATALOG, WRITE:

AMERICAN ECONO-CLAD SERVICES

Dept. LJ 10
507 Jackson Street
Topeka, Kansas 66603

DIVISION OF

THE AMERICAN COMPANIES, INC.

A SYNERGETICS DICTIONARY

ON MICROFICHE

concepts, definitions, and generalized principles discovered or formulated by

BUCKMINSTER FULLER

meticulously recorded, compiled, arranged and cross referenced for easy access by Fuller's collaborator,

E. J. Applewhite

The work embraces the whole body of his writings, letters, lectures, table talk and marginalia on the subjects of Synergetic Geometry and Philosophy presented in Fuller's own words and is an index and adjunct to his major work:

"Synergetics: Explorations in the Geometry of Thinking"
Macmillan, 1975

A substantial portion of the material is hitherto unpublished in any other form.

Approximately 250 105mm x 148mm silver halide microfiche

$250.00

To order, or for information, contact:

Princeton Datafilm Incorporated
Box 231,
Princeton Junction, NJ 08550

LIBRARY COOPERATION

OCLC names board to study expansion

Faced with criticism from out-of-state customers that want to have a say in the governance of the Ohio College Library Center, OCLC's board of trustees has appointed a 13-member advisory council to come up with a plan for extending membership outside Ohio. The 700-odd individual libraries and consortia that have contracted for out-of-state service from OCLC do not now have any leverage in OCLC decision-making because only Ohio members can vote.

The new advisory council has also been asked to look into a possible reorganization of OCLC. For starters, the council agreed to work with a consulting firm "in suggesting what a computerized nationwide library network might look like in the future, and what OCLC's functions might be in such a network."

Named to the advisory council are: Thomas H. Anderson of The Andersons, a Maumee, Ohio feed and grain firm; Frederick Burkhardt of the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science; William Chait of Ohio's Dayton and Montgomery County Public Library; Richard De Gennaro of the University of Pennsylvania; Daniel Lacy of McGraw-Hill; Barbara Evans Markuson of the Indiana Cooperative Library Services Authority (INCOLSA); Charles B. Maurer of Denison University, Granville, Ohio; Washington State Librarian, Roderick Swartz; R. L. Wagner of Bell Laboratories; David C. Weber of Stanford; Robert Wedgeworth of the American Library Association; Deputy Librarian of Congress, William Welsh; and Ronald L. Wigington of Chemical Abstracts Service.

Noting that Thomas Anderson was the only council member without an obvious connection with libraries, LJ asked OCLC's Frederick Kilgour why the head of a feed and grain company was appointed. "OCLC," said Kilgour, "recognized his ability as a corporate executive in an organization that is growing rapidly just as OCLC is." The Andersons, he explained, is "not just a local outfit but is expanding nationally." Describing the firm as a "very interesting concern," Kilgour noted that the firm is not only into the feed and grain business, but is also expanding into nurseries. Kilgour mentioned that he had tried to get two economists on the council because he felt that librarians don't have enough know-how about the kind of financing required by OCLC. In Anderson, he said OCLC had someone with "financial finesse."

And Toledo-Lucas County's Lewis Naylor says that Anderson deserved the appointment to OCLC's Council. Backing up his contention, Naylor noted that besides serving as president of the Ohio Library Association's trustee group and as a member of the Toledo-Lucas board, Anderson deserves credit for his work in getting the big Toledo city-county library merger off the ground.

OCLC public access: test run successful

Reporting on a 23-week experiment in which library patrons did their own searches on OCLC terminals, the State Library of Ohio reports that "library patrons accepted the terminal as a convenient and rapid mode of access to needed information." Terminals had been placed at reference desks and other public service areas in four academic libraries (Case Western Reserve, Oberlin College, Ohio State University, and Ohio University), two public libraries (Dayton and Montgomery County Public Library and the Toledo-Lucas County Public Library), and the State Library. They were used by 51,293 patrons during the 1975 test period.

A questionnaire survey of user reactions revealed that: "OCLC terminals, heretofore utilized only by library staff, were found readily acceptable to the general public. The majority of library users were able to retrieve information faster and, when given the option, preferred the terminal over the card catalog. Little difficulty was encountered in operating the terminal, but a majority of the respondents had indicated previous terminal experience. Most . . . terminal use was done by young, registered, frequent patrons of libraries."

A 19-page report on the experiment has been prepared by W. Stuart Debenham, Jr., Kunj Rastogi, and Philip Schieber; it is available via interlibrary loan from the Ohio State Library (025.5 D350).

College library booklist in MARC

ALA reports that the 1975 edition of Books for College Libraries is now available in machine-readable tape form (MARC II Communication format) for $650. Address inquiries and orders to Publishing Services, ALA, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

The Tool Box.

There's a growing demand by library users for factual business information.

But until now, most libraries couldn't effectively use the greatest business reference source there is—the reports filed by America's public corporations with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

More than 11,000 companies file these reports, making the SEC the repository of hundreds of thousands of business facts. The most important of these are the 10-K's—the annual business and financial report which contains the most comprehensive and current data.

Now you can offer your library users access to these vital facts in a matter of minutes.

It's made possible by what Disclosure Incorporated calls "The Tool Box."

In case you didn't know, Disclosure is a primary source of corporate intelligence. We specialize in publishing and distributing SEC filings to the people who need them.

The Tool Box consists of three things:

1. 10-K reports on the Fortune 500 Companies, all on microfiche.
2. One Realist Vantage Microfiche Reader.
3. One durable metal filing box.

The Tool Box hardly covers the top of a small table. But the business subjects it covers, and makes instantly accessible, are incredibly vast—everything from technology, marketing, and finance to labor agreements, executive compensation, environmental and other problems.

Get The Tool Box, and suddenly you have a business reference library that anyone can use in minutes. Your library offers an entire new dimension of service, in an area of increasing interest to investors, attorneys, accountants, bankers, business executives, and the general public.

The Tool Box costs $1,725 complete. Without the microfiche reader, the price is $1,525. This offer is good until November 30, 1976.

For more information, mail this coupon today.

DISCLOSURE INCORPORATED
4827 Rugby Avenue, Bethesda, Maryland 20014

I'd like to learn more about The Tool Box. I'm interested in ☐ 10-K Reports on the Fortune 500 Companies ☐ Annual Reports to Shareholders ☐ Information on Other Packages and Services

Name _____

Library _____ Title _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Telephone ( ) _____

Best time to call _____

A Reliance Group Corporation

LJ-106

Disclosure Incorporated

G. E. & Sylvania

PROJECTOR LAMPS

Please don't give us lamp orders at list price. We'd rather give you

32% TO 42% OFF

Compare Sitler's Prices With What You Have Been Paying:

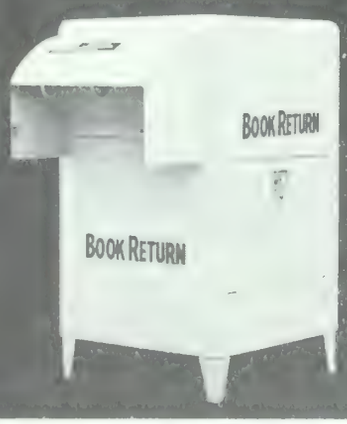
LAMP NO	LIST PRICE	6—23 (32% OFF)	24-UP (42% OFF)
CWA	$12.55	$8.53	$7.28
DCF	10.55	7.17	6.12
DEK	9.15	6.22	5.31
DYS	13.55	9.21	7.86
ELH	14.40	9.79	8.35
EMM	14.90	10.13	8.64
FCR	11.05	7.51	6.41
FCS	7.85	5.34	4.55
1240	4.03	2.74	2.34

Assortable for best price. Many other numbers in stock. Transportation paid on $100.00 or more net orders. Minimum order $25.00 net. You may assort for best price. ORDER TODAY, OR WRITE FOR OUR COMPLETE PRICE SHEET!

Sitler's SUPPLIES, INC.

213-19 N. Iowa, P.O. Box 10-x
Washington, Iowa 52353
Phone 319-653-2123

Drive-Up Book Collector



- Auto-Page works around the clock to reduce overdues and increase lending volume
- Sturdy steel construction resists weather and theft
- Spring lowering feature cushions and protects books
- Priced within all library budgets. Call or write today:

The BOARDMAN Company
P. O. Box 26088
Oklahoma City, Oklahoma 73126
Phone (405) 634-5434

Western N.Y. libraries link with state data bank

Oswald Joerg, director of New York's Nioga Library System, reports that a $25,000 Library Services and Construction Act grant is funding a pilot program whereby public and institutional libraries in Western New York are doubling as major research facilities; they have a tie-in with the computer data banks at the New York State Library at Albany. Any citizen can make use of a free computer search service by contacting a data base librarian at one of the three Western New York public library systems—Nioga, Buffalo and Erie County, or Chautauqua-Cattaraugus—or at the Western New York Library Resources Council, headquartered at the Buffalo library and including all public, institutional, and industrial libraries in the three-system area.

The job of the data base librarian is to interview patrons to determine if the computer banks would be the most effective way to get information sought, and if so, then to develop a search procedure. The computer search service provides access to: The New York Times Information Bank; the National Institute of Education's ERIC data bank; Psychological Abstracts; MEDLARS data bank of international biomedical journals; and the BIOSIS data bank on life science literature citations.

Joerg reports that about $15,000 of the one-year LSCA grant will pay for computer search charges, and the other $10,000 will pay the salary of the Albany-based librarian who will handle data requests from Western New York libraries.

Kansas & Iowa are latest BCR-Denver customers

Denver's Bibliographical Center for Research (Donald Simpson, director) reports that the state libraries of Kansas and Iowa are the latest to contract for statewide service from BCR. Other states that became BCR customers earlier include: Colorado, South Dakota, Utah, and Wyoming. With the signing of the new contracts, Kansas State Librarian Ernestine Gilliland and Iowa State Librarian Barry L. Porter were appointed to BCR's board of trustees.

Among the services offered by the BCR network: an Interlibrary Loan Clearinghouse, which utilizes BCR's 6.5 million title Regional Union Catalog; shared online cataloging via the OCLC (Ohio College Library Center) and BALLOTS systems; and computerized information retrieval of data bases developed by Lockheed, System Development Corporation (California), and The New York Times, to mention a few.

Texas MARCIVE co-op offers SDI service

MARCIVE, a San Antonio, Texas-based cooperative serving some 200 institutions—most of them members of the Counsel of Research and Academic Libraries (CORAL) consortium—announces a new SDI (Selective Dissemination of Information) service which will provide a weekly printout of all bibliographic information within a specific subject or subject areas—data derived from MARC tapes. Besides providing lists of new titles keyed to a library's subject profile, the service will provide information needed for "requesting book catalogs, microfiche catalogs, or catalog cards from San Antonio's MARCIVE."

For more information on the service, contact Ruby Miller, MARCIVE Users Group, Trinity University Library, 715 Stadium Dr., San Antonio, Tex. 78284.

Cooperation in Ohio: multitype library council

The State Library of Ohio reports the creation of the state's first multitype library council, the Library Council of Fairfield County. The new council has representatives from 33 academic, public, private, and special libraries. Its goal is "to create good relationships among various types of libraries, and provide a vehicle for communicating mutual needs and solving mutual problems." For starters, the Council plans the publication of a county directory, a union list of periodicals, and a PR workshop.

The State Library credits an Ohio State University Interlibrary Cooperation Planning Institute, held last year, with providing the initiative for the formation of the new Council—a first in the state.

Consultant firm to peg Southern network growth

The Southern Regional Educational Board (SREB) has retained R&D Consultants of Los Altos, California to study the organizational and fiscal structure needed to support expected rapid growth of computerized library networks in the South. The study, to be led by R&D's Brett Butler, will review national network developments; its primary focus will be on the activities of SOLINET (Southeastern Library Network) and other cooperatives and consortia in the region.

Pa. college gets $$ to improve search ability

Three members of the library faculty at Shippensburg State College (Pennsylvania) recently received a National Science Foundation grant to develop a pilot program to improve the ability of the staff to perform searches of online data bases. The primary purpose of the project, says Shippensburg, is to enable college faculty and graduate students to attain the same expertise in online data base searching "as their colleagues at larger research institutions." Grant recipients are: Scott Brutjen, Madelyn Valunas, and Signe Kelker.

The grant will pay for local workshops on search techniques and subsidized literature searches for faculty members.

Shared cataloging in Britain

The British Library reports that starting next year it will make short-term arrangements to provide online services from its MARC bibliographic file. Its goal, says the Library of Congress Information Bulletin, "is to gain early experience of online shared cataloging, as already used by several hundred libraries in the United States." BL's file covers records for the majority of British copyright material since 1950 plus Library of Congress MARC records.

Interstate reciprocal borrowing

The California State Library reports that four California county libraries (Alpine, Placer, El Dorado, and Mono) and three Nevada county libraries (Washoe, Douglas, and Ormsby) have entered into a reciprocal borrowing agreement for a one-year trial period. The California libraries involved are members of the Mountain-Valley Library System: Mountain-Valley's Resource Development Librarian Maureen Pennisi is credited with getting the libraries to sign formal borrowing agreements. The Nevada libraries belong to the statewide interlibrary loan system, Information Nevada. Both systems, says CSL, view the reciprocal borrowing agreement "as a study tool for library usage patterns and as a planning aid for bi-state library agreements on other types of service."

Choice on OCLC

Choice, the book review publication of ALA's Association of College and Research Libraries, reports that the OCLC (Ohio College Library Center) system has proven to be of great use in checking the accuracy of titles cited within the periodical's reviews and in the retrospective bibliographic essays. Choice Editor Richard K. Gardiner supplied interesting figures on the June run of titles against the OCLC tapes: of 600 titles, 350 MARC records were found and 100 CIP records. Another 100 high quality records, input by members of the network other than the Library of Congress, were found. There remained 50 "questionable main entries," which Choice singled out by running them with a warning asterisk, says a report in the NELINET newsletter.

FORGET EVERYTHING YOU EVER HEARD ABOUT CURRENT EVENTS RETRIEVAL . . .

JUST RELY ON NEWSBANK!!!

NewsBank is by definition an on-going anthology of news reports collected from more than 200 newspapers from 125 cities from coast-to-coast, monitored and compiled daily, and reproduced in their entirety on easy-to-use microfiche, complete with a printed index for instant retrieval.

Current events are broken down into the following categories: Business and Economic Development, Consumer Affairs, Education, Employment, Environment, Government Structure, Health, Housing and Urban Renewal, Law and Order, Political Development, Social Relations, Transportation, and Welfare and Poverty.

Yes, NewsBank works! To make NewsBank work for you, call, write or wire: Mr. James F. Connolly, NewsBank, Inc., Department O, P. O. Box 645, Greenwich, CT (203) 661-2230.

NewsBank, Inc.
The Now News Index
P.O. Box 645
22 West Putnam Avenue
Greenwich, Connecticut 06830

PROGRAM ALERT

Culture via folklore series; adult educ. & opera junkets

A four-part series on Alabama folklore, Oklahoma's new Open Access Satellite Education Service, and Long Island, New York's efforts to bus patrons to opera performances at Lincoln Center are among the latest reports of initiatives undertaken by libraries that want to help the public explore new cultural horizons.

• American folklore: A grant from the Alabama State Council on the Arts and Humanities and the National Endowment for the Arts fueled a four-part series on Alabama folkways at the Mobile Public Library. Presentations included Julian Lee Rayford telling folk tales and singing chants of the Gulf South; English country and early American folk dances by the Organic School Dancers of Fairhope; African-American folk sketches by Henry C. Williams; and a discussion on music of the Southern frontier by musicians James Kellaris and Eric Mele. Each program was videotaped and added to the library's collection.

• Adult education in Oklahoma: The Oklahoma County Libraries System and the South Oklahoma City Junior College have received a $60,000 federal grant for an innovative adult education program called OASES (Open Access Satellite Education Services). Starting in October, area residents will be able to take a large range of programs at OCLS' Capitol Hill branch. Among the prospective courses offered: a college course in American history, a program on rape prevention, a seminar in applied accounting, an English-language course for Mexican Americans, a story telling workshop for day care center staff, an aerobic exercise class, and a college course in advanced emergency technology over the Talkback Television network.

• Opera junkets: Noting the success of its summer bus trips to the theater, New York's Long Beach Public Library has slated two junkets this fall to New York's Lincoln Center for opera.

• Traveling art exhibits: Seven art collections, including 200 original prints, are offered free to colleges and schools by Philadelphia's Hunt Manufacturing Company; during the September to May phase of the program, institutions can borrow the collections for a three-week period. The collections offered include contemporary prints, Japanese prints, a collection of calligraphy and lettering, and historical woodcuts and wood engravings. All packaging and transportation costs must be prepaid; each current exhibitor receives addressed labels with prepaid stamps to forward the exhibit directly to the next organization on the schedule. Institutions interested in booking an exhibit (libraries can get them during the summer months) should contact Hunt Manufacturing Co., 1405 Locust St., Philadelphia, Pa. 19102.

EDUCATIONAL MEDIA CATALOGS ON MICROFICHE

Your one-shot solution to the problem of maintaining audiovisual software catalogs. This complete collection includes media materials released through July 1976. Both current and practical, EMCOM is often requested and gets used again and again.

226 NMA diazo positive fiche, with an accumulated hard-copy index, plus Fall Supplements to follow.

$87.75

"A bargain"–Microform Review

OLYMPIC Media Information

(212) 675-4500 71 West 23 Street
New York, NY 10010

10 oz natural canvas, double stitched sturdy handles

Size	Price
18" x 22"	$8.00
22" x 28"	$9.50
28" x 33"	$9.50
35" x 45"	$12.60

Plus Shipping

M&M BAGS M20, CLOVER BUILDING,
203 WEST HOLLY STREET, Bellingham, Wa. 98225

Referral service, train info & service to government

Enoch Pratt's new community referral service, one New Jersey library's award-winning Municipal Government Information Center, and a Michigan library's information center for train travellers are among the latest reports of efforts by libraries to reach their communities by providing them with vital information services.

• Enoch Pratt tries again: Baltimore's Enoch Pratt Free Library has launched a new information service called INFER (Information for Every Resident). Enoch Pratt had tried out an information service a few years ago, but that project flopped. Among the reasons blamed for its failure: insufficient PR, understaffing, and almost total reliance on walk-in—instead of the more popular telephone—service. Learning from experience, Enoch Pratt's new INFER service is offered at all library units and may be consulted by phone or in person. Library staffers have access to INFER files containing data on over 2300 public and private organizations equipped to help people with such concerns as employment, housing, child care, legal aid, recreation, health, or consumer complaints.

• Service to local government: New Jersey's Monmouth County Library has developed a forward-looking service to local government—one that has won the commendation of the National Association of Counties. Director John H. Livingstone reports that Monmouth's Municipal Government Information Center was launched in 1972 with funding from a State Library incentive grant. The center is now staffed by a full-time and one part-time librarian, who work directly with local officials. The Center provides both backgrounding and specific data on grant opportunities, model ordinances, comparative salary scales, methods of evaluating a police department, and developing environmental master plans. The Center, says Livingstone, gets some 700 information requests a year, most of them from town clerks, mayors, and town administrators. One indication of the program's success: the center has been declared a county document depository, and it now gets many local documents that would have otherwise been missed.

• Train info: Michigan's Durand Public Library serves as an AMTRAK information center, providing travellers with information on train arrivals and departures and handing out train schedules. The library also schedules tours of the baggage car museum and sells Depot Commemorative Plates, reports the newsletter of the Mideastern Michigan Library Cooperative.

Inmates' info needs explored at Maryland meet

At the invitation of the Library Coordinator for Maryland's Division of Correction, 41 local media and communications specialists came to a Maryland maximum security penitentiary to discuss the communication needs of inmates who too often are deprived of traditional communications and information technology. Participants in the seven-hour conference, Exploring Information and Communication Needs of Inmates, concluded that a prison communications network is vital to the success of educational and rehabilitation programs.

Among the services suggested as essential network components: an information and referral service operating out of the prison library, an institutional radio and television system for academic and vocational training, and a prison newsletter. Conference participants included specialists from area colleges and representatives from the Governor's Commission, the Mayor's Office of Tele-Communication, National Public Radio, the National Black News Service, the Jewish Big Brother League, St. John's Council for Criminal Justice, McBee Laboratories, the Maryland State Department of Education, and the American Bar Association.

Videotapes of the conference will be made available. Any inquiries should go to Brenda Vogel, Library Coordinator, Division of Correction, 6314 Windsor Mill Rd., Baltimore, Md. 21207. The number to call is (301) 944-7028, ext. 54.

IMP oral history project focuses on photographers

A $20,000 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities will fuel a pilot oral history program to be run by the International Museum of Photography (IMP) at Rochester, New York's Eastman House: it will concentrate on four major figures in photography. Transcripts of the interviews, says IMP, will be made available to scholars, photographers, and other interested persons through the museum archives.

The project aims "to establish an archive of interviews created by private individuals." Persons willing to donate relevant tapes to the project—tax deductions and the freedom to keep literary rights are mentioned as incentives—should contact James McQuaid, IMP/GEH Oral History Project, International Museum of Photography, 900 E. Ave., Rochester, N.Y. 14607.

PEOPLE

J. BRODY

K. O'BRIEN

P. WOODRUM

JEANNE ANDEREGG, formerly Humanities Bibliographer and Acquisitions Coordinator at the Chester Fritz Library, University of North Dakota, is now Head of the Acquisitions Department, Mugar Memorial Library, Boston University.

JOSEPH BAKER, formerly Supervisor of Adult Services, Pomona Public Library, California, is now Director of the Musser Public Library, Muscatine, Iowa.

FAY M. BLAKE, formerly Lecturer, School of Librarianship, University of California, Berkeley, has been appointed Reader Services Librarian, California State Polytechnic University Library, Pomona, Calif.

JULIA BRODY, formerly Coordinator of Administrative Services for the New York Public Library's Branch Library System, has been appointed Acting Chief of the Mid-Manhattan Library.

ROBERT E. BURTON, formerly Assistant Director of Public Services for the State University of New York at Buffalo Libraries, has been appointed Director of Libraries at Plattsburgh State University, N.Y.

C. J. CAMBRE, JR., formerly Head of the Circulation Department, University of South Carolina Libraries, Columbia, has been appointed Assistant Director of Libraries for Operations.

VIRGINIA N. CESARIO, formerly Acting Chief Librarian, Library Department, City College, City University of New York, has been appointed Chief Librarian and Chairperson of the Department. She is the first woman to hold that position at the college.

MARIANNE COOPER, currently completing her dissertation for the D.L.S. at Columbia University, is now a full-time faculty member of the Library Science Department of Queens College, City University of New York.

CYNTHIA CORBIN, formerly Librarian of the Walter Branch, Houston Public Libraries, has been appointed Coordinator of the Houston Area Library System.

LOIS M. DECHERT, formerly a consultant with the Mid-York Library System, Utica, New York, has been appointed Assistant Director of the Southern Tier Library System, Corning, N.Y.

GARY N. DENUE, formerly Assistant Director of Libraries, University of North Dakota, has been named Director of Libraries, University of Detroit.

PETER DRAZ, formerly Director of the South Huntington Public Library, New York, has been appointed Head Librarian of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin, Madison.

JOHN T. EASTLICK, formerly Professor, Graduate School of Librarianship, University of Denver, has been appointed Associate Dean of the School.

ANNE MARIE FALSONE, formerly Supervisor of Title IV B School Library Media Programs, Colorado Department of Education, has been named Colorado's Deputy State Librarian.

PATRICIA GAVEN, formerly Director of the North Star Borough Library System, Fairbanks, Alaska, has been appointed Library Director, Englewood Library, N.J.

IRENE GITOMER, has been appointed Head of the Central Library, Pleasant Hill, Calif.

JOHN H. GRIBBIN, Library Director, Tulane University, has been appointed Director of Libraries, University of Missouri, Columbia, effective January 17, 1977

JOVIAN LANG, O.F.M., is now Acting Director, Division of Library and Information Science, St. John's University, N.Y.

KATHERINE LORD O'BRIEN, Chief of the New York Public Library's Mid-Manhattan Library, has retired.

GERALD SHIELDS, formerly Admissions and Placement Officer, State University of New York at Buffalo, is now Assistant Dean.

PAT WOODRUM, Acting Director of the Tulsa City-County Library System, has been appointed Director.

Visiting your library could be a real lifesaver!

Especially if your library has the "LIVING WITH" series on its shelves.

St. Martin's published LIVING WITH YOUR ULCER over five years ago. Since then the "LIVING WITH" series has grown to include bad backs, bronchitis and emphysema, eye operations, colitis and hemorrhoids.

Practical, useful, geared to the average reader, these books have quietly grown into a strong backlist series with excellent reviews. (see below)

We feel these books are so important to those who need them, we're taking this opportunity to remind you of them. Do you have them on your shelves? In suitable quantities? Are they clearly visible?

The "LIVING WITH" books are more than just another series: for some of your library users they could be real life savers.

LIVING WITH YOUR ULCER

by Theodore Berland and Mitchell A. Spellberg, M.D.

"The style is simple and personal, the coverage complete and authoritative."
—Library Journal 178 pp. Illus., index.
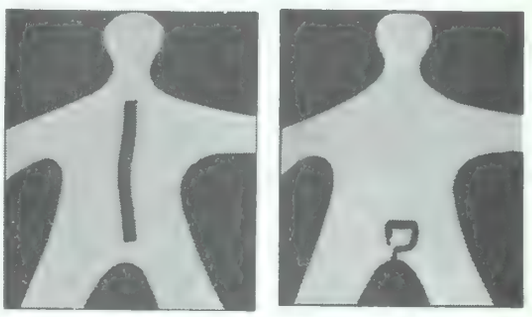
$5.95 cloth, $3.95 paper

LIVING WITH YOUR BAD BACK

by Theodore Berland and Robert G. Addison, M.D.

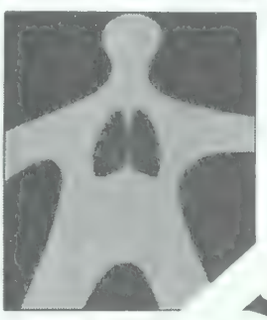
"...the book will be particularly helpful. Not to mention that there's no other one still around."—Kirkus Reviews
145 pp. Illus. $5.95 cloth



LIVING WITH YOUR BRONCHITIS & EMPHYSEMA

by Theodore Berland and Gordon L. Snider, M.D.

"This book has much to offer the many sufferers from emphysema and chronic bronchitis."—Library Journal 152 pp. Illus., index. $5.95 cloth, $3.95 paper



LIVING WITH YOUR EYE OPERATION

by Theodore Berland and Richard A. Perritt, M.D.

"All you need to know and in most cases understand about the condition you expect to have corrected."
—Kirkus Reviews 178 pp. Illus.
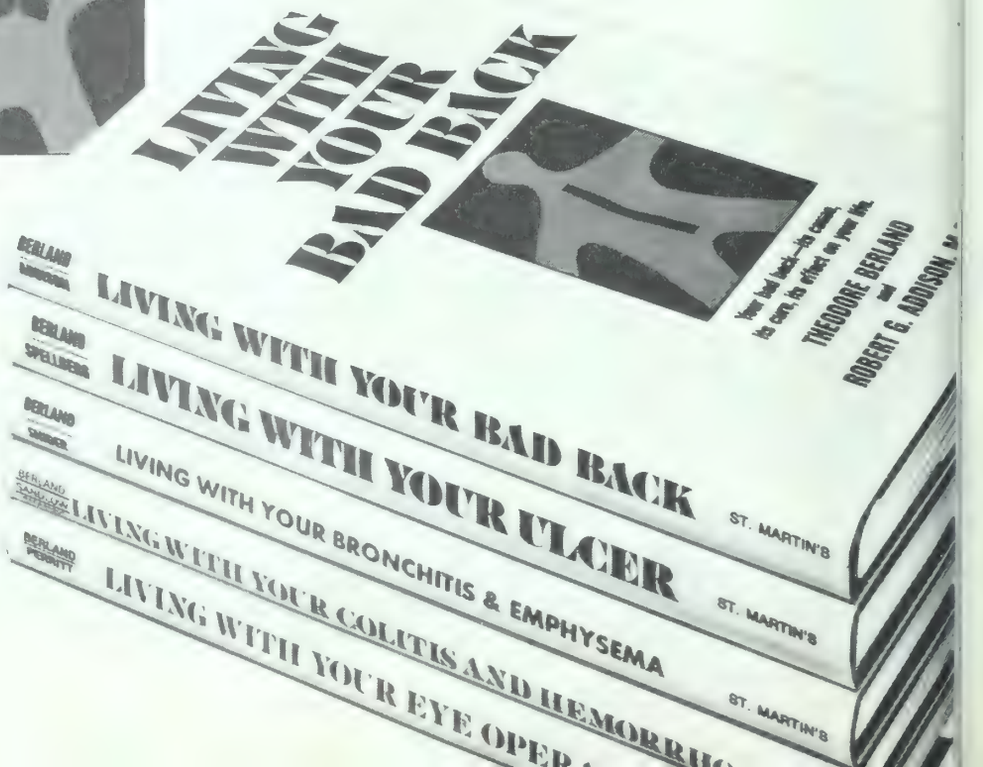
$5.95 cloth

LIVING WITH YOUR COLITIS AND HEMORRHOIDS

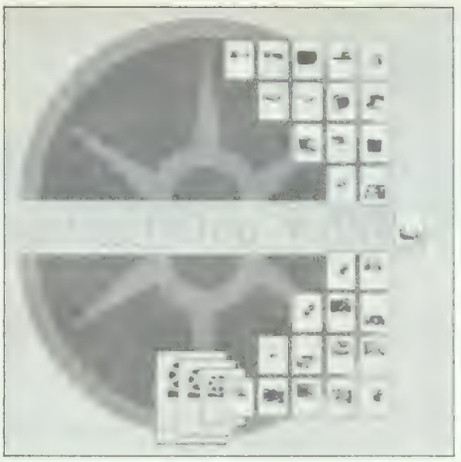
AND RELATED DISORDERS
by Theodore Berland, Leslie Sandlow, M.D., and Richard Shapiro, M.D.

"A valuable addition to almost any library collection."—Library Journal
160 pp. Illus., index. $6.95 cloth



LIVING WITH YOUR BAD BACK
THEODORE BERLAND
ROBERT G. ADDISON
LIVING WITH YOUR BAD BACK
LIVING WITH YOUR ULCER
LIVING WITH YOUR BRONCHITIS & EMPHYSEMA
LIVING WITH YOUR COLITIS AND HEMORRHOIDS
LIVING WITH YOUR EYE OPER
ST. MARTIN'S

St. Martin's Press
175 Fifth Avenue
New York, New York 10010



AT THE END of World War II there was a rash of popular publication telling us about the consumer goods cornucopia which would overflow in the years that were ahead. Looking back at the many disastrous by-products of the technologies which generated those goods, one may wonder whether the other end of the cornucopia wasn't being fed by Pandora's box. However that may be, I cannot deny being as avid as the next person in pursuing all those wonderful accouterments of the good life. One item promised in several of the predictions was the personal helicopter. That was the one I could hardly wait to get my hands on! I wanted that helicopter so much that its inclusion in the goodies list made me, a child of the depression years, a bit dubious about the predictions generally. After perhaps ten years of waiting, I finally realized I wasn't going to get a helicopter after all. Then just the other day I saw a television commercial in which one of the major oil companies explained how I had in fact gotten the whirlybird in a larger sense because it was now being used for all sorts of socially beneficial purposes such as transporting oil rigs to offshore sites. Now I know for sure that big oil companies can't be trusted to look out for the average man's interests. To tell someone who waited all that time for a helicopter that he is getting it in a socially beneficial way is equivalent to telling a child that he is getting clothing instead of toys for Christmas because the clothing will be more useful. I'll bet the president of Exxon has a helicopter, or a whole fleet of them, at his disposal!

The Fifty Dollar Reading Machine...

...and Other Micromarvels

Libraries were also promised some wonderful things by technologists and enthusiastic interpreters of high technologies. A few of those persons were well qualified, careful researchers engaged in reporting objectively on the possibilities for bold application of electronic, reprographic, and photo-optical hardware to the solution of library problems. Others were popular jounalists writing about targets of opportunity or salesmen "blowing smoke" about incompletely developed products. But the least helpful exponents were naïve individuals from the academic world who accepted without question the claims of the journalists and salesmen and then, posing as experts, touted those technologies and products to librarians, often to the detriment of their institutions.

Now that the dust has begun to settle on a number of these technical marvels, it may be useful to see how they have progressed and consider whether they offer any promise for the future. What follows deals with certain of the more persistent and alluring artifices in the micrographic field over the past two decades.

Microcosmic beginnings

Grand schemes for applying wholesale microphotography to problems of cost, storage space, and local availability of library materials have been proposed many times over the years, but for the purposes of this statement it is well to begin with work done in advanced development laboratories of the National Cash Register Company (NCR) during the late fifties and early sixties.

NCR's product research was based on substances called photochromic dyes because they change color upon exposure to certain wave lengths of light. The technology was dubbed PCMI (from photochromic micro image) and had as its primary virtue a medium of grainless structure which allowed the recording of very high resolution images and which was erasable and, therefore, correctable. By the early sixties, NCR was showing samples of images made at reductions of more than 200 to one. As a promotional measure, the company passed out many thousands of copies of a two-inch square microfiche bearing the entire Bible. As an added touch, many PCMI Bibles were mounted in folders with Durer's Praying Hands on the cover. (While it is not at all difficult to read the PCMI Bible by means of an inexpensive microscope of approximately 100X magnification, I have rarely found a person who, having been given a PCMI Bible, bothered to test its readability. Perhaps most people have more faith than I do.)

Learning of PCMI, David G. Hays and others at the RAND Corporation became fascinated with the possibility of its application to educational needs. They researched the feasibility of producing 1000 copies of a 1,000,000-volume ultrafiche library for dissemination to libraries in the United States and abroad, including particularly those of developing nations. In a lengthy, formal memorandum, A Billion Books for Education in America and the World: a Proposal (1968), a cost projection of $581 million was made for the production of 1000 million-volume libraries and a million reading machines for accessing them. The opening paragraph of Hays' preface to the proposal is especially noteworthy:

> In the late spring of 1964, I realized for the first time that existing technology, not the imaginary science of some indefinite future, made it possible to produce replicas of books so far reduced in size as to bring the cost of a magnificent library within the reach of even small colleges in the United States and newly established universities in the emerging nations.

It is true that at least one PCMI camera capable of making good images of book pages existed in the spring of 1964. However, at that time the NCR group had not determined that satisfactory reading machines could be mass-produced at anything like a reasonable cost. As a member of the NCR team on the PCMI project, I recall our concern over whether there was sufficient talent and manufacturing capacity in the world to produce even 150,000 lens systems of the type and quality required within a reasonable time. Thus while Mr. Hays' sincerity and veracity are unquestioned, he was certainly not in a position in 1964 to know that the technology existed to manufacture readers for accessing the libraries he proposed.

By the spring of 1967 a consulting

BY CARL SPAULDING

Carl M. Spaulding is Program Officer, responsible for the programs in micrographics and conservation of library materials, at the Council on Library Resources, Washington, D.C.

firm, Technomics, Inc. of Santa Monica, California, had become aware of Hays' proposal, for at that time, as a part of a report for the State University of New York, Technomics stated:

> A further opportunity for reducing costs may lie in using microfilm for a basic collection at each campus. David Hays of The RAND Corporation has developed a plan he believes would produce a million-book library in microfilm for $200,000. To realize this cost 1,000 identical libraries must be produced. Each will be filed in cabinets and fully cataloged. The catalog is included in the price. Also included in Hays' estimate are 100 viewers for each library at today's price of $200 per viewer. We believe (as does Hays) that a volume market would lead to a satisfactory viewer for $50.

At about this same time Encyclopaedia Britannica (EB) developed an interest in million-volume ultrafiche libraries; and NCR, with a new and badly underutilized ultrafiche production facility, decided it was in an especially advantageous position to develop and micropublish package libraries. EB named its products Microbook libraries and set up a subsidiary under the name Library Resources, Inc. (in no way related to the Council on Library Resources, Inc.). In January of 1968, EB announced its intention to produce 50 different Microbook libraries of 20,000 volumes each.[1] It does not take a lot of arithmetic talent to discover from these numbers that EB had decided to go for an even million volumes. At this time Technomics was acting as a consultant to EB and had marketing rights to Microbook libraries. The first of them, The Library of American Civilization (LAC), was being offered at an introductory price of $13,500.

Unfortunately a number of vital details of this enormous micropublishing program had not yet been decided: for example, the reduction ratio(s) to be employed, the dimensions of the ultrafiche, the maximum number of images on an ultrafiche, and whether or not more than one volume would be recorded on each fiche. These factors were interrelated, and their combination had a crucial effect on the economic viability of the endeavor and upon the utility of the product to the user. At one point EB planned to record an average of ten volumes on each ultrafiche by using extremely high reduction ratios. But in order to produce a better quality and more useful product the decision was finally made to place only one volume on each ultrafiche in most instances and to use a much lower range of reduction ratios. The primary effects of this change of plan were to significantly improve the quality of the microimages, simplify the reading machine design and development process, and add thousands of dollars to the cost of producing each copy of a 20,000 volume library.

As it turned out, the LAC as delivered to purchasers contained, by EB's own count, only about 19,000 volumes.[2] Still the company felt it necessary to gradually raise the price to $25,500. From the fact that only one new Microbook library, the abbreviated Library of English Literature (LEL), has been filmed and published in the years since the LAC was issued, it is clear that the enterprise has not been a commercial success. Many observers attribute this to the financial problems which began closing in on academic libraries at about the time the LAC was published. Perhaps so, but it is interesting to consider how many purchasers of the LAC would have been willing and able to purchase successive $25,000 packages had the fat years continued.

NCR's venture into the ultra fiche library area is less noteworthy. Their collections were small and never sold well. They used extremely high reduction ratios which limited the quality of the microimages and they hampered physical access by putting several volumes on each ultrafiche. Officials of the company appeared to have little commitment to or understanding of the new product line. They finally sold the left-over PCMI libraries and associated materials to a more experienced micropublisher.

$50 reading machine

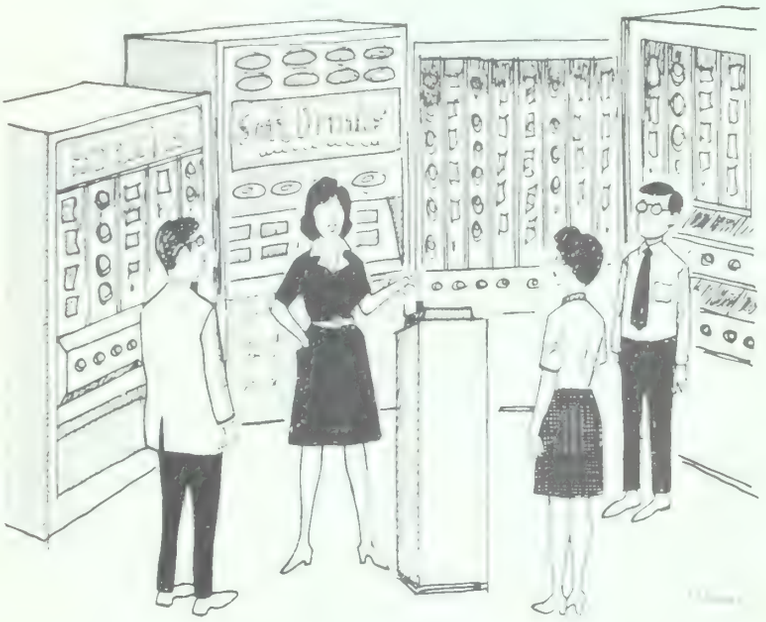
As microforms began to be more common in the 1950s, it was quickly realized that one of the most significant barriers to their general acceptance was the reading machine situation. Almost all of the readers extant were in libraries and archives, and they had about as much pizazz as an old-fashioned microfilm reader. Thus the scholar or researcher using microform materials was constrained to work in the microtext reading room which was often little better than an oubliette and to center his efforts and working materials about a big lump of a machine which usually could be satisfactorily used only in a partially darkened room. Therefore, those who were interested in promoting the use of microforms, particularly microfilm which then was by far the most common variety of microtext, saw the need for a low-cost, easy-to-use, personalized, portable microform reader as a means of encouraging people to use microforms. They also saw the great similarity between the components of a reading machine and a 35mm home slide projector. It was clear that what was required was for some agency to design, manufacture, and market a microform reader having these characteristics. It was felt that this type of machine would sell to essentially the same academic consumer group as portable typewriters and that it would be purchased by enough of them to make it commercially successful if it retailed for $50 or less. In 1964, the Council on Library Resources attempted to move the natural course of things ahead a big step by subsidizing the preparation of specifications for such a reader and by funding the production of a prototype intended to accommodate both microfiche and roll film. Apparently the design that resulted was not considered to be a good market risk by the company which produced it, for it was never manufactured.

The idea of a low cost, personalized reader did not cease to intrigue information specialists. In 1968, Harold Wooster first stated his concept of a "cuddly" microfiche reader.[3] While he defined the reader's ergonomic characteristics in some detail, it was the psychological connotation of the word cuddly that counted. The notion that it might be possible to have a microform reading machine that was actually pleasant and satisfying to hold and use had not previously been voiced. The fact that the concept was articulated appears to have raised expectations among users and sent designers back to their drawing boards. Before long, several small, relatively inexpensive readers were introduced. Although none of them cost as little as $50, one that came

Congressional Quarterly

GREAT MOMENTS IN LIBRARY HISTORY.

#1283: The Chief solves the stacks mess.



"...and now with a flick of this switch, the September 31, 1968 issue of Time will instantly appear in the slot marked Peanut Butter Crackers."

out at $80 was reduced to $59.50 in a year or so, and a small projector that could be used for reading microfiche was offered for $49.50. But all of these devices were seriously limited in terms of quality and convenience, and only one of them—the Data Reproduction Systems Model 86 Mini Reader—came even close to being cuddly. Even the Model 86 did not set sales records. As late as April 1976, it was being remaindered for less than $40 in original cartons by a firm which specializes in renovated and leftover lots of micrographic equipment.

At the end of the 60's, the U.S. Office of Education, wanting to facilitate access to its ERIC collection on fiche, announced its intention to encourage equipment manufacturers to bring out low cost, portable, convenient microfiche readers. OE's approach involved the awarding of a large development subsidy to a company chosen on the basis of competitive design proposals. In its promotion of this project, OE aroused the interest of the Modern Language Association, which was seeking a reader it could furnish to its membership for about $25. Public interaction between OE and MLA tended at times to obscure the fact that the OE was really aiming at something in the $50 bracket. Therefore, when in 1970 DASA, the company whose proposal had won the OE subsidy, unveiled its new lap model reading machine at approximately $80, it was greeted with less than unanimous enthusiasm. Not all of the disappointment related to the machine's price. It was also criticized for design flaws that interfered with its utility.

The years since the advent of the DASA reader have brought several personal size microfiche readers priced under $100: 1) the Eastman Kodak ektalite reader which has evolved into a family of lightweight, reliable models with unit prices beginning at $115 (up from an initial $95) and ranging to $165 currently; 2) the Bell and Howell $99 briefcase reader, a passable machine which might have been outstanding had it hewn closer to the original design—by an independent inventor—from which it stemmed; 3) the Keyan Gypsy portable Model P-50, an inexpensive but not very convenient machine which is integral with its carrying case and about as cuddly as an alligator; 4) the Microcom Personal reading machine, an attractive Canadian-built reader with very compact dimensions, a small screen, and a battery pack option; 5) the Realist Compact which cleverly folds to a rectangular package little larger than a collegiate dictionary; and 6) the Viewonics Model 137, a rectilinear metal can with one side open, a horizontal opaque screen at the bottom, and the lamp, lens and fiche holder at the top.

It is quite likely that one or two of these devices is no longer being manufactured, but they were all listed in the User Equipment volume of the 1975 (sixth) edition of Hubbard Ballou's Guide to Micrographic Equipment. It is also quite possible that one or more new readers in the $100 and under class will be out by the end of 1976.

Certainly the producers of these latter-day personal readers were stimulated more by potential sales to business, industry, and government, particularly for COM applications, than by the needs of libraries. Nonetheless, we now have readily available more than one microfiche reader which fulfills all the design goals of the $50 reader except two: first, they cannot be used to read roll microfilm; and second, they cost about $100. However, considering the inflation rate in the period 1964 to 1976, it would not be far wrong to say that today's $100 reader would have been 1964s $50 reader.[4]

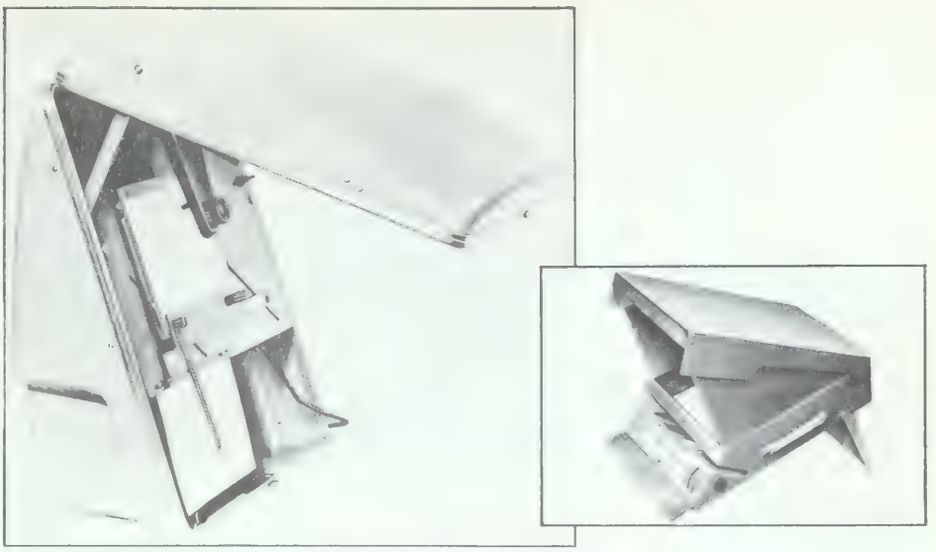
Now that there are reasonably good, low-priced microfiche readers, it is constructive to consider whether the predictions about their effect on user acceptance of microforms and about user willingness to purchase these machines were borne out. It is my judgment, based on much observation and many inquiries, that few users strenuously object to using microfiche in the library and many find it entirely acceptable, especially when reading with a modern reader in reasonably convenient and comfortable surroundings. I have not found nearly so much change in user attitude toward reading roll microfilm except in the case of COM catalogs displayed on special purpose motorized readers. In spite of this new user acceptance of microfiche, I have found no evidence that individuals are purchasing the new small readers out of their own pockets. Perhaps this is because reading machines, unlike portable typewriters, are used almost entirely for reading materials associated with one's employment or for materials which may not be taken from the microtext area.

"As much pizazz as an old-fashioned microfilm reader"

There are two other personal size readers which, because of the attention they have received and the special characteristics of the associated microforms, merit comment. The first of these is the Microbook 710 Portareader marketed by a division of Encyclopaedia Britannica for use with its ultrafiche Microbook Libraries. As noted earlier, Technomics advised SUNY that David Hays and Technomics both felt that a "volume market [for ultrafiche readers] would lead to a satisfactory reader for $50." Subsequently, Technomics privately displayed a mock-up of a small ultrafiche reader. Upon examination, the mock-up was seen to be little more than a block of wood. EB widely advertised that its Microbook series would be sold in conjunction with a $100 "lap reader" of excellent quality. When the first Portareaders were delivered, they were priced at approximately $140 and were very poor machines. They now sell for $195. While it is true that the unit price could be sharply reduced if the Portareader were manufactured in very large numbers, it is hard to imagine that the price could be brought down to anywhere near $50, particularly if the reader were improved to the degree needed to make it acceptable. Since Technomics was actually speaking of a reader of twice the magnification (150X instead of 75X) of the Portareader, the $50 figure is especially hard to reconcile.

The other reader worthy of special comment is the so-called "fly's eye" reader developed by Personal Communications, Inc. This reading machine, which is useful only for microfiche filmed with special cameras, made big news for a short while when it was described on the front page of the New York Times, November 25, 1972. Both the camera and the reader incorporate a rectangular array of hundreds of tiny lenses each of which is associated with only a small square of each image being recorded or enlarged. Government officials who saw a demonstration of this new microform system when it was first announced were quoted as making extravagant claims about its potential. "The growing demand for timber to provide paper would be curtailed. . ." "It might replace or greatly supplement paperback books, 'eliminate' central files in large bureaucracies and at nominal cost." ". . . if properly developed, it could remake the information handling industry." The inventors were, understandably, hardly less restrained, saying that they believed the viewer could be made in plastic for as little as $5.

After this brief flurry of celebration, the fly's eye reader dropped out of sight and was heard of only occasionally and then only by persons in the industry. Many assumed it was gone for good. However, it now is evident that its developers, Drs. Adnan Waly and George Yveck, went back to the drawing board and back to the money market. The recently announced results are: a new company, Izon; a much refined reader, the model 200; a more elegant designation for the concept, distributed optics; and the expectation that production models will be coming off the line by the end of the year. The new reader is to be twice as thick as the very thin prototype shown in 1972 and the unit price will be $150 for the first production models. More important is the claim that the lens array has, with the assistance of the computer, been greatly improved.



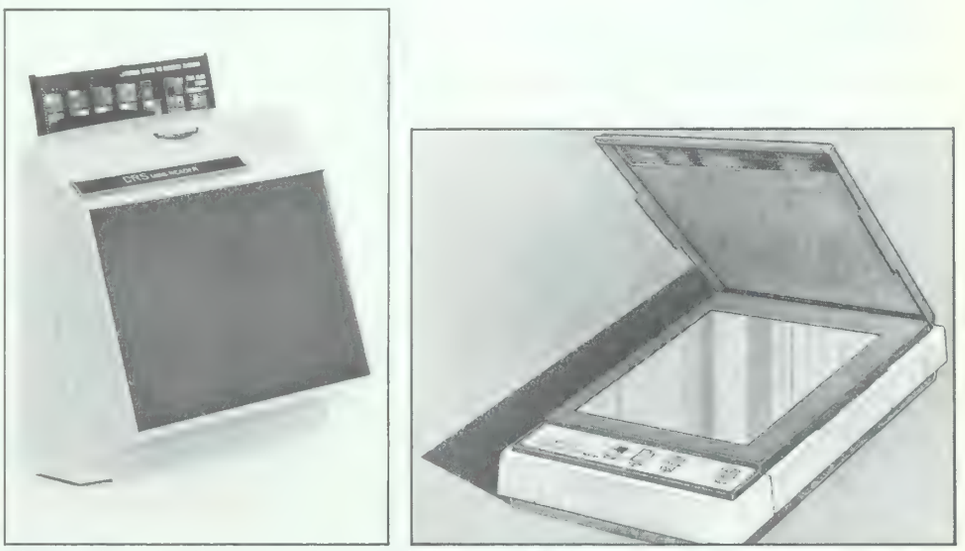
Two portable models about as "cuddly as an alligator"

If this new viewer does have the characteristics claimed for it, it will be a major breakthrough in micrographics. If the price can be reduced to $100 or less, it could be superior to the $50 reader envisioned for the past 15 years. Despite these "ifs," this new reader is an exciting prospect for the industry.

Assuming the Izon reader lives up to its advance billing, it is still hard to say how much application this reader will have in the library since it cannot be used for viewing any of the hundreds of millions of fiche in existing collections. Only fiche recorded by special distributed optics cameras can be viewed with distributed optics readers, and these cameras will be few in number and quite expensive for some time. The very high cost of master microfiche from the Izon cameras will mean that only applications requiring hundreds of copies will be economically justifiable and to date there has not been much demand for such large numbers of copies. Although Izon expects to be able to generate distributed optics microfiche masters from conventional microforms, this capability would not change the economics of the situation much.

ADSTAR

As the age of automation moved into the on-line era, a sharp contrast became evident between the electronic speed and certainty with which it is possible to call up information from a computerized data base and the rather casual and unreliable way in which human beings retrieve items from a manual fil-



This mini-reader (l.) comes closest to being "cuddly"; (r.) a new concept, distributed optics or the "fly's eye" reader

ing system containing a large number of paper documents. Because it was extremely expensive to convert such files to machine readable form and keep them on-line in random access computer storage, hardware systems designers looked for other approaches to automating access to them. One solution which appealed to several manufacturers utilized small special purpose computers to control electro-mechanical devices capable of storing and retrieving tens of thousands of microforms, usually microfiche in either the standard four by six inch size or smaller units referred to as chips. In more recent years, machines of this type as well as smaller machines of similar function have been categorized as ADSTAR (for automatic document storage and retrieval) equipment.[5]

ADSTAR equipment permits quick retrieval of any document in a file and provides a high degree of file integrity. Some of these hybrid systems include a television link between the retrieved microform image and the user, while others deliver the microfiche to him. Some devices included an option of paper copy produced by an electrostatic printer.

As ADSTAR designs became specification and specifications became hardware, it was recognized that the physical access problems these machines were intended to overcome were endemic to the library and for a while there was talk of storing the microfiche collection from this library or that one in a large ADSTAR unit and thereby protecting the collection and saving space while providing better and faster service. However, a closer look would invariably reveal that: a) the machines were too big and too heavy; and b) problems associated with queuing of users and equipment unreliability would actually result in poorer service. Besides, the cost—$150,000 minimum—was completely out of line when compared with existing manual systems. Needless to say, proposals for converting print collections to microfiche for use with ADSTAR hardware had even less merit.[6]

In spite of these critical shortcomings of commercially available ADSTAR equipment, the National Library of Medicine, pushed by a requirement to access and copy many items from a very large collection of journals on microform, contracted for development of a special purpose ADSTAR machine costing several hundred thousand dollars. Unfortunately, it did not perform satisfactorily.

In a library related development, the New York Times ran into a series of setbacks in building the in-house portion of its information bank system around a sophisticated ADSTAR machine. One manufacturer was unable to deliver specified equipment and a second went bankrupt after the Times had purchased a machine, leaving the Times without field support. As of this writing, the fiche retrieval system has devolved into an essentially manual operation with paper copy being delivered to the researcher.

At the time these commercial undertakings were occurring, the INTREX (Information Transfer Experiments) project at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was investigating the feasibility of remotely accessing a microfiche file of journal articles. This text access subsystem utilized a computer, two small ADSTAR devices containing 1500 microfiche, and a television channel for transmitting magnified images to user terminals where they could be viewed on cathode ray tube screens and/or recorded on strips of 35mm microfilm. The INTREX system, including the text access subsystem, worked well when completed in the early seventies, but that was exactly the wrong time to try to find the very large amount of money needed to revise and expand the system to a size sufficient to serve a user community large enough to support its operating costs.

Libraries were not alone in rejecting large ADSTAR systems. The relatively few hardware configurations that were actually installed were sponsored by the federal government, primarily the Department of Defense and the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. In the last few years, one ADSTAR manufacturer after the other has dropped out, sold out, or gone bankrupt. Of the few microform retrieval devices being marketed today at best only one or two can properly be called large scale and these are not appropriate for library use.

Futures

What, then, can be expected to happen in micrographics in the coming years, particularly as it will affect libraries? Predictions for a period of more than a few years are excessively risky; a major technological advance could be announced at any time and could cause important changes in a very few years. Nonetheless some things seem to be pretty safe bets:

- Large package libraries on ultrafiche will not experience a revival. There probably never was an economic justification for extreme reduction. Entrepreneurs, being aware of the conspicuous lack of success by EB and NCR, will be reluctant to make the excessively large requisite investments.
- Should new large-scale automatic microfiche retrieval equipment appear, it will not find a place in the library. There is little such equipment can do in a library which cannot be done as well or better with simpler, less expensive systems. There is the possibility that some machine of this type could be useful in a library lending center somewhat along the lines of the Center for Research Libraries.
- More good, low cost microfiche readers will come onto the market and in consequence user resistance to microfiche will be further reduced.
- The most important force in the field of library microforms will be computer output microfilm (COM) which will be used in more and more libraries of all types as a medium for catalogs and other bibliographic aids. Larger libraries will use COM increasingly for management information reports and listings. It seems almost certain that this use of COM coupled with the newer readers and the federal government's micropublishing program will greatly reduce resistance to microforms in libraries.

REFERENCES

1. The Encyclopaedia Britannica Series of Ultramicroform Libraries: Library I: American Civilization from the Beginnings to 1914. Encyclopaedia Britannica, Chicago. January 5, 1968. 23p.
2. In the final report of a research project sponsored by the National Home Library Foundation, it is reported that the number of volumes in the LAC was no more than 15,347. See "The Library Resources, Inc., Library of American Civilization Demonstration at the George Washington University Library" by Paul A. Napier, Annette D. Steiner, and Rupert C. Woodward, Microform Review, Vol. 3, No. 3, July 1974, p. 158–176.
3. Subsequently, Dr. Wooster carried out a survey in which he looked more deeply into the problem of user dissatisfaction with microforms and reading machines. See Wooster, Harold, Microfiche 1969—a User Survey, Air Force Office of Scientific Research, Arlington, Va. July 1969. (AD 695) 176p.
4. Considerable information on the trends in reader development may be found in the several editions of Ballou's Guide.
5. Tauber, Alfred S. & Howard W. Hoadley. Automatic Document Storage and Retrieval—A Market Emerges. Knowledge Industry Publications, White Plains, N.Y. 1973. 181p.
6. "Automated Retrieval and Remote Viewing of COSATI Microfiche—Problems and Prospects," by George W. Tressel, Patricia L. Brown, and Richard E. Krohn in Proceedings of the American Society for Information Science, Vol. 7: The Information Conscious Society, 1970, p. 123–128.

User Environment and Attitudes in an Academic Microform Center

by arthur tannenbaum and eva sidhom

USER ENVIRONMENT was the subject of a paper[1] presented at the Fall 1975 ASIS meeting in Boston, where interest in the topic suggested that user convenience is a continuing problem when people face machines, whether these machines be coin-operated photocopying machines, microform readers, or computer terminals. Attention given to environmental factors, and a staff service commitment at New York University's Bobst Library, specifically in the Microform Center, resulted in such increased activity and appreciation by the center's users that it may provide guidelines for microform center designers of the future.

The NYU planners were aware of the negative attitudes library users in general had towards the use of microforms. The Association of Research Libraries, also sensitive to this issue, asked Donald Holmes to make a study of the necessary requirements for proper environmental conditions to satisfy microform readers. Holmes made two reports, both available on microfiche in the ERIC Documents series. The first report[2] summarized the problems faced by users. These included: 1) light in area not controlled; 2) assistance not provided in placing films on reading machine; 3) reading machines often in a poor state of repair; 4) scratches and breaks in films; 5) microforms improperly filed; 6) some reading machines not projecting clear images; 7) machines incapable of being adjusted for height and reading angle.

The second study[3] suggested a design for a new custom-made reading carrel to provide the necessary mobility, as stated in problem No. 7 above. In fact, since Holmes reported that the single most fatigue-causing factor for readers of microforms is the rigid line of sight normally encountered between reader and machine, it became obvious that the more dynamic the space becomes between reader and machine, the more comfortable he becomes with the format.

Observation

The NYU planners, conversant with the Holmes' observations, next made visits to microform sites. Typically, these installations (educational, commercial, government, etc.) were casual, not designed with emphasis on comfortable film use. Film viewing in banks, airlines, insurance companies, and schools appeared to be a tied-in part of the work. Attention was not directed towards solving, or coming to grips with the following fatigue-causing items: noise, lighting, machine height, seating, viewing perpendicular or parallel to the writing surface, scanning or reading activity, etc. These factors became vital for consideration when es-

Arthur Tannenbaum has been in charge of planning and designing the Media Centers, including the Microform Center of the Bobst Library, New York University, New York City. Eva Sidhom is the librarian of the Microform Center tablishing the Microform Center at the Bobst Library. Although the point can be made that for the academic researcher content is more important than format, it is also true that physical discomfort retards the rate of comprehension and period of use with printed materials. Since hard copy is preferential to microform for prolonged reading in the opinion of most users, solutions for fatigue items are most welcome in encouraging microform use. It was decided to engage Dr. Holmes as a consultant to the project, to benefit from his personal experience. This decision was fostered by the increasing conviction of the importance of the environment after seeing the typical microform settings already described. Working with Dr. Holmes provided the following information; these remarks are derived from a combination of reports to the Dean of the Libraries.

Centralization

Many microform collections are dispersed in departmental libraries according to their subject content. From the standpoint of providing reference assistance to patrons, such dispersal offers much to recommend it; however, practical considerations of providing microforms as satisfactory substitutes for the full-size printed page required controlled conditions that would be almost impossible to achieve except in a reading room designed especially for using microforms. A microform reading room should have facilities designed for the storage, maintenance, and protection of the microforms as well as for the comfort of the users. The assembly of most microform reading equipment in a single location will make its use far more efficient than if it were dispersed. Furthermore it will provide the opportunity of making and carrying out a much-needed machine care and maintenance program. Such a program will minimize machine damage to microforms and provide patrons with the full potential of the equipment used. Cabinets designed especially for the microform or microfiche storage provide the best protection for the software as well as the most efficient method of putting them away. These cabinets can be arranged also as useful room dividers, to block out undesirable lighting or noise conditions.

Room conditions

Microform reading machine screen images are visible only when their brightness exceeds the ambient light in the area in which they are viewed. Ideally, the general lighting in the microform reading room should be of low intensity. It should be adequate for moving about, but should be of lower intensity than that required for reading or other desk work. If at all possible, indirect lighting with local switches and dimmer capability should be placed in the area where the microform readers are to be installed. Direct or daylight lighting may cause reflections on the microform reading screens and thus depreciate the screen image quality. The ability to adjust the angle of the reading screen is critical to overcoming lighting problems with the environment; although fresnel lenses, screen hoods and general machine portability are aids to the user in his individual adjustment.

The light measured by meter at the work surface in the microform reading area may be 15 to 20 foot candles as a rule, with capability for the reader to increase or diminish this lighting via local adjustment. The question of proper lighting, both for the illumination level on the screen and the work surface, has been subject to much scrutiny and opinion. A recent study involving microform reading generally supports Dr. Holmes' recommendation of 15-20 foot candles measurement on the writing surface, actually broadens these measures to 10-30 ftc., and further suggests 41 ft.-l as the proper luminance on the reading screen. However, the same study admits that the best reading condition vis-á-vis performance was not entirely consistent with the study groups preferences and therefore the conclusion as to "ideals" remains subjective.[4]

Sound dampening is an important consideration in the microform center. The clustering of equipment that cranks and spins is bound to distract readers if the use is heavy. Placing readers in partitioned areas like carrels or divided tables will isolate the noise somewhat. Carpeting is the best way to achieve the sound muffling desirable in this area.

It should also be remembered that film tends to become brittle when subjected to low humidity. While it will at least partially return to its original condition when the relative humidity goes up to the desired 50 percent, this should not be counted on, and if film is not in an air-conditioned, humidified library, special humidification should be provided.[5] People also respond beneficially to a controlled climate. Proper humidification and temperature arrangements make studying a more agreeable and pleasant task.

The microform carrel

The ARL study of the microform carrel concerned itself in part with the line of sight established by reader and machine. It was felt that this line of sight should be as flexible as possible. Traditional microfilm viewing places a machine on a table and provides a stationary chair for the reader; this position can become unbearable for the person doing intensive study. The ARL prototype tried to prevent this situation by designing the machine platform to revolve sideways, in a lazy susan fashion, and tilt backward and forward. Room was provided for a typewriter. A library furniture company built a pilot model and demonstrated it at Penn State University in mid-1971. Librarians at the site reported that the model turned too stiffly, flopped instead of tilted, and that typewriter vibrations had adverse effects on the machine reader causing hazy focus and a shortened bulb life.

NYU decided to design its own microform reading carrel, which was demonstrated in Chicago at ALA Midwinter 1974 and delivered to NYU in early 1975. Student and faculty reaction has been quite positive. The outside dimensions of a single station were to be 4 x 4½'; however, for space economy, a double station unit was built, with dimensions approximately 5'6" x 4'6". This space includes a writing area, book shelf, and small lamp. The movable platform can be raised or lowered a maximum of 3", more than enough to adjust for glare or the height of the reader's neck. The reading machine can easily be turned laterally by hand. A secretary chair is surprisingly efficient for creating additional lateral and vertical movement for the reader. The carrel has been modified to fit the university's needs. A decision was made to house film readers only. They are larger and bulkier than fiche readers, where flexibility can be achieved in a variety of less expensive ways. The university already owned a considerable number of Kodak manual readers and had chosen the Kodak Motormatic as the upgrade model. Thus, the carrel was specified with the equipment in mind. Parenthetically, the machine used in the ARL report was the Kodak MPE manual reader, now regrettably off the market. In any case, instructions were placed right on the machine or in the carrel, indicating simple, step-by-step procedures for machine use.

Work room

At the NYU Bobst Center a corner has been walled in for use as a work room. Ideally, there should be a work room in every library's microform center, but if this is not possible, a special work area should be provided to give the staff a quiet spot for inspecting, cleaning, and repairing microform. Repair of films is not a simple operation, and should not be treated as such. Allen Veaner was trying to emphasize this point when he said that "the use of pressure-sensitive tape for making splices is a violation of accepted practices and is generally considered a mark of poor quality work."[6] If microfilm cartridges are not employed, this cleaning and inspection function becomes doubly significant. Equipment in the work room should consist of a film inspection and splicing desk, fitted with a light box, rewinds, and a splicing machine; reading machines for roll film and microfiche inspection and identification, and shelving for temporary storage purposes. The work room should also house machine spare parts (projection bulbs, optical flats, etc.) which can be replaced by staff.

Since the NYU Library has instituted a portable fiche reader loan-out program, and it is policy not to loan original fiche, a fiche duplicator has been acquired for noncopyright materials. The work room at NYU is a convenient area for the fiche-duplication operation.

Staff

Since users of microforms need varied kinds of assistance, no facility can be truly successful if library personnel work apart from the operation. The quality of staff assistance in any library's microform center is one of the major factors of its success. It should consist of persons who appreciate microforms as a 20th Century form for the storage and retrieval of information and who are dedicated to the service of the center's users. Besides cleaning and maintenance activities, the staff provides assistance with mounting films on readers, making hard copies and fiche duplicates, guiding the user into the complex of materials that are the "catalog" of the collection, and being generally helpful.

Staff availability is important whenever a situation breeds confrontation between man and machine. Coin-operated photocopy machines predictably cause trouble with the public far beyond their reasonable expectation. As a result, staff-operated copy centers have emerged. We must admit that a certain apathy does exist between the microform hardware and the shotgun user (shotgun as in marriage). Philip Slater, in The Pursuit of Loneliness, describes this man/machine apathy: "Americans are always hung over from some blow dealt them by their technological environment and are always looking for a fix—for some pleasurable escape from what technology has itself created." In the library's case, the "fix" is the microform staff who provide the bridge to ease the user into the technology. The staff is the energizer between the passive if not downright reluctant user and the impassive, inert reader/printer.

A special head should be appointed for the microform center. Qualifications should include a degree in library science, some administrative ability and experience, and mechanical aptitude. Since it may be difficult to find a candidate who has had experience in microform technology, the alternative is to provide the appointee with scope for training in this area. This may be accomplished by reading selected literature, visits to institutions known for their successful use of microforms, visits to commercial microform production laboratories, and membership in the National Micrographic Association and perhaps in a local NMA chapter. Most important is that this person be a believer in the worth of the format.

Users

After the Bobst Microform Center was opened in the fall of 1973 and was used on a regular basis, it soon became apparent that the efforts, time, and planning in creating this Center were worthwhile. Statistics showed an increase in the use of materials and in the number of users. By early 1975 these figures had increased so dramatically that they appeared to substantiate the Holmes premise that user activity and acceptance of microforms rises when care and attention are directed towards the environment.

For example, room count figures from October 29, 1973 to January 20, 1974 showed 3,660 users. The count for the same 12-week period in 1974-75 revealed 6,739 users or an increase of 84.13 percent. At the same time, user statistics for the library at large demonstrated a less significant increase in activity. The 12-week period 1973-74 shows 147,579 books reshelved, and the same period 1974-75 is 193,029 books reshelved. This is a 31 percent increase from the previous year.

An idea of the traffic and current use of the Microform Center is revealed in the Fall 1975/76 statistics below.

Questionnaire

The expression of appreciation and delight by some users denoted that their attitudes towards microforms were becoming definitely positive. It prompted a decision to make a study of these attitudes through a questionnaire to be answered by users. It was believed that such a survey would be of interest to the library community. Users were selected at random, requested not to sign the questionnaire, and to answer it very freely, making any constructive criticism they thought would help the Center meet user needs and correct any condition complained of. As it turned out, complaints were minimal and user attitudes were definitely positive.

The questionnaire looked long, but because the user was requested to check only one answer out of a number of stated possibilities, the time needed to fill it out was not more than ten or 15 minutes, and all those who answered did so willingly. Out of a total of 120 answered questionnaires, 77 contained comments and 43 had none. The highly favorable tone of the comments, and of the questionnaire answers altogether, was both impressive and rewarding. The questionnaire consisted of five major categories, each sub-divided into a number of sections.

The following is a report on the results of the questionnaire.

Microform Center Statistics—Fall Semester 1975/76

Period	No. of users	Help with machines	No. of ref., access & other Q's	No. of printouts	No. of fiche dups	No. of portable readers lent
Oct. 1-31, '75	4169	850	967	3148	159	25
Nov. 1-30, "	3236	793	789	3841	258	28
Dec. 1-31, "	3554	832	725	3965	375	29
Jan. 1-31, '76	2937	778	532	4260	125	21
Total	13,896	3253	3013	15,214	917	103

I. THE USER

Type, reason for, and frequency of use: Of the users, 4 were faculty, 9 were visitors, 63 were graduates, and 44 were undergraduates. Thus faculty and visitors together constituted only 11 percent while graduate and undergraduate students constituted 89 percent. The graduate users outnumbered the undergraduates, and their reasons for use were different. The latter came primarily for assignment preparation or study; the graduates came mostly for research, either intensive or occasional.

Frequency varied considerably: of the 120 users, 55 or about 46 percent used the Center either seldom or occasionally; while 65 or about 54 percent used it often—i.e., once a month at least; or frequently—i.e., once a week or more often.

Average amount of time users spent in Center: 81, or just over two-thirds of the respondents, used the Center from a minimum of one hour to over four hours—a rather good testimonial for the user's abilities for sustained microfilm-reader use; only 39, or just under one-third, used it less than one hour. The exact breakdown of the time spent in reading is shown below.

TABLE I

No. of users	Approx. amount of time spent reading
3	15 minutes
12	15-30 minutes
24	30 min.-1 hour
Total: 39 users	Spent a maximum of one hour
39	1-2 hours
28	2-4 hours
14	more than 4 hours
Total: 81	Spent one to over 4 hours

II. USER'S ATTITUDES

The second category of the questionnaire concerned user's attitudes to microforms as a media for research and information-gathering. Five clear-cut, specific statements were given, with five optional columns to be marked for each statement. The results revealed overwhelmingly favorable attitudes to the utilization of microforms in a research library and an appreciation of their value. The last statement (given under E in Table II) showed also that 80 of the 120 respondents thought the environment and equipment at the Center helped nullify any possible disadvantages microforms may have had in their views. The attitudes and the number of the positive or negative feelings are given above.

TABLE II

	Strongly agree	Agree	No opinion	Disagree	Strongly disagree
A: I appreciate microforms because they provide me with otherwise unavailable or inaccessible material.	90	26	3	1	-
B: When I find what I want, it makes no difference whether it is in regular form or microform.	31	33	19	31	6
C: Working with microforms usually bothers my eyes.	5	28	10	54	23
D: The advantages of microforms outweigh the disadvantages.	55	47	12	4	2
E: The environment and equipment at the Bobst Center nullify whatever I regarded as disadvantages.	36	44	25	11	4

III. REACTION TO ENVIRONMENT

The third major question requested an expression of opinion on five considerations that are liable to affect the user-attitudes of microforms: a) room comfort; b) equipment provided; c) the microforms themselves; d) staff assistance; and e) ease of access provided. Each of these was divided into several items. The preponderance of favorable replies is shown below.

TABLE III

	Excellent	Very Good	Good	Only Fair	Poor	Total
A. Room Comfort
1. General Lighting	35	43	32	8	2	120
2. Lighting in Carrels	39	34	34	11	2	120
3. Chairs Provided	65	35	17	1	2	120
4. Arrangement of Room	44	40	30	4	2	120
5. Air Conditioning	47	35	30	8	1	120
6. Adjustable Carrels	35	30	31	5	3	104
B. Equipment Provided
1. Evaluation of microfilm readers	45	42	26	3	-	116
2. Evaluation of microfiche readers	24	33	14	2	-	73
3. Evaluation of micro-opaque readers	17	31	13	3	-	64
4. Evaluation of reader-printers	26	30	19	4	-	80
5. Ease of use of machines	48	46	21	5	-	120
6. Quality of images as to their clarity	43	43	26	7	1	120
7. Your sense of comfort while reading	45	40	30	5	-	120
C. The Microforms Themselves
1. Their Quality	55	35	27	1	-	118
2. Their Condition	53	31	30	-	-	114
D. Staff Assistance Received
1. Explaining Use of Machines	67	28	16	1	2	114
2. Helping to Find Needed Material	56	30	16	3	-	105
3. Explaining Indexes and Finding Aids	55	24	20	3	-	102
E. Ease of Access to Microforms Provided by:
1. Room Arrangement	53	47	12	2	1	115
2. Degree of Assistance	56	36	17	4	-	113

IV. COMPARING FACILITIES USED

Part IV of the questionnaire was aimed at finding out how users reacted to our new structured environment, and what they thought of it as compared to: 1) The microform facility in the old NYU library before the move to Bobst; and 2) Other microform facilities they might have used elsewhere. The questions and the number and types of responses follow: 1) Did you use the old NYU microform facility before the move to Bobst Library in (month, year)? Responses: 22 yes; 95 no.

If the answer was yes, the user was asked to select the phrase that best described his own attitude toward the new NYU microform facility in the Bobst Library. The results follow:

The new Bobst facility is a more pleasant and attractive place to work than the old facility: Strongly agree, 18; Agree, 2; No opinion, 1; Disagree, 1; Strongly Disagree, 0.

It is less fatiguing to read from microforms in the new facility: Strongly agree, 15; Agree, 5; No opinion, 2; Disagree, 0; Strongly disagree, 0.

2) Have you used microform facilities at other institutes? Responses: 56 yes; 53 no. The 56 positive respondents gave names of public, university, and government libraries each had used in various localities around the country.

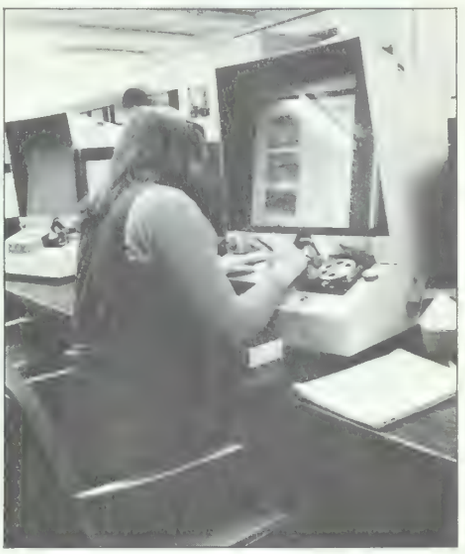
Answers to the question of how the Bobst Center compared to whatever other microform areas had been used were as follows:

The Bobst facility is a more pleasant and attractive place to work compared to other facilities: Strongly agree, 45; Agree, 10; No opinion, 0; Disagree, 1; Strongly disagree, 0.

It is less fatiguing to read from microforms in the Bobst facility as compared to other facilities: Strongly agree, 40; Agree, 10; No opinion, 2; Disagree, 4; Strongly disagree, 0.

V. PERSONAL EVALUATIONS

The fifth and last question, a simple request for each respondent's opinion on the Bobst Microform Center and any other personal comments, was worded: "All things considered, what is your opinion of the Bobst Microform Center. You may comment on any of the topics mentioned above or on any other topic you may feel is important. State any suggestions you may have to help us know your needs and serve you better." Of the 120 respondents, 77 or almost two-thirds took the time to answer this question and make comments, and 43 (or just over one-third) did not answer at all.



The answers were almost unanimously favorable and complimentary both to the Center and the type of service received in it. They varied in length from a short phrase or sentence to a more elaborate description of personal reaction to the Center. The following statements are given as samples:

1. "The facilities and staff at Bobst have made microform as pleasant to use as it can be."
2. "Over all the quality is excellent, the staff helpful and the atmosphere perfect."
3. "You are doing a great job . . ."
4. "The facilities are excellent. The staff is extremely helpful!"
5. "I have been thrilled by the new set-up . . ."
6. "If I must use microfilm, I'd rather do it here than anywhere else . . ."
7. "Wonderful place. Staff is always helpful. Materials easily accessible. Just great—no complaints at all!"

The seven quotes give an idea of the general tone of the comments. However, let us end by quoting the only two comments that were signed by the two visitor-users who made them. One of them was a visiting professor who had used our Center regularly; and the other was the Vice-President of the Economic Research Institute in New York City.

Prof. Philip S. Foner of Lincoln University, Pennsylvania, typed his questionnaire answers (which he returned by mail). In his comment, he said: "I have found the facilities excellent, and am deeply indebted for this assistance and the ability to use the facilities in connection with a number of books I am preparing for publication."

W. Homer Graham, a former NYU alumnus and the Vice-President of ERI wrote: "One of the finest installations of its type in the country, including Washington and NASA."

Conclusion

Biotechnology is one of those words you have to look up. It is, according to Webster's, "the aspect of technology concerned with the application of biological and engineering data to problems relating to man and the machine." This discipline appears to be a logical one to study certain fatigue factors caused by reading microforms for extended periods. For instance, English ergonomist (biotechnologist) Prof. E. N. Corlett states the following in a recent paper: "Many workers have to achieve their objectives in spite of the equipment they use: the lifting and handling done by transport and delivery workers, typists with inadequate desks and chairs, assemblers on product lines, or the posture of machinists."[7] It isn't difficult to apply that statement to the microform bugaboo, fatigue. Holmes recommended, in his second report that "a comprehensive and in-depth study of the possible physical and psychological factors involved in the use of microforms"[8] be made.

The authors heartily endorse this view. In the meantime, it appears plain that sprucing up the microform reading area, with attention given to the human and environmental aspects discussed here, will contribute to changing users' attitudes from negative to positive regarding this format.

References

1. Tannenbaum, Arthur C. "Human Engineering Factors Help Determine Microform Use in the Research Library," American Society of Information Science Proceedings, 1975, 12, p. 97-98.
2. Holmes, Donald C. "Determination of User Needs and Future Requirements for a System Approach to Microform Technology." Washington, D.C., Association of Research Libraries, 1969, 35p. (Ed-029-168). p. 6-15.
3. Holmes, Donald C. "Determination of the Environmental Conditions Required in a Library for the Effective Utilization of Microforms." Washington, D.C.: Association of Research Libraries, 1970 (ED-046-403). p. 12.
4. Lee, David R. & James R. Buck. "The Effect of Screen Angle and Luminance on Microform Reading." Human Factors, October 1975, 17 (5), p. 461-69.
5. Metcalf, Keyes D. Planning Academic and Research Library Buildings. McGraw, 1965, p. 173.
6. Veaner, Allen B. The Evaluation of Micropublications, a Handbook for Librarians (LTP No. 17). American Library Association, 1971, p. 41.
7. Corlett, E. N. "Human Factors in the Design of Manufacturing Systems," Human Factors, April 1973, 15 (2), p. 106.
8. Holmes, op. cit. (ED-046-403), p. VI.

The Display Medium

By S. Michael Malinconico

MICROFORMS have always been an unpalatable option grudgingly relegated to those tasks for which more satisfying media prove impractical. Perhaps for this reason they have grown up as the servitor of the odd cause, and a maverick prodigal technology. Throughout their checkered career, microforms have been more successful at firing the creative, rather than the practical, imagination. Numerous stories of intrigue find seemingly innocuous punctuation in a Balkan newspaper revealing itself to be a "micro-dot" concealing surprising stores of information. These observations may help explain our ambivalent attitude toward microforms—a medium with fabulous properties, the mystery of the quasi-invisible, and primarily associated with marginal applications. The practitioners of the clandestine never found any problem with such a medium. They quickly perceived its unique properties, and applied them. In fact, it was the French military that made one of the first practical applications of microreproduction. During the Franco-Prussian war, dispatches to be delivered behind enemy lines were photographically reduced onto bits of film. They were, thus, made small and light enough to be entrusted to pigeons for delivery.

Librarians eventually began to experiment with microreduction. The initial impetus for this experimentation was the same then as it is now: the promise of lower text cost. Other properties of this medium were also analyzed. A major ancillary property was its compactness; it was expected that this would result in great storage economies. It was further noted that microforms are both impervious to deterioration, and infinitely reproducible—ideal attributes for conserving scarce or infrequently used library materials.

Librarians were also quick to note the serious defects inherent in this medium. The quality of the image, when magnified, was poor. Despite other technical advances, the image has remained so. As a result, microforms are extremely troublesome to read, especially if one must concentrate on the murky image for an extended period of time. The storage economy possible with a reduced image is only gained if many individual frames, or pages, are contained on a single microcard or microfilm. Since the contents are invisible to the unaided eye, they are difficult to access. Once a desired frame has been located, access to other parts of a microform proves extremely awkward.

Microforms have been relegated to those tasks in which their superiority over other media is so marked that their shortcomings can be ignored by comparison. The ideal conditions which ensure their acceptability are offered by those applications where no viable alternative exists. Fremont Rider cogently stated this attitude by noting, "that practically all . . . users, if they are confronted with a free choice between a micro-reduced copy . . . and no copy of it at all, will prefer the micro-reduced copy" ("Microcards vs. The Cost of Book Storage," American Documentation, January 1951, Vol. 2, p. 41).

Microforms have been more successful as a means for preserving facsimiles of materials whose demise is imminent due to deterioration; as an alternative to those collections one can't afford in their original form; as a surrogate for those items the owning institution is unwilling, or unable, to subject to interlibrary lending; and as a means for preserving those vast bodies of re-

S. Michael Malinconico is assistant chief of the Systems Analysis and Data Processing Office of the New York Public Library. Prior to joining the staff of NYPL he was a mathematician and systems analyst with NASA during the Apollo project and the Price of the Message corded information, which, with great likelihood, consist of unadulterated ephemera, but might just possibly be the raw material of history, or the primeval embodiment of a profound idea.

Microfilm still is used extensively for recording circulation transactions. This application is actually very similar to the most common commercial use of microforms: a photographic record of a transaction made for security purposes, e.g., facsimiles of checks processed by a bank. In these cases, the primary purpose of the microfilm is to provide an archival record to be used only under exceptional circumstances; it is expected that the film will only need to be accessed infrequently. This highlights the prevalent attitude toward microforms: something which one hopes he does not have to use.

These applications almost completely describe the use of microforms by libraries in the four decades between 1930-1970. Public use of microforms was generally confined to the crepuscular shade of designated microfilm reading rooms. Perhaps this was more than just a result of utilitarian considerations; it might be indicative of the "fondness" librarians had for them. During the latter half of the 1960's, librarians earnestly began to seek the solid state salvation offered by computer technology. Almost contemporaneously in 1959, electronic data processing, the nubile technology of the era, and micrographics were coupled. The result was a new mutant, Computer Output Microfilm (COM). The synergistic combination of these technologies has created superb opportunities for confusion and innovation. The confusion might be traced to the esoteric disciplines underlying micrographic technology: data processing, photography, optics, and even elementary projective geometry. The opportunities for innovation are provided by the power of computing machinery, and the extremely low cost of microforms themselves.

If the computer can be characterized as "an information engine," then libraries represent, at least, alluvial deposits of information. A computer has a unique ability to reconstitute information into a myriad of new forms. Given the rich raw material processed by libraries, the result can be a truly staggering use of ancillary resources, as information synthesized by a computer requires some medium for its display. If that medium is not reusable, prodigious quantities of it are required. The paper shortage of 1974 and the attendant increase in paper prices highlighted the inadequacy of wood pulp products as an optimum medium for computer output. These facts combined to make computer output microforms a much more attractive display medium than earlier microforms had ever been.

Description of COM

First, it's no secret that the data which a computer manipulates are not in a form intelligible to humans. In order to make any use of the results of a computer's ruminations, we normally instruct it to present the results in some written form. The most common technique of rendering such information is with a high-speed computer line-printer. This device behaves very much like an ultra high-speed typewriter. Since each character is only known to the computer as a series of unique electrical signals, a computer printer must be capable of recognizing such signals and striking the appropriate character in response. In a sense, even a printer is a computer of limited ability. A more sophisticated device could be programmed to transduce the unique electrical impulses associated with a character into a drawing of its likeness on the face of a TV-like cathode ray tube (CRT). This is exactly the basis of the CRT displays with which we are now all familiar. The two major problems with a CRT display are: 1) that responses are generally customized, hence such an expensive resource can serve only one user at a time; and 2) a CRT is eminently capable of "writing" much faster than we can read. A simple solution could be found if we were to enclose the CRT in a light-tight box, place a lens in front of the screen, and photographic film behind the lens. We could then let the CRT operate as rapidly as it wishes, capture the data on film, duplicate the film into as many copies as we wish, and then read the filmed results at our leisure. If the lens reduces the image many times, we could have direct generation of a microform by computer. This, in simplest terms, is the process by which COM is created. Even such a device is much too slow for a computer, so one normally records a computer's output on magnetic tape, and then transfers it to a separate COM recorder. Although this results in a duplication of much of the electronics associated with a computer and its peripheral devices, the net result is still an efficient, economical use of the devices.

Since the process that transduces electrical signals into a display requires the intervention of a miniature "computer program" for each character, great graphic flexibility can be realized. One can, for example, create output with graphic quality similar to that produced by a human typesetter. One can also produce output of lesser quality, e.g., similar to that obtained from an ordinary CRT terminal, computer printer, or even a typewriter. The major differences are legibility and cost. The former is sometimes referred to as Graphic Art COM, and the latter as Alphanumeric COM. Both can be many times cheaper than printed copy.

Cost comparisons

Since we rarely use a computer to create a printed report to serve only a single user, we shall deal with output produced in multiple copies. This fact will make costs somewhat difficult to discuss, as the price of most printed products is a function of two quite independent parameters: the cost of creating a master copy (first copy) and the cost of making additional copies. In order to avoid these complications, let us assume 50 copies of a 500-page publication as a basis for comparison. Such a publication is too large to produce directly on a computer printer. In fact, we could show that the costs involved would gainsay such an approach, even if multi-ply paper were used. A fairly commonly employed technique would involve the creation of a single copy on a computer printer, with additional copies electrostatically produced (i.e., by Xerox machines). Produced in this way, our hypothetical publication would cost approximately $955, exclusive of the cost of computer time. The next most popular method would employ offset printing to make additional copies. Print plates would be photographically created from a single, clean, computer produced copy. This would cost about $985 (almost the same price as Xerox copies). (For more than 50 copies, offset printing becomes increasingly cheaper than making Xerox copies.) The same publication produced in 42X microfiche by COM would only cost approximately $35 (2 cents per page for a master copy, and one-tenth of a cent per page for additional copies). This is only a theoretical cost, as most COM vendors would actually probably invoice us $42. The reason is that a 42X microfiche contains 207 frames, hence, we would require three fiche. It matters little to the vendor in his processing that half of the third fiche would be blank. We can, nonetheless, use the former figure to arrive at comparisons without fear of introducing any significant bias. We can note from this that a COM publication can be approximately 1/27th the cost of an equivalent printed publication! (This ratio is extremely dependent on the number of copies produced. See figure 1 for the behavior of cost as a function of the number of copies.)

In what follows we shall be discussing micrographic applications which are radically different from those heretofore commonly employed in libraries. Whereas traditional uses of microforms might be characterized as micro*re*publication for preservation or dissemination, COM is more akin to micropublishing of newly synthesized information. Since COM products are invariably created from an evolving machine readable data base, they are, by virtue of this fact, ephemeral. We shall be considering the display of any given machine readable file; however, in order to reify the ideas presented, we shall use a computer maintained catalog as an example.

COM is considerably more than just an output product of computer processing. In a very real sense, it can provide a means whereby the potential of computer processing can be more fully realized. Although computers are very adept at maintaining, and reorganizing, machine readable files, this does no one any good unless the results of this activity are displayed. If activity against a machine readable file is frequent, the problem is all the more acute. On-line systems solve this problem very directly. All activity against on-lines files immediately manifest themselves to an observer on demand. Unfortunately, totally on-line systems, certainly on-line catalogs, are still beyond the reach of most libraries which can, nonetheless, benefit from computer assisted processing.

A "waste margin"

On-line systems employing CRT display terminals have as one of their major advantages the ability to produce a customized response. Such responses are created on a reusable writing surface—the CRT screen. Conversely, the reusability of the writing surface, in part, permits the system to address its response to a single individual making a discrete inquiry. When we cannot afford such customized service, we attempt to supply the information in a pre-coordinated form such that it will provide responses to as many queries as we can reasonably anticipate. Such solutions can never be totally satisfactory. In general, a query for information will be such that it has never been made before, nor will it, with high likelihood, ever be made again. As a logical corollary, any system that attempts to pre-satisfy queries must of necessity provide responses to queries that will never be made. The result is a waste margin.

A waste margin is an inescapable requirement in any information system. The term is not meant to evoke any pejorative connotation, but is merely intended to describe those products and services provided in anticipation of demand, but which are never, or infrequently, utilized. The inescapable nature of this phenomenon is invariably brought out in all studies of the use of library collections, which show that only a very small fraction of the collection is ever consulted in any finite period of time. Does this imply that the remainder of the collection is of no value? The answer, of course, is no; at any given instant of time each volume has the same a priori probability of being consulted as any other. Lacking the simple quality of omniscience, we can only ensure that an unknown request will be satisfied by maintaining a comprehensive collection. In fact, there is a very definite correlation between the depth of a research library's collection and its value to a scholar. The user of a library is quite indifferent to the millions of volumes which he does not consult. He is concerned, however, that he be assured that the material or information he is seeking will, with high likelihood, be found in the library he chooses to use. It is only upon a posteriori reflection that some fraction of a collection can be characterized as of marginal value. Thus, a waste margin is only a waste margin after, not before, the fact.

A waste margin necessarily occurs in most aspects of library related operations. OCLC, for example, has no choice but to maintain on-line nearly one-half of all the MARC records distributed by the Library of Congress without any of its 600 member libraries using them. A similar inexorable law is operative whenever we create a bibliographic display. There is precious little we can do about unaccessed items in a collection, or unused MARC records. We can, however, by appropriately choosing the display medium, exercise great control over the price exacted by the waste margin in a bibliographic display. We have already noted that a COM display can cost 1/27 as much as the same display in conventional printed form. If 10 percent of this list is assumed to be of marginal value to most users, but nonetheless still provides a useful additional service, if we seek to increase service by proving more information of such a nature, and if we are not simultaneously seeking to lower costs, then we would be free to increase the amount of this additional in-Prices cited in this paper are only intended to be representative of what is currently being quoted by commercial vendors. Geography, volume, and a myriad of other factors can dramatically affect what will be charged in any particular instance. The ultimate and only reliable source for such information will be a salesman for the vendor selected.

---

formation to where it would comprise 97 percent of the list! We could, if we did not wish to increase the waste margin, simply pocket a 96 percent saving (see appendix).

Let us consider a hypothetical example: assume that a printed bibliographic list contains an average of four entries per title—a main entry and three added entries, and that a majority of users employ only the main entry as an access point. The three added entries are then provided only for that minority of users who do not know the main entry. The added entries may be considered a waste margin. If the list is produced in COM, at 1/27 the cost of print, then with no increase in cost we would provide an average of 107 added entries! This might be a bit excessive, but we could exercise a whole spectrum of options; e.g., we could double the number of added entries and still realize a 94 percent saving.

One often avoids making too many added entries in a card catalog simply because of the cost of creating and filing the additional cards. There are, however, a great number of bibliographic lists produced by computer in which multiple access can be generated completely, or in part, by programming logic, but the cost of the resultant list prevents us from exercising this option. For example, the Hennepin County Library in 1971 produced a 2500-page list of materials on-order, through an automated acquisitions system. The list was originally produced only in author sequence. By converting to COM from printed output, they could include both author and title access, at 10 percent the cost of the original list. As an added bonus, copies of the list, which formerly took up to a week to produce, could be ready for distribution in 24 hours. The simplest type of added access, which may be completely generated by computer, is provided by a key word index. Even when such an index is possible, we often avoid creating it solely because of the increased size, and the cost of the resulting list.

One of the major advantages of an interactive system is that it can respond to queries through post-coordinated access to information. That is, within limits, it can respond to customized queries. On the other hand, a static system can only respond through a set of precoordinated access points (those "added entries" provided at the time the static display was created). A library catalog in book or card form is a static system. Although static systems can never hope to equal the efficacy of interactive systems, they can be made to approach them by increasing the number of pre-coordinated access points. We have already noted how this, or any other approach must be considered within the constraints of available resources.

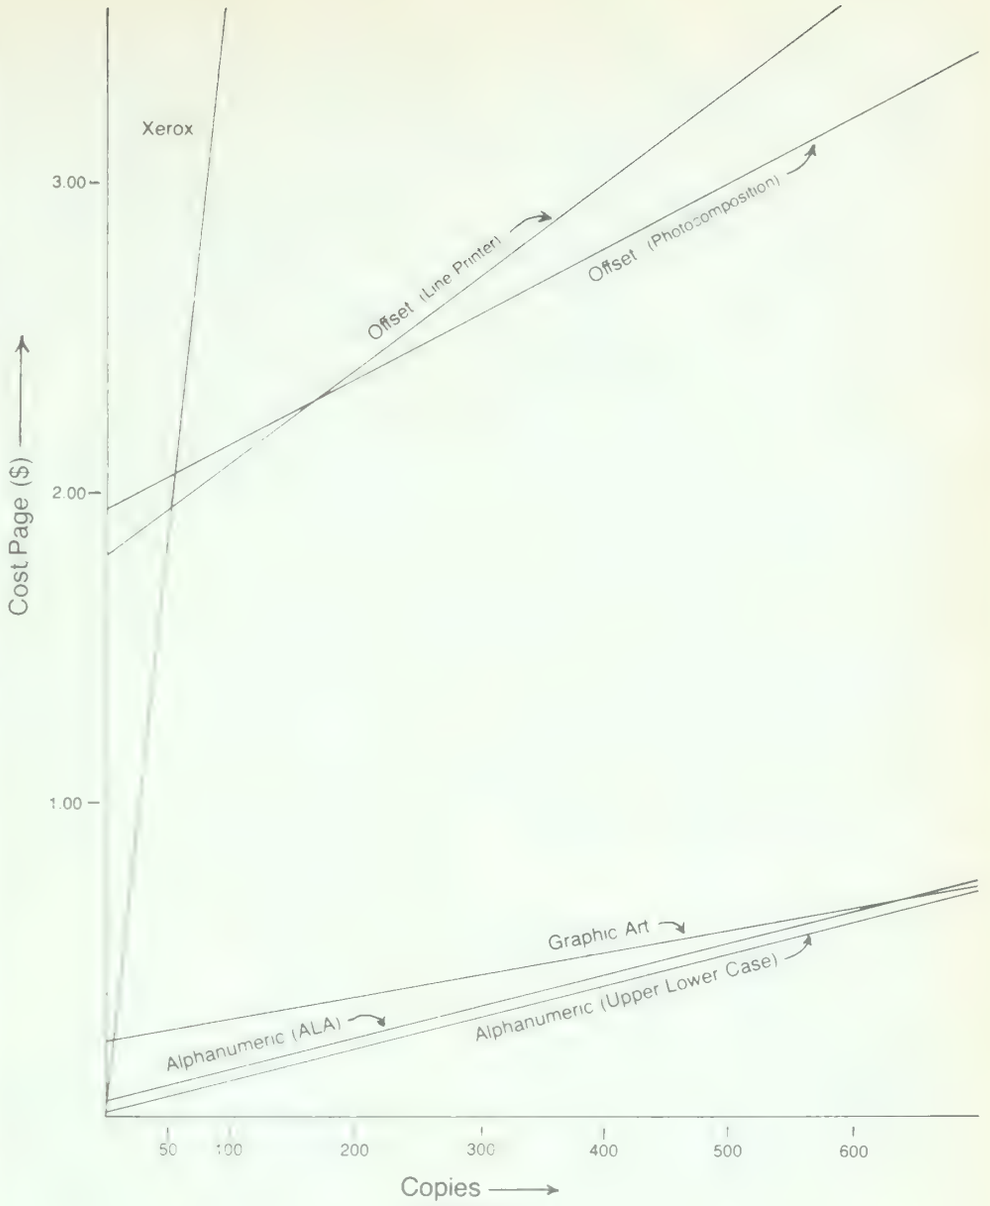

FIGURE 1

Figure 1: Graph of per page cost of multiple copies of a publication in various media

An evolving machine readable file

Another major advantage of on-line systems is the timeliness of the information presented. A static display, created from an evolving machine readable data base, can only present us with a snapshot of the file—a still photograph of that frozen moment in the evolution of the file when the display was created. Static displays are by their very nature anachronisms practically at the moment they are created. A book form catalog can never be "up-to-date" and large, manual, card catalogs are rarely current, as filing backlogs are an inescapable fact of life.

The problems of timeliness of the catalog when the bibliographic data are maintained in machine readable form are subtly, but significantly, different from those posed by a manual catalog. As already noted, a computer is very adept at maintaining and reorganizing a file of bibliographic data. If we attempt to maintain a parallel manifestation of that file, say in card form, then we must expend manual effort to integrate activity taken by the computer against the machine readable file into its manual analog. This is not meant to gainsay the savings that a computer can effect, but we are left with an intuitive suspicion that the computer is not being used to full advantage; we are in effect asking humans to duplicate some aspects of work already performed by a computer.

If we are to use a computer to maintain, and control, a file effectively, we must cede to it control over display of that file. The extent to which we delegate this control is proportional to the degree of efficiency we can effect in the entire operation. Ceding total responsibility for display to a computer implies either an on-line display, or a static display created in its entirety by computer. Frequently recreating a large publication in order to incorporate the results of new activity can be an extremely expensive proposition. Several not altogether satisfying solutions have been found which help improve timeliness within the constraints of finite resources. They permit frequent publication of less than the entire file. The most popular technique involves the publication of a complete cumulation of the contents of a file at some infrequent interval, and augments this at a greater frequency, with supplements containing the results of all activity since the time of the last cumulation.

Cumulation/supplement patterns can be conceived of in an almost unlimited variety, but we shall only deal with the two most common. A cumulative supplement is one in which each issue contains a complete record of all activity since a previous cumulation (each supplement supersedes, and replaces the last). A chronological supplement contains only a record of activity since the issuance of the previous supplement (a complete history can only be discovered by consulting all supplements). Librarians are already aware of the satisfying nature of such a publication pattern. For example, a search in the National Union Catalog can require the examination of 1) the most recent quinquennial; 2) up to four of the most recent annuals; 3) up to three of the most recent quarterly issues; and 4) up to two of the most recent monthly issues.

It is easy to see that the major service difference between the two techniques of supplementation is the difference in the number of alphabets that must be consulted—a maximum of two in the first case, and a maximum of ten in the second case. The reasons for choosing the latter, over the former, are simply economic, not the result of creative sadism. It should be obvious that if we were to publish a cumulation augmented by chronological supplements, the total cost of providing supplements is equal to the cost of the first supplement multiplied by the number of each supplement. On the other hand, the total cost of cumulative supplements is nearly proportional to the cost of producing the first, times the square of the number produced. If we were to consider supplements produced in each of the 11 months, following an annual cumulation, then cumulative supplements would cost us six times as much as chronological supplements. Librarians, unlike employees of the Department of Defense, would shudder violently at such a 500 percent increase. If the cost of the display medium could negate or help ameliorate this difference, then one might feel free to choose the alternative which provides better service. COM can potentially provide a 27-fold decrease in the cost of publication; this is more than enough to offset a 6-fold increase required by cumulative supplementation.

The ideal situation would result if we could eliminate supplements altogether, and produce a complete cumulation each time. Users would then have only one alphabet to search. In some cases this has proven practicable by converting to a COM catalog. Fairfax County Public Library in Virginia and Clark County Public Library in Nevada, among others, now produce their book catalogs in COM. They are able to dispense with supplements completely and provide complete cumulations every two to three months. Even with the low cost of COM, this is still not practical in all cases. Each case is so complicated by considerations of format and file size that no simple generalizations can be made.

Regardless of the publication pattern chosen, COM invariably provides greater timeliness. A COM publication in multiple copies can be produced in a matter of days. This is in contrast to the several weeks necessary to produce a similar publication by offset printing. Because of the speed of production and the extremely low cost of COM, it is actually possible to create a COM version of a printed catalog to serve during the period between computer creation of the data and delivery of the printed books. The Dance Collection of the New York Public Library has actually done this while waiting for delivery of its first, 7000-page, 10-volume catalog. Incidentally, the COM version of this catalog was contained on only 86 microfiche.

Character sets & typography

Up until this point we have been discussing the cheapest form of COM, Alphanumeric COM, which only has a simple upper/lower case character set. More sophisticated forms also exist at higher prices. When recording bibliographic data, there is often a need for special characters and diacritics not normally encountered in commercial applications. A character set has been developed by the Library of Congress and endorsed by ALA. This ALA character set has been judged adequate for the transcription of cataloging data in languages employing a roman script, and in those languages which can be romanized. This character set is quite large, containing 175 discrete graphics. COM can be obtained with this character set; however the number of COM vendors who possess this capability is very limited. Probably due to the uniqueness of this service at this time, prices quoted by vendors vary significantly, from 1.4 to 9.3¢/frame. For purposes of comparison with other forms of output, we can use an average of 5¢/frame.

This apparent 150 percent increase in price is somewhat deceptive. It represents only the increased price of the master copy. Additional copies still cost only about one tenth of a cent per frame. To illustrate this point, let us once again consider our 500-page publication. Recall that 50 copies of this publication would have cost $35. If produced with a full ALA character set, its cost would be $50—albeit a 43 percent increase in price, but not as menacing a prospect as the increase augured by the cost of the master copy. The reason is quite simple: the fixed cost of 50 copies tends to mask the effect of an increase in the price of the master. Even with such a relatively extraordinary increase in price, the cost is still only about 1/19 that of printed copy.

The relative price increase may be great, but as we see from this example, the absolute increase paid for such an enhancement can be quite tolerable. In many cases an extended character set is essential for the representation of bibliographic data; this is especially so if we are attempting to record romanized forms of data originally in a non-roman script. Consider the ambiguities that a simple macron helps resolve in the following romanizations of the Japanese words: OTO, a sound; ŌTO, to throw up; and ŌTŌ, the Royalists. Similar examples can be found in cyrillic languages. Even Western European languages can present ambiguities of meaning that are only resolved by diacritical marks.

There is yet a more sophisticated form of COM, Graphic Art COM. With this, we can create output of the same quality as that produced by a typographer setting type. In fact, we can employ a range of typefonts not normally available to a human printer. Devices capable of this type of output are more commonly used to produce full size copy than COM. This is easily accomplished by exchanging the 16, 35, or 105mm film, in the COM recorder, for 10-inch photographic paper, and adjusting the lens to project a full-size image. The result is known as phototypesetting. Full-size copy is then used in another photographic process to make offset printing plates. The book catalog of the NYPL Research Libraries is an example of the end result of this process. This catalog contains text employing the full ALA character set as well as the Hebrew alphabet, both in normal and bold face type in various sizes.

Photocomposed output can cost approximately $1/page if produced on photographic paper, and 35¢/page if produced on film. Again, the costs can be deceptive. In addition to the added copy phenomenon discussed earlier, another effect comes into play. In typeset copy each character is accorded "proportional spacing," e.g., an i requires less space than an M. Alphanumeric COM, computer printer, or even typewriter copy all employ fixed spacing for each character. The result is that typeset output can be over 30 percent more compact than equivalent monospace copy. Our 500-page publication would therefore be reduced to 350 pages; 50 copies would then cost $140. This is about four times the price of ordinary Alphanumeric COM, but still about seven times cheaper than duplicating line printer copy. Preparation of data for photocomposition does require more computer time and sophisticated software than simple Alphanumeric COM, but the additional computer time only adds about $11 to the cost of the publication under consideration. Since we are only concerned here with the costs for display media, we shall ignore these added complications.

An equivalent phototypeset, printed publication would cost only slightly ($85) more than one derived from computer copy (raising the price to $1040). This is so despite the relatively high price, $1/page, for photocomposed copy. The offsetting effect is provided by a reduction in the size of each volume. In the course of producing 50 copies, we recover most of the high initial investment made in each page with a 30 percent reduction in the number of pages. In fact, reference to Figure 1 will show that beyond 150 copies photocomposition becomes more economical than duplicating line printer copy.

We should note the qualitative advantages of Graphic COM and related products. The advantages are not simply aesthetic. Typeset copy is much easier to read than a typewriter-like display, as typographic characters are more distinctive. In addition, a typeset line contains a greater number of characters within a fixed extent. More text is presented to a single scan of the eye; reading is more rapid. Finally, variations in type style and size can be used to convey information. For example: Highlighting the principal filing element of each entry with bold type can greatly facilitate scanning a page or frame for an entry; setting detailed information in small type makes it easier to ignore when one is reading rapidly to locate likely entries; italic type can be used to call attention to important elements in an entry, such as a call number; etc.

Self-refreshing catalogs

The frequent republication of the contents of a machine readable data base in order to ensure the timeliness of that publication is only one aspect of a more general consideration. Periodically, republishing a catalog in its entirety permits us to create a self-refreshing catalog. We have already seen the advantage such a catalog can offer when we reorganize its contents—reorganization becomes manifest without manual intervention after we have instructed the computer to effect the alterations. One additional advantage is provided by such a technique. We can permit provisional or volatile data temporarily to exist in the catalog, as we can fully expect that it will be replaced automatically, by permanent data. A trivial example might include the use of CIP data derived from LC/MARC. A library could accept a CIP record with the knowledge that it will be replaced in subsequent publications of the catalog by a complete, authoritative record when it is issued by LC. If the library rigorously adheres to LC practices, replacement can be effected automatically without human intervention.

A less trivial example may be provided by a new MARC service scheduled for implementation in the near future—distribution of LC's Automated Process Information File (APIF) records. The APIF contains preliminary descriptive cataloging for all materials received by the LC processing department. These records are created at the very beginning of the processing cycle, hence, represent the earliest bibliographic control records for materials processed by LC. The records, although of high quality, are created by para-professionals and are later revised and upgraded by professional catalogers. Generally the preliminary record is enriched with notes, added entries, subject headings, and classification numbers. If one could make use of these records, they could provide at least main entry and title access in a catalog until the full, authoritative record is issued. The full record would then provide full access and bibliographic data. (The lack of call numbers poses a serious problem in this scheme. Nonetheless, libraries which do not rely on classed shelving of materials, and which can assign a temporary call number, or which are able to assign a call number without the assistance of LC's subject analysis can probably make this scheme work.) The temporary record can be replaced automatically by computer. If one can solve the call number problem, then the self-refreshing nature of the catalog permits one to provide very timely, albeit limited, access to materials covered by APIF records. The efficacy of such schemes are directly dependent on the degree of conformity with LC practice, and the frequency with which a catalog or its supplements are issued. The latter considerations are directly dependent on the cost of publication. We have seen that costs associated with COM publication are so low that they impose no very serious constraints.

Perhaps the most dramatic effect of the self-refreshing catalog can be a solution to the classical problems posed by anachronistic or derogatory headings (see M. Freedman, "Processing for the People," LJ, January 1, 1976). The main reason that these headings present a problem is that attempting to do anything about them can require massive maintenance of an existing catalog. With terribly little bother, computers can in general effect the necessary changes. If the catalog is maintained by a computer, produced in book form, and replaced periodically, the effort required to make these changes is substantially reduced and one can feel free to make them when appropriate. Sanford Berman, one of the most incisive critics of the quality of LC subject headings, is able to put his recommendations into practice fairly easily at the Hennepin County Library, since he has access to a highly sophisticated automated cataloging system, and Hennepin's catalog appears in book form. Changes are fairly easy to effect, and appear as soon as the next issue of the catalog is published.

Here then is the real advantage of an inexpensive display medium. It permits a librarian to devote his creative energies to developing innovative tools for enhancing service rather than seeking mundane economies that can be effected without too adversely affecting service. COM prices are so low that enormous latitude is permitted when seeking such enhancements. The latitude is generally so great that one can hope to reduce costs, improve service, and make more effective use of the expensive computer resources available to a library.

Appendix

Here we shall attempt to derive the amount of additional marginal information permitted in a list produced on a less inexpensive medium. Let E represent that part of a list, which contains essential information. Then the cost of this list including a 10 percent margin for inessential, but useful additional information is given by:

$$[E + 0.1E] \times C$$

Where C is a constant proportional to the cost on which the medium is produced.

If this same list is produced on a less expensive medium, for which the constant C is represented by C′, and we now assume that a quantity of marginal material represented by M is some fraction f of the total list than we have:

$$f = \frac{M}{E + M},$$

since the total list will now contain E + M data. Simple algebra will show that:

$$M = \frac{f}{1 - f} E$$

And C′ is obviously equal to C/27.

If now assume that the price of the lists is to be equal we get

$$[E + 0.1E] \times C = [E + M] \times C'$$

$$[E + 0.1E] \times C = E + \frac{f}{1 - f} E \times \frac{C}{27}$$

Solving for f we find:

$$f = 1 - \frac{1}{1.1 \times 27} = .966,$$

or 97 percent.

If we did not add any marginal material to the original list, then the price is simply reduced to 1/27, or 3.7 percent of the original price, hence, a 96.3 percent saving.

How To Manage Your Microform Collection

☐ Microform Review features reviews of all micropublications. Also, articles dealing with the use of microforms in the library appear in each issue. Allen B. Veaner, editor-in-chief. Bi-monthly. ISSN 0002-6530. $30.00.

☐ The Micropublisher's Trade List Annual offers on microfiche the catalogs of micropublishers worldwide. Includes 120 microfiche, protective panels, binder, subject index, and contents index. Annually in May (December Supplement). ISSN 0361-2635. $80.00.

☐ Microlist is a monthly listing of new micropublications. Coverage is international. Titles are listed by author, title, and subject. Monthly. ISSN 0362-1014. $25.00.

☐ Micrographics Equipment Review provides comprehensive reviews of micrographics equipment designed for library applications. Emphasis is placed on readers, reader-printers, duplicators, and COM equipment. Quarterly. ISSN 0362-1006. (Price according to book and periodical budget.)

☐ Guide to Microforms in Print (Incorporating International Microforms in Print) now under the editorial supervision of Microform Review. A revised and increased data base of available micropublications from publishers worldwide. Entries conform to Library of Congress and Anglo-American cataloging rules. Annually in February. Cloth. ISSN 0017-5293. Price to be announced.

☐ Subject Guide to Microforms in Print (Incorporating International Microforms in Print) provides the means to survey the extent of micropublications available in a given subject area. Combines with the Guide to place extensive reference and research information at your fingertips. Annually in February. Cloth. ISSN 0090-290X. Price to be announced.

☐ Directory of Library Reprographic Services, 6th edition describes the reprographic facilities of 450 libraries in the United States and abroad. Published in association with RLMS-American Library Association. Joseph A. Nitecki, editor. 1976. Paper. ISBN 0-913672-04-1. $9.95.

☐ Microform Review Five Volume Index 1972-1976 1976. Cloth. ISBN 0-913672-10-6. $12.95.

☐ Microforms in Libraries: A Reader the first collection of significant articles from library literature on the subjects of microforms and micrographics equipment in the library. Albert Diaz, editor. 1975. Cloth. ISBN 0-913672-03-3. $17.50.

FORTHCOMING BOOKS

☐ Studies in Micropublishing Allen B. Veaner, editor. January 1977. Cloth. ISBN 0-913672-07-6. $17.50.

☐ Serials Management and Microforms: A Reader Patricia Walsh, editor. April 1976. Cloth. ISBN 0-913672-11-4. $17.50.

☐ Developing a Microform Reading Center by Francis Spreitzer. August 1976. Cloth. ISBN 0-913672-09-2. $20.00.

Microform Review/P.O. Box 1297/Weston, Conn. 06880/(203) 227-2229

Please enter our order for the following title(s)

- ☐ Microform Review
- ☐ The Micropublisher's Trade List Annual
- ☐ Microlist
- ☐ Micrographics Equipment Review
- ☐ Guide to Microforms in Print
- ☐ Subject Guide to Microforms in Print
- ☐ Directory of Library Reprographic Services, 6th edition
- ☐ Microform Review Five Volume Index 1972-1976
- ☐ Microforms in Libraries: A Reader
- ☐ Studies in Micropublishing
- ☐ Developing a Microform Reading Center
- ☐ Serials Management and Microforms: A Reader

Organization

Address

City/State/Zip

Purchase Order No.

PROFESSIONAL READING

Sci/tech periodicals

KRONICK, David A. A History of Scientific and Technical Periodicals: the Origins and Development of the Scientific and Technical Press, 1665-1790. 2d ed.

Scarecrow. 1976. 336p. indexes. bibliog. ISBN 0-8108-0844-7. LC 75-41487. $13.50

YANNARELLA, Philip A. and Rao Aluri, comps. U.S. Government Scientific and Technical Periodicals.

Scarecrow. 1976. 263p. indexes. appendixes. ISBN 0-8108-0888-9. LC 75-38740. $10

An updated version of a book such as Kronick's has got to be a welcome happening. What Kronick does is to examine the rise of the scientific and technical journal from its beginnings in the 17th Century until the time of the French Revolution (roughly the beginning of the 19th Century—a just enough cutoff date, as is suggested, because of the immense proliferation of the species afterwards). He does this by examining in detail 1000 or so early periodicals of the sort (the number greatly increased in the new edition). One may find fault with some of the statistical material and may groan a little over the cramped masses of detail on nearly every page (the book began as a doctoral dissertation, and still retains some of the stiffness that characterizes such publications). Still, there are admirable things both for the insights they lend into a scarcely bothered-with subject and also for the way in which they are presented. Kronick begins by defining the term "periodical," and it is to his credit that his definition, while it matches in most respects the recently promulgated AACR definition, contains a few twists and wrinkles that even this long and painstaking statement fails to mention. From there, Kronick proceeds to deal with the main categories of periodical as defined and does this with characteristic thoroughness. Beyond this, there is a lucid and persuasive chapter or so on early efforts to index scientific and technical periodicals and on the contribution the general periodical played in the early dissemination of scientific information. Altogether, a fine work.

The Yannarella and Aluri book is also useful. Any attempt to bring order to the incredible muddle Jo Morehead calls a "mazeway" deserves recognition, regardless of any shortcomings. Here the principal one is that the list is admittedly incomplete. The question might well be asked: How on earth could this be otherwise? No one knows just how many governmental serials are extant, and the total number is not going to come to light in a hurry. Yannarella and Aluri list as many important scientific and technical journals as they think the ordinary library-user is likely to need, and describe these as completely as possible. They take a good shot at an impossible task, and, what's more, promise to deal similarly with other forms of governmental serials later on.—PETER GELLATLY, UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON LIBRARIES, SEATTLE

Zesty promotion

BAECKLER, Virginia & Linda Larson. Go, Pep, and Pop!: 250 Tested Ideas for Lively Libraries.

The U*N*A*B*A*S*H*E*D Librarian, G.P.O. Box 2631, New York, N.Y. 10001. 1976. 72p. illus. ISBN 0-916444-01-5. LC 75-20328. pap. $3.50 (check with order); $4.50 (if billed, institutions only).

Here at the West Virginia Library Commission, we have a casual group known as the Brainstormers who gather in the Idea Room to trade comedy routines, trivial statements, censorable comments, etc. Many of the ideas used in our promotional campaigns spring forth wildly at these sessions and are eventually channeled, polished, or cleaned up into usable forms. Our most recent activity was to read Go, Pep, and Pop! for the purpose of evaluating the 250 tested ideas for lively libraries quietly suggested throughout this zesty little volume. Wow! Do not pass go without collecting this PR gem for your shelf. It is full of enough good stuff to keep your library wealthy in promotional pleasures forever, and without a great outlay of coin. Even the already lively library will find some new tricks—many so simple that you've probably overlooked them. Our Brainstormers are indefinitely out to lunch because Go, Pep, and Pop! is now going to run the Idea Room at this place.—CAROL BRYAN, "EXPOSURE!," WEST VIRGINIA LIBRARY COMMISSION

Selections from Shores

SHORES, Louis. Reference as the Promotion of Free Inquiry.

Libraries Unlimited. 1976. 189p. index. ISBN 0-87287-156-8. LC 76-6150. In U.S. & Canada, $11.50; elsewhere, $13.50.

This collection of 19 articles and three unpublished speeches spans the years 1937 to 1974 in Louis Shores' incredibly busy life. Ten of the articles appeared in the 1967 collection, Mark Hopkins' Log and Other Essays. Some of the selections are dated: a 1941 status survey of reference practices, a 1943 list of reference books for teachers, and a 1952 list of American reference books prepared for British librarians are now period pieces. And, as in any collection of occasional pieces, there is considerable repetition of illustrations and incidents throughout.

Shores' Annual Lecture to the Library Association in 1952, "A Frame of Reference," and his 1958 talk to the Kentucky Library Association, "Reference Becomes Learning," have stood the test of time well. Two similar papers on encyclopedias, "The Ideal Encyclopedia" (1937) and "Design for an Encyclopedia" (1960), are well worth rereading for a statement of the elements of a good encyclopedia.

The essays frequently tell us as much about Shores as they do about reference. His conservatism, his vanity, his love for the catchy phrase are all there. But, more important, the evangelistic fervor, the ability to personalize, and the energy of a dynamic teacher and speaker shine through the lines of each essay. The introductory notes, which have been rewritten for this collection, suggest that he has not slowed down perceptibly.—JOE W. KRAUS, ILLINOIS STATE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY, NORMAL

IR history

METCALFE, John. Information Retrieval, British & American, 1876-1976.

Scarecrow. 1976. 243p. index. ISBN 0-8108-0875-7. LC 75-29154. $10.

A flyer, which accompanied this book, states: "John Metcalfe, a distinguished Australian librarian and teacher of librarianship, has written a concise, lively, discursive history of one hundred years' developments in information retrieval theory and practice (cataloguing, classification, subject headings, thesauri) from Dewey and Cutter through LC, UDC, Bliss, Ranganathan, and others to the exponents of coordinate index and mechanization." The flyer is right—if this subject is of interest and an area in which the reader enjoys browsing. For browsing, albeit skillful and well selected, is the achievement of this book. This should not be construed as a slur, for the field surveyed is too broad and full of pitfalls to be handled easily. The book can serve as a good introduction to the field and as a useful textbook in a course on classification. The introductory chapters deal with principles, definitions, and the development of information retrieval, with subsequent chapters on the classification systems of Dewey, Cutter, LC, British battles, Bliss, Ranganathan, pre-coordinate indexing, post-coordinate indexing, and mechanization. There is a helpful list of abbreviations and acronyms, chapter references and notes, and an index.

There is much to question and more than the normal room for quibble because the philosophic foundations on which classification schemes are built, though sometimes brilliant are, at best, personal. There can be no final, best, solutions. Opinion remains the arbiter, the order of the day. The reason is simple: the basic assumptions which relate to knowledge—its ultimate source and permanent organization—always transcend empirical observation. The author clearly recognizes this fact when he quotes: "the history of cataloguing is exceptional in that it is endlessly repetitive. Each generation rethinks and reformulates the same basic problems, reframing them in new contexts and restating them in new terminology. Either this needs at least qualification or the statement made just before it and the outline of development before and after 1876 are quite wrong." The reader must judge for himself.—LOUIS VAGIANOS, UNIVERSITY SERVICES, DALHOUSIE UNIVERSITY, HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA

Structure of knowledge

BATTY, David, ed. Knowledge and Its Organization.

College of Library and Information Services, Univ. of Maryland. (Student Contribution Series Number 8). 1976. 145p. bibliog. ISBN 0-911808-12-4. LC 76-620022. pap. $8.75.

Anyone who struggles to differentiate "knowledge," "wisdom," and "information" has little help from Webster but increasing assistance from the interdisciplinary courage of epistemologically-oriented philosophers of librarianship. Here are essays by University of Maryland students who plunge into a lively variety of topics relating to the structure and characteristics of knowledge, all with an enthusiasm whose hubris has been carefully tempered by an excellent editor.

Despite its somewhat ambiguous title, this is not a book about cataloging and classification. It is, genuinely, seriously, and from a heterogeneous vantage, an attempt to outline the major typologies of knowledge. The major rubrics unifying the student papers are: The Nature and Growth of Knowledge, Knowledge and Society, The Origins of Ideas, Organization and Expression, Applications of Knowledge, and an Outline Bibliography. Each essay offers its own bibliography as well. The individual essays are not all successful; some are outstanding, and good reading on their own. Of these, Vibeke Fulton's " 'Ost-deutsch' and 'West-deutsch': The Politics of Semantics" is perhaps the most scholarly. Peggy Sanders and Sara M. Baum's "Non-Verbal Communication in Library Question Negotiation" is an all-too-brief introduction to the crucial kinesthetic factors of interpersonal communication. Indeed, much of the volume indicates how swiftly and appropriately communications sciences are becoming foundations for library and information management education. Just as the epistemologists must continue to clarify the structure of knowledge, the communications specialists must teach us the cultural and motivational context within which knowledge operates. Batty and his students are to be congratulated for a respectable survey of concepts and materials which all practitioners require.—ESTELLE JUSSIM, SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE, SIMMONS COLLEGE, BOSTON

Cannons' canon

CANNONS' Bibliography of Library Economy, 1876-1920: an Author Index with Citations. ed. by Anne Harwell Jordan and Melbourne Jordan.

Scarecrow. 1976. 473p. ISBN 0-8108-0918-4. LC 76-3711. $18.50.

In 1910 the London publishing firm of S. Russell & Co. printed the first edition of a bibliography of library economy by H. G. T. Cannons, borough librarian of Finsbury, England. A revised and enlarged edition of the manuscript was later offered to ALA and published through advance subscription in 1927 under the title Bibliography of Library Economy, 1876-1920. With restrained pride, the compiler added a subtitle: "A Classified Index to the Professional Periodical Literature in the English Language Relating to Library Economy, Printing, Methods of Publishing, Copyright, Bibliography, etc. from 1876 to 1920." Sixty-five periodicals, including such big guns as the Library Journal, Public Libraries, and Library Association Record, as well as a number of bulletins, proceedings, and transactions of associations and societies, were indexed in an elaborate classification scheme. Access to several thousand subsections was made simpler but not easy through an alphabetic subject index.

Almost 50 years later, two industrious compilers, Anne Harwell Jordan and Melbourne Jordan, have revealed the identity of the authors of Cannons' 32,500 references in an author index with citations. For example, under Isadore Mudge, Columbia's one-time great reference librarian, are 12 entries giving the author's surname, initials, title, periodical, volume, and paging. In an introduction to the Jordan Index, John Gordon Burke writes that it is "an index to the individuals who have shaped library history, and whose scholarship has been buried in this bibliography for years." Well, there's more than scholarship buried in Cannons' bibliography, but probably the proportion of wheat to chaff is neither more nor less than in its current offspring. In any event the canonical writings—Dewey, Dana, Cutter, etc.—can readily be found. In addition, the Jordan Index serves as a very satisfactory guide to the ambitious student who wants to go beyond his professor's prescription. For the period covered, he will find the writings of such men and women as Lydenberg, Koch, Compton, Eastman, Countryman, Williamson, and Wyer—all of whom gave strong impetus to the modern library movement, brought library education to the university campus, and helped to break down barriers between readers and books. In print we librarians are mostly a utilitarian crew, but I think the Jordans have helped to relieve the solemnity. They make it possible, for example, to find without waste of time such noblemen of bibliography, printing, and binding as Cole, Duff, Kerr, McKerrow, and other "kinsprits."

I have only one regret about this invaluable index. I wish the compilers had been less modest in their preface and had said something about their working method in producing the index. It would have added an interesting footnote in the history of bibliographical management.—GUY R. LYLE, FORMERLY DIRECTOR OF LIBRARIES, EMORY UNIVERSITY, ATLANTA

AV intro to networks

ASSOCIATION for Educational Communications and Technology. Networks for Learning. Color filmstrip, audiocassette, and guide.

AECT, 1126 16th St. N.W., Wash. D.C. 20036. 1975. 83 fr., 10 min. with 20p. guide. $11.95.

Prepared by the Leadership in Library Education Institute, Florida State University, for the U.S. Office of Education, this strip is meant to be a brief introduction for the librarian to networking and a starting point for those seeking information about networks. It covers only data base searches and a few other networking activities, with no mention of the oldest activity, interlibrary loans, or of the newest, shared cataloging. The guide includes script, overview of networks, glossary, list of acronyms, and bibliography. Full of jargon which neither the strip nor the guide clarify. A superficial and unbalanced effort which will fail to aid the beginner as claimed.—JOHN CORBIN, SCHOOL OF LIBRARY AND INFORMATION SCIENCES, NORTH TEXAS STATE UNIVERSITY, DENTON

BOWKER SEPTEMBER CHECKLIST

☐ September 24/Publishers' Trade List Annual 1976. Binds together the specially prepared catalogs of 1,353 publishers of all kinds and sizes, including hundreds of specialty publishers in a separate supplement. Lists all titles in series and journal programs, overseas representatives, discount schedules, subsidiaries and imprints, regional offices, warehouse facilities, etc.
ISBN 0-8352-0896-6. ISSN 0079-7855. LC 4-12648. 8½" x 11". c.10,000 pages. $45.00 the 6-volume set.

☐ September 30/Archive-Library Relations. Edited with a preface by Robert L. Clark, Jr., Director of Mid-Mississippi Regional Library, Koscuisko, Mississippi. Eighteen articles by experts give librarians a working knowledge of archival problems and archivists a current view of librarianship. Includes an annotated bibliography.
ISBN 0-8352-0770-6. LC 76-18806. CIP. 6" x 9". c.300 pages. $15.95.

☐ September 30/Bowker Serials Bibliography Supplement 1976. Here's current finding, ordering, and descriptive data on publications from all over the world that did not appear either in the 16th edition of Ulrich's International Periodicals Directory or the 4th edition of Irregular Serials and Annuals. Clarifies more than 7,000 publications.
ISBN 0-8352-0854-0. ISSN 0000-0094. LC 72-2677. 8½" x 11". 521 pages. Softcover. $22.50.

☐ September 30/Health: A Multimedia Source Guide. Compiled and edited by Joan Ash, Assistant Director of The University of Oregon Health Science Center Libraries, and Michael Stevenson. Guides you to the publications, products, programs and key personnel of hundreds of organizations of all kinds in the health world. Arranges all associations, firms, agencies, research institutes, publishing companies and AV producers currently active in disseminating services and/or information by subject areas. Indexed both by Source & Subject and by Location.
ISBN 0-8352-0905-9. LC 76-28297. CIP. 6" x 9". c.250 pages. $16.00.

☐ September 30/North American Film and Video Directory: A Guide to Media Collections and Services. Compiled in cooperation with the Educational Film Library Association, Film Library Information Council, and AV/Public Library Association of the ALA. Lists and describes 1,273 college, public, special, museum and archival libraries and media centers with collections of 16mm and/or 8mm films available for loan, rental, or on-site viewing.
ISBN 0-8352-0883-4. ISSN 0362-7802. LC 76-26748. 8½" x 11". 282 pages. $25.00.

☐ September 30/Scientific, Engineering and Medical Societies Publications in Print 1976-1977. Compiled and edited by James M. Matarazzo, Assistant Professor, Simmons College School of Library Science, and James M. Kyed, Librarian, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Enables you to locate, know and obtain thousands of books, periodicals and AV items issued by more than 350 societies. Author, Subject, and Periodical Title Indexes are provided.
ISBN 0-8352-0898-2. LC 76-26086. CIP. 8½" x 11". 509 pages. $19.95.

☐ September 24/Commodity Futures Trading: A Bibliographic Guide. By James B. Woy, Head of the Mercantile Library of the Free Library of Philadelphia. Defines Action and Reaction Theory, Elliott Wave Principle, Hog-Corn Ratio, and more than a hundred other commodity trading terms and methods. Each definition is followed by an annotated bibliography of books and serials on the subject. Includes a list of important government reports and periodicals, and author and subject indexes.
ISBN 0-8352-0899-0. LC 76-23430. CIP. 6" x 9". 206 pages. $15.75.

Order from:
R. R. Bowker Order Dept. P. O. Box 1807, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106 Outside Western Hemisphere: Bowker, Erasmus House, Epping, Essex, England

Name

Address

City/State/Zip

Purchase Order #

All orders plus shipping and handling. Sales tax added where applicable.
(Prices are subject to change and slightly higher outside the U.S. and its possessions.)

BOWKER
NEW YORK & LONDON

"The best dictionary for young people."

– Saturday Review

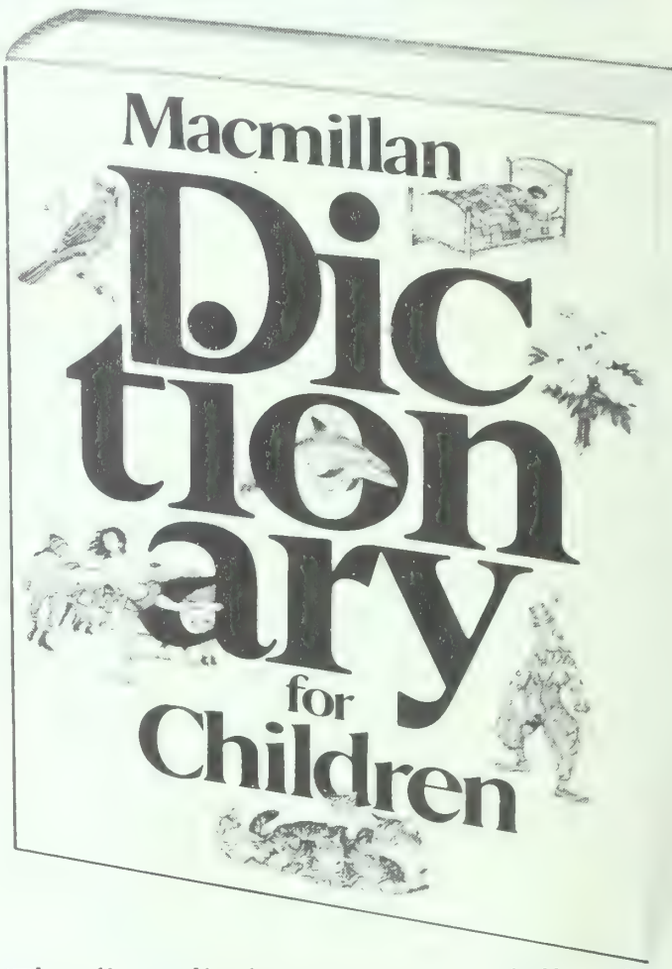
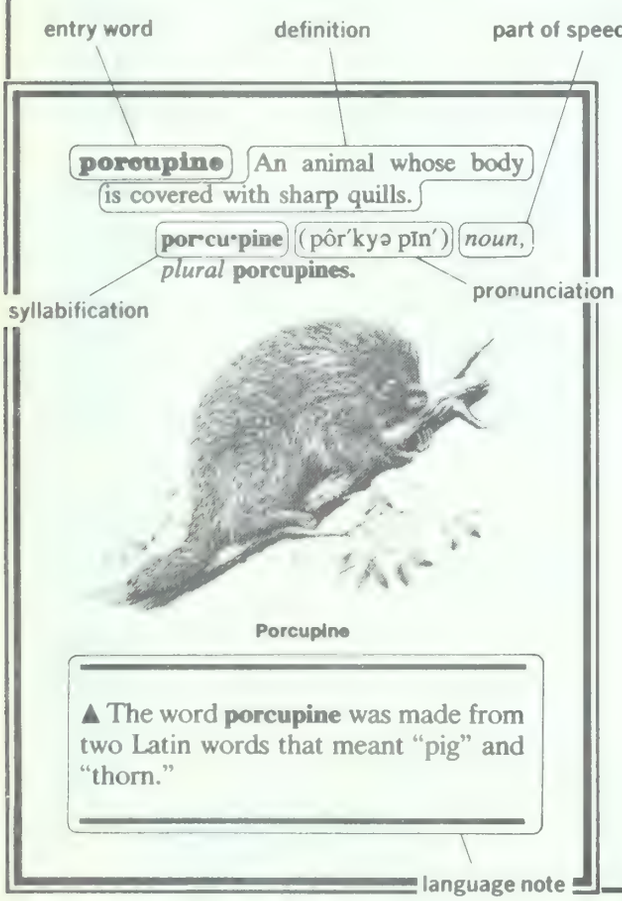
A major bestseller with over 250,000 copies already in use by delighted children and their parents. Widely acclaimed by professional and general reviewers.

- Includes nearly 30,000 entries —more than 1,200 full color illustrations.
- Lists entry words exactly the way children see them (no confusing dots or spaces between syllables).
- Gives sample sentences to clarify meanings.
- Uses wording as close as possible to children's everyday speech.





"The first dictionary to use full color throughout." –THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER

"A real dictionary for real children." –CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

"A good, solid, basic dictionary." –SCHOOL LIBRARY JOURNAL

"The answer to many a parent's prayer." –THE SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

"Takes the squint and the boredom out of dictionaries." –HOUSTON CHRONICLE

"Makes browsing a pleasant experience." –THE PITTSBURGH PRESS

$10.95

866 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022 MACMILLAN

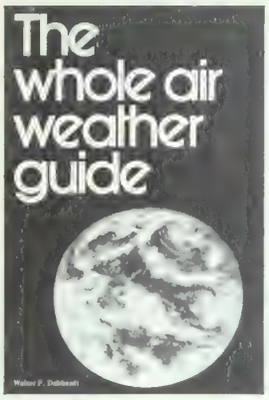
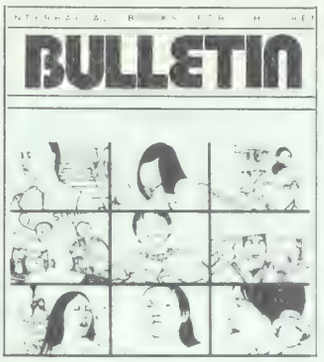
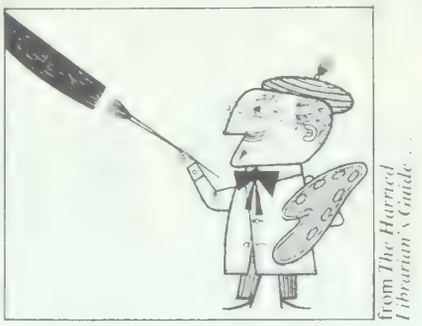
CHECKLIST







Weather tips

If you need a weatherman to tell which way the wind blows, The Whole Air Weather Guide, by Walter F. Dabberdt, might be a helpful alternative. The 64-page illustrated booklet defines weather elements and the terms of weather forecasts. It digests the information on the nature of a broad cross-section of weather, from hurricanes and tornadoes to air pollution. An index is included. Single copies cost $2.95 from Solstice Publications, 1188 Laureles Dr., Los Altos, Calif. 94022.

Gastronomical history

Revisionist historians have moved into the sanctified sphere of good old-fashioned cooking. Food of Our Fathers disputes the notion that the celebrated Thanksgiving Day feasts of colonial New England or the bountiful tables set by George Washington and Thomas Jefferson are indicative of early American eating habits. More often, says the 20-page booklet, early America was beset by problems of inadequate yields, nutrition-robbing preservation techniques, constant labor, and dangers of contamination. A reference list is appended. The booklet is available upon request from Institute of Food Technologists, 221 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Grants information

A brochure which describes how professional institutions and individuals may qualify to apply for grants and obtain the services of volunteer assistants in order to conduct scientific and cultural field expeditions is available from the Center for Field Research. Eligible disciplines include but are not limited to anthropology, archaeology, astronomy, biology, botany, cartography, conservation, ethnology, folklore, geography, geology, marine sciences, medicine, meteorology, musicology, ornithology, restoration, and sociology. Write for a free copy of A Guide to Funds and Volunteers for Field Research, 1977-78 to the Applications Office at the Center, 10 Juniper Rd., Belmont, Mass. 02178.

Racism, sexism study

The messages delivered by many current children's books are racist and sexist, concludes a Council on Interracial Books for Children report. Out of 66 books on Asian Americans which are reviewed, 98 percent are revealed to be inaccurate at best and grossly stereotypical at worst. The individual reviews as well as articles on Asian-American writers and artists are included in the 40-page Asian Americans in Children's Books, a special double issue of the Council's Bulletin. Single copies cost $2.50 from the Council, 1841 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10023. Additional publications available from the Council, also at $2.50 each, include Racism and Sexism in Children's Books, Racism in the English Language: a Lesson Plan, and Little Black Sambo: a Closer Look. A free catalog listing many more anti-racism, anti-sexism teaching materials will be sent upon request.

Critical bibliography

The Japanese and the Japanese Americans is a selective annotated list of books for children ranging in age from pre-school to young adults. Picture books, fiction, folk tales, poetry, art, music, history, travel, and biography are covered, and there is a section on Japanese Americans in the United States. A list of sound filmstrips and art prints is included. Special attention is given in the reviews to racist stereotyping. Copies may be obtained for 50¢ from either the compiler, Harue Palomino, Richmond Public Library, Civic Center Plaza, Richmond, Calif. 94801, or from the Association of Children's Librarians, 101 Lincoln Ave., Daly City, Calif. 94015.

Manual on aging

A limited number of free copies of a participant's manual for a program package, Library Services to the Aging, is available. Send a self-addressed 8½" x 11" envelope with 8¢ postage to Ms. Gene Stortz, Colorado State Library, 1362 Lincoln, Denver, Colo. 80203.

Promotional resources

The Harried Librarian's Guide to Public Relations Resources is a bibliography which lists and annotates over 160 references on library public relations, preparation of displays and exhibits, and programming aids. It includes a source list of over 130 places to acquire promotional materials, graphic aids, clip art, circulating exhibits, and other display items. Send $3 for each 46-page guide to Coordinated Library Information Program, Inc., Box 1437, Madison, Wis. 53701. If invoiced, a minimum order of $6 is required.

Bicentennial directory

Sources in New York City and Environs Relating to the American Revolutionary Period (Print and Non-Print) is a guide to libraries and institutions in the area, including Long Island, Westchester, and New Jersey, which have materials on the period. Subjects include art, architecture, music, science, history, law, geneaology, religion, literature, and medicine, among others. Each subject area has a bibliography. The 36-page directory is intended for the general researcher and graduate student. Copies cost $3.50 each from Janet Butler, Secretary-Treasurer, Librarians' Bicentennial Committee, c/o Bronx County Historical Society, 3266 Bainbridge Ave., Bronx, N.Y.

Updated guide

Alternatives is an update of a 1972 guide to the newspapers, magazines, and newsletters in the Alternative Press Collection of the University of Connecticut Library. The collection is among the largest of its kind in the country. The 128-page booklet lists about 1500 alternative and underground serial titles under three sections: titles (with publishers and holdings); subjects (with about 200 categories); and place of publication (including 46 states and 21 foreign countries). Send $3 for each copy requested to Acquisitions Dept., Univ. of Connecticut Library, Storrs, Conn. 06268. Payment must accompany order.

Because librarians buy so much more than books...

THE ANNUAL ARCHITECTURAL ISSUE

Publishers know that Library Journal has no peer as a medium for their advertising to librarians ... since 99.6% of LJ subscribers recommend, decide on, or approve the purchase of books.

What you should know is that the overwhelming majority of these 37,609 LJ subscribers have the same function and influence in virtually every area of library buying ... from paper cups for the water cooler to architectural plans for a new building.

To cite a few specifics—furniture and display equipment (85.2%) ... drapes, wallpaper, carpet and accessories (54.8%) ... circulation and security systems (75.2%) ... posters, prints and sculpture (65.8%).

In fact, even such distinctively non-book items as electrical equipment and vending machines are within the purview of about one third of all LJ subscribers!

That's why Library Journal is about much more than books ... and why LJ devotes its December 1 issue to library design, construction, renovation, remodeling and expansion.

For the firm that sells to libraries, LJ is always the right advertising environment. And in the December 1 Architectural Issue, the climate is perfect.

Reservations and pubset copy due:
October 29

Mechanicals and camera-ready art due:
November 5

For further information, contact:
Richard H. Brown
Advertising Sales Manager
212/764-3360

Buying influence data compiled by Signet Systems, Inc.

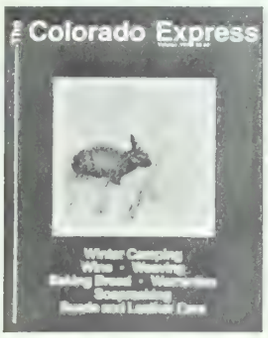
Please send insertion orders and correspondence to Library Journal,
P.O. Box 641, Times Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10036.
Mechanicals and artwork should be sent to 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036

R.R. Bowker Company
1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036

LIBRARY JOURNAL

MAGAZINES

Bill Katz, PROFESSOR, SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE, STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK, ALBANY



Colorado Express

1972. Semiannual. $10 for two years. Ed: Karl Kocivar. Box 18214, Capital Hill Sta., Denver, Colo. 80218. Illus. Aud: Ga, Ac, Hs. (Subject: Alternative Cultures. Issue examined: Vol. 8, 1975)

Along the lines of Stewart Brand's CoEvolution Quarterly (i.e. the quarterly version of the Whole Earth Catalog), the Colorado Express is 100 pages of articles, notes on books and magazines, equipment, suppliers, etc. And while out of Colorado, the material is national in scope. A typical issue includes an article on the do's and don'ts of winter camping, a guide to wine, an article on weaving, a directory of consumer agencies, how to make your own soap, advice on warranties, etc. And if you've missed your interest here, past issues have considered bicycling, skiing, fishing, photography, gardening, soaring in gliders, and quilting. With just about every interest base of an active American covered, the magazine has wide appeal, particularly as the information is accurate and free of any tie to commercial interests. For libraries with a call for the CoEvolution Quarterly or the Whole Earth Catalog or for others in this growing genre, Colorado Express is recommended. Add "highly" for those libraries in the Rocky Mountain area.—BK

American Film

1975. Monthly. $15. Ed: Hollis Alpert. The American Film Institute, John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, Washington, D.C. 20566. Illus. adv. Aud: Ac, Ga, Hs. (Subject: Motion Pictures. Issue examined: No. 2, November 1975)

Subtitled a "journal of the film and television arts," this is the substantial 100-page voice of the nonprofit American Film Institute. It joins such standbys as Film Quarterly, Film Comment, and Sight and Sound as a basic title for libraries. Coverage includes five or six articles, reports on film festivals, a newsletter on activities of the Institute, notes on new films and film books, and excerpts about film and television from periodicals. From the editor to such writers as Walter Kerr, Joseph Lederer, and Gordon Hitchens, the contributors are all professional critics who have unique points of view. As it stresses both the historical and the current developments in motion pictures, the magazine serves as an all-around guide for almost anyone seriously involved in film. Television is considered in a secondary way. There are numerous photographs, although emphasis is more on text than illustration. (Note: This replaces the Institute's Education Newsletter, annotated in the second edition of Magazines for Libraries.)—BK

Film Review Digest

1975. Quarterly. $45. Ed: Davis Brownstone & Irene Franck. Kraus Thomson Organization, Ltd., Milwood, N.Y. 10546. Illus. Aud: Ac, Ga. (Subject: Motion Pictures. Issue examined: Vol. 1, No. 1, Fall 1975)

Here is a Book Review Digest for films, right down to the same type of arrangement and style. Feature films—usually 100 to 120—are listed alphabetically by title (with full credits), followed by several 50- to 100-word quotes from reviews which appeared in some 27 major magazines and newspapers in the United States, Canada, and England. An index includes reviewers, titles, directors, actors, and others involved in each production. One reservation: not all major reviewing services are included. Missing, for example, are The New Yorker and Film Comment. (Conversely, most review magazines, from Film Quarterly to Sight and Sound, are included.) Still, for libraries with the interest and the budget this is a valuable addition.—BK

New Boston Review

1975. Quarterly. $3. Boston Critic Inc. 109 Museum St., Cambridge, Mass. 02138. Illus. adv. Aud: Ga, Ac. (Subject: Books and Book Reviews. Issues examined: Vol. 1, Nos. 1-3)

In the familiar newspaper tabloid format, this is a Boston version of The New York Review of Books. Essential differences: inclusion of interviews, fiction, more attention to older titles rather than those just published, poetry, and an effort to include some art and music notes. Contributors tend to be teachers and authors from Eastern universities, although each issue has a scattering of experts from throughout the national circuit. An average 35-page issue is a nice cross between a literary review and a somewhat esoteric, trendy book review publication. For those who enjoy the New York Review and spend time with literary reviews, this will be a required item. Note: As of late May 1976 there is a rumor that the magazine is so successful that it may go to a monthly publishing schedule shortly.—BK

Slit Wrist Magazine

1976. Three issues a year. Eds: Paul Brown & Ms. Terry Swanson. No. 4-B, 435 E. 76th St., New York, N.Y. 10021. Aud: Ac. (Subject: Little Magazines. Issue examined: No. 1, Spring 1976)

An offset 90-page little magazine which differs from most in that the editors concentrate on four or five contributors and give them adequate space. One issue opens with a prose-poem, "journal" by Terry Swanson, moves on to a series of connected poems by Paul Brown, and concludes with prose and poetry by Jim Radar and Neil Berman. The "personalized" and the "I" dominates, but here the first person is checked by good style and concentration on urban nightmares—from drugs to constant film references. Impressive and worth support.—BK

Announcing the 1976-1977 edition of The Statesman's Yearbook

The One Volume Encyclopedia of All Nations
Edited by John Paxton

"The most useful of all the general yearbooks—indispensable in any type of library."

—The Booklist

"...all you need to know about the population of various states and countries, officials, exports, constitutions, governments, diplomatic representatives, religion, finance and basic histories."

—The New York Times

"It should be available in libraries of all kinds."

—American Reference Books Annual

"Every library should have a copy of it."

—Library Journal

"It neatly complements the Annual Register in providing background information and bibliographies for locating further statistical and general information...The book is compact and well made. Although the print is small and the paper densely packed with information, it is easy to read. Consultation is facilitated by a detailed index."

—The Booklist

The 113th edition of The Statesman's Yearbook contains the following features:

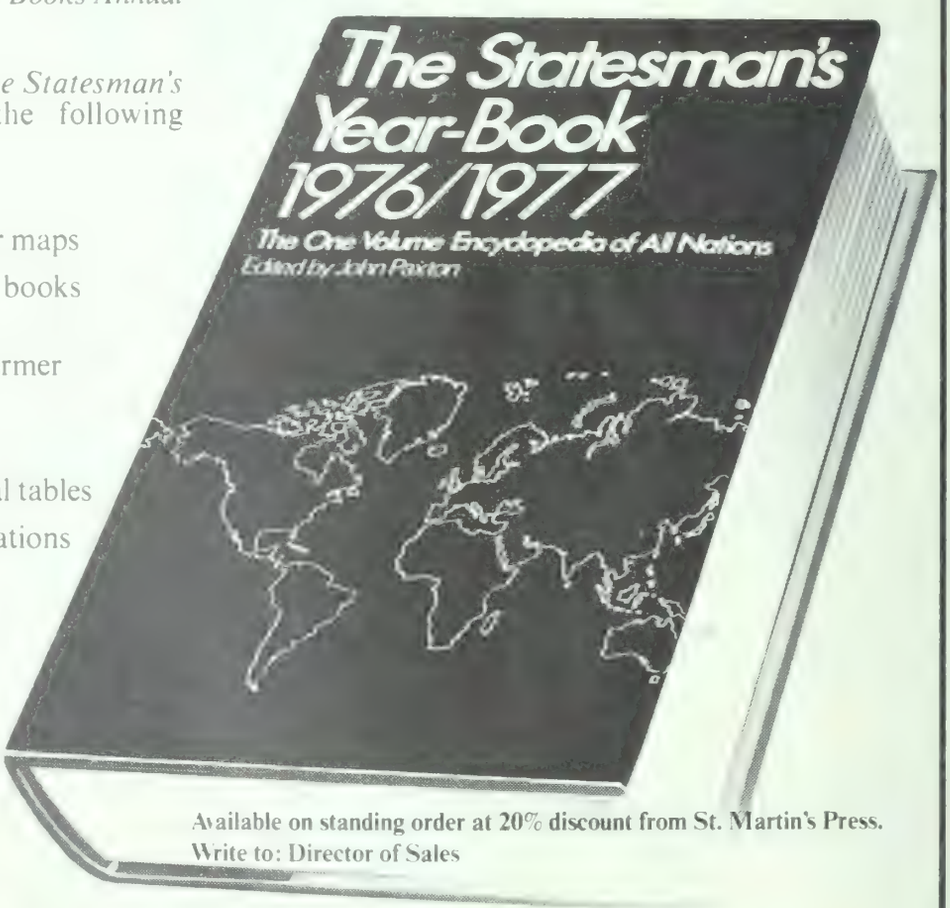
- 166 countries
- two special four-color maps
- a newly revised list of books for further reading
- separate entries for former Portuguese colonies
- five new entries
- comparative statistical tables
- international organizations
- complete index
- 1556 pages
- It's "an indispensable reference work."—The Wall Street Journal
- $19.95



Available on standing order at 20% discount from St. Martin's Press.
Write to: Director of Sales

Also available from St. Martin's Press:
The Statesman's Yearbook World Gazetteer
Edited by John Paxton 752 pp. $15.00

St. Martin's Press
175 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10010

BOOK REVIEW

The Contemporary Scene

Brown, Howard, M.D. Familiar Faces, Hidden Lives: the story of homosexual men in America today.

Harcourt. Oct. 1976. 288p. ISBN 0-15-130149-2. $8.95. PER NAR/SOC SCI

After serving as a senior health services official in New York City during the Lindsay administration, Brown publicly revealed his homosexuality—and served, until his death in 1975, as an incredibly capable propagandist for gay liberation. The familiar faces he writes of are those men he knew sexually and socially, professionally and politically. Brown's book also illustrates the complex problems of a homosexual's life generated by diverse social institutions: i.e., religion, the law, psychiatry, and family, and a "straight" conceptualization of love relationships. Other books dealing with the emotional and societal dilemmas facing gay men in America don't necessarily reinforce the homosexual's self-esteem. Brown's book does, and at the same time sympathetically introduces homosexuality to the non-gay reader. Recommended as an important addition to larger collections.—Jos Fayette, New York

Cottle, Thomas J. Busing.

Beacon. Oct. 1976. 160p. LC 76-7740. ISBN 0-8070-0494-4. $7.95. SOC SCI/ED

This is a deceptively slight volume encompassing the observations of a small group of ordinary, yet extraordinary, people whom social psychologist Cottle has known and interviewed in depth over a period of several years. These individuals, whose stories are sensitively told with their consent and from their own perspectives, represent a cross-section of society—old and young, black and white, male and female, professional and nonprofessional, "educated" and "uneducated." The myriad ways in which court-ordered school busing has affected the personal and social lives of these people is the central theme. Basic, also, is the relation of an individual's position on busing to ideas held about oneself and one's place in the world—past, present, and future. Attitudes toward mandated integration appear in the context of views on the educational system, political power structure, economic opportunity, and racism. Whole people emerge; by "listening" to them, the reader is not only caught up in their lives and those of their families but gains an understanding of the tremendously complex and far-reaching effects of the emotionally charged busing issue in a way not otherwise possible. A very compelling, readable and important book.—Suzanne W. Wood, SUNY at Alfred Lib.

CONTENTS

The Contemporary Scene 2159
Reference 2161
Art 2164
Biography 2165
Business & Economics 2169
Communications 2170
Education 2170
History 2171
Home Economics 2175
Literature 2176
Music 2179
Philosophy 2179
Poetry 2180
Political Science & International Affairs 2180
Psychology & Psychiatry 2182
Religion 2184
Science & Technology 2185
Social Science 2187
Sports & Recreation 2190
Theater 2191
Fiction 2193
Book Review & Professional Reading Author Index 2197

Library Journal reviews are indexed in Book Review Index and Book Review Digest.

The Kissinger Study of Southern Africa: National Security Study Memorandum 39 (secret).

Lawrence Hill, dist. by Whirlwind Bk. Co., 80 5th Ave., N.Y.C. 10011. 1976. 192p. ed. & intro. by Mohamed A. El-Khawas & Barry Cohen. pref. by Edgar Lockwood. LC 76-18043. ISBN 0-88208-071-7. $6.95. pap. ISBN 0-88208-072-5. $3.95. INT AFFAIRS

Southern Africa has recently undergone momentous changes. Since 1974, Angola and Mozambique have broken away from Portugal, and blacks have launched serious challenges to white-minority rule in South Africa, South West Africa, and Rhodesia. In 1969, Kissinger, then head of the National Security Council, ordered a quick but comprehensive high-level review of U.S. policy toward southern Africa. The bulk of this volume is devoted to reprinting, unabridged, the resulting secret study, which was "leaked" to the press in 1974-1975. The study includes an evaluation of the 1969 situation in southern Africa, coupled with five policy options. In a long and informative introduction, El-Khawas and Cohen (both young Africanists) argue that the U.S. more or less adopted that option which, regarding the white-minority and colonial regimes as "here to stay," called for mild attempts to help reduce racial tension and thus protect substantial U.S. private investments, defense posts, and scientific stations. The study is dated, but it affords a unique insight into U.S. official thinking; and the introduction, as well as an appendix of excerpts from Kissinger's April 1976 speech in Zambia advocating majority rule in Rhodesia, put the document in very recent perspective. Strongly recommended for public and academic libraries.—Thomas F. Hirsch, New York

Laqueur, Walter. Guerrilla: a historical and critical study.

Little. Nov. 1976. 420p. index. ISBN 0-316-51469-1. $17.50. HIST/INT AFFAIRS

If Laqueur is correct, the age of the guerrilla is drawing to a close. The new era is marked, he argues, by a "retreat into urban terror." Laqueur's argument is buttressed by a thoughtful histo-

More in Microfiche from Academic Press

Academic Press is continuing to publish many important serial publications simultaneously in full size and microfiche editions and offers the package to you at an especially reasonable price.

The LIBRARY EDITION WITH MICROFICHE offers the best of two worlds. On the one hand, it gives you a full size edition of an important new Academic Press book; on the other, it provides all the convenience and flexibility associated with a microfiche edition. The microfiche edition is prepared to the highest standards of the industry on quality silver film, so that it is of archival quality. And, of course, nothing could be easier to handle, store, and circulate.

For a complete list of titles available as LIBRARY EDITIONS WITH MICROFICHE, please write to the publisher, attention: Promotion Department.

ACADEMIC PRESS

A Subsidiary of Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Publishers
111 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10003
24-28 Oval Road, London NW1 7DX

ry of guerrilla warfare, of its doctrine, and of current trends. Although Robert Asprey's War in the Shadows (LJ 5/15/75) is more detailed, Laqueur's work is more lucid and is enhanced by Laqueur's critical analyses of various phases of guerrilla warfare. Laqueur's discussion of Vietnam is more balanced and objective than Asprey's. The work benefits from Laqueur's mastery of the vast literature on the subject; the bibliography and bibliographical note are excellent. Also provided and useful are a chronology of major guerrilla wars and a glossary of abbreviations. Guerrilla stands well above most previous works on the subject.—Walter Darnell Jacobs, Dept. of Government & Politics, Univ. of Maryland, College Park

Mintz, Morton & Jerry S. Cohen. Power, Inc.: public and private rulers and how to make them accountable.

Viking. Nov. 1976. 680p. index. $15. POL SCI

This is a tough and angry critique of corporate and governmental practices used to avoid accountability. And what a long and dreary list it is, familiar yet lamentably immediate: aggrandizing presidential power; congressional spinelessness; ineffective legislative oversight; governmental and corporate secrecy; chronic failure to make big business accountable; use of executive privilege in order to avoid criminality or avoid producing politically damaging documents; corporate evasions of responsibility for poisoning the air, waterways, and people; for withholding or falsifying negative laboratory test data; for bribery at home and abroad. There is more, much of it a tribute to the headlong and multiple attacks of public interest advocates. Power, Inc. surveys most of our national afflictions and as such has great, indeed depressing, range. It is in the great muckraking tradition—not a pejorative assessment—and should be read as a breviary by concerned Americans. It is an expression of the national conscience at its best.—Milton Cantor, Dept. of History, Univ. of Massachusetts, Amherst

Mullan, Fitzhugh, M.D. White Coat, Clenched Fist: the political education of an American physician.

Macmillan. Nov. 1976. 360p. ISBN 0-02-620370-7. $9.95. PER NAR/MED

The greening of a young physician, as a medical student at the University of Chicago and later as an intern and resident in the Bronx, serving poor Puerto Ricans and blacks. Mullan's focus is on humanism and politics and their relationship to medical education and practice in the U.S. He claims his views have been shared by his peers, from the medical-school Student Health Organization to the Committee of Interns and Residents and the Collective in New York City. Much of the book is devoted to Mullan's unionizing efforts and the losing battle of the Community Pediatrics Program at Lincoln Hospital (Bronx) to provide good medical care for the poor. His comments on the greed-producing effect on young interns and residents of poor pay and long hours are unnerving. Equally so is his contention that "the number of foreign-trained physicians . . . exceeds the number of Americans we graduate from medical school." Limited as a survey of medical education and practice, but useful as a supplement to broader exposés.—Ruth E. Almeida, North County Lib., Glen Burnie, Md.

Sansom, Robert L. The New American Dream Machine.

Anchor: Doubleday. Oct. 1976. illus. ISBN 0-385-07439-5. $8.95. ECON/SOC SCI

The author views the environmental crisis as consisting of three distinct phases: confrontation with big business (1969-1975), manifested by the legal and legislative conflict to force industry to stop polluting; lifestyle change (1976-2000), during which Americans must be persuaded or coerced into making drastic and revolutionary changes in their habits, thinking, and lifestyle in order to conserve energy and protect the environment; and environmental growth, characterized by the emergence of the planned moderation of economic growth to meet environmental constraints, and the recognition of ends other than the simple guaranteeing of prosperity for an expanding labor force. Sansom is optimistic about the nation's ability to either solve or come to terms with its environmental problems. His recommendations for meeting the environmental challenge include a reduction in energy demand growth to 2% per year through 1985, the end of "automobile dominance," the shaping of rational land use policies and, most important, the radical alteration in the lifestyle of the individual American in order to significantly reduce energy demands; these are all buttressed with well-researched economic, social, and historical data. The book, a composite of sound practical information and informed theory, is strongly recommended.—Marcel Pittet, Univ. of Maine at Fort Kent Lib.

Solzhenitsyn, Alexander. Warning to the West.

Farrar. Oct. 1976. 150p. ISBN 0-374-26758-8. $7.95. pap. $2.95. INT AFFAIRS

This short work collects the exiled Solzhenitsyn's 1975–1976 speeches and interviews, including addresses delivered to the AFL-CIO, to the U.S. Congress, and over the BBC network. Here Solzhenitsyn more openly assumes the role of advocate and prophet. His indictment of the moral illegitimacy of Soviet Communism is not new; what is, is his pessimism about the West's understanding of and willingness to stop the relentless communist expansion he darkly pictures. He assails one-sided Western concessions to the Soviets which do nothing but encourage tightening oppression within Russia. A great moralist and artist, Solzhenitsyn often errs in his sweeping judgments on Western and U.S. history and foreign policy, but this does not vitiate his message to Western audiences. When he argues that "true détente" requires the end of political oppression within societies just as much as it requires disarmament between them, he exposes the miserably restricted view of dé-tente held by the Kremlin. Warning to the West promises to fuel the growing controversy over Solzhenitsyn's strange but fascinating politics. Highly recommended.—Donald J. Murphy, Dept. of History, Chabot Coll., Livermore, Calif.

REFERENCE

Bibliographic Guide to Government Publications—Foreign: 1975.

G. K. Hall. (Bibliographic Guides). 1976. 834p. ISBN 0-8161-6815-6. $100.

Bibliographic Guide to Government Publications—U.S.: 1975. 2 vols.

G. K. Hall. (Bibliographic Guides). 1976. 1310p. ISBN 0-8161-6814-8. $155. GOVT/BIBLIOG

These two titles represent the first annual supplements to the Catalog of Government Publications, Economics Division, the Research Libraries of the New York Public Library. Each provides a comprehensive subject bibliography of publications cataloged by N.Y.P.L. and included on LC MARC tapes. All entries are integrated into one alphabetical sequence. Complete LC cataloging information is provided for each title along with ISBN and identification of N.Y.P.L. holdings. Cataloging follows the Anglo-American Cataloging Rules. Access is by main entry, added entry, series title, and subject heading. Subject headings conform to the LC Subject Headings. Complete bibliographic information, including tracings, is given in the main entry with abbreviated citations for secondary entries. Coverage includes works in all languages and all forms—non-book materials, books, and serials. Additionally, there are documents of national and colonial governments, international and regional agencies, state and provincial governments, and large and small cities. Highly recommended.—Barbara Lande Turman, Univ. of Texas at Austin Lib.

Committee for a New England Bibliography. Massachusetts: a bibliography of its history.

G. K. Hall. (Bibliogs. of New England History). 1976. 583p. ed. by John D. Haskell Jr. index. LC 75-33285. ISBN 0-8161-1212-6. $30.

HIST/BIBLIOG

Bibliographies of the New England states are surprisingly scarcer than the region's claim to historical preeminence commands. This Committee, however, has begun to redress the balance by publishing a series of bibliographies, one for each of the six states. In this one by far the largest section, more than 10,000 entries, lists histories of the towns arranged by towns; a smaller section of under 1000 entries is for county histories; and the remainder, about 1900 entries, is a general section called simply "Massachusetts." This last section is arranged alphabetically by author, which means that the only subject approach is through the index. Perhaps future volumes will improve on the organization by dividing the general section into subjects. Nevertheless, this volume is of tremendous use and is recommended for college and research libraries.—Bonnie Collier, Yale Univ. Lib.

The Concise Oxford Dictionary of Current English: based on the "Oxford English Dictionary" and its supplements. 6th ed.

Oxford Univ. Pr. 1976. 1368p. ed. by J. B. Sykes. ISBN 0-19-861121-8. $11.95; thumb-indexed. ISBN 0-19-861122-6. $14.95. LANG/REF

Since the label "new edition" has often been applied to references that differ little from their immediate predecessors, why should the sixth edition of the Concise Oxford replace the 1964 fifth on one's shelf? Because (this reviewer feels) it is on nearly all scores a more useful work. Improved coverage is seen not only in the increase of head words from 32,000 to some 40,000 but in the articles themselves, which (comparative reading shows) have been carefully revised and in many cases rewritten. North American usage, inadequately treated in earlier editions, is now given full attention. In bulk the book is slightly taller but thinner. The type is unreduced, except for head words (10 pt. to 8 pt., which does impair legibility somewhat).—B. Hunter Smeaton, Dept. of Linguistics, Univ. of Calgary, Alberta, Canada

The publishers of Who's Who in America announce . . .

Annual Register of GRANT SUPPORT, 1976-77

New introduction includes complete 7-step proposal-writing guide!

"Information about many foundations and institutions which support library and library-related programs can be found in this register."

Journal of Academic Librarianship

"The primary asset that the Annual Register can bring to your library is its heavy emphasis on grants and awards to the individual."

Jack Shakely
Grantsmanship Center News

The 1976-77 ANNUAL REGISTER OF GRANT SUPPORT identifies more than 2,000 programs offering billions of dollars in grant support to individuals and organizations this year

Presents grants in 10 specific areas:

Humanities . . . International affairs . . . Race and minorities . . . Urban affairs . . . Education . . . Social Sciences . . . Physical sciences . . . Life sciences . . . Technology . . . General.

- Programs offering non-repayable grants and fellowships for research or study
- Programs offering construction funds for research, health care, civic improvement, and more.
- Programs offering publication support, in-service training, travel or exchange programs assistance, and awards and prizes in a variety of fields.
- Programs offering consultative services in lieu of a direct monetary grant

Each complete entry tells virtually all you need to know to tailor your grant proposals to the specific requirements of each organization to which you submit proposals

1. Organization name
2. Address and telephone number
3. Major field[s] of organization interest
4. Name[s] of grant program[s]
5. Purpose of each specific program
6. Nature of support available
7. Total amount of funding available/ amount of funding per award
8. Number of applicants and recipients for most recent year for which figures are available
9. Legal basis for program
10. Eligibility requirements
11. Application instructions
12. Name and title of person to whom proposals should be submitted . . . And other pertinent data

To assure earliest possible delivery for your library, send today for your copy of the 1976-77 ANNUAL REGISTER OF GRANT SUPPORT

Publication date: October 1976
LC 69-18307 • ISBN 0-8379-1903-7
708 pages • $47.50

[Add $2.00 for postage and handling. Add state sales tax where applicable.]

AM/76-31

MARQUIS ACADEMIC MEDIA
a division of
MARQUIS
Who's Who, INC.
200 East Ohio Street
Chicago, Illinois 60611 U.S.A.

Dossick, Jesse J. Doctoral Research on Russia and the Soviet Union, 1960-1975: a classified list of 3,150 American, Canadian, and British dissertations with some criticial and statistical analysis.

Garland. (Reference Library in Social Science, Vol. 7). 1976. 345p. index. LC 75-5115. ISBN 0-8240-1079-5. $32. REF

Dossick, a scholar experienced in compiling doctoral dissertation bibliographies, has completed an impressive listing of dissertations. This volume, a continuation of Dossick's previous work, which compiled dissertations prior to 1960, lists the works under broad subject headings and includes an index of Russian Soviet names, an index of American and Canadian authors, and an index of British authors. The introduction provides data on how much coverage the different subject areas have received, and it tells where and by whom the research has been done. For the Soviet scholar, this document will be far more helpful than any of the general dissertation bibliographic tools. However, for more convenient usage, Dossick's two volumes should be combined, and a more specific keyword subject index should be generated. The keyword index is needed because, for example, a dissertation on Tay-Sachs Disease is lost under the broad heading of anthropology. Essential for research libraries.—Pamela Joan Hersh, Librarian, N.J. State Dept. of Education

Gagala, Kenneth L. The Economics of Minorities: a guide to information sources.

Gale. (Economics Information Guides). 1976. 212p. index. LC 73-17573. ISBN 0-8103-1294-8. $18. ECON/BIBLIOG

Drawing on materials published between 1965 and 1974, Gagala selected and organized the research on the economic condition of nonwhite people in the U.S. into a single volume. Books and journal articles comprise his annotated bibliography, which is divided into 12, chapters on such subjects as the psychology of race, black education, blacks in residential housing markets, black consumers, blacks in the business community, American Indians, and Spanish-Americans. Complete bibliographic information, arranged alphabetically by author within each chapter, is provided for each cited work. Access is facilitated through author, title, and subject indexes. Recommended for large research collections.—Barbara Lande Turman, Univ. of Texas Lib., Austin

Know & claim your AFRICAN NAME
OVER 1400 AFRICAN NAMES
Their Meaning and Pronunciation.

$3.50
RUCKER PRESS, INC.
118 So. Broadway St., Sta. B
P.O. Box 7025, Dayton, Ohio 45407

Gohn, Jack Benoit. Kingsley Amis: a checklist.

Kent State Univ. Pr. (Serif Series). 1976. 230p. index. LC 75-44709. ISBN 0-87338-182-3. $10. LIT/BIBLIOG

The first book-length guide to the writings of the noted English novelist, poet, and critic, this annotated checklist covers the major, and much of the minor, published works from 1947 to 1975. A shorter section lists the unpublished materials that are available for use, noting the holding institution. More than half the entries are devoted to secondary sources: critical and biographical works in books and periodicals, and review articles, arranged under the work reviewed. Not a complete record of Amis' works to date, but a useful guide for the student of modern literature. For comprehensive collections.—Peter P. Olevnik, SUNY at Brockport Lib.

Gooch, Bryan N. S. & David S. Thatcher. Musical Settings of Late Victorian and Modern British Literature: a catalogue.

Garland. (Reference Lib. of the Humanities, Vol. 31). 1976. 1112p. index. LC 75-24085. ISBN 0-8240-9981-8. $75. REF

This catalog of musical settings will be a valued supplement to standard indexes of song-literature or individual authors and composers. It is designed for all those interested in the relationship between music and literature: scholars, musicologists, librarians, performers, radio and television script writers. It gives vocal specifications, instrumental accompaniment, and sources for texts and settings; and it's accurate and documented. Indications of the forms of the settings and the resources needed to perform them are given. The wealth of information compensates for the book's one flaw: the print is very small. Recommended, and essential for music/fine arts libraries.—Dortha H. Skelton, Coll. of William & Mary Lib., Williamsburg, Va.

Harrison, Ira E. & Sheila Cosminsky. Traditional Medicine.

Garland. (Reference Library of Social Science, Vol. 19). 1976. 229p. index. LC 75-24105. ISBN 0-8240-9970-2. $22. MED/BIBLIOG

This bibliography cites and annotates literature pertinent to African, Latin American, and Caribbean medicine from 1950 to 1975. The references include articles, books, and papers, and these are divided into convenient subject categories, such as public health and mental health, for each country. Annotations are brief but informative, and are directed at social, behavioral, and medical scientists. Western medicine has often been imposed on developing countries without regard or respect for the traditional healers as a source of health manpower. Lack of information in this area makes this book an excellent selection for university and health sciences libraries.—Eleanor Rollins, Univ. of North Carolina Lib., Chapel Hill

Havighurst, Alfred F. Modern England, 1901–1970.

Cambridge Univ. Pr. (Conference on British Studies Bibliographical Handbks.). 1976. 109p. index. LC 75-23844. ISBN 0-521-20941-2. $8.95. HIST/BIBLIOG

A selected bibliography of about 2500 items pertaining to English history between 1901 and 1970. Many of the entries are annotated. Works published later than 1974 are not included. The book is arranged by general subject—foreign relations, social history, economic history, religious history, etc.—and encompasses monographs, journal articles, diaries, letters, and official documents and records. An author index further enhances its usefulness. Scholars, students, and general readers interested in pursuing the best writings on the period will find this book invaluable. Definitely recommended for libraries with history-oriented users.—Eugene A. Engeldinger, Univ. of Wisconsin Lib., Eau Claire Hersey, Jean. The Woman's Day Book of Wildflowers.

S. & S. 1976. 160p. illus. by Fritz Kredel. index. ISBN 0-671-22251-1. $6.95. HORT/REF

Well organized, simple, and clear, this book is intended for wild-flower beginners. The 200 flowers identified are grouped in four color categories, arranged in order of season of bloom. Common and botanical names head brief descriptions of each flower. A list follows with color, height, season, location, soil preference, transplanting time, propagation details, and geographical range. An unusual point made at each entry is the advisability of picking. Kredel's drawings are small, charming, and uncomplicated, but for identification they cannot take the place of color photographs such as those in Arthur Stupka's Wildflowers in Color (Harper, 1965). Gardening with native plants and drying and pressing wild flowers are covered in additional sections. Particular attention is given to protecting and encouraging wild flowers, whether endangered or not.—Louise B. Hodges, Amherst County P. L., Va.

Hodgson, Julian, comp. Music Titles in Translation: a checklist of musical compositions.

Linnet: Shoe String. 1976. 370p. LC 75-42015. ISBN 0-208-01520-1. $17.50. MUSIC/REF

This alphabetical listing of some 14,000 entries representing some 7000 compositions consists of both original titles and translated English versions. The name of the composer is also listed, but not the name of the author of the vocal text. It should be noted that the translation given is not the compiler's and not necessarily a literal translation, but rather the translation given in a published edition. Therefore, the same original text may be listed with several alternative titles depending on its various settings by various composers, or even, on occasion, various translations by different publishers of the same musical work. Despite the vast amount of information contained, the lack of any text-author information and the lack of indexes to composers or authors severely limits the uses of this volume. One cannot turn to this book to find the various settings of Goethe's Kennst Du das Land for example, because some of the settings are as Connais-tu le pays and nothing brings them together. In this regard, Phillip L. Miller's The Ring of Words (Norton, rev. ed., 1973) is much more useful.—William Shank, CUNY Graduate Sch. Lib.

Kraay, Colin M. Archaic and Classical Greek Coins.

Univ. of California Pr. Dec. 1976. 375p. illus. $60. HIST REF

Students wishing to consult a handbook of Greek coinage have had to rely on Barclay V. Head's Historia Numorum or Babelon's uncompleted Traité des monnaies grecques, both terribly outdated. Kraay's work will replace both. He successfully compromises between the geographical and chronological approaches: while his arrangement is mainly geographical, the development of coinage is traced from Asia Minor through the Balkan peninsula and Aegean islands to Italy and Sicily and finally to peripheral areas of the Greek world. The text reflects the most modern scholarship and is extremely readable; the notes include essential bibliographic details and the 1100 illustrations are excellent. Though expensive, this book will be consulted by scholar and collector alike; it belongs on the shelves of every reference collection.—William E. Metcalf, Assoc. Curator, American Numismatic Society, New York

Mackenzie, John P. S. The Complete Outdoorsman's Guide to Birds of Eastern North America.

Pagurian Pr. 1976. 240p. illus. by Terrance Shortt. intro. & pref. by Roger Tory Peterson. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-88932-027-6. $9.95. NAT HIST/REF

Designed to supplement such field guides as Peterson's Field Guide to the Birds or Robbins' Birds of North America without aiming at the detail and inclusiveness of such works as Bent's Life Histories. Mackenzie briefly describes the physical characteristics, behavior, habitat, range, and ecological significance for each of the 270 birds most likely, in his opinion, to be seen in northeastern North America. Shortt has contributed black-and-white drawings of about half of the species covered. This book is attractive and well presented, but its use for libraries is marginal. Its reference value is limited, because only about two-thirds of the species are covered, and previous books such as Pough's Audubon Land Bird Guide and Audubon Water Bird Guide supply much the same information in more inclusive fashion. It might interest the relatively inexperienced birder, particularly in eastern Canada, who wants to know a bit more about the commoner birds in his area than his field guide can tell him.—Jonathan F. Husband, Boston State Coll. Lib.

Neuborne, Burt & Arthur Eisenberg. The Rights of Candidates and Voters: the basic ACLU guide for voters and candidates.

Discus: Avon. (ACLU Handbk.). 1976. 158p. LC 76-15915. ISBN 0-380-00626-X. pap. $1.50. LAW REF

Like all legal aids for the general public, this handbook begins with a disclaimer directing the reader to an attorney. For the candidate, the question-and-answer format explains the Hatch Act, the Federal Election Campaign Act, and related laws. For the citizen, explanation is provided so rights will not be violated. Well-footnoted and inexpensive, it looks like a part of a good series. It is helpful for the conscience-stricken citizen only on the federal level.—Diane Witkowski, Schiff, Hardin & Waite Lib., Chicago

Northouse, Cameron. Twentieth Century Opera in England and the United States.

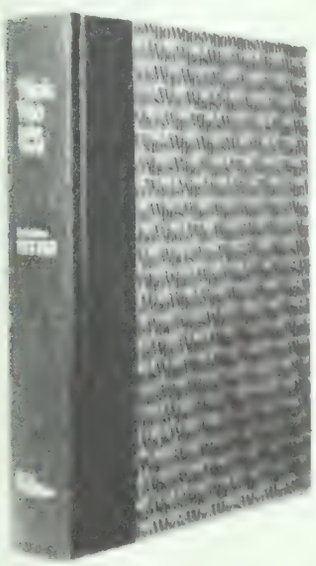
G. K. Hall. 1976. 400p. index. LC 76-1012. ISBN 0-8161-7896-8. $25. MUSIC/REF

This volume is designed as a list of 2553 English-language operas, including composer, city of premiere and date, and (sometimes) librettist, with supplementary entry points and index for literary stimulae, those operas which are published, and related data, preluded

Announcing . . .
The 3rd Edition



Facts about people

MARQUIS
Who'sWho INC.
200 East Ohio Street,
Chicago, Illinois 60611 U.S.A.

Who'sWho in the World
1976-77

Extending the seventy-eight-year Marquis Who's Who tradition of biographical excellence, the third edition of WHO'S WHO IN THE WORLD recognizes more than 16,000 men and women distinguished by their attainments or positions throughout the world.

These select individuals are the leaders who forge the character of nations, expand the limits of intellectual and physical frontiers, and wage a continuous campaign to uplift the dignity of all mankind.

Written in the concise, authoritative Who's Who style, WHO'S WHO IN THE WORLD presents a wealth of personal and professional information about world leaders in the following fields and more:

Diplomacy	Religion	Government	Journalism
Science	Exploration	Education	Literature
Industry	Philosophy	Business	Medicine
Music	Law	Art	Architecture

The unique reference interest commanded by these outstanding men and women will make the third edition of WHO'S WHO IN THE WORLD an essential part of your library's Who's Who collection.

To assure earliest possible delivery for your library, send today for your copy of the third edition of WHO'S WHO IN THE WORLD.

LC 79-139215
ISBN 0-8379-1103-6

Publication Date: September 1976
Hardbound $52.50
AM/76-30

by a rather emotional diatribe against the "dominant opera culture." Symptomatic of the problems users will find, however, is the case of Molière's Le medecin malgré lui: we must look this up in the literary list under Sganarelle, then check the general index for the names of the two composers identified (Zito and Kaufmann) to find which pages register publications. En route, we will find Kaufmann's setting misspelled as Sgnarelle. These problems serve as exemplars of others awaiting the buyer.— Dominique-René de Lerma, Dept. of Music, Morgan State Univ., Baltimore

O'Neill, Patrick. Günter Grass: a bibliography 1955-1975.

Univ. of Toronto Pr. 1976. 108p. bibliog. index. LC 76-17278. ISBN 0-8020-5362-9. $10. LIT/BIBLIOG

A comprehensive, up-to-date, and well-arranged bibliography of Grass's works and all major scholarly writings about him published to the end of 1975. Works are divided into primary and secondary material, then according to genre, individual works, and chronology. The arrangement of the entries makes the information easily accessible. Separate sections of general biographical sources, works in translation, and interviews with Grass are included, as is an author and subject index. An indispensable bibliography for scholars, students, and others interested in contemporary German and comparative literature; recommended for academic libraries.—Ina J. Weis, Univ. of Toledo Lib., Ohio

Recently Revised Reference Works

British Music Yearbook: a survey and directory with statistics and reference articles for 1976. 4th ed.

Bowker. 1976. 750p. ed. by Arthur Jacobs. index. ISBN 0-85935-035-5. $22.50. MUSIC/REF

This edition features an article on Benjamin Britten by John Culshaw and a Britten discography by Ray Crick.

Curley, Dorothy Nyren & others, comp. & ed. Modern American Literature. Vol. 4: Supplement to the Fourth Edition.

Ungar. (Lib. of Literary Criticism). Oct. 1976. 605p. index. LC 76-76599. ISBN 0-8044-3050-0. $25. LIT/REF

This work was originally published in 1960, and the three-volume fourth edition—"a judiciously chosen, representative survey of and key to modern criticism of American authors of our century" (LJ 9/15/69)—presented the critical response to nearly 300 authors through 1967. This supplement updates 145 and offers criticism on 49 additional writers.

De Ford, Miriam Allen & Joan S. Jackson. Who Was When? a dictionary of contemporaries. 3d ed.

H. W. Wilson. 1976. unpaged. index. LC 76-2404. ISBN 0-8242-0532-4. $30. REF

A quick reference guide to 10,000 celebrated individuals from 500 B.C. through 1974. Contemporaries are aligned by two dimensions—by date (whether of birth or death) and by broad field of activity. The first edition brought the work through 1938, the second through 1949.

The International Who's Who: 1976-77. 40th ed.

dist. by Gale. 1976. 1908p. LC 35-10257. $70. BIOG REF

Offers 500 new biographies.

—This highly selective listing was compiled by Robert R. Harris

ART

Colledge, Malcolm A. R. The Art of Palmyra.

Westview Pr. (Studies in Ancient Art & Archaeology). 1976. 320p. illus. bibliog. index. LC 76-12473. ISBN 0-89158-617-2. $35. ARCHAEOLOGY/ART

An economic beneficiary of the Pax Romana, the ancient city of Palmyra flourished between the middle of the 1st Century B.C. and the end of the 3d Century. Ideally located within the eastern perimeters of the Roman Empire, the Semitic Palmyrenes produced an art deeply imbued with the hieratic traditions of the ancient Near East and yet strongly influenced by the humanistic heritage of classical civilization. Attending primarily, but not exclusively, to the rich corpus of surviving sculpture, the author has investigated the art in terms of its use, placement, and epoch. Thus the funerary, religious, honorific, and domestic arts are considered iconographically, typologically, and chronologically. There are further essays on technical problems, stylistic principles and connections, and the presence of foreign art in the city and Palmyrene art abroad. A thoughtful concluding discussion places the Palmyrene tradition within its contemporary context. Larger libraries catering to sophisticated readers will wish to acquire this multifaceted introduction.—Robert Cahn, Dept. of Social Sciences, Fashion Inst. of Technology, New York

Popper, Frank. Agam.

Abrams. 1976. 351p. illus., some color. bibliog. index. LC 75-5580. ISBN 0-8109-0294-X. $37.50. ART

Israeli-born Yaacov Agam is best known for his vibrant multiple-view paintings. They are well represented in this volume along with numerous illustrations of his sculpture, kinetic experiments, and theatrical designs. Quotations from conversations with the artist and publication of Agam's "artist's credo" serve as a springboard for Popper's brief, but substantive essays. The author shows how the Jewish world view is ingrained in all of Agam's works and how it provides the key to understanding his art as a rejection of the fixed state. His technical experiments with soap bubbles and fire and water are among the most vivid examples of his preoccupation with the transient. A biographical outline and a list of exhibitions to 1975 are included.—Barbara Hornick-Lockard, Univ. of Pittsburgh at Branford Lib.

Reff, Theodore. Degas: the artist's mind.

Metropolitan Museum of Art and Harper. Oct. 1976. 352p. illus., some color. index. LC 75-45190. ISBN 0-87099-146-9. $25. ART

Reff's monograph is a compilation of several essays on various aspects of Degas' art, such as Degas' affinity with Whistler; the importance of Ingres, Delacroix and Daumier on Degas' formative and mature years; the inspiration Degas received from prominent literary figures; Degas' genre painting; and his approach to sculpture. Degas' basic ambition was to be a colorist through line. Reff indicates how the artist moved from being purely linear to depicting massive, sculptural forms. Particularly noteworthy is Reff's acknowledgment of the influence of 17th-Century Dutch art on Degas, an influence definitely apparent in much 19th-Century art but rarely explicitly noted by art historians. The illustrations are numerous, of good quality, and include familiar themes as well as esoteric ones. They highlight an estimable monograph of great appeal to both scholar and art historian.—Elsie M. Schmutz, Graduate Sch. Lib., CUNY

Architecture

Greenlaw, Jean-Pierre. The Coral Buildings of Suakin.

Routledge & Kegan Paul. 1976. 132p. illus. $24. HIST/ARCHITECTURE

This handsome and unique collection of drawings documents the architecture of a remote Turkish town on the Red Sea, in what is now the Sudan. The carefully researched text shows how domestic life affected the forms the buildings of Suakin took—from the distinctive carved-wood casement windows of the second floor to the relationship of one building to the next. The artist/author's records, spanning a 20-year period, are especially valuable because Suakin has been recently abandoned for a newer port some miles away and its buildings have been left to deteriorate and crumble. A useful and timely contribution to the history of Islamic architecture.—H. Ward Jandl, National Register of Historic Places, Washington, D.C.

Decorative Arts & Crafts

Kinmond, Jean. Counted Thread Embroidery.

Scribners. 1976. 127p. illus., some color. LC 75-38406. ISBN 0-684-14238-4. $10. CRAFTS

Covering the traditional cross stitch, blackwork, drawn fabric embroidery as well as the use of satin stitch on various materials, this book offers several designs, with diagrams, for household items and church kneelers. The usual explanations of how to stitch and what materials to use are given. At least one design, the Coventry Kneeler, is available through one of Coats's booklets (no. 1058) and the entire book shows its British origins. Although most of the patterns are attractive, none is particularly original or exciting. Not essential.—Dorothy E. Wynne, SUNY at Buffalo

Newman, Thelma R. Woodcraft: basic concepts and skills.

Chilton. 1976. illus., some color. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-8019-6126-2. $13.95; pap. ISBN 0-8019-6127-0. $7.95. CRAFTS

Despite the author's intent to "provide a sound foundation for the beginner and intermediate-level woodworker," this profusely illustrated volume presents a rather haphazard and decidedly incomplete miscellany of woodworking skills which is far too superficial for either the amateur or advanced craftsman. In an attempt to cover too much in too little space (e.g., the myriad applications and styles of planes are covered in two brief paragraphs), Newman often resorts to oversimplification which tends to confuse rather than instruct. Most libraries would do better with Jeanette Adams' Arco's New Complete Woodworking Handbook (LJ 8/75) or the useful guidebooks of C. H. Hayward.—Philip M. Fragasso, Woburn P.L., Mass.

BIOGRAPHY

Armes, Jay J. as told to Frederick Nolan. Jay J. Armes, Investigator.

Macmillan. Oct. 1976. 256p. photogs. LC 76-18915 ISBN 0-02-503200-3. $8.95.
CRIME AUTOBIOG

In spite of having lost both hands in a boyhood accident, Armes has become "the world's most successful private investigator," enjoying $100,000 retainers from individual and corporate clients. Armes' real life accomplishments and accouterments often out-Bond James Bond. A marksman, karate expert, scuba diver, and pilot, he lives on a walled estate in El Paso with its own zoo, lake with waterfall, and helicopter pad, from where he takes off to tackle assignments around the world. The book is a collection of case histories from kidnapping to corporate espionage, but the real story is about Armes himself. He has taken a severe handicap and translated it into personal success—right down to the .22 magnum built into his right hand-hook. Entertaining and fast-moving reading that leaves us waiting to hear more from the extraordinary Mr. Armes.—Jerry Maioli, Walla Walla County Rural Lib. District, Wash.

Baumgartel, Walter. Up Among the Mountain Gorillas: the tales of an innkeeper in Uganda.

Hawthorn. Oct. 1976. 224p. photogs. LC 75-39119. ISBN 0-8015-3097-0. $9.95.
TRAVEL/PER NAR

The owner of the once-famed Travellers' Rest Hotel in Kisoro, Uganda, writes here of his 15 years as innkeeper, gardener, and gorilla-trail guide in the volcanic Virunga Mountains. Baumgartel guided tourists to the habitats of his gorilla neighbors for years without frightening the animals off. His hotel provided unpretentious comfort for students of gorilla behavior, and his own "amateur" observations have been added to theirs in their published work. Because of this, much of what he says about gorillas will not be new to readers who follow George Schaller and Dian Fossey, and though one can feel some interest in his story, his patriarchal "old colonialist" attitude toward Africans will hinder the reader who does not think of Africa as "the dark continent."—Bonnie Jo Dopp, San Francisco P.L.

Blank, Joseph P. 19 Steps Up the Mountain: the story of the DeBolt family.

Lippincott. Oct. 1976. photogs. ISBN 0-397-01155-5. $7.95. PER NAR

Adopting children is chic in some circles these days, but this is a book about a remarkable family willing to take children who have been rejected by everyone else. Six children of their own apparently did not exhaust their supply of love; the DeBolts adopted 11 children of various races and with various handicaps. Although his dialogue is a bit sugary at times, Blank portrays well the hectic atmosphere of the DeBolt household. The children are not angelic; they whimper and feel sorry for themselves, but graudally master the "19 steps." Bob DeBolt is a man who expresses his emotions, crying when the occasion warrants tears; it is refreshing to read about him. Essential for collections on the care of handicapped children; and YA's will especially like this book.—Joseph L. Buelna, Lbn., Ft. Clayton, Canal Zone

Borland, Hal. Hal Borland's Book of Days.

Knopf. Oct. 1976. 352p. LC 76-13688. ISBN 0-394-40187-5. $10. NAT HIST/PER NAR

This report of natural happenings in the intimate world of Borland's home in a Connecticut valley and introspective reflections regarding that world merits praise. The book is a collection of day-to-day perusals on the meaning of life and man's place on Earth. Each essay voices an aspect of Borland's quest for his place in time and for satisfactory explanations of natural wonders and mysteries. The result is a splendid informal study of evolution as Borland traces life from primitive to complex forms, finally to man and to himself as an individual.—Evelyn G. Callaway, formerly with Nebraska Library Commission, Fairbury

Buckley, William F., Jr. Airborne: a sentimental journey.

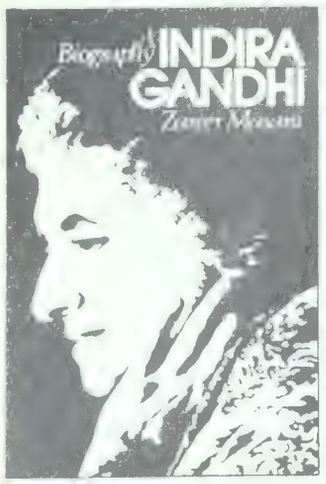
Macmillan. Nov. 1976. 256p. illus., some color. ISBN 0-02-518040-1. $12.95. PER NAR

This work records an ocean voyage made in 1975 by Buckley, his son, and other selected family and friends from Miami to Spain on Buckley's schooner. The book mixes technical information about the voyage with autobiographical reminiscence and occasional philosophical speculations on the human condition, the latter engendered by Buckley's sense of the schooner as microcosm. It also includes selections from the voyage journals of Buckley's son and other members of the party. The

LIPPINCOTT
"Should be read by every parent and pediatrician."
WHO WILL RAISE THE CHILDREN?
New Options for Fathers (and Mothers)
James A. Levine
A major step toward getting fathers more involved in parenting. "Dr. Lee Salk. A gift to all children who have been cheated of the attentions of caring men."—Letty Cottin Pogrebin. "Illuminating and stimulating."—Elizabeth Janeway. "An informed, clear-headed inquiry into a subject that may before long touch the very center of this country's domestic life."—Benjamin DeMott
LC 76-18743
ISBN 0-397-01120-2 $8.95
J. B. Lippincott Company
East Washington Square
Philadelphia, Pa. 19105

Subject: Crafts, interior decoration
Title: THE ART OF DECORATIVE STENCILING
Author: Adele Bishop & Cile Lord
Remarks: "[Gives] thorough design and execution instructions, patterns, and supply lists. . . . Their examples are fine art. . . . Instructions are organized to flow easily, and the reader can believe himself capable of executing something fairly challenging." —Library Journal
315 illustrations, including 50 in color plus 4 gatefolds
A STUDIO BOOK
670-13458-9 $15.95
THE VIKING PRESS

THE CROWELL CORNER



INDIRA GANDHI
A Biography
Zareer Masani

"Among the biographies of her [Mrs. Gandhi] that have appeared in the West, Mr. Masani's is probably the best. Eminently readable....Becomes more exciting and more thought-provoking with each page...She must be reckoned with....And Zareer Masani does his reckoning extremely well."
– PAUL GRIMES, The New York Times

ISBN: 0-690-00169-X
LC: 75-20149

$10.95

T. Y. Crowell
666 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10019

"A worthwhile addition to general history collections"*

Washington
A BIOGRAPHY
By Noemie Emery

"Well written and entertaining. ... Particularly commendable is the author's insistence on giving the same time and attention to Washington's early years as to his years as General and President."—Library Journal.* "Succeeds in giving vitality to Washington's combination of temper and diffidence....Washington's seven years of command in the French and Indian conflict receive a fresh treatment that should interest scholars....Definitely worthwhile."—Kirkus Reviews. 475 pp., bibliog., index. $12.95

G.P. PUTNAM'S SONS
200 Madison Ave., N.Y. 10016

writing is good although marked by Buckley's usual buoyant egotism. The illustrations were not seen by this reviewer. Of interest primarily to sailing enthusiasts and Buckley fans.—Scott Wright, Coll. of St. Thomas Lib., St. Paul, Minn.

Burns, George. Living It Up—, or, They Still Love Me In Altoona.

Putnam. Oct. 1976. 264p. photogs. ISBN 0-399-11636-2. $8.95. HUMOR/AUTOBIOG

It has evidently become a show business article of faith that sooner or later every brother and sister in the bond must get up an autobiography. In this latest trip down memory lane, the irrepressible comedian of 80 talks of his years with Gracie Allen and of his subsequent efforts to go it alone, of his country club cronies and their gamy bonhomie, of his numerous playmates (apparently he is, in the fine old Mencken phrase, catnip to the ladies) who help him while away the hours, and of many other things. He gets a little preachy at times, but his besetting vice is that he makes the book sound like one of his standup comedy routines. Unless you're exhausted with these self-congratulatory exercises, you might try this one out when you're looking for some way to occupy an idle evening.—A. J. Anderson, Sch. of Library Science, Simmons Coll., Boston

Caldwell, Erskine. Afternoons in Mid-America.

Dodd. Oct. 1976. 245p. $8.95. PER NAR

Caldwell's latest book presents a stylized account of a trip the author anticipated since boyhood to the states of mid-America on the "afternoon side" of the Mississippi. Caldwell's own descriptions—with frequent comparisons to places and experiences elsewhere—alternate with extended quotations on life in the American heartland by folks along the way and letters he writes to a friend in France. Caldwell's eye is sharp for the strengths and foibles of the natives, and for the land and its variety. He sketches, for example, the dwindling Ozark community of Evening Shade; blacks who find the relaxed life of New Madrid, Mo., a cut above the ghettos of Detroit and Chicago; revival meetings in the Bible Belt; life at the Mayo Clinic; girly shows in the early 1900's; and the perennial sight in most American towns: the flea-bitten hotel, formerly the regional showplace, now surrounded by bars and honky-tonk cafés near the railroad station. A nostalgic and variegated piece of Americana.—L. W. Griffin, Univ. of Wisconsin Lib., Madison

Dickerson, Nancy. Among Those Present: a reporter's view of twenty-five years in Washington.

Random. Oct. 1976. 254p. photogs. LC 76-14164. ISBN 0-394-49876-3. $8.95. COMM/AUTOBIOG

For 25 years, Dickerson has been not merely "among those present" but greeted as a friend by the big names of U.S. politics. LBJ was her negotiator for better terms at CBS; Nixon called her in one of his fabled midnight telephone conversations; Wilbur Mills introduced her to Fanne Foxe. Dickerson was a teacher in Wisconsin. Moving to Washington, she held a staff job for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee during the McCarthy years; she then became a producer of radio and TV shows for CBS, delivering important bodies to Face the Nation each week. During the 1960's Dickerson was news correspondent for CBS and NBC, and by 1970 she had gone free-lance, doing her own syndicated on-the-air column. In her personal and social life, Dickerson was equally intimate with the greats: for example, as a young woman she dated JFK. Her book is a perceptive record of the period, a portrayal of a remarkable woman, and a pleasure to read. She effectively embodies today's paradoxes: a successful journalist/mother; "talking-head"/writer; thinking woman in a field even now dominated by men. Libraries will soon have waiting lists for her book.—Barbara Conaty, formerly with Madison P.L., Wis.

Durrell, Jacquie. Intimate Relations.

Stein & Day. 1976. 160p. LC 76-15196. ISBN 0-8128-2089-5. photogs. $8.95. NAT HIST/PER NAR

Durrell's first book was Beasts in My Bed (LJ 11/15/67), a narrative of several animal-collecting trips made with her naturalist husband, Gerald Durrell. There is a sense of déjà vu in this volume, for she writes of these same trips, this time concentrating on descriptions of the personal relationships that developed between the collected animals and the Durrells; hence the title. Interesting, and with the charm of the first volume, this is suitable for high school and public libraries where there is a need.—Barbara Barth, Southeast Arizona Regional Lib., Bisbee

Gilliam, Dorothy Butler. Paul Robeson: all-American.

New Republic, dist. by Dutton. Oct. 1976. 228p. photogs. ISBN 0-915220-16-6. $8.95. BIOG

The death of Robeson earlier this year marked the end of a distinguished career. Robeson was actor, singer, athlete, civil-rights advocate, labor-union activist, and humanitarian. Gilliam's biography is an accurate but truncated account of the artist's life, a thin work with little of the flesh essential to a real understanding of Robeson's controversial life. For greater insight his own narrative, Here I Stand (LJ 11/1/71), or Eslanda Goode Robeson's Paul Robeson, Negro (Harper, 1930) should be read. The prime value of Gilliam's work is that it recalls attention to a unique individual.—Edward Mapp, New York City Community Coll. Lib., Brooklyn

Greenfield, Natalee S. "First Do No Harm . . .": a dying woman's battle against the physicians and drug companies who misled her about the hazards of the Pill.

Two Continents. Nov. 1976. LC 76-20629. ISBN 0-8467-0198-7. $7.95. MED/PER NAR

Tedious daily hearing of Kathryn Stuart Huffman's struggle against terminal breast cancer, physicians with false information, drug companies intending to defend their product, abandonment and divorce by husband, finishing doctorate in international law, and long months of unrelieved pain and suffering following a radical mastectomy that only helped the spread of malignancy and her early death at age 26. What might have been a moving story by Kathryn's mother is rather a compilation of inquisition transcripts and accounts of interviews, hospital records, and newspaper articles. The husband's point of view is never expressed even though he is the villain in much of the narrative. Though we do need more research in the area of birth-control methods, this woman's personal message could better be told in a book like Morton Mintz' The Pill (LJ 6/1/70).—Ellen R. Paterson, SUNY at Cortland Lib.

Haley, Alex. Roots.

Doubleday. Oct. 1976. 587p. illus. LC 72-76164. ISBN 0-385-03787-2. $12.50. AUTOBIOG

Haley, the "editor" of The Autobiography of Malcolm X, has spent the past 12 years tracing his own roots. The result of his search is not a dry genealogical tract but poignant family history at its best. With a novelist's eye for detail and character, Haley tells the story of his direct African ancestor, Kunta Kinte, his life in West Africa, his abduction to America, and the vicissitudes of slavery and freedom for his progeny. A brief review cannot do justice to the power of this book. It is a chronicle of one black family, a panorama of black life in Africa and America, and a fascinating account of how one finds his personal past. In spite of occasional historical errors, Roots is a superb book, highly recommended for both specialists and general audiences.—Anthony O. Edmonds, Dept. of History, Ball State Univ., Muncie, Ind.

Holmes, Nancy. The Dream Boats.

Prentice-Hall. Nov. 1976. 256p. illus. LC 76-22461. ISBN 0-13-219345-0. $9.95. BIOG

Beginning with a brief history of yachting, the author moves on to provide a breathless report of how the rich and famous live on their "dream boats." Queen Elizabeth, Onassis, Burton and Taylor, Charles Revson, Marjorie Post put in appearances, but the focus is on how these people maintain their yachts rather than on their business or love lives. The book abounds with elaborate information about the food, the decor, and even the servant "problem" aboard the boats. A harmless, readable combination of facts and Beautiful People gossip.—William J. Harding, Free Lib. of Philadelphia

Lamson, Peggy. Roger Baldwin: founder of the American Civil Liberties Union, a portrait.

Houghton. Oct. 1976. illus. index. ISBN 0-395-24761-6. $12.50. BIOG

The career of Roger Baldwin touches many of the classic battles for social reform during the first half of the century—from the pacifist movement during the World War I to the Human Rights Commission of the UN. Baldwin's tenure first as secretary of the National Probation Association and then as director for some 30 years of the ACLU and his leadership role in numerous other social reform organizations deserve full biographical treatment. Lamson, author of Few Are Chosen (LJ 2/15/69) and The Glorious Failure (LJ 5/1/73), attempts that kind of coverage. Based heavily on taped interviews with Baldwin himself, the book seldom takes a critical stand on the events of his career; but the honesty and candor of the man and Lamson's skill in putting together her material make this an important document of the era. Recommended.—Scott Wright, Coll. of St. Thomas Lib., St. Paul, Minn.

Longford, Elizabeth. The Life of Byron.

Little. (Lib. of World Biography). Nov. 1976. c. 220p. bibliog. ISBN 0-316-53192-8. $8.95. LIT/BIOG

This short biography provides a straightforward, well-balanced account of Byron's life. The tumultuous nature of the poet's personality—the aristocratic pride, the passionate concern for human rights, the immense sexual appetite, and the sudden shifts from exuberance to despair—is documented through telling use of Byron's letters, journals, and poetry. However, the book does have some shortcomings. Langford at times attempts to give too much detail with little introduction or explanation, and a reader not already acquainted with Byron's life will find certain sections confusing or puzzling. The book ends with an interesting account of the opening of Byron's tomb in 1938.—Joseph J. Branin, Kent State Univ., Lib., Salem, Ohio

Medvedev, Roy A. & Zhores A. Medvedev. Khrushchev: the years in power.

Columbia Univ. Pr. Nov. 1976. 240p. tr. by Andrew R. Durkin. ISBN 0-231-03939-5. $10.95. BIOG

This biography, by a famous and learned pair of dissidents, is "the first by Russian authors on Khrushchev and the first to attempt to analyze his reforms and his policies . . . 'from within.'" Briefly sketching the Stalinist background, the Medvedevs concentrate on Khrushchev's methodical and cautious successful reforms of 1953–1957 and his impulsive and catastrophic adventures of 1958–1964. Their major focus is on Khrushchev's agricultural policy, which was his special interest and expertise. Khrushchev often emerges as the mad schemer who nevertheless succeeded in making significant reforms in Soviet party politics, intellectualism, and living conditions. The Medvedevs show a rueful sympathy for Khrushchev but a ruthless criticism of his grandiose ambitions. The volume closes with a brief description of Khrushchev's well-engineered downfall and the subsequent efforts to restore agricultural balance. Despite its emphasis on agricultural statistics, this is an extraordinarily readable book whose style is as stimulating as the best journalism. Most libraries will find this an indispensable account of a crucial decade.—Barbara Conaty, formerly with Madison P.L., Wis.

LIPPINCOTT
A Gladys Taber treasury.
THE BEST OF STILLMEADOW
A Treasury of Country Living
Edited and with an introduction by Constance Taber Colby
Illustrated by Edward Shenton
The finest writing by one of America's best-loved chroniclers of country living fills this generous new anthology, drawn from Gladys Taber's first seven Stillmeadow books. Ranging from Harvest at Stillmeadow (1940) to Stillmeadow Calendar (1962), the collection not only offers highlights of volumes long out of print, but also,—as skillfully arranged and edited by Mrs. Taber's daughter Constance Taber Colby—gives a broad seasonally-oriented overview of a life close to nature and good friends.
LC 76-20457 ISBN 0-397-01156-3 $8.95
Gladys Taber's other books include the recent:
HARVEST OF YESTERDAYS
"Jewel-box memoirs . . . Again, Miss Taber serves her following well."
—The Kirkus Reviews
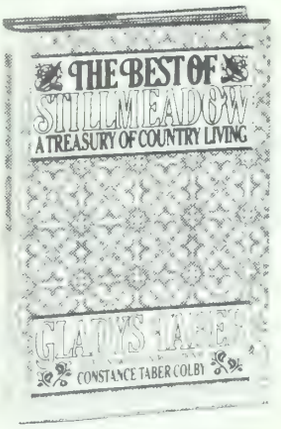
Illus. LC 75-44003 ISBN 01133-4 $7.95
COUNTRY CHRONICLE, Illus.
LC 73-19684 ISBN 01023-0 $6.95
MY OWN CAPE COD, Illus
LC 75-15141 ISBN 00717 $7.95
MY OWN COOK BOOK: From Stillmeadow to Cape Cod, Illus.
LC 72-747 ISBN 00877-5
STILLMEADOW ALBUM, Illus.
LC 77-91673 ISBN 00611-X $6.95
AMBER, A VERY PERSONAL CAT, Illus
LC 74-110651 ISBN 00603-6 $5.95
ANOTHER PATH
LC 63-17678 ISBN 00260-2 $6.95
STILLMEADOW SAMPLER, Illus.
LC 59-10125 ISBN 00113-4 $6.25
Lippincott's ISBN prefix is 0-397



J. B. Lippincott Company
East Washington Square
Philadelphia, Pa. 19105

Mossiker, Frances. Pocahontas: the life and the legend.

Knopf. Nov. 1976. $12.95. HIST/BIOG

Pocahontas was an individual trapped between and within the confrontation of two vastly different cultures. Unable to write, she left no written record; we know her only through the writings of her contemporaries. The author carefully goes beyond this record, interpreting circumstantial evidence and utilizing the techniques of psychohistory to bring life to the legend and its principals. The Jamestown drama is recounted, large excerpts from primary source material are included, and where controversy exists concerning the interpretation of an event it is delineated. However, some of the best work on early Indian-white relations and attitudes is missing from the bibliography, notably pertinent articles by Edmund S. Morgan. Nonetheless, an excellent companion to Phillip L. Barbour's well-researched and readable Pocahontas And Her World (LJ 2/15/70), and superior to Grace Steele Woodward's Pocahontas (LJ 9/1/69) which makes little effort to understand Pocahontas as an individual.—Charles A. D'Aniello, Richmond P.L., Va.

Murdoch, Derrick. The Agatha Christie Mystery.

Pagurian Pr. Nov. 1976. bibliog. illus. $8.95. LIT BIOG

Whatever "mystery" there was, or is, continues to be locked up since "Dame Agatha Christie's abiding aversion to personal publicity continues to be honored by her family, her publishers, and her literary agents." All that is revealed here of her life is from secondary sources, and that "all" will be pretty familiar to her countless admirers. Still this affectionate and literate replay of her biography and oeuvre will be welcome in most libraries where even the slow-moving efforts of her last years are read and reread by her insatiable fans. Helpful addenda are chronological lists of the books, plays, and movies, including individual stories in collections and alternate titles.—Nina K. Wilson, Los Angeles County P.L. System

O'Brien, Edna. Mother Ireland.

HBJ, 1976. 144p. photogs. by Fergus Bourke. ISBN 0-15-162587-5. $12.95. TRAV/PER NAR

In exploring the mystique of Ireland and the Irish, novelist O'Brien delves into history and mythology and uses vignettes from her own life to verify her findings and beliefs. Brief chapters focus on the land, the people, books and plays, religion, and the pulse of Dublin. What emerges is a very personal narrative permeated with a wanness the well-reproduced photographs confirm. O'Brien's prose has true Irish rhythms, and her first work of nonfiction whets the reader's appetite for more autobiographical writings. A short, beautifully written book that evokes a country and a people more successfully than thicker tomes.—Robert H. Donahugh, Youngstown P.L., Ohio

THE DOW JONES-IRWIN GUIDE TO ESTATE PLANNING

by William C. Clay, Jr.

Estate planning is not only for the wealthy. The person of more modest means needs estate planning more than anyone else. The book provides the answer to three key questions that are of utmost importance to most people—why should one create an estate plan?—what kind of an estate plan should be chosen?—when should one review and revise one's estate plan? $9.95

Dow Jones-Irwin
1818 Ridge Road, Homewood, Ill. 60430

Schwinn, Monika & Bernhard Diehl. We Came To Help.

Helen & Kurt Wolff: HBJ. 1976. 189p. tr. by Jan van Heurck. ISBN 0-15-195595-6. $8.95. PER NAR

In 1969, two young Germans went to Vietnam as members of the Aid Service of Malta, a relief organization comparable to the American Red Cross. They were assigned to the hospital for civilians at Da Nang and worked there as para-medicals. On a hike, wading upstream in the Khe Le River, they followed a beckoning rice farmer right into a trap, Viet Cong territory, and captivity. Four-and-a-half years later, upon the signing of the Paris Peace Agreement in January 1973, they were released and flown back to Germany. Their experiences, well told and well translated, are hair-raising enough: They are marched from jungle camps to mountain hideouts, always at night, always starving, with bleeding feet, often with a fever. After a year of this, they are put into solitary confinement for another three-and-a-half years to be "re-educated." Monika's and Bernhard's goal: survival at any price. "Staying alive is all that matters," says Bernhard, "even if I have to walk on corpses to do it." A poignant contribution to the growing literature on survival under extreme conditions.—Gerda Haas, Bates Coll. Lib., Lewiston, Me.

Swanberg, W. A. Norman Thomas: the last idealist.

Scribners. Oct. 1976. 530p. photogs. index. $15. POL SCI/BIOG

Swanberg, author of popular biographies of Jim Fisk, William Randolph Hearst, Joseph Pulitzer, Theodore Dreiser, and Henry Luce, among others, now gives us Socialist author and six-time Presidential candidate, Norman Thomas. Like Swanberg's earlier biographies, this one is full (to the point of containing too much detail on occasion), but it is at the same time well written and nearly always interesting. Although not as scholarly as Murray B. Seidler's Norman Thomas (Syracuse Univ. Pr., 1967. 2d ed.), it is both longer and more readable. The book is particularly interesting in depicting the way Thomas, who began his career as a Presbyterian minister, came gradually to the Socialist cause. Highly recommended for libraries of all types and sizes.—Scott Wright, Coll. of St. Thomas Lib., St. Paul, Minn.

Weintraub, Stanley. Four Rossettis: a Victorian biography.

Weybright & Talley, dist. by McKay. Oct. 1976. 320p. photogs. index. ISBN 0-679-40136-9. $15. LIT/BIOG

Pre-Raphaelite genius in both art and literature, Dante Gabriel Rossetti led a life of scandal; by contrast, gifted Christina withdrew into nun-like seclusion, and Maria took the veil. William survived his siblings, guarding his brother's reputation and recording the fugitive pieces of his career while establishing a minor name of his own as a literary critic. The names of some of the most famous Victorian literati appear in these pages, but few scenes are vividly or dramatically rendered. The story ranges over drug addiction, suicide, seances, and exhumations of a book—and body—but Weintraub simply lets the ever-decorous diaries and letters speak for themselves. His is the first biography of this entire travail-beset family.—Douglas W. Cooper, Randolph-Macon Coll. Lib., Ashland, Va.

Whiteley, Opal. Opal.

Macmillan. 1976. 183p. adapted & arranged by Jane Boulton. illus. LC 76-12591. ISBN 0-02-513970-3. $6.95. PER NAR

This quietly startling diary of a six-year-old girl, written around 1905, may well be headed for commercial success as either a cult book or a "gift book." Opal, a sensitive, often misunderstood orphan who lived in an Oregon mining camp, recorded thoughts about nature and her human and animal friends in a secret journal, first published in 1920 by Atlantic Monthly Press as The Story of Opal. It has been revised and rearranged in free verse form with corrected spelling in this new edition. Boulton has reorganized the exposition of the main characters, so that the narrative reads like a novel. Opal's observations are startlingly rich in metaphor—and in understanding of her world. Like the best of Grandma Moses' paintings, this diary is truly an American primitive. A four-page index, listing page numbers of major themes and appearances of characters, is appended.—Joyce W. Smothers, Monmouth County Lib., Freehold, N.J.

Wilde, Meta Carpenter & Orin Borstin. A Loving Gentleman: the love story of William Faulkner and Meta Carpenter.

S. & S. Nov. 1976. 259p. ISBN 0-671-22323-2. $8.95. LIT/MEMOIR

In a first-person narrative, Carpenter tells about her life in Hollywood as a script clerk, her love affair with Faulkner, her marriages and divorces, her stay in Germany during the rise of Nazism, etc. Beginning in 1935, the story covers a time span of about 30 years. Much more a portrait of Carpenter than of Faulkner, the book reveals only those sides of Faulkner's personality that Carpenter was capable of seeing. It has no scholarly value and offers no insight into Faulkner's work. She hardly ever quotes the letters he wrote to her, and what little she does quote mainly concerns their intimate relationship. The book also suffers from a lack of factual information, such as dates. Such a book prompts the reader to reflect on human motives and on the losing battle to defend privacy. On the other hand, it will provide entertaining reading for those interested in romantic love stories.—Jacqueline M. Courbin, Dept. of English, Ottawa Univ., Canada

BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

Alvarez, Francisco Casanova. New Horizons for the Third World.

Public Affairs. 1976. 136p. LC 76-4136. ISBN 0-8183-0246-1. $7.60; pap. $6. INT AFFAIRS ECON

This is essentially a third-world view of the global setting, the organizational process, and the Charter of Economic Rights and Duties of States, adopted by the U.N. General Assembly in 1974. It is also an effusive testimonial to Mexican President Luis Echeverria, the Charter's main proponent and unswerving champion. The author sets the tone with a brief account of the bipolar-to-polycentric global shift, economic polarization, overpopulation, ecological deterioration, and the challenges these pose to underdeveloped nations. He then traces the evolution of the Charter and analyzes its significance. Although some very valid Third World arguments are forcefully articulated in this book, it adds little new information and is as polemical as analytical. Included as appendixes are texts of the Charter and two speeches by Echeverria.—Clifton E. Wilson, Dept. of Government, Univ. of Arizona, Tucson

Browne, Harry. Complete Guide to Swiss Banks.

McGraw. Jan. 1977. 520p. illus. bibliog. index. LC 76-4781. ISBN 0-07-008483-1. $9.95. ECON

Written by the renegade author of the best-selling You Can Profit from a Monetary Crisis (LJ 2/15/74), this is a veritable compendium of every type of how-to activity related to Swiss bank accounts—from choosing the bank to consideration of current, time, and custodial accounts and the operation of various financial transactions through these accounts. He explains thoroughly the tax consequences of these activities to both Americans and Canadians and discusses gold, silver, foreign currency, and other commodities in regular and margin accounts. Interspersed throughout is his own economic philosophy; the basic reason he advocates Swiss bank accounts for just about everyone from the medium-sized investor to the very wealthy is that they offer privacy and protection, primarily from our own government. This fast-reading book on a complex subject will have popular appeal. The many specific examples enhance the ease of understanding. Recommended for academic and public libraries.—Susan A. Singer, Tucson P.L., Ariz.

Greenough, William C. & Francis P. King. Pension Plans and Public Policy.

Columbia Univ. Pr. 1976. 336p. ISBN 0-231-04070-9. $17.50. ECON

This is a compact but comprehensive and up-to-date presentation of pension plans in the U.S., with one chapter on foreign pension systems. The main thrust of this book is that most workers in this country need retirement income protection and are already covered by some kind of pension plan, but many of these retirement systems (both private and public) are faced with serious current and future financial problems which may affect their ability to meet their economic and social objectives. Furthermore, the authors believe that there is little understanding of pension plans by the public. In attempting to set the record straight, they opt for presenting masses of facts and statistics at the expense of greater selectivity and more incisive analysis. Consequently their major conclusions and recommendations are often so deeply buried in details as to defy discovery. The book ends abruptly and unsatisfactorily because of the lack of a concluding chapter. The statistical tables are a useful feature, and the numerous bibliographical references in the footnotes make up for the absence of a bibliography. The writing style is workmanlike but not very fluent. This book will appeal primarily to pension specialists.—Harry Frumerman, Dept. of Economics, Hunter Coll., CUNY

Heller, Walter W. The Economy: old myth and new realities.

Norton. 1976. 224p. bibliog. ISBN 0-393-05595-7. $8.95. ECON

Heller, a major participant in formulating government economic policy in the 1960's as chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors from 1961 till 1964, presents a running commentary on the persistent recession of the last half-decade. The essays in this collection, principally reprinted from articles appearing during the past four years in the Wall Street Journal and from testimony presented to congressional committees, seek to provide a consistent, liberal alternative to the vacillating and often contradictory policies of the Nixon/Ford Administrations. The final selection, an expanded version of Heller's presidential address to the American Economic Association in 1974, is a spirited defense of the often disappointing discipline of economics and of the much-maligned contemporary economist. Should prove popular.—Steven Wecker, Lehman Coll. Lib., CUNY

Lyons, Nick. The Sony Vision.

Crown. 1976. 256p. photogs. LC 76-20703. ISBN 0-517-52739-1. $7.95. BUS

In just 30 years Sony has become a household word to the world. The Japan-based group has radically changed the world with their highly innovative electronics and managerial concepts. No corporate jungle, Sony emerges here as a company intent on unfolding the self of each employee. Presumably based largely on interviews with Sony executives, Lyons' chronicle lacks documentation. Chatty, often exciting, sometimes insightful, the work is recommended for popular business collections.—Mark Leggett, Knoxville-Knox County P. L., Tenn.

"Recommended"
LIBRARY JOURNAL

WALT DISNEY
by BOB THOMAS

"Thomas' acceptance of Disney as essentially a public man allows him to adequately sketch Disney's true genius as an entrepreneur. The Disney genius for articulating the desires of the masses remains a remarkable, and fascinating, achievement ... an honest inspirational feel. Should please many readers."
—Library Journal
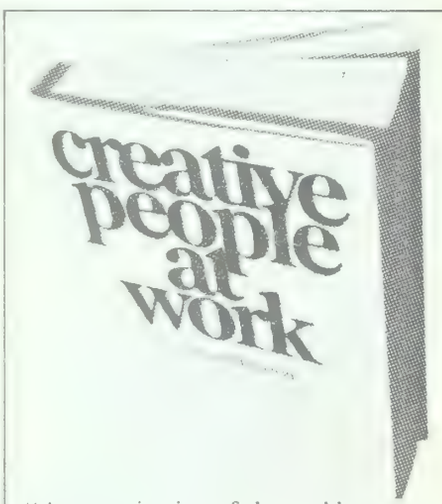
Photographs, index.

ISBN: 0-671-22332-1
LC 76-13028
$9.95

SIMON AND SCHUSTER
630 Fifth Ave.
New York 10020



"An examination of the problems, confrontations, successes, and failures of creative people in and out of New York City advertising agencies. This is a first-hand account in that it is based primarily on quotations from the people themselves. Appendixes include listings of top creative people, methods of breaking into the field, and the results of a survey of creative people discussing the how's and why's of creativity. I personally found the work fascinating and for people interested in advertising and creativity this work is a must. Recommended for libraries with business and advertising collections."—LJ
242 p. photogs. index. $12.50
20% Library Discount. With prepaid orders we pay postage, handling + Local Tax. Order from wholesalers or direct:
Executive Communications, Inc.
400 E. 54th St.,NYC, NY 10022

Serling, Robert J. The Only Way To Fly: the story of Western Airlines, America's senior air carrier.

Doubleday. 504p. Oct. 1976. illus. LC 75-40744. ISBN 0-385-01342-6. $10.95. AERONAUTICS/BUS

The history of the nation's oldest scheduled air carrier is told in this objective yet romantic account. Serling traces the development of Western from its inception in 1926, with wood-and-fabric biplanes that flew the mail route between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City, and recounts the company's five decades of service. He emphasizes the personalities who kept the airline going and expanding. Serling also discusses some of the problems of modern commercial aviation and their implications for the future.—William A. McIntyre, Laconia State Sch. Lib., N.H.

Widick, B. J., ed. Auto Work and Its Discontents.

John Hopkins. (Policy Studies in Employment and Welfare). 1976. 112p. fwd. by Eli Ginzberg. illus. bibliog. LC 76-16095. ISBN 0-8018-1856-7. $8; pap. ISBN 0-8018-1857-5. $2.95. LABOR

Widick and his colleagues have written an original and interesting book. Each of the five authors is a scholar of industrial relations and has had at least three years' experience working in an auto factory—a highly desirable combination of intellectual background and work experience. Widick begins with a brief history of work in auto plants and continues with the "double discontent" of black workers. Patricia Cayo Sexton writes her essay from a "feminist union perspective." Bill Goode reflects on the experiences of skilled workers and Robert Reiff discusses alienation and dehumanization in auto work. Al Nash contributes a critique of auto work job satisfaction studies, as well as a three-page bibliography. An epilogue, by Ivar Berg, makes an effort to balance the book's coverage by considering working conditions and managements' interests. The quality of the essays is clearly uneven, with Goode's and Reiff's being the most interesting and Nash's the most scholarly. The authors' surprising conclusion states that auto workers are not "robots or dehumanized, nor are they a combination of satisfied robots and Archie Bunkers."—Kevin M. Rosswurm, Akron P.L., Ohio

Wuliger, Betty S. Dollars and ene: protecting your money and making it grow; a unique primer for the individual investor.

Random. Oct. 1976. $8.95. BUS

Wuliger's up-to-date handbook on investments is directed primarily to women, many of whom are considering investments for the first time. The author gives a very brief sensible description of just about every means of investing money. Among the topics she covers are federal paper, commodities futures, mutuals, gold, silver, Swiss bank accounts, and common stocks. She supplements the discussions with many factual tables on each type of financial instrument. For the neophyte at investing this book can be useful for an overview. But considering that there are so many other introductory books on the subject, many written in greater detail, the large collection could skip this one. The small public library might find it useful for keeping patrons up-to-date with some of the recent additions and changes within this field.—Susan A. Singer, Tucson P.L., Ariz.

Business Information Sources

Lorna Daniells

Completely revised and enlarged, this new edition of Sources of Business Information includes radical changes in the field over the past decade.

400 pages, $14.95

University of California Press Berkeley 94720

communications

Bowles, Jerry. Forever Hold Your Banner High: the story of the Mickey Mouse Club and what happened to the Mouseketeers.

Doubleday. Oct. 1976. 168p. illus. ISBN 0-385-11622-5. $6.95. COMM

This book offers a chatty glimpse at the past and present of the cast of the well-known Disney TV show. If one really wants to know the gossip about the program and where Darlene, Annette, Lonnie, et al. are now, Forever Hold Your Banner High has it all. For most libraries this is a title to avoid; it is M-I-C-K-E-Y M-O-U-S-E.—Lucy Caswell, formerly with Ohio State Univ. Journalism Lib., Columbus

Sanford, Herb. Ladies and Gentlemen, the Garry Moore Show.

Stein & Day. Oct. 1976. 176p. fwd. & intro. by Garry Moore. photogs. index. LC 76-13889. ISBN 0-8128-2088-8. $10. COMM

The producer of the popular Garry Moore Show of the 1950's offers a memoir of its life and times. His book is a loose patchwork of anecdotes, script fragments, and other sidelights of the show, along with an insider's account of the early days of network television. Sanford's material may make a good TV special but as a book it's neither exciting nor amusing enough to merit purchase except by the most extensive broadcasting collections.—Morey Berger, Monmouth County Lib., Freehold, N.J.

Wilk, Max. The Golden Age of Television.

Delacorte. Nov. 1976. 288p. photogs. index. LC 76-12582. ISBN 0-440-02950-3. $10. COMM

According to Wilk, much of what is inherently good about the TV medium faded rapidly to black in the mid-1950's when videotape made live programming obsolete. That Wilk grieves the passing of live TV is apparent in this anecdotal volume, though it must be said that his light-hearted reminiscences are thoroughly without rancor. That he happens to be entertaining as well as educational is perhaps only a predictable by-product of his many years as a TV writer, mostly with CBS, for the greats and not-so-greats. Wilk's folksy account of how things sometimes nearly went right, much of it told through extended interviews with the principals involved, takes the reader through the halcyon days of TV drama, comedy, variety and quiz shows, and news. All the big names are here, from Steve Allen to Ed Sullivan, dressed in their backstage casuals and offered up for viewing in a telling collection of oddball circumstances. This is a believable insider's look at the performers, writers, production people, and executives who put TV on its brassy—not quite golden—legs. An appropriate acquisition for libraries with even modest holdings in television.—Cable Neuhaus, Sch. of Journalism, Pennsylvania State Univ., Wilkes-Barre

EDUCATION

Kohl, Herbert R. On Teaching.

Schocken. Nov. 1976. 165p. index. LC 76-9131. $7.95. ED

Kohl has never taught for more than three years consecutively or in one place (out of a total of 11) because he can "take young people and schools in three-year doses" only. He was involuntarily transferred out of schools twice and has been in and out of the teachers' union "a number" of times. Now he expounds "on teaching" as a "teacher committed to social change." Drawing on personal and collegial experiences, he discusses the craft and politics of teaching (including essentially warmed-over progressive education curriculum and teaching activities; teacher and student behavior; teacher-parent relationships) and teacher organizations and strikes. He asserts the traditional school is restrictive, "alternative"/open education democratic; students should be politicized and radicalized; the establishment should be forced to change (via confrontations, school closings and/or subversion, organization of teacher "cells" if it does not accept change willingly. Some *Kohl*isms: "Racism is part of the heritage of white Americans"; "A lack of sexual prudery is almost a prerequisite for junior high school teachers"; parental anti-Semitism in Ocean Hill-Brownsville was just "rumors"; he had a "history book which misrepresented the contemporary United States as a peaceful and perfect democracy." Public libraries should consider purchasing only upon patron demand.—Adeline Konsh, New York City Public Sch. System

Sachar, Abram L. A Host at Last.

Atlantic: Little. Nov. 1976. photogs. index. ISBN 0-316-76590-2. $12.95. ED

The story of Brandeis University as told from the perspective of Abram L. Sachar who for 20 years served as its president. From the challenge of its birth through the debate over its future, Sachar gives us details both large and small about Brandeis' leading personalities, its academic objectives, and its distinguished faculty. The first Jewish-founded American university, the school struggled manfully against the inclination to become a parochial school—and succeeded. This anecdotal, sometimes confusing history will make an interesting addition to special collections.—Michael C. Fenenbock, Washington, D.C.

HISTORY

Bailey, Thomas A. with assist. of Stephen M. Dobbs. Voices of America: the nation's story in slogans, sayings, and songs.

Free Pr. Oct. 1976. 512p. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-02-901260-0. $12.95. HIST

Once again the lively pen of Thomas Bailey provides entertaining reading. Voices of America is a chronicle of the nation's history built around its most prominent slogans, sayings, and songs—from the Massachusetts Puritan's "Use It Up, Wear It Out; Make It Do, or Do Without" to the more recent "Don't Blame Me, I Voted for McGovern." To his credit, Bailey includes catch phrases reflecting socioeconomic as well as the more traditional political themes. Although this reader cannot agree with Bailey's hypothesis—that slogans are "about the only medium" through which the populace can express its true sentiments about politicians and issues—it certainly was fun letting him try.—Wayne A. Wiegand, Univ. of Kentucky Lib., Lexington

Binion, Rudolph. Hitler Among the Germans.

Elsevier. 1976. 224p. bibliog. index. LC 76-26937. $12.00. PSYCH/HIST

Binion has written a highly insightful psychohistorical commentary on Hitler's rise to power and subsequent ability to retain an awesome hold over the German people. The key, he shows, is that Hitler combined his personal traumatic fury with that of the nation he managed to entrance. Binion's thesis is that Hitler's preoccupation with the "Jew as poison," the "Jewish poison," and finally, literally poisoning the Jew rests in the 1907 death of his mother from iodoform poisoning in the hands of a Jewish physician and his own 1918 hospital confinement for mustard-gas poisoning. With subtle usage of this psychological morsel, Binion adapts the history of the Third Reich to fit; and, for the most part, he can get away with it. His sources are unimpeachable and he uses them well. There are numerous books and articles on Hitler's biography and ideology; this one is surely better than Richard A. Koenigsberg's psychobiography, Hitler's Ideology (Library of Social Science, 1975). Recommended for libraries building their psychohistory and general anti-Semitism shelves.—Moshe H. Spero, Sch. of Applied Social Sciences, Case Western Reserve Univ., Cleveland

DeConde, Alexander. This Affair of Louisiana.

Scribners. Oct. 1976. 320p. illus. bibliog. ISBN 0-684-14687-8. $12.50. HIST

This scholarly yet readable chronological narrative of the Louisiana Purchase is an excellent addition to the literature on the subject, offering a succinct account that utilizes both previous writings and documentary sources. In addition, the author, a noted historian of early American foreign affairs, gives a challenging analysis and interpretation of the Purchase within the larger context of the history of Manifest Destiny: the Purchase was not an isolated accident, but the sought-after result of Anglo-American expansionism which had already existed for several centuries. DeConde successfully traces this "expansionism," or imperialism, which he feels is more precise, from its roots in the colonial experience through the events of the Purchase, which then points the way toward Manifest Destiny and beyond. An excellent bibliographical essay is included. Highly recommended.—Mary Ann Miya, Loyola Univ. of Chicago Lib.

Duffy, John. The Healers: the rise of the medical establishment.

McGraw. Oct. 1976. 372p. bibliog. index. LC 76-13616. ISBN 0-07-018020-2. $12.50. MED/HIST

The only other attempt at a comprehensive treatment of the history of American medicine is Francis R. Packard's two-volume History of Medicine in the U.S. (1931; Hafner, 1963. reprint). Duffy has written extensively in the field, and although his work is much shorter than Packard's, it is not more superficial. Duffy depicts the American medical tradition as being more pragmatic than the European, with the early Plymouth Rock practitioners combining native American herbal medicine with European medical practices. He documents numerous "firsts" in American medical history—the first hospital, the first medical degree, the first woman physician—but these are always in context. Duffy enables readers to understand the development of American medicine as a response to the medical needs of the American people. The text is carefully footnoted and there is an excellent bibliographical essay, although, regretfully, journal articles are not included. The author's smooth style makes the work a pleasure to read.—Frances Groen, McGill Univ. Lib., Montreal, Canada

Goldin, Milton. Why They Give: American Jews and their philanthropies.

Macmillan. Oct. 1976. 261p. bibliog. index. LC 76-17655. ISBN 0-02-544560-X. $10.95. REL/HIST

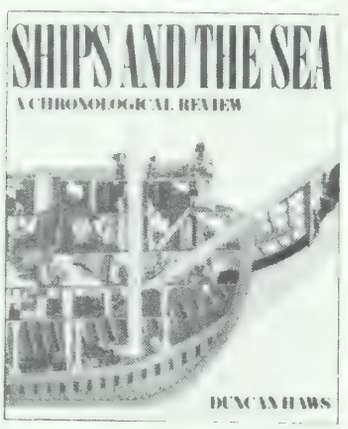
This deceptively titled book does not explain why philanthropy so dominates American Jewish life or why American Jews give so generously. The first half of the work is a standard institutional history of American Jewry and offers no new perspectives. The book contains some questionable historical judgments, such as the author's depiction of all Eastern European Jews as pious and the Pale of Settlement as crime-free. There are no footnotes so doubtful statements cannot be checked. Goldin's breezy, journalistic prose is occasionally jarring: for example, he describes Newport merchant Aaron Lopez as "an 18th-Century prototype of a

Oxford University Press Microfiche Editions

Oxford University Press Microfiche Editions bring many important works that previously were either unavailable or not readily accessible through normal research channels within reach of a worldwide scholarly community. The first series includes scholar-selected titles in English Literature (48 titles) and in History (59 titles) from the Oxford out-of-print list, available in 98-frame, 4 x 6, 24X microfiche editions on high quality silver halide film, positive image. Each microfiche holds 98 pages and each title can be purchased separately.

For full information about titles and prices, please write to:
Library Promotion Department,
Oxford University Press
200 Madison Avenue
New York, N.Y. 10016

THE CROWELL CORNER



SHIPS AND THE SEA
A Chronological Review
Duncan Haws

"Highlights persons and events as well as famous ships, different types of ships, and shipboard life throughout the history of seafaring. . . . For seafaring buffs and as supplementary material for history students."

—ALA Booklist

Over 200 illustrations
ISBN: 0-690-00968-2 $19.95
LC: 75-13686

T. Y. CROWELL
666 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10019

20-Century wheeler-dealer and big-giver." In the second half of the book Goldin discusses 20-Century fund-raising efforts for European Jewry and Israel, and here he presents more original material. Except for the two chapters on American fund-raising for Israel, however, most of the material has been more adequately dealt with elsewhere, as in Henry L. Feingold's Zion in America (Twayne, 1974), Melvin I. Urofsky's American Zionism from Herzl to the Holocaust (LJ 4/15/75), and Arthur D. Morse's While Six Million Died (LJ 3/1/68).—Judith E. Endelman, Dept. of Sociology, Boston Coll., Chestnut Hill, Mass.

Guillermaz, General Jacques. The Chinese Communist Party in Power, 1949-1975.

Westview Pr. Oct. 1976. 630p. maps. bibliog. index. LC 76-7593. ISBN 0-89158-041-7. $24.75.
POL SCI HIST

Guillermaz states that his intent in writing this book is to provide a synthesis of developments in post-1949 China for "readers who want to increase their knowledge and understanding without having to undertake specialized research." He has more than accomplished his objective in a lucid, precise, and well-organized book that provides a balanced, perceptive account. Acutely aware of the difficulties encountered in writing about contemporary China (lack of statistics and information on decision-making processes, the language problem, etc.), Guillermaz has used available primary and secondary sources to the best advantage. Though he concentrates on the history of the party, his study also includes a valuable description of the working of the government. His sympathetic adoption of a "viewpoint situated within the Chinese system" does not imply that the book overlooks multicausal interpretations of developments. Highly recommended for general readers and college students.—Ranbir Vohra, Dept. of Political Science, Trinity Coll., Hartford, Conn.

Hagan, William T. United States–Comanche Relations: the reservation years.

Yale Univ. Pr. (Western Americana Series, No. 28). Oct. 1976. illus. bibliog. index. LC 75-43318. ISBN 0-300-01939-4. $19.50. HIST

Hagan shows understanding of both Indians and the operations of federal programs in this model reservation history of the Comanches. He objectively evaluates Indian and white leaders, including Quanah Parker and Indian agents. Sadly, the hopes of Comanche adjustment to a new life were almost constantly frustrated by federal policies and administrators. Hagan concludes that "what actually occurred between 1867 and 1906 was to transform the Comanches from a proud and fiercely independent people into apathetic wards of the United States." Thorough research in primary sources and clarity of style add to the authenticity and readability of this excellent volume. Despite its high price, it belongs in every Indian history collection.—Leo E. Oliva, Dept. of History, Fort Hays Kansas State Coll., Hays Helmbold, F. Wilbur. Tracing Your Ancestry: a step-by-step guide to researching your family history.

Oxmoor House. Oct. 1976. 192p. photogs. index. ISBN 0-8487-0415-0. $9.95.

Helmbold, F. Wilbur. Tracing Your Ancestry Logbook.

Oxmoor House. Oct. 1976. 252p. ISBN 0-8487-0414-2. pap. $3.95. HIST

The growing interest in genealogy has created a need for comprehensive, concise books to describe orderly research procedures and acceptable standards of proof for the uninitiated. With Tracing Your Ancestry Helmbold has successfully achieved this goal. Societies, public offices, research centers, who to question, where to begin, where to search—he painstakingly sets forth and explains all data. Yet his style is light, and he makes the serious study to be undertaken sound like fun. This title will supersede Gilbert Doane's Searching for Your Ancestors (Univ. of Minnesota Pr., 1973. 4th. ed.; pap. Bantam, 1974). Recommended for public libraries.

The Logbook is a fill-in item that supplements Tracing Your Ancestry. Entry forms are clear and provide a place to keep proven ancestry in up-to-date condition.—Helen Wright, Sante Fe Springs Lib., Calif.

History of Mankind: cultural and scientific development. Vol. 3: The Great Medieval Civilizations by Gaston Wiet & others. 2 pts.

Harper. 1976. 1120p. illus. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-06-014622-2. $28.50.

Roberts, J. M. History of the World.

Knopf. 1976. 1007p. illus., some color. maps. index. $20.

Toynbee, Arnold. Mankind and Mother Earth: a narrative history of the world.

Oxford Univ. Pr. 1976. 688p. maps. index. LC 76-4651. $19.50. HIST World history proves impossible to write well, if these three vast volumes may be taken as evidence. Until quite recently, the major civilizations remained largely isolated and distinct, with very little communication or overlap except at their edges; thus a world history tends to become a series of parallel narrative blocks, with an occasional invasion or trade foray across the chapters. Seeking unifying patterns in writing world history invites vast generalizations, and the detail gets lost. But human life is detail. World histories typically begin with a broad manifesto of the author's intentions, and end with remarks on the unpredictability of the present and a summation of the manifesto. In between, the historian feels the necessity to touch all the bases, with a nod to Clovis, a sentence or two on Alfred the Great, and some mention of Polynesia. Finally, many areas and eras of world history either lack data or drown in it; comprehensive narratives flatten the differences.

Sponsored by UNESCO, History of Mankind intends "to study in depth what is essential in the evolution of mankind: the very development of the human mind." Volume 3, which covers the period A.D. 400 to 1300, is arranged as follows: I. Historical background in Europe and Asia; II. Cultural achievements in Europe and Asia (technology, language and learning, religion and philosophy, law and politics, scientific thought, literary and artistic expression); III. Africa, the Americas, and Oceania. Part III, divided geographically, is not parallel to I or II. Using panels of authors and worldwide consultation brings individual expertise to bear, and so makes the sections useful; but it results in the loss of an overall pattern. The maps are good, the illustrations are skimpy, and the bibliography is erratic.

Toynbee in his last book takes his usual Olympian stance and sermonizes us. Beginning with clichés on the limited viewpoint of the individual consciousness, he laments our lack of respect for the "Biosphere" and our abuse of technology. He begins with the usual prehistoric innovations; surveys the Tigris and Euphrates civilizations; lingers with his favorite, Greece; and charts the later cultural highpoints. About one-third of the space is devoted to non-Western areas. The past 400 years get the last 90 pages, ending in "A Retrospect in 1973," which praises Chinese reformers, and urges that we save the biosphere by overcoming "the suicidal, aggressive greed that, in all living creatures, including Man himself, has been the price of the Great Mother's gift of life." Admirers of the great historian will be disappointed by this book, which suffers from pro forma chapters, repetitious moralizing, and simply dull prose.

Roberts writes a textbook, admittedly "one man's view of the history of the world." He sees history as the tale of progressive civilizing of man from prehistoric uncertainties to modern uncertainties. He regards pre-European Africa and America as dead ends, in that they did not contribute to the development of our world as it is today; in short, the winners write history, and his side won. But Roberts does write well, with style and verve and wit. His illustrations and their wry captions add spice to the book.

Most libraries should buy Mankind and Mother Earth because Toynbee wrote it and their readers will ask for it. But for information, the UNESCO volume wins the prize. Undergraduates will like Roberts, although I would suggest instead R. R. Palmer and Joel Colton's History of the Modern World (Knopf, 1970).—Donald K. Fry, Provost for Humanities and Fine Arts, SUNY at Stony Brook

Kelly, Thomas. A History of Argos to 500 B.C.

Univ. of Minnesota Pr. Oct. 1976. 200p. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-8166-0790-7. $15.75. HIST

Relying on archaeological evidence, Kelly refutes the validity of the 4th-Century literary tradition as a reliable source of information for the history of Argos. He denies the existence of an Argive empire during the seventh Century, modifies the role of Pheidon as a great military conqueror and empire builder, and rejects a centuries-long rivalry with Sparta for hegemony over the Peloponnese. Instead, he proposes that Argos was an agrarian-based community, aristocratically led, which had limited and narrow contacts with the rest of the Greek world. By cutting through the misconceptions and confusion of legend and tradition, Kelly has provided a reliable account of the history of Argos and made a valuable contribution to early Greek history.—J. P. Karras, Dept. of History, Trenton State Coll., N.J.

Kimmich, Christoph M. Germany and the League of Nations.

Univ. of Chicago Pr. Oct. 1976. 280p. bibliog. index. LC 75-36400. ISBN 0-226-43534-2. $17.50.
INT AFFAIRS/HIST

Between 1918 and 1933, Germany used the League of Nations as a means of reversing its defeat in World War I and regaining world-power status. Kimmich asserts that Weimar leaders never believed that the League could provide a new way of resolving international tensions; instead, they professed "spuriously internationalist" sentiments as they worked to recover what Germany had lost at home and abroad after 1914. As Kimmich expertly shows, this use of the League as a means toward traditional German foreign-policy ends passed through several phases, generally mirroring the domestic successes and failures of Weimar. Kimmich's smoothly written and persuasively argued study serves as an excellent window onto the interplay of German domestic politics, League complications, and Great Power rivalries in the Weimar years. It offers little solace to partisans of international organization.—Charles DeBenedetti, Dept. of History, Univ. of Toledo, Ohio

Klein, Maury & Harvey A. Kantor. Prisoners of Progress: the American industrial cities, 1850–1920.

Macmillan. Oct. 1976. 352p. photogs. bibliog. index. LC 76-12528. $13.95.
URBAN AFFAIRS HIST

This admirable survey of the growth of industrial urban America is suitable for both students and general readers. The authors' style is lucid, their research is thorough, and their thesis is sound. In the development of industrial cities, according to Klein and Kantor, human consideration succumbed to economic priorities as the spirit of the marketplace became pervasive. In support of this thesis they synthesize recent scholarship, stressing the urban social and political setting but adequately surveying as well the technological and commercial revolution that contributed to the formation of industrial cities. The book's major limitation is its lack of footnotes and the too-abbreviated bibliography. In all, this useful study in urban and social history is worthy of inclusion in most library collections.—Kevin M. Rosswurm, Akron P.L., Ohio

Kranzler, David. Japanese, Nazis & Jews: the Jewish refugee community of Shanghai, 1938–1945.

Yeshiva Univ. Pr., dist. by Sifria Distributors, 729 Ave. N, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11230. Sept. 1976. 644p. illus. index. LC 76-20771. ISBN 0-89362-000-9. $17.50; pap. ISBN 0-89362-001-7. $7.95.
REL/HIST

The hitherto untold story of the 18,000 German and Polish Jews who found a haven from Hitler's scourge in Japanese-occupied Shanghai during World War II. (Japanese anti-semites deduced that the alleged power of "international Jewry" required Japan to align itself with rather than against the Jews.) This unique study cuts across conventional historiographical divisions and uncovers aspects of Japanese foreign policy, intra-Axis alliance politics, conditions in wartime China, and, above all, the Holocaust experience. On the basis of meticulous research, Kranzler creates a rich and multidimensional portrait of the complex society of Jews in wartime Shanghai during the dying years of Western dominance. This is a tour de force which achieves the rare distinction of illuminating a much wider circle of human experience than its monographic focus suggests. Scholars and laymen alike should find this book thoroughly engrossing.—Steven I. Levine, East Asian Inst., Columbia Univ.

Lash, Joseph P. Roosevelt and Churchill 1939-1941: the partnership that saved the West.

Norton. Oct. 1976. 544p. photogs. index. ISBN 0-393-05594-9. $12.95.
HIST

Between 1939 and 1941 a wary Anglo-American relationship flowered into the first de facto alliance in peace-time American history. With a superb sense of the interplay of the complex personalities of Roosevelt and Churchill, Lash splendidly reconstructs the evolution of the alliance. Moving chronologically, he skilfully explains the fast-moving military and political developments in light of the personal attitudes of Roosevelt and Churchill and their attempts to do what was necessary as well as politic. In the process, Lash reminds us that our healthy fear of an Imperial Presidency should not prevent us from responding to responsible Executive leadership. For certainly in 1939-1941, the Executive was the only American institution that was determined to resist Hitlerism and thus save the West.—Charles DeBenedetti, Dept. of History, Univ. of Toledo, Ohio

Messenger, Charles. The Blitzkrieg Story.

Scribners. Oct. 1976. 272p. illus. maps. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-684-14801-3. $10.
HIST

The strategy of blitzkrieg (literally, "lightning war") was developed as a reaction to the stalemated trench warfare of World War I. The introduction of new technology, particularly the airplane and the tank, enabled armies to attain greater mobility and protection as they advanced. Although the German army made the most tactical use of this strategy, British, French, and American theorists foresaw the possibilities in this dramatic change in military doctrine. Messenger traces the early development of the theory, the theorists' controversial fights to win adherents, and the subsequent applications of the strategy in World War II and the Arab-Israeli wars. His straightforward, fully documented account will be read with interest by those who wish a clear-

Edwin Way Teale
THE AMERICAN SEASONS
A beautiful one-volume harvest of chapters selected by Edwin Way Teale from his now-classic American Seasons set—North With the Spring, Autumn Across America, Journey Into Summer and Wandering Through Winter—which culminated in a Pulitzer Prize. With 65 pages of Teale photographs and a fascinating introduction by the author of the story behind his works, this book will delight the hosts of Teale enthusiasts who recognize him as this country's outstanding nature writer.
Designed by Avery Fisher.
A Literary Guild Alternate $17.50
DODD MEAD

er understanding of 20th-Century military strategy.—Michel Ridgeway, U.S. Military Academy Lib., West Point

Millar, Fergus. The Emperor in the Roman World: 31 BC–AD 337.

Cornell Univ. Pr. Nov. 1976. 804p. index. ISBN 0-8014-1058-4. $27.50. HIST

This large book, the result of over 12 years of work, delineates the basic features of the structure and functioning of the Roman Empire to 337 A.D. After a prologue, the book deals with the role of the emperor, his residences, resources, and entourage; Part 3 treats the relations of the emperor with his subjects, especially the Senate, the Equestrian Order, and provincial communities. Millar discusses these topics with examples from the reigns of various emperors. He quotes many ancient sources in translation, and presents a very detailed, well-documented account. The patterns that emerge from this study are of importance for the history, politics, and sociology of the Roman world. Recommended for academic libraries.—Jackson P. Hershbell, Dept. of Classics, Univ. of Minnesota, Minneapolis

Morgan, Edmund S. The Challenge of the American Revolution.

Norton. Oct. 1976. 240p. $10.95. HIST

Seven essays on varying aspects of the Revolution prepared by the author between 1947 and 1975, six of which originally appeared in various scholarly journals and compilations. Morgan begins with a consideration of the American attitude toward Parliamentary taxation in which he seeks to demonstrate that our forefathers were the victims of "Tory libel" and not guilty of the "constitutional frivolity" frequently charged by modern historians. In his longest essay Morgan deals with the "Puritan Ethic," that pervasive philosophy of life that "relished every difficulty and worried over every success" and, with its emphasis on frugality and industry, "prepared the colonists . . . to consider the idea of independence." Morgan's final piece makes an eloquent plea for more of the daring imagination that overcame the assumptions that America was destined to be a colony of fractious farmers, governed by an imposed aristocracy. Morgan's astute perception, coupled with his stylistic clarity and his adherence to the niceties of historical scholarship, elevate this volume above any suspicion of Bicentennial exploitation.—Mark Norton Schatz, Ann Arrundell County Historical Soc., Glen Burnie, Md.

Myrdal, Jan & Gun Kessle. Albania Defiant.

Monthly Review. 1976. 185p. tr. from Swedish by Paul Britten Austin. LC 74-21469 ISBN 0-85345-356-X. $11.95. HIST

Swedish sociologists Myrdal and Kessle have allowed their visionary view of life, tinged with Marxism, to run away in this polemical yet interesting little book about the Albanian way to nationalism, independence, and the good life. One can excuse the authors' biases, and one can compliment them on their succinct review of Albanian history, which is scarcely known to outsiders; but one cannot promote the authors' thesis that brave little Albania has successfully fought off capitalist America, imperialist Russia, and greedy Balkan neighbors in its search for viability. One is tempted to remark that these Swedish observers are looking a little too strenuously for another "middle way," and allowing fantasy to interfere with reality.—R. F. Delaney, U.S. Naval War Coll., Newport, R.I.

Shaban, M. A. Islamic History: a new interpretation. Vol. 2: A.D. 750–1055 (A.H. 132–448).

Cambridge Univ. Pr. 1976. 221p. maps. bibliog. index. LC 75-39390. ISBN 0-521-21198-0. $19.50. HIST

This volume in what apparently will be a multivolume work (see LJ 10/15/71, and a volume on Spain and North Africa is forthcoming), based on a rereading of the primary sources, covers the Abbasid period to the Seljuk conquest of Baghdad, mainly from the perspective of the Baghdad power center, with much on economic aspects. Shaban's methodology, appropriate for an essay, is unacceptable in a major work: one notes the general lack of comparison of his interpretations (which are too often stated as fact) with accepted versions; some inadequately developed arguments for his viewpoints; inconsistency in approach; extreme selectivity in subject matter; value judgements; and frequent contentiousness. Certainly a significant, often interesting, and stimulating contribution, but for very advanced readers only, and at the unspeakable price, only for major collections.—David W. Littlefield, Library of Congress

Springer, L. Elsinore. That Vanishing Sound.

Crown. 1976. 214p. illus index. LC 76-8223. ISBN 0-517-52539-9. $9.95. MUSIC/HIST

In The Collector's Book of Bells the author described bells for their own sake, focusing on their beauty, use, and heritage. Here the emphasis is on America, an appropriate gesture for Bicentennial interest, and Springer records the history of the U.S. through the sounds of its bells. He describes Mission bells in Southern California and the Southwest, early church and city bells cast by historic figures such as Paul Revere, bells on ships, trains, clocks, lighthouses, and peddler's carts. His survey includes detailed depictions of many of America's finer chimes, peals, and carillons. And he includes a short summary of bells heard in stories and songs of America. More than 250 photographs and drawings accompany this popular work.—Stephen M. Fry, UCLA Music Lib.

Archaeology

Brackman, Arnold C. The Search for the Gold of Tutankhamen.

Mason/Charter. Oct. 1976. 185p. index. ISBN 0-88405-364-4. $8.95. ARCHAEOLOGY

The early 20th Century was a time of intense interest in Egyptology. This brief history of the successful search for the tomb of the Pharaoh Tutankhamen is placed in a somewhat biographical setting of the two British principals, Lord Hebert, Earl of Carnarvon, and Howard Carter. Lord Carnarvon, as he was called, participated mainly as the financier of the expeditionary efforts of Carter, a self-taught career Egyptologist. In an almost vain search for an unlooted Pharaonic tomb, Carter becomes the uncelebrated hero of the day for discovering that of Tutankhamen. Brackman is author of The Last Emperor (LJ 9/1/75) and The Dream of Troy (Mason/Charter, 1974). He has apparently done a great deal of research on the era of Egyptology, but he conveys his information in an intimate novelistic style which keeps the reader's interest. His effort to fill the gap between the esoteric and the picture-book works about Tutankhamen should have wide appeal.—G. Robert McLean, Univ. of Toledo Libs., Ohio

Brown, Peter Lancaster. Megaliths, Myths and Men: an introduction to astro-archaeology.

Taplinger. Nov. 1976. 324p. illus. bibliog. index. LC 76-15090. ISBN 0-8008-5187-0. $13.95. ASTRONOMY/ARCHAEOLOGY

In this beginning study for the serious student of the astronomy of megalithic cultures, Brown reviews the theories of convergence between archaeology and astronomy, adding a chapter on fringe theories, such as those of the pyramidologists. A good two-thirds of the book deals inevitably with Stonehenge and other British megalithic rings. The work is scholarly and well researched, but with an obvious British bias. (The author takes a shot or two at Gerald S. Hawkins, the only American scholar mentioned: but one cannot discuss Stonehenge without reference to Hawkins' impressive work.) Although perhaps a little sophisticated for readers untrained in astronomy, this is nonetheless a respectable synthesis in an area where the data is fragmented and widely scattered. For college, university, and large public collections.—Jo-Ann D. Suleiman, Wright Patterson Air Force Base Medical Center Lib., Dayton, Ohio

Travel, Exploration & Adventure

Cromie, Alice. Tour Guide to the Old West.

Quadrangle, dist. by Harper. Nov. 1976. $12.50. TRAV

Cromie's Old West is represented by the 19 continental states west of the 95° longitude, including Arkansas. Arranged by state (and within a given state alphabetically by city, fort, or town), entries contain place, name of site, and county, the major highway that reaches it, its important historical sites, and a brief historical sketch. The emphasis of the guide is historical, but it includes information concerning national forests as well as the location of chambers of commerce (the latter not always relevant). However, many historical cities and towns are excluded, e.g., Lodi and Stockton, California; Coalville, Cove Fort, and Lehi, Utah.

Some communities are included with other towns that should have been listed in their own entry, e.g., Bayhorse, Idaho and Kanarraville, Utah. Despite these shortcomings, this guide will be useful in public library travel collections.—J. Carlyle Parker, California State Coll. Lib., Turlock

Dogo, Giuliano. Treasures of Italy.
Norton. 1976. 434p. tr. by Daphne Newton. illus., some color. index. $19.85. ART/TRAV
Art lovers and armchair travelers will be delighted with this survey of Italian art arranged in gazetteer format. Each of more than 1000 geographical entries includes a concise account of art works found there (paintings, sculpture, architecture) along with brief identifying remarks about their creators. Religious works, of course, dominate this book. An index by artist enables the reader to quickly determine where the works of a particular artist can be found. One to three asterisks are awarded each site to indicate the relative importance of its art holdings. The book is richly illustrated with hundreds of photographs including a generous number in color. This is a lovely book, and a useful book as well.—Harold M. Otness, Southern Oregon State Coll. Lib., Ashland

Thompson, Toby. Saloon: a guide to America's great bars, saloons, taverns, drinking places, and watering holes.
Grossman, dist. by Viking. Oct. 1976. 352p. illus. $12.50. TRAV
The author crisscrossed the nation seeking those saloons (never cocktail lounges!) where the weary traveler can find quiet comfort in cheap drinks, reasonably good food, and occasionally a congenial barstool buddy to pass the time. Drinks in this guide mean cold draft beers, but stronger potables are also mentioned along with prices. The guide is arranged by geographic sectors (Midwest, South, West, and East) each with its appropriate states. Unfortunately states are not given in alphabetical order, making it necessary to thumb back and forth. Informative footnotes are included. The author takes great pains in describing the local history of the establishment, atmosphere or lack of it, and the action taking place. Whether this guide is taken along on a trip or not, it makes for some very lively reading.—Richard J. Russo, Museum of Modern Art, New York

Home Economics

Fairbridge, Kingsley C. & Harvey-Jane Kowal. Loft Living: recycling warehouse space for residential use.
Saturday Review Pr: Dutton. 1976. 156p. photogs. index. LC 75-31852. ISBN 0-8415-0426-1. $11.95; pap. ISBN 0-8415-0434-2. $5.95. TECH/HOME ECON
I am now dwelling among the elements of loft renovation discussed here, and find this manual very useful. Among its assets are: copious photos (some before-and-after), detailed descriptions, facts, step-by-step instructions, generalized references to U.S. building codes, advice on budgets, and hints as to which construction jobs are of higher priority. The book is intended for use in city neighborhoods all over the U.S. A danger in such broad coverage is that materials recommended as economical, efficient, and easy for laypersons to install—for instance, plastic plumbing pipes and fittings—may be totally outlawed by local building codes—for instance, New York City's. Also overlooked are the possible legal consequences of living in commercially zoned areas. These are faults which any reader/renovator can deal with.—Julia Morrison, Member, ASCAP, New York

Schuler, Stanley. 5,000 Questions Answered About Maintaining, Repairing, and Improving Your Home.
Macmillan. Oct. 1976. 416p. illus. ISBN 0-02-081840-8. $15.95; pap. Collier. ISBN 0-02-607390-0. $9.95. TECH/HOME ECON
This book contains the expected basic general material on such topics as cooling, heating, plumbing, roofs, wall coverings, carpentry, and painting; there is also some unusual material on burglarproofing, disinfectants, and odor control. The information is sorted into 62 short sections: for example, water is divided into heating, supply, treatment, and waterproofing. Under each topic, a series of questions and answers are given in an ascending order from simple to complex. Although the questions and answers interrelate and are concisely written, the use of this format is a hindrance when one is seeking specific facts to help with home-maintenance problem. This book should encourage novices to try a few repair projects or to show a better degree of knowledge when talking to tradesmen.—W. T. Johnston, Coastal Plain Regional Lib., Tifton, Ga.

Cookery

Chalmers, Irena & Eds. of "Bride's." The Beginners' Book of Beautiful Food.
Doubleday. Oct. 1976. illus. index. LC 76-2762. ISBN 0-385-11097-9. $8.95. COOKERY
Written for the bride or the inexperienced cook, this book gives many helpful kitchen lists and hints in addition to a sampling of recipes. The author stresses the practicality of cooking from "scratch" rather than buying prepared foods. She also uses a positive approach in convincing the reader that cooking is fun and easy. Most recipes are simple yet different—an orange gelatin cream was delicious and quick to prepare. Menus are also included—even one for a Thanksgiving dinner which gives a suggestion as to how the meal might be divided between two cooks. This is not a basic book but would supplement nicely a standard cookbook.—Christine Bulson, SUNY at Oneonta Lib.

Dyer, Ceil. How To Make Beautiful Food in a Mold.
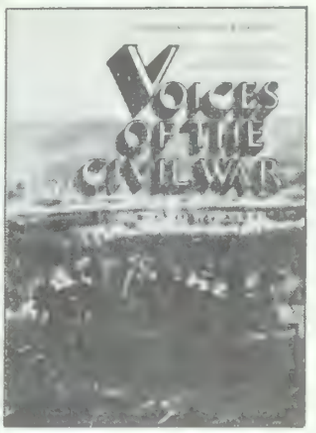
McKay. 1976. 219p. index. LC 76-16208. ISBN 0-679-50607-1. $9.95. COOKERY
These recipes are fairly sophisticated,

THE CROWELL CORNER



VOICES OF THE CIVIL WAR
Richard Wheeler
Foreword by Bruce Catton

"Conveys the day-to-day experiences of the American Civil War participants... [from] original, primary sources. ...Wheeler has deftly pieced together a moving and concise narrative. ...His book affords 'an idea of what it must have been like to be there'."
—Library Journal

ISBN: 0-690-01090-7
LC: 75-33705 $14.95

T. Y. CROWELL
666 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10019

A HAWTHORN BOOK
Recommended for Libraries

UPTOWN, DOWNTOWN: A Trip Through Time on New York's Subways
by Stan Fischler

"Train buff-sports writer Fischler has gone underground to produce this fascinating and comprehensive history of New York's subway system. . . . Fischler reviews history-making disasters, describes some subway stations' seldom noticed mosaics, analyzes the burgeoning graffiti phenomenon. He includes information about a subway freight line, the most dangerous job on the subway (working on the third rail) and profiles 'subway superstars.' His 'guide to knowing and enjoying the New York subways' is a super bonus." Publishers Weekly. Drawings, photos. Chronology, index. ISBN 0-8015-3118-7. $12.95.

HAWTHORN BOOKS
New York, N.Y. 10016

and some of the dishes have international origins ("Norwegian Fiskpudding" and "Chinese Pork and Rice Timbales" are two examples); yet, most do not require hard-to-find-ingredients. Methods for molding and unmolding, equipment, and terminology receive comprehensive treatment, making this specialized cookbook quite usable.—Carolyn Johnson, Gardner, Mass.

Firnstahl, Timothy. Jake O'Shaughnessey's Sourdough Book.

San Francisco Bk. Co., dist. by S. & S. 1976. 132p. illus. index. LC 76-9766. ISBN 0-913374-30-X. $8.95; pap. ISBN 0-913374-31-8. $4.95. COOKERY

Sourdough cookery is an art; it also takes a great deal of advance planning—you must know Wednesday that you will bake bread on Friday. Firnstahl's directions are clear and precise, which is critically important when dealing with the life cycle of wild yeast. Any beginner can cope with all but the bread recipes in this book. Classic sourdough bread is for advanced enthusiasts since no additional commercial yeast is added and bread rises or fails to depending on the condition of the sourdough. Collections with Sourdough Jack's Cookery Book (6/76) don't need this one; however, Firnstahl is more inclusive and doesn't push a commerical product, and allows the cook the chancey fun of making her own sourdough starters. Recommended for large collections.—Johanna Ezell, Washington County Free Lib., Hagerstown, Md.

Gorman, Robert. Gorman on California Premium Wines.

Ten Speed Pr. 1976. ISBN 0-913668-51-6. $8.95; pap. ISBN 0-913668-50-8. $4.95. BEVERAGES

Gorman attempts to persuade the reader that wines of exceptional quality can be made in California though the quantity is small by comparison with fine European wines. He does this through convincing tasting notes for specific California premium wines. The book is not a buyer's guide and the reader (wine drinker) is expected to develop a degree of independent judgment along with a "wine memory." Chapters on viticulture and winemaking are also included. Most California wineries, with addresses (minus zip codes) and telephone numbers, are listed. Only for complete wine collections.—Christine Bulson, SUNY at Oneonta Lib.

Hewitt, Jean. Southern Heritage Cookbook.

Putnam. Oct. 1976. 286p. index. ISBN 0-399-11768-7. $7.95. COOKERY

Hewitt has assembled a bounty of recipes contributed to the New York Times by Southern cooks. All the popular favorites are included, plus some maybe-not-so-well knowns, such as "Cajun Dirty Rice," "Pepper Jelly," and "Chicken Bog." Two minor criticisms are that, in the uncorrected proofs, some of the gumbo recipes omit the standard "serve over rice" comment and the red bean recipes do not call for the essential presoaking over night. Except for a few complicated seafood concoctions, recipes are easy to follow. A showier new work on the same subject is Winifred Cheney's The Southern Hospitality Cookbook (LJ 7/76), but this too is a worthy addition to cookbook collections.—Callie B. McGinnis, Columbus Coll. Lib., Ga.

O'Connor, Hyla. The Miracle Microwave Cookbook.

A. & W. Visual Lib. 1976. 160p. illus., mainly color. index. LC 76-3088. ISBN 0-89104-045-5. $6.95; pap. $4.95.

Scribner, Ginger. The Quick & Easy Microwave Oven Cookbook.

274p. index. Brooke House. 1976. LC 75-34549. ISBN 0-912588-19-5. $6.95. COOKERY

Success at microwave cooking requires more than properly adapted recipes; essential, too, is an understanding of unconventional techniques. Scribner's book covers food categories from appetizers through desserts, even some preserves. Preceding the recipes as a special feature of each chapter are her helpful "points to remember" and guides for handling specific foods. These compensate for the sparse introduction, and are well done, especially the directions for vegetables. Convenience foods—mixes of all sorts, and canned, frozen, and dehydrated products—are called for in most recipes. These will appeal to cooks who rarely start from scratch. O'Connor's colorfully illustrated book, with recipes for familiar foods, is expensive for its size. Though pleasant for browsing, the reader has the feeling of déjà vu. The book lacks a good discussion of the unique features of the oven, its special uses, and reorientation to meal planning and preparation. Still it may have some appeal, because of the recipes, to the experienced microwave cook. First choice, however, both for its detailed instructions and large collection of exceptional recipes, is Jehane's Benoit's The Microwave Cook Book (LJ 11/15/75).—Eleanor H. Broadus, Northern Illinois Univ. Lib., DeKalb

Schur, Sylvia. The Woman's Day Crêpe Cookbook.

Fawcett. 1976. 120p. illus., some color. index. ISBN 0-449-90002-9. pap. $5.95. COOKERY

All about crêpes, with instructions on how to make, shape and store them, 24 batter recipes including Chinese, Italian, Hungarian, Mexican, Swedish and Russian versions, and a chapter devoted to fillings for each recipe. The organization is not useful. With a few exceptions, the batter recipes are interchangeable—Schur even says they are—and to act as if they weren't only makes the book hard to use. The real problem, though, is that Schur seems to think that everything can be improved by wrapping it in a crêpe. She is wrong. Sautéed whole trout, sweet and sour meatballs, sauerkraut goulash, frankfurters and beans, eggs Benedict—to choose a few examples—do not belong in a crêpe. Crêpes are fashionable at the moment and they certainly have their uses. This book caters to the fashion without rigor or discrimination. Skip it.—Ruth Diebold, Finkelstein Memorial Lib., Spring Valley, N.Y.

Uvezian, Sonia. The Best Foods of Russia: culinary classics from the Caucasus, where many people live to be over 100.

HBJ. Oct. 1976. 288p. map. index. LC 76-12463 ISBN 0-15-111905-8. $8.95. COOKERY

Best Foods of Russia is devoted to the rich and varied cuisine of Armenia, Georgia, and Azerbaidzhan. Depsite efforts to promote this on the health-food bandwagon—note the subtitle—the book is a fine collection of varied and interesting recipes, competently adapted for the American kitchen. The dishes I tried—the tabaka (Georgian pressed fried chicken) and the grapevine leaves stuffed with meat and rice—were both delicious. One chapter has a number of unusual omelet recipes and of course there are several variations of the traditional shashlik and of rice pilaf. Appended is a list of specialty groceries across the country that stock the special ingredients called for in some of the recipes. This would be a nice addition to any comprehensive cookbook collection.—Gail R. Haar, Prosser Lib., Bloomfield, Conn.

Literature

The Adventures of Jonathan Corncob.

Godine. Oct. 1976. 128p. ed. by Noel Perrin. illus. by Mark Livingston. LC 75-43348. ISBN 0-87923-184-X. $8.95. LIT

This is a reissue of a short, anonymous novel (published in England in 1787, but never before in the U.S.), possibly the work of a British naval officer who served in America during the Revolution. A mild antidote to Bicentennial fervor, it is a bawdy, mocking narrative about a Massachusetts farm boy who suffers alternately from women and war. The editor likes to see the novel as anticipating Catch-22 in its undercutting, sometimes crude humor and antiheroic actors. But that is rather like Aesop's frog striving to become an ox. Even Livingston's modern illustrations in the 18th-Century graphic mode seem overdressed. The book is readable, yes—first-rate, no. Students of the novel will be interested, and so will fans of wry Americana, but both would have more fun if it were not so expensive and puffed up.—Joan Owen, Dept. of English, C. W. Post Coll., Greenvale, N.Y.

The Beggar's Opera. ed. by J. V. Guerinot & Rodney D. Jilg.

Archon: Shoe String. (Contexts: Selected Literary Works in Their Historical Settings, 1). 1976 186p. index. LC 75-29379. ISBN 0-208-01488-8. $8.50. LIT

This new series is intended to provide documents contemporary with older works so that a student can savor those primary works much as their first readers did. This volume contains selections, most in facsimile, on the literary, moral, criminal, political, musical, and critical backgrounds of the play. It does not, however, reprint Gay's work. The idea is exciting. The selections are well chosen: letters, newspaper accounts, ballads, and tracts add a sense of urgency to the reading. But a serious student would want more than selections—14 of which are drastic reductions of the originals. Substantive footnotes to the work itself might do as much. Moreover, the bibliography lists only modern critical works and thus offers no more leads to older contextual documents. And an undergraduate may find $8.50 a bit much to supplement a far cheaper reprint of The Beggar's Opera. Maybe that is why many college libraries should buy Contexts I.—H. G. Hahn, Dept. of English, Towson State Coll., Baltimore

Bush, Ronald. The Genesis of Ezra Pound's Cantos.

Princeton Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. 313p. index. $16.50. LIT

What distinguishes Bush's study from others is his demonstration of the interests and influences that entered into the composition of the Cantos. Beginning with the Cantos themselves, rather than with the short poems. Bush corrects misapprehensions concerning Pound's ideas and theories before he moves to a detailed examination of the growth and revisions of the early Cantos. Illustrating Pound's indebtedness to an impressive range of contemporary art, music, literature, and discursive writing, Bush reveals a poet far less influenced by quirky concerns than by his models. The Pound emerging from these pages appears in the more conventional guise of the literary man, matching and mixing his personal interests with those of his contemporaries. The book's great value is its demonstration of Pound's conformance to commonly recognized literary practices. Recommended for inclusion in collections of modern literature.—Walter Waring, Dept. of English, Kalamazoo Coll., Mich.

Clum, John M. Paddy Chayefsky.

Twayne. (U.S. Authors). 1976. bibliog. index. LC 76-7363. ISBN 0-8057-7172-7. $7.50. LIT

This first full-length analysis of Chayefsky's major work marks his significant contributions in theater, cinema, and television. Chayefsky, winner of two Academy Awards for best screenplay (Marty and The Hospital), is one of an unusual breed: an artist of great integrity and a commercial success. Clum is articulate and precise, an obvious admirer of Chayefsky but no blind worshipper. A good teacher, he convinces the skeptic that the work is worth re-viewing, the subject worth studying. —Helen Gregory, Albion P.L., Mich.

Frye, Northrop. Spiritus Mundi: essays on literature, myth, and society.

Indiana Univ. Pr. Nov. 1976. 320p. LC 76-12364. ISBN 0-253-35432-3. $11.50. LIT

Frye observes that his work since Anatomy of Criticism has "assumed the shape of what Professor Jerome Bruner would call a spiral curriculum, circling around the same issues, though trying to keep them open-ended." This collection of recent essays (most previously published) is divided into three sections: "general issues related to literary criticism . . ., general issues within literary criticism itself," and studies of specific, favorite writers (Milton, Blake, Yeats, Stevens). Frye's rare qualities—ease and grace of expression, an inclusive rather than exclusive view of literature, great learning informed by the conviction that the true liberation of the imagination through the humanities is a social necessity—make all his work worth reading, but general readers may well find short essays such as these most accessible and illuminating.—Richard Kuczkowski, Dept. of English, Bronx Community Coll., CUNY

Giles, James R. Claude McKay.

Twayne. (U.S. Authors). Nov. 1976. 176p. bibliog. index. LC 76-10154. ISBN 0-8057-7171-9. $7.95. LIT

Harlem Renaissance figure Claude McKay and his contributions to Afro-American literature are the subject of this study. Giles begins with brief biographical information. He treats McKay the poet and McKay the novelist separately to better illustrate the significant differences in style between the two, and he also discusses the short stories and essays. Giles examines the scope and reasoning behind McKay's work and concludes that his greatest importance is represented by his last three novels and not by his poems. A comprehensive bibliography is appended. Giles's book is somewhat difficult to read, but it's a necessary addition to any large library or special collection.—Pamela G. Bonnell, Center Lib., Ft. Rucker, Ala.

Goethe, Johann Wolfgang Von. Goethe's "Faust." Pt. 1.

Farrar. Nov. 1976. 300p. English translation by Randall Jarrell. $15; pap. $6.95. LIT

The dramatic and lyric force of Faust calls for a masterful translation, and Jarrell has provided us with a very creditable interpretation. He did not slavishly render line for line nor force a rhyme where his feel for English showed that one would be artificial. He did call upon his own recognized poetic skills to provide a smooth, at times forceful, at times lyric, version, striving "to make of Goethe's poetry in German—where I can—Goethe's poetry in English." Jarrell had not completed his translation at the time of his death. His notes, however, were complete; and with the exception of the "Spinning Song," provided by his friend Robert Lowell, these were sufficient to assemble the version presented. The afterword by Mary von Schrader Jarrell is of interest for the light it sheds on the poetic process and the creativity implicit in a fine translation of the kind her husband produced.—Janet C. Muller, Frederick Cancer Research Lib., Md.

Hipkiss, Robert A. Jack Kerouac: prophet of the new romanticism.

Univ. of Kansas Pr. Nov. 1976. index. $10.50. LIT

An excellent work that assumes, and demonstrates, an engagement of all the previous scholarship on its subject and then transcends that body of information to convey new insight into Kerouac; it is informed by earlier treatments yet remains original. Well-written and continually rich and suggestive, the book demonstrates impressive knowledge. In order to define by contrast Kerouac's limitations and strengths, its coverage includes four writers (Salinger, Purdy, Knowles, Kesey) who "partook of the same vision." The book is quite fair, does not claim too much for Kerouac, and is eminently readable.—James J. Martine, Dept. of English, St. Bonaventure Univ., N.Y.

Keeley, Edmund. Cavafy's Alexandria: study of a myth in progress.

Harvard Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. 196p. LC 76-6997. ISBN 0-674-10430-7. $11.50. LIT

An absorbing exposition of Cavafy's poetry focusing on his central conception of Alexandria as metaphor, myth, and memory. Keeley, who has both translated Cavafy and published extensively on the Greek poet, has written more than a simple commentary. Rather he has explored Cavafy's poetic development through four decades, from his first use of the nonspecific city image in the 1890's to his late concern with Hellenic culture in its broadest, timeless sense. Keeley discusses in detail over 80 percent of the poems, including all the most noted ones, and interprets the poet's constant themes of homosexuality and the ancient-versus-modern Near East. Only the final chapter, "The Universal Perspective," seems weak, with few examples offered and those tenuous. Still, a stimulating synthesis, with insights to offer both the Cavafy scholar and the novice interested in the poet.—Mary George, Univ. of Michigan Lib., Ann Arbor

Kopper, Edward A., Jr. Lady Isabella Persse Gregory.

Twayne. (English Authors). Oct. 1976. bibliog. index. LC 76-24895. ISBN 0-8057-6658-8. $7.95. LIT

Working chronologically, Kopper skillfully blends biographical and historical information to present an objective, critical, and informative summary of Lady Gretory's life, her writings, and her role in the development of the Irish theater. He discusses her renderings of Irish folklore and mythology and describes the basis of her interest in the revival of the Gaelic language. He also examines the symbolism, characterization, and plots of her plays in an effort to accent the importance of her contributions to Irish literature. An excellent study, recommended for public and academic libraries.—Anthony Kelley, Protestant Sch. Board Lib. of Greater Montreal, Canada

Levine, George & David Leverenz, eds. Mindful Pleasures: essays on Thomas Pynchon.

Little. Nov. 1976. bibliog. ISBN 0-316-52230-9. $9.95; pap. ISBN 0-316-52231-7. $4.95. LIT

In celebrating Pynchon's disordered achievements, these essays often contradict one another—yet the intent behind all of them is to help the reader arrive at some understanding of Pynchon. Even the editors disagree. Levine feels that Pynchon's verbal and mythic virtuosity can suggest possibilities that we have not heretofore imagined; Leverenz, on the other hand, claims that while the distortions in Pynchon's language do mock any sense of structure, they also conversely imprison us in our perceptiveness, pointing us too at "the gray waste." Leverenz is obviously the more critical, but both want to make the reader aware of certain basic aspects of Pynchon's art: his use of language and his desire for a new framework in establishing communal feeling and identity. Four of the 12 essays pay particular attention to Gravity's Rainbow. The last essay, included as an appendix, is a biographical summary of the available material on this reclusive author. All of the essays are thought-provoking and well written, and are basically scholarly thematic readings that explore the puzzlements experiences in reading Pynchon.—Marilyn E. Mercer, Chatham Coll. Lib., Pittsburgh

Miller, Henry. Genius and Lust: a journey through the major writings of Henry Miller.

Grove, dist. by Random. Oct. 1976. 578p. ed. & intro. by Norman Mailer. $12.50. LIT

"Literary criticism has left a space around Henry Miller." This anthology of Miller's writings selected and introduced by Mailer—the collection's title tends to mislead—should make it possible to get some of that space filled in. Mailer is at the top of his form as he makes his razzle-dazzle case for one of his own literary masters. What we have is a bona fide marriage of true minds. There's something infectious about the gusto with which Miller cavorts in the sewers, and this more than generous collection gives him the opportunity to cavort for page after page. Miller emerges as some sort of funky latterday Whitman as he embraces all experience, especially heterosexual experience. The difference is that this is a Whitman with a sense of humor. The goatishness and general filthiness are almost sublime. At the same time Miller's nonstop "huge desire to drive forward into the seat of creation" inevitably leaves a sad and sour aftertaste. I'm not quite ready to rush out to buy The Rosy Crucifixion, but I'm prepared to think that Miller may be one of our century's important American writers—and I didn't think so before this collection came my way. Pound was right when he said of one of Miller's works, "Here is a dirty book worth reading."—Keith Cushman, Dept. of English, Univ. of North Carolina, Greensboro

Regueriro, Helen. The Limits of Imagination: Wordsworth, Yeats and Stevens.

Cornell Univ. Pr. Nov. 1976. 256p. index. LC 76-13663. ISBN 0-8014-0994-2. $10. LIT

Wordsworth, Yeats, and Stevens are held up like newly dusted mirrors to reflect the struggle of the imagination with itself, a conflict common to every poet. Regueiro shows that the act of creation is, for her target poets, a means of establishing completeness to their otherwise dispersed inner selves; at the same time, the creative act intensifies their lack of wholeness. Regueiro unravels the twists and knots of this vicious circle with a steady hand and keen sense of the poetic process. An important volume best suited for the more advanced student of poetry.—Jim Elledge, Mundelein Coll. Lib., Chicago

Ryan, Robert M. Keats: the religious sense.

Princeton Univ. Pr. Nov. 1976. 232p. bibliog. index. LC 76-3019. ISBN 0-691-06316-8. $14.50. LIT

This is an important and interesting study of an often neglected aspect of Keats's life: his religious beliefs. Beginning with an examination of the religious milieu of the early 19th Century, Ryan traces, primarily through Keats's letters and minor poetry, the influence that family, friends, and reading had on the poet's search for a humane and reasonable faith to replace the Christian religion he abandoned early in life. This search culminated when Keats, near the end of his life, formulated his own religious system of "soul-making," a system that accepted and justified the truth of evil and suffering in the world. Seen in the context of his religious speculations, many of Keats's critical remarks, such as those on "negative capability" and "the truth of imagination," take on new and fuller meanings. Highly recommended for university libraries.—Joseph J. Branin, Kent State Univ. Lib., Salem, Ohio

Scott, Nathan A., Jr. The Poetry of Civic Virtue: Eliot, Malraux, Auden.

Fortress. Oct. 1976. 192p. index. LC 76-007871. ISBN 0-8006-0483-0. $8.50. LIT

Scott takes exception to the view often held today by canonical commentators that modern literature is indifferent to the interdependence that characterizes human existence at the level of social reality. He finds substantial evidence that Eliot, Malraux, and Auden are indeed concerned with problems of human mutuality in a society that at once constrains culture, alienates the individual, and eviscerates communal faith. To discover concern for human mutuality in the poetry of these writers, however, will astonish few readers. Nor will readers be surprised to learn that these poets express their concerns without seeking shelter in the promise of a heavenly city, a pastoral paradise, or a faith in reason. And the expressions of Scott's specimen poets do not diminish the significance of the many writers who fail to manifest such concerns, who find the possibility for artistic creation only in an inner world, in alienation, or in withdrawal from society.—Walter Waring, Dept. of English, Kalamazoo Coll., Mich.

Shaw, W. David. Tennyson's Style.

Cornell Univ. Pr. Nov. 1976. 328p. bibliog. index. LC 76-12814. ISBN 0-8014-1021-5. $12.50. LIT

With a publishing record that extends for more than half a century and a breadth of subject that covers everything from agonizing self-examination to the proclamation of national truths, Tennyson is one of the most diverse of poets. That he is also a poet with a vast stylistic range makes an analysis of his style a large undertaking. Shaw has accomplished his task with informed ease. By concentrating on Tennyson's rhetorical figures, his grammar, his psychological and verbal strategies, and his logic, Shaw examines both the aims of the poet and the means he used to communicate his ideas. Shaw works through the canon in chronological order, taking as the driving force of Tennyson's writing his fascination with death and the impermanence it imposes on human efforts. Shaw avoids some of the more mechanistic approaches to stylistic analysis, and replaces them with a broad view of aesthetic theory. Recommended for academic libraries.—Stephen R. Rounds, Dept. of English, Kansai Univ. of Foreign Studies, Hirakata, Japan

Smith, Julian. Nevil Shute.

Twayne. (English Authors). 1976. 176p. bibliog. index. LC 76-8018. ISBN 0-8057-6664-2. $7.50. LIT

This readable account of the life and works of Shute will be of interest to those fans of Shute's popular books who wish to know more about him and the conditions under which he wrote and to those curious about the early days of aviation, particularly in England. In contrast to his peers during that period in England, Shute's commitment was to the middle class and its values. Smith's work adequately represents the life and thought of a pleasant, hard-working, ambitious popular novelist. It is a solid addition to an excellent series.—Ann Fallon, Dept. of English, Brandeis Univ., Waltham, Mass.

Steinbeck, John. The Acts of King Arthur and His Noble Knights.

Farrar. Oct. 1976. 274p. ISBN 0-374-10085-3. $10. MYTHOLOGY/LIT

The Arthurian legends fascinated Steinbeck. Not only were their themes and symbols in his work but they suffused his life. When he decided to retell Malory, Steinbeck or his agents visited every likely site and purchased or microfilmed every available document and study. This occupied him from at least 1956 to 1965, and he thought of it as the most important work he had ever undertaken. It was to be the "Steinbeck version" of the tales, interlarded with interpretative essays, and, perhaps, both the capstone to his career and the key to his beliefs. However, he never achieved a distinctive voice for his tales, and they remained enmired somewhere between Malory and The Once and Future King. Those included here offer evidence for his efforts, but it is the more than 70 exuberant or crestfallen letters excerpted here that offer strong evidence to the argument that Steinbeck's best writing was in his letters.—G. A. Masterton, Wayne State Univ. Libs., Detroit

Todd, William Mills, III. The Familiar Letter as a Literary Genre in the Age of Pushkin.

Princeton Univ. Pr. (Studies of the Russian Inst., Columbia Univ.). Nov. 1976. c.236p. bibliog. index. $15. LIT

Todd, in this thorough, perceptive, and gracefully written study, concentrates on the letters of members of Arzamas, a light-hearted literary society formed in 1815, which included, together with other important writers, the adolescent Pushkin. Todd first traces the epistolary tradition from Cicero, and then discusses why this particular period in Russian literature, with its salon culture and gentlemen-amateur literati, was conducive to the development of the familiar letter. He devotes the remaining chapters to a careful and discerning treatment of various aspects of the genre (such as content, style, organizational principles) and concludes by discussing the reasons for its decline around 1825. While this book will likely become the standard work on the subject, its interest is not limited to it. The study provides as well a good general introduction to Arzamas aesthetics and, with its generous quotes, vividly re-creates the intellectual life of the period.—Edythe C. Haber, Dept. of Germanic & Slavic Languages, Brandeis Univ., Waltham, Mass.

Wagner, Linda Welshimer, ed., intro., & notes. "Speaking Straight Ahead": interviews with William Carlos Williams.

New Directions, dist. by Lippincott. Nov. 1976. 128p. ISBN 0-8112-0620-3. $8.50; pap. ISBN 0-8112-0621-1. $2.95. PER NAR/LIT

Williams wrote his poems "for the pleasure of it." He talked, so we learn from this collection of three interviews and excerpts from a dozen others, "for the pleasure of it" also. His words are sure to prove a source of pleasure to all who will care to read them; and students of his poetry—they are likely to be the chief users of this book—will welcome the insights the interviews offer into Williams' art and his place in literary history. To read this book is to discover that he was the best critic and commentator his poems have ever had. Recommended for all libraries serving students of poetry.—Robert Regan, Dept. of English, Univ. of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia

Weiner, Dora B. & William R. Keylor. From Parnassus: essays in honor of Jacques Barzun.

Harper. Nov. 1976. 384p. illus. ISBN 0-06-014549-8. $15. LIT

Following a warm and personal memoir by Lionel Trilling are collected 26 original essays, ignited by passages in Barzun's many writings and all written with Barzun's own spirited eclecticism and meticulous attention to stylistic detail. Highlights include Peter Gay on the critic Eduard Hanslick, John Simon astutely demonstrating the intricate differences between translation and adaptation of foreign drama, intimately portraying "the ferment of reform and humanitarian activity" stimulated by three 18th-Century French champions of the handicapped, Fritz Stern's "Capitalism and the Cultural Historian," and Banesh Hoffmann's "Magic, Science and Evaluation." This tribute to one of the great thinkers of our time is recommended for academic and research collections: it's a lively, profound, and finely wrought Festschrift. —Marcia G. Fuchs, Free Lib. of Philadelphia

Yeazell, Ruth Bernard. Language and Knowledge in the Late Novels of Henry James.

Univ. of Chicago Pr. Nov. 1976. c.150p. index. LC 75-46538. ISBN 0-226-95094-8. $10. LIT

Like many recent books on James, this one breaks no new ground; it is an appreciation rather than an explanation. But then the appreciation is a legitimate critical genre, especially with a writer like this one. For James is an author whose works the reader can ignore, "translate . . . into the idiom of other, more comfortable fictions," or appreciate, as Yeazell does, in the understanding that James, especially in his late fictions, is meaningful because of his complexity and not in spite of it. And if one cannot appreciate the language of James's late novels, it is probably better to ignore them than to translate them into another idiom, because, as Yeazell states, "a language which moves so fluidly between fact and desire, between the truth of outer circumstance and the truth of inner need, offers us . . . consolations all its own." —David Kirby, Dept. of English, Florida State Univ., Tallahassee

MUSIC

Chang, Frederic Ming & Albert Faurot. Team Piano Repertoire: a manual of music for multiple players at one or more pianos.

Scarecrow. 1976. 185p. LC 76-14927. ISBN 0-8108-0937-0. $8. REF/MUSIC

This is a sequel to Faurot's Concert Piano Repertoire (LJ 7/74). The material is divided into categories according to the number of players and pianos required (two to four players, one to four pianos). Within each category the composers are listed alphabetically. There is a section on arrangements and transcriptions, and one on recordings of multiple-piano music. Length and difficulty of each original composition are indicated; brief, spirited descriptions give the prospective performers a good idea of what to expect. This book is indispensable in the piano teacher's studio and should be in each music reference collection.—Dika Newlin, Sch. of Fine & Performing Arts, Montclair State Coll., N.J.

Stone, Ruth M. & Frank J. Gillis. African Music and Oral Data: a catalog of field recordings, 1902-1975.

Indiana Univ. Pr. 1976. 412p. index. LC 75-31419. ISBN 0-253-30262-5. $17.50. FOLKLORE/MUSIC

This useful catalog of noncommercial collections of recorded African music and oral data provides summaries of the holdings of 550 individuals and institutions. It "is based almost entirely on data supplied through questionnaires" to the African Field Recordings Survey at Indiana University. Information about the size, availability, quality, period, country, culture group, and subject area of the recordings is given, and indexes follow in the last three categories. The material is computerized, and provision has been made for continual updating, and for the sale of computer printouts. The catalog will be helpful to students and scholars in the field. Recommended for subject collections.—Hillel Ausubel, New Rochelle P.L., N.Y.

Philosophy

Kekes, John. A Justification of Rationality.

State Univ. of New York Pr. 1976. 275p. index. LC 76-16069. ISBN 0-87395-365-8. $20. PHIL

This book, which is addressed both to the intelligent layman and the philosopher, argues that we can rationally justify beliefs and actions. It has four parts: a brief statement of the sceptical challenge; analyses of five (allegedly) defective replies thereto (replies by R. Carnap, G. E. Moore, N. Malcolm, K. R. Popper, and P. Winch); a theory of rationality; and an attempt to justify the theory by defending some a priori presuppositions of theories. Kekes writes clearly enough for the intelligent layman, who will benefit from this book. But the philosopher is less well served, for the book ignores important material on the subject, such as A. Naess' Scepticism (Humanities, 1968), P. Feyerabend's Against Method (Humanities, 1975), K. Lehrer's Knowledge (LJ 1/1/75), and the numerous articles by P. Unger that provide the basis for his impressive work, Ignorance: A Case for Scepticism (LJ 8/75). The book's price is exorbitant.—Robert Hoffman, Dept. of Philosophy, York Coll., CUNY

Smith, Huston. Forgotten Truth: the primordial tradition.

Harper. 1976. 192p. index. ISBN 0-06-013902-1. $7.95. PHIL

The author of The Religions of Man here rebels against modernity, materialistic evolutionary theory, and the whole scientific world view. He plunges us into the symbolism of the three-dimensional cross, psychic and celestial cosmological planes, the Infinite, the phenomenology of the soul's encounter with God, and, overall, the priority of spirit over matter—as Plato held, roseness is more real than roses. This "primordial tradition" is set forth unevenly with phrases and passages culled from the Bible, Western mysticism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Zen, and especially Sufism, and epiloged with Stanislav Grof's experiments with LSD.—Thomas C. Hunt, formerly with Center for Integrated Studies, Guatemala, C.A.

POETRY

Appleman, Philip. Open Doorways.

Norton. 1976. 96p. ISBN 0-393-04445-7. $7.95; pap. ISBN 0-393-09044-3. $2.95. POETRY

In "On the Beagle" probably the best poem in this collection, Appleman pictures a timid Darwin as a superb human intelligence confronting the brutal facts of nature. A similar confrontation of man with bestiality occurs in "Red Kite," in which the poet notes the pain of a fish hit by a stone, "so much like human pain I caught my breath." Most of the poems in this volume are constructed along a similar track, whether their intent is ironic (as in "Ten Definitions of Lifetime" and "Central Park: The Anatomy Lesson") or comic "For My Late Wife" and "The Girl Who Hated Threes") or rigorously analytic ("Alive"). Unfortunately, the writing throughout strikes one as mechanical—especially in "For Lucia and the Black Widows of Sperlonga," a poem occasioned by a wartime atrocity in Italy which seems lurid yet weirdly innocent of the spontaneity and resonance that make poetry memorable.—Rowe Portis, New York

Bonnefoy, Yves. Words in Stone (Pierre ecrite).

Univ. of Massachusetts Pr. 1976. 134p. bibliog. tr. by Susanna Lang. LC 75-32481. ISBN 0-87023-205-7. $8.50. POETRY

Bonnefoy is existential, surreal, and dark (shadowy, even: his poems are tough wisps). The language is not difficult, but the poems demand a kind of attention which, in this age of easy magazine verse, many people may be unwilling to give. Ideas seem reiterated to the point of dissipation, and this too might put some people off. But this is an elegant metaphysical poetry of quest. It is hard not to follow the piper—we have the French to help us along, and that makes the journey at once safer and more exciting. The reader's patience will be tested if he or she is looking for fireworks. If he gives in to the poems, however, he will find himself admiring the mysterious polished stones, their accreted hardness of meaning, their secrets: "You whom we name in a low voice among the branches,/ You who are murmured, who are kept dark,/ Who bring the eternal: moon, half open the gate/ And favor us who have no more day," ("A Stone").—Brian Swann, Dept. of Humanities, Cooper Union, New York

Feldman, Irving. Leaping Clear and Other Poems.

Viking. 1976. 72p. ISBN 0-670-41785-0. $5.95. POETRY

As the title suggests, Feldman wants to transcend ordinary, alienating experience. Set mostly in Brooklyn, his poems seek "the magical leisure of the lost seaspace," "the first/ Brooklyn of the senses, ardent and complete/ as it was in the setting out of the sabbath." Feldman inherits and extends the tradition of American city poets, like Whitman, who look for the beauty in the ugliness. Hart Crane comes quickly to mind. The obstacles to transcendence are immense, however: the poverty of the city, indifferent and cruel bureaucracies, the universal diaspora of peoples that characterizes our life, in a word, the sense of distance from the beginnings of things. These beginnings—"the wilderness," "the sabbath," "the lost sea-space"—are little more than notions, fragments of lost thought. Feldman brings to his perception of the city the quasi-religious force of Wordsworth, Hopkins, Hart Crane, Stevens. There is no echo of the Poundian and post-Poundian world, but that will not keep him from being an important poet to watch.—Roger Mitchell, Dept. of English, Indiana Univ., Bloomington

Lapointe, Paul-Marie. The Terror of the Snows: selected poems.

Univ. of Pittsburgh Pr. Oct. 1976. 76p. tr. from French by D. G. Jones. LC 76-6663. $7.95; pap. $2.95. POETRY

Lapointe's poetry wavers between surrealism of a French variety and an expansive Whitmanesque mode. The claim in the introduction that this voice, with its "exuberant delight in language," is "entirely new in Quebec literature," may well be true. But to the American reader the voice is too often merely irritating and excessive. In an early poem, for instance, we have the lushly mythological: "I have love packed in my thighs; love full-horned, old goat. They will have known the deep wound of the throbbing sex." In a later poem, we have the fetid: "in the midst of space a geranium/ lifts its mouth/ internal vulvas heavy with fruity roses." Fruity roses indeed. Perhaps the translation leaves something to be desired. It is hard to tell since there is no accompanying French text.—Brian Swann, Dept. of Humanities, Cooper Union, New York

Levine, Philip. The Names of the Lost.

Atheneum. 1976. 150p. $5.95. POETRY

Levine is a confessional poet possessed not so much by the mania to explain as by the mania to recall, however fragmentarily, the lost pieces of a painful experience. Thus the poems in The Names of the Lost move through a highly personal landscape in what seems to be an almost penitential act of memory, recording family, friends, the slums and pollution of Detroit, left-wing politics, Spain, Italy, and California. At times the factual outlines stand out clearly, though at others the privacies of Levine's experience remain private and allusive, even though the emotional contours are never obscure, nor, for that matter, varying. The strength of Levine's verse lies in its lean transparency and in the refusal to forget. However, not all of these poems earn the full intensity of their emotion, and some falter through a kind of overprotectiveness close to self-pity.—James Venit, formerly with Dept. of English, Columbia Univ.

Morgan, Robin. Lady of the Beasts.

Random. Oct. 1976. 99p. $8.95; pap. $3.95. POETRY

Morgan's first collection, Monster, was a powerful, passionate, angry commentary on modern woman and the society that creates and defines her. This, her second collection, is perhaps more mature, certainly less powerful, and not nearly as exciting as Monster; one finds very little of the strong feminist sensibility manifested in the earlier book. It is good poetry, however, sensitive and penetrating; two poems are outstanding, "The City of God" and, perhaps the best in the collection, "On the Watergate Women."—Audrey B. Eaglen, Cuyahoga County P.L., Cleveland

Rannit, Aleksis. Donum Estonicum: poems in translation.

Elizabeth Pr. Nov. 1976. 69p. bilng. ed. $16, pap. $8. POETRY

H. W. Tjalsma and Cid Corman collaborated with the author on these renderings. The book is elegantly designed, though expensive. The poems are lean, imagistic, well wrought, but more often than not they leave the reader with the feeling that they collapse before their conclusion. In a book where the poems are few and short, one expects every line to count. At times, the author does elate, as in "Jaan Oks": "Houses of nets, saunas and sheds/ let rain leak/ into the architecture/ of lapsed silence." But many of the poems are frankly trite.—Roberta Metz, New York

Salinas, Pedro. My Voice Because of You.

State Univ. of New York Pr. 1976. tr. & intro. by Willis Barnstone. pref. by Jorge Guillén. LC 74-14664. ISBN 0-87395-285-5. $10, microfiche ISBN 0-87395-287-1. POETRY

This translation of La voz a ti debida (1933), Salinas' fourth book of poetry, is a fortunate one. Not only does the translator effectively convey the sense and form of the original, but he intuits the persona behind and in the poems. The Salinas who derived his title from a verse by Garcilaso de la Vega, who admired the vibrant imagery of Góngora, who related to the surrealist mode (he referred to typewriter keys as "Underwood girls"), and who espoused the love of reality, is found here in a sequence of complex love poems. Salinas speaks with a metaphysical voice but neither the originals nor the translations are burdensome. The statements are direct, objective, communicative on the colloquial level, but heightened by the poet's depth of feeling.—Robert Lima, Dept. of Spanish & Comparative Literature, Pennsylvania State Univ., University Park

Political Science & International Affairs

Blaisdell, Thomas C., Jr. & others. The American Presidency in Political Cartoons: 1776–1976.

Peregrine Smith. Oct. 1976. 278p. illus., some color. LC 76-20303. ISBN 0-87905-027-6. pap. $9.95. GRAPHIC ARTS/POL SCI

This volume is the product of a joint project by history of art and political science students at Berkeley. The enlightening preface explains the historic roots of caricature within the Western world and the forces that shaped the emergence of political cartooning in the U.S. Multiple and fascinating cartoons have been selected to illustrate cartoonists' perceptions of American Presidents, their personalities, and the issues that absorbed their terms in office. The cartoons are presented with accompanying notes within chronological units designed to illustrate the ebbs and flows of presidential power. The notes are especially helpful for understanding how changes in technology and the print industry have influenced the style of newspaper cartooning. The work's weaknesses are surmountable: the introductory essay, "The Changing Presidency," is ill placed, for readers would have been better served if such information had been integrated with the text; and the title is misleading—the American presidency did not function until 13 years after the Declaration of Independence was signed.—Samuel H. Shannon, Dept. of History & Geography, Tennessee State Univ., Nashville

POLITICAL SCIENCE

Bliven, Bruce, Jr. Volunteers One and All.

Reader's Digest Pr., dist. by Crowell. Oct. 1976. 192p. ISBN 0-88349-058-7. $7.95. POL SCI

Bliven's short study is an examination of the dire prognoses which were voiced when the all-volunteer U.S. military force was established in 1973. He scrutinizes the size and mission of the armed services, particularly the army; the role of women in the services; and the racial problems, including the strenuous efforts of the army to combat racism. Bliven discusses briefly the function of the Secretary of Defense, the military budget, and he introduces some novel concepts about the duties and functions that the new military forces should undertake. He concludes that the volunteer force has been a success in spite of many pessimistic forecasts. This short volume does not present new material, but it serves as a brief summation, and avoids complicated socio-military terminology.—John Buechler, Univ. of Vermont Lib., Burlington

Brayman, Harold. The President Speaks Off the Record.

Dow Jones. Oct. 1976. bibliog. index. LC 76-17358. ISBN 0-87128-519-3. $15. POL SCI

This is a history of the Gridiron Club, the exclusive Washington press organization. Presidents from Grover Cleveland through Gerald Ford have attended annual dinners of the club. Speeches made at these dinners by the Presidents or by the opposition are supposedly off the record even though some items are leaked. The President not only speaks but "is often ribbed in songs and skits." With few exceptions, most of our Presidents have taken such ribbing well. Several never before published Gridiron speeches (among them some by Ford, Nixon, Kennedy, and Johnson) are included, as are speeches of some defeated candidates. Brayman presents some interesting insights into the relationship of the Presidents and the press over the years.—William C. Cooper, Laurens County P.L. System, S.C.

Corwin, Edward S. Presidential Power and the Constitution: essays.

Cornell Univ. Press. 1976. 185p. ed. & intro. by Richard Loss. bibliog. index. LC 75-38000. ISBN 0-8014-0982-9. $12.50. LAW/POL SCI

Corwin, one of the giants of our constitutional history, was a prolific scholar. A dozen of his essays on Presidential power, especially as it was exercised by recent chief executives (Wilson, Roosevelt, and Truman), are brought together here, and we are indebted to Loss for doing so. Corwin's concerns are the great issues of recent constitutionalism: pragmatic jurisprudence versus natural law, majority rule versus minority rights, congressional versus executive power. Regarding the last jurisdictional clash, Corwin deplored the President's "unhealthy dominance," took vigorous issue with "our high-flying prerogative men" who denied that Congress "has any effective power," and remained deeply troubled about the precedents for Presidential dictatorship in crisis times. Obviously, these essays were timely two years ago—when there appeared to be no limit to the raw and unchecked power of the executive. But the subject retains immediacy, since Presidential government seems a trend incapable of significant reversal. Corwin's essays sharpen our understanding of the process and its dangers for democratic society.—Milton Cantor, Dept. of History, Univ. of Massachusetts, Amherst

Cox, Arthur Macy. The Dynamics of Detente.

Norton. Oct. 1976. 256p. ISBN 0-393-05592-2. $8.95. INT AFFAIRS

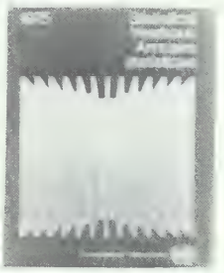
Cox's explicit purpose in this work is to augment detente—"the process of relaxing tensions . . . between the superpowers,"—in order to develop a rapport which can be utilized in terminating the arms race and reducing the nuclear stockpiles of the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. His book contains information on American and Soviet strategic weaponry and conventional forces, defense budgeting, and arms-control agreements. However, the impact of such information is lessened through excessive repetition: e.g., the missile and MIRV quotas settled on at Vladivostok are presented on six different occasions, and America's "triad of strategic forces" concept is explicated at least four times. Cox presents his ideas on a variety of other topics, including the Jackson–Schlesinger strategic concept, relations among nominally communist nations, and the potential use of Soviet–American economic relations to further detente. His views on these topics and on the central issues of the work are provocative, but they fail to appear as an integrated, compassable whole. The book's worth to students of detente and arms control is accordingly limited.—Stephen M. Lowry, Dept. of Political Science, St. Joseph's Coll., Philadelphia

Duggan, William Redman & John R. Civille. Tanzania and Nyerere: a study of "Ujamaa" and nationhood.

Orbis. Oct. 1976. 320p. bibliog. index. LC 76-18121. ISBN 0-88344-475-5. $10.95. POL SCI

Under the dynamic leadership of Julius

PUBLICATIONS FROM UNITED NATIONS



STATISTICAL YEARBOOK 1975

Important compilation of statistics from countries throughout the world covering a wide range of economic and social subjects, including: population, agriculture, manufacturing, construction, transport, trade, balance of payments, national income, education and culture. Improved statistical coverage has enabled the YEARBOOK to widen the territorial scope of many of its tables and to provide more comprehensive and accurate world and continental aggregates.

Order No.E/F.76.XVII.1
Clothbound $42.00

United Nations Publications
Room LX-2300
New York, N.Y. 10017
or
United Nations Publications
Palais des Nations
1211 Geneva 10, Switzerland

THE CROWELL CORNER

WET PAINT AND OTHER SIGNS OF LOVE
LOIS WYSE

WET PAINT AND OTHER SIGNS OF LOVE
Lois Wyse

"An exceptionally attractive year–round valentine for lovers who prefer to catch her/him in the wry. Personalized poetry, but too contemporary to be private; it is Wyse to share."
–Booklist

ISBN: 0-690-01030-3
LC: 75-25500
$7.95

T. Y. CROWELL
666 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10019

Nyerere, Tanzania has attempted to build a classless progressive socialist democracy. In this book Duggan traces the history of this struggle and considers what effects it may have on the rights of individuals. His analysis is rooted in the context of modern Catholic Church teaching. Although his treatment is sympathetic and optimistic, it relies too heavily on secondary sources, many of which are now outdated. Recommended only to libraries with theological orientations.—R. Kent Rasmussen, Dept. of History, UCLA

Emmerson, Donald K. Indonesia's Elite: political culture and cultural politics.

Cornell Univ. Pr. 1976. 303p. bibliog. index. LC 75-36525. ISBN 0-8014-0917-9. $14.50. INT AFFAIRS

Following an introductory survey of the historical development of Indonesian political institutions, this book focuses on the cultural background and the political, economic, social, and religious beliefs of a sampling of members of Indonesian national administrative and legislative institutions. The author finds politically significant differences in the social origins, religious backgrounds, and general outlooks of the two groups. While the core of the book for the specialist lies in the statistical data resulting from questionnaires, Emmerson has broadened the appeal of his work by providing biographical sketches of two representative members of the groups he surveyed. The work should appeal to political scientists for its methodology and theoretical implications, and to Indonesia specialists for the light it throws on modern Indonesian political elites.—Charles R. Bryant, Yale Univ. Lib.

Epstein, William. The Last Chance: nuclear proliferation and arms control.

Free Pr. 1976. 341p. index. LC 75-22765. ISBN 0-02-909661-8. $14.95. INT AFFAIRS

There are now six nuclear powers: U.S., U.S.S.R., Britain, France, China, and India. There are, according to Epstein, nine nations capable of becoming nuclear powers within one or two years: Argentina, Canada, West Germany, Israel, Italy, Japan, South Africa, Sweden, and Taiwan. This prospect, and the broader one of many more nuclear powers, impels Epstein to call the present situation "the last chance." He urges the powers to implement and improve the Nonproliferation Treaty. His arguments are cogent and clear if not always convincing. Epstein is rather hopeful about the powers and his 12-point plan for the future is a pious dream. Still, his work might convince others to share his dream.—Walter Darnell Jacobs, Dept. of Government & Politics, Univ. of Maryland, College Park

MEDICAL REPRINTS

Bieri: Clinical and Social Judgment: The Discrimination of Behavioral Information	271 pp.	12.50
Crow & Crow: Human Development and Learning	578 pp.	16.50
Divine: The Reluctant Belligerent	183 pp.	8.95
Garner: Uncertainty and Structure as Psychological Concepts	384 pp.	14.75
Jessor: Society, Personality, and Deviant Behavior	511 pp.	16.50

KRIEGER publishing co. inc.

Hill, Ivan, ed. The Ethical Basis of Economic Freedom.

American Viewpoint. 1976. 427p. LC 76-5728. ISBN 0-916152-02-2. $12.50. SOC SCI/POL SCI

Vietnam, Watergate, student unrest, corporate bribes, the lack of public accountability by big business, shifting moral codes, etc. have all combined to establish a new climate of question and doubt in the U.S. This book is an attempt to show how this climate developed and in which direction we are now headed. The selections are by noted experts (Leon Jaworski, Dr. Max Parrott, William Simon, Roy Rappaport, et al.); and they're detailed, documented essays on such subjects as honesty, ethics, corruption and its effects, and the current state of our basic economic and social freedoms. All university and large public libraries should have this book.—Gary Golden, Southern Illinois Univ. Lib., Carbondale

Özbudun, Ergun. Social Change and Political Participation in Turkey.

Princeton Univ. Pr. Nov. 1976. 256p. bibliog. index. LC 76-3013. ISBN 0-691-07580-8. $13.50. SOC SCI POL SCI

This work traces the emergence and development of the multiparty system in Turkey and the effects of recent urbanization and industrialization on the sociopolitical scene. Written in a terse and technical style and documented by a variety of recent statistical sources, the work is a valuable contribution to the English-language literature in the field of current Turkish sociology and political science.—Louis Mitler, Library of Congress

Solomon, Richard H. in collab. with Talbott W. Huey. A Revolution Is Not a Dinner Party: a feast of images of the Maoist transformation of China.

Anchor: Doubleday. 1976. 199p. illus. index. LC 74-25123. ISBN 0-385-09665-8. $9.95. SOC SCI/POL SCI

This brief study analyzes the fundamental and continuing transformation of China under Mao with both scholarly perception and journalistic readability. Attempting to penetrate what he calls American myths about China, Solomon focuses on topics such as eating, swimming, and words to examine political and social changes from a Chinese perspective. His explanation of Chinese language idioms such as "eating bitterness" and "paper tiger" strengthens his interpretations. The photographs on nearly every page are exceptionally well chosen and well integrated with the text. A solid, if too short, contribution to our understanding of contemporary China.—Elizabeth A. Teo, Moraine Valley Community Coll. Lib., Palos Hills, Ill.

Vali, Ferenc A. Politics of the Indian Ocean Region.

Free Pr. Nov. 1976. 288p. index. LC 76-8148. ISBN 0-02-933080-7. $14.95. INT AFFAIRS

The literature of international politics abounds with material focusing on the Atlantic region, but Vali breaks new ground with this exhaustive study of the struggles (political, diplomatic, economic, and military) centered on the Indian Ocean, especially since the British withdrawal. He first reviews the history of the area and the geopolitical and power settings, then presents detailed studies of countries ringing the Ocean, and concludes with chapters on sea-law problems and the global balance. The book is a fine source on both national policies and the position of the Indian Ocean from national, regional, and global perspectives. The careful research and extensive documentation will not surprise readers who are familiar with Vali's previous works on servitudes and on Hungary, Germany, and Turkey.—Clifton E. Wilson, Dept. of Government, Univ. of Arizona, Tucson

Psychology&Psychiatry

Bode, Janet. View from Another Closet: exploring bisexuality in women.

Hawthorn. Oct. 1976. 256p. bibliog. ISBN 0-8015-8313-6. $8.95. PSYCH

Bisexuality existed as a common practice long before the establishment of Judeo-Christian society. In modern times, the subject has been largely ignored, despite the proliferation of literature on the subject of homosexuality in specific and on human sexuality in general. Bode, who wrote this book because she feels that bisexuality is a viable lifestyle and that women should understand more about themselves, has investigated the subject as it relates to contemporary women. Utilizing extensive questionnaires and in-depth personal interviews, the author lets the women speak for themselves, sometimes transcribing entire conversations from tape to text. The women discuss their family backgrounds, love relationships, and self-concepts, among other topics. The result is a very supportive book for women trying to resolve their sexual conflicts. A very interesting section deals with attitudes of homo- and heterosexual women toward bisexuality. An extensive bibliography follows. Recommended as an excellent introduction for anyone interested in the topic.—Karen Goldman Bonner, formerly with San Francisco P.L.

If you can objectively and concisely evaluate books dealing with INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS, please write to the Political Science Editor, the Book Review. Be sure to specify your interests, e.g., terrorism, diplomacy, espionage, world order, military affairs.

Gaylin, Willard, M.D. Caring.
Knopf. Oct. 1976. bibliog. index. $8.95. PSYCH
Gaylin challenges the currently fashionable view of human nature as innately aggressive and evil. He contends that man's genetic capacity for loving and caring for others is equal to or greater than his aggressive "instinct." If people were not caring and loving the human race could not survive. He presents his case well, but without undue optimism. Caring is a refreshing antidote to all the doom-and-gloom sayers. It is well written, a pleasure to read, and, in addition, presents an excellent review of the psychoanalytic knowledge of child and adult development.—Dianne Kraft Kadish, Training Inst., National Psychological Assn. for Psychoanalysis, New York

Halpern, Howard. Cutting Loose: a guide to adult relationships with your parents.
S. & S. Oct. 1976. index. c. 256p. LC 76-17289. ISBN 0-671-22318-6. $7.95.
Hoffman, Bob. Getting Divorced from Mother & Dad: the discoveries of the Fischer-Hoffman process.
Dutton. Oct. 1976. pref. by Claudio Naranjo. LC 76-15378. ISBN 0-525-11328-2. $7.95.
PSYCH
Both of these books offer guidance to adults who are still struggling to free themselves from parental apron strings. Halpern believes that many adults are limited to habitual ways of thinking and reacting because their inner child wants praise and acceptance from the inner child of their parents. Using case histories, Halpern defines various parental types such as the Martyred Mother and the Despotic Daddy. He suggests ways in which the destructive song-and-dance routines between parents and their adult children can be changed into satisfying relationships. Halpern's insights will give readers a fresh perspective and new incentive to move on to complete maturity.

Hoffman believes that parents pass on their own negative love programming to their children. The Fischer-Hoffman Process, which Hoffman discovered during a powerful psychic experience, uses visualization and reenactment of childhood experiences to eliminate hostility and restore self-esteem. A spiritual guide helps participants through the Process. Only readers with a genuine belief in psychic phenomenon will accept this form of therapy.—Victoria K. Musmann, Glendale P.L., Calif.

Mehrabian, Albert. Public Places and Private Spaces: the psychology of work, play, and living environments.
Basic Bks. 1976. 354p. bibliog. index. LC 75-36775. ISBN 0-465-06776-X. $15.95.
SOC SCI/PSYCH
This is the first popularization of the rapidly growing field of environmental psychology, by one of the better known and more active researchers in the field. Aside from the author's obvious bias for his own research and theory, the book adequately represents the current status of theory, methods, and research findings in the field and can be recommended for the educated reader. The following are my main criticisms of Mehrabian's approach, criticisms which apply to this book as well: he appears to split people in two between cognition and affect; he assumes that a person's affective type carries across from the perceptual to the behavioral side of the organism; and he considers the environment as a setting for behavior and experience, rather than as a result of behavior and experience (he has a psychologist's rather than a designer's approach to environments).—Joseph B. Juhasz, Coll. of Environmental Design, Univ. of Colorado, Boulder

White, James D. Talking with a Child.
Macmillan. Nov. 1976. 261p. illus. ISBN 0-02-626570-2. $8.95. ED/PSYCH
The purpose of Talking with a Child is to share and expand upon childhood experiences in order to give children a chance to talk, not merely listen. Its goal is to supply and build vocabulary as well as make language experiences pleasant and fun. It is not written from a developmental point of view, like Piaget, but rather, it reflects the counsel of Haim Ginott as the author discusses development of skills leading children to more opportunities to be open, comfortable, and communicative. Inevitably this emphasis on verbal handling of situations spills over into the realm of child-rearing practices. The ample anecdotes, games, and examples illustrate each phase under discussion, which serves to enhance the book's readability. Geared toward families with

"This should be required reading for all those who think Rome was built by the helping professions."
—Psychology Today

At San Francisco's Delancey Street Foundation, "rehabilitating" ex-cons means an unconventional blend of communal living and the work ethic, social responsibility and the profit motive. Now a noted sociologist has written "a penetrating look at Delancy from the inside, a book as absorbing and entertaining as it is powerful."
—San Francisco Examiner & Chronicle

Sane Asylum

Inside the Delancey Street Foundation

Charles Hampden-Turner

"Psychologist/sociologist Hampden-Turner observed and participated in Delancey Street to find out how and why its program works, and conscientiously reports his findings."
—ALA Booklist

"Fascinating.... The author spent a year being favorably impressed by the Foundation, and so should any reader of this provocative book."
—Kirkus Reviews

Illustrated, $10.00

Order from your regular supplier or from:
San Francisco Book Company
2311 Fillmore Street San Francisco, CA 94115

limited verbal experience, it is also thoroughly useful for the middle-class family.—Hilda Slosberg, Free Lib. of Philadelphia

Parapsychology & Occultism

Copper, Arnold & Coralee Leon. Psychic Summer: a true account of a menacing experience on Fire Island.

Dial. Oct. 1976. 320p. ISBN 0-8037-7182-7. $7.95. PARAPSYCH

Copper, an interior designer, and three of his friends who were sharing a rented house on weekends at Fire Island decided one evening to try to contact the spirit world by using a homemade ouija board. They were immediately successful: a female entity calling herself Zena moved the glass they were using as a marker and told some interesting "facts" about her life and death by shipwreck in 1873 off Fire Island. Copper was never able to verify any of the dates or names mentioned, but he became obsessed with the idea of trying to help this unhappy ghost, especially when it seemed as though she was dominated by other evil spirits who communicated more often as the seances were continued. Before the end of the summer, more friends were involved in the sessions with the result that Zena's strange story was told on television by a well-known actor. This was evidently what she had wanted all along, for her final message to the four men was "Thank you my friends for telling truth releasing me. Now the world knows. Now I can rest."—Eleanor Touhey Smith, New York

Fuller, John G. The Ghost of Flight 401.

Berkley, dist. by Putnam. Oct. 1976. 328p. photogs. $8.95.

Stearn, Jess. A Matter of Immortality: dramatic evidence of survival.

Atheneum. 1976. 291p. LC 76-11543. ISBN 0-689-10721-8. $9.95. PARAPSYCH

Here are two new attempts at demonstrating the existence of life after death. Stearn's book is a collection of readings for and about the famous by a medium named Maria Moreno. Stearn insures reader interest by bringing in the spirits of Marilyn Monroe, Rudolf Valentino, Edgar Cayce, Arturo Toscanini and others. He employs the same novelistic writing style he used in many of his previous books, making for easy although not necessarily convincing reading. Little information comes out of the readings which is not easily found elsewhere.

Fuller's book describes an airplane crash in the Everglades and the supposed haunting of planes using parts salvaged from the wreckage. The author's treatment of his topic is highly uneven; he seems to know very little about manifestations of ghosts or parapsychology in general. This is most evident in what he accepts or rejects as factual material arising out of the use of mediums and ouija boards. Fuller is at his best in describing the actual events preceding the crash and its immediate aftermath as he builds up suspense and vividly re-creates the scene. He is at his worst when he attempts to document the hauntings or the alleged cover-up by the airline company. Also annoying is the amount of space devoted to quotes and paraphrases from his earlier works, which gives the book a definite padded quality. Neither book is convincing. We know what to expect of Stearn; Fuller's leaps of faith that pass for documentation mar his credibility.—Richard A. Nagler, Detroit P.L.

Steiger, Brad. Gods of Aquarius: UFOs and the transformation of man.

HBJ. Nov. 1976. 288p. illus. maps. index. ISBN 0-15-136415-X. $8.95. SCI/PARAPSYCH

In this book, which is similar in subject matter to Erich von Däniken's Miracles of the Gods (LJ 4/15/76), Steiger explores the thought that modern-day stories of UFO sightings may have the same source as religious visions: the collective unconscious. He interviews various people associated with cults and covens. Those who claim to have experienced UFO contact report that the extraterrestrials they encountered seem to share their own view that our world is pretty well messed up. Beyond this, the advice of these visitors is vague and little better than what we already have on Earth. The best feature of the book is the frequent mention of titles and addresses of difficult-to-locate UFOlogy publications and groups. Still, true believers will love it.—Vernon Martin, Hartford P.L., Conn.

Religion

Greeley, Andrew M. The Great Mysteries: an essential of catechism.

Crossroad: Seabury. 1976. 192p. bibliog. LC 76-13208. ISBN 0-8164-0309-0. $7.95; pap. ISBN 0-8164-2128-5. $3.95. REL

Greeley takes a new approach to catechetics, attempting to share the experience of Christian faith rather than to communicate abstract speculative knowledge. Such an attempt to relate the mysteries of faith to the positive and negative elements of human experience is laudable. But Greeley's theological treatment is less satisfactory. Most important, his account of the way in which the death and resurrection of Jesus is salvific is ambiguous. He seems inclined to view it as a revelation of the redeemed human situation, rather than as that which accomplishes redemption. But the latter is the more adequate statement of Christian belief.—Terrance Callan, Dept. of Theology, Xavier Univ., Cincinnati

McKenzie, John L. Light on the Gospels: a reader's guide.

Thomas Moore. 1976. 215p. ISBN 0-88347-065-9. $9.95. REL

Happily, McKenzie combines a lucid style of writing with penetrating insight. In the opening chapter he stresses the early Christian communities' understanding of the Gospels as containing the power of the Savior proclaimed by them: one who heard the Gospels was equal to one who had seen and heard Jesus, and to hear the Gospels made Jesus a present reality. After an excellent general introduction McKenzie considers the four Gospels in order. Introductions to each Gospel give a frame of reference for understanding its message and content. Each Gospel is divided into four sections, which is convenient for the reader and probably reflects the original composition of the book as a series of articles. McKenzie's work will have appeal to those wishing to acquire understanding of the Gospels on their own as well as to study groups.—R. MacDonald, Dept. of Theology, Mount Senario Coll., Ladysmith, Wis.

McNeill, John J., S. J. The Church and the Homosexual.

Sheed. 1976. 225p. LC 76-18844. ISBN 0-8362-0683-5. $10. SOC SCI/REL

McNeill is a Jesuit priest associated with Dignity, the national organization of gay Catholics. His book is a critical examination of traditional Catholic teaching about homosexuality and an attempt to redirect traditional Catholic pastoral practice. McNeill writes carefully from within the tradition he criticizes; with great difficulty he managed to receive the official imprimi potest of his Jesuit ecclesiastical superiors. McNeill first discusses church teachings about homosexuality based on Scripture, historical developments, and philosophy; this tradition is compared with findings of the social sciences and with the reflections of contemporary moral theologians and biblical scholars. McNeill then examines the positive contributions gay people make to the larger community; the freedom gay people can achieve from stereotyped sexual identity roles is seen as a valuable witness to heterosexuals. The book concludes by discussing the implications of a changed attitude toward homosexuality for church pastoral practice, sketching the relationship the church should develop with the emerging community of believing and practicing gay Catholics. Highly recommended for all libraries interested in an original and thoughtful examination of this important social issue.—Dennis Lampkowski, Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center Lib., New York

Stone, Merlin. When God Was a Woman.

Dial. Oct. 1976. 256p. maps. photogs. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-8037-6813-3. $7.95. HIST/REL

The author has set herself the very ambitious task of making her readers aware that "the image of Eve is not our image of woman" by compiling information on worship of a female deity which extends back to the Paleolithic period. Based on secondary sources and her travels to archaeological sites, she describes aspects of goddess worship in a wide range of areas, including Egypt, Sumer, Babylon, Anatolia, and Canaan, and its submergence and/or suppression by male-dominated religions, principally Judaism and Christianity. The strong point of the book is the author's respect for ancient cultures: she quite rightly emphasizes the prejudices involved when scholars refer to priestesses as "temple prostitutes" and assume that a woman-centered religion must be a "fertility cult." Unfortunately, the scope of the book is too broad. The range of time and space covered fairly boggles the mind, particularly without the aid of footnotes. The bibliography is quite good for laypersons who wish to read about ancient religions in more depth, but it is lacking in recent works by women who have wrestled with the image of Eve from within the context of the Judeo-Christian tradition.—Joan W. Gartland, Univ. of Detroit Lib.

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Bahr, Robert. The Virility Factor.
Putnam. Oct. 1976. 236p. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-399-11808-X. $7.95. BIOLOGY

This is a clearly written book by a writer who has taken the trouble to wade through the many contradictory research articles on the effects of the "male hormone"—testosterone—on sexual functioning, prostate cancer, and related subjects of interest to most people. Most of Bahr's generalizations seem carefully qualified, and this book makes a basic contribution to the layperson's knowledge about the functions of testosterone, estrogens, and related hormones. Bahr goes beyond the rather naive nature-nurture argument to explore the intricate interaction between genetics and social variables as they affect psychosexual orientation, sexual functioning, and other subjects. An informative glossary and a fairly thorough bibliography (the latter not quite up-to-date) are included for those wanting further information. Although the author contributes to the maintenance of some stereotypes (e.g., he equates masculinity with sexual virility), the book still has much to offer, and it is not difficult to distinguish Bahr's personal biases from his usually objective interpretation of scientific data.—Roger W. Libby, Inst. for Family Research & Education, Syracuse Univ., N.Y.

Leutscher, Alfred. Keeping Reptiles and Amphibians.
Scribners. 1976. 164p. illus. bibliog. index. LC 75-46103. ISBN 0-684-14656. $7.95. PETS

Although this is a very readable book, no one could successfully rear most turtles on the information given. Almost all turtles require special lighting when kept indoors, yet Leutscher tells us nothing about the kind of lighting required. Further, one of the species he recommends, Blanding's turtle, is so rare over most of its range that it should be considered endangered. A much better book on turtle care is Martha Reeves' The Total Turtle (Crowell, 1975). Leutscher's chapter on vivarium construction is particularly good. There is very little material available elsewhere on the care of amphibians and lizards, and the information he gives is most welcome. His comments on the care of snakes are also very good, but serious readers will also want to consult Carl Kauffeld's Snakes (LJ 1/15/69). Recommended with the above exceptions for children's and natural history collections.—Kenneth Groeppe, Watertown P.L., Mass.

Matson, Floyd W. The Idea of Man.
Delacorte 1976. 249p. index. LC 76-6146. ISBN 0-440-04038-8. $8.95; pap. $2.95. PSYCH/SCI

Is man a beast, a machine, or a creative being capable of unbounded continuous improvement of himself and all that is around him? This is the central issue of our time according to Matson's scholarly and fascinating review of the "nature" of the human as viewed by today's major social and behavioral science approaches. Most of the book is devoted to a refutation of the first two alternatives, the animal model and the machine model. Darwin, Freud, Lorenz and Tinbergen, Watson and Skinner, Parsons, and their many offshoots and permutations throughout the sciences come in for their share in establishing these modern credos and the resulting rationales for destruction, control, and manipulation of human beings by one another. But Matson sees another view of man on the ascendant: a view of man as a being with "indefinite perfectibility" who is self-responsible and capable of self-fulfillment and creativity, a new "radical humanism." An excellent book with broad implica-

Westminster Books for Young Readers Fall-1976

Focus on America and Americans

THE FIRE AND THE GLORY
Lafayette and America's Fight for Freedom by VIRGINIA OAKLEY BEAHRS. An action-packed account of the daring young French officer's American career. 10-12. Sept. 27. $8.95 (32592-0)

THE LONG STRUGGLE
The Story of American Labor by JIM HASKINS. A balanced and colorful survey of the labor movement from colonial times to the present. 12-15. Sept. 27. $7.50 (32602-1)

THE CHILD'S GIFTS
A Twelfth Night Tale by TOMAS BLANCO. Illustrated in 5 colors by IRENE DELANO. Brilliantly beautiful graphics illuminate this Puerto Rican classic – with text in both English and Spanish. 12 up. Sept. 27. $8.95 (32595-5)

TENNIS BUM MWAY
by MARGARET and GEORGE OGAN. High Interest/Low Reading Level novel about a chicano winner by the popular authors of Raceway Charger. 11-16. Sept. 27. $6.95 (32593-9)

SECRETS OF A SILENT STRANGER MWAY
by RUTH HALLMAN. A German teenage U-boat deserter is aided by an American boy in 1946. Thrilling High Interest/Low Reading Level fiction. 10-14. Sept. 27. $6.95 (32598-X)

JAGGER, THE DOG FROM ELSEWHERE
by ALEXANDER KEY. An exciting new fantasy by the author of Escape to Witch Mountain. 11-14. Sept. 27. $6.95 (32596-3)

THE CHRISTMAS COOKIE TREE
Written and illustrated in full color by RUTH HERSHEY IRION. This delightful Pennsylvania Dutch story is supplemented with cookie recipes and patterns. 5-8. Sept. 27. $6.95 (32586-6)

SCARLET ROYAL
by ANNE EMERY. Illustrated by MANNING deV. LEE. Reissue of a well-loved horse story by a popular writer. 10-14. Oct. 18. $6.50 (32604-8)

BUT I THOUGHT YOU REALLY LOVED ME
by EVELYN MINSHULL. A poignant and suspensful novel about a teenage girl faced with an unwanted pregnancy. 12 up. Oct. 18. $6.95 (32600-5)

THE UNSUITABLE BEHAVIOR OF AMERICA MARTIN
by LILLIAN POHLMANN. A vivid historical novel with an unusually compelling and modern central character – "Mer" Martin, who renounces Southern luxury for Western adventure and independence. 12-15. Oct. 18. $6.95 (32603-X)

Ms. VETERINARIAN
by MARY PRICE LEE. This valuable new career book for girls is filled with hard facts about the profession of animal medicine and related fields. Illus. 12-16. Oct. 18. $7.50 (32594-7)

THE ENDLESS CHAIN OF NATURE: EXPERIMENT AT HUBBARD BROOK
by PATRICIA PATTERSON STURGES. Students and experts work side by side to investigate a closed ecosystem in New Hampshire. Illus. 12-15. Oct. 18. $7.95 (32597-1)

HOW DO THEY PACKAGE IT?
by GEORGE SULLIVAN. An eye-opening look at the development of containers from cracker boxes to peanut butter tubes. Illus. 12-15. Nov. 22. $7.50 (32601-3)

UPDATE – REPORT ON THE PLANET EARTH
by JOEL N. SHURKIN. A highly readable account of new discoveries about the changing crust of our home planet. A Franklin Institute Book. Illus. 12-15. Nov. 22. $7.50 (32599-8)

THE WESTMINSTER PRESS 920 Witherspoon Bldg., Philadelphia, Pa. 19107. In Canada: McGraw-Hill Ryerson, Ltd. Illustration from The Christmas Cookie Tree. Please add Westminster's prefix, 0-664-, to get full ISBN's.

tions.—George Adelman, Neurosciences Research Program, M.I.T., Boston

Stanford, Ray. Socorro 'Saucer' in a Pentagon Pantry.

Blueapple Bks., P.O. Box 5694, Austin, Texas 78763. Oct. 1976. 211p. LC 76-13768. illus. ISBN 0-917092-00-7. $8.95. SCI

Stanford is to be commended for the thorough job of investigation that he did with the Socorro, N.M. UFO-landing case. He shows the reader in a fast-paced and readable text the time, effort, and expense involved in the conscientious investigation of a major UFO case. He also gives a good rendering of the interplay among the various forces and personnel he encountered during the investigation. Stanford pulls no punches. He names people, places, and dates, and clearly demonstrates, by way of personal experience, the U.S. government's efforts to confiscate physical evidence and to suppress UFO research. Also, Stanford demolishes the flimsy arguments put forward by Philip J. Klass in UFOs Explained (LJ 3/1/75) to account for the Socorro incident. Recommended.—Allen Benz, Aerial Phenomean Research Organization Lib., Tucson, Ariz.

Health & Medicine

Coleman, Vernon. Everything You Want To Know About Ageing.

Atheneum. 1976. 226p. illus. index. ISBN 0-86033-010-9. $9.95. HEALTH

The title of this book is a misnomer. Of the multiple facets of aging, all but one are rapidly dispensed with in the first 41 of the book's more than 200 pages. Having dealt summarily with housing, financial matters, and retirement, Coleman gets to his real subject: health and health care in older years. Here he does tell you everything you might want to know. In simple terms he discusses staying well, specific illnesses, care of the ill elderly, medications, equipment for the ill and infirm, surgical procedures, and hospitalization. Although most readers will be familiar with some of the material presented, and some will find it obvious (e.g., the section on accidents), the book does provide a comprehensive view of health care and offers useful suggestions for coping. Originally published in England, the book contains references and terms that may be puzzling to some readers.—Mary J. Mayer, New York City Dept. for the Aging

Crabbe, Buster. Energistics: the simple shape-up exercise plan.

Playboy, dist. by S. & S. 1976. 158p. illus. LC 76-16164. ISBN 0-87223-448-7. $8.95. HEALTH

This book does not differ significantly from other non-scientific exercise books. Crabbe's discussions of proper nutrition and of the relationship between exercise and diet in maintaining optimum health are meaningful and realistic. His chapters on water exercises and relaxation exercises are of particular interest. The major components of Crabbe's "Energistics" system are good, basic exercises that would be easy for the reader to follow. Unfortunately, the duck-waddle exercise is included without mention of its dangers, the sit-up technique is weak, and the entire system lacks sufficient cardiovascular exercise. Another weakness is Crabbe's reliance on personal observations rather than scientific evidence to support the need for taking vitamins as dietary supplements.—Kenneth Tillman, Dept. of Health & Physical Education, Trenton State Coll., N.J.

Mackarness, Richard. Eating Dangerously: the hidden hazards of food allergies.

HBJ. 1976. 180p. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-15-127265-4. $6.95. HEALTH

Mackarness begins with a long case study of Joanna, a mental patient whose symptoms were related to an allergic reaction to certain foods. Throughout the book he uses this one patient as proof of his theory that food allergies cause mental illness. Mackarness also asserts that food allergies are responsible for everything from ulcerative colitis and high blood pressure to hyperthyroidism and menstrual cramps. He offers no supporting clinical data. The book is poorly organized and repetitive. The recommended diet is high in protein and fat and low in carbohydrate, but the dangers of this kind of diet are ignored. Finally, the bibliography is composed primarily of materials published at least 15 years ago. Not recommended.—Alyce Bowers, Rockaway Township Free P.L., N.J.

Morrison, Robert J. The Contact Lens Book.

HRL Pub. Corp., Deer Hill Rd., Cornwall-on-Hudson, New York 12520. 1976. 160p. illus. index. $6.95. MED

Two-thirds of the text of this eminently practical and detailed book consists of a dialogue between the potential lens-wearer and the author. Unusual for this type of writing is the fact that both speakers sound like normal human beings. In fact, the whole book is written in a clear and understandable style. Morrison discusses who should wear contact lenses, the period of adaptation, differences between hard and soft lenses, care and handling (regular examinations are emphasized), and various types of lens formats and combinations, both those now in use and those undergoing research. The remainder of the book consists of a helpful glossary, instructions on wear and care for hard and soft lenses, cost information, and an index. The Contact Lens Book should be in most public libraries.—William K. Beatty, Northwestern Univ. Med. Sch., Chicago

Natural History & Zoology

Goodwin, Derek. Crows of the World.

Cornell Univ. Pr. Nov. 1976. 352p. illus., some color by Robert Gillmor. illus. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-8014-1057-6. $28.50. ZOOLOGY

This is the first comprehensive monograph on this bird family. The bulk of the book consists of detailed species accounts covering description, identification, distribution, feeding, behavior, nesting, voice, and references for every corvid species in the world. Lengthy introductory sections discuss nomenclature, adaptive radiation, plumage, and behavior for the group as a whole. Maps show each bird's range. The line drawings and three color plates are good. A minor fault is the lack of both body and egg measurements. Goodwin's thorough, well-documented study should be of interest to those with advanced ornithological interests. Highly recommended for large public and academic libraries.—Henry T. Armistead, Thomas Jefferson Univ. Lib., Philadelphia

Line, Les & Franklin Russell, eds. The Audubon Society Book of Wild Birds.

Abrams. Oct. 1976. 292p. color photogs. LC 76-17306. ISBN 0-8109-0661-9. $35. PHOTOG/NAT HIST

This book, largely the creation of Audubon magazine, should succeed in bringing Audubon's superb photographic and illustrative material to the attention of many nonsubscribers. Areas which deserve criticism are the price and the enlargement of some of the most spectacular photos to cover two pages, which is like folding a Rembrandt down the middle. All kinds of birds and areas of the world are represented in 200 color photographs, the work of some 70 photographers. This is a large, plush coffee-table item, but the quality of both text and illustrations surpasses most of its genre. Popular in orientation, the text still contains much of substance. For medium- and large-sized public libraries.—Henry T. Armistead, Thomas Jefferson Univ. Lib., Philadelphia

Technology

Behrman, Daniel. Solar Energy: the awakening science.

Little. Oct. 1976. 480p. photogs. by Madeleine de Sinety. index. ISBN 0-316-08771-8. $12.50. ENVIRONMENT/TECH

Journalist Behrman interviews scientists and inventors in America, Europe, and Asia to report on the "conflicting verdicts and forecasts" that surround solar energy. He hints that solar energy may benefit as much from independent, "backyard" inventors and others advocating intermediate technology as from the industrial-engineering approach of NASA and ERDA. Yet Behrman is observer, not arbitrator, and he uses his fine journalistic talents to allow the experts to "explain" their work. This lengthy study of developments in flat-collector and photovoltaic systems should interest scientists and laymen. Strongly recommended.—Frank D. Doble Jr., Onondaga Community Coll. Lib., Syracuse, N.Y.

Hooper, Meredith. Everyday Inventions.

Taplinger. 1976. 128p. illus. index. LC 76-5624. ISBN 0-8008-2544-6. $7.95.

Stein, Ralph. The Great Inventions.

Ridge Pr. Bk. pub. by Playboy, dist. by S. & S. Oct. 1976. 252p. illus., some color. index. LC 76-12484. ISBN 0-87223-444-4. $24.95. HIST/TECH

Interested in the origin of nails, chewing gum, or the zipper? The invention and development of these and 30 other common items are each sketched in two- to six-page chapters in Hooper's book. The light and informal style and the abundance of photographs, drawings, and cartoons make this book an attractive selection for both school and public libraries. Stein's work is also informal, but it takes a different approach to the history of inventions. The topics of steam, electricity, wheels, aircraft, and photography are developed more fully in 20- to 40-page essays. Each of the inventions associated with these topics is discussed in terms of its social and economic implications. The hundreds of well-chosen illustrations make this book a good candidate for browsing collections.—Robert Greene, Kennesaw Junior Coll. Lib., Marietta, Ga.

Social Science

Francis, E. K. Interethnic Relations: an essay in sociological theory.

Elsevier. 1976. 432p. bibliog. index. LC 75-8271. ISBN 0-444-99011-9. $22.50. SOC SCI

After decades of work, the author of the well-received Ethnos und Demos has published his magnum opus. Reviewing classic case studies, Francis examines the nature and political saliency of ethnicity in societies ranging from the acephalous Nuer to the colonial empires of 19th-Century Africa. Analyzing the evidence of sociologists, political scientists, anthropologists, and historians, he arrives at a number of empirical generalizations and definitions. These are neatly restated at the work's end as an "outline of a theory" of interethnic relations. On the whole, the book is clearly reasoned and admirably structured. Francis' rigorous method seems equally well adapted to analyzing a well-defined "primary" ethnic group such as the American Mennonites as to dissecting such complex, dynamic problems as apartheid and assimilation. Interethnic Relations is a synthetic, interdisciplinary work that should be perused by social scientists interested in ethnic studies, as the propositions offered here will be debated for some time.—Christine M. Roysdon, Lehigh Univ. Lib., Bethelehme, Pa.

Impact ERA: limitations and possibilities.

Les Femmes. 1976. 287p. ed. by ERA Project. index. LC 76-4908. ISBN 0-89087-919-2. pap. $4.95. POL SCI/SOC SCI

In this excellent volume 20 well-known scholars representing the fields of law, political science, economics, sociology, and psychology bring their expertise to bear on the critical issues of the Equal Rights Amendment. Underlying the essays is the premise that the ERA is a much-needed mandate for both social and legal change. Given that basic consensus, the essays explore the ERA's long-range possibilities for promoting constructive change, as well as the more immediate obstacles to effective implementation of the amendment. It becomes increasingly clear from the well-documented discussions that "ratification of the ERA will have both tangible and symbolic effects—neither of which can be entirely predicted." But insofar as it is possible the contributors to this volume have done an admirable job in predicting objectively the societal changes most likely to result from the amendment—provided that the veil of fear surrounding the controversial ERA is eventually lifted. Indeed, the book's major goal is to put to rest certain fears about the ERA, and a careful reading of these essays should certainly dispel much unwarranted anxiety on the subject.—Katharine Scott, formerly with "Library Journal"

Johnston, Basil. Ojibway Heritage.

Columbia Univ. Pr. 1976. 192p. illus. ISBN 0-231-04168-3. $11.95. FOLKLORE

This compilation of the basic beliefs, ideals, values, and ceremonies of a large North American native group is a beautiful and sacred document. Johnston, who himself is Ojibway, here records and explains many facets of the rich Ojibway heritage from the oral tradition, including the concept of Kitche-Manitou (Great Spirit), Father Sun, Mother Earth, balance of nature, interrelationship of plants and animals (including humans), the course of an individual's life (both physical and spiritual), the importance of seeking and fulfilling one's own "vision," and Ojibway rituals. The wisdom of many of these stories may be understood by humans of all ages. These insightful views of life and its meanings should be read and reread by those seeking a better understanding of American Indians and themselves. Recommended for most libraries.—Leo E. Oliva, Dept. of History, Fort Hays Kansas State Coll.

Lewis, Linda Rannells. Birthdays Past and Present: their delights and disappointments, past and present, worldly, astrological, and infamous.

Atlantic: Little. Oct. 1976. 235p. illus. ISBN 0-316-52337-2. $10. SOC SCI

The subtitle indicates the scope of this birthday medley composed by the author from material scanned at the London Library and the Boston Atheneum and from memories of family and friends, and enhanced by David Frampton's woodcuts. Dipping into social history, psychology, sociology, anthropology, she also considers the feelings of children looking forward to their day, and of the elderly who prefer to forget it; the birthdays of the great (Cleopatra, Charles II, Franklin Delano Roosevelt); Freud's comment on gift giving; Eeyore's pleasure with his unexpected gifts. There is a skeptically objective chapter on astrology, and a calendar of famous personages' birthdays. Historical and personal anecdotes, excerpts of prose and poetry are skillfully wrought into a readable whole.—Marian Petrow, formerly at Queens Borough P.L., New York

Ludwig, Jack. The Great American Spectaculars: Mardi Gras, the Kentucky Derby, and other days of celebration.

Doubleday. Oct. 1976. illus. ISBN 0-385-06670-8. $7.95. SOC SCI

Shades of Hunter Thompson's gonzo

How Washington plays political football with billions appropriated for life-saving research

HEARTBEAT

The Politics of Health Research

by NATALIE DAVIS SPINGARN

"An uncommonly lucid account of Big Health and Big Politics. ... Slashes in National Institutes of Health training budgets and the sudden elimination of training grants ... are still shaking the biomedical community.... Natalie Spingarn focuses on the National Heart and Lung Institute to illuminate her points. One can only hope that her excellent reporting will reach legislators and a concerned public." —Kirkus Reviews

0-8831-108-3 • $9.95

ROBERT B. LUCE, INC.

Distributed by David McKay, Inc.

LIPPINCOTT

"A revolutionary therapy."*

STUTTERING SOLVED

Martin F. Schwartz, Ph.D.

"Schwartz maintains that stuttering is a habit that can be eliminated through stimulus response learning." —*Library Journal."Dr. Schwartz provides a gentle, absorbing combination of case history and description of method in a way designed to reassure not only the stutterer but also his family, friends, teachers and co-workers ... His research (and his ostensible 91% success rate) appears to be conclusive."

—The Kirkus Reviews

LC 75-42456

ISBN 0-397-01134-2 $7.95

J. B. Lippincott Company

East Washington Square

Philadelphia, Pa. 19105

Library Journal is pleased to announce the publication of

LJ SPECIAL REPORTS

The LJ Special Reports, to be published throughout the year, will be a compilation of reports on topics of immediate interest and importance to librarians throughout the country. In the library field, where so many changes have occurred recently, yesterday's plans and assumptions must also change. The problems of library funding, the energy crisis, the evolution of the local library into a "community information" center, the response of the academic library to the new demands of higher education—all these factors and more require innovative thinking and planning now for libraries of the future.

In order to keep you aware and informed about current crucial issues affecting the future of the library, LJ will seek out experts in the field to contribute their thoughts, ideas, and experiences in up-to-the-minute articles which will comprise the LJ Special Reports.

The first report in the series will be Library Space Planning and will present the thinking of some 20 architects, librarians, and library consultants on the pressing issues which face library planners today: energy conservation; new technology; cooperative activities; compact shelving; decentralization of libraries; site selection, etc. The scheduled publication date of Library Space Planning is July 15.

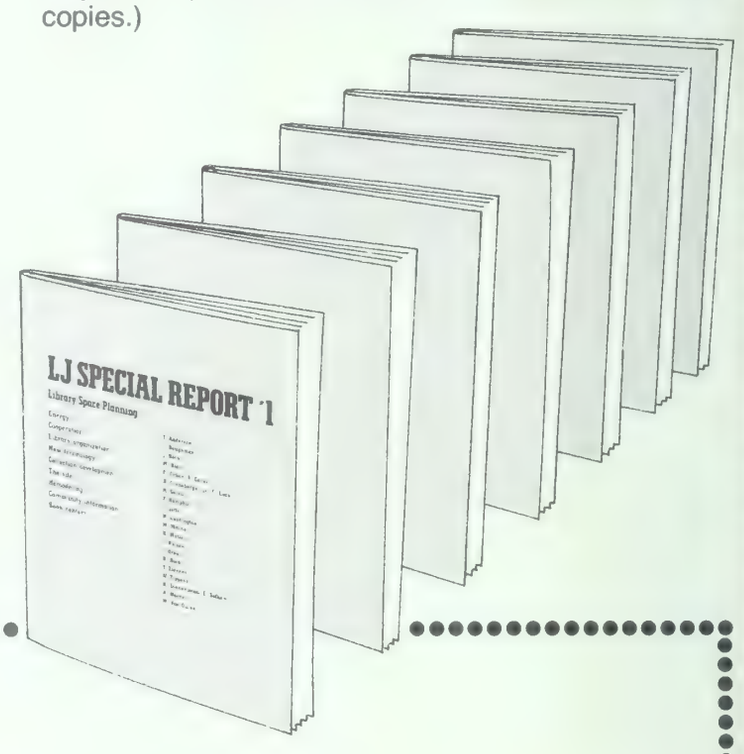
In order to reserve your copy of LJ Special Report #1 —Library Space Planning, kindly fill out the attached coupon and return it to us. The cost per report is $5.00. To save money, send cash with order and the cost will be only $3.95. (Discounts available on orders of 10 or more copies.)



LJ Special Report #1
Library Space Planning
(80 pages, 8¼ x 11¼ format; paperbound)

Please send me_____ copies @ $5.00 each. Total $_____.
Please send me_____ copies @ $3.95 each. Amount enclosed $_____.
Send quantity discount price on_____ copies. (Quantity discount on order of 10 or more copies.)

Name _____

Library _____

Address _____

_____
(Zip Code)

Return to: Ed Martin, Circulation Department
R.R. Bowker Company
1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10036

journalism hang over this erratic account of spectaculars held regularly despite war and internal strife: Kentucky Derby, Indianapolis 500, Democratic and Republican nominating conventions, Rose Bowl and Parade, and Mardi Gras. The focus is on the people who participate and observe, the regulars and the first-timers, their wonder at being there and sometimes their oblivion at what is actually happening. This approach holds for some of the spectacles, but an attempt at occasional profundity falls flat, making for a disunified whole with no overall conclusions. The descriptions of the crowds, however, are sometimes worth the price of admission.—Gloria Gehrman, Moscow-Latah County Lib. System, Idaho

Rabinowitz, Dorothy. New Lives: survivors of the Holocaust living in America.

Knopf. Oct. 1976. LC 76-13709. ISBN 0-394-48573-4. $8.95. HIST/SOC SCI

About 92,000 European Jews who survived the Holocaust found new lives in the United States; Rabinowitz interviewed 108 of them. In her book, she reports on 15 lives only. The common denominator is the extreme conditions which these people endured in the death camps and the incredible ways by which they were saved or rescued. Understandably, they have difficulty adjusting to the typical American way of life: the talk of dieting, the easily hurt feelings. But each treasures above all else the freedom they find, the generosity of spirit. Surprisingly, there is little hate for Germans, but some resentment toward parents who were not fast enough in leaving Europe or not aggressive enough in getting their child to safety. The book is loosely built around the framework of the Nazi hunts: several of the survivors were witnesses or otherwise interested either in the trial of Hermine Braunsteiner of Maidaneck who had married an American and was finally deported from America in 1972, the Nuremberg Trials, or the Eichmann Case in Jerusalem. All felt that it was their duty to the dead to see that these people were justly punished and all were alarmed at the slowness of court procedures. There is a marginal discussion on the subject of resistance as it has been presented by Bruno Bettelheim and Hannah Arndt. In its sum, Rabinowitz's book makes a welcome contribution to the Holocaust literature.—Gerda Haas, Bates Coll. Lib., Lewiston, Me.

Rich, Adrienne. Of Woman Born: motherhood as experience and institution.

Norton. Oct. 1976. 320p. ISBN 0-393-08750-6. $8.95. PER NAR/SOC SCI

Adrienne Rich writes to recapture and reaffirm woman's unique and crucial role. Because from prehistory men have feared woman's power to reproduce the species they have used the weapons of science, economics, and theology to create the institution of motherhood, which deforms the experience and ensures male control of wives and offspring. The book is an amalgam of the scholarly and the personal. Rich draws on history, prehistory, art, artifact, and literature; she identifies and evaluates sources. There is a good chapter on the historically recent male unsurpation of obstetrics. But the book's power comes from the inclusion of passages from her own journals, which transcribe—with the painful accuracy of a professional poet—the emotional tensions of motherhood as most women now experience it. A challenging book: one to think about rather than to read quickly for polemics.—Sally Mitchell, Milwaukee, Wis.

Seifer, Nancy. Nobody Speaks for Me! working class women talk about their lives as activists, leaders and fighters.

S. & S. 1976. 278p. ISBN 0-671-22308-9. $9.95. SOC SCI

Seifer has compiled an interesting and thorough oral history of feminism among working-class women. The ten women represented in this book indicate the concerns and attitudes of the majority of working-class women, a group not often heard from in the literature of the women's movement. They express their opinions on a wide range of subjects—education, child care, equality of opportunity and pay, labor unions. This is a useful and thought-provoking addition to collections where there is a demand for oral history and/or feminism.—Donna J. McColman, Charles Taylor Memorial Lib., Hampton, Va.

Silverstone, Barbara & Helen Kandel Hyman. You and Your Aging Parent: a guide for the perplexed families of the elderly.

Pantheon. Nov. 1976. index. ISBN 0-394-49948-4. $10. PSYCH/SOC SCI

The vast majority of today's middle-aged is a hard-pressed group, coping with both their children's and their parents' problems of everyday living. For these beleaguered millions, here is essential information and expert guidance on one intergenerational crunch: caring for aging and aged parents. The book's first half looks at the variety of emotional climates existing between adult children and their parents and offers valuable advice on how to carry out responsibility without emotional entrapment on both sides. The latter half deals with the critical problem of determining the care needed by an aged parent and obtaining it. Various financial help, health care services, and living options are described and nearly 100 pages are devoted to listing specific resource agencies. Also included is a useful checklist to assess nursing homes and home care services. All in all, a practical and much needed book.—Mary J. Mayer, New York City Dept. for the Aging

Von Hagen, Victor Wolfgang. The Germanic People in America.

Univ. of Oklahoma Pr. 1976. 404p. illus. maps. bibliog. index. LC 75-15970. ISBN 0-8061-1317-0. $12.50. HIST/SOC SCI

Von Hagen chronicles the accomplishments and contributions of people of Germanic origin to the New World. He tells us that Germans were always the first to perform some noble accomplishment: a German printed the first book in America; a German found the first cure for syphilis. People of other nationalities only make contributions in that they recognize and foster the superior nature of the Germans. Even the Hessian soldiers were nobler than their British counterparts during the American Revolution. This kind of myopic history which glorifies the abilities of one group to the denigration of others does not deserve serious consideration, particularly without footnotes.—Andrea Caron Kempf, Univ. of Northern Colorado Lib., Greeley

Environmental Studies

DiCerto, Joseph J. The Electric Wishing Well: the solution to the energy crisis.

Macmillan. Nov. 1976. 384p. illus. bibliog. index. ISBN 0-02-531320-7. $12.95. ENVIRONMENT

DiCerto's message is clear: the world is in trouble if it relies on traditional energy sources and conversion techniques to solve future energy problems. He proposes, and provides good arguments for, the use of electricity as the sole source to power air conditioners, heaters, tools for home and industry, and even all modes of surface transportation. Although the writing is occasionally uneven, the book is an excellent overview of the methods that can be used to generate electricity. DiCerto

"Well-documented... simply stated... alarming"*

No World Without End

THE NEW THREATS TO OUR BIOSPHERE

By KATHERINE & PETER MONTAGUE

"In the footsteps of Barry Commoner and the Club of Rome come the Montagues.... [They discuss] the dangers of industrial chemicals... now present in air, water, soil, and food....The Montagues have drawn on the work of dozens of environmental scientists, and this well-documented summing-up... should inspire readers to demand more antipollution effort from government, community, and themselves."—Library Journal. "A book which will grip our conscience and challenge our social morality."—RALPH NADER.
Index, bibliog., notes. $10.00

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS
200 Madison Ave., N. Y. 10016

includes a balanced treatment of the nuclear power-generation controversy, as well as chapters on power generation from the tides, the earth's thermal gradients, the sun, and the wind. The bibliography, classified by subject, is further grouped by technical difficulty so that the reader can refer to sources at his/her level of expertise. More than 100 figures help to illustrate the author's points. Recommended.—Richard J. Peppin, Science Applications, Inc., McLean, Va.

Kalter, Robert J. & William A. Vogely, ed. & intro. Energy Supply and Government Policy.

Cornell Univ. Pr. Nov. 1976. 392p. index. LC 76-15836. ISBN 0-8014-0966-7. $18.50.
PUBLIC ADMIN/ENVIRONMENT

A worthwhile, if perhaps a bit scholarly, addition to the growing literature on energy problems, policies, and sources. A wide range of topics is covered here, including the role of various fuels, taxing and regulating policies, and environmental considerations. Each chapter is contributed by a specialist in the field, and herein lies one of the book's main strengths. Thus, the perspective from chapter to chapter changes not only with the subject but also with the author's personal opinions. Although the writing style also varies (from bright to yawning), this work can be useful to the limited audience able to benefit by it.—Daniel La Rossa, Systems Management Engineering, South Huntington, N.Y.

Law & Criminology

Elzinga, Kenneth G. & William Breit. The Antitrust Penalties: a study in law and economics.

Yale Univ. Pr. Oct. 1976. 153p. index. LC 75-43316. ISBN 0-300-01999-8. $10. ECON/LAW

The 1974 Antitrust Procedures and Penalties Act brought the first major changes in antitrust penalties since 1890. Elzinga and Breit have surveyed the relevant historical evidence and economic theory and conclude that the changes should have been even more dramatic. They argue that the punitive and deterrent effects of sizable fines alone are more likely to achieve the increases in economic efficiency desired from antitrust; our present system of fines combined with imprisonment and compensation for private damages is simply too cumbersome and confusing to be efficient. The authors argue essentially for an abandonment of the principle of compensation of victims of monopoly power, at a time when such compensation is just now gaining popularity for the so-called "street crimes." Although intended for a professional audience, Breit and Elzinga present a controversial viewpoint on an important public issue.—Robert J. Caswell, Dept. of Economics, Ohio State Univ., Columbus

Suitably qualified reviewers are needed to briefly and incisively assess new titles in LAW. Please write to the Law Editor, the Book Review.

Henderson, Bruce & Sam Summerlin. The Super Sleuths.

Macmillan. Nov. 1976. 288p. LC 76-7445. ISBN 0-02-550950-0. $8.95. CRIME

Super Sleuths examines cases from the files of 13 internationally known detectives. Each describes his most difficult case and details the methods used during investigation. Crimes committed by such well-known figures as Adolf Eichmann and Richard Speck are examined; however, the majority of criminals discussed achieved only regional notoriety. Murder, especially by psychopaths who kill for no apparent motive, ranks high on many of these investigators' "most difficult" lists. Many of the detectives recommend capital punishment. The authors do not present the (possibly dissenting) views of the remainder. A marginal acquisition for true crime collections.—Saul J. Amdursky, Albion P.L., Mich.

Keane, Christopher. The Hunter: the life of "Papa" Ralph Thorson, modern-day bounty hunter.

Arbor House, dist. by Dutton. 1976. 290p. LC 76-8644. ISBN 0-87795-135-7. $8.95.
BIOG/CRIME

Thorson is a throwback to earlier times: an independent operative who works for bail bondsmen, capturing fugitives who have jumped their bail. Thorson is a big man of large appetites who drinks and smokes too heavily and is dedicated to astrology. Keane relates this while describing several of "Papa" Thorson's adventures, which include those where Thorson's own life was on the line and others that were in the realm of black humor. The writing style is mediocre, but this type of book has its readership.—Saul J. Amdursky, Albion P.L., Mich.

Ross, Philip. The Bribe.

Harper. 1976. 196p. LC 75-25063. ISBN 0-06-013568-8. $8.95. GOVT/CRIME

A young New Jersey politician offers himself as the target in a bribery conspiracy case. Unfortunately, the author is Mayor Burt Ross's brother so the hero comes across as bigger than life and twice as dazzling. The embellishments make Ross less believable as a person, but the horror of his situation comes across well—from his initial attempts to gain support for his plan, through the harassment by political foes and bribe givers, to the agony of living incognito and being subjected to round-the-clock surveillance. Although dealing with a relatively minor case in the annals of organized crime, this book is unique because it delves into the personality and psyche of the innocent party. A worthwhile addition to collections specializing in material on crime and criminals and law enforcement.—Susan S. DiMattia, Commack P.L., N.Y.

Thompson, Thomas. Blood and Money.

Doubleday. 1976. 340p. LC 75-36632. ISBN 0-385-09685-2. $10.95. CRIME

The high society of Houston's ultra rich is the setting for a spellbinding account of mysterious death and the bizarre consequences set in motion by the murderous grudge it produced. Joan Robinson Hill, the only child of a millionaire oilman, died suddenly at age 38, from unknown causes, while apparently in the full bloom of health. Her husband, a plastic surgeon, was indicted and charged with "murder by omission." Following a mistrial, in 1971, he was slain by a "contract" killer. These are the bare bones of a haunting, tragic tale wherein the seeming villain of the piece becomes a victim and the victim is transformed into villain. The book is a meticulous examination of a crime, its principal characters and the judicial process which attempted to cope with it. A variegated, brilliantly woven documentary.—Gregor A. Preston, Pennsylvania State Univ. Libs., University Park

West, Luther C. They Call It Justice: command influence and the court-martial system.

Viking. Nov. 1976. 320p. ISBN 0-670-69907-1. $14.95. LAW

West, a former career soldier and regular Army judge advocate, examines the military's court-martial system. He emphasizes the activities of the commanding officer of the court-martial, i.e., the convening authority. West argues that this type of officer frequently exercises police, judicial and/or military functions to unduly influence decisions in court-martial trials. The author also indicates that the reforms of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (1951) have been subverted by military commanders for almost 20 years. West devotes approximately one-half of the book to cases he argued involving command influence. In addition, several chapters examine the issue of command influence in the My Lai military trials. West is a trial attorney and his special perspective on the maladministration of military justice is the book's best feature. A useful book on the military justice system.—Steven Puro, Dept. of Political Science, St. Louis Univ.

SPORTS & RECREATION

Andersen, Ian. Turning the Tables on Las Vegas.

Vanguard. Nov. 1976. 224p. ISBN 0-8149-0776-8. $10. PER NAR/GAMES

Andersen has written an anecdotal book for advanced blackjack card counters, whose numbers and gambling earnings seem to be growing. (Nevada casinos are presently involved in several multimillion dollar law suits brought against them by excluded counters.) Advanced strategies to disguise card counting sell for as much as $200, while this title provides similar excellent insights for $10. Andersen's examples and stories almost admit to fraud and grand larceny; and if the Las Vegas police can locate him, he might spend several years in a Nevada jail for these confessions. Although intended for the expert, the book makes interesting reading for all Nevada gamblers.—Jack Gardner, Clark County Lib. Dist., Las Vegas

Andrews, Jim. Catamarans for Cruising.
224p. $6.95; pap. $4.95

Coleman, Eric. Dinghies for All Waters: safe family cruising and day sailing.
160p. $8.75; pap. $5.50.

Fox-Geen, A. Improved Keelboat Performance.
224p. $7.95; pap. $5.50.

Jenkins, Dave. The Dinghy-Owner's Handbook.
283p. $8.75; pap. $5.50.

Wickham, K. J. & Hilary Wickham. Motor Boating: a practical handbook.
224p. $8.75; pap. $5.50.
ea. vol: Transatlantic. (Practical Handbks. for the Yachtsman). 1976. illus. index. SPORTS

Catamarans are often thought of as fast, highly maneuverable racing boats, but Andrews discusses them in terms of their usefulness as family cruising boats. In making his case he outlines their advantages—smooth sailing, good cabin space, simple sail handling, shoal-draft—as well as their disadvantages—light weight, excessive speed in rough weather, danger of capsizing. He concludes that catamarans do make safe, effective, comfortable cruising boats. He devotes chapters to equipping and handling, construction methods, accommodations, etc., and makes a good case for using "cats" as cruising boats.

Dinghies for All Waters, originally published in Great Britain, provides an introduction to the use of dinghy type boats for day sailing and cruising. The term "dinghy" in British parlence is close to what we would consider a day sailor. Covered are such topics as how to select a boat, how to equip it for safe and comfortable sailing, and how to handle such a boat under various conditions. There is an interesting chapter that discusses some older types of boats one may encounter (though not in this country). An interesting and useful book though somewhat old-fashioned for the U.S. sailor.

In Improved Keelboat Performance the author attempts to demonstrate methods by which keelboat sailors can get the most out of their boats. He analyzes basic performance factors such as hull design, sails, rigging, trim, etc. with an eye toward getting the best possible performance out of any boat. His recommendations are directed at the more advanced sailor—ratios and formulas are used extensively. If one has reached the level of skill addressed in this book, it should prove useful.

There are literally dozens of books intended to introduce sailing basics to the weekend sailor. The Dinghy-Owner's Handbook, a British entry, isn't bad. It covers, with clear text and pertinent line drawings, all of the theoretical basics (there is no substitute for actual sailing) of small boat handling. Choosing the right boat, sail theory, safety precautions, helmsmanship are among the topics covered. The work is directed at a British audience so some of the terminology may seem a bit strange to the American reader.

Motor Boating provides an introduction to all aspects of power boating. Sections detail what to look for in a new or used boat, including hull construction, engine type, etc. Basic boat handling (leaving harbors, going through locks, picking up moorings) is outlined. Navigation, equipment and accessories, and maintenance of engine and hull are also covered. Keep in mind that this work is only an introduction; it is no substitute for experience.—Jay Schwartz, Suffolk County Community Coll. Lib., Selden, N.Y.

Koster, Rich. The Tennis Bubble: an inside look at the personalities and politics, the riches and chaos in tennis today.
Quadrangle, dist. by Harper. Nov. 1976. c. 200p. index. LC 76-9710. ISBN 0-8129-0646-2. $8.95. SPORTS

Arthur Ashe hoped that his book, Portrait in Motion (LJ 4/15/75), ". . . might even make it possible for you to understand tennis politics . . . along with the eight other people in the world who do." That was only one of Ashe's objectives, but it is the entire purpose of Koster's book. He gives detailed portraits of and lengthy quotes from the people who represent the various warring factions marking the great growth of tennis in the 1960's and 1970's—ATP, ILTF, WCT, WTT, WTA, and so on far into the alphabet—and discusses independents like Bill Riordan and the impact of television. It's a confusing story and Koster, to his credit, is not afraid to state his own opinion in the final chapter. An interesting story to the true tennis aficionado, and if such are a part of your clientele you'll want this; it's good.—David Peele, Staten Island Community Coll. Lib., New York

MacLean, Norman. Casey Stengel.
Drake. 1976. 188p. photogs. LC 75-36157. ISBN 0-8473-1068-X. $9.95. BIOG/SPORTS

MacLean, a sportswriter and broadcaster, has written a short, inspiring biography of Stengel. The accounts of various aspects of baseball—the minor leagues, the platoon system, and the trading of players—are readable, and the discussion of Stengel's association with the winning New York Yankees of the 1950's and 1960's will bring back many memories to Yankee fans. The photographs are clear, and the appendixes of Stengel's records as a player and manager are helpful. A worthwhile purchase for baseball collections.—Ronald F. Ritter, Davidson County P.L., Lexington, N.C.

Pritchard, David. The "Games & Puzzles" Book of Modern Board Games.
Hippocrene, dist. by Opitmum Bk. Marketing. Sept. 1976. 144p. illus. ISBN 0-86002-059-2. $10. GAMES

This enjoyable book is recommended for all players of board games. The interesting and lengthy articles, some of which are by the inventors of the games, contain valuable information on how to improve your game and add new appeal and dimension to the games. Also recommended reading before shopping for any new games. For all public libraries and special collections.—Ann Zaeske, Anheuser-Busch Lib., St. Louis

Spitz, Mark & Alan LeMond. The Mark Spitz Complete Book of Swimming.
Crowell. 1976. 192p. photogs. index. LC 73-42490. ISBN 0-690-00690-X. $10. SPORTS

What Spitz and LeMond have written is a self-instruction manual for the beginning competitive swimmer which attempts, in one short volume, to both teach the reader to swim and lead him or her to a competency in the competitive strokes. In addition to the flawed, overambitious premise, the book suffers from inane references to Spitz's achievements and from omnipresent photos of Spitz smiling. Some value could possibly be derived from this book by a swimming instructor using parts of it as recommended reading. However, the care that would have to be used to get any value from it make it a work that most libraries should ignore.—Milton E. Mitchell, Oshkosh P.L., Wis.

THEATER

Bouissac, Paul. Circus and Culture: a semiotic approach.
Indiana Univ. Pr. (Advances in Semiotics). Nov. 1976. 224p. photogs. index. LC 75-28912. ISBN 0-253-31354-6. $12.50. SOC SCI/CIRCUS

Although there has recently been a plethora of books dealing with the circus, none has involved the type of scholarship evident here. Bouissac, one-time owner of an experimental cir-

THE MATH ENTERTAINER
By Philip Heafford

"True-false quizzes, problems to solve, crossword and other puzzles, statements with blank spaces to fill in, and story-form problems make a varied offering for the person who enjoys recreational mathematics. Questions are drawn from historical, Biblical, and literary as well as mathematical sources. Answers and explanations are printed at the back of the book."—Booklist

"When he is all through, the reader will have had a lot of fun—and is likely to have a better grasp of mathematics and mathematical reasoning."—Bulletin of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals.

ISBN 87523-109-8 Illustrated $5.95

TEACH YOURSELF MAGIC
By J. ELSDEN TUFFS

"A bag of easy and advanced tricks for the amateur and professional magician. Feats of magic involving cards, coins, and silk handkerchiefs are explained and such topics as arranging a small show, giving a children's performance, and building necessary apparatus are discussed. Clear, simple diagrams accompany the text. A useful addition to an ever-popular subject."—American Library Association Booklist.

SBN 87523-100-4 Profusely illustrated $5.95

EMERSON BOOKS, INC.
Reynolds Lane, Buchanan, N.Y. 10511

"Well-written, well-plotted"*

JUDAS FLOWERING

Jane Aiken Hodge

"Mercy Phillips saw her father tortured and killed by a mob of 'rebels' near Savannah in 1774... She was taken in by the wealthy Purchis family, where she soon made herself indispensable and found herself attracted to both Hart, the heir, and his rakish cousin Francis...The story of the Revolution as it was fought in the South intertwines with the conflict within the family and leads to an exciting climax."—Library Journal*. "Historical fiction buffs will thrill to this lush mixture of fact and fancy."

—Publishers Weekly

SBN: 698-10741-1 $9.95

COWARD, McCANN & GEOGHEGAN, INC.

200 Madison Avenue, New York 10016

Apple Tree Lean Down

Mary E. Pearce

"Readers longing to submerge themselves in a solid novel will welcome the superb story told by the British author."—Publishers Weekly "A stunning book that will long be remembered by those who read it."—Library Journal 494 pp. LC 75-40802 $10.00

St. Martin's Press

175 Fifth Avenue

New York 10010

cus, approaches the circus as a sociocultural phenomenon that amply displays a specialized series of signs and symbols inherent in this particular form of mass communication. Through a number of chapters that deal with various aspects of circuses such as animal acts, clowns, acrobats, and even the circus poster, Bouissac details the interlocking symbolic processes that occur in all circus business. Although it is somewhat repetitive, the book is well researched and interesting; and whether or not you feel as the author does that the circus is a mirror in which the culture is reflected, it is certainly a suitable topic for serious study.—Alan C. Hochberg, SUNY at Farmingdale Lib.

Lange, Roderyk. The Nature of Dance: an anthropological perspective.

Internat. Publications Serv. Jul. 1976. 142p. photogs. bibliog. index. LC 76-3471. ISBN 0-8002-0170-1. $9.75. ANTHROPOLOGY/DANCE

This introduction to the development of dance in the context of culture includes sections on the origin of dance, rhythm, movement and its notation, aesthetics, and the functions of dance. Lange's years of field work enable him to bolster his theoretical points with numerous examples that are supplemented by an extensive bibliography. Although he provides a wealth of information about dance, one questions Lange's anthropological sophistication. He makes use of outmoded jargon, and his approach does not reflect contemporary trends in the field.—Winifred Lambrecht, Dept. of Anthropology, Lehman Coll., CUNY

Lo Kuan-chung. Three Kingdoms: China's epic drama.

Pantheon. Nov. 1976. 320p. ed. & tr. from Chinese by Moss Roberts. illus. LC 76-9607. ISBN 0-394-40722-9. $10. THEATER

Written in the latter part of the 14th Century, Lo's Three Kingdoms looks back to a much earlier period of Chinese history for a milieu against which to explore themes of personal and political loyalty and to assess the present and future state of the Chinese empire. In addition to this thematic fabric, Three Kingdoms is filled with characters and adventures that have made it one of the most popular as well as one of the greatest of Chinese literary masterpieces. It was one of the classics most enjoyed by Mao in his youth. This translation is condensed for Western readers and covers about half of the original 120 chapters. It should be considered by most libraries.—Warren Collins, Honolulu

Cinema

Infield, Glenn B. Leni Riefenstahl: the fallen film goodness.

Crowell. Nov. 1976. 320p. bibliog. LC 76-7084. ISBN 0-690-01167-9. $9.95. BIOG/CINEMA

Riefenstahl's career continues to provoke controversy, and she deserves a more careful consideration than she receives in this inadequately researched and poorly written work. Infield's lack of film knowledge is apparent in his perfunctory discussion of her films and in such obvious errors as his claim that Sternberg and Dietrich fled Hitler's Germany (they made their first Hollywood film together two years before Hitler came to power). Instead of contributing to any useful discussion of Riefenstahl's achievements, the author concerns himself with undocumented speculation about the film maker's sex life and relations with Hitler. The book's single redeeming feature is its exposure of some original documentation from the Riefenstahl file in Berlin. documentation which may yet produce a thoughtful account of this remarkable career.—Evelyn Ehrlich, Dept. of Cinema Studies, N.Y.U.

Mellen, Joan. The Waves at Genji's Door: Japan through its cinema.

Pantheon. Nov. 1976. 448p. illus. LC 76-9592. ISBN 0-394-49799-6. $15; pap. ISBN 0-394-73278-2. $7.95. CINEMA

In her endeavor to trace the history of Japan through its cinema, Mellen is highly successful in pointing out the identity crisis that tears at the Japanese psyche. Still culturally tied to the days of feudalism and samurai honor, Japan today is a nation that has traded its identity for technology. Calling Japanese cinema "a rite of passage" through which the Japanese are struggling to redefine themselves, Mellen studies Japan through the ages by discussing the problems of the period in which a certain film is set, the film's relation to the time of its production, and the film's role in the history of the Japanese cinema itself. This three-pronged approach is highly informative and makes for weighty reading. Repetitive at times, the book is, nevertheless, worthy of praise; and it confirms the importance of a national cinema too often ignored by Western film critics and scholars. For large public and academic libraries, and important for Japan collections.—David A. Green, Rhode Island Lib. Film Cooperative, Warwick

Parish, James Robert & William T. Leonard. Hollywood Players: the thirties.

Arlington House. Nov. 1976. 557p. illus. ISBN 0-87000-365-8. $19.95. BIOG/CINEMA

With the change to talkies, Hollywood began searching for actors with stage experience. These 71 biographical sketches of the careers of performers who achieved a measure of success in 1930's movies include a great many actors signed as contract players on the basis of their theatrical work. Some came close to stardom; many did not. Most, however, settled in to long careers as featured or supporting players in dozens of films. Parish and Leonard provide a brisk career biography for each one, including radio, stage, and television credits, enlivened by stills and quotes from contemporary reviews and interviews. A filmography is also provided for each performer. If the likes of Lynn Bari, Chester Morris, Bonita Granville, and Brian Donlevy appeal to your readers, this book should provide them with many nostalgic moments.—Marshall Deutelbaum, Film Dept., George Eastman House, Rochester, N.Y.

FICTION

fiction

Anderson, Jessica. The Commandant.
St. Martin's. 1976. 320p. $8.95. F
Anderson, an Australian novelist who is new to these parts although this is her third novel, has gone back to Australia's colonial period for the setting. At that time Australia was chiefly a penal settlement, and her tale concerns the lives and fortunes of the prisoners and their overseers in one penal camp far in the hinterlands. It is also deeply concerned with the political and ethical questions prompted by the treatment of prisoners. From every vantage point this is a solid, finely grained novel—rich in the exploration of character and personality, sure and subtle in movement, and as lively in its evocation of the Calvinistic social climate of the time as it is of the brooding outback landscape.—Aaron L. Fessler, Merrick, N.Y.

Apple, Max. The Oranging of America and Other Stories.
Grossman, dist. by Viking. Dec. 1976. $7.95. F
A collection of ten stories satirizing some of the prominent celebrities and myths of American life. The title story is an amusing fantasy about the origins and growth of Howard Johnson's orange roofs all over America. In Paddycake, Paddycake we are given the picture of a rather dumb and much too clean-cut all-American college football star with a secret addiction to doughnuts who becomes none other than President Gerald Ford. Other targets of Apple's satire include Norman Mailer, Fidel Castro, and the controversial scientist Velikovsky (who re-invents Biblical manna in the form of yogurt). In addition to personalities, the real estate business, the stock market, the oil monopoly, and vegetarianism each get their share. Each story starts with a realistic premise and then takes off into a wild and hilarious realm of fantasy that is convincing because of the careful logic built into it.—Norman Stock, formerly with Brooklyn Coll. Lib.

Benedictus, David. The Rabbi's Wife.
Evans, dist. by Lippincott. 1976. 192p. ISBN 0-87131-220-4. $7.95. F
On Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, a group of Palestinian terrorists enters a London synagogue, killing some children and taking hostage Susannah, the wife of Rabbi James Arnatt. Susannah is flown to Beirut, where she is held captive some six months, and is raped and becomes pregnant by one of her captors. Giving the reader only a superficial account of the politics of the situation, Benedictus concentrates on the psychological state and emotional decline of both the Rabbi and his wife. Separately, under the stress of forced inactivity, Susannah and Jamie begin to examine the farces and pretenses surrounding their lives and their marriage. The author appears sympathetic to all sides: the inept politicians, the very human terrorists, and the survivors of the original attack. The conclusion—Yom Kippur, one year later—is poignant rather than powerful. Although the transitions between events are sometimes uneven, the style of each section perfectly suits the events being described, and such introspection puts this a cut above the average action-packed terrorist novel.—Marica R. Hoffman, Woodbridge P.L., Iselin, N.J.

Bodelsen, Anders. Consider the Verdict: a novel of crime and punishment.
Harper. Dec. 1976. 320p. tr. by Nadia Christensen. LC 75-25077. ISBN 0-06-010408-2. $8.95. F
An author's note to this crime novel declares "The characters are in no way patterned after living persons." And this is so in another sense. The characters have no life and their story is detailed in a deadly monotone. Martin Bendix is a slow-witted, forgetful taxi driver with a nice family and a sensual mistress. A young waitress to whom he has given rides on credit is murdered. Martin is questioned by the police, jailed, and finally freed to try to pick up his life. The reader plods through it all, getting as weary as the police and Martin in rehashing his defense. A prize-winning author, Bodelsen has ground out a pedestrian work in Consider the Verdict.—Mitsu Yamamoto, formerly with Wm. Douglas McAdams, Inc., New York

Cass, Zoë. The Silver Leopard.
Random. 1976. 256p. LC 76-14180. ISBN 0-394-40816-0. $7.95. F
The silver leopard was a gift to Caroline when she and her mother left Grandfather's house many years ago. Now, at her mother's death, Caroline's leopard is missing, and if some unknown person has his way, she will be missing too. This is a good modern Gothic, though the market seems glutted with stern but kindly and misunderstood granfathers lately.—Phyllis Gallo, Way P.L., Perrysburg, Ohio

Estes, Winston M. Homefront.
Lippincott. Oct. 1976. 384p. ISBN 0-397-01147-4. $8.95. F
Those who were in the States, or in the South—or, indeed, around—prior to and during World War II should recognize the meticulous care and almost complete verisimilitude with which Estes has limned life on the homefront in Bentley, Georgia, a small town near Atlanta. Largely through the eyes of the Holly family—the father station master of the Georgia Railroad; a daughter in defense work; another, a wife and mother, married to a scientist in defense contract work who later enlists; and twin sons, one in the army and one a deaf mute working as a civilian employee of the Quartermaster Corps—the problems of wartime life for an American family reveal themselves. In low key yet with considerable feeling and effect, Estes describes the vicissitudes of life in Bentley and Atlanta: rationing, the impact of sudden and violent death on a small community and its inhabitants, total community involvement in war work, racial relations

"Fast action... skillful writing" —LIBRARY JOURNAL

The Henderson Equation

By Warren Adler

Author of Banquet Before Dawn

Managing editor Nick Gold, whose mighty Washington Chronicle brought down a hated and corrupt President, is now sitting on another dynamite story... and the battle lines are drawn. On one side, Nick's principles; on the other, the Chronicle's owner—a woman determined to make, as well as break, a President. "A fast-paced suspense story... about what happens to a daily very much like the Washington Post in the post-Watergate era."—JEREMIAH O'LEARY of The Washington Star. "The most courageous and truthful novel to come out of Washington in years."—VIOLA DRATH, author of Willy Brandt: Prisoner of His Past. $8.95

G.P. PUTNAM'S SONS
200 Madison Ave., N.Y. 10016

Recommended
LIBRARY JOURNAL

LADY ORACLE
by MARGARET ATWOOD

"Atwood's third novel is thoroughly funny and truly serious. The themes are our deepest concerns. Flawless comedy, thorough grace and control make this a high point in fiction about women."
—Library Journal

ISBN: 0-671-22339-9
LC 76-15612
$8.95

SIMON AND SCHUSTER
630 Fifth Ave.
New York 10020

in a Southern town to which "civil rights" in its modern connotation had not yet come, the insatiable requirements of the war machine in men and materials, and the irony of safety in the battle zone and death in the supposed "safety" of Georgia. An understated yet gripping account of the intrusion of World War II into American home life by the author of Another Part of the House (LJ 2/1/70), among other works.—L. W. Griffin, Univ. of Wisconsin Lib., Madison

Farrell, James T. The Dunne Family.
Doubleday. Oct. 1976. LC 75-36621. ISBN 0-385-11263-7. $8.95. F
A very realistic, frank, simply told story of a first-generation Irish-American family living in Chicago early in this century. The central incident is the death of the mother, and much of the book consists of the details of her funeral. The book doesn't have much real action nor many unusual characters, and a rather flat style portrays the lives of these ordinary people. Definitely not exciting—interesting only in the way that everyday life is interesting.—Melanie Axel-Lute, Montclair P.L., N.J.

Fuentes, Carlos. Terra Nostra.
Farrar. Oct. 1976. tr. from Spanish by Margaret Sayers Peden. ISBN 0-374-27327-8. $15. F
This offering by the Mexican Fuentes follows trails already taken in its baroque use of language, references to characters from other recent novels, and preoccupation with defining Latin America, and emerges more as passionate outcry than as novel. Metaphysical definition takes precedence over plot or characterization. The author employs myth, the occult, literature, history, scatology and pornography, all within Hispanic tradition, to decry past defects which irrevocably taint future possibilities. Fuentes' pessimism makes the almost 1000 pages of text quite repetitious (no doubt part of his message), yet there are some striking moments when he hits the mark.—Ruth Dougherty, formerly with Sarasota P.L., Fla.

Jeal, Tim. Until the Colors Fade.
Delacorte. Oct. 1976. 624p. ISBN 0-440-09299-X. $10. F
Until the Colors Fade is a good solid historical novel set in the 1850's. Large dramatic scenes include a riot by striking millworkers and several harrowing battles of the Crimean War. The emotional center is a love affair between Tom Strickland, an artist, and Helen Goodchild, an aristocratic beauty. Characters are well rounded, the plot is engrossing, and although Jeal is writing largely about the upper class, he takes care to show other aspects of society. Some dialogue is stilted, and the ending ties up some loose plot strands too abruptly, but these are small flaws in an engrossing novel.—Madeline G. Schulman, formerly with Monmouth County Lib., Freehold, N.J.

King, Francis. The Needle.
Mason/Charter. 1976. 224p. ISBN 0-88405-358-X. $7.95. F
A suspenseful story of the dark threads that unite a ne'er-do-well brother and his efficient sister, a doctor. Lorna, always full of inarticulate and sensitive knowledge about Bob, suspects that he is in unspecified trouble. What is she to make of locked cases, a bloodied shirt, absences, strange phone calls? Her brother ekes out a meager parasitic living as a movie extra, relying on her even for his insulin injections. Because none in her circle likes her rude and prickly brother, she gets no understanding from them when he slips away, ostensibly for a holiday in Spain. Weeks later, the police begin inquiring and a sordid story of viciousness emerges, ended by a desperate thrust of a hypodermic needle. The first three quarters of the book moves at an everyday sort of pace till the reader's suspicions are allayed. Suddenly, the atmosphere shifts to tension and dread, making for an effective ending. Published to good notices in England, this is a compact; tightly written story. The author is a regular reviewer for the London Sunday Telegraph. He will surely earn a following in the U.S. after this fine entry.—Barbara Conaty, Madison P.L., Wis.

Kotker, Zane. A Certain Man.
Knopf. Nov. 1976. 384p. LC 76-13719. ISBN 0-394-40262-6. $8.95. F
Beneath this subtle, low-key portrait vibrates a strong nostalgic feeling. As Arley Minor's story moves through almost three-score years of this century in New England, his life, like that of many a Biblical "certain man," takes on the quality of a parable. An early meditative experience of God leads him to become a Congregational minister propelled by a sort of restless, energetic innocence from one parish to another—communing relentlessly with himself and God, walking, visiting, listening to parables in the lives of his people. The author skillfully interweaves their stories with Arley's, rising occasionally to such brilliant, moving studies as the slow dying of Arley's aged father. A quiet triumph, for most general fiction collections.—Mary Soete, Phoenix P.L.

Lawson, James. The Girl Watcher.
Putnam. 1976. 274p. $8.95. F
Arleigh Eliot, the narrator of this facetious novel, is a middle-aged executive who unabashedly describes himself as a "walking erection." Arleigh's insatiable lust meanders from massage parlor to peep show with an occasional pause to divorce his wife or bungle affairs at the office. Fully half the book details his efforts to meet Bonnie, a shapely young maiden whom Arleigh worships from afar with the help of high-powered binoculars. Through coincidence and perseverance he eventually meets and seduces the sweet young thing, who just happens to be an eager nymphomaniac. By the story's end, Arleigh is alternately bedding down with Bonnie, a colleague's wife, his own ex-wife, and assorted office secretaries; and he humbly declares that "life is grand." The novel itself is not so grand; and while Lawson occasionally creates a genuinely comic scene, more often than not the humorous touches are lost in the monotony of the tale.—Philip M. Fragasso, Woburn P.L., Mass.

Melville, Jennie. Dragon's Eye.
S. & S. 1976. 251p. ISBN 0-671-22309-7. $7.95. F
Kate Melrose, an aspiring-actress-cum-horror-film-star, inherits Dragon's Eye, off the Northumberland Coast. Alone on her island, with only a vulgar parrot and a few stray sheep for company Kate investigates the hows and whys of her unexpected inheritance. The trail leads to the Berwick family, local gentry and former owners of Dragon's Eye. Kate gets caught up in mystery, murder, and romance, and so will most readers. Melville's Gothic has just about everything—chills, surprises, finely drawn characters and atmosphere, and an unusually offbeat romantic interest.—Carol K. Carey, formerly with Dept. of Film, Museum of Modern Art, New York

Michaels, Barbara. Patriot's Dream.
Dodd. Oct. 1976. $8.95. F
A romantic title, taken from the final verse of "America the Beautiful" conveys the fervent tone, as well as the theme, of this big Bicentennial gothic. Michaels, a popular author of average romantic suspense novels, has concocted an occasionally absorbing fictional account of "What the Bicentennial Means to Me." Jan, a modern ingénue, travels in dreams to the 1770's, while visiting her aunt and uncle's home in Williamsburg where ancestral patriots ate, slept, plotted, and loved. Transitions from present to past are awkwardly handled, and Jan snoozes so much (in order to dream the story) the reader wonders if she has sleeping sickness! Though dialogue is stilted and characterization sketchy, readers who enjoy a romantic mystery won't mind. They might, however, mind the dull, gratuitous "Prelude," which Michaels should have omitted.—Joyce W. Smothers, Monmouth County Lib., Freehold, N.J.

Noyle, Ken. The Geisha Diary.
Berkley, dist. by Putnam. 1976. 225p. $7.95. F
An American writer goes to Japan to recover from the trauma of a supposedly unfaithful wife and to write a book. There a friend allows him to stay in a 19th-Century geisha house that the friend inherited. The same friend also lends him a translation of a diary written by a geisha in the very house in which he is staying. Parallel time works its wonders and the geisha starts to visit Michael, the writer. He takes an amazingly long time to figure out what's going on, thinking that she must be some freaked-out drug addict. Eventually the truth dawns on him and he begins to fall in love with her, the more so as his 20th-century life becomes even more disastrous. Michael finally decides that he prefers to be with her in the "past" rather than deal with his problems in the "present." The story could have made an enjoyable read had it been done in less turgid prose. Not recommended.—Bonnie Naifela Hill, Boston Univ. Libs.

Olson, Toby. The Life of Jesus.
Scribners. Nov. 1976. 160p. $8.50; pap. $4.95. F

The focus of this first novel is not on religious faith nor on Jesus, but on an unnamed California boy who identifies completely with the Jesus of his Catholic education. He works as a carpenter, tells parables in a spare prose that resembles that of the Gospels, heals the sick, offers communion, dies, and is resurrected. The miraculous dimension is always understated: "I think there is one thing we hold in common; that is, at least in our secret heart, we each believe we were born of a virgin," the unnamed hero says on the first page. Since he is completely merged with Jesus, we learn little about him that does not have a parallel in the life of Jesus. The symbolic structure has more reality than the hero's experiences in 20th-Century America.—Philip Milner, Dept. of English, St. Francis Xavier Univ., Antigonish, Nova Scotia, Canada

Ousmane, Sembene. Xala.
Lawrence Hill, dist. by Independent Publisher's Group c/o David White. Oct. 1976. 128p. tr. by Clive Wake. LC 75-41811. ISBN 0-88208-067-9. $5.95. F

At the time El Hadji decides to take a third wife he is one of the most successful businessmen in Dakar. Yet when he is stricken with impotence on his wedding night, his world starts to fall apart. The strains of urban polygamy become apparent. In his attempts to have his curse (xala) removed he neglects his business affairs and financial ruin follows. Although the story has humorous moments the author tries to make a serious point. El Hadji had been one of the leaders calling for the independence of Senegal but has since become entirely selfish. His rise from teacher to rich man has been achieved at the expense of others; it is they who have placed the xala. An interesting addition to the growing group of works about Africa after independence.—Richard Cima, Glenbard East High Sch., Lombard, Ill.

Pekić, Borislav. The Time of Miracles.
HBJ. Oct. 1976. 250p. tr. by Lovett F. Edwards. ISBN 0-15-190464-2. $10.95. F

The New Testament is given a satirical tweak in this version of the miracles, passion, and death of Jesus. A loosely connected series of eleven intelligently translated stories evokes seven miracles and four deaths. The miracles are presented as fact, but they are shown to have had disastrous effects on their "victims." Lazarus is repeatedly murdered and resurrected; a cleansed leper is cast out from both her hometown and her leper colony; a dumb beggar suddenly speaks, but his first words condemn him to a horrible death. Throughout, Judas is a slick campaign manager who sees to it that all the Old Testament prophecies are fulfilled, even his own suicide. Christ is passive, dull, bewildered—but smart enough to escape death on the cross in the mildly surprising final episode. Pekić, a Yugoslav who has not apparently been translated into English before, is extremely clever—and occasionally brilliant, as in Judas' long maniacal outpourings. Yet, no one can pull off the same trick eleven times. For larger collections.—George Soete, Arizona State Univ. Lib., Tempe

Philipson, Morris. The Wallpaper Fox.
Scribners. Oct. 1976. 256p. ISBN 0-684-14773-4. $7.95. F

An affluent Connecticut family finds itself suddenly besieged by a series of threatening events. Henry Warner, 49-year-old owner of a prosperous jewelry store in New Haven, is living the good life: he is married to a loving and intelligent woman and the father of three healthy children; he belongs to the right country club and all of his friends are successful and influential people. Then the shattering events begin to occur. They include a hit-and-run accident, adultery, fraud, and an illegitimate child. Unfortunately, these incidents develop through improbable coincidences which strain the novel's credibility. The skillful characterization makes up for that, however. As the Warner family reacts to each new revelation, we see the peeling away of the veneer, exposing the very human needs lying underneath.—Don Halberstadt, Haverford State Hospital Lib., Pa.

Rofheart, Martha. The Alexandrian.
Crowell. Oct. 1976. 320p. LC 76-3659. ISBN 0-690-01148-2. $8.95. F

Rofheart brings Cleopatra vividly to life in this well-written historical novel. The story is familiar and legendary elements, such as Cleopatra's arrival at Caesar's feet in an Oriental rug, are not neglected. Rofheart breaks with tradition, however, in her portrayal of the exotic queen as an expert linguist and accomplished diplomatic strategist. Caesar and Mark Anthony succumb to Cleopatra's charms but face defeat and death when they fail to listen to her shrewd advice. Rofheart embellishes her tale with glimpses of daily life in Ptolemaic Egypt. Minor characters, such as Dioscorides, Cleopatra's doctor, are rescued from obscurity to fill important supporting roles. Readers will enjoy this original re-creation of a timeless story.—Victoria K. Musmann, Glendale P.L., Calif.

Skelton, C. L. Hardacre.
Dial. 1976. 406p. LC 76-19039. ISBN 0-8037-3431-X. $8.95. F

This novel traces the history of the Hardacre family of Yorkshire from the 1880's to the post-World War II era. The founders of the line, strong Sam and sweet-natured Mary, go from rags to riches, trying all the while to instill their homespun values in their progeny. Hardacre is competently written but its characters are too simplistic; noble and ignoble souls alike are stock characters who never break through to life. Moreover, the plot tends toward predictability because of the author's unfortunate penchant for hinting loudly

Where Helen Lies
RAE FOLEY
The author of The Barclay Place and The Dark Hill tells the spellbinding story of a young girl who is safe from a nightmare of horror only as long as she cannot recall her past. $6.95

DODD MEAD

"A light, amusing romantic comedy"*
Driver, Give a Soldier a Lift
By SUSAN BERMAN
"Sheila Levine faces no small amount of competition from overweight, idealistic Ricki Rohrman, a Berkeley journalist who sets out for Israel in pursuit of a husband....From Ricki's first assault upon the unmarried male population of Israel to the doors of the temple at her wedding, readers will laugh along with this delightful, light-hearted novel."—Library Journal. "Hilarious incidents... a funny read that proves love can span two continents."—The Booklist. "Spritely, engaging, and just a bit poignant, this marks a promising novelistic debut."—Publishers Weekly.*
YA. $7.95
G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS
200 Madison Ave., N.Y. 10016

at upcoming events. Despite its lack of subtlety, however, Hardacre has an old-fashioned charm if one enjoys family sagas traditionally told and is not bothered by the lack of moral and psychological complications.—Frances Esmonde de Usabel, State Reference & Loan Lib., Madison, Wis.

Stewart, Sam. Harry and Walter Go to New York.

Dell. 1976. 233p. based on a screenplay by John Byrum. pap. $1.50. CINEMA/F

This adaptation of the screenplay fits a predictable formula. The story is set in the 1890's. Two bumbling friends attempt to rob a bank. One of them becomes infatuated with a rich-girl-turned-socialist-newspaperwoman. Add one debonair gentleman bank robber whose mere touch causes women to faint, and the picture is complete. Sound familiar? The book is devoid of suspense or strong characterization, and any hint of humor springs from the inane dialogue, which in the film might be funny but is hardly so in print. Not recommended.—J. R. Bossman, Fort Lewis Coll. Lib., Durango, Colo.

Updike, John. Marry Me.

Knopf. Nov. 1976. 205p. $7.95; signed, boxed ltd. ed. $20. F

A new Updike novel, but on an old theme: the affair between Jerry Conant and Sally Mathias, married but not to each other, is that familiar suburban liaison Updike is so good at dissecting. The road that leads to Sally, a narrow one "in only fair repair and full of unexplained forks and windings and turnings-off," could be the road to salvation, but is it? Jerry doesn't win his lady; Updike's readers know that sex is best when spiced with sin, and love ideal when it can't be realized. Like minister Tom Marshfield in A Month of Sundays, Jerry wavers between sin and salvation, self-indulgence and responsibility. Like Harry "Rabbit" Angstrom, he's a boy who plays at life, a cartoonist rather than the painter he wanted to be, the kind of man who can say to Sally when their adultery is revealed, "Don't you feel like we're two children caught with our hands in the cookie jar?" Updike portrays his four characters and two imperfect marriages with clarity and dimension through skillful use of narrative devices. Marry Me is a dazzling performance, cleverly and beautifully written.—Janet Wiehe, Cincinnati & Hamilton County P.L.

Walker, Frank. Jack.

Coward. 1976. 183p. illus. LC 76-13471. ISBN 0-698-10752-7. $7.95. F

The hero of this tale is Jack, a Belgian sheepdog with all the best features of that sturdy breed—fearless, loyal, intelligent and handsome. His master is a Yorkshire farmer with whom Jack develops an unusual affinity and mutual understanding that borders on telepathy. This is a homey story, strongly evocative of the English countryside where Jack becomes an obedience champion and an excellent working dog, warding off poachers of all kinds from the estate and enjoying a life full of the adventures befitting a champion. Only for adults and young people who are interested in dogs and their training.—Mary Blackwell, Detroit P.L.

Webb, Charles. Elsinor.

McGraw. Oct. 1976. ISBN 0-07-068803-6. $7.95. F

Laura Foster is searching for her husband, who suddenly disappears as they are about to take a weekend away from the children. Why has he left her? Why is he attracted to the Blue Stallion Baths? Has her strength overwhelmed him? An intriguing theme around which Webb's perfection of technique has created an ironic and barren world of oppressive nightmare. A brilliant control of dialogue illuminates the manipulative power of words used as doors rather than bridges, tentatively opening for a glimpse of the possibility of truth and intimacy, then slamming shut in self-protection. Description is effectively limited to the cluttering, seemingly irrelevant, darkly humorous idiosyncrasies which further accentuate the psychological frailty and loneliness of Webb's characters. An interesting reading experience.—Virginia W. Marr, Milton Academy Lib., Mass.

Winters, Nancy. The Girl on the Coca-Cola Tray.

Dial. Oct. 1976. 192p. ISBN 0-8037-2894-8. $7.95. F

Like the girl on the Coca-Cola tray, Winters' heroine is flat, as are her pompous husband, her concerned mother, her greedy stepfather, and her intellectual best friend. Each is a familiar and one-dimensional type, and Jenny Sue's inability to cope with their demands or to express her own needs creates a static atmosphere, unrelieved by death (her mother's), desertion (her husband's), or betrayal (by both her stepfather and her best friend). This is no Kinflicks (LJ 3/1/76), largely because the sense of humor is absent, but mostly because unlike Ginny, Jenny is not a seeker. Although she, too, is molded largely by those around her, she does not choose stimulating companions, and she is afraid of change.—Diane Haas, Howe Lib., Hanover, N.H.

Witkiewicz, Stanislaw Ignacy. Insatiability.

Univ. of Illinois Pr. 1976. 560p. tr., intro. & comm. by Louis Iribarne. ISBN 0-252-00572-4. $18.95. F

Insatiability is one of the more bizarre products of the frenzied 1920's. It is a heady mixture of philosophical disputation, whimsy and buffoonery, social and political satire, carried on the flood waters of linguistic innovation and tomfoolery. While the "yellow peril" in the form of Communist Chinese armies and a peculiar passive mysticism is advancing from the East across a collapsing Soviet Russia, Poland, thanks to its anarchic inertia, is the sole bulwark of an already bolshevized Europe. The novel recounts the last throes of Poland's upper classes, convulsed by the enervating attractions of sexual depravity, political intrigue, and metaphysical speculation, and the agonies of an aging adolescent hero who is in the process of a schizophrenic breakdown. Iribarne's translation is a monumental feat. Though one might quibble over his decision to translate (or "trans-pun") characters' names, he has achieved the seemingly impossible by conveying a sense of Witkiewicz's linguistic ebullience. His introduction is lucid and informative and his notes, though at times pedantic, are invaluable. A splendid introduction into English of a major novel.—Madeline G. Levine, Dept. of Slavic Languages, Univ. of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Science Fiction

Biggle, Lloyd, Jr. A Galaxy of Strangers.

Doubleday. Oct. 1976. LC 76-2992. ISBN 0-385-12246-2. $5.95. F

In his introduction, Biggle notes that futuristic works, such as this anthology, often have been erroneously called "Prognosticators of doom." He prefers to view them as preventive realities. And while these eight stories do satirize and snipe at several of today's institutions, they are, for the most part, hopeful, unlike other similarly conceived anthologies such as Roger Elwood's Dystopian Visions (LJ 12/15/75). Biggle's specific targets include educational methods, lotteries, sports, penal systems, censorship, insurance, love, religion, and economic systems. His general target is man's stupidity. The stories are well written and amusing. Recommended—Jerry L. Parsons, Univ. of Illinois Lib. at Urbana-Champaign

Busby, F. M. Rissa Kerguelen: book one in the "Saga of Rissa."

Berkley, dist. by Putnam. Sept. 1976. 400p ISBN 0-399-11791-1. $9.95. F

This first volume of a two-part futuristic saga introduces Rissa Kerguelan, an indomitable heroine working to make the universe safe for mankind. Rissa, an escape from a tyrannical Total Welfare government on Earth, makes her way under various assumed names to the Hidden Worlds, where she joins a powerful underground movement and becomes instrumental in a plot to overthrow the controlling forces on Earth. The social structure of Rissa's adopted planet combines the best of women's lib with the best of medieval feudalism. Aliens from deep space, descriptions of an inhumane space academy, and a mutiny among the underground personnel are all thrown in for good measure. Unfortunately, the exciting ideas presented here are buried under a mountain of pompous verbiage. Rissa's sex life, described ad nauseum, becomes boring rather than titillating. Readers who await the second volume need not wait too anxiously.—Marcia R. Hoffman, Woodbridge P.L., Iselin, N.J.

Crowley, John. Beasts.

Doubleday. 1976. ISBN 0-385-11260-2. $5.95. F

By the end of the 21st Century civil war has divided the U.S. into several inde-endent Autonomies. Progress has talled and grass is growing on the technology of yesteryear. Despite this, scintists have cross-bred plants and animals by fusing the genetic material in individual cells. The only hybrid animals ble to reproduce are leos, a combination of humans and lions. A group of powerful idealists is trying to reunite he country. Radicals are carrying out heir own nefarious plans. Someone vants to destroy all the leos. One of the eos, Painter, is determined to save himelf and his family. He attracts various umans, a loyal dog and a devious, sterle fox/man, Reynard, to his cause. But, like the plot, his cause and the ource of his charisma are obscure. Although Painter and Reynard are intriguing, too many disconnected situaions and characters make the story ot quite satisfying.—Lucia Robson Tauger, North Country Area Lib., Glen Burnie, Md.

Laumer, Keith. Bolo: the annals of the dinochrome brigade.

Berkley, dist. by Putnam. 1976. ISBN 0-399-11794-6. $7.95. F

Various stages of advanced armored tank technology provide the background for this work, one of 17 now in print by Laumer. A chapter outlining armored war-wagon history from the 15th to the post-30th Century is followed by six separate stories, each depicting man in some encounter with these mammoth vehicles. Variety is the spice of these stories, with style as varied as theme. Very abrupt scene transitions and some unexplainable details mar, but do not ruin their effect.—James Dertien, Bellevue P.L., Neb.

Silverberg, Robert. Shadrach in the Furnace.

Bobbs. 1976. LC 75-31608. ISBN 0-672-51993-3. $8.95. F

It's 2012, planet Earth. Ravaged 18 years earlier by biological warfare, the world's population still lies devastated, leaving every survivor and their future offspring with a genetic defect that results, in due course, in a terminal wasting disease. A world ruler governs from a super electronic skyscraper bastion in Ulan Bator, Outer Mongolia. The aged quasi-dictatorial Mongol is obsessed with the rapture of life and death, and the imminent possibility of acquiring his immortality through organ transplants, and by other means. The "other means" is the heart of the plot. The title character is Shadrach Mordecai, the ruler's physician extraordinaire, American, 36, black, Harvard Medical School. There is little violence in this drama for survival, but it isn't needed. The story is filled with intrigue, conflict, paradoxes, mystery, subplots, diversions, and, best of all, a surprise ending. Recommended.—G. Robert McLean, Univ. of Toledo Libs., Ohio

INDEX:

Adventures of Jonathan Corncob, 2176
Alvarez, F. C., 2169
Andersen, I., 2190
Anderson, J., 2193
Andrews, J., 2191
Apple, M., 2193
Appleman, P., 2180
Armes, J. J., 2165
Association for Educational Communications and Technology, 2152

Baeckler, V., 2151
Bahr, R., 2185
Bailey, T. A., 2171
Batty, D., 2152
Baumgartel, W., 2165
Beggar's opera, 2176
Behrman, D., 2186
Benedictus, D., 2193
Bibliographic guide to government publications, 2161
Biggle, L., 2196
Binion, R., 2171
Blaisdell, T. C., 2180
Blank, J. P., 2165
Bliven, B., 2181
Bode, J., 2182
Bodelsen, A., 2193
Bonnefoy, Y., 2180
Borland, H., 2165
Bouissac, P., 2191
Bowles, J., 2170
Brackman, A. C., 2174
Brayman, H., 2181
British music yearbook, 2164
Brown, H., 2159
Brown, P. L., 2174
Browne, H., 2169
Buckley, W. F., 2165
Burns, G., 2166
Busby, F. M., 2196
Bush, R., 2177

Caldwell, E., 2166
Cannons' bibliography of library economy, 1876-1920: an author index, 2152
Cass, Z., 2193
Chalmers, I., 2175
Chang, F. M., 2179
Clum, J. M., 2177
Coleman, E., 2191
Coleman, V., 2186
Colledge, M. A., 2164
Committee for a New England Bibliography, 2161
Concise Oxford dictionary of current English, 2161
Copper, A., 2184
Corwin, E. S., 2181
Cottle, T. J., 2159
Cox, A. M., 2181
Crabbe, B., 2186
Cromie, A., 2174
Crowley, J., 2196
Curley, D. N., 2164

DeConde, A., 2171
De Ford, M. A., 2164
DiCerto, J. J., 2189
Dickerson, N., 2166
Dogo, G., 2175
Dossick, J. J., 2162
Duffy, J., 2171
Duggan, W. R., 2181
Durrell, J., 2166
Dyer, C., 2175

Elzinga, K. G., 2190
Emmerson, D. K., 2182
Epstein, W., 2182
Estes, W. M., 2193

Fairbridge, K. C., 2175
Farrell, J. T., 2194
Feldman, I., 2180
Firnstahl, T., 2176
Fox-Geen, A., 2191
Francis, E. K., 2187
Frye, N., 2177
Fuentes, C., 2194
Fuller, J. G., 2184

Gagala, K. L., 2162
Gaylin, W., 2183
Giles, J. R., 2177
Gilliam, D. B., 2166
Goethe, J. W., 2177
Gohn, J. B., 2162
Goldin, M., 2171
Gooch, B. N., 2162
Goodwin, D., 2186
Gorman, R., 2176
Greeley, A. M., 2184
Greenfield, N. S., 2166
Greenlaw, J., 2164
Greenough, W. C., 2169
Guillermaz, J., 2172

Hagan, W. T., 2172
Haley, A., 2167
Halpern, H., 2183
Harrison, I. E., 2162
Havighurst, A. F., 2162
Heller, W. W., 2169
Helmbold, F. W., 2172
Henderson, B., 2190
Hersey, J., 2162
Hewitt, J., 2176
Hill, I., 2182
Hipkiss, R. A., 2177
History of mankind, 2172
Hodgson, J., 2162
Hoffman, B., 2183
Holmes, N., 2167
Hooper, M., 2186

Impact ERA, 2187
Infield, G. B., 2192
International who's who: 1976-77, 2164

Jeal, T., 2194
Jenkins, D., 2191
Johnston, B., 2187

Kalter, R. J., 2190
Keane, C., 2190
Keeley, E., 2177
Kekes, J., 2179
Kelly, T., 2172
Kimmich, C. M., 2173
King, F., 2194
Kinmond, J., 2164
Kissinger study of Southern Africa, 2159
Klein, M., 2173
Kohl, H. R., 2170
Kopper, E. A., 2177
Koster, R., 2191
Kotker, Z., 2194
Kraay, C. M., 2163
Kranzler, D., 2173
Kronick, D. A., 2151

Lamson, P., 2167
Lange, R., 2192
Lapointe, P., 2180
Laqueur, W., 2159
Lash, J. P., 2173
Laumer, K., 2197
Lawson, J., 2194
Leutscher, A., 2185
Levine, G., 2177
Levine, P., 2180
Lewis, L. R., 2187
Line, L., 2186
Lo Kuan-chug, 2192
Longford, E., 2167
Ludwig, J., 2187
Lyons, N., 2169

Mackarness, R., 2186
McKenzie, J. L., 2184
Mackenzie, J. P., 2163
MacLean, N., 2191
McNeill, J. J., 2184
Matson, F. W., 2185
Medvedev, R. A., 2167
Mehrabian, A., 2183
Mellen, J., 2192
Melville, J., 2194
Messenger, C., 2173
Metcalf, J., 2151
Michaels, B., 2194
Millar, F., 2174
Miller, H., 2178
Mintz, M., 2160
Morgan, E. S., 2174
Morgan, R., 2180
Morrison, R. J., 2186
Mossiker, F., 2168
Mullan, F., 2160
Murdoch, D., 2168
Myrdal, J., 2174

Neuborne, R., 2163
Newman, T. R., 2165
Northouse, C., 2163
Noyle, K., 2194

O'Brien, E., 2168
O'Connor, H., 2176
Olson, T., 2195
O'Neill, P., 2164
Ousmane, S., 2195
Ozbudun, E., 2182

Parish, J. R., 2192
Pekić, B., 2195
Philipson, M., 2195
Popper, F., 2164
Pritchard, D., 2191

Rabinowitz, D., 2189
Rannit, A., 2180
Reff, T., 2164
Regueiro, H., 2178
Rich, A., 2189
Roberts, J. M., 2172
Rofheart, M., 2195
Ross, P., 2190
Ryan, R. M., 2178

Sachar, A. L., 2170
Salinas, P., 2180
Sanford, H., 2170
Sansom, R. L., 2160
Schuler, S., 2175
Schur, S., 2176
Schwinn, M., 2168
Scott, N. A., 2178
Scribner, G., 2176
Seifer, N., 2189
Serling, R. J., 2170
Shaban, M. A., 2174
Shaw, W. D., 2178
Shores, L., 2151
Silverberg, R., 2197
Silverstone, B., 2189
Skelton, C. L., 2195
Smith, H., 2179
Smith, J., 2178
Solomon, R. H., 2182
Solzhenitsyn, A., 2160
Spitz, M., 2191
Springer, L. E., 2174
Stanford, R., 2186
Stearn, J., 2184
Steiger, B., 2184
Stein, R., 2186
Steinbeck, J., 2178
Stewart, S., 2196
Stone, M., 2184
Stone, R. M., 2179
Swanberg, W. A., 2168

Thompson, Thomas, 2190
Thompson, Toby, 2175
Todd, W. M., 2179
Toynbee, A., 2172

Updike, J., 2196
Uvezian, S., 2176

Vali, F. A., 2182
Von Hagen, V., 2189

Wagner, L. W., 2179
Walker, F., 2196
Webb, C., 2196
Weiner, D. B., 2179
Weintraub, S., 2168
West, L. C., 2190
White, J. D., 2183
Whiteley, O., 2168
Wickham, K. J., 2191
Widick, B. J., 2170
Wilde, M. C., 2168
Wilk, M., 2170
Winters, N., 2196
Witkiewicz, S. I., 2196
Wuliger, B. S., 2170

Yannarella, P. A., 2151
Yeazell, R. B., 2179

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

All advertisements for the Positions Open and the Positions Wanted classifications will be edited to exclude direct or indirect references to race, creed, color, age, and sex as conditions of employment. Positions open and positions wanted, $1.70 per line, minimum charge, $5.10, all other types of ads, $2.60 per line, minimum charge $7.80. If vouches forms are required for billing, please send them at the time advertisements are submitted for insertion. Copy for ads and requests for cancellations must be received at the LJ office 45 days preceding date of issue. Write: Classified Advertising Department, Library Journal, 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10036.

OUT-OF-PRINT

EXCLUSIVE WANT LISTS get prompt attention, wide search, reasonable prices, from International Bookfinders, Inc., Box 1-LJ, Pacific Palisades, Calif. 90272.

COLONIAL "out-of-print" Book Service, Inc. Want Lists invited, 23 E. 4th St., New York City 10003.

EXCLUSIVE WANT LISTS advertised & searched plus 150,000 vol. indexed stock. PAB 2917 Atlantic, Atlantic City, NJ 08401.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESSES are one of our specialties. Foreign books and periodicals, current and out-of-print. Albert J. Phiebig Inc., Box 352, White Plains, N.Y. 10602.

WE FIND BOOKS. Free International Search. Exclusive want lists invited. Realistic prices. Eva Davis Books. 108 Prince Charles, Williamsburg, VA 23185.

OUT OF PRINT books located. Send in title, author to: Free Search Service, Dept. LJ, 41 Union Square West, New York, NY 10003.

OP BOOKS in literature; social sciences, humanities. EGLI: Lamont: BCL, etc. Book Lande, 8926 National Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90034.

MAGAZINES—BACK NUMBER

INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY Booksellers, Inc., 101 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10003. We buy: Would like to hear of periodical backfiles of scholarly significance, individual titles or entire collections, surplus to your present needs. We sell: We carry one of the most comprehensive inventories of periodicals in all fields and langauges and are a major supplier to academic libraries in all parts of the world. Call or write Mr. Becker.

BACK ISSUE MAGAZINES, general, scholarly, technical. Designed to serve high school and jr. college libraries. Please send want lists to Back Issues West: P.O. Box 6688, Tucson, Arizona 85716.

BUY, TRADE, SELL National Geographic Magzines & related material. Box 30045, Denver, CO 80230.

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC Magazine: (1888-1976) Any issue from 1910. (Fine cond.) Reasonable. Price list furn. Don Smith, 3830 Rankin St., Louisville, KY 40214.

LACKING ISSUES. Subscribers to journals listed in Science Citation Index have a good chance of immediately locating lacking issues for years 1970-1975 with the Replacement Serials Section of M.S.I., the worldwide back-issue house. Please address your queries to Maxwell Scientific International (now a Pergamon Press, Inc. division), Fairview Park, Elmsford, New York 10523.

OVER 2,000,000 backdate magazines. Send want lists. Magazine Center, Room 406, 145 West 29th, New York, NY 10001.

MICROFORMS

MICROFORMS. Good second-hand microfilm of periodicals of established micropublishers bought and sold. Write or call Microforms International Marketing Company, Fairview Park, Elmsford, New York 10523. (914) 592-9141.

SERVICES—PERSONNEL

THERESA M. BURKE Employment Agency, 8 West 40th St., N.Y., N.Y. 10018. Specializing in the recruitment of library and information personnel for special, academic, and public libraries.

POSITIONS WANTED

BOOK CONSERVATOR-Hand Bookbinder seeks position; 10 yrs. varied exp. in two major conservation programs treating mostly rare/unique materials. Available for teaching, seminars, lectures, consultation, hand bookbinding, book/paper restoration and preservation. Member: A.I.L. Seeks to relocate. Résumé/recommendations from: Reginald Walker, P.O. Box 588, Peter Stuyvesant Station, N.Y., N.Y. 10019. (212) 982-8013.

POSITIONS OPEN—CANADA

THE UNIVERSITY of Toronto Faculty o Library Science invites applications for th position of Assistant or Associate Professo of Library Science, effective January 1 1977, or July 1, 1977. Competency require in one or more of the following areas: man agement and evaluation of library services advanced reference services; public library services and systems; literature of the socia sciences or of science. Ph.D. or comparable academic or professional qualifications in li brary science or related disciplines required Canadian experience preferred. Rank an salary dependent on qualifications and expe rience. Applications should be sent to: The Dean, Faculty of Library Science, Universi ty of Toronto, 140 St. George Street, To ronto, Ontario M5S 1A1.

POSITIONS OPEN—SOUTHWEST

CHAIRPERSON: Department of Educational Technology and Library Science, Arizona State University. The department of fers academic programs in educational technology (M.A. and Ph.D.), instructional media (M.A.), and school librarianship (B.A. minor and M.A.). Desired qualifications include (1) five or more years of post-doctoral experience in educational technology, instructional development, or library education; (2) a distinguished professional record as indicated by publications, research and development activities, and/or leadership in professional organizations, and (3) experience in program development in a university or educational research and development agency. Rank: Professor or Associate Professor. Salary open. Starting date: January or July, 1977, subject to availability of successful applicant. Application deadline: Nov. 15, 1976. Send letter of interest and vita to Dr. Robert E. Grinder, Associate Dean, College of Education, Arizona State University, Tempe, AZ 85281. A written description of the department will be furnished upon request.

POSITIONS OPEN—SOUTHEAST

ASSISTANT CATALOGER. M.L.S. from accredited library school and experience with OCLC system and LC classification required. Reading knowledge of German or French desired. Immediate opening. Salary about $10,500. Send résumé and any relevant credentials to: Aaron I. Michelson, Library Director, University of South Alabama, Mobile, AL 36688. An equal opportunity employer.

ATALOGER (chiefly serials). University Southwestern Louisiana. Master's de- ee in L.S., four years or equivalent experi- ice in cataloging and serials desirable. nowledge of French and German desir- ble. Familiarity and experience with nation- trends and developments in serials cata- ging and automation desirable. Assistant ofessor rank. 12 months' salary range 3,000-$15,000, depending upon experi- ice. LC classification, member of SOLI- ET. Send résumé and three letters of rec- nmendation to: Miss Norma Durand, ead Cataloger, Dupre Library, University Southwestern Louisiana, Lafayette, Loui- ana 70504. Deadline: November 1. The niversity of Southwestern Louisiana is an ual opportunity/affirmative action employ-

EFERENCE-CIRCULATION. Assistant niversity Librarian. Performs reference nctions, including MEDLINE. Supervises ersonnel at circulation and reserve desk. raduation from college with Master's de- ee in Library Science; or any equivalent ombination of experience and training. One ear's experience in library work. Salary: ,328. Open November 19, 1976. Apply to: da Bowen, Head, Public Services, Medi- l Center Library, 12901 North 30th Street, ox 31, University of South Florida, Tam- a, Florida 33612. An equal opportunity/af- mative action employer.

CIENCE REFERENCE Librarian. Will ork closely with the faculty of the college f science and technology to develop collec- ons. A Bachelor's in the sciences required long with an M.L.S. Two years of library xperience preferred. Salary of $10,000- 11,000 with liberal fringe benefits. Twelve nonth contract. Applications to: Grover shley, Director, Cook Library, University f Southern Mississippi, Southern Station ox 53, Hattiesburg, Mississippi 39401. An ffirmative action, equal opportunity em- loyer.

POSITIONS OPEN—WEST

IRECTOR of Technical Services in new earning activities resource center incorpo- ating library and media services. Under eneral direction of associate director of li- raries, will have major responsibility for lanning, directing, and coordinating efforts f technical services division consisting of rder, serials, and catalog departments. Par- icipation in development or improvement f library policies. Involvement in planning or use of automated and computerized pro- edures in technical services. Staff consists f twenty-five positions, including five librar- ans. Annual budget over $500,000 for ooks, periodicals, non-print media, bind- ng, equipment, and supplies. Qualifica- ions: Graduate degree from an ALA accred- ted school of library science, plus second Master's degree in appropriate discipline or quivalent academic or professional achieve- nent and experience. Minimum of four ears of professional experience involving upervision in technical processing areas of cademic library essential. Experience with utomated procedures desirable. Familiarity with concepts and techniques of comput- rization as it involves technical processes ssential. Experience in cataloging, acquisi- ion, and/or serials work necessary. Salary ange: $17,304-$20,856 (associate librarian). Tenure-track position. Applications and ré- umés by November 1 to: Dwight W. Shan- on, Associate Director of Libraries, Cali- ornia State Univeristy, Chico-Chico, CA 5929. An equal opportunity/affirmative ac- ion employer.

COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT Librarian, University of Nevada, Reno. Responsible for development of collection, coordination of book selection, allocation of $600,000 materials budget. Supervises bibliographic searching unit, including a developing system of accessing BALLOTS. Also supervises gifts and exchange unit. Reports to director of libraries; member of director's advisory cabinet. Minimum qualifications include M.L.S. and four years of progressively responsible experience in a university library, including two years of administrative experience. Background in publishing or book trade acceptable as partial requirement. Beginning salary approximately $18,000-$20,000 depending on qualifications. Top of range is currently $28,785. 12-month appointment with faculty status; TIAA; 24 days annual leave. Mountains, lake, desert, clean air, 4 hours from San Francisco by car. Send application by Nov. 1, 1976 to Harold G. Morehouse, Director of Libraries, University of Nevada, Reno, NV 89557. An equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

POSITIONS OPEN—MIDWEST

TWO POSITIONS: Public Library of Columbus and Franklin County currently has two challenging opportunities for librarians with an M.L.S. from an accredited college or university. (1) Coordinator of Children's & Young Adult's Service, available September 30: responsible for developing educational, cultural, & informational programs for youth. M.L.S. with 3 to 5 years of related experience are required plus demonstrated evidence of initiative in designing innovative programs. Salary range: $13,145-$15,745. (2) Head of Catalog Division, available September 30: applicants should have demonstrated supervisory, organizational, communicative skills, and be familiar with D.D.C. Minimum qualifications 3-5 years of professional cataloging experience, M.L.S. from an American Library Association accredited college or university. Salary range: $12,251-$14,664. The Public Library of Columbus & Franklin County has 21 branches, 3 bookmobile units, an annual budget of $6-1/10 million in a collection of 1.2 million volumes. We offer a creative working environment with continuous opportunities for accomplishments and professional growth. If interested, please forward résumé and salary requirements in confidence to: C. E. Johnson, Director of Personnel, Public Library of Columbus & Franklin County, 96 S. Grant Ave., Columbus, Ohio 43215. An equal opportunity employer. F/M.

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR, St. Paul Campus Libraries: Under dir. of Dir. St. Paul Camp. Libs., resp. for coord. daily & long range lib. oper. for central & six subj. libs. Immed. supr. of heads of pub. serv. and coll. proc. divs. Preps. budget recommendations. Allots misc. payroll, drafts plng. docs. fisc. rpts. Assumes oper. resp. for St. Paul Camp. Libs. in absence of dir. Qual. Required: M.L.S. from accred. lib. sch. 5 yrs. prof. exp. with 3 yrs. exp. in supr. mgmt. capacity in acad. research or spec. lib. Qual. desired: Second Master's in subj. disc., demons. ability to organize plan & supr. lib. oper. Knowl. of budget proc. & computer-based search activities. Salary: $18,000 adj. to qual.; 12-mo. acad. appt. with faculty rank & benefits. Applic. deadline: November 1, 1976. Apply to: Connie Fennewald, Chair., Assistant Dir. St. Paul Campus Search Committee, St. Paul Campus Library, Univ. of Minn., St. Paul, MN 55108.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY Library: Assistant Search Librarian. Assists in planning, supervisory, and procedural responsibilities in combined pre-order/pre-cataloging bibliographic Search Department utilizing NOTIS, a MARC-based computer support system. Incumbent primarily involved in staff training but also participates in a wide range of inter-related technical services activities with particular emphasis on search interface with catalog department. Opportunity to develop supervisory abilities. Qualifications: M.L.S. from accredited library school; working knowledge of one or more of the following: German, Italian, Spanish, French. Experience: Technical services experience highly desirable with demonstrated knowledge of bibliographic methods and book trade and interest in automated systems. Must work well with others and be flexible in responding to multiple demands on time. Available: Immediately; applications accepted through November 1, 1976. Hiring range: $9800-$10,000. Apply: Robert L. Ireland, Personnel Officer, Northwestern University Library, Evanston, IL 60201. An equal opportunity employer.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY: Flexible, all-around cataloger to perform both original and copy cataloging and classification of monographs and/or serials at all levels of difficulty in an automated system, using Dewey 18 and ISBD-M. Must be able to undertake training or supervision of other staff as needed. Requirements: Degree from an ALA-accredited library school. Either two years of cataloging experience (with knowledge of current developments with AACR desirable) or three years of other relevant technical services experience (both in an academic library) and the following: Working knowledge of two modern western European languages, preferably French and German. Proven supervisory capability. Familiarity with MARC format and automated systems. Salary: $10,500-$11,500 depending on experience and qualifications. Open immediately. Applications accepted until November 1, 1976. An equal opportunity employer. Apply: Robert Ireland, Personnel Officer, Northwestern University Library, Evanston, IL 60201.

LIBRARIAN: Responsible for cataloging print and non-print materials and supervising clerical staff; some reference work in growing community college library located 45 miles N.W. of Chicago Loop. Requires ALA accredited M.L.S. and knowledge of LC. Salary $11,137 minimum; 9 month contract, excellent fringe benefits; faculty status. Contact: T. Buchta, Dean, LRC, College of Lake County, Grayslake, IL 60030. Applications accepted through Oct. 31, 1976. An equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

POSITIONS OPEN—NORTHEAST

STATE LIBRARIAN. Responsible for all library operations and functions. Supervise and coordinate expansion of various programs. Must have M.L.S. from an ALA accredited school; at least 5 yrs. experience in positions of increasing responsibility. Salary range $17,000-$19,000. Excellent benefits. Position available immediately. Send résumé and references to: Secretary John D. Daniello, Department of Community Affairs and Economic Development, P.O. Box 635, Dover, Delaware 19901.

THE LIBRARY of Congress invites applications for the position of Chief, General Reference and Bibliography Division in the department of reader services. The incumbent is responsible to the department director for the inventive leadership and supervision of a program to provide a broad range of substantive reference and bibliographic services in all subjects not covered by specialized divisions of the library. The incumbent serves as an authority and representative for the library on inter-agency, national, and international bodies concerned with reference, bibliographic, and documentation activities. The position requires a scholarly background related to one or more subjects within the division's scope sufficient to merit recognition as an authority in the field; a high degree of administrative ability; and the ability to assess scholarly users. A graduate degree in library science and six years of progressively responsible experience is required. (An adequate amount of additional experience or training, as appropriate, may be considered in lieu of qualifications specified.) Sensitive position requiring an appropriate clearance. Salary range: $36,338-$37,800. Please submit Personal Qualifications Statement, Standard Form 171, to: The Library of Congress, 10 First Street, S.E., Recruitment and Placement Office, Attn: #2030, (BC/LJ), Washington, D.C. 20540. An equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

COORDINATOR of adult services for regional library serving eight county libraries on Maryland's Eastern Shore. Responsible for: selecting print and non-print materials; assisting public libraries in planning and development of adult programs; administrative duties assigned by Regional Librarian. Requirements: M.L.S. from ALA accredited school; 2-3 years of appropriate public library experience; knowledge of A/V materials and programming. Position open: Oct. 1. Salary $12,886-16,708. Send résumé and references to: Mrs. Mary Harispe, Eastern Shore Regional Library, P.O. Box 951, Salisbury, Maryland 21801. Equal opportunity employer.

HEAD of Technical Services. Coordinates, interprets, plans and evaluates operations of acquisitions, cataloging, periodicals departments, implementing automation into operational patterns. Responsible to the university librarian. Qualifications: M.L.S. from ALA accredited school; experience in and knowledge of automation; 10 years of professional experience primarily in technical service areas, including 5 years in administrative capacity; ability to communicate well with staff and administration. Salary open. Generous fringe benefits. An equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Submit application by November 1, 1976 to: Nina Cohen, University Librarian, Wesleyan University Library, Middletown, Conn. 06457.

POSITIONS OPEN—HAWAII

University Librarian
University of Hawaii, Manoa

The Chancellor's Search Committee invites applications and nominations for the position of University Librarian.

The University of Hawaii at Manoa (UHM) is a land-grant, sea-grant institution founded in 1907. Current enrollment exceeds 21,000 students. UHM's seven colleges and several professional schools award the Bachelor's degree in 73 fields, Master's in 63, and the Doctorate in 33 (including the JD & MD). UHM is particularly noted for its academic programs concerning Asia and the Pacific and for scientific research relating to the tropical, marine and geophysical environment of Hawaii.

The UHM library holds 1,500,000 volumes. It is a member of the Association of Research Libraries and the Center for Research Libraries.

Qualifications: a degree from a library school accredited by the American Library Association (preferably a doctoral degree) or equivalent experience; experience in administrative leadership in a large academic or research library; understanding of complex library operations including the use of automated systems and information networks. Salary commensurate with qualifications and experience, but no less than $33,876.

Nominations and applications which are postmarked not later than December 1, 1976 will be accepted. Candidates should be available September 1, 1977. Candidates are requested to send curriculum vitae and to arrange for a minimum of three letters of reference to be sent directly by referee to:

Dr. Robert K. Sakai, Chairman
Search Committee for University Librarian
Krauss Hall 101
2500 Dole Street
University of Hawaii
Honolulu, Hawaii 96822

Equal Opportunity Employer-Affirmative Action Employer

INDEX TO ADVERTISERS

Academic Press 2160
American Companies 2126
Auto-Graphics 2114

Bell & Howell 2115
Blackbourn 2120
Boardman Co. 2128
R. R. Bowker Co. 2153, 2156, 2188
Brodart 2103

Congressional Information Service 2117
Coward, McCann & Geoghegan 2192
Thomas Y. Crowell Co. 2166, 2171, 2715, 2181
Current Co. 2124

Disclosure 2127
Dodd, Mead & Co. 2173, 2195
Dow Jones-Irwin 2168

Emerson Books 2191
Executive Communications 2169

Gaylord Bros. 2110, 2111

Hawthorn Books 2175

Information Design 2112
Information Handling Services 2113, 3rd Cover
Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers 2100

KTO Microform 2125
Robert E. Kreiger Publishing Co. 2182

Library Microfilms & Materials Co. 2114
J. B. Lippincott Co. 2165, 2167, 2187
Robert B. Luce 2187
Luxor Corp. 2121

3M 2nd Cover, 2097
Macmillan Co. 2154
Marc Applied Research Co 2124
Marquis Who's Who 2161, 2163
Microfilming Corp. of America 2106, 2107
Microform Review 2150

NewsBank 2129

Olympic Media Information 2130
Oxford University Press 2171

Pentalic Corp. 2124
Pergamon Press 2098
Pick Publishing Corp. 2116
Princeton Datafilm 2126
G. P. Putnam's Sons 2166, 2189, 2193, 2195

Research Publications 2108
Rucker Press 2162

St. Martin's Press 2132, 2158
San Francisco Book Co 2183
Scripture Press 2104
Simon & Schuster 2169, 2193
Sitler's Supplies 2128

Taylor-Merchant Corp. 2124

United Nations 2181
University of California Press 2170 university of Chicago Press 2118, 2119

Viking Press 2165

Westminster Press 2185
John Wiley & Sons 4th Cover

Xerox BiblioGraphics 2122, 2123

NOVEMBER 1, 1976/ISSN 0000-0027

LIBRARY JOURNAL

LJ Public Libraries and the Decline of the Democratic Dogma
Local History Collections: Practical Problems
In the News: Brown U. faces union stalemate; CIA library probes questioned; appointment of woman at San Francisco urged; statewide educ. role for Maine

BURLINGAME
NOV 3 1976
LIBRARY

t is vital that education again become act of faith with Americans. Until that done, public libraries will find little success...

NOVEMBER 1, 1976 / VOL. 101 NO. 19

LIBRARY JOURNAL

[illegible] Boris Hl
Shirley Havens
Karl Nyren
EDITOR, BOOK REVIEW: Janet Fletcher
[illegible]
Book Review: Robert R. Harris
Bibliographic: Bette-Lee Fox
[illegible] Noël Savage
PRODUCTION EDITOR: Ellen Mangin
ART EDITOR: Carlos Delgado
REVIEW EDITORS: Marlene Charnizon
Ellen Kozlowski
Anneliese Schwarzer
ASSISTANT EDITORS: Maureen Crowley
Ann Sankar
PRODUCTION ASSISTANTS: Nancy Brown
Ann Yazejian
EDITORIAL ASSISTANT: Anne Richter
ADV. SALES MANAGER: Richard H. Brown
ADV. PRODUCTION: Maureen J. Rose
PUBLISHER: Paul J. Carnese

LIBRARY JOURNAL is published by R. R. Bowker Co., a Xerox company. Robert F. Asleson, President.

Direct editorial and advertising correspondence to 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York 10036. Telephone: (212) 764-5100. Subscription inquiries and changes of address should be directed to R. R. Bowker Company, Subscription Dept., P.O. Box 67, Whitinsville, Mass. 01588. Publications Offices at 117 Church Street, Whitinsville, Mass. 01488. Issued twice a month, September through June, monthly in July and August. Second class postage paid at Whitinsville, Mass. and additional mailing offices. Copyright © 1976 Xerox Corporation.

LIBRARY JOURNAL is indexed in Library Literature, Library & Information Science Abstracts, and Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature. SUBSCRIPTIONS: USA: 1 year $19.00; 2 years $36.00; 3 years $51.00. Canada and Postal Union of the Americas and Spain, add $2 per year; elsewhere, add $3 per year. Single copy $1.35. Spring, fall, and winter announcement numbers, $3.25 each. POSTMASTER: Please send Form 3579 to R. R. Bowker Company, P.O. Box 67, Whitinsville, Mass. 01588.

LIBRARY JOURNAL reserves the right to make its own independent judgment as to the acceptability of advertising copy and illustrations in advertisements. Advertiser and advertisng agency assume liability for all content (including text, representation and illustrations) of advertisements printed, and also assume responsibility for any claims arising therefrom against the publisher. Offers to sell products, which appear in LIBRARY JOURNAL, are subject to all laws and regulations and are void where so prohibited.

Letters 2203

Editorial 2207

News:

Pay issue snags union talks at Brown U. . . . CIA library probes zapped by Abzug . . . British "book flood" attacks illiteracy . . . CLR funds writing course for librarians . . . Ala. library launches FM radio station . . . EEO officer at Cleveland quits . . . San Francisco urged to hire its first female city librarian . . . statewide continuing education role urged in Maine . . . new cultural programming includes adult educ., music, & local history . . . new outreach to inmates, blacks, & Viets 2209

People 2223

FEATURES

The Public Library & the Decline of Democratic Dogma
BY MICHAEL H. HARRIS 2225

Local History Collections: The Practical Problems
BY JANE FAUX RATNER 2231

Fall Scientific, Technical, Medical, & Business Books 2242

Professional Reading 2237

Checklist 2239

Magazines 2240

Buyers' Guide 2241

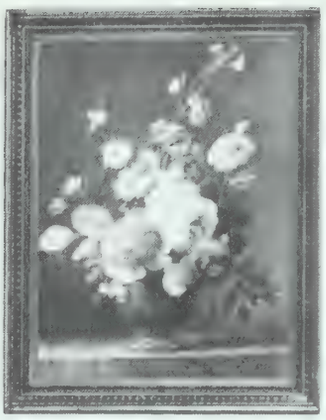
THE BOOK REVIEW

Book Reviews 2263

Index to Reviews and Professional Reading 2306

Classified 2308

Index to Advertisers 2312



ART FOR EVERYONE

There's something for everyone in the new Gaylord Framed Art Collection . . . new subjects . . . new styles . . . new artists. The reproductions have been selected for broad appeal . . . patrons of all ages and tastes will find something to enjoy in the new groupings.

Framing tastefully matches the color and style of each subject. Prints are given a protective coating to keep their surface clean and their colors bright.

Increase your loan collection activity with Gaylord Framed Art . . . write for full-color brochures.

GAYLORD FRAMED ART REPRODUCTIONS. Thirteen new groups of 9 reproductions each, framed and ready for hanging.

GAYLORD MINI-MASTERS. Selected for special appeal to younger patrons. Fifteen groups, 12 each. Sizes from 4 x 7 to 7 x 8 inches, custom framed, ready for hanging.

GAYLORD...ask any librarian.

GAYLORD BROS., INC., LIBRARY SYSTEMS, SUPPLIES, EQUIPMENT & PUBLICATIONS
Syracuse, NY 13201 TWX 710 545-0232 Stockton, CA 95208
Furniture Manufacturing Division Sanford, NC 27330

See how these libraries serve community law book needs

Does your library?

Take a few moments to check your law book section. Compare it with the holding of the libraries listed on this page. They represent just a few of the many hundreds of libraries, from the smallest to the largest, who provide their patrons access to the laws that invade every area of their business and personal lives, laws that not only regulate but also provide important rights and benefits. Your patrons deserve such access.

VIGO COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY, Terre Haute, IN. Serving a population of some 115,000 persons, this progressive library founded in 1882 gives its patrons access to such law publications as Supreme Court Reporter, United States Code Annotated, North Eastern Reporter, Indiana Cases, Indiana Law Encyclopedia and United States Code Congressional and Administrative News. The library, located in a modern university city of more than 70,000, has four branches and operates a bookmobile.

KILLEEN PUBLIC LIBRARY, Killeen, TX. This library demonstrates how a facility in a relatively small community (35,000) can have a fine law book section. On the shelves are such publications as Texas Statutes Annotated, Supreme Court Reporter, United States Code Annotated, Federal Tax Regulations, Internal Revenue Acts and Code and the West Handbook Series Books including Social Securities Claims and Procedures, Real Estate Transactions, Securities: Public and Private Offerings, and Consumer Product Safety Act Guide.

PLAINVIEW—OLD BETHAGE PUBLIC LIBRARY, Plainview, NY. If you travel about one-third of the way out Long Island, you can come upon this library with an outstanding collection of law books. Included are New York Supplement, McKinney's Consolidated Laws of New York Annotated, United States Code Annotated, Supreme Court Reporter, Supreme Court Digest, Modern Legal Forms, Uniform Laws Annotated and America's complete law encyclopedia, Corpus Juris Secundum, as well as several speciality law books. The library is a member of the Nassau Library System.

Here's a suggestion: Write today for your FREE copy of "How Lay Libraries Serve Community Law Book Needs". You will find this booklet informative and useful. It provides you a measuring stick of your service in an important area. Write to: Library Counselor, West Publishing Company, 50 W. Kellogg Blvd., P.O. Box 3526, St. Paul, MN 55165.

WEST PUBLISHING COMPANY

LIBRARIES ARE FOR THE PEOPLE,
SO ARE THE LAWS

LETTERS

Williams & Pearce, pro and con

Eli M. Oboler
University Librarian, Idaho State University, Pocatello:

The Williams-Pearce duo has produced ("Censorship Redefined," LJ, July, p. 1494-96) a masterpiece of reductio ad absurdum, an old technique in argumentation which is very effective as a rhetorical device, but hardly of much practical value. Using their kind of logic, one would never, for example, go on a diet, because various pettifogging distinctions and redefinitions of the Williams-Pearce type would oppose gourmandizing and fasting, and anything in between would be unacceptable because it would not be "pure."

Despite the fact that their article is an obvious satire, several of their offhand obiter dicta need some comment. It is neither true that "censorship controversies rarely consist of more than accusations and denials" nor that "they go nowhere." Censorship controversies do result in reading or viewing either being circumscribed or denied or permitted, and the end result is never "nowhere."

Once again, as I said in my LJ letter (November 15, 1973, p. 3324) about their "Common Sense and Censorship" (LJ, September 1, 1973, p. 2399-2400) these critics of intellectual freedom have expressed the conservative Catholic point of view, but this time they have gone completely Aquinian. The thirteenth century was a great time for scholastic arguments about how many angels could dance on the point of a pin; 1976 is a little late for such. And it would be an utter waste of thought and time to spend "a millenium of controversy" on the niggling points tongue-in-cheeked by Mr. Williams and Ms. Pearce; maybe a Bicentennial minute?

Les Mattison
Director of Libraries, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, Minnesota:

With relief and gratitude many (but not all) of us will take a firmer grasp on "censorship" with the handle provided analytically, cogently and in good humor by Williams and Pearce. The distinction between "communication controls" and "censorship," like many other discoveries seems simple—even obvious—now that it has been revealed. This and similar efforts to establish clearer concepts in support of our attitudes deserve commendation.

Robert N. Bland
Catalog Librarian, Hunter Library, Western North Carolina University, Cullowhee:

Williams and Pearce are to be commended for daring anew a definition of the difficult concept of censorship. Yet, in their latest effort they are, it seems to me, guilty of defining the concept in such a way as to beg the moral and practical questions involved. According to their latest definition, censorship is "any constraint which interferes with and corrupts communication processes and defeats institutional objectives." But the heart of the censorship issue is just this question: whether in all circumstances the limitation of freedom of expression or inquiry for moral, religious, or political reasons—the sort of thing commonly called censorship—is in fact a corruptive influence and a kind of communication control which is always antithetical to the library's objectives. Along with most librarians, I stand among those difficult to convince of the necessity of limiting freedom of expression or inquiry for these reasons; but I would suggest that we cannot solve a genuine moral and practical problem by making it true as a matter of definition that censorship is undesirable.

. . . the weakness in Williams' and Pearce's original argument lies not, as they have concluded, with their original definition of censorship as "any limitation of freedom of expression and inquiry" . . . but with their use of the premise "Freedom of action must be limited by the rights of others." Williams and Pearce seem to interpret this premise to mean "All types of human action must be limited by the rights of others," from which, together with the unproblematic premise "Expression and inquiry are types of human action," they deduce the conclusion "Expression and inquiry must be limited by the rights of others," and by their original definition the further conclusion that censorship is necessary and desirable. But the universal premise "All types of human action must be limited by the rights of others," necessary for deducing the pro-censorship conclusion, is simply false. To take a somewhat silly counter-example, smiling is a type of human action; but I can see no reason why it must or ought to be limited by the rights of others. And the same can be said for other, more serious, kinds of actions: e.g. behaving courteously, telling the truth, judging impartially, and so on. The point is that not all types of human action are such by their nature as even to involve the rights of others, and other types of human action, whose performance may involve the suspension or suppression of prima facie rights of others, may be desirable nevertheless because of their own overriding normative character. In either case, the major premise of Williams' and Pearce's original argument is shown to be false and thus the argument shown to be unsound without begging the moral and practical questions involved in the censorship issue with an evaluative definition of the concept. The censor is left without a general argument, but with the bare claim that freedom of expression and inquiry must be limited by the rights of others.

. . . in their 1973 paper Williams and Pearce were quite right: we cannot intelligently rebut censorship by appeal to an indefensible general principle like "Freedom of expression and inquiry is absolute." Where they were wrong was in supposing that a general case for censorship can be made out by appeal to an equally indefensible general principle like "All types of human action must be limited by the rights of others."

Alan Meyer
Humanities Department, Enoch Pratt Free Library, Baltimore:

Williams and Pearce miss the point in their definition of this important concept. They say, "Censorship is any constraint which interferes with and corrupts communication processes and defeats institutional objectives." Questions of vagueness aside (note for example, that low budget, book loss, lack of parking, and even snow storms are covered by this definition), the strong focus on institutional objectives seems to leave out of account the more fundamental issues of the rights of individuals and the obligations of society.

Isn't it the right of individuals to reading and information and the obligation of society to provide it that should determine the objectives of libraries? The difficult philosophical problems about censorship concern the definition of those rights and obligations, and the resolution of conflicts among them and between them and other rights and obligations of different types. Surely a definition of censorship should begin there. When the authors state in their next to last sentence that, "We still will have plenty to argue about, especially the matter of library objectives and scope," they are tacitly admitting that their definition begs the question.

Some librarians would object to their basic argument that because freedom of action must be limited by the rights of others, and because expression and inquiry are forms of action, therefore the limitation of freedom of expression and inquiry is justified. On the contrary, many librarians would argue that free expression and inquiry are not among those types of action which limit the freedom of others. . . .To say that some acts limit the rights of others is not enough to show that all categories of acts share that property.

Playing with semantics is always a tricky business. Most writers trying to open new worlds by redefining words wind up falling on their faces. Semantics aside however, I think many of the substantive points made by Williams and Pearce, both here and in their earlier article are well taken. "Intellectual freedom" does not mean that all books or all ideas should have equal value in the sight of librarians. Ideas may be sound, useful, entertaining, insightful, absurd, ridiculous, idiotic or dangerous. To treat them all the same is to withdraw from rather than carry out the responsibilities of librarianship.

Robert S. Bravard
Director of Library Services, Lock Haven State College, Lock Haven, Pennsylvania:

I see that in their spare time Williams and Pearce, the twinned Savonarolas of librarianship, have continued to construct their clever, dangerous rationale for censorship. They have continued their infernal tinkering with an ingenious philosophical device that confuses a multitude of issues in the cause of rationalizing a method for keeping me from reading or seeing whatever I may choose to read or see.

Yes, I take this personally. Censorship is quite simply somebody or something keeping me from reading or seeing anything I decide as an adult citizen of the United States that I want to read or see. This point seems to be exactly what Williams and Pearce are trying very hard to obscure.

Censorship is quite separate from laws designed to keep drunken drivers from operating cars, to keep drug addicts from robbing my office, to keep kinky people from forcing their attentions upon disinterested people. I certainly recognize these limitations upon my behavior; I'd be a damn fool not to. Censorship is also quite separate from a set selection policy for a library.

Williams and Pearce may decide not to read or see anything that happens to offend them; they may even advocate that I not see or read it. After that, I will make all determinations for myself. I neither want nor welcome any help in this matter from them.

As a librarian I think I have quite enough trouble dealing with local zealots of all persuasions. I do not welcome the return of Williams and Pearce and their fancy, chromed version of a censor. I trust that their new model will receive just as bad a reception as the old model.

Ex-Lax replies

Edward Schultz
Library Director, Free Public Library, Dover, New Jersey:

Please be advised that in reference to the letter written by Dorothy Lesser, (LJ, July, p. 1467) I have written to the Ex-Lax Company and I would like to share their response with your readers:

Dear Mr. Schultz:

Your letter dated July 22 to Mr. Barwell has been forwarded to our office for attention.

We are sorry to learn that you are offended by our Ex-Lax commercial.

Please understand that our intention is by no means to cast a shadow or cause misconceptions about the role of the library profession.

We intended to show two women who are personal friends. We feel we have accomplished that.

The librarian in the bookmobile is offering the woman who enters the bookmobile the advice of a friend, not the advice of a librarian. We apologize for any false impression we may have unintentionally created.

We will be reviewing this commercial at some point in the future, and want you to know that we will keep your criticisms in mind when formulating a new creative strategy.

Consumer reaction to our advertising is the only way we have to really test the effectiveness of our work. Thank you for letting us know how you feel.—Winston L Cooper, Account Executive, Ex-Lax.

Dr. Pepper, Parker Bros. too!

Milda Sperauskas
Director, Free Public Library of the Township of Mahwah, New Jersey:

Images, images, images!!! Our professional image is atrocious!! I agree wholeheartedly with Ms. Lesser's letter deploring the Ex-Lax commercial which uses a "mousey" librarian to sell its product. The "Dr. Pepper" commercial is not much better!! Here, our "dowdy" librarian (bun, glasses etc.) is awakened by the startling flavor of Dr. Pepper. As though all this weren't enough—there is the picture of the "stern, old maid" librarian in the Parker Brother's game Masterpiece. What is wrong with our profession?? We need some positive images!!

STATEMENT OF OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT AND CIRCULATION
(Act of August 12, 1970: Section 3685, Title 39, United States Code)

1. Title of Publication: Library Journal.

2. Date of Filing: October 1, 1976.

3. Frequency of Issue: Semi-Monthly (Monthly during July and August.)

3A. No. of Issues Published Annually: 22.

3B. Annual Subscription Price: $19.00.

4. Location of known office of publication: 117 Church Street, Whitinsville, Mass. 01588.

5. Location of the headquarters or general business offices of the publishers: 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036.

6. Names and Addresses of Publisher, Editor and Managing Editor:
Publisher . . . . . R. R. Bowker Co. 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036
Editor. . . . . John N. Berry III 1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036
Managing Editor . . . . . None

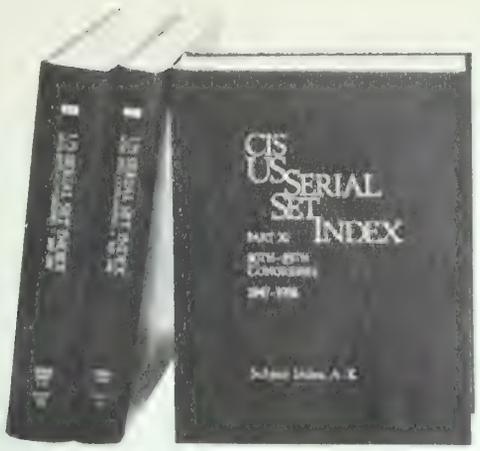
7. Owners: Xerox Corporation, Stamford, Conn. 06905; Cede & Co., Box 20, Bowling Green Station, New York, N.Y. 10004; Atwell & Co., c/o United States Trust Co., Box 456 Wall Street Station, New York, N.Y. 10005; Kray & Co., 120 So. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill. 60603; Trussal & Co., c/o National Bank of Detroit, P.O. Box 222A, Detroit, Mich. 48232.

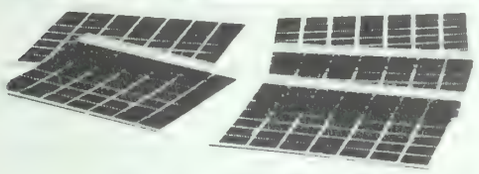
8. Known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 percent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages or other securities: New York Life Insurance Company, 51 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10010; Comptroller of the State of New York, State Office Building, Albany, N.Y.; Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, 175 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass. 02117; Cede & Co., Box 5985, Church Street Station, New York, N.Y.; Atwell & Co., Box 456, Wall Street Station, New York, N.Y.; Stuart & Co., P.O. Box 2781, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y.; Pitt & Co., Box 2444, Church Street Station, New York, N.Y.; Ditco, P.O. Box 2414, Terminal Annex, Los Angeles, Calif.; Lowell & Co., P.O. Box 1479, Church Street Station, New York, N.Y.; C.P.F. & Co., One West Street Station, Trenton, N.J. 06803; Eagle Co., c/o First National Bank of Chicago, Chicago, Ill. 60670; Eld & Co., c/o Harris Trust & Savings Bank, 111 West Monroe St., Chicago, Ill. 60690; Gerlach & Co., c/o First National City Bank, 20 Exchange Place, New York, N.Y. 10005; Heil & Co., c/o U.S. Trust Co., Box 456, Wall Street Station, New York, N.Y. 10006; King & Co., c/o First National City Bank, P.O. Box 1530, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017; Kane & Co., c/o Chase Manhattan Bank, One Chase Manhattan Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10015; Palm & Co., c/o Pittsburgh National Bank, Box 747, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15230; Tiller & Co., c/o State Street Bank & Trust Co., P.O. Box 5006, Boston, Mass. 02101; Way & Co., c/o The Bank of New York, Box 11203, New York, N.Y. 10049; State Treasurer of Florida, Capitol Building, Tallahassee, Fla.; Treasurer, State of South Carolina, c/o Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., Custody Collection Section, 23 Wall St., New York, N.Y. 10006.

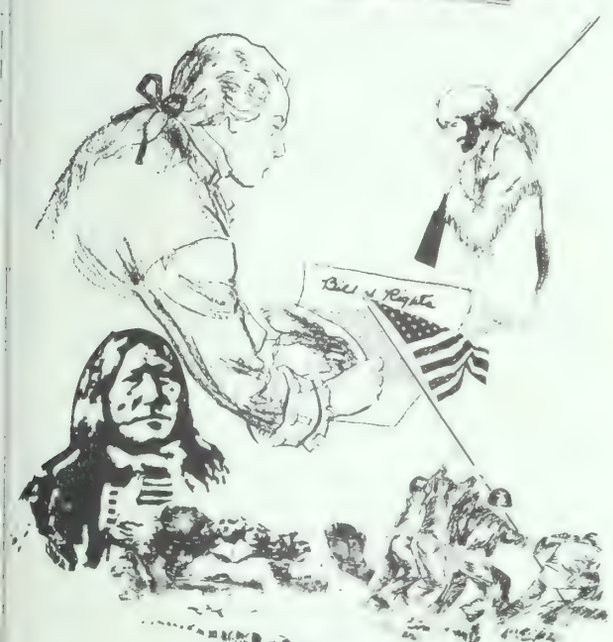
9. Extent and Nature of Circulation:

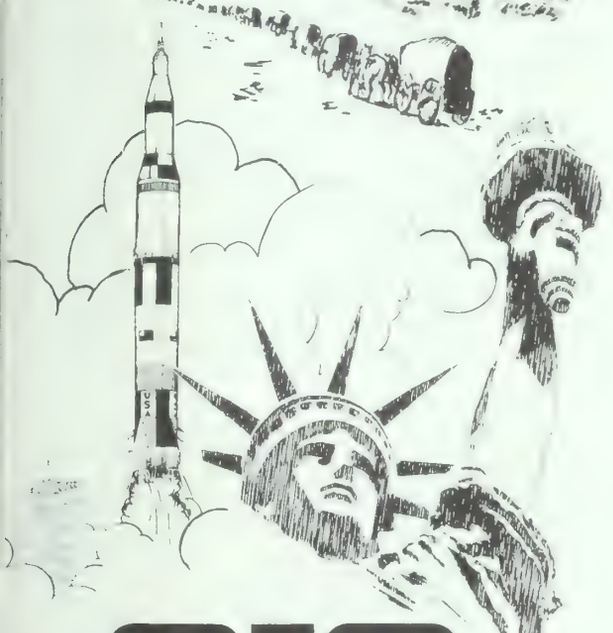
	Av. No. Copies Each Issue During Preceding 12 Mos.	Single Issue Nearest to Filing Date
A. Total No. Copies Printed (Net Press Run)	36,512	33,757
B. Paid Circulation
1. Sales Through Dealers And Carriers, Street Vendors And Counter Sales	0	0
2. Mail Subscriptions	34,590	31,783
C. Total Paid Circulation	34,590	31,783
D. Free Distribution by Mail, Carrier Or Other Means, Samples Complimentary, and Other Free Copies	399	474
E. Total Distribution (Sum of C and D)	34,989	32,257
F. Copies Not Distributed
1. Office Use, Left-Over, Unaccounted, Spoiled After Printing	1,523	1,500
2. Returns from News Agents	0	0
G. Total (Sum of E & F should equal net press run shown in A)	36,512	33,757

I certify that the statements made by me above are correct and complete.
Paul J. Carnese, Vice Pres. & Publisher









180 years of documented American history ★ ★ ★

CIS US Serial Set 1789-1969

The events that shaped America are recorded in depth and detail in the U.S. Serial Set, America's oldest ongoing and most valuable document series. Every significant phase and facet of our nation's growth and development is thoroughly documented—explorations and expeditions . . . commerce and industry . . social concerns and problems . . . foreign and domestic activities. It's all in the Serial Set—a massive collection of more than 325,000 individual titles containing over 11 million pages.

Available on archival quality microfiche

Now your library can acquire this vital historical reference source, add to a present collection . . . or replace it with the CIS US Serial Set on Microfiche. The full texts of documents are being published on silver halide, archival quality fiche—compact, durable, fully catalogued and ready to use.

Indexed in its entirety

The CIS US Serial Set Index, published in twelve parts corresponding to microfiche groups, will allow scholars and researchers—for the first time—to access fully the wealth of important information included in the U.S. Serial Set. The Index is an indispensable finding aid—complete, well-organized, and easy-to-use. It is also an authoritative shelf list.

Invaluable for reference, research and cataloguing

The CIS US Serial Set publishing program will be completed in 1979 and will encompass the American State Papers and Serial Set publications of the 15th Congress through the 91st Congress, First Session. Of the twelve Microfiche groups with companion Index parts, three are available now and a fourth will be published later this year. Microfiche groups are available at an average cost of $8,950 per group. Index parts ordered individually are $400 . . . $360 each on standing order.

Now for the first time, your library can have access to 180 years of documented American history. For further information, return the coupon below.

Congressional Information Service, Inc. SL 116-2
7101 Wisconsin Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20014

☐ Please send me descriptive information on the CIS US Serial Set Index and Microfiche, 1789-1969.

Name _____

Position _____

Library/Organization _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Congressional Information Service, Inc.
Washington, D.C.

TRANSATLANTIC ARTS, INC.

PUBLISHERS AND IMPORTERS

NORTH VILLAGE GREEN, LEVITTOWN, N.Y. 11756 (516) 735-4777

New Books Fall 1976

SPORTS

CATAMARANS FOR CRUISING — $ 6.95
Jim Andrews

IMPROVED KEELBOAT PERFORMANCE — $ 7.95
Fox Geen

MOTOR BOATING - A Practical Handbook — $ 8.75
Hilary & K.J. Wickham

DINGHIES FOR ALL WATERS — $ 8.75
Safe Family Cruising and Day Sailing
Eric Coleman

THE DINGH - OWNER'S HANDBOOK — $ 8.75
Dave Jenkins

CANOE DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION — $10.75
Alan W. Byde

DIVE! DIVE! DIVE! A Sport Diver's Guide — $ 7.50
David Hodgson

MOTOR CARAVANNING - A Complete Guide — $ 9.75
Henry Myhill

ADVANCED HOCKEY FOR WOMEN — $ 9.50
Brenda Reed & Freeda Walker

ALL ABOUT HORSES AND PONIES — $ 6.95
E. Hartley Edwards

SHETLAND PONY — $12.50
Maurice Cox

MOUNTAINEERING - A Manual for Teachers — $ 9.75
D.T. Roscoe

FRANK PENNINK'S CHOICE OF GOLF COURSES — $ 9.75
Frank Pennink

MAKE YOUR OWN SEA - ANGLING TACKLE — $10.00
Leonard F.G. Burrell

ATHLETICS FOR STUDENT AND COACH — $ 9.75
Ian Ward & Denis Watts

SHOTGUNS AND CARTRIDGES FOR GAME AND CLAYS, 3rd ed. — $15.00
Gough Thomas

HOBBIES

ALL ABOUT ACTION PHOTOGRAPHY — $12.95
David Hodgson

ART

VELAZQUEZ (WORLD OF ART SERIES) — $12.95
Joseph - Emile Muller

INTRODUCTION TO STILL LIFE AND FLOWER PAINTING — $12.00
Barbara Dorf

BEYOND AESTHETICS - Investigations into the Nature of Visual Art — $25.00
Don R. Brothwell, ed.

ENJOYING ACRYLICS — $ 7.50
Alfred Daniels

ALL ABOUT CINEMA — $ 6.95
Derek Bowskill

STAGE RIGHT - How to Run an Amateur Theatre Group — $ 9.95
Brian Mathew

CRAFTS

ADVENTURES IN PATCHWORK — $ 5.50
Dorothea Nield

DESIGN FOR EMBROIDERY - An Experimental Approach — $12.50
Betty Whyatt & Joan Oxland

PRACTICE OF COLLAGE — $ 9.95
Brian French & Anne Butler

QUILTING FOR TODAY — $ 4.95
Moyra McNeil

NATURE'S TOYSHOP — $ 9.75
Margaret Hutchings

PRESENTS AND PLAYTHINGS — $ 9.75
Jean Greenhowe

REFERENCE

PEARS CYCLOPAEDIA 85th Ed. — $10.00
Mary Barker & Dr. Christopher Cook, eds.

DICTIONARY OF BRITISH ANTIQUE GLASS — $12.75
Douglas Ash

TREASURES OF THE NATIONAL TRUST — $18.50
Robin Fedden, ed.

HEALTH

FAMILY HEALTH - Care and Management at Home — $ 9.75
Dr. Robert Andrew & Dr. Kirk Hargrave

GARDENING & ANIMALS

PLEASING PETS — $ 7.50
Phil Drabble

GARDENING WITHOUT GARDENS — $ 7.50
Violet Stevenson

FOOD

WINE FOR TODAY — $ 9.75
Johnnie Cradock

WILD MUSHROOMS - An Illustrated Handbook — $ 9.75
Linus Zeitmayr

TRAVEL

AMERICAN HEARTBEAT - Some Notes from a Midwestern Journey — $12.50
Simon Winchester

JOURNEYS DOWN THE AMAZON — $11.50
J.M. Cohen

SOCIAL SCIENCES

REVOLUTIONARIES IN MODERN BRITAIN — $12.75
Peter Shipley

NEW UNIFORM EDITIONS OF SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE'S HISTORICAL ROMANCES

THE WHITE COMPANY — $ 9.75
SIR NIGEL — $ 9.50
THE EXPLOITS OF BRIGADIER GERARD — $ 8.95
THE ADVENTURERS OF GERARD — $ 8.50

HISTORY

THE BAROQUE AGE IN ENGLAND — $19.50
Judith Hook

Men in Office SERIES

CHARLES V - Elected Emperor and Hereditary Ruler — $15.00
Manuel Fernandez Alvarez

FREDERICK THE GREAT Absolutism & Administration — $15.00
Walter Hubatsch

PHILIP II OF SPAIN — $15.00
Peter Pierson

PARAPSYCHOLOGY AND OCCULT

PHANTOM BRITAIN — $10.00
Marc Alexander

EXORCISM: POSSESSION OR OBSESSION — $ 9.75
Richard Deutch

BIOGRAPHY

FRED ASTAIRE — $ 8.50
Michael Freeland

GRAPHICS

FLOWERS AND FLOURISHES — $19.50
John Ryder

TYPE FOR BOOKS - A Designer's Manual — $16.50
Antony Mackay Miller, ed.

COMPUTERS

AN INTRODUCTION TO ALGOL — $ 7.50
F.R. Watson

AN INTRODUCTION TO BASIC — $ 9.75
M.R. Eagle

JUVENILES

BERRY'S BOOK OF HOW IT WORKS — $ 4.75
Roland Berry

TECHNICAL

FINITE ELEMENT TECHNIQUES FOR FLUID FLOW — $27.50
J.J. Connor & C.A. Brebbia

THE MOTORCYCLE MANUAL — $10.00
Roy H. Bacon

Bye-Bye Bicentennial

Most historians would be skeptical of popular versions of the "lessons of history." They argue among themselves about what it is, if anything, that history "teaches." Historiography has an interesting history of its own which has seen scholars take positions ranging from Ranke's view of history as simply the search for and reporting of "the facts," to Beard's "new history" with its easy interpretation and adjustment of the record to fit the contemporary biases of the current historian.

We have all been subjected to hours (as well as a host of "Bicentennial minutes") of history celebrating our nation's past, and coincidentally, the centennial landmark year of our profession. Those of us who must attend such events have celebrated 100 years of ALA in Chicago and again in Philadelphia; the origins of the Library of Congress as it rededicated its "Annex" as "The Thomas Jefferson Building"; 100 years of LJ in print; and a host of local, state, and national historical events of varying excellence, unvarying verbosity, and all uniformly laden with facts. For those who seek them, these events have offered an unusual number of "lessons of history."

For example, our September 1 editorial (p. 1679) was concerned because it seemed to us that library education is increasingly isolated from the field it serves. At a celebration of 50 years of the Columbia School of Library Service, Clara Jones told how Melvil Dewey, LJ's first editor, had fought for a curriculum emphasizing the practical skills when he founded that school. Others involved in those beginnings of library education felt it ought to include theory and concepts more akin to other academic endeavors. Former Columbia Dean, Carl White, detailed the development of library education's ascendency to the Master's level as the field found a home in graduate schools at universities, rather than in major libraries like Pittsburgh's Carnegie or the New York Public where some of the schools began. While that battle is over in terms of accreditation and the location of library schools, it still rages in terms of the curricula and the qualifications of faculty.

Evelyn Geller ("The Librarian as Censor," LJ, June 1, p. 1255-58) found a "lesson" in her suggestion that our predecessors had really established the terms of our censorship debates for subsequent decades in their seminal debates about book selection for that "educational" establishment called a public library.

Beginning on p. 2225 of this issue of LJ, Kentucky's Mike Harris suggests that the "lesson of history" is the erosion of public faith in the "democratic dogma" that free public education through libraries and schools will build an enlightened electorate and thus an enlightened government. Mike's earlier article with its "lesson" drew responses from Richard Harwell, Roger Michener, and Phyllis Dain with more "lessons."

Daniel Boorstin, historian and Librarian of Congress, had librarians rejoicing when, in his "Life of the Mind Lecture" at the ALA Centennial Conference, he drew another "lesson" from history. Boorstin opposed the view that new technology drives out the old, calling that belief "the displacing fallacy." Whether he's right, or just helping librarians do a little wishful thinking, is debatable. (We do type catalog cards now.)

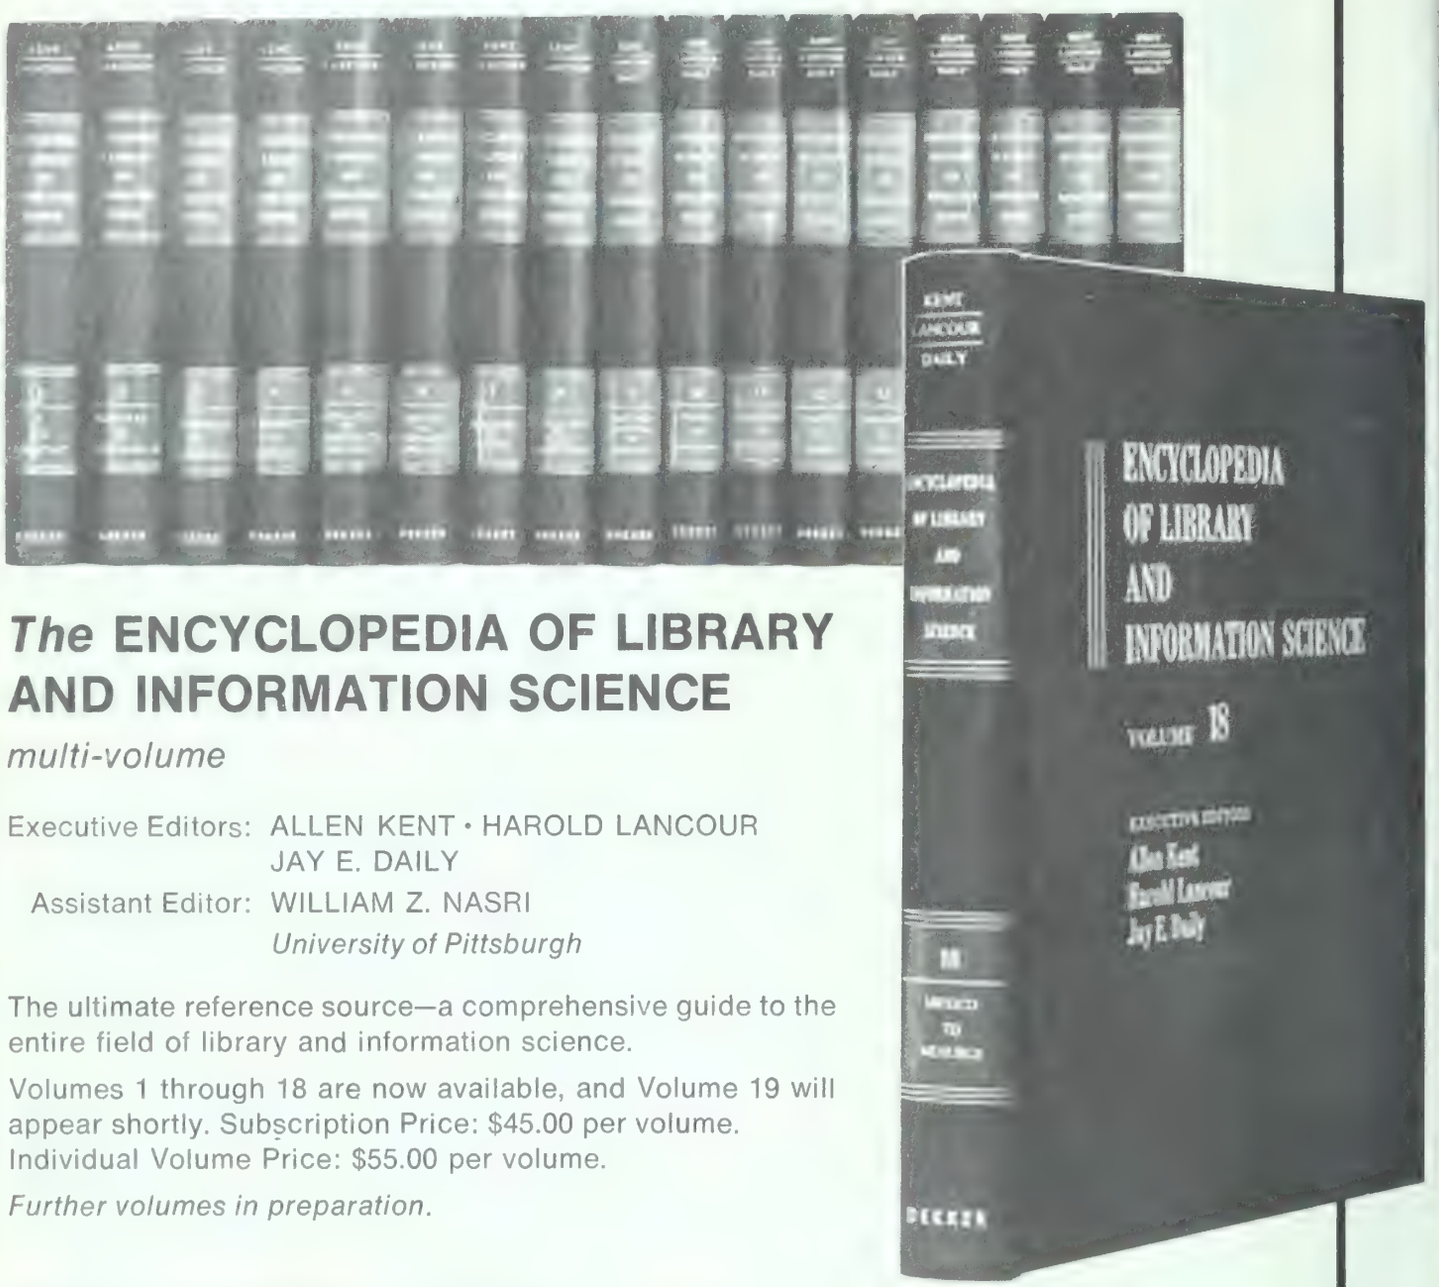
On September 15, 1973, when Mike Harris's first paper was published, we wrote (p. 2491) about the dangers in these "lessons of history." As this Bicentennial year closes, and all the hoopla and history retreats to its normal place in our activities, it is appropriate to restate that danger.

We've watched that ubiquitous cathode ray tube (CRT) replace catalogers, school teachers, theaters, and even some genre of literature. We've seen coded electronic signals replace codex volumes, card files, and huge directories. We've been bloodied by a new menace, the combined one-two punch of inflation and recession. We've heard about a "new" information industry, a "new" free-lance librarian, and "new" ways to meet costs through user fees.

The "lessons of history" provided grist for the mills of a million program chairpersons. They filled the halls of convention hotels, and the seminar rooms in our library schools. But now, in U.S. year 201, library year 101, it might be useful to send the historians back to the libraries and focus on the new America we must serve, with all its old and new social and technological devices to confound us.

John Berry

THE ULTIMATE



The ENCYCLOPEDIA OF LIBRARY AND INFORMATION SCIENCE

multi-volume

Executive Editors: ALLEN KENT • HAROLD LANCOUR
JAY E. DAILY
Assistant Editor: WILLIAM Z. NASRI
University of Pittsburgh

The ultimate reference source—a comprehensive guide to the entire field of library and information science.

Volumes 1 through 18 are now available, and Volume 19 will appear shortly. Subscription Price: $45.00 per volume. Individual Volume Price: $55.00 per volume.

Further volumes in preparation.

and for the ultimate in computer science...

The ENCYCLOPEDIA OF COMPUTER SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

multi-volume

Editors: JACK BELZER • ALBERT G. HOLZMAN • ALLEN KENT
University of Pittsburgh

Subscription Price (Volumes 1-5): $75.00. Individual Volume Price (Volumes 1-5): $88.00

Further volumes in preparation. Prices to be announced.

mdi MARCEL DEKKER, INC. 270 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10016

NEWS

Union stalemate at Brown: pay hikes issue

As a strike action goes into its third month, the administration of Brown University (Providence, Rhode Island) and the union representing striking employees (maintenance, housing, food services, and "non-appointed" library support staff) are still at loggerheads on the issue of salaries. At last report, Brown's administration has refused to budge from its offer of a five to six percent raise, while the Service Employees International Union Local 134 is demanding pay raises of over ten percent. The average salary of striking employees, says the union, is $7,434—with wages ranging from $5,522 to $9,445.

After holding off for a month, says a Brown spokesman, the university cancelled the strikers' benefits and has been hiring temporary replacements for strikers. The union says it's also replacing professionals who will not cross picket lines. The union charges "intimidation" and "harassment" of individual strikers; Brown, on the other hand, has filed an unfair labor practices charge of harassment of persons crossing the picket lines. One such incident involved an assault on Library Director Charles Churchwell by one (non-library) striker, who was subsequently fired. The union says that it stepped up picketing to include the libraries only when it learned of the hiring of "permanent replacements" and of the ordering of "professional, supervisory, and student staff to perform bargaining unit jobs, thus forcing them to become involuntary strikebreakers." But Robert Reichley, Associate Vice President, Office of University Relations, told LJ that most of the new hires are temporaries, although some may get permanent jobs when the strike ends.

Reichley stressed that money is the sole issue; a two-year contract will be in force for another year, and what is being negotiated is a wage reopener. Brown, he said, has been retrenching for three years and has been forced to lay off faculty and staff, and to dip into endowment funds to keep going. The five percent offer, claims Reichley, is the maximum the university can come up with considering its budget plight.

The union charges that the university has broken off talks and has refused to go to binding arbitration.

But Reichley contends that it is not true that the university has refused to go back to the bargaining table, citing an eight-hour session as its latest effort at negotiation. He admitted, however, that Brown had refused to go to arbitration, on the grounds that it would be improper to turn over the responsibility for negotiation to an arbitrator.

CIA library probes zapped by Abzug

In a letter to LJ, Representative Bella Abzug (D.-New York) has warned libraries to beware of attempts by the CIA or state and local intelligence agencies to get information about the borrowing patterns of patrons. Said Abzug, the Subcommittee on Government Information and Individual Rights (which she chairs) "has recently learned that . . . a representative of the Central Intelligence Agency made an unsolicited visit to a major university library . . . in an attempt to determine, without subpoena, what library materials were being used by a U.S. citizen who resided in the area."

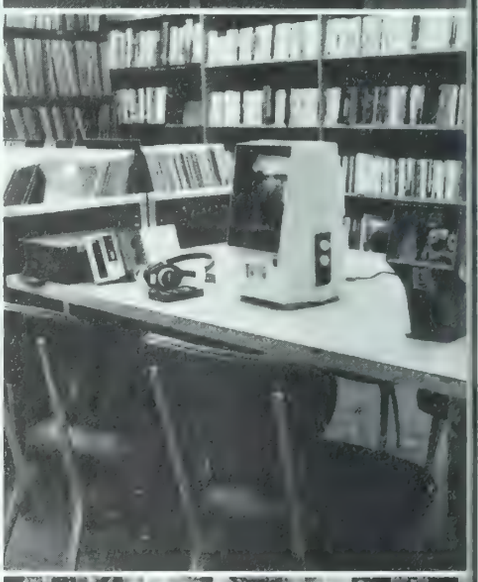
Abzug asks libraries that know of "similar demands from the CIA or any other federal, state, or local intelligence or police entity" to bring such incidents to the attention of Robert Fink, Subcommittee on Government Information and Individual Rights, B-349-C, Rayburn House Office Bldg., Washington, D.C. 20515. Tel.: (202) 225-3741.

LJ put in a call to Fink to find out more about CIA library probing. Commenting on the incident reported by Abzug, Fink said that the librarian in question had asked that his name be kept out of it, but had confirmed the presentation of CIA identification and the request for information about an individual who had received considerable news coverage, with an emphasis on allegations about misconduct in government. The CIA, incidentally, was not a prime target.

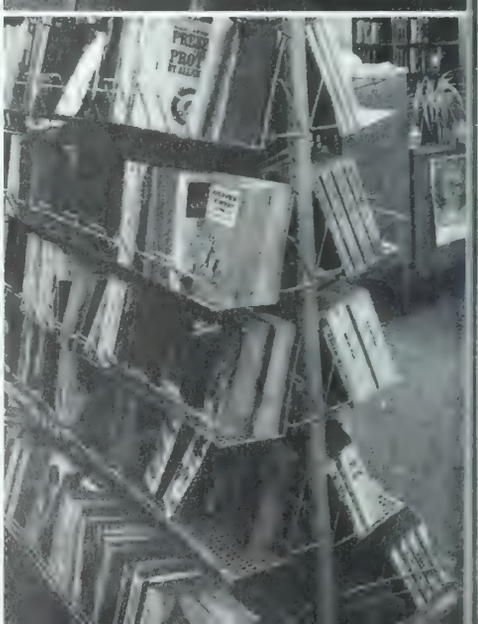
"Book flood" planned for two British schools

Of interest to librarians and educators who have voiced their concern about illiteracy is an unusual experiment in England, where four middle schools are to serve as laboratories in a project that aims to determine whether or not an overflow of books will stimulate reading. A large supply of books will be made available in the classroom to students at two schools, while the normal supply of books will go to students at another two schools. After four years, there will be an attempt to draw comparisons and determine whether the "book flood" has altered "reading ability and comprehension . . . interests, attitudes to television, and general language development."

Bradford University is running the project with a £17,750 grant from the British National Bibliography Research Fund Committee. Many large paperback houses are contributing books. More details on the project are available from: Professor R. Beard, Postgraduate School of Studies in Research in Education, University of Bradford, Great Horton Rd., Bradford BD7 1DP.



POP VOCALIST
POP



WE'VE SPENT 30 YEARS LEARNING YOUR BUSINESS, SO WE COULD BE GOOD AT OURS.

30 years ago, we got our start supplying book jacket covers to libraries. The more our business grew, the more we realized how dependent it was on yours.

So, we began poking our noses into every phase of library operations. Watching, asking, learning. We gained an understanding of library people, library needs, library patrons, and different types of libraries.

We uncovered needs, added and invented new products and services, improved old ones, and in time became committed to an idea...of being the finest, most knowledgeable, most complete single source of supply for libraries.

That's why today, we offer quality supplies and equipment for virtually every library need. Attractive, durable furniture for every nook and cranny. Book services (acquisition, leasing, continuations and technical) for every type of library. Recordings, book cataloging, book ordering systems, and superb service on everything we do.

Because we are a company that believes the measure of how well we do our job, is how well we help you do yours.

We salute the AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION 1876-1976 ALA 100

PLEASE SEND THIS COUPON OR WRITE TO:

BRODART, INC., Dept. B116
1609 Memorial Avenue
Williamsport, PA 17701

Please send me more information about your ☐ Book Services ☐ Recordings Program ☐ Furniture ☐ Supplies & Equipment ☐ Library Automation Services. I am particularly interested in _____

Name _____

Title _____

Library/Organization _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

BRODART

THE LIBRARY COMPANY

1609 MEMORIAL AVE., WILLIAMSPORT, PA 17701 1236 SO. HATCHER ST., CITY OF INDUSTRY, CA 91749 6 EDMONDSON ST., BRANTFORD

Librarians' writing course funded by CLR

Librarians who have decried the dearth of top-notch articles in library literature can take heart in a forthcoming New England Academic Librarians' Writing Seminar that aims to help professional librarians upgrade their writing skills. The Council on Library Resources put up funding for the project, which is to be run at the University of Connecticut Library (Storrs) by University Librarian Norman D. Stevens.

The seminar, says Stevens, will "bring together 10-12 participants on a regular basis during 1977-78 . . . The end products will include a series of essays for a book to be published by Scarecrow Press, a series of shorter essays for a column in The Journal of Academic Librarianship, and at least one other major piece of writing by each participant." The CLR grant will pay for clerical assistance for the seminar and also pay the travel expenses of participants.

Applications are asked from M.L.S. holders who are currently professionally employed in a New England academic library. The deadline for completed applications is November 14; participants will be selected in December; and the seminar is slated to begin in January.

Candidates are urged to contact Norman Stevens, University Librarian, University Library, University of Connecticut, Storrs, Conn. 06268. His phone number: (203) 486-2220.

Book theft in New Mexico; security upgraded in Mass.

A report of a recent book heist in New Mexico lends credence to fears that the problem of library security is growing worse. In Alamagordo, New Mexico, one enterprising woman used fictitious credentials when she got her library card. By the time the library caught on to the scheme, she had taken out daily her limit of expensive art books—checking out almost 40 books valued at $500.

The Malden Public Library (Massachusetts) is one library that has learned from experience. Following the theft and eventual return of its valuable Winslow Homer painting, the burglar alarm which used to be turned off in the daytime is now on round-the-clock duty. Chief Librarian Dina Magleri reports that publicity concerning the theft and ransom of the $100,000 painting has stirred community interest in the library's art collection—particularly the Homer painting.

And Xerox reports that making a photocopied image of valuable objects which might be burgled is a good way to prove ownership. Such was the case in Burbank, California, where a jeweler was able to prove her ownership via photocopies of stolen jewelry sold by thieves to a neighboring store. Photocopying could also be of use in an insurance inventory.

New role for Metro Toronto: reference center only

John Parkhill, director of the Metropolitan Toronto Library Board, reports that—with the exception of the music library, the fine arts section, and the languages center—the Metropolitan Toronto Central Library has stopped circulating materials and will instead "provide a complete reference service to Metro Toronto residents." The new policy, explained Parkhill, "will allow the best use of our nationally known collections and our library staff expertise . . . [It] further defines the division of services between the Central Library and other public libraries in Metropolitan Toronto. We are not attempting to duplicate a branch or community library service, but rather to offer a true reference service for all Metro residents."

Parkhill notes that changing library use patterns signaled the adoption of a new role by the Central Library. In the past six years, he reported, "the number of books borrowed from the library for home use decreased from 369,867 to 189,734 . . . [while] use of materials on the premises has increased from 827,858 to 1,588,133." He noted that patrons can still get books from Central by utilizing their local library's interlibrary loan service.

Huntsville, Ala. library launches FM radio station

With start-up funding of $400,000 from the Department of Housing, Education, and Welfare and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, Alabama's Huntsville-Madison County Public Library has started broadcasting at 89.3 FM for 18 hours a day from its transmitter atop Green Mountain, reports Director Elbert Watson. The Huntsville station—the first full-service public radio station in Alabama and the third major library radio station (following Nashville and Louisville)—has 100,000 watts of power and a radius of 75 miles; it can reach some 500,000 people.

Huntsville's station (WLRH) will run on an annual budget of $200,000, all of it coming at first from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and National Public Radio. NPR, notes Huntsville's Virginia Tomme, is now supporting only large, well-founded projects like Huntsville's because smaller projects have too often flopped. WLRH, notes Tomme, has a full-time staff of nine, including a fund-raising team. Also working on finding financial support is Huntsville's Friends of Public Radio. The approach is to convince well-heeled residents to underwrite a program they like, since no paid ads are allowed.

Huntsville's WLRH broadcasts mostly music; classical, semiclassical, jazz, and folk music programs take up 70 percent of broadcast time. It also airs news both local and syndicate, and has special programming for the blind—aired on a separate channel of the signal.

CCLM seeks input on value of literary magazine catalog

A Ford Foundation grant to "aid in the distribution of noncommercial literary magazines" will help the Coordinating Council of Literary Magazines (New York) undertake a library service program aimed at getting libraries to buy more literary magazines. CCLM plans to "act as liaison between libraries and magazine editors, and between libraries and library subscription agencies." For starters, CCLM wants to develop an annual looseleaf catalog which will serve both as an acquisitions tool and a reference guide.

CCLM asks acquisitions librarians for their reactions to the value of such a catalog. Among its questions: Have they ever used a similar catalog? Would they keep it as an acquisition and reference tool? Would the looseleaf format be a practical way of keeping track of small press materials? Responses, suggestions, or comments should go to: Suzanne Zavrian, Director, Distribution Project, CCLM, 80 Eighth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10011. The number to call is (212) 675-8607.

Public TV tape sales up; public libraries buying

Washington, D.C.'s Public Television Library reports a growing volume of sales and rentals of public television programs on videocasette, with public libraries a leading consumer—one accounting for 22.6 percent of orders. PTL's Video Program Service, which was launched 18 months ago, says that its biggest customers are junior and four-year colleges.

Among the most popular programs created by PTL members: the documentary A Profile of Paul Robeson; the science series Nova; and an alcoholism program titled Drink, Drank, Drunk. Other leading programs include: a 30-program series, Human Sexuality; The National Public Affairs Center for Television's America '73 and Male Menopause: the Pause that Perplexes; Six Hundred Millenia: China's History Unearthed; programs on Woman; and a Food Preserving series.

For catalogs of videocassettes available for rental or purchase, contact Robert Reed, Director, Public Television Library, 475 L'Enfant Plaza, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20024. The number to call is (202) 488-5000.

More libraries switch to COM cataloging

The University of Toronto, North Carolina's Forsyth County Public Library, and the St. Louis County Public Library are the latest to report their decision to switch to computer-output-microfilm catalogs. This growing trend towards initially expensive—but in the long run cost-effective—cataloging signals the approaching extinction of the bulky, hardcopy book catalogs.

• COM at Toronto: The University of Toronto has ordered 67 Information Design ROM 3 COM terminals for display of what is billed as "the world's largest library COM catalog." When the project is completed, the COM catalog will contain nearly 4.3 million entries for the library's collection of 1.25 million titles. Gordon Wright of UT is in charge of the project.

• Forsyth freezes its hardcopy catalog: The Forsyth County Public Library (Winston-Salem, North Carolina) has frozen its hardcopy book catalog and has adopted a COM catalog utilizing 20 Information Design ROM 3 COM terminals. Science Press (Ephrata, Pennsylvania) maintains the library's computerized catalog data base and prepares COM film for the ROM retrieval equipment.

• St. Louis switches: The St. Louis County Public Library replaced its card catalog with a COM catalog. Inovar Division of BroDart, Inc. is handling the conversion of data for display on 110 Information Design ROM 3 COM terminals.

• Book catalog out in Las Vegas: The Clark County Public Library (Las Vegas, Nevada) has purchased 30 Information Design ROM 3 COM terminals to replace its book catalog. Science Press (Ephrata, Pennsylvania) will handle the conversion.

• COM at Salt Lake County: The Salt Lake County Library System reports that it has decided to adopt a microfilm catalog system which will eventually cover the system's entire collection. The catalog will be produced by Autographics; it will first take in new ac-

Quick Bind

New simple desk-top system for professional binding!

It completely eliminates awkward spiral binding and stapling.

Important data, documentations, surveys, reports, legal briefs, and sales presentations can now be converted — in a matter of seconds — into professional-looking, handsomely bound volumes that can be compared with the commercially bound books on your library shelf. Before the very first sentence of your bound communication is read, it is the cover that sets the mood or attitude of the reader. Why risk the contents of an important report on a mediocre or improvised binding when the 'Quick-Bind' professional-looking volume costs so little?

◀ 90 seconds

That's all the time required to produce a handsome, professional-looking hard-cover book from a sheaf of loose papers — including fold-outs.

◀ 15 seconds

That's all the time required to produce a smooth, professional-looking flexible-covered binding of paper or composition materials.

Gestetner Dept. LQ-11 Gestetner Park Yonkers, N. Y. 10703

☐ Send complete details. ☐ I'd like a demonstration in my own office.

NAME _____

ORG. _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____

quisitions, then absorb the library's union catalog and Xerox Book Catalog. Salt Lake plans to buy over 50 readers for Main and its branches.

• Palm Beach to go COM: Florida's Palm Beach County Public Library System, which has been using a computerized, print book catalog, has decided to convert to a COM catalog. Science Press of Pennsylvania will manage the data base; Information Design of Menlo Park, California will supply ROM 3 COM terminals for use in Palm Beach libraries. Palm Beach is reportedly the first library in the state to try COM cataloging.

Pasadena nixes book ban

The Pasadena, Texas, Public Library (Roman Bohachevsky, director) reports that city fathers backed the library board in its refusal to remove from library shelves Nancy Larrick's The Wheels of the Bus Go Round, a collection of school bus songs. The owner of a local Youth Center had complained that one song indicates that Batman is above God, another urges students to stand up to their teachers, and a third advocates shooting politicians—with such lyrics as "Shoot a cat, shoot a rat, shoot a dirty Democrat, shoot a turkey, shoot a hen, shoot a dirty Republican." But the mayor asserted that "the library board is not a censorship board, and one councilman said that "the library's function is to provide books . . . not to become substitute parents."

Anti-Semitic articles deplored

Anti-Semitic references appearing in a recent issue of The Angler and Hunter, a Canadian magazine financed largely by the Ontario Federation of Angler and Hunters, have drawn harsh criticism from some organization members. One item denounced as racist was the headline on a short article about a fisherman losing his wallet and watching two carp toss it back and forth; its title, "No Wonder Jews Eat 'Em." Another story which raised the ire of subscribers was one that accuses "a Jewish lawyer and his young sons" of acquiring a boating company and "running it behind the WASP veneer of the plate-glass storefront." Federation members have demanded that the Federation give an explanation for the anti-Semitic references that they spotted and assure them that such references would never appear again.

Correction: In the LJ Buyers' Guide (September 1) Checkpoint Systems, Inc. was omitted from the following product listing: Security Equipment—Theft Detection Systems.

PERSONNEL ISSUES

Equal opportunity officer at Cleveland quits

Cleveland Public Library's Equal Opportunity Officer Helen L. Summons handed in her resignation following a recent board meeting at which in her opinion she was "publicly maligned" and did not get the support she expected from board members, reports The Plain Dealer. At the meeting in question, Ernest I. Merriweather, a representative of Capitol Supply Inc., reportedly read a letter to the board accusing Summons of acting unfairly when she disqualified his company in a bid for 5000 cassette tapes. The contract went to a competitor. Library Director Ervin Gaines, he contended, had assured him earlier that his firm would get the bid.

Summons had contended that she disqualified the company because several of its employment reports contained conflicting information. But none of the seven board members nor Director Gaines spoke in her defense at the board meeting at which the Capitol case was discussed, and Summons said that this lack of support prompted her resignation.

Commenting on the resignation, Library Board President Lee Howley, Jr. said that Summons was "absolutely not asked to leave. I've been more than pleased with . . . her work, and I'm sorry to see her go." The board plans to review her ruling in the Capitol case. Asked by LJ for a comment on the accuracy of The Plain Dealer's account of the Summons' case, Gaines refused to comment, saying he had "no interest" in the story.

Ironically, Gaines had appointed Summons as Cleveland's EEO Officer in efforts to bring an end to racial animosities that had been plaguing the library and the community. His own appointment as Cleveland director had been challenged, with much criticism focusing on a book review he had written when he was director of the Minneapolis Public Library. He had said that a book espousing the theory that blacks are genetically and intellectually inferior to whites was worth reading. Just as Gaines came to Cleveland, racial tensions were such that a much needed referendum for Cleveland's building program was voted down at the polls.

Since his appointment, however, Gaines seems to have been fairly successful in defusing the racial situation, and the Summons incident is the first report that points to a rekindling of old animosities.

But the Cleveland press isn't giving much play to Summons' resignation; overshadowing that incident is the news that the library has started on a five-year program of building and renovating branch libraries. Six architects have been asked to submit designs, and contracts are slated to go before the board. The new building program is the result of Gaines' biggest victory since he came to Cleveland: the passage by the voters of a new tax levy that is expected to generate $4.3 million annually for the library. The new tax, which won approval in 1975, provides both operational and capital funding.

San Francisco urged to hire a woman as city librarian

The Ina Coolbrith Brigade/Bay Area Chapter of Women Library Workers—a local organization which claims credit for getting the Oakland Public Library to appoint a woman as director—is at it again; this time around the WLW chapter is urging San Francisco to appoint its first female city librarian. Former San Francisco City Librarian Kevin Starr quit when his request for a leave of absence to write a book on the history of California was denied. Women Library Workers, incidentally, is a national organization that was launched at ALA's San Francisco meet with the goal of addressing needs and problems faced by female professional and non-professional library staffers.

Speaking on behalf of WLW's San Francisco Bay Area Chapter, Librarian Ann Marie Gold urged the San Francisco Public Library Commission to appoint a "well-qualified woman" as city librarian. She pointed out that "only three of the 26 largest public libraries in the country are headed by women" and that "in its 98-year history, the San Francisco Public Library has never been directed by a woman." Gold stressed that: "We are not blindly urging you to select a woman regardless of her background. We want a qualified woman in this job, one who will be responsive to the entire staff and community, not only to women." And she told the Library Commission that the WLW chapter had emphasized that a woman of stature was needed when it urged the Search Committee to appoint a new City Librarian with "positive attitudes toward women and minorities as library users and workers, toward continuing education and job enrichment for all employees, not just professional librarians, toward participatory management, and toward job sharing."

Gold noted that the San Francisco Chapter of the National Organization of Women (NOW), Women Organized for Employment, and the San Francisco Commission on the Status of Women have joined WLW in urging the appointment of a woman as San Francisco's next city librarian.

Canadian library staffers warned against protesting

As this issue went to press, LJ learned that at least one Canadian library has attempted to discourage its staffers from participating in a "day of protest" against federal anti-inflation policies; the protest, organized by the Canadian Labor Congress, was slated for October 14. The Edmonton Public Library has warned its staffers that they face disciplinary action if they join the protest.

Stressing that the library board "takes a very dim view of anyone joining this protest," Edmonton Board Member Ronald Hayter said that anyone who stays out of work to join the protest "will be charged with staging an illegal work stoppage and be subject to penalties . . . which range from reprimand to dismissal."

Grant to Radcliffe funds black women's oral history

Radcliffe College's Schlesinger Library has received a two-year grant of $98,700 from the Rockefeller Foundation to support a biographical oral history project on the lives of black women. Interviews are to be conducted with educators, businesswomen, entertainers, writers, artists, social workers, community organizers, religious leaders, and women in politics, government, and the health professions—with the focus on black women who began their active public lives prior to the 1930's. The interviews will be transcribed at Schlesinger where the manuscripts and other supporting documentation will be housed for research use. Copies of the transcripts will also be deposited at a selected number of black colleges and universities. Elizabeth Leonar of Schlesinger is project coordinator.

The project's advisory committee asks for suggestions of possible interviewees as well as information on other oral history projects in similar areas. Suggestions should be sent to Patricia M. King, Director, The Schlesinger Library, 3 James St., Cambridge, Mass. 02138.

School $$ going for salaries

The National Center for Education Statistics reports that elementary and secondary schools spent some $1.8 billion on libraries and media centers in 1973-74, most of it (69 percent) going for salaries. As for acquisitions, 14 percent (about $165 million) of the 1973-74 budget was used for books, two percent for periodicals, and six percent for AV materials. Money spent, says the NCES survey, gave 44 million pupils in 74,600 schools access to "about 507 million books and periodicals by 55,000 female and 7000 male 'certified' library staff."

New group for computer people

The Chapter News of the New York Chapter of the Special Libraries Association reports the formation of the Data Processing Librarians and Documentation Managers Association. First organizational meet was reported held in Boston, where discussion focused on "The Role of the DP Librarian in Systems Development" and "Security in the Management of Tape Records." Information and Records Management magazine (Rodd Exelbert, publisher) was the moving force behind the new association.

NEARLY 100 PUBLISHERS STRONGER.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL 1976

Don't wait any longer to order the biggest and most valuable bargain in the book world. PTLA 76 has the specially prepared catalogs of 1,353 publishers of all kinds, sizes, persuasions.

Only here can you...
- find all titles in a particular publisher's series
- find subsidiaries and imprints
- find a publisher's overseas representative
- learn about discount schedules
- identify a book when only the publisher is known
- select more titles to fill out an order from a given publisher to qualify for a discount
- get detailed information about an individual publisher's books
- keep current with changing warehouse facilities
- find the latest addresses and phone numbers of regional offices.

A single, 6-vol. source that takes up less than 18 inches of desk or shelf space. Is there anything else? Use the coupon.

ISBN 0-8352-0896-6. ISSN 0079-7855. LC 4-12648. September, 1976. c.10,000 pages. $45.00 the 6-vol. set.

Order from:
R.R. Bowker Order Department
P.O. Box 1807, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106
Check with order and we pay all shipping and handling charges. Please add sales tax where applicable.

Please send me:
THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL 1976
(0-8352-0896-6) $45 per 6-vol. set _____
Applicable tax _____
Total _____

Enclosed is a check (money order/purchase order) for $_____. I understand that you will pay all shipping and handling charges on prepaid orders. Return Guarantee: Books in salable condition may be returned within 14 days for a full refund.

Name _____
Address _____
City/State/Zip _____

Outside Western Hemisphere: Bowker, Erasmus House, Epping, Essex, England. Price is subject to change and slightly higher outside the U.S. and its possessions.

BOWKER
NEW YORK & LONDON

CHECKPOINT MK I

A typical Checkpoint Mk II installation. On the left, circulation desk with sensing screens, one-way electric-locking exit turnstile; center, emergency exit theatre cord; on the right, one-way manual entrance turnstile.

The tiny pressure-sensitive Checklabel — it's only thre inches long — will safely guard all the items you carry your library, from tiny foreign-language dictionaries prints to tapes to audiovisual aids.

It can double as a bookplate and is quickly installed b hand, without the use of tools.

The non-magnetic Checkpoint Mk II System will n scramble or erase magnetic tapes — nor interfere wi cardiac pacemakers. Nor will it alarm for such no library items as three-ring notebooks, metal-rimme riefcases, umbrellas. You are able to take firm correc- ve action because there are no false alarms.

HE ONLY LIBRARY SECURITY SYSTEM THAT PROTECTS EVERYTHING N YOUR COLLECTION WITH A SINGLE, SIMPLE LABEL

Not only is Checkpoint Mk II the smallest, simplest, most rouble-free, most economical library security system — ut it is also the most effective, with a remarkable loss eduction record. (Ask to see the names and loss reduc- on records of nearby installations.)

Plan now to put a Checkpoint Mk II System in your udget. It's much cheaper than lost books. For all the acts, just use the coupon.

CHECK

IN THE U.S.A.: 110 EAST GLOUCESTER PIKE, BARRINGTON, NJ 08007
IN CANADA: HIGHWAY 17 EAST, CUMBERLAND, ONTARIO K0A 1S0
A member company of Logistics Industries Corp. (A.S.E.)

Yes, I'd like the facts on how the CHECKPOINT Mk II System can protect my library.

NAME _____ TITLE _____

LIBRARY _____ PHONE _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____

New for '76/77

You Are Invited

. . . to write for your personal copy of our exciting new catalog. The largest collection of Library/AV equipment, furniture, and supplies in the world. Over 250 new items; almost 13,000 listings in all. An indispensable tool, free to those who can use it!

The Highsmith Co., Inc.

P.O. 25-0800 Fort Atkinson, WI 53538

DAVEY

Since 1842 —
the standard binder's board
for library bindings.

RED LABEL BOARD

SOLID BOARD EST. DAVEY 1842 RED LABEL

Distributors in all principal cities

THE DAVEY COMPANY
164 LAIDLAW AVENUE
JERSEY CITY, N.J. 07308

EDUCATION

On-site training, new tech., & archives

On-site training courses (College of Librarianship, Wales) and a data processing correspondence course (University of Wisconsin-Extension) are among the educational offerings available to today's librarians. Other courses reported to LJ include an institute on new technology in special libraries; a series of institutes in archives administration; and a new course in Literature of the Performing Arts.

• On-site training: Noting that increased costs and cuts in training budgets are keeping too many potential students away from its Aberystwyth campus, the College of Librarianship, Wales has started offering on-site training courses "that can be adapted to suit the training needs of individual libraries." As for costs, libraries are asked to pay only travel and subsistence costs for traveling CLW staff.

• Data processing correspondence course: The University of Wisconsin-Extension is offering a ten-lesson correspondence course for librarians who will be working with computer systems in their circulation and reference departments. Data Processing: Basic Concepts delves into computer capabilities, terminology, hardware, elementary applications, and the selection, design, and use of computer systems. More information on the course is available from Independent Study Coordinator, Department of Business and Management, University of Wisconsin-Extension, 432 N. Lake St., Madison, Wis. 53706. The number to call is (608) 262-2155.

• New technology & special librarians: Southern Connecticut State College recently held "a continuing education program for special librarians and other information users who require a practical understanding of online data systems." The course was titled, On-Line Information Service Institute for Special Libraries.

• Double degrees: Case Western Reserve (Cleveland, Ohio) reports that its master's level double degree program now includes such combinations as: an M.A. in Art History and M.S. in Library Science; an M.S. in Computing Sciences and an M.L.S. degree; an M.S. in Operations Research and an M.L.S.; an M.A. in Music History and an M.L.S.; and an M.S. in Social Work and an M.L.S. Students can also earn double degrees in library science and such fields as education, anthropology, and English.

• Archives institute: The American University (Washington, D.C.) announces its 1976-77 series of institutes on Introduction to Modern Archival Administration. The first dates are November 1-2 at the National Archives Building; tentative later dates are February 28-March 11, and June 6-17, 1977. Among the slated topics: records appraisal and disposition; reference service; microphotography and archives; AV records and archives; automation and the control of archives and manuscripts; oral history; state and local archives; and professional status and development.

• Performing arts: Columbia's School of Library Service reports a new course in Literature of the Performing Arts. Instructor Susan Sommer, Head, Rare Books and Manuscript Collection, Music Division, and Curator, Toscanini Memorial Archive at New York Public Library, will survey reference tools and information sources in such areas as music, dance, theater, films, radio, and TV.

Continuing educ. in Maine: statewide role urged

Stressing the importance of addressing "the immediate educational needs of librarians working at every level in the state," the Continuing Education Committee (CEC) of the Maine Library Association has set forth recommendations that urge the creation of a Standing Advisory Committee of Continuing Education (SACCE). Its role would include organizing and coordinating on a statewide basis workshops, in-service training programs, personnel exchange programs, and correspondence courses.

The Standing Advisory Committee, says CEC, should have as elected members representatives from major library groups, including the Maine Academic and Research Librarians (MARL); the Maine Educational Media Association (MEMA); the Maine Library Trustee Association (MLTA); the Small Public Libraries Association (SPLA); the Health Sciences Library and Information Cooperative (HSLIC); the Maine Library Commission; the State Library; and the District Consultant.

As for the role of the Advisory Committee, CEC urged that the committee devise policy for continuing library education within the state—suggesting actual courses, geographical locations, and course sequences—learning opportunities for everyone from professional librarians to LTAs, clerks, and trustees. The Advisory Committee, which is urged to work closely with such organizations as the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science (NCLIS) and the Continuing Library Education Network Exchange (CLENE), would work to make ALA-accredited courses available, encourage and support such informal learning activities as independent study or group learning experience, and promote an open admission policy.

As for credit for study, Maine's CEC said, "until such time as a nationally recognized unit is established . . . CEU's (Continuing Education Units) should be . . . [awarded to record educational achievement]." CEC also urged that continuing education in the state "be evaluated regularly with special consideration given to educational needs, program content, geographic location, and instructors."

Also recommended: that there be appointed a permanent Coordinator of Continuing Education for the state, duties to include acting as executive secretary for the Committee, maintaining a clearinghouse on educational opportunities, and developing informational and promotional material.

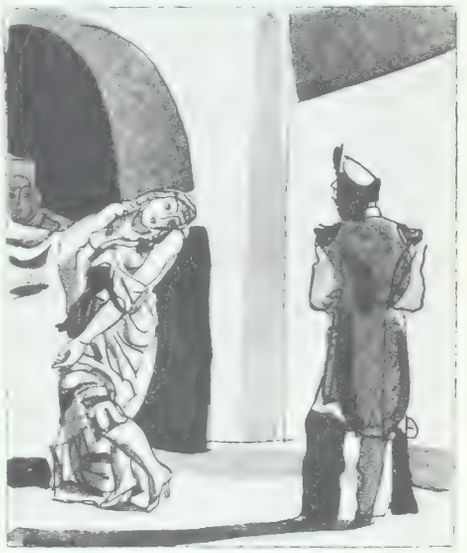
As for costs, CEC urged the State Library to pay the salary of the coordinator. Libraries would give financial support, and individual staff and employers would give remuneration for workshops or courses held. Libraries, schools, and other public buildings, suggested CEC, should donate space for courses and workshops.

Oklahoma U. loses accreditation

The Oklahoma Department of Libraries reports that the University of Oklahoma School of Library Science will lose its ALA accreditation in January of 1978. The ALA accreditation team decided to strip the school of its accreditation because of shortcomings in "curriculum, quantity of instructors and quarters." Students who graduate before the January 1978 deadline will receive accredited degrees. Oklahoma can contest ALA's ruling before the 1978 deadline as did Dalhousie several years ago when it got ALA to restore its accreditation.

Change is focus of Allerton meet

The Allerton Institute for 1976 will address the topic, Changing Times: Changing Libraries—exploring likely social trends in the next 25 years and their implications for libraries. The annual institute, taking place for the first time off the University of Illinois campus, is slated for November 14-17 at Century 21, near the Champaign Urbana Campus. Planning chairpersons George S. Bonn and Sylvia G. Fabisoff report that they've tried to get more younger librarians to attend this year's institute. To get in under the wire, contact Edward C. Kalb, Conference Coordinator, 116 Illini Hall, University of Illinois, Champaign, Ill. 61820.



Page from a 1931 edition of "Carmen and Letters from Spain," which is among recent acquisitions of NYPL's Berg Collection, displayed at the library

Get under Bowker's periodicals blanket.

"Truly outstanding reference tool." American Reference Books Annual

ULRICH'S INTERNATIONAL PERIODICALS DIRECTORY
16th edition

Gives you the editor's name, circulation, subscription rates, ISSN number, frequency, name and address of publisher, language used in text, where indexed or abstracted, year first published and much more for some 60,000 periodicals of all kinds from all over the world. Arranged under 250 subject areas from Adventure and Romance to Gerontology and Geriatrics to Religions and Theology. Includes an ISSN index, New Periodicals Index, List of Cessations.

ISBN 0-8352-0824-9. ISSN 0000-0175. LC 32-16320. 1975. 8¼" x 11". 2, 289 pages. $50.00.

"Indispensable." The Booklist

IRREGULAR SERIALS & ANNUALS
An International Directory,
4th edition

Your only source for current finding, ordering and descriptive information on some 30,000 serials, annuals, proceedings, supplements, yearbooks, annual reviews, symposia, organizational reports, and all other publications that come out not more than once a year or irregularly. Same subject arrangement as Ulrich's. Numerous special indexes and appendixes.

ISBN 0-8352-0901-6. ISSN 0000-0043. LC 67-25026. 1976. 8½" x 11". 1,068 pages. $45.00.

"Meets the standard of excellence." The Booklist

BOWKER SERIALS BIBLIOGRAPHY SUPPLEMENT 1976

Lists and provides full data on some 7,000 periodicals, irregular serials and annuals that did not appear in the 16th edition of ULRICH'S or the 4th edition of IRREGULAR SERIALS. Same subject arrangement.

ISBN 0-8352-0854-0. ISSN 0000-0094. LC 72-2677. September, 1976. 8¼" x 11". 358 pages. Paper. $22.50

Coming December, 1976—the landmark first edition of...
SOURCES OF SERIALS
An International Publisher and Corporate Author Directory to Ulrich's and Irregular Serials

Now you'll be able to quickly and accurately identify, locate, and contact 50,000 serial publishers around the world. This brand-new directory arranges all 90,000 titles listed in the latest editions of ULRICH'S, IRREGULAR SERIALS and the SUPPLEMENT first by country and then within each country by publisher and/or corporate author, providing the official name and address for each.

ISBN 0-8352-0855-9. 8½" x 11". c. 2,700 pages. $50.00t.

Order from: R.R. Bowker Order Department
P.O. Box 1807, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106

Outside Western Hemisphere: Bowker, Erasmus House, Epping, Essex, England. Prices are subject to change and slightly higher outside the U.S. and its possessions.

BOWKER
NEW YORK & LONDON

PROGRAM ALERT

Adult education, music, & local history

Reports of independent study projects at libraries in New York and Houston, professional musical recitals and "coffee concerts" at the Hartford Public Library, and the production of a local history slide-cassette series by the Toledo-Lucas County Library show the varied approaches being tried by libraries that want to break the old stereotype of the library as a book warehouse and establish new roots in the community as cultural institutions.

• Adult education: New York's Nassau Library System reports that more than 20 Nassau libraries and two Suffolk County libraries have become off-campus centers of learning and offer both bachelor's and master's level college courses. Adelphi, Hofstra, C. W. Post, and the State University of New York at Stony Brook are among the colleges participating in the library degree programs. Offerings include such credit courses as: Education as a Means of Social Change; Minority Group Problems; Perspectives in Community; Business Law; Linguistics; Philosophy of Religion and Ontology; Marketing Process and Consumer Psychology; and a master's program in business administration. The New York libraries are also offering a variety of noncredit courses, including Ancient Israel, Sexuality in Transition, crewel and bargello, art and ceramics, belly dancing, and yoga.

From Houston, comes another report on adult education: 15 Houston Public Library branches now serve as "adult learning centers," and all new branches are to include space for learning centers because Houston feels that it will "be dealing with literacy and continuing education as regular, permanent programs." At last report, Houston had recruited some 45 community volunteers—all of whom were trained by Houston Community College—to tutor in libraries. The library offers GED (General Education Development) tutoring to persons who want to take the exam for high school equivalency, provides career guidance, and gives instruction in literacy, English-as-a-second language, basic math, reading, and language.

• Music in Hartford: A grant from the Greater Hartford Arts Council will fund a music program at the Hartford, Connecticut, Public Library. Hartford's "Premiere Series" will feature professional musicians in recitals which "premiere a new, unpublished piece of music." Among the artists booked thus far: soprano Josephine Graziano and pianist Richard Kessler. The library is also making use of its theater-sized auditorium during the lunch hour. Inner-city workers are invited to bring their lunches to the library for "coffee concerts," featuring local performing artists who want to perform before a live audience. The Art & Music Department serves coffee to anyone who shows up.

• Toledo's history: The National Endowment for the Humanities has awarded a $25,000 grant to the Toledo-Lucas County Library (Ohio) to produce seven 30-minute slide-cassette presentations highlighting Toledo history. Among the programs planned: Toledo Historical Highlights, Tours of Toledo-Area Towns and Neighborhoods, The Afro-American Experience in Toledo, The Ethnic Experience in Toledo; The Fight for Women's Suffrage in Toledo, Meet Me at Tiedtke's (a documentary about a famous local department store) and Toledo in the 1920's. The grant also pays for a general brochure, individual pamphlets on each program, and relevant booklists.

• Oral history & California's wine industry: The Regional Oral History Office of the Bancroft Library, University of California at Berkeley reports the completion of interviews of 24 California wine industry leaders. Their memoirs fill 20 volumes, which have been deposited in selected libraries for use by historians. Notes Bancroft, "The series is of particular importance because Prohibition interrupted the orderly recording of material about the wine industry although some winemaking did continue under Prohibition Department permits." Interviews include those with Louis Martini, Ernest Wente, Antonio Perelli-Minetti, Maynard Amerine, Harold Olmo, and Ernest Gallo.

• Country music: Live country music concerts, a square dance night, a slide/sound show on western artists, and a guest appearance by novelist Louis L'Amour were among the activities held in October at New Hampshire's Nashua Public Library in celebration of Country Music Month. Other events include: an exhibit resembling a western movie set, screenings of western movies, and displays of everything from the latest country mu-

At your service!

As a subscriber, you're far more than just a name-and-address label to us.

That's why we want to give you the best subscription service possible.

You can help us—and yourself—by checking the label that's on this issue to make sure it's 100% correct.

If it isn't, please paste it in the space outlined above and send it back to us with the necessary corrections.

We don't want a single subscriber with a disabled label!

Send corrections to:

MR. EDWARD W. MARTIN, CIRCULATION DIRECTOR
LIBRARY JOURNAL
1180 AVENUE OF THE AMERICAS • NEW YORK, N.Y. 10036

sic albums to country music instruments. Area record and book stores, newspapers, and country music radio stations are promoting the library's country music bash.

• NYPL art exhibits: The works of artists Ernest Haskell and Josef Albers are the latest to be put on display by the New York Public Library. NYPL's Prints Division has on display an exhibition of etchings, drawings, lithographs, and posters by Haskell; NYPL also put up an exhibition of more than 50 prints by Albers, an influential art theorist.

Gov't. information, women, & cooking crepes

A high-powered workshop aimed at teaching people how to "Make Your Government Work for You," a series of lectures for women, and cooking lessons in the art of making crepes are among the latest reports of efforts by libraries to reach varied segments of the population they serve.

• Gov't information: Ohio's Akron-Summit County Public Library recently brought together representatives of the Ohio Senate, the County Court of Appeals, the Board of Elections, the Economic Development Program, the Mental Health Association, and the League of Women Voters for a broad-gauge, all-day workshop aimed at helping residents learn how government works and how to make their own voices heard. Interestingly, Akron-Summit had on deck an interpreter for deaf people in the audience. The workshop, Make Your Government Work for You, consisted of six sessions dealing with such topics as voter registration, class action suits, and lobbying for special legislation. The sessions included: What Every Citizen Should Know; How To Be Better Informed; What Lobbyists Do; Concerning Campaigns and Candidates; About Making Your Voice Heard; and Where the Courts Fit In. Among the various local organizations that helped the library develop the workshop were: the Akron Urban League, the American Association of Retired Persons, Common Cause, the Humanity House, the County Society for the Blind, and the University of Akron Institute for Civic Education.

• Cooking crepes: Merrillville, Indiana residents who came to the Lake County Public Library to see gourmet cook Judith Goldinger show them how to make crepes got free crepe snacks as well as copies of her recipes.

• Programs for Women: Ohio's Akron-Summit Public Library is running a series of lectures for women—one-hour sessions covering such topics as diet and exercise, female health, family planning, and mental health. Cooperating with Akron-Summit in planning and running the program are the Cooperative Extension Service, the Planned Parenthood Association of Summit County, and the Portage Path Community Health Center. One interesting sidelight: the library offered child care services (story hours and supervised play) to women with young children.

• Color photocopying: The Lawrence Public Library (Massachusetts) is trying out a color photocopying service, reports Director James Kennedy. The library's fine arts department now houses a Xerox 6500 color copier, which can reproduce both slides and posters.

Prison service, hairbraids, & Viet info packets

Recent reports of library programming indicate that library outreach has come a long way since libraries started delivering books to the homebound; outreach now includes such projects as a hair-braiding contest for black youngsters, library service for the children of families visiting inmates, and an information packet for the Vietnamese, America's newest immigrant group.

• Prison service in Jersey: An LSCA grant of $15,300 will enable the Free Public Library of Woodbridge, New Jersey to hire a part-time librarian and a community aide to run its Rahway State Visitor's Program. RSVP, a program launched in 1975, had been run by volunteers who would come to the prison one day a week to entertain the children of visiting families with crafts projects, books, and games. Rahway will still rely on volunteers to help out in the program, which has been expanded to both Saturdays and Sundays.

• Hair-braiding: North Carolina's Forsyth County Public Library is trying to help black youngsters establish their racial identity with such events as an annual hair-braiding contest.

• Viet info packet: Minnesota's Hennepin County Library (Robert Rohlf, director) has produced a second packet of bilingual Vietnamese information materials. Although much of the material provided relates primarily to the government structure and community social services in Minnesota, libraries outside the state, notes Hennepin, could use the packet as a model. To get a copy of Vietnamese Information Packet II, send 25¢ and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Public Information, Hennepin County Library.

JOSTEN'S 1977-78 LIBRARY SUPPLIES

SEND FOR THIS NEW USEFUL CATALOG TODAY

★ Our biggest catalog ever
★ 100's of "How To" hints and useful new items

BOOK PROCESSING SUPPLIES/ AUDIO-VISUAL EQUIPMENT/COMPUTERIZED CATALOGING MATERIALS/BOOKS FOR LIBRARIES/BOOK REPAIR & MAINTENANCE AIDS/LIBRARY FURNITURE/LIBRARY DISPLAY MATERIALS

Josten's
Library Supplies Div. 1301 Cliff Rd. Burnsville, MN 55337

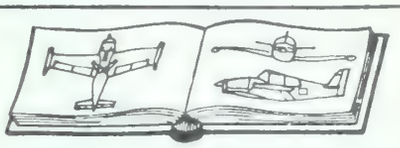
YES! Please send me your new catalog right away!

NAME _____

LIBRARY _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY/STATE/ZIP _____



275 AVIATION TITLES!

Aviation Book Company has been appointed the "exclusive sales agent" to the book & library trade for 68 publishers of aeronautical books.

We offer you—
Large selection
Excellent discounts
24-hour service!
Liberal returns policy

FOR MORE INFORMATION & CATALOG
Phone (213) 240-1771 or write:

AVIATION BOOK COMPANY
555 W. Glenoaks Blvd., Glendale, Calif. 91202

Serials and Journals in the M.I.T. Libraries 14th ed, rev & updtd, now available, $30.00. Order from M.I.T. Libraries, 14S-310, Cambridge, Ma. 02139

Booksellers/Publishers
specializing in calligraphy & paleography
Pentalic Corporation
132 West 22nd Street · New York, N.Y. 10011
catalog on request

BOCES & N.Y. libraries run adult educ. program

Public and school libraries in Cattaraugus County, N.Y. and one of New York State's regional cooperatives set up to serve school districts, teamed up to provide specialized education services for rural residents working towards their high school equivalency diplomas. Reporting on the project, Olean, New York, Public Library Director Maureen Curry said that the Board of Cooperative Educational Services (BOCES) and area libraries worked together to reach the some 5000 county adults who have not completed eighth grade and the 47.6 percent over 16 years of age who dropped out of high school. The project was called Adult Basic Education (ABE).

Public libraries participating in the project provided relevant learning materials, career information, and guidance; conducted library tours to show ABE students how to use their local library; ran a monthly film series for ABE students and their families; and held in-class programs on such topics as jobs, money management, child care and development, citizenship, health and nutrition, and communications. The libraries, which worked with BOCES in recruiting students, also provided an information and referral service aimed at helping students get in touch with county agencies and organizations that provide service to undereducated or disadvantaged adults.

PR via milk cartons, TV pilots, & patrons' words

Milk carton advertisements, a TV broadcast on children's programming, and an annual report featuring the faces and words of patrons exclaiming, "That's my library!" are among the latest tactics being tried by libraries that want to bring home the message that libraries are vital to the community.

• Milk & mergers: Kenneth Sivulich, executive director of the Erie City & County Library (Pennsylvania) reports that area residents were alerted to the benefits of the recent merger of city and county libraries via a message appearing on the side panel of half gallon milk cartons. The merger message appeared on some 180,000 cartons at a cost of only $25 (for making the printing plate), notes Sivulich.

• "That's my library": The annual report of the Denver Public Library focuses on what the library means to residents of all ages—using pictures and quotes of Denver people who say, "That's my library!"

• Showcasing library programming: The Connecticut State Library has produced a pilot TV program that's slated to become a new local television series called The People Place. The first program focused on innovative children's programming in libraries.

• Breaking stereotypes: From the St. Clair County Library (Michigan) comes a report on the strategy used by its Administrative Assistant, D. J. McKenzie, in getting an audience to drop preconceived notions about libraries. Addressing the Noon Optimists Club, McKenzie alerted his audience to a "new" governmental information agency established in the area to provide the citizens with factual and reliable information on any matter of concern to them. He explained that this agency had been building vast data banks of information on corporations, agencies, individuals, and product evaluation reports for a number of years—and had just recently adopted a policy to open its information files and data banks to the public. After teasing his listeners with details on the kind of information that would be made available to them, he let everyone know that he had been talking about the library.

If you don't have time to read 6,000 books a year...

try reading LIBRARY JOURNAL instead.

If you're like most librarians, you haven't a spare moment in the day.

How, then, can you possibly keep up with the flood of new titles? How can you tell which to order and which to pass up? A good percentage of America's librarians have solved this problem by reading and using LIBRARY JOURNAL regularly.

For the last century, LJ has been helping librarians solve day-to-day problems . . . adding to their free time — and their self-confidence.

During the course of the year, LIBRARY JOURNAL reviews approximately 6,000 books — covering the complete range of fiction and non-fiction. Each review is written and signed by a specialist. These reviews help librarians invest every book dollar wisely — no matter what the size of their budget.

In addition to reviews, LJ offers articles on important, timely topics . . . previews of important new titles . . . recommended professional reading . . . news of people, events, new products and services in the field . . . and much more.

EXTRA BONUSES: three Seasonal Announcement Numbers . . . three "First Novelists" sections . . . and special issues on forthcoming reprints; paperbacks; scientific, technical, medical, and business books . . . Convention issues . . . the Annual Purchasing Guide . . . and other special issues.

To start your subscription to LIBRARY JOURNAL — the best friend a librarian ever had — use the handy coupon below.

LIBRARY JOURNAL 11 1
1180 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036

YES, please enter a one year subscription to LIBRARY JOURNAL at $19.00 as indicated:

(LJ is issued twice a month, September through June, monthly in July and August. For subscriptions in Canada, Pan American Postal Union, and Spain, add $2.00 postage. Elsewhere, add $3.00.)

☐ Payment enclosed ☐ Bill me ☐ Bill school, library, or org.

Name_____

Address_____

City_____ State_____ Zip_____

Title or position_____

Kind of library
(public, college, special, etc.)_____

Published by
R. R. BOWKER COMPANY

CETA for culture

The Cumberland County Public Library in North Carolina is one library to benefit from the $1 million Third Century Artist program funded by CETA (Comprehensive Training and Employment Act); it received two paintings by "Third Century Artist" Beth Norris. The CETA program is getting the work of architects, painters, sculptors, photographers, dancers, dramatists, musicians, and writers into communities.

YA programming videotape

The Cable Television Outreach Project (CATVO) of California's San Jose Public Library announces the availability of the first in a series of young adult inservice training videotapes aimed at upgrading the professional skills of librarians working with YAs. The 30-minute, color videotape, Hassle-Free YA Programming, shows examples of innovative YA programs, gives a checklist of guidelines for setting up a YA program, and provides sources of information on YA programming. The tape, which sells for $45, is available from CATVO Office, San Jose Public Library, 180 W. San Carlos St., San Jose, Calif. 95113.

Cornell sets up resource center

Cornell University (Ithaca, New York) has set up in its Uris Library an Academic Resources Center to provide students and faculty members with information about Cornell's collections, AV equipment, tutorial programs, and guidance and counseling programs. Cornell notes that its effort to centralize academic support services on the campus was prompted by the realization that as the university has grown larger department resource people have been unable to keep in touch with resources and services available in other departments. One result, says Cornell, is that "valuable resources are often unused or underused."

Limbacher film series syndicated

James Limbacher, AV librarian at Detroit's Dearborn Library, reports the availability of a videotape series he developed: Shadows on the Wall: a History of Film includes 55 half-hour programs tracing the history of the motion picture from 1896 through World War II, using excerpts from over 130 films. The series was originally aired locally as a credit course for Wayne State University students. It's now available in videotape of various sizes, for sale or loan, along with instructor's materials and other guides. For more information, contact Instructional Services Department, College of Lifelong Learning, Wayne State University, 2978 West Grand Blvd., Detroit, Mich.

PEOPLE

K. BREWER

A. HEISS

W. OLSEN

S. ROBERTS

WILLIAM L. BECK has been appointed Director of Library Services at California State College, Pa.

KAREN BREWER, formerly Head of the Serials Section of the Cleveland Health Sciences Library, has been named Director and Chief Medical Librarian and Assistant Professor of Library Sciences for Northeastern Ohio Universities College of Medicine, Kent.

GERTRUDE CODDINGTON DAVIS has been appointed Head Librarian of the Martha S. Grafton Library, Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va.

DONALD DEGN, formerly Director, Avon Lake Public Library, Ohio, is now Director, Morley Library, Plainesville, Ohio.

JOHN WILLIAM FARISH, formerly Instructor of Library Science, University of Wisconsin, Oshkosh, is now Director of the Gallup Learning Resources Center, University of New Mexico.

ELIZABETH FRICK, formerly Reference Librarian, Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, has been appointed Head of User Services, University of Colorado, Colorado Springs.

ANN HEISS has been appointed cataloger specializing in phonorecordings, Ferguson Library, Stamford, Conn.

ANGELINE JACOBSON, Head Reference Librarian, Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, retired in June after 25 years in that position.

SUZON KISTER, formerly Administrative Librarian, State University of New York, Agricultural and Technical College, Canton, is now Head Librarian, Jefferson Community College, Watertown, N.Y.

JAMES M. KNOX, formerly Head of the Reference Department, Northbrook Public Library, Illinois, is now Assistant Director in charge of Headquarters and Public Services, Jackson Metropolitan Library System, Miss.

HERBERT L. LEET, Director of the Southern Tier Cooperative Library System, Corning, New York, has retired after 17 years with the System.

CONNIE MCCARTHY, formerly Audio Visual Librarian, Norwalk Community College, Connecticut, is now AV Consultant, Division of Library Development, Connecticut State Library.

LOIS MARRIOTT, formerly Chairman of the Circulation Department, San Diego State University, is now Director of Library Services, Southwestern College, Chula Vista, Calif.

NANCY H. MARSHALL, Director of the Wisconsin Interlibrary Loan Service, has been appointed Director of the Wisconsin Library Consortium, in addition to her other responsibilities.

ROBERT MAY, formerly Associate Director, Forsyth County Library, Winston-Salem, North Carolina, has been named Assistant City Librarian for Extension Services, Seattle.

ALICE F. NEFF, formerly Chief, Catalog Section, the Brookings Institution, Washington, D.C., is now Librarian.

WALLACE C. OLSEN, formerly Library Liaison Officer to the Land-Grant University Libraries, National Agricultural Library, Beltsville, Maryland, has been appointed Deputy Director for Library Services at the Library.

MARGARET PERRY, Head of Reader Services, Rush Rhees Library, University of Rochester, New York, is now Acting Director of University Libraries.

SALLY B. ROBERTS, formerly Coordinator of the Library Technical Assistants Program, Manchester Community College, Connecticut, is now Southeast Regional Librarian, Vermont Department of Libraries.

WILLIAM E. STANT, JR., formerly Assistant Director of the Mid-Mississippi Regional Library, Kosciusko, is now Director of the Marion-Jefferson Davis Regional Library, Columbia, Miss.

FRANK L. TURNER, formerly Associate Professor, School of Library Science, Texas Woman's University, Denton, is now Acting Director of the School.

The Immigrant Heritage of America Series

For complete descriptions of all titles in the Immigrant Heritage of America Series, please use the coupon to send for your free copy of the new 1976-1977 Twayne Catalog.

ANNOUNCING...the book based on the nationally acclaimed television series:

☐The Immigrant Experience in America

Ed. by Frank J. Coppa and Thomas J. Curran ISBN 0-8057-8406-3 $9.50

This volume is an outgrowth of an enthusiastically received television series presented nationally in the summer of 1973 on CBS-TV. The contributors discuss such general questions as: What motivated Asians and Europeans to go to the United States? How were the newcomers received and to what extent were they assimilated into the mainstream of American life? Included are eight essays on specific immigrant groups: the Hispanics, the Germans, the Norwegians, the Irish, the Italians, the Jews, the Blacks and the Asians. The ninth essay provides insight into the impact of recent immigrant legislation, especially the McCarran-Walter Act.

The Immigrant Experience in America provides a broad perspective on a crucial development in our history and is an important resource for every library. It will be available in December, 1976. Order now and receive your copy hot off the press!

PUBLISHED TITLES

☐The German-Americans

By La Vern J. Rippley ISBN 0-8057-8405-5 $8.95

Professor Rippley presents German contributions to all aspects of American life. The dependence of American medicine and science on German contributions is well established, but as Professor Rippley shows, many other areas, from agriculture and industry to art, religion and the American liberal tradition, owe much to German immigrants. "This work surpasses all modern histories of the German-Americans and should become a standard on the subject." Robert E. Ward, Editor, German-American Studies.

☐The Pennsylvania Dutch

By William T. Parsons ISBN 0-8057-8408-X $9.50

This major new study of one of the most fascinating American minority groups stresses the resistance to change of the Pennsylvania Dutch and their particular relevance to the economic and social issues of today. Dr. Parsons cites the waste-not, want-not farming methods of the Pennsylvania Dutch, and the ecological viewpoint that inspires them, their Protestant work ethic, and their sense of community.

☐America's Immigrant Women

by Cecyle S. Neidle
ISBN 0-8057-8400-4 $9.95

☐The Black Experience in America

By Norman Coombs
ISBN 0-8057-3208-X $7.95

☐The Dutch in America, 1609-1974

By Gerald F. DeJong
ISBN 0-8057-3214-4 $9.95

☐Great Immigrants

By Cecyle S. Neidle
ISBN 0-8057-3222-5 $8.95

☐How the Irish Became Americans

By Joseph P. O'Grady
ISBN 0-8057-3229-2 $7.95

☐The Italian-Americans

By Luciano J. Iorizzo
Salvatore Mondello
ISBN 0-8057-3234-9 $7.50

☐The New Americans

By Cecyle S. Neidle
ISBN 0-8057-3247-0 $7.00

☐The Norwegian-Americans

By Arlow W. Andersen
ISBN 0-8057-3249-7 $8.95

☐The Oriental Americans

By H. Brett Melendy
ISBN 0-8057-3254-3 $7.95

☐Puerto Rico and the Puerto Ricans

By Clifford A. Hauberg
ISBN 0-8057-3259-4 $8.95

☐The Radical Immigrant

By Sally M. Miller
ISBN 0-8057-3266-7 $8.50

☐The Syrian-Lebanese in America

By Philip M. Kayal
Joseph M. Kayal
ISBN 0-8057-8412-8 $12.50

☐Xenophobia and Immigration, 1820-1930

By Thomas J. Curran
ISBN 0-8057-3294-2 $7.95

☐Zion in America

By Henry L. Feingold
ISBN 0-8057-3298-5 $12.95

TWAYNE PUBLISHERS

A Division of G.K. Hall & Co.
70 Lincoln Street
Boston, Massachusetts 02111

☐ Please send me the titles checked above.

☐ Yes, please send me my free copy of the new 1976-1977 Twayne Catalog.

Name _____

Library/Institution _____

Address _____

_____ Zip _____

LJ-11

Prices do not include shipping and handling charges. Prices outside the U.S. are 10% higher. Orders from individuals must be accompanied by full payment including a shipping and handling charge of 50¢ per book.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES and the DECLINE of the DEMOCRATIC DOGMA

Michael H. Harris

IN 1973 I completed a short monograph entitled "The Role of the Public Library in Historical Perspective."[1] That study was a synthesis of the findings, by no means conclusive, of some ten years of study of the foundations and development of the public library in this country. My work fell rather quietly from the press, and it was thus with some surprise that I noticed the considerable critical attention that my short summary of that book attracted when published in the Library Journal.[2] While I don't intend to repeat that paper here, it does provide the backdrop against which I plan to discuss a related question, and thus it is necessary to have some idea of what I said about the role of public libraries.

As those who have read the Library Journal paper know, it was concerned with the motives of those who founded and nurtured the nation's public libraries. That is, with the reasons that trustees, philanthropists, and librarians put forward in justification of the public library. It is possible, if time consuming, to discover the motives of those who founded libraries. After all, leading library benefactors like Carnegie and Pratt spoke frequently and candidly about their vision of the library's role in American life. At the same time leading trustees and thinkers like George Ticknor and Edward Everett wrote expansively and often on the subject; and finally, librarians like Charles Coffin Jewett, William Frederick Poole, and Melvil Dewey were articulate and self-confident exponents of their own philosophies of library service. Thus, while the task of reading, say, the first 50 or so years of LJ is tiresome and time-consuming, it is, never-

Michael H. Harris is associate professor, College of Library Science, University of Kentucky, Lexington

Melvil Dewey

Charles C. Jewett

William F. Poole

theless, quite rewarding for the historian.

Based on my reading of the sources, I have generally argued for a revision of earlier interpretations, which pictured the public library as an egalitarian and libertarian creation managed by individuals who could be classed as liberals and who were optimistic about human nature and democracy. Such an interpretation, while appealing, failed to take cognizance of the evidence on the matter. Instead, I contend that the public library was founded by a group of authoritarian-elitists who saw it first as a means of controlling and directing the behavior of their less fortunate fellows—especially the new immigrants—and secondly as an intellectual resource for the elite minority—the country's best men—who would hopefully become the leaders of the political, social, and literary affairs of the nation. More specifically, I challenged the long cherished view that the disagreement between George Ticknor and Edward Everett over the purpose of the Boston Public Library represented a classic example of the struggle between a virtuous and enlightened lower class, lead by humanitarian and democratic intellectuals, and a repressive and aristocratic status quo.

In order to make this equation work, progressive historians were forced to place the arch-conservative Ticknor at the head of the liberal and humanitarian group, while Everett was given the more likely role of aristocrat. Study after study contrasts the liberal humanitarian Ticknor with the conservative Everett, with hardly a pause for reflection on the ridiculous nature of the claim that Ticknor was a leading liberal in Boston Society. Indeed, Ticknor would have resented the label, for he prided himself in being the leader of Boston's Brahmins, and his hallmark was an authoritarian and aristocratic style of life. He and Everett were in reality quite good friends. Neither man was a liberal, neither had much faith in the common man.

Thus I concluded by noting that in Ticknor's life and thought we see the basic elements of a philosophy which was to dictate the "purpose" of the public library for well over a hundred years, and that his authoritarianism and elitism were reflected in the goals of the library:

1) To educate the people so that they might follow the best men and not demagogues; to stabilize the republic and to "keep America from becoming another Carthage."

2) To provide access to the world's best books for that elite minority who would someday become leaders of the political, intellectual, and moral affairs of the nation.

While this interpretation has been roundly criticized by scholar and layman alike, it is quite revealing to find that no one has really attacked my work for what I view as the most serious, even if deliberate, shortcoming of the paper.

That is, it almost totally ignored the working man, that great and unnumbered mass that the public library was supposed to reach with enriching and uplifting services. My study was designed to illuminate the motives of public librarians and trustees; and, since it concluded early on that these had little relationship to the needs and aspirations of the people, I decided to eliminate any consideration of the latter. This is not to say that the majority of Americans opposed the public library. Quite the converse was true, and it is this paradox that will be explored here.

The working class paradox

To begin, the following question will focus our inquiry; it is one that I really expected LJ readers to articulate: "How, in an age characterized by rampant equalitarianism and surging democracy, could an institution that was at once authoritarian and elitist be so readily accepted by the working classes throughout the country?"

The explanation for this paradox lies in the history of two interrelated political and social developments which took place during the first 60 years of the Republic, from 1790 to 1850. They are: the steady decline of arrogant authoritarianism in American politics and the rise of equalitarianism in America as the controlling theme in politics and social relationships.

The decline of authoritarianism

Gordon Wood, in a brilliant study of the Confederation Period in American history, argues convincingly for his view that the founding fathers were conservatives who were frightened and concerned about the wild and uncontrollable currents of change loosed by the American Revolution. They were convinced that the evils of society—the atmosphere of distrust, the decline of authority, the general depravity of the population, and the eclipse of virtue—could all be generally blamed on the problem of social disarrangement caused by the equalitarian currents set loose by the Revolution.[3] The Constitution was designed to remove the "national government from the immediate reach of the people," to make a government by the best men of American society a reality with as little popular interference as possible.

However, to the dismay of the authoritarians, they found that they could no longer hope to rule free of the influence of public opinion. For as Richard Buel found, "The people had learned well from their revolutionary experience, and remained sensitive to the vulnerability of government and suspicious of aristocratic power."[4] The Federalists could not ignore this ever vigilant public, and the struggle to ratify the Constitution marks the beginning of the decline of arrogant authoritarianism in this country, and sets the stage for momentous developments in American history; developments that in time would be of importance for the public library. Wood summarized this theme:

> Considering the Federalist desire for a high-toned government filled with better sorts of people, there is something decidedly disingenious about the democratic radicalism of their arguments. Their continual emphasis on the popular character of the Constitution, their manipulation of Whig maxims, their stressing of the representational parts of the government. . . In effect they appropriated and exploited the language that more rightfully belonged to their opponents . . . By using the most popular and democratic rhetoric available to explain and justify their aristocratic system, the Federalists helped to foreclose the development of an American intellectual tradition in which differing ideas of politics would be intimately and genuinely related to different social interest.[5]

Wood is only partly correct in suggesting that in 1790 the aristocratic and authoritarian elements in American society abandoned any attempt to candidly express their views on politics and society at large; for the Federalists, who enjoyed their power from 1789 to 1800, did to a certain degree pursue this course. They were openly skeptical of human nature and feared for the Republic should the people ever gain control of the government. Thus they worked hard to insure the perpetuation of a system of government which would recognize superior talent and make the institution of government invulnerable to the influences of popular opinion. In doing so they were constantly being embarrassed by their more democratic opposition: the Republicans, who were optimistic about human nature, and argued forcefully for the right of the people to govern.[6]

In the face of increasing political pressures, the Federalists, who continued to insist on remaining as independent of public opinion as possible, were forced to adopt a manipulative style. That is, they were driven to pay some attention to the expectations of the people in their efforts to achieve a modicum of control in the political arena. However, in doing so, they deliberately decided to change only the means of achieving their objectives and not their objectives themselves. After the disasterous election of 1800, Federalists divided on the question of what should be done to regain control of the country. Andrew Hacker Fischer notes that the party split into two groups. The first, labeled the "old Federalists," continued to insist that the traditional aloofness and independence of public opinion would again be a viable political strategy. They yearned for a day when there would be a return to what modern historians refer to as a "deferential society," a society where men were trained from childhood to show deference to their betters and to expect it from their inferiors.[7] As one skeptical young Federalist noted: They dreamed of the day when the people, "convinced by experience of their error, will repose a permanent confidence in good men."

But it was not to be. And the "young Federalists," men like Alexander Hamilton and Fisher Ames, knew it. They realized that the day when public opinion could be cavalierly ignored was past, and they argued that the Federalists must redesign their campaign strategy in order to regain power. Ames coined a new motto for his fellows: "Fas est et ab hoste doceri"—It is perfectly proper to be taught by one's enemies.

Boston Public Library

The recognition of the political power of the people, and the concomitant change in approach was responsible for the strong showing the Federalists made in national politics until the election of 1816 shattered the party. But it must be noted that while the Federalists learned to respect the people, they did not come to admire them, and their change of style did not constitute a change of heart. As one historian has noted, the period is characterized by a general reorientation in American politics—"from deference to democracy, but most of all from open to covert elitism."[8]

From that point on, all practical politicians were forced to bow to the sovereignty of the people, and the skepticism about the ability of the average man to govern himself was forced underground, to surface only in the private conversations and correspondence of the conservatives.[9]

De Tocqueville, when he visited the country in the 1830s, was impressed by the egalitarian nature of the new nation and was told that, while the socio-economic elite might choose to isolate themselves from the mass in arrogant disdain, the people would soon prevail by simply electing their own representatives to political office. In New York, John Livingston confirmed this statement, but noted that leadership by the rich and well born was still a possibility if they would only deal with the "middling sorts" on terms of social and political equality—at least in public. As one politician of this persuasion candidly noted: "You must get close to the people in order to manage them."

By 1840, and the victory of the Whig party, the transformation was complete. The Whigs appropriated the equalitarian thunder of Democrats, and altered it, combining the Hamiltonian capitalist dream with Jefferson's concept of equal opportunity.[10] But the Whigs still harbored the characteristic phobia. Most shared the ever present fear of popular democracy, and the idea that the people should rule was still a disconcerting thought.

This patrician and skeptical attitude toward democracy was particularly evident in Massachusetts, where the Whig leadership was made up of wealthy cotton manufacturers, merchants, and most of the state's leading intellectuals. The mind-set of the Whig leadership grew out of an amalgamation of their aristocratic Federalist lineage and the tumultuous and rapid changes in the social and economic fabric since the War of 1812.[11] Thousands of immigrants were crowding into the urban centers of the North; the economy was being revolutionized by the rise of new labor practices and manufacturing systems; and, finally, the lower and middling classes were threatening to become the dominant force in all aspects of American life.

The Whig leadership viewed these momentous changes with ambivalence at first. For while many of the changes threatened society as they knew it, they also promised great possibilities for economic gain. But by 1850, the old fears were again in control, and the Whigs, especially the intellectual wing of the party, were demonstrating a growing uneasiness with the direction of things. They viewed society as an organic unit with each element functioning as an essential part of the whole. And because the social order was undergoing such wrenching and potentially destructive pressures, they contended that it was essential that the government—local, state, and national—intercede and control the forces tearing at the national fabric. They advocated what Lee Benson has referred to as the "positive liberal state"; that is, one in which the "state has positive responsibility to regulate society so as to promote the general welfare, raise the level of opportunity for all men, and aid all individuals to develop their full potentialities."[12]

The education panacea

The Whigs were driven by a fear of what the people might do once aroused, and their minds were frequently turned toward the development of institutions which would, in George Ticknor's words, "assimilate their masses, and bring them in willing subjection to our own institutions." The time was ripe for trouble, and it was up to the "best men" to act. In such troubled times, it was natural for the Whigs to turn to the most cherished of conservative panaceas in their efforts to stabilize and calm American society—the education of the people. As David Tyack has pointed out: "when every man might be his own politician, the patrician decided that every man must be educated."[13]

From the founding of the Republic, authoritarians had endorsed education of the masses as one means of keeping the people loyal, for as Fisher Ames wrote early in the century, "The best informed among the people are the most governable." While Jefferson argued for education as a guard against aristocracy and rule by the few, most of his Federalist opponents supported educational schemes designed to control the common man, not to liberate him. However, "the political impotence" of Federalism in most states, and the extent of party competition, negated their early attempts. Later, Whigs like Horace Mann and George Ticknor would build more successful educational systems on the foundations so carefully placed by their predecessors.

Horace Mann

Wide World Photo

Horace Mann, sensing the willingness of the conservative element in Massachusetts society to support publicly financed institutions in the 1830s, moved vigorously into the forefront of the educational vanguard. He argued, as his biographer Jonathan Messerli has noted, that:

> There were always shortsighted, selfish men who manipulated situations for personal gain and all too easily misled the multitudes. The common man, at least for the present then, required guidance by enlightened men of good will and needed to be educated by an institution which taught him to live within existing legal restraints . . .[14]

Such an appeal was convincing, and Massachusetts Whigs aggressively advocated public support, supplemented by private philanthropy, for all sorts of experiments designed as effective means of social control. As John Higham noted in his seminal essay on the period, "America's conservatives were exploring new possibilities for organizing and disciplining a culture of rampant individualism."[15] It was only a matter of time before they struck upon the library as one of those possibilities.

The rise of egalitarianism

Directly related to the retreat of the aristocrats in the face of the surging democracy, was a concomitant growth in self confidence and aggressiveness among the people. By 1850, the working classes felt they had gained the reins of political power in the country, and had come to see the age as being characterized by equality and liberty. As Stow Persons points out in his recent book on The Decline of Gentility in America, "The Democratic equalitarianism of the mass society fostered a pervasive materialism which furnished the incentives for rapid industrialization. With the disappearance of hereditary privileges and the ever-widening diffusion of knowledge, came a universal ambition for personal advancement." But America's working classes conceived of their situation as one in which they were at a disadvantage against the rich and well-born. One of the principal causes of their disadvantage was the lack of universal public education. For as the workingmen of New York City put it in 1830, "unless this safeguard of liberty is secured, and by the enlightening of the mass, the axe of knowledge is laid at the root of aristocracy, there is affected, as it were, nothing. The best labours are lost, and the success of the present is ever hazarded in the future."

Education came to be seen as the surest shield of the political authority of the people, and the workingman came to view universal public education, in an abstract sense, as the panacea that once achieved, "would eradicate obstacles to democracy and maintain equality and prosperity."

And so, in 1850, the ground was prepared; the democratic dogma was universally accepted. No one would quarrel with its basic premise: that the success of the Republic was inseparably tied to the enlightenment of its citizenry. For if only universal public enlightenment were made a reality, all of the traditional evils of society would disappear; poverty, discord, crime, sickness, would diminish or be gone altogether. The dogma was born, and all the people acknowledged a total faith in the power of universal public education to shape the destiny of the Republic. And while this belief in the democratic dogma was based on drastically different conceptions of the purpose of education, the general consensus was nevertheless complete.

Libraries and the dogma

It only remained for educators and civic leaders to demonstrate the ways in which the public library might contribute to the enlightenment of the people. Here the representatives of conservative society moved into the void, and seeing the library's possibilities as a means of social control, launched a campaign designed to sell the public on its suitability for tax support. And the conservatives had learned their lesson well, for they now stressed the importance of the library—not as a means of controlling the common man but as a means of equalizing opportunity. The famous 1852 Report of the Boston Public Library Board, written by George Ticknor, the leader of Boston's Brahmins, and Edward Everett, prominent Whig politician, nicely related the library to the democratic dogma when it stated:

> . . . Reading ought to be furnished to all, as a matter of public policy and duty, on the same principle that we furnish free education, and in fact, as a part, and a most important part of the education of all. For it has been rightly judged that,—under political, social, and religious institutions like ours,—it is of paramount importance that the means of general information should be so diffused that the largest possible number of persons should be induced to read and understand questions going down to the very foundations of social order, which are constantly presenting themselves, and which we, as a people, are constantly required to decide, and do decide, either ignorantly or wisely . . .

Further yet Ticknor notes that:

> Above all, while the rightful claims of no class,—howsoever highly educated already,—should be overlooked, the first regard should be shown, as in the case of our Free Schools, to the wants of those, who can, in no other way supply themselves with the interesting and healthy reading necessary for their further education.

Such an institution, in the light of the common man's faith in the democratic dogma, could hardly fail to win general support. At the same time, it should be noted that by the middle of the century the country's urban workingmen had left the battle for abstract advantages like universal public education far behind, and now their energies and attention were focused on such matters as the ten-hour day, working conditions, and wages; practical measures of immediate consequence. Their belief in the democratic dogma as an abstract principle of value, and their rejection of it as an immediate path to the achievement of material goals, explains their indifference to the public school system, and public libraries, once established.

The few workingmen who did use the public library during the 19th Century, and the percentage of the total population was very low (perhaps five percent), found it to be an institution managed by cold and stiff authoritarians who viewed their presence with mixed emotions of distaste and distrust. So while supporting the public library because of their faith in the democratic dogma, most of the workingmen of the country never crossed the threshold of a library and when they did they found it an inhospitable, and even hostile, place.

George Ticknor

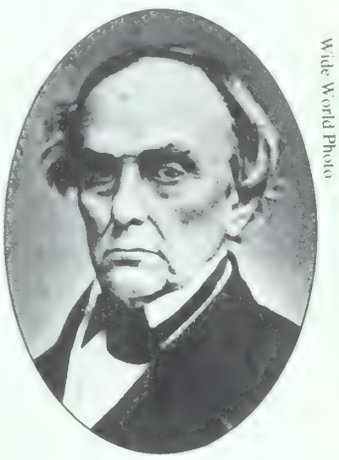
The current library dilemma

The tension between conservative control of the public library and the public's general acceptance of the institution because of its inclusion in the democratic dogma, which I have discussed elsewhere, throws light upon one of the most perplexing questions troubling public librarians.[16] That is: Why have so few middle and lower class Americans made use of an institution that they almost unanimously support with their tax dollars?

The reason seems clear. The public library was conceived of and controlled by an authoritarian element in American society, bent on establishing institutions which would contribute to the social control of the "dangerous classes," and as such was irrelevant to the needs of the general public. However, the founders did recognize the need to solicit wide-spread public support for these new institutions, and as a result couched their appeals in democratic dogma. Thus a generally uncritical public unanimously supported the public library with their tax dollars just as they had supported public education some 20 years earlier.

If we are right that librarians and trustees generally had their own, and not the public's interests at heart; and, if we are right in arguing that the public library has enjoyed the almost unanimous support of the American public because they viewed it as contributing to the achievement of the democratic dogma, the cherished dream of universal public enlightenment, then there would seem to be only two possible explanations for the library's current distress, that relentlessly spreading hostility to the public library—the fact that Americans seem disenchanted with the public library, and no longer see it as important, at least not in relation to other community services.

One explanation for our current dilemma, an explanation frequently put by the left in our profession, is that the common people of the country have discovered how little their public libraries really offer them for their investment in tax dollars, that they have critically and intelligently examined the record and have concluded that libraries are not really making any significant contribution to the education of the people, and thus no longer have the benefit of appealing to the democratic dogma in their attempts to secure funds. While such an explanation suits the librarians' penchant for self-flagellation, it simply will not stand careful scrutiny. First, it assumes far too much importance for the library in the eyes of the average citizen. There is no evidence to demonstrate that the people are showing anymore interest in public libraries today than they did one hundred years ago, let alone to prove that the people have carefully studied the public library and its relation to the democratic dogma.



Wide World Photo

Daniel Webster

The decline of the dogma

What seems much more likely, and a great deal more frightening, is that the public has lost faith in the democratic dogma altogether. They no longer believe in education as a panacea for the ills of the nation, as the key ingredient in America's particular recipe for progress and prosperity. In short, we are now witnessing what I prefer to call the decline of the democratic dogma in this country: the people seem to be losing their unmitigated faith in the basic and most cherished of American beliefs: their faith in the value of universal public enlightenment.

Edward Everett

The decline of the democratic dogma is due to a number of recent developments in American history. First, and very telling, has been the steady pressure on the national economy over the past five years. Inflation, unemployment, and general economic dislocations have caused the public to critically examine beliefs that they once accepted unquestioningly. One belief to fall with a resounding crash was the idea that education, especially higher education, made a difference in income, job satisfaction, and status. Now, headlines blurt out the fact that Ph.D.'s cannot find employment, and scholars like Christopher Jencks are writing books which seem to demonstrate that there is little or no correlation between education and financial success in American society.

Furthermore, many Americans have come to question the validity of the Jeffersonian insistence on an educated citizenry and more importantly on an enlightened leadership. Wars that now seem both foolhardy and ruthless, increases in crime rates, and unprecedented scandal among our highest government officials are problems contributing to a loss of confidence among Americans. Like Daniel Webster, who once believed in the notion of diffusing knowledge as broadly as possible, they seem to be losing their faith, and they frequently ask themselves the same question Webster posed to himself nearly 200 years ago:

Wide World Photo

Eric Hoffer

> The opinion that intelligence in the people of a country will preserve a republican government must depend for its accuracy on the fact of an intimate or necessary connection between knowledge and principle. It must suppose that men who know what is right will do what is right: for if this is not the general fact, then intelligence will not preserve a just administration nor maintain the Constitution and laws. But from what evidence can we infer that men who know what is right will do what is right? In what history of mankind, political or ecclesiastical, are the facts recorded which authorize the presumption, much less the belief, that correct action will proceed from correct knowledge.

A further erosion of the democratic dogma derives from the work of yeoman philosophers like Eric Hoffer, who are writing and talking about a new American—one who is intuitively infallible, who needs no formal education or access to the day's intelligence to decide political and social questions correctly. His intuitive brilliance is all that is necessary.

These and other developments, then, contribute to a most serious challenge for all of us who believe with Jefferson, that the Republic will only succeed if its citizenry are well educated. The degradation of the democratic dogma poses a serious threat for education of all sorts, and librarians must not be allowed to labor under the misconception that their problems derive only from the library's traditional elitism and authoritarianism. That the library has been irrelevant is almost an irrelevancy; what is important is the recognition that the very foundation upon which our total educational program rests is now being attacked with alarming success. All those with faith in the democratic dogma, must fight to shore up the public's eroding trust in the value of education in a Democratic society. When so many Americans are despairing of rationality in human behavior and when society appears to be rewarding those who denigrate and hinder free inquiry, it is vital that education again become an act of faith with Americans.[17] Until that is done, public libraries will find little success in their efforts to achieve security, much less the time and resources necessary to reform the public library in order to make it more meaningful to the informational needs of a post-industrial society.

REFERENCES

1. The Role of the Library in Historical Perspective: a Revisionist Interpretation. (Washington: ERIC, 1973). This paper has been revised and published under the title: The Role of the Public Library in American Life: a Speculative Essay, Univ. of Illinois Graduate School of Library Science, Occasional Paper 117, 1975.
2. The summary appeared as Michael Harris, "The Purpose of the American Public Library: a Revisionist Interpretation of History," LJ, September 15, 1973, p. 2509-14. The critiques were: Richard Harwell & Roger Michener, "As Public as the Town Pump," LJ, April 1, 1974, p. 959-63; Evelyn Geller, "Intellectual Freedom: Eternal Principle or Unanticipated Consequence," LJ, May 15, 1974, p. 1364-67; Phyllis Dain, "Ambivalence and Paradox: the Social Bonds of the Public Library," LJ, February 1, 1975, p. 261-66; and Elaine Fain, "Manners and Morals in the Public Library: a Glance at Some New History," Journal of Library History, Vol. 10, 1975, p. 99-105.
3. Wood, Gordon. The Creation of the American Republic, 1776-1787, Univ. of North Carolina, 1969, p. 476.
4. Buel, Richard, Jr. Securing the Revolution: Ideology in American Politics, Cornell Univ. Pr., 1972.
5. Wood, op. cit., p. 562.
6. Buel, op. cit., p. 92.
7. Ibid., p. 112.
8. Fischer, Andrew Hacker. The Revolution of American Conservatism: the Federalist Party in the Era of Jeffersonian Democracy, Harper, 1965, p. 49.
9. Myers, Marvin. The Jacksonian Persuasion. Stanford Univ. Pr., 1957, p. 253.
10. See Louis Hartz, The Liberal Tradition in America, Harcourt, Brace, 1955, and Glyndon Van Deusen, "The Whig Party," In Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., ed. History of U.S. Political Parties. Chelsea House, 1973, Vol. 1.
11. Brauer, Kinley J. Cotton Versus Conscience: Massachusetts Whig Politics and Southwestern Expansion, 1843-1848. Univ. of Kentucky Pr., 1967, p. 15-17.
12. Benson, Lee. The Concept of Jacksonian Democracy: New York as a Test Case. Atheneum, 1964, p. 89, 103.
13. Tyack, David B. Turning Points in American Educational History. Blaisdell Publishing Co., 1967, p. 122.
14. Messerli, Jonathan. Horace Mann: a Biography. Knopf, 1972, p. 282. See also Stanley K. Schultz, The Culture Factory: Boston Public Schools, 1789-1860. Oxford Univ. Pr., 1973.
15. Higham, John. From Boundlessness to Consolidation: the Transformation of American Culture, 1848-1860. Ann Arbor: William L. Clements Library, 1969, p. 26. For this process at work in Boston see Michael H. Harris & Gerard Spiegler, "Everett, Ticknor and the Common Man: the Fear of Societal Instability as the Motivation for the Founding of the Boston Public Library," Libri, Vol. 10, 1974, p. 249-76.
16. Harris, op. cit.
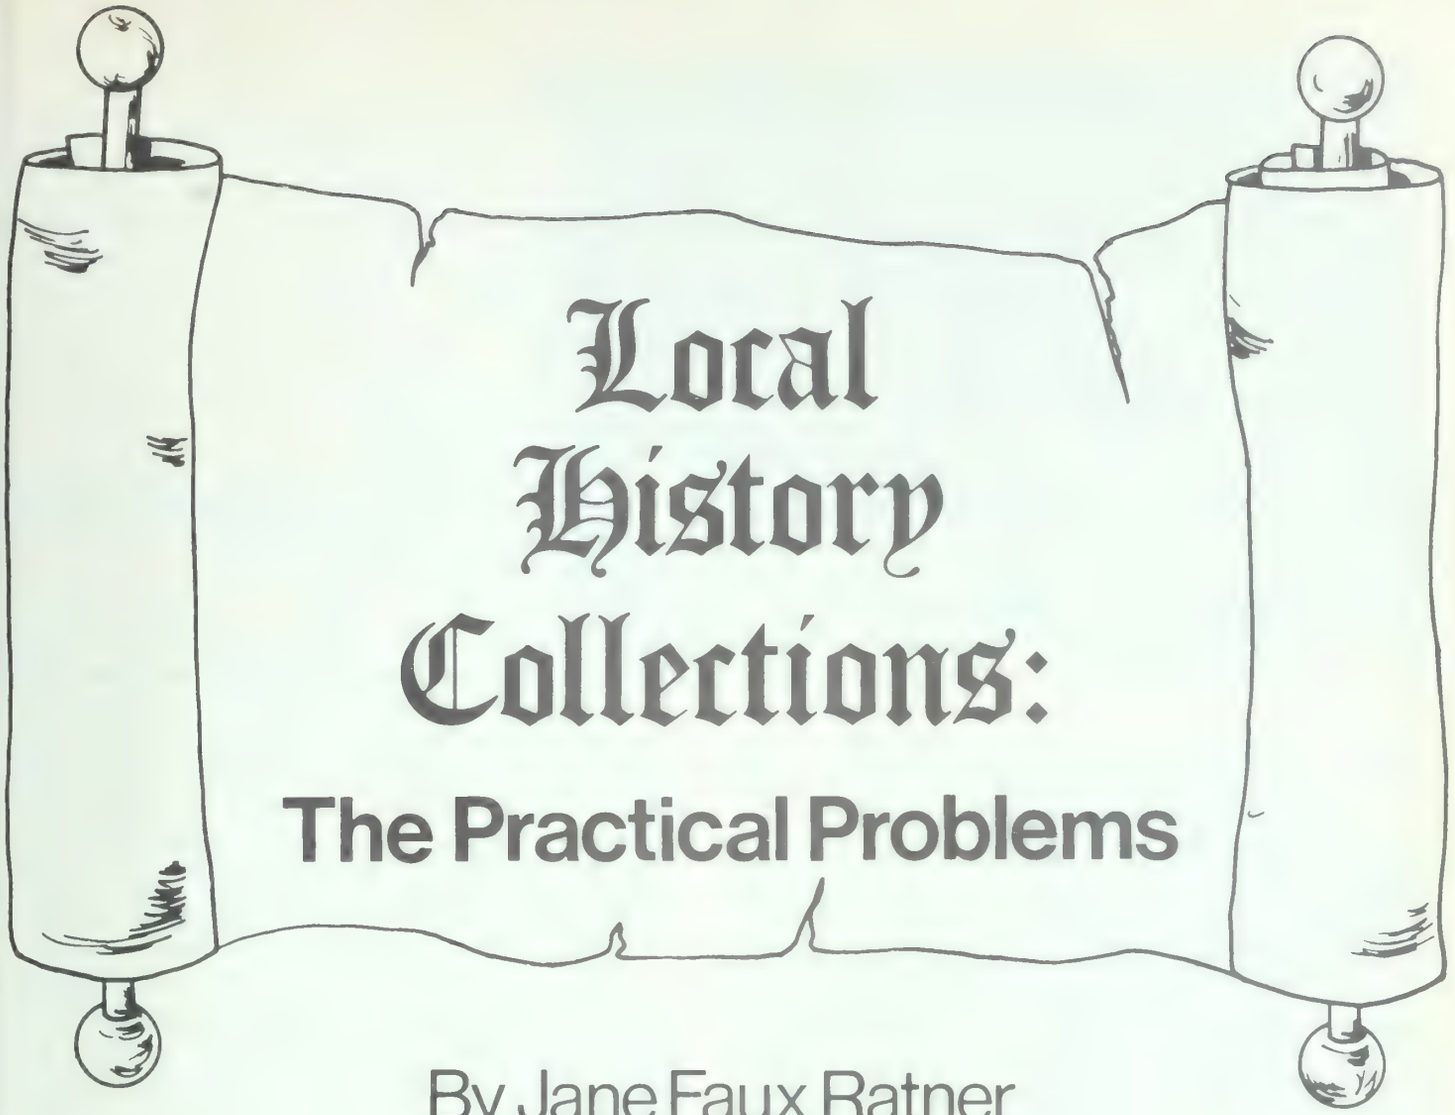
17. I am indebted to John M. Ward for the insights offered in his essay, "The Library and its Social Significance," In Proceedings of the 16th Biennial Conference of the Library Association of Australia . . . August 1971, Sydney: The Conference Committee, 1972, p. 118.



Local History Collections:

The Practical Problems

By Jane Faux Ratner

AMERICAN PATRIOTISM took a beating in the 1960s. The sight of hundreds of young people demonstrating against the war in Vietnam was a common one on American campuses and disaffected social leaders left the country in droves unmatched since the 1920s. As a nation we agonized collectively over MyLai and watched our political process reduced to comic absurdity by Watergate. Now, with relief, America has discovered her Bicentennial. Suddenly it is as acceptable for the "hippie" to laud the ideals of our revolution as it is for the DAR.

There is something strange about this American birthday, however. In 1876 we celebrated our hundredth anniversary with great national exhibitions and hoopla. We emphasized our growth as an unified industrial nation from the scattered seeds of a fragmented agricultural society. In that year, too, historians and librarians each formed large national associations which drew together disparate elements within their respective professions. But the 1976 celebration lacks that broadly national scope. The direction from Washington has been to turn this birthday party back to the people. And as the Bicentennial has come home to the local community, so have the concerns of historians and librarians. Increasingly, historians are beginning to realize that they cannot speak intelligently about national events and movements without first fully knowing what happened on the local level. As this attitude becomes more widespread, they are turning to public libraries and librarians for information on their community's past because the local library has traditionally been the chief culture bearer in all but the largest American cities. Historians are beginning to ask the public library, "What can you tell us about the place and people you have served?" Public librarians are beginning to realize that if we cannot answer them we have renounced our community responsibility to preserve the local past and its culture.

In the last several years this historical "consciousness raising" has led an increasing number of public libraries to develop formal "local history collections" of one sort or another. Such collections range in size from those which have a few clippings and county histories behind the general reference desk to those which rival large academic archives with their thousands of books, photographs, oral history tapes, and original manuscripts. Public librarians who are considering developing a formal historical collection and committing staff time to its maintenance should be aware, however, that there is much more to maintaining a successful local history collection than might be readily apparent in the first flush of Bicentennial fever. Committing our libraries to collecting rare historical material means that we are leaving ourselves open to some questions and practical problems which have not been dealt with by traditional library training. These questions roughly divide themselves into areas of security, legality, and proper staffing. If we are to accept our responsibility to the community to preserve its past, we must be able to answer the questions and competently deal with the problems in these areas.

---

Jane F. Ratner is local historian at the Willard Library, the public library of Battle Creek, Mich.

Security and service

It goes without saying that the possession of valuable historical material necessitates a serious commitment on the part of the library to keep it safe and intact. Just how to adequately protect the collection without unduly irritating the patron and recalling all of those nasty stereotypes about the librarian can be a problem, however. The issue of security calls into question some of the fundamental assumptions that we have made about the nature of public library service. We have always assumed that we should go to any necessary lengths to keep our patrons happy. Libraries spend millions of dollars annually on everything from bookmobiles to on-line computer systems to do just that. "Libraries are for people," our publicity shouts. We view the implication that some part of our library might be exclusive or elitist as the supreme insult.

Nevertheless, it is an unfortunate fact that our patrons are not always as considerate of their libraries as we are of them. It is no secret that every public library experiences theft and mutilation of material. Theft is annoying when the latest best seller that cost $12.95 is lifted, but it can be disastrous when an original diary or letter from one of the town founders is stolen. And nationally, security problems are becoming worse. According to the Society of American Archivists, thefts of historical material have reached "crisis proportions" (LJ News, December 15, 1975). When a public library commits itself to collecting historical material it must be prepared to deal with security threats from the public it has been taught to serve, and it must deal with those threats as effectively as does the deepest academic archival sanctuary.

There are several things which a public library can do to minimize its security problems without making the patron feel uncomfortable or fearful of using the collection. The first is to house historical material in some part of the library which is away from the major traffic and browsing areas and which can be closed off when there is no staff member available to supervise it. Although the patron must never be made to feel that he cannot draw a breath without a librarian's scrutiny, by the same token no patron should be allowed to work with irreplaceable materials in an unsupervised situation. Otherwise honest people will sometimes find the temptation to purloin the book with grandma's name in it simply too great to resist. If staff shortage is a chronic problem, general noncopyrighted short works about the area's history should be duplicated for the reference shelves and vertical file. This will allow the browser or student who "just wants to know a little about the town" to have access to the information he needs without endangering original copies.

Another precaution, which serves to both protect the collection and give the staff a continuing record of which questions patrons ask and what items they most often use, is the "material request form." Every patron who uses a historical collection should be asked to fill out a form giving their name and address, what subjects they are interested in, and what specific items they wish to use. If presented in a tactful manner to the

Marianne Upston, Willard staff member, photocopying noncopyrighted material in order to provide security copies of important items

Staff member Carolyn Manning examining damage that mending with conventional tape can cause to a newspaper clipping researcher, it has been this author's experience that most people do not seem to resent filling it out. An added benefit to the use of this form is that if a staff member fails to find the answer to a question which is asked at the time and he later finds the information he can then call the patron with the answer, thus providing the kind of service which the librarian likes to give and the public has come to expect.

When speaking of historical material, however, theft is not the only security problem which libraries routinely encounter. Documents, whether they are in paper, photographic, or taped form do deteriorate with a sometimes alarming rapidity. The library which is considering collecting older paper items cannot be shy about putting aside sufficient money in its budget to provide proper tools and conditions to maximize the lifetime of its collection.

Paper documents, such as manuscripts, pamphlets, photographs and negatives should always be stored in the acid-free folders and boxes which are available from several commercial supply houses. Paper yellows and crumbles because it is exposed to acid in the air, from human hands, and from other paper. Although acid-free containers will not stop this deterioration, they will slow it significantly. Ideally, for every rare document owned by the library, too, either a photostatic security copy should exist elsewhere on acid-free paper or microfilmed copies should be made. Such security copies will minimize the tragedy of fire or theft.

Taped documents, whether in video or audio form, should be played at least once a year to maintain the quality of reproduction. Although it is really too soon to tell what decades will do to the quality of tapes, playing them does help. Of course, too, in the best of all possible worlds the library will have typed transcripts of their tapes on acid-free paper filed away in a fireproof safe.

In addition, there are many simple things which librarians should know before they unwittingly mutilate their own collections. One should never write anything in ink or use metal staples or paper clips. The ink will run in time, perhaps obliterating important information, and metal quickly rusts. Rubber cement should never be used to glue clippings or photographs to backings and the staff should never use tape, which will yellow and become "gummy" over time. If documents are stamped, a permanent, nonrunning ink should be used. Important material should be stored in acid-free containers on metal shelves, away from extremes of light, moisture, and changes in temperature. Following these suggestions will help to preserve the library's collection for future generations.

The commitment to preserve the community's past is not a step to be taken lightly by the public library. If the librarian makes the decision to remove historical records from private hands and then not forward them to an academic archive, he implicitly promises that those records will be managed responsibly and kept with reasonable security. He must make them accessible to the public, yet at the same time recognize that they cannot be treated in as cavalier fashion as the latest paperback. If such an informed commitment is made by the public library to collect original material, no security problem is insoluble.

Legalities—copyright & libel

Before dealing with the legal questions in which a library may become involved by collecting original documents, a quick caveat is in order. This author is not a lawyer, nor does she wish to usurp the prerogatives of the gentlepeople of the bar. There are several legal issues which the public librarian should consider, however, before he rushes into areas where professional archivists only gingerly tread.

The first legal problem which might arise for the library which collects original manuscript material is in the area of copyright. Most librarians are aware of the statutory copyright protection given authors of published works. It is, after all, in the nature of our profession to handle such copyrighted material. Too many librarians do not realize, however, that previously unpublished works, such as letters, diaries, lecture notes, and the like are also the literary property of the author and his heirs under principles of common law recognized by American jurisprudence. The general term used to describe this is "copyright at common law." The potential problem for the library occurs when the librarian accepts unpublished material for his collection and does not secure from the author or his heirs release of first publication rights. It is essential that the librarian read the appropriate law texts and consult the library's attorney before accepting such material. Ideally, gift and first literary property right forms should be drawn for the library by its attorney and signed by authors and/or their heirs before the library accepts any original manuscripts or photographs. Such forms will afford some protection for the library against possible civil litigation in the event that a disgruntled author or heir later decides to object to library use of his unpublished material. Consult your attorney, but before you do under no circumstances should your library publish that nifty diary you found in the basement which tells all about pioneers in your town, even though that seems like the Bicentennial thing to do. If you do, you could be sued.

The second, and actually less clear area of potential library legal danger exists in the collection of oral or video history tapes. The library should not put such tapes in the public domain until the person interviewed on the tape has a chance to listen to it again and (preferably) read the transcript, making any corrections he feels are necessary. The library should not put itself in the position of having John Doe or his heirs come into the local history collection and listen to a tape on which Jim Smith has insulted Doe or falsely accused him of some action. Again, before moving into the area of oral or video history the library should consult its attorney. Have the attorney explore the possibility that the library might become a party to a suit against Jim Smith for slander because the library has made that slander available to the general public. Your attorney will probably recommend that a legal release form be prepared and signed by the interviewee and the library.

As in the case of security, however, all of these legal problems are not insoluble as long as the informed public librarian works with his attorney to eliminate potential hazards.

Staffing—the advocate historian

The most important requirement for the collection of historical sources is providing a proper staff to take care of it. Unfortunately, however, not many library schools or graduate programs in history supply curricula which meet the special needs of students interested in the management and care of historical material. Traditional avenues of recruitment, therefore, are really not adequate for public libraries seeking people to operate their historical collections. Unless experienced and knowledgeable individuals are available, the public librarian beginning a local history collection will probably have to hire people that he feels are resourceful, hand them a bibliography on the care of manuscript collections, and hope that they can do their job. Before hiring such a person, though, the public librarian should carefully consider the following issues:

Does he envision the role of "local historian" as one of traditional library service or as one containing strong elements of advocacy? If, after carefully considering the problem, he decides that in his library the local historian should be someone who will spend all of his time organizing materials, indexing, and providing reference service, he can be fairly confident that someone with an average background in these areas in library school will be competent to do the job.

The public librarian who is considering instituting such a collection should be aware, however, that often in order to build a good collection and have it become known in the community the local historian will probably be required to be an advocate for historical "causes" and an active participant in historical groups. Perhaps more than any other staff member, the local historian needs to become a recognized community figure. The survival of his collection depends on it.

Library director, Robert Raz, examining an early floor plan of the library building

Reference librarian, Jo Emerson, looking for information on street name changes on a local 1891 map

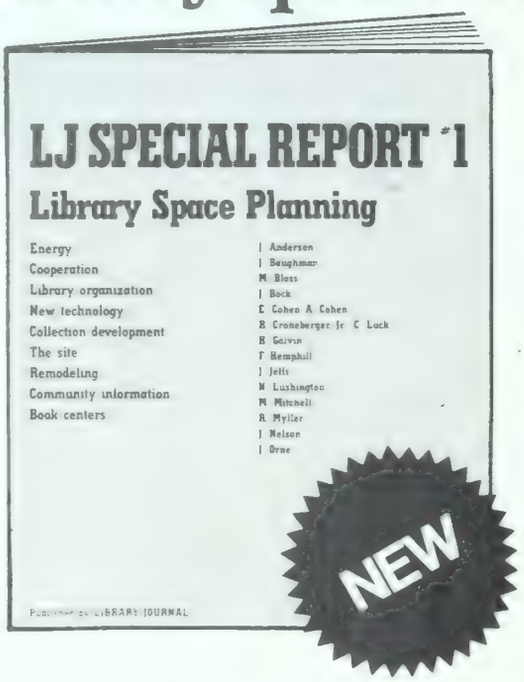
A core of people exists in any community who are the "movers" of historical projects or events. This core can range anywhere from the members of the local historical society to the city bicentennial commission to a local group trying to save a building from destruction. These are the people who either have the material which the library would like to collect or they know where it can be found. It is crucial for the local historian to identify these people quickly, make the library's presence known to them, and establish himself as a person interested and seriously concerned about matters affecting community historians. The reason for this is simple. For the most part, local history collections cannot buy the material they would like to collect. They must rely on gifts for hard-to-get items. Often these items are close to the heart of the donor. He will not give them to the library unless he feels that they will be secure, and that the person in charge of them is actively concerned and sympathetic about the issues which concern him. It will be helpful if the local historian has some background in grantsmanship and can make his expertise available to local historical groups. Additionally, the historian should be willing to spend much of his time outside the library nurturing those professional relationships which will ultimately benefit the collection. Once systems and procedures are actually set up to care for the material and oversee its use, these routine tasks can be performed by a competent clerk. Acquisitions are the chief function of the local historian. The public library with the most successful local history collection will need to have a local historian who can become quickly visible to the community. Librarians who are considering hiring a person to manage their collection cannot usually afford to hire a shy individual who likes to work with 19th century material simply because it allows him to escape from the 20th century public.

Finally, the public librarian will have to decide whether it is better to hire a graduate librarian or a graduate historian to head the collection. This is a ticklish question, for several reasons. Both professions are worried about the growing job squeeze and both librarians and historians have always jealously guarded the prerogatives of their professions. Librarians claim that since they have received advanced training in making information quickly available to the public, that they should head any situation which involves this function. Historians argue that since they have been trained in methods of historical research and to recognize what is and what is not truly significant in bodies of past literature, that they are most properly suited for a job in which research and decisions on significance are made daily. When such arguments are applied to the question of who shall head the local history collection, both sides seem to have merit. Ideally, the local historian should have a graduate library and a graduate history background. But that is in the best of all possible worlds. When such is not feasible, the public librarian will have to decide for himself whether it will be easier to train a historian to index and systematize his subject headings or whether it will be easier to train a librarian to instinctively recognize the worth of the material that he will be forced to review every day.

Unless we wish to succumb to the 18th-Century judgment of Lord Chesterfield that "history is only a confused heap of facts," as librarians and historians we must fulfill our responsibility to the community to preserve its past and bring order into that confusion. This is an effort we must make with our eyes open, however. It is well to wish to give our community its history for a Bicentennial birthday present, but there is very little romance in a stack of poorly kept material or a large lawsuit. It is our responsibility to preserve the record of our community's traditions and past, but to carry on that preservation cautiously and intelligently, because without a past surely a community has little future.

LIBRARY SPACE PLANNING
helps you make better use of your library space tomorrow.



Perhaps you are involved with plans for a new library. Or with remodeling the library you're in now. Or simply making more efficient use of existing space—on a non-existing or minimum budget.

Whatever the case, you will want a copy of the new LJ Special Report #1—LIBRARY SPACE PLANNING.

Here, in one practical, 80-page, paperbound handbook—8½ x 11 size—are the thinking and ideas of 32 leading librarians, library consultants, and architects.

Among the subjects covered: Energy . . . Cooperation . . . Library Organization . . . New Technology . . . Collection Development . . . The Site . . . Remodeling . . . Community Information . . . Book Centers. The information you'll find in LIBRARY SPACE PLANNING will be equally valuable to librarians in public, academic, and special libraries . . . in urban, suburban and rural communities.

LIBRARY SPACE PLANNING is the first of the LJ Special Reports—designed to keep librarians well informed on topics of immediate interest and importance.

In the library field, where so many changes occur so often, yesterday's plans and assumptions must also change.

The problems of library funding, the energy crisis, the evolution of the local library into a community information center, the response of the academic library to the new demands of higher education—all these and other factors require innovative thinking and planning now for libraries of the future.

LJ Special Report #1—LIBRARY SPACE PLANNING—is currently off press and copies are available to LIBRARY JOURNAL readers on a first come, first-served basis.

The cost is only $3.95 per copy on prepaid orders; $5.00 per copy on billed orders.

Use the convenient coupon to send in your order now.

Better use the coupon below to send for your copy today!

To: Edward W. Martin, Circulation Director—R. R. Bowker Co.
1180 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036

Please send LJ Special Report #1—LIBRARY SPACE PLANNING—as indicated:

_____ (No.) at $3.95 each, for which payment is enclosed.

_____ (No.) at $5.00 each. Send bill as shown.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____

State _____ Zip _____

☐ Send information on quantity discount orders—10 or more copies.

LJ

PROFESSIONAL READING

Professionalism & preparedness

EDWARDS, Ralph M. The Role of the Beginning Librarian in University Libraries.

American Library Assn. (ACRL Publications in Librarianship, No. 37). 1975. 120p. bibliog. appendixes. ISBN 0-8389-3167-7. LC 75-30693. pap. $6.50.

Isn't it sad that we continually must ask ourselves and others if we are professional? And it seems that our own definition of professional isn't clear, so we don't even know what we're asking! This easily read study of beginning librarians at the University of California gives some insight into ourselves and ultimately asks several key questions: "Why is there a library profession; What are its purposes in society; What should it attempt to accomplish; In what aspects is it failing to meet its ideals; and What, in fact, are its ideals?" These questions arose out of a 1970 doctoral dissertation study; the book is an expansion of that dissertation. The historical background and discussion of library professionalism in the first two chapters makes it clear that similar questions have been asked since the time of Melvil Dewey.

One of the author's hypotheses tested whether librarians could adequately define professional functions of university librarianship. They could not. The second hypothesis dealt with the preparedness of new librarians. Responses indicated satisfaction with preparation and subsequent performance; however, there was concern over "poor attitudes, professional irresponsibility or personalities incompatible with the demands of the positions they had accepted." The study provides interesting information about 58 beginning librarians at the eight UC campuses, but there is no indication as to where the librarians came from nor where they received their library education. We can hardly assume that all new librarians are well prepared intellectually but not personally, simply because it's true of these 58.

Edwards puts the onus on library schools to upgrade the intellectual understanding of professionalism among the soon-to-be "professionals." He is also concerned about the "low value" society places on the services offered by librarianship (Is it really society's fault if we haven't made our worth known?) and the weakness of a professional "culture" in librarianship (What's that?). This book should be read by all academic librarians, as well as by library school students. Higher level performance is being demanded of academic librarians and the competition will be stiffer in the years ahead.—JOYCE D. VEENSTRA, COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES

Library writings

KATZ, Bill, ed. Library Lit. 6–The Best of 1975.

Scarecrow. 1976. 338p. ISBN 0-8108-0923-0. LC 78-154842. $11.

What constitutes the "best"? It's a fair question to ask the editor of Library Lit. 6 . . . and Bill Katz is disarmingly straightforward in his response: "pure subjective choice, based upon some experience and a feeling for the traditional quality of good writing." Divergence of views as to the "best" is proferred by a selection jury comprising associate librarian Anne Roberts, editor Bill Katz, and Cavan McCarthy of SUNY-Albany; Eric Moon, president, Scarecrow Press; and William R. Eshelman, editor of Wilson Library Bulletin. Why such an annual? My own belief is that "library literature" is growing at a rate which threatens to suffocate the cause under a mess of words. This is a great pity because there is something to librarianship. Katz's annual may help to avert the tragedy.

Broad in scope, the 1975 annual embraces subjects ranging from archives to political propaganda in national encyclopedias. There is a laudable mixture of the practical and the more academic; most articles are accompanied by useful references. The 31 contributors comprise a large number of American experts in their particular fields (e.g. Francis Henne, Ellsworth Mason, Kenneth Shaffer) plus a sprinkling of foreign cognoscenti (e.g. Michael Gorman, Dorothy Broderick, R. C. Ellsworth). The articles are arranged under three general headings but if one were to try to find a common thread within each group, he would have to tread warily.

Emerging from a careful first reading, I sense the urgency of change both in the policy and practice in the book world if libraries are to meet the economic and technological challenge of today. The pressing need for selectivity, cooperation, and specialization is the underlying theme of articles by Bell, De Gennaro, and Ham. Not all the facts and principles are new, but the clarity and forcefulness of their presentation have a strong appeal. With Benjamin, Ellsworth, and Schmid we get right down to business on matters pertaining to photocopy, public lending rights for authors, and copyright—and stay there throughout. There are other selections which have the pleasant quality of tempting the reader to enjoy: Mason and Brahm debunking faddishism in management and continuing education. Schramm's computer hoax adds just enough imaginative farce to ballast the serious in a book that is good reading for the professional as well as the library school novitiate.—GUY LYLE, FORMERLY DIRECTOR OF LIBRARIES, EMORY UNIVERSITY, ATLANTA

Landmark yearbook

AMERICAN Library Association. The ALA Yearbook: a review of library events 1975.

ALA. 1976. 494p. illus. index. ISBN 0-8389-0223-6. $25.

In his Introduction to this Centennial—and first—Edition of The ALA Yearbook, Editor-in-Chief Robert Wedgeworth reports that "the editors have sought to provide an authoritative and readable source of information about activities, events, and organizations that reflect the diverse interests of the American Library Association for the year ending on December 31, 1975." The main device employed to accomplish this end is the "Review of the Library Year," an alphabetical sequence of articles covering topics ranging from Academic Libraries to Young Adult Services Division. (Somewhat mysteriously, the unnumbered page preceding this sequence lists selected acronyms that appear in the Yearbook, but its existence is not indicated in either the Contents or the Index.) Following the "Review" are reports of library activities and events in the ALA state chapters, Canada, and Great Britain; a directory of organizations and associations with which ALA has a special relationship; a listing of ALA and selected other prizes and awards; and the Notable Books from 1944-1975. Three topics receive special article treatment: Edward G. Holley writes about "ALA at 100," Samuel B. Gould discusses "Independent Learning and the Future Role of Public Libraries," and Allen Veaner asks "Micrographics: an Eventful Forty Years—What Next?" A rather spotty index rounds out the volume.

The ALA Yearbook looks like a good yearbook—the kind that EB and McGraw-Hill bring you at their best. It also reads like a good yearbook, i.e., the more you know about a topic, the likelier you are to find "omissions" or "errors" in its account; and the less you know, the greater the chance that you will be satisfied with what you get. I thought that Art Plotnik's "Library Press" was just so-so, and I would ask him, inter alia, on what grounds he bases the statement that "The most ambitious new library magazine launched in the U.S. during 1975 was the independent Journal of Academic Librarianship . . ." Conversely, "Children's Library Services" and "Children's Literature" seemed to me to fill some personal gaps I have.

Apart from this subjective test, one can find the usual variable results and internal inconsistencies of multiauthor works of this kind. In a rather prophetic mistake, the Index entry of "Abstracting and Indexing Services" refers to "Indexing and Subtracting Services," and one could certainly have subtracted this particular article with little loss, insofar as its coverage of library and information science is concerned. The article on "Italian-Americans and Libraries" seems to have been prepared from data supplied by an Italian American Librarians Caucus, an organization about which I can find nothing in the Yearbook. The article on the "Health and Rehabilitative Library Services Division" notes at least two significant items on bibliotherapy, but that topic is neither separately treated nor indexed.

Despite these flaws, and hundreds of others that I am sure the dedicated searcher could find, The ALA Yearbook is a landmark publication in a landmark year. It shows signs of attempted editorial strength and authoritative integrity that augur well for future issues. It offers to a fragmented profession with a fragmented literature the only attempted synthesis of the professional whole available to us, and that will be available year after year. It is unfortunate that it floats without an encyclopedic anchor on the sea of library and information science. The editorial weaknesses of the Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science are so glaring that the profession has little choice but to look elsewhere, perhaps again to ALA, for future strength in this respect. Certainly, a sound encyclopedia and a solid yearbook are desiderata for all of us. With The ALA Yearbook, we have, perhaps cart-before-horse style, made a beginning.

For what type of library is The ALA Yearbook recommended? If you are the head of any kind of library, and you cannot find a reason to add the Yearbook to your collection, you need not bother to register for any continuing education programs this coming year. You are beyond help!—SAMUEL GOLDSTEIN, EDITOR, CALL (CURRENT AWARENESS—LIBRARY LITERATURE)

Science & engineering libraries

MOUNT, Ellis. University Science and Engineering Libraries: Their Operation, Collections, and Facilities.

Greenwood. (Contributions in Librarianship and Information Science, Number 15). 214p. index. ISBN 0-8371-7955-6. LC 74-34562. $15.

This practical guide is concerned with a broad spectrum of subjects dealing with science and engineering libraries in universities, their services, management, physical facilities, and personnel practices. The last chapter—comprising somewhat more than a third of the entire text—is devoted to the literature of science and engineering.

Comparisons are made with special libraries, other libraries in universities, and with science-technology departments in public libraries. The problems of all specialized science-technology libraries are quite similar. Mount's analysis of recent book and periodical costs and his indication of percentage expenditures for budget items are relevant to all. Most useful, from my viewpoint, are the discussions of staffing, working with users, controlling costs, developing collections, promoting services, and communicating (especially explaining the library's mission, function, and goals) to its clientele.

Among the chapter topics are: Organizational Patterns and Locations (as these factors influence staffing needs, size, efficiency, consolidation or decentralization), Library Administration, Technical Services, Readers Services, Library Facilities and Equipment. Much of the subject matter can be sketched in only briefly in a book this size. Mount's plan is "to proceed from broad topics . . . to more specific points" when describing the various aspects of these libraries and the literature they require. The result is one of the best descriptions of technical libraries that I have seen.

In each chapter Mount summarizes, reviews, and brings together much of the pertinent literature and thought that have gone into the problems of science and technology libraries during the last 20 years or more. Bibliographic citations appear in the "notes" at the end of each chapter; some references are as recent as October 1974.

The final 81 pages form a reference and book selection aid. Arrangement is by type and includes literature guides, encyclopedias, handbooks, serials, reviews, technical reports, indexes and abstracts, patents, directories, catalogs, standards, and specifications. Each subdivision begins with a discussion of the characteristics of that type, followed by a select listing of representative titles. These titles are not the "best" books; they merely illustrate the type and generally are restricted to the English language. Because the bibliography encompasses a broad area, relatively few titles are included; usually only one appears under a subject subdivision. All titles are annotated.

Mount is eminently qualified to prepare this guide. Known for his survey of university libraries (1972), he has relied heavily upon personal experiences in various positions. Librarians as well as students in library schools should benefit from his "how-to" treatment of various topics. Those who must modernize a library or plan an entirely new facility would do well to begin their homework with his advice. And for managers considering the use of automation and computer methods, a realistic starting point is provided in the sections on information retrieval and bibliographic work, the advantages of SDI systems, computer searches, and the use of computer-based data banks. For those who have been in the profession a long time, the book can be a source of ideas.—DANIEL R. PFOUTZ, SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY DEPT., CARNEGIE LIBRARY OF PITTSBURGH

Directories In Brief

BLACK, Donald V. & Carlos A. Cuadra, eds. Directory of Academic Library Consortia. 2d ed.

System Development Corp.; dist. by Baker & Taylor. 1976. 437p. indexes. $25.

Profiles of over 350 consortia include names of members, year joined, geographic area served, original purpose and objectives, current activities, publications, budget and funding sources, headquarter's address and phone number, contact person. Indexed by activity, title, location.

DIRECTORY of Newspaper Libraries in the U.S. and Canada. ed. by Grace D. Parch.

Special Libraries Assn., Newspaper Div. 1976. 319p. indexes. pap. $9.75.

Contains information on collections, services, and personnel for 297 newspaper libraries. Entries are arranged geographically, with alphabetical indexes of newspaper names and library personnel.

CHECKLIST

from Library Space Planning, LJ Special Report #1

Video source book

Video and Cable Communications, by Brigitte L. Kenny and Roberto Esteves, is the only source book of information on video specifically designed for librarians and library staff members. It provides an overall look at video in libraries, explains the technology, and gives information on establishing and administering a video unit and legal and regulatory aspects of the field. It can also be used as a study guide for staff development. Some of the chapters include video for patron use, programming for special groups, financing, hardware, sources for programming, software, and community organization and resources. Copies of the 84-page booklet are available at $3.50 each (prepaid only) from the Information Science and Automation Division, ALA, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, Ill. 60611. Make checks payable to the American Library Association.

Career bibliography

Dale Shaffer's latest catalog is designed to assist librarians, teachers, and counselors in obtaining free and inexpensive resources on career education. The contents represent a basic collection of occupational booklets. Under 217 career fields, arranged alphabetically, are cited over 1,200 pamphlets and paperbacks. Almost half of the publications listed are free and none costs more than $3. Order a copy of the 65-page Career Education Pamphlets from the author, Dale E. Shaffer, Library Consultant, 437 Jennings Ave., Salem, Ore. 44460.

Puppetry principles

Both crafts and theater collections might benefit from the addition of Marionette in Motion, W. A. Dwiggins' detailed account of the Püterschein principle of counterbalance as applied to the making and handling of marionettes. The 35-page pamphlet, which includes numerous diagrams, costs $3 from Information Office, Boston Public Library, Boston, Mass. 02117. Make checks payable to the Trustees of the Public Library of the City of Boston.

Library space planning report

Twenty library leaders and architects contribute their ideas on current pertinent topics in Library Space Planning, LJ Special Report #1. Among the topics thought necessary for the librarian of the late '70s to consider are energy, new priorities in collection development, new technology in the library, remodeling old buildings, and siting the public library. Mobile compact shelving, volunteers, library cooperation, and community information services are also discussed in the 80-page report. It costs $3.95 (check with order) or $5 (if billed) from R. R. Bowker Co., 1180 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036.

Oceanography

A Union List of Oceanographic Expeditions, Including Results of Some Major Cruise Reports contains selective listings covering the 18th-Century to the present. Thirteen research libraries reported holdings for the list. Coding for the 642 numbered entries indicates which library holds an item and its availability. The 138-page publication costs $5 from Administrative Offices, Texas A&M University Libraries, College Station, Tex. 77843.

Library cooperation references

A current annotated listing of useful publications on library cooperation can be found in an ERIC paper, A Selected Bibliography on Multitype Library Service, 1970-75. The entries include bibliographies and directories of library cooperation; national level planning and programs; state and interstate level planning and programs; and varied approaches to multitype library cooperation. All entries give complete ordering information on both ERIC and non-ERIC materials. Copies of the 21-page bibliography cost $1.50 each from Box E, School of Education, Stanford University, Stanford, Calif. 94305. Checks must be included with orders and made payable to "Box E." A 15 percent discount is given on orders in quantities of ten or more.

Calendar

Illustrations from children's ABC books are reproduced in A Horn Book Calendar for 1977. Illustrators represented include Wanda Gag, Roger Duvoisin, and Kate Greenaway. Printed in black and blue ink, the 5¼" x 7½" calendar may be ordered from the Horn Book, Inc., 56 Main St., Ashburnham, Me. 01430. A copy costs $2.50 plus 28¢ postage.

AV education references

A Guide to the Literature of Audiovisual Education, by John P. Lewis, Jr., is a partially annotated bibliography which its author believes to be the most comprehensive attempt to cover the wide field of educational media since the 1950's. The emphasis is on reference works, and most of the items listed were published after 1970. The 37-page guide costs $3 plus 50¢ for first class postage from Library Assistance Service, 1611 Cherry St., Wausau, Wis. 54401. Make checks payable to Library Assistance Service.

Guide to governments

Government Organization Manuals, by Vladimir M. Palic, is intended to help librarians and researchers in tracing major government programs and publications about specific activities to the pertinent government departments and agencies. The first part of the Library of Congress bibliography lists basic works on public administration and government organization in general; manuals, handbooks, and yearbooks containing information on the organization of national governments or for certain geographic areas. The second part is an alphabetical listing of individual countries with informative publications on each cited. Selected sources on past changes within individual governments are also listed. An index includes personal and corporate authors, titles, and names of geographical areas and countries. The 105-page booklet costs $1.40 from Superintendent of Documents, GPO, Washington, D.C. 20402.

MAGAZINES

Bill Katz, PROFESSOR, SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE, STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK, ALBANY

Nebula

1975. Quarterly. $5. Ed: Ken Stange. Nebula Pr., 509 Lakeshore Dr., North Bay, Ontario, Canada P1A 2E3. Illus. adv. Aud: Ac. (Subject: Little Magazines. Issue examined: No. 1, 1975)

In some 65 pages, Nebula manages to cover the wide range of poetry interests of many college students—and not a few teachers. Most writers are Canadian, young, and of various talents. The experienced, such as Michael McMahon and Charles Plymell, seem a bit out of place in what is essentially an under 30's magaine. Useful as a mirror of current trends.—BK

Tracks; a Journal of Artistic Writings

1974. Three issues a year. $5.50. Ed: Herbert George. P.O. Box 557, Old Chelsea Sta., New York, N.Y. 10011. Illus. Aud: Ac. (Subject: Art. Issues examined: Nos. 1 & 2, 1974-75)

The myth runs: painters and sculptors writing about their own work and their theories of art are too close to the visual to communicate adequately in words. Tracks is an effort to dispel that myth by publishing 16 or so articles per 64-page issue by such well known artists as Robert Motherwell, Larry Rivers, and Robert Indiana. A few entries, such as the late Frank O'Hara, shared the best of both worlds—and there are often two or three pieces by people who are essentially writers interested in art, rather than artists themselves. Be that as it may, the writing is surprisingly informative, usually not only adequate in style, but often polished and clear. In fact, the clarity stands opposed to the dense prose of many a professional art critic. All and all a unique, important, and fascinating effort which should be of interest to anyone, professional or amateur, with an appreciation of art. Highly recommended as an innovative, indeed myth shattering, magazine.—BK

Two noteworthy reprints of little social magazines for and by blacks are available from Kraus-Thompson Organization Ltd: The Keys, "the official organ of the league of coloured peoples" in London from 1933 to 1939 (7 vols. in one, $35), and The Blackman, "a monthly magazine of Negro thought and opinion" for the same period (4 vols. in one, $45). The latter includes a detailed, scholarly, 24-page introduction on Garvey's contribution to the magazine and the black international movement. There is an equally detailed and fine introduction to The Keys. Although both of these magazines were published in London, their impact on American thought is of major importance. Fortunately, the reprints are quite good (a few unclear photographs aside), and both are recommended for academic black studies libraries.—BK

Classic: the Magazine About Horses and Sport

1975. Bimonthly. $12. Ed: André Laguerre. 551 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. Illus. Aud: Ga.

One of the slickest equine publications in the United States, this is gifted with literate copy. Contrary to many in the market, it has heavy advertising, much of it for nonhorse industry products, an enviably healthy condition. The super illustrations and good writing are, at the moment, all horse-related and somewhat weighted on the thoroughbred racing and breeding scene. Not a how-to magazine, libraries will think twice about subscribing to it. However, sports-oriented or horse-minded collections will need to consider it seriously. It is superb for an impressive present to a horse lover.—Ellen B. Wells, Cornell University Library

RFD

1974. Quarterly. $8; individuals, $4. 4525 Wolf Creek Rd., Wolf Creek, Ore. 97497. Illus. Aud: Sa. (Subject: Homosexual. Issues examined: Various, 1974-75)

With an orientation towards gay men and an emphasis on country living, this is a little, alternative culture magazine with an honest and intelligent content. (It is the male counterpart of Country Women, and equally as good.) An average 45-page issue includes graphics, poems, short stories, features, and articles about life outside urban centers. The latter focus, as with Country Women, gives it an added dimension for anyone involved with alternative life styles. One of the best male homosexual magazines around, it is recommended without reservation for any academic or public library where the homosexual viewpoint is considered.—BK

Revue: International Poetry Review

1975. Semiannual. $4. Eds: Evalyn P. Gill & Raymond Kyner. P.O. Box 2047, Greensboro, N.C. 27402. Aud: Ac, Ga. (Subject: Poetry. Issue examined: Vol. 1, No. 2, 1975)

Joining Modern Poetry in Translation, here is a major effort to introduce English language bound readers to current foreign language poetry. Each issue is given over to a particular country, i.e. France, Italy, etc. The Fall 1975 number included Philippe Jaccottet, Jule Supervielle, Jacques Prevert, Gabrielle Marquet, and single poems by about 20 French and French-Canadian writers. The original is given on one page, the translation on the facing page. Translators: Andrew Grossbardt, W. S. Merwin, Teo Savory, Jim Barnes, Evalyn P. Gill, Kathleen Bulgin, and others. The translations appear to be as sensitive as they are accurate. This is an important journal, and the librarian will certainly want it to be on the shelves next to Modern Poetry in Translation. Recommended.—BK

BUYERS' GUIDE

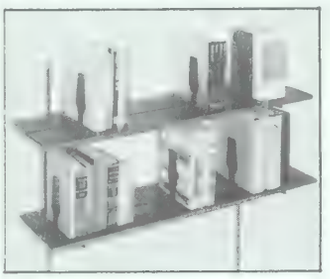
Thomas W. McConkey CHIEF, ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICE, FREE LIBRARY OF PHILADELPHIA

Every effort is made to evaluate carefully the products listed. However, mention here is not an endorsement. Prices are subject to change, and may vary in different geographical areas.

FOUR-WAY ELASTIC

IMAGE VIEWER

DIGIT CALLER



BOOK SUPPORTS

Four-way rubber bands

Unavailable for almost two years due to the breakdown of the only four-way rubber band machine in the world, this simple yet versatile item securely binds books and magazines together, keeps boxes closed, holds lids on reel cans, and keeps stacks of cards and paper neatly arranged. The 8″-long band of pure seamless rubber stretches four ways to hold objects of any shape. Box of 50 is $4.95; from The Highsmith Co., Inc., Box 25, Fort Atkinson, Wisc. 53538. (414) 563-6356.

Microfilm reader

A motorized, roll microfilm reader featuring a unique film control lever and modular, solid state design from Bell & Howell accommodates both 16mm and 35mm roll microfilm without requiring any mechanical adjustments. The Micro Photo 16.35 reader projects the image downward directly from the top to a gently sloped 18″ x 24″ viewing surface at table-top level. This large surface permits the viewing of a full-size newspaper page when recorded on 35mm microfilm at common reduction ratios. Since the viewing screen is almost horizontal rather than vertical, the reader facilitates both right-handed and left-handed note taking and virtually eliminates the focus problem encountered by persons wearing bifocals. The speed at which the image moves across the viewing surface is controlled by pressure on the control lever; one page at a time can be scanned with the image remaining in focus, while at high speed a 100′ roll can be wound or rewound in seconds. Glass flats in the film transport open automatically when the film passes through at high speeds, virtually eliminating film scratching.

Other features include: a simplified system which makes it almost impossible to load the reader improperly; control of the microfilm image by a control lever mounted on the reader control panel; easy-to-focus 18x lens; a long-life quartz lamp with variable image brightness; a vinyl viewing surface that can be easily wiped clean; film image rotation; and easy-to-use operator instructions printed on the reader's control panel. Since the unit is fanless, it can be used in low-noise areas. The high-impact cabinet is made of molded A.B.S. plastic and steel and has a polyurethane, stain-resistant finish. The modular, solid-state film control panel and solid cast-aluminum film transport can be easily removed for maintenance. Introductory price is $980. Available from Bell & Howell Micro Photo Div., Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. (216) 264-6666.

Call number system

Redy-Call is a visual electronic calling system for library patrons waiting for delivery of material held in the stacks or elsewhere. Patrons are given an available number from 1 to 50 and told to watch the two-face annunciator suspended from the ceiling or the single-face, wall-mounted annunciator, placed in the reading or waiting area.

Annunciators are available in two sized characters: Series 100, 1″ numbers, visible from 35′ to 50′; and Series 200, 2″ numbers, visible from 50′ to 100′. They are connected by cable to a matching numbered lighted push-button switch panel and operate on 12 or 24 volts through a 120-volt A.C. transformer power pack. The characters are available in white, red, blue, green, or yellow on a black background. The metal cabinet in a walnut grain vinyl finish is available in horizontal or vertical models, mounted single or two-face. Available in sizes from 20 to 100 characters in ten numbered modules. Easily installed by local sound or electrical contractors. Prices range from $700 for 20 numbers to $1600 for a 50 numbered system. Available from Page-Lite Division, Wrightco Corp., 265 N.W. 1st St., Deerfield Beach, Fla. 33441.

In-shelf supports

BookMaster is a shelving system which incorporates book supports in the shelves. The uprights, often several pairs to a shelf, move in channels, providing support. With shelving hung by brackets attached to walls, the system is particularly suited for informal reading areas and offices. BookMaster aluminum channels and bookends can also be readily added to existing shelving. A desk-top unit is also available for holding frequently used materials. Available from Garcy Corp., 2501 N. Elston Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60647.

Microfilm leader fastener

Intresco Tab, a fastener for the roll ends of microfilm, has special adhesion properties (patent applied for), comes in roll form, and is segmented for quick tear-off on individual applications. Individual tabs are easy to apply or remove, and are re-useable many times. The tabs, which fit all sizes of film rolls, are packaged 250 Tabs in a box which serves as a handy dispenser. One box of tabs, priced at $3.10, will provide film users with many hundreds of applications; a discount is provided for quantity orders. Available from Intresco, Inc., 88 Cummings Park, Woburn, Mass. 01801. (617) 935-6110.

Storing Knowledge? Welcome to the McGraw-Hill Warehouse

Our advanced books offer up-to-date professional resources in every field.

COOPERATIVE BUSINESS ENTERPRISE
Martin A. Abrahamsen
All aspects of business cooperatives are covered, including the development of cooperative thought, cooperative principles and practices, the impact of government policy on cooperatives, and an outline of strategy for cooperative growth.
1976, 528 pages, $15.00,
ISBN: 0-07-000151-0

APPLIED ECONOMETRICS
Meghnad Desai
Emphasizing the connection between econometrics and economic theory, this book covers testing of restrictions and adequate specification of stochastic terms, estimating stochastic models, approximating the concepts of economic theory from statistical data, dynamic models, the logic of large macroeconomic models, and simulation and policy making.
1976, 288 pages, $16.50,
ISBN: 0-07-016541-6

ANALYTICAL METHODS FOR MARKETING MANAGEMENT
Peter T. FitzRoy
A contemporary treatment of both industrial and consumer marketing. Emphasis is on the role of analytical methods as diagnostic aids in problem finding, structuring and solving. Applications-oriented problems are included in each chapter.
1976, 356 pages, $17.50,
ISBN: 0-07-084064-4

YOU AND OTHERS: AN INTRODUCTION TO INTERPERSONAL COMMUNICATION
Donald L. MacRae, Ronald F.G. Campbell, Vernon F. Gunckel, Carl J. Hartleib, and Robert M. Soucie
Offering both a theoretical and a practical approach, this book provides a framework for the analysis of interpersonal communication, including in-depth coverage of communication as a process, the self concept and perception, barriers to communication, and improving nonverbal skills.
1976, 288 pages, paper, $7.95,
ISBN: 0-07-082256-5

SYSTEMS APPROACH TO WATER MANAGEMENT
Edited by Asit K. Biswas
Covering all aspects of water management within an overall systems context, this book deals with both surface water and ground water systems, emphasizing real-world applications.
1976, 448 pages, $23.00,
ISBN: 0-07-005480-0

PROGRAMS, MACHINES, AND COMPUTATION: An Introduction to the Theory of Computation
Keith Clark and Don Cowell
This book adopts a single framework within which particular machines are defined. It provides many exercises and uses flow charts throughout, making the subject more accessible to readers whose background is primarily in programming rather than mathematics.
1976, 176 pages, $12.95,
ISBN: 0-07-084067-9

CONTROL OF FLOW SEPARATION
Paul K. Chang
Engineering and applied aspects of flow separation control are discussed in terms of energy conservation and environmental control of wind flow. Methods of attaining increased efficiency and safety in the operation of fluid-handling devices are also presented.
1976, 548 pages, $47.50,
ISBN: 0-07-010513-8

TRANSPORT PROCESSES IN BOILING AND TWO-PHASE SYSTEMS, Including Near-Critical Flow
Yih-Yun Hsu and Robert W. Graham
A unified view of nucleate boiling that examines the similarities and dissimilarities in the mechanisms of two-phase and near-critical flow, including basic parameters, pressure drop, heat transfer, boiling crisis, flow instability, and critical flow. A comprehensive introduction to instrumentation is also provided.
1976, 560 pages, $28.50,
ISBN: 0-07-030637-0

TWO-PHASE STEAM FLOW IN TURBINES AND SEPARATORS: Theory, Instrumentation, Engineering
Edited by M.J. Moore and C.H. Sieverding
A balanced presentation of both theoretical and practical aspects of two-phase steam flow, combining a general introduction with the most recent research results and operational information.
1976, 416 pages, $32.50,
ISBN: 0-07-042992-8

MEASUREMENTS IN HEAT TRANSFER, Second Edition
Edited by E.R.G. Eckert and Richard J. Goldstein
Focus is on methods of, difficulties in, and instruments for measuring heat transfer, including precision measurement of temperature and radiation measurements, direct measurement of heat transfer, optical measurement at moderate and high temperatures, and the measurement of transport and thermal physical properties.
1976, 656 pages, $29.95,
ISBN: 0-07-018926-9

HEAT PIPE THEORY AND PRACTICE: A SOURCEBOOK
S.W. Chi
Beginning with applications and types of heat pipes, and moving on to heat pipe theory, design, and manufacture, this book discusses manufacturing techniques not publicly available until now and provides original charts to help the reader evaluate and design heat pipes with greater efficiency.
1976, 272 pages, $21.50,
ISBN: 0-07-010718-1

Advanced Publishing Program
College Division, 27
McGraw-Hill Book Company
1221 Avenue of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10020

Scientific, technical medical, & business books

In the October 1 issue, Library Journal featured the new books announced by publishers for the fall season. With this issue, LJ continues the season's offerings with the publishers' announcements of their new books in the specialized fields of science, technology, medicine, and business. Again we have indexed their announcement advertising by subject and publisher. Scan the advertising in this issue, check out the listings below, and if you want more information about any title listed, look up the publisher's ad in the directory on p. 2312.

SCIENTIFIC, TECHNICAL, & MEDICAL BOOKS

REFERENCE

Charles Pr.
Meltzer, L. E., M.D. Charles Press Handbook of Current Medical Abbreviations.

Miller Freeman
Van Derveer, P. D. & L. E. Haas, eds. International Glossary of Technical Terms for the Pulp and Paper Industry. Mar.
Wyllie, R. J. M. & G. O. Argall Jr., eds. World Mining Glossary of Mining, Processing, and Geological Terms.

Gordon & Breach
Pfafflin, J. & E. N. Ziegler. Encyclopedia of Environmental Science and Engineering. 2 vols. Sept.

McGraw
McGraw-Hill Dictionary of the Life Sciences. Oct.
McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of Energy. Oct.

Marquis-Who's Who
Consumer Protection Directory.
Directory of Medical Specialists.
Environmental Protection Directory.
NASA Factbook.
NIH Factbook. Jan.
NSF Factbook.
Who Was Who in American History—Science and Technology. Aug.
World Who's Who in Science.

GENERAL

Miller Freeman
Schiller, F. E. Manual of Supercalendar Operations. Oct.

Inst. for Social Research
Caplan, R. D. & others. Adhering to Medical Regiments.
Scientists in Organizations. rev. ed.
Survey Research Center Staff, Interviewer's Manual.

Johns Hopkins
Healy, R. G. Land Use and the States. May.
Mendershausen, H. Coping with the Oil Crisis. Feb.

Oxford Univ. Pr.
Davies, D. S. & others. The Humane Technologist. Oct.
Maddison, F. & others. Linacre Studies. Nov.

Pergamon
Elton, L. R. B. & H. Messel. Time and Man.
George, F. H. Machine Takeover.
Schoffeniels, E. Anti-Chance.

TAB
Blandford, P. The Woodworker's Bible. Jul.
Gaddis, B. How To Repair Home Laundry Appliance. Jun.
Heiserman, D. Build Your Own Working Robot. Apr.
Price, B. & J. Price. Homeowner's Guide to Saving Energy. Sept.
Reed, G. All About Swimming Pools. Jul.
Roper, C. A. The Complete Handbook of Locks and Locksmithing. Sept.
Wels, B. Fire and Theft Security Systems. 2d ed. Jul.

AERONAUTICS & ASTRONAUTICS

Pergamon
Graybiel, A. Basic Environmental Problems of Man in Space.

AGRICULTURE & ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

Pergamon
Dillon, J. L. The Analysis of Response in Crop and Livestock Production. 2d ed.

TAB
Dog Owner's Medical Manual. Oct.

ARCHITECTURE & BUILDING

McGraw
Azad, H. S., ed. Industrial Wastewater Management Handbook. Nov.
Curran, J. Drawing Plans for Your Home. Sept.
Davern, J. M. Places for People. Dec.
Merritt, F. S., ed. Standard Handbook for Civil Engineers. 2d ed. Nov.
Newman, M. Standard Cantilever Retaining Walls. Oct.
Palmer, A. E. & M. S. Lewis. Planning the Office Landscape. Jan.
Peurifoy, R. L. Formwork for Concrete Structures. 2d ed. Oct.
Site, Inc. Unbuilt America. Nov.

TAB
Blustin, L. How To Subcontract Your House. Jun.
Clarneau, W. Do-It-Yourselfer's Guide to Home Planning & Construction. Aug.
Concrete and Masonry. Mar.

MILLER FREEMAN PUBLICATIONS, INC.

500 Howard Street
San Francisco, California 94105
ISBN Prefix: 0-87930

MINING AND MINERALS PROCESSING INDUSTRIES

Aplin, C. L. & Argall, George O., Jr., eds. TAILING DISPOSAL TODAY. 1973, 861pp., ill., bib., index, ISBN 0-87930-020-5 ..... cloth $ 24.50
Kirshenbaum, Noel W. & Argall, George O., Jr., eds. MINERALS TRANSPORTATION, VOL. 2. 1974, 448pp., ill., bib., index, ISBN 0-87930-025-6 ..... cloth $ 27.50
Kirshenbaum, Noel W. & Argall, George O., Jr., eds. MINERALS TRANSPORTATION, VOL. 1. 1973, 421pp., ill., bib., index, ISBN 0-87930-012-4 ..... cloth $ 24.50
Muir, W. L. G., ed. COAL EXPLORATION. 1976, 664pp., ill., bib., index, ISBN 0-87930-061-2 ..... cloth $30.00 tentative
Muir, W. L. G. REVIEW OF THE WORLD COAL INDUSTRY TO 1990. 1975, 150pp., ill., ISBN 0-87930-046-9 ..... paper $260.00
Sutulov, Alexander. COPPER PORPHYRIES. 1975, 208pp., ill., bib., index, ISBN 0-87930-028-0 ..... cloth $ 15.00
Sutulov, Alexander. MINERAL RESOURCES & THE ECONOMY OF THE USSR. 1973, 192pp., ill., bib., ISBN 0-87930-044-2 ..... cloth $ 10.00
Williams, Roy E. WASTE PRODUCTION & DISPOSAL IN THE MINING, MILLING & METALLURGICAL INDUSTRIES. 1975, 489pp., ill., appendixes, index, ISBN 0-87930-035-3 ..... cloth $ 35.00
Wyllie, R. J. M. & Argall, George O., Jr., eds. WORLD MINING GLOSSARY OF MINING, PROCESSING & GEOLOGICAL TERMS. 1975, 432pp., ISBN 0-87930-031-0 ..... cloth $ 40.00

FOREST PRODUCTS INDUSTRY

Baldwin, Richard F. PLYWOOD MANUFACTURING PRACTICES. 1975, 272pp., ill., bib., index, glossary, ISBN 0-87930-030-2 ..... cloth $ 22.50
Conway, Steve. LOGGING PRACTICES, PRINCIPLES OF TIMBER HARVESTING SYSTEMS. 1976, 416pp., ill., bib., index, ISBN 0-87930-038-8 ..... cloth $ 27.50
Conway, Steve. TIMBER CUTTING PRACTICES. 1973, 192pp., ill., bib., index, glossary, ISBN 0-87930-021-3 ..... cloth $ 12.50
Food & Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. PROCEEDINGS OF THE WORLD CONSULTATION ON WOOD-BASED PANELS. 1976, 454pp., ill., appendixes, Eng., ISBN 0-87930-055-8 (also Span. & Fr.) ..... paper $ 20.00
Fraser, Hugh R., ed. NORDIC AND NORTH AMERICAN SAWMILL TECHNIQUES. 1975, 195pp., ill., ISBN 0-87930-053-1 ..... paper $ 20.00
Fraser, Hugh R., ed. EUROPEAN SAWMILL TECHNIQUES. 1975, 153pp., ill., Eng., ISBN 0-87930-041-8 (also Fr. & Ger.) ..... paper $ 23.50
*Lambert, Herbert G., ed. MODERN PLYWOOD TECHNIQUES, VOL. 4. 1976, approx. 152pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-051-5 ..... paper price not set
Lambert, Herbert G., ed. MODERN PLYWOOD TECHNIQUES, VOL. 3. 1976, 240pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-048-5 ..... paper $ 25.00
Lambert, Herbert G., ed. MODERN PLYWOOD TECHNIQUES, VOL. 2. 1975, 144pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-040-X ..... cloth $ 21.50
Lambert, Herbert G., ed. MODERN PLYWOOD TECHNIQUES, VOL. 1. 1974, 168pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-027-2 ..... cloth $ 21.50
Lambert, Herbert G., ed. MODERN SAWMILL TECHNIQUES, VOL. 4. 1975, 296pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-039-6 ..... cloth $ 25.00
Lambert, Herbert G., ed. MODERN SAWMILL TECHNIQUES, VOL. 2. 1974, 376pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-024-8 ..... cloth $ 24.50
Mason, Duane C., ed. SAWMILL TECHNIQUES FOR SOUTHEAST ASIA. 1975, 120pp., ill., ISBN 0-87930-049-3 ..... paper $ 25.00
White, Vernon, S., ed. MODERN SAWMILL TECHNIQUES, VOL. 6. 1976, 304pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-052-3 ..... cloth $ 30.00
White, Vernon S., ed. MODERN SAWMILL TECHNIQUES, VOL. 5. 1975, 400pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-047-7 ..... cloth $ 32.50
White, Vernon S., ed. MODERN SAWMILL TECHNIQUES, VOL. 3. 1974, 328pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-026-4 ..... cloth $ 24.50
White, Vernon S., ed. MODERN SAWMILL TECHNIQUES, VOL. 1. 1973, 312pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-022-1 ..... cloth $ 19.50
Williston, Ed. M. LUMBER MANUFACTURING, THE DESIGN & OPERATION OF SAWMILLS & PLANER MILLS. 1976, 512pp., ill., bib., index, glossary, appendix, ISBN 0-87930-054-X ..... cloth $ 29.50
BUSINESS MANAGEMENT FOR SAWMILLS & PLYWOOD MILLS. 1976, 54pp., ill., ISBN 0-87930-059-0 ..... paper $ 12.50

PULP AND PAPER INDUSTRY

Haas, Leonard E. & Kalish, John E., eds. TRANSPORT & HANDLING IN THE PULP & PAPER INDUSTRY. 1975, 436pp., ill., index, ISBN 0-87930-033-7 ..... cloth $ 27.50
Higham, Robert A. THE PULP, PAPER AND PAPERBOARD INDUSTRY, ITS PROFITS, FUTURE DEVELOPMENT AND INVESTMENT RISK—A GLOBAL SURVEY. 1976, 194pp., ill., ISBN 0-87930-062-0 ..... paper $350.00
Lavigne, John R. AN INTRODUCTION TO PAPER INDUSTRY INSTRUMENTATION. 1972. 448pp., ill., bib., appendixes, index, glossary, ISBN 0-87930-013-2 ..... cloth $ 15.00
Lowe, Kenneth E. METRICATION FOR THE PULP & PAPER INDUSTRY. 1975, 192pp., ill., bib., appendixes, index, ISBN 0-87930-034-5 ..... cloth $ 24.50
Lowe, Kenneth E., ed. PRACTICAL COMPUTER APPLICATIONS FOR THE PULP & PAPER INDUSTRY. 1975, 167pp., ill., bib., ISBN 0-87930-036-1 ..... paper $ 12.50
Schiller, Francis E. MANUAL OF SUPERCALENDER OPERATIONS. 1976, 136pp., ill., ISBN 0-87930-050-7 ..... paper $ 15.00
Van Derveer, Paul D. & Haas, Leonard E., eds. INTERNATIONAL GLOSSARY OF TECHNICAL TERMS FOR THE PULP & PAPER INDUSTRY. 1976, 238pp., ISBN 0-87930-037-X ..... cloth $ 30.00
Van Derveer, Paul D. & Lowe, Kenneth E., eds. FIBER CONSERVATION & UTILIZATION. 1975, 288pp., ill., bib., appendixes, index, ISBN 0-87930-032-9 ..... cloth $ 27.50
*Wolpert, Valadimir M. SYNTHETIC POLYMERS & THE PAPER INDUSTRY. 1976, approx. 244pp., ill., bib., index, ISBN 0-87930-056-6 ..... cloth price not set

*Scheduled for late 1976 publication

Foster, B. Homeowner's Guide to Solar Heating and Cooling. Sept.
Practical Home Construction/Carpentry Handbook. Mar.

ASTRONOMY

Pergamon
Beer, A. P. Vistas in Astronomy. Vol. 19.
Clark, D. H. & F. R. Stephenson. Historical Supernovae.
Elgaroy, O. Solar Noise Storms.
Pacholczyk, A. G. Radio Galaxies.

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES

Gordon & Breach
Chevallier, F. Biodynamics and Indicators. Dec.

Pergamon
Ghatia, B. & others. Selected Topics in Environmental Biology.
Hall, E. J. Radiation and Life.
Kornberg, A. & others. Reflections on Biochemistry.
Peeters, H. Protides of the Biological Fluids. Vol. 24.
Yalin, M. S. Mechanics of Sediment Transport. 2d ed.

Univ. of Toronto Pr.
Young, E. G. The Development of Biochemistry in Canada. Jul.

BOTANICAL SCIENCES

Pergamon
Reinhold, L. & others. Progress in Phytochemistry. Vol. 4.
Smith, H. Commentaries in Plant Science.

Univ. of Toronto Pr.
Montgomery, F. H. The Seeds and Fruits of Plants of Eastern Canada and the Northeastern United States. Sept.

CHEMISTRY & CHEMICAL TECHNOLOGY

Gordon & Breach
Bracco, F. V. Stratified Charge Engines. Vol. 2. Oct.

McGraw
Strauss, H. J. Handbook for Chemical Technicians. Nov.

Pergamon
Angus, S. & others. International Thermodynamic Tables of Fluid State.
Brown, D. A. & W. J. David. Co-ordination Chemistry.
C.E.C. Fusion Technology.
Cole, A. R. H. Tables of Wavenumbers for the Calibration of Infrared Spectrometers.
Crompton, T. R. Analysis of Organoaluminum and Organozinc Compounds. 2d ed.
Green, M. L. H. Aspects of Hydrocarbon Activation by Transition Metals.

(Continued on p. 2248)

FORTHCOMING FROM ACADEMIC PRESS

Essential acquisitions for your science and technical book collections

Beltrami
MODELS FOR PUBLIC SYSTEMS ANALYSIS

Cole/Cupps
REPRODUCTION IN DOMESTIC ANIMALS, 3rd ed.

Granger/Newbold
FORECASTING ECONOMIC TIME SERIES

Harmuth
SEQUENCE THEORY

Ramahlo
INTRODUCTION TO WASTE-WATER TREATMENT PROCESSES

Weissbach/Pestka
MOLECULAR MECHANISMS OF PROTEIN BIOSYNTHESIS

Anderson et al
ANALYSIS OF ADHESIVE BONDS

Carlson
INTRODUCTION TO APPLIED OPTICS FOR ENGINEERS

Davidson
GENE ACTIVITY IN EARLY DEVELOPMENT, 2nd ed.

Dreyfus/Law
ART AND THEORY OF DYNAMIC PROGRAMMING

Hanushek/Jackson
INTRODUCTION TO ESTIMATION THEORY

Hunsaker
THE BIOLOGY OF MARSUPIALS

Lindsay/Norman
HUMAN INFORMATION PROCESSING, 2nd ed.

Loehr
POLLUTION CONTROL FOR AGRICULTURE

Underwood
FREE ELEMENTS IN HUMAN AND ANIMAL NUTRITION

Vanasse
SPECTROMETRIC TECHNIQUES

Zuckerman
THE OVARY, 1 and 2, 2nd ed.

Jones/Endean
BIOLOGY AND GEOLOGY OF CORAL REEFS, 4

Lee
POPULATION PROBLEMS IN THE PAST

Pines/Stalick
BASE CATALYZED REACTIONS OF HYDROCARBONS AND RELATED COMPOUNDS

Rostoker/Dvorak
INTERPRETATION OF METALLOGRAPHIC STRUCTURES 2nd ed.

Rothblatt/Cristofalo
GROWTH, NUTRITION AND METABOLISM OF CELLS IN CULTURE

Schwartz/Beatty
BIOFEEDBACK

Sybesma
AN INTRODUCTION TO BIOPHYSICS

Also forthcoming (you'll have it soon) is the first issue of

The AP Report

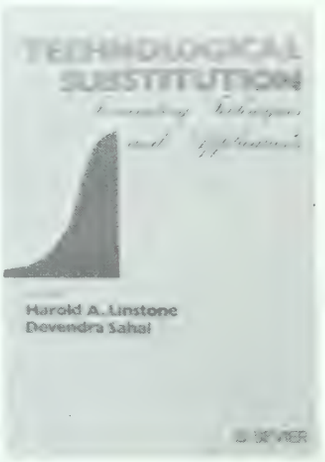
for 1977. This quarterly issued catalog is your guide to forthcoming titles—all the titles listed above and many more to be published January–March 1977. Watch for your copy of

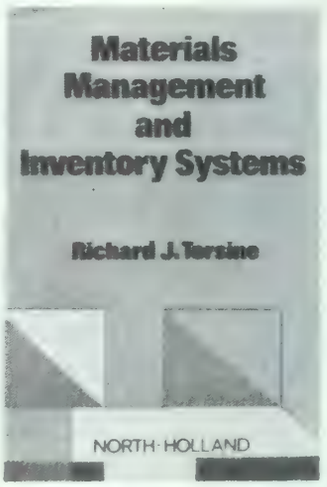
The AP Report

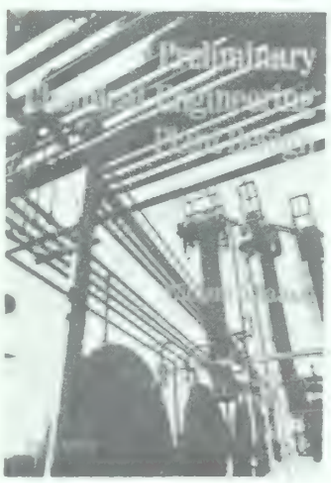
in the mail and keep it for reference.

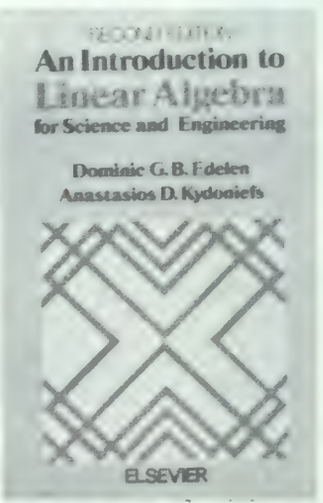
ACADEMIC PRESS, INC.
A Subsidiary of Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Publishers
111 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10003
24-28 OVAL ROAD, LONDON NW1 7DX

How can you judge a book by its cover?









INTERIOR DESIGN An Introduction to Architectural Interiors 2nd Revised Edition Friedmann,Pile, and Wilson A unified, functional study of architectural interiors. Color plates included. 448 pages, $17.50 ISBN 0-444-00178-6

TECHNOLOGICAL SUBSTITUTION Forecasting Techniques and Applications Linstone and Sahal (eds.) An analysis of methodologies in forecasting dealing explicitly with technological substitution. 304 pages, $16.95 ISBN 0-444-00181-6

MATERIALS MANAGEMENT AND INVENTORY SYSTEMS Tersine A study of materials management and inventory systems for successful business management. 432 pages, $19.50 ISBN 0-7204-8602-5

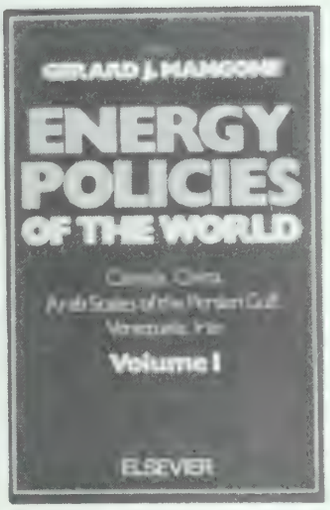
PRELIMINARY CHEMICAL ENGINEERING PLANT DESIGN Baasel Chemical engineering from site selection through the latest cost estimating techniques. 512 pages, $25.00 ISBN 0-444-00152-2

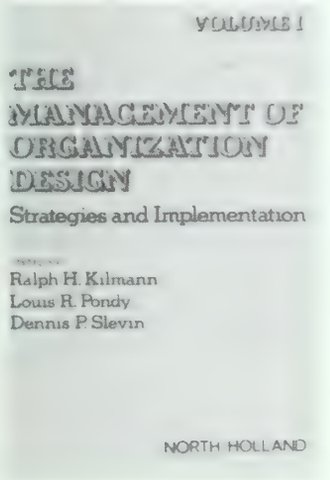
COMPUTER-BASED MEDICAL CONSULTATIONS: MYCIN Shortliffe Artificial Intelligence Series from the ELSEVIER COMPUTER SCIENCE LIBRARY Describes the history, design, function, and future applications of MYCIN and comparable artificial intelligence systems. 288 pages, $16.95 ISBN 0-444-00179-4

INTRODUCTION TO LINEAR ALGEBRA FOR SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING Edelen and Kydoniefs A clear presentation of theoretical principles and their applications. 288 pages, $10.95 ISBN 0-444-00195-6

THE MANAGEMENT OF ORGANIZATION DESIGN Volume I Strategies and Implementation Volume II Research and Methodology Kilmann, Pondy, and Slevin (eds.) Management design seen as a conscious problem-solving and planning process. Volume I, 320 pages, $19.50 ISBN 0-444-00188-3 Volume II, 254 pages, $19.50 ISBN 0-444-00189-1

ENERGY POLICIES OF THE WORLD Volume 1 Mangone (ed.) An overview of the energy policies of Canada, China, the Arab States of the Persian Gulf, Venezuela, and Iran. 416 pages, $19.50 ISBN 0-444-00196-4





Take a good look at the imprint

An imprint can tell you a lot about what's inside a book. If the imprint is Elsevier or North-Holland, you're looking at a book that is relevant, thorough, and well produced. Since 1581 the Elsevier name has meant quality in scientific publishing. Today Elsevier North-Holland, Inc. in New York continues in this tradition, publishing scientific textbooks, monographs, and journals including these outstanding titles in architecture, business, engineering and technology, information processing and computer science. Elsevier and North-Holland. Take a good look, and then judge for yourself.

Other New Titles Include:

ARCHITECTURAL STRUCTURES An Introduction to Structural Mechanics 2nd Revised Edition Cowan A thorough, up-to-date introduction to architectural structures and theory. 464 pages, $18.95 ISBN 0-444-00177-8

BUSINESS PRACTICES FOR CONSTRUCTION MANAGEMENT Adrian Covering the fundamental skills for the inception and maintaining of a profitable business. 448 pages, $16.50 ISBN 0-444-00169-7

MARKETING MODELS AND ECONOMETRIC RESEARCH Parsons and Schultz An application of econometric research to the practical problems facing marketing managers. 320 pages, $22.50 ISBN 0-7204-8601-7

ECONOMICS DICTIONARY Moffat A comprehensive, up-to-date dictionary with an encyclopedic scope (charts, tables, and appendix included). 301 pages, paperbound $9.75 0-444-99024-0, hardbound $14.95 0-444-41369-3

OPTIMAL CONTROL AND SYSTEM THEORY IN DYNAMIC ECONOMIC ANALYSIS Aoki from the North-Holland Series in Dynamic Economics: Theory and Applications (Wilkinson, Editor) A study of the basic principles and theorems of control theory with applications to microeconomic and macroeconomic models. 416 pages, $27.50 ISBN 0-444-00176-X

THE PROGRAMMER'S INTRODUCTION TO SNOBOL Maurer Programming Languages Series from the ELSEVIER COMPUTER SCIENCE LIBRARY An Introduction to SNOBOL 4 for use in systems programming, compiler construction, and text processing. 156 pages, paperbound $8.75 ISBN 0-444-00172-7, hardbound $13.50 ISBN 0-444-00173-5

MICROPROGRAMMABLE COMPUTER ARCHITECTURES Salisbury Computer Design and Architecture Series from the ELSEVIER COMPUTER SCIENCE LIBRARY Traces the evolution of microprogramming from a tool of the computer designer to modern user microprogrammable machines. 168 pages, paperbound $8.75 ISBN 0-444-00174-3, hardbound $13.50 ISBN 0-444-00175-1

COMPUTER PERFORMANCE MEASUREMENT AND EVALUATION METHODS: Analysis and Applications Svobodova Computer Design and Architecture Series from the ELSEVIER COMPUTER SCIENCE LIBRARY Analyzing the measurement problem of a complex computer system. 168 pages, paperbound $7.95 ISBN 0-444-00197-2, hardbound $14.95 ISBN 0-444-00192-1

ELSEVIER NORTH-HOLLAND
NEW YORK 52 VANDERBILT AVENUE NEW YORK, NEW YORK 10017

Jones, D. N. Stereochemical Aspects of Sulphoxides and Selenoxides.
McCullough, J. P. Experimental Thermodynamics. Vol. 1.
Marchon, J. C. Non-Aqueous Electrochemistry.
Rado, R. Chemical Transformations of Polymers.
Sedlacek, B. Macromolecular Chemistry.
Staveley, L. A. K. The Characterization of Chemical Purity.

COMPUTERS & DATA PROCESSING

Pergamon
Morris, D. J. Introduction to Communication Command and Control Systems.

Petrocelli/Charter
House, W. C., Jr. Interactive Decision Oriented Data Base Systems. Jan.
Prothro, V. C. Information Management Systems. Oct.
Sippl, C. J. Microcomputer Handbook. Jan.
Wooldridge, S. Project Management in Data Processing. Sept.
Wooldridge, S. Systems and Programming Standards. Jan.

TAB
Buchanek, J. & E. Bergin. Piloting/Navigation with the Pocket Calculator. Oct.
Hunter, W. Master Handbook of Digital Logic Applications. Aug.
United Technical Pubs. Modern Guide to Digital Logic. Apr.

ENGINEERING

Miller Freeman
Baldwin, R. F. Plywood Manufacturing Practices.
Conway, S. Logging Practices. May.
Conway, S. Timber Cutting Practices.
Food & Agriculture Organization of the UN. Proceedings of the World Consultation on Wood-Based Panels. Apr.
Fraser, H. R., ed. Nordic and North American Sawmill Techniques.
Fraser, H. R., ed. European Sawmill Techniques.
Haas, L. E. & J. E. Kalish, eds. Transport and Handling in the Pulp and Paper Industry.
Lambert, H. F., ed. Modern Plywood Techniques. 4 vols. Nov.
Lambert, H. F. & others, eds. Modern Sawmill Techniques. 6 vols. Oct.
Lavigne, J. R. An Introduction to Paper Industry Instrumentation.
Mason, D. C., ed. Sawmill Techniques for Southeast Asia.
Van Derveer, P. D. & D. E. Lowe, eds. Fiber Conservation and Utilization.
Williston, E. M. Lumber Manufacturing. Jul.

McGraw
Electronics Magazine. Basics of Data Communication. Oct.
Electronics Magazine. Large-Scale Integration. Nov.
LaLonde, W. S., Jr. & W. J. Stack-Staikidies. Professional Engineering Examination Questions and Answers. 3d ed. Oct.
Perry, R. H. Engineering Manual. 3d ed. Nov.
Smeaton, R., ed. Switchgear and Control Handbook. Jan.
Texas Instruments. Digital-Integrated-Circuit, Operational-Amplifier and Optoelectronic Circuit Design. Nov.
Texas Instruments. Electronic Power Control and Digital Techniques. Nov.
Texas Instruments. MOS, Special-Purpose Bipolar Integrated-Circuit and R-F Power Transistors. Nov.
Texas Instruments. Power-Transistor and TTL Integrated-Circuit Applications. Nov.

Pergamon
Baden Fuller, A. J. Worked Examples in Engineering Field Theory.
Canadian Reliability Engineers. Reliability Engineering Proceedings of the 1976 Canadian SRE Reliability Symposium.
Carter, G. C. & others. Metallic Shifts in NMR.
Croome, D. J. Noise, Buildings and People.

(Continued on p. 2252)

Behind this Symbol

Specialized Coverage of the World's Life Science Literature

BIOSIS

ABSTRACTS OF ENTOMOLOGY
ABSTRACTS OF MYCOLOGY

Discipline oriented abstracts and citations of pure and applied research selected from the total coverage of Biological Abstracts and BioResearch Index

- From 8,000 publications and serials
- From 100 countries
- Entomology—12,000 items yearly
- Mycology—10,000 items yearly
- In English • Monthly • 5 Indexes

For subscription and ordering information contact BIOSIS Marketing Bureau, 2100 Arch Street, Philadelphia, PA 19103 USA

ISR

The Institute for Social Research
Sales Fulfillment Section
The University of Michigan
P.O. Box 1248
Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106

Recent Titles

SCIENTISTS IN ORGANIZATIONS, REVISED EDITION: Productive Climates for Research and Development, by Donald C. Pelz and Frank M. Andrews. 1976, 401 p. LC 76-620038.

ISBN 0-87944-208-5 .....clothbound $14

ADHERING TO MEDICAL REGIMENS: Pilot Experiments in Patient Education and Social Support, by Robert D. Caplan, Elizabeth A. R. Robinson, John R. P. French, Jr., John R. Caldwell, and Marybeth Shinn. 1976, 284 p. LC 76-620035.

ISBN 0-87944-207-7 .....paperbound $10

FIVE THOUSAND AMERICAN FAMILIES — PATTERNS OF ECONOMIC PROGRESS, a five-volume series edited by James N. Morgan and Greg J. Duncan. Write for details.

ECONOMIC MEANS FOR HUMAN NEEDS: Social Indicators of Well-Being and Discontent, edited by Burkhard Strumpel. 1976, 303 p. LC 75-620105.

ISBN 0-87944-193-3 .....clothbound $14

INTERVIEWER'S MANUAL, REVISED EDITION, by the Staff of the Survey Research Center. 1976, 145 p. LC 76-630039.

ISBN 0-87944-194-1 .....paperbound $8
ISBN 0-87944-195-X .....clothbound $12

SURVEYS OF CONSUMERS: Contributions to Behavioral Economics, a series of annual monographs, by the Staff of the Economic Behavior Program. Write for details.

JUSTIFYING VIOLENCE: Attitudes of American Men, by Monica Blumenthal, Robert L. Kahn, Frank M. Andrews, and Kendra B. Head. 1972, 380 p. LC 74-169101.

ISBN 0-87944-004-X .....paperbound $7.50
ISBN 0-87944-005-8 .....clothbound $12

MORE ABOUT JUSTIFYING VIOLENCE: Methodological Studies of Attitudes and Behavior, by Monica Blumenthal, Letha B. Chadiha, Gerald A. Cole, and Toby Epstein Jayaratne, 1976, 416 p. LC 74-620136.

ISBN 0-87944-191-7 .....paperbound $8
ISBN 0-87944-192-5 .....clothbound $14

Justifying Violence and More About Justifying Violence are available as a set.

ISBN 0-87944-205-0 .....paperbound $13
ISBN 0-87944-206-9 .....clothbound $22

EXPERIMENT IN A JUVENILE COURT: A Study of a Program of Volunteers Working with Juvenile Probationers, by Robert J. Berger, Joan E. Crowley, Martin Gold, and John Gray, with Martha S. Arnold. 1976, 490 p. LC 75-620133.

ISBN 0-87944-202-6 .....paperbound $13.50

BUREAUCRATIC ENCOUTERS: A Pilot Study in the Evaluation of Government Services, by Daniel Katz, Barbara A. Gutek, Robert L. Kahn, and Eugenia Barton. 1975, 270 p. LC 74-620202.

ISBN 0-87944-172-0 .....paperbound $7
ISBN 0-87944-173-9 .....clothbound $12.50

BLACK RACIAL ATTITUDES: Trends and Complexities, by Howard Schuman and Shirley Hatchett. 1974, 160 p. LC 74-620067.

ISBN 0-87944-157-7 .....paperbound $6
ISBN 0-87944-158-5 .....clothbound $10

WHITE ATTITUDES TOWARD BLACK PEOPLE, by Angus Campbell. 1971, 177 p. LC 74-161548.

ISBN 0-87944-113-5 .....paperbound $6
ISBN 0-87944-007-4 .....clothbound $10

Black Racial Attitudes and White Attitudes Toward Black People are available as a set.

ISBN 0-87944-203-4 .....paperbound $9.50
ISBN 0-87944-204-2 .....clothbound $17

MEASURES FOR PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSESSMENT: A Guide to 3,000 Original Sources and Their Applications, by Ki-Taek Chun, Sidney Cobb, and John R. P. French, Jr. 1975, 688 p. LC 74-620127.

ISBN 0-87944-168-2 .....clothbound $15

ECONOMIC SURVEY METHODS, by John B. Lansing and James N. Morgan. 1971, 448 p. LC 71-633672.

ISBN 0-87944-008-2 .....paperbound $8
ISBN 0-87944-009-0 .....clothbound $14

MEASURES OF SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGICAL ATTITUDES, by John P. Robinson and Phillip R. Shaver. 1969, Revised Edition 1973, 750 p. LC 79-627967.

ISBN 0-87944-130-5 .....paperbound $10
ISBN 0-87944-069-4 .....clothbound $15

A GUIDE FOR SELECTING STATISTICAL TECHNIQUES FOR ANALYZING SOCIAL SCIENCE DATA, by Frank M. Andrews, Laura Klem, Terrence N. Davidson, Patrick M. O'Malley, and Willard L. Rodgers. 1974, 38 p. LC 74-620117.

ISBN 0-87944-161-5 .....paperbound $5

YOUTH IN TRANSITION, a five-volume series by the Staff of the Survey Research Center. Write for details.

Please make checks payable to Institute for Social Research. Orders less than $10 must be prepaid–no additional charge for postage and handling.

A $1.50 billing/handling charge plus cost of postage will be added to orders under $25 that are not prepaid.

Cost of postage will be added to orders of $25 or more that are not prepaid. Michigan residents add 4% sales tax.

If You Want To Get Technical, Get McGraw-Hill This Fall.

ARCHITECTURE

The Architect as Developer (Portman & Barnett). Nov. 0-07-050536-5. $22.95

Dimensions: Space, Scale and Shape in Architecture (Moore). Nov. 0-07-002336-0. $12.95

Drawing Plans for Your Own Home (Curran). Published. 0-07-014925-9. $24.95

Places for People (Davern). Dec. 0-07-002201-1. $16.50

Unbuilt America (Site, Inc.) Nov. 0-07-057760-9. $14.95

BUSINESS

Building a Broader Market (20 Century Fund, Inc.) Published. 0-07-065629-0. $7.95

Compound Interest and Annuity Tables (Estes). Published. 0-07-019683-4. $3.95

Contrasts In Management (Stewart). Published. 0-07-084474-7. $12.00

Cost Reduction From A to Z (Higgins & Stidger). Published. 0-07-028765-1. $22.50

Economic Growth in the Future: 1976-2000 (Edison Electric Institute). Published. 0-07-018967-6. $19.50

Fat Paper (Grossman). Published. 0-07-024981-4. $9.95

Handbook of Interest and Annuity Tables (Estes). Nov. 0-07-019681-8. $18.95

How to Start and Operate a Mail Order Business 2/e (Simon). Published. 0-07-057409-X. $14.50

Improvements That Increase the Value of Your House (Cobb). Published. 0-07-011487-0. $11.95

Interest Amortization Tables (Estes). Published. 0-07-019680-X. $3.95

1977 Business Week Diary and Business Travel Planner (Business Week). Published. 0-07-009314-8. $14.95

On The Way Up (Farnsworth). Published. 0-07-084471-2. $9.50

Real Estate Guidelines and Rules of Thumb (Gettel). Published. 0-07-023173-7. $12.95

Telephone Marketing (Roman). Published. 0-07-053595-7. $16.50

36-Hour Accounting Course (Dixon). Published. 0-07-017090-8. $29.95

Training and Development Handbook, 2/e (Craig). Published. 0-07-013350-6. $26.50

Understand Accounting—Fast! (Peterson). Published. 0-07-049615-3. $11.95

Venture Management (Hanan). Published. 0-07-025970-4. $14.95

Wide World of Wickes (Bush). Dec. 0-07-009279-6. $9.95

EDUCATION

Early Schooling in Asia (Bettelheim & Takanishi). Published. 0-07-005127-5. $8.95

Facing the Future (Goodlad). Nov. 0-07-023764-6. $7.95

The Open Partnership (Ryan). Dec. 0-07-054360-7. $7.95

The National Assessment of Education (Greenbaum, et al). Published. 0-07-024285-2. $12.50

Undoing Sex Stereotypes (Guttentag & Bray). Published. 0-07-025380-3. $7.95

Women and the Power to Change (Howe). Published. 0-07-010128-0. $3.95

ENGINEERING

Basics of Data Communication (Electronics Magazine). Published. 0-07-019159-X. $19.50

Digital-Integrated-Circuit, Operational-Amplifier and Optoelectronic Circuit Design (Texas Instruments). Nov. 0-07-063753-9. $16.50

Electronic Power Control and Digital Techniques (Texas Instruments). Nov. 0-07-063752-0. $16.50

Electronics for Works Technicians (Morris). Nov. 0-07-084476-3. $12.50

Engineering Manual, 2/e (Perry). Nov. 0-07-049476-2. $19.75

Formwork for Concrete Structures, 2/e (Peurifoy). Published. 0-07-049754-0. $16.50

Handbook for Chemical Technicians (Strauss). Nov. 0-07-062164-0. $19.50

Handbook of Hydraulics (Brater). Published. 0-07-007243-4. $26.50

Industrial Wastewater Management Handbook (Azad). Nov. 0-07-002661-0. $27.50

Large-Scale Integration (Electronics Magazine). Nov. 0-07-019187-5. $16.50

MOS, Special-Purpose Bipolar Integrated-Circuit and R-F Transistors (Texas Instruments). Nov. 0-07-063753-9. $16.50

Power-Transistor and TTL Integrated-Circuit Applications (Texas Instruments). Nov. 0-07-063754-7. $16.50

Professional Engineering Examination Questions and Answers, 3/e (LaLonde & Stack-Staikidis). Published. 0-07-056093-6. $16.50

Standard Cantilever Retaining Walls (Newman). Published. 0-07-046347-6. $27.50

Standard Handbook for Civil Engineers, 2/e (Merritt). Nov. 0-07-041510-2. $39.95

Steam Plant Operation, 4/e (Woodruff). Dec. 0-07-071731-1. $16.75

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Law Enforcement (20 Century Fund, Inc.). Published. 0-07-065627-4. $6.95

New Life Options (Loring & Otto). Published. 0-07-038742-7. $10.95

SPECIAL REFERENCE

The Bradford Book of Collectors Plates (Bradford Exchange). Published. 0-07-007057-1. $9.95

The Industry/EPA Confrontation (Minor). Published. 0-07-042401-2. $195.00

Major Appliance Servicing (Scharff). Nov. 0-07-055143-X. $12.50

McGraw-Hill Dictionary of the Life Sciences (McGraw-Hill). Nov. 0-07-045262-8. $19.95

McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of Energy (McGraw-Hill). Nov. 0-07-045261-X. $24.50

Small Appliance Servicing Guide (Scharff). Published. 0-07-055142-1. $11.50

McGraw-Hill Book Company
1221 Avenue of the Americas
New York, New York 10020

Some Important Forthcoming Books From Pergamon

Engineering & Material Sciences

BADEN FULLER, A.J. Worked Examples in Engineering Field Theory $20.00
$10.00 (flexi)

BISWAS, A.K. & DAVENPORT, W.G. Extractive Metallurgy of Copper
$40.00 $15.00 (flexi)

CANADIAN RELIABILITY ENGINEERS. Reliability Engineering Proceedings of the 1976 Canadian SRE Reliability Symposium
$15.00 (flexi)

CARTER, G.C., BENNETT, L.H. & KAHN, D.J. Metallic Shifts in NMR
$300.00

CROOME, D.J. Noise, Buildings and People $50.00
$30.00 (flexi)

DANESHYAR, H. One-Dimensional Compressible Flow $15.00
$7.50 (flexi).

DHIR, R.K. Advances in Ready-Mixed Concrete Technology
$30.00

DUMMER, G.W.A. Electronic Inventions 1745–1976
$14.00

GRAYBIEL, A. Basic Environmental Problems of Man in Space
$35.00

HEARN, E.J. Mechanics of Materials, Volume 1 $20.00 (flexi), Volume 2 $15.00 (flexi), Vols. 1 & 2 Combined $50.00

HINDMARSH, J. Electrical Machines and Their Applications 3rd Ed. $25.00
$15.00 (flexi)

NEMAT NASSER, S. Mechanics Today, Volume 3 $30.00

MORRIS, D.J. Introduction to Communication Command & Control Systems $30.00

SPORN, P. Energy in an Age of Limited Availability and Delimited Applicability $5.50 (flexi)

YALIN, M.S. Mechanics of Sediment Transport, 2nd Ed., $35.00

Social Questions

HERSEN, M. & BELLACK, A. Behavior Assessment – A Practical Handbook $25.50
$19.50 (flexi)

WANDERSMAN, A., POPPEN, P. & RICKS, D. Humanism & Behaviorism – Dialogue & Growth $18.00

WOLPE, J. Theme and Variations – A Behavior Therapy Casebook
$12.50 $8.00 (flexi)

Education

DAVE, R.H. et al.: Foundations of Lifelong Education
$12.50 (flexi)
$17.50

Life Sciences

BARANY, F.R. and TORSOLI, A. Gastrointestinal Emergencies
$20.00

DILLON, J.L. The Analysis of Response in Crop and Livestock Production, 2nd Edition
$10.00 $5.00 (flexi)

HALL, E.J. Radiation and Life
$12.95 $6.95 (flexi)

PURCHON, R.D. The Biology of the Mollusca, 2nd Edition
$35.00

RODGER, F. Onchocerciasis in Zaire
$17.50

RUSSELL, W. RITCHIE, Multiple Sclerosis – Control of the Disease
$7.95 $4.95 (flexi)

RICHTER, D. et al, Schizophrenia Today $18.00

REINHOLD, L. et al Progress in Phytochemistry, Volume 4
$23.50

SCHOFFENIELS, E. Anti-Chance
$11.90 $5.90 (flexi)

SMITH, H. Commentaries in Plant Science $18.00

WALTON, W.H. Inhaled Particles IV
$60.00

KORNBERG, A., et al. Reflections on Biochemistry $25.00
$9.50

PEETERS, H. Protides of the Biological Fluids, Vol. 24
$75.00

ZOTTERMAN, Y. Sensory Functions of the Skin $30.00

BHATIA, B. et al. Selected Topics in Environmental Biology
$60.00

Economics and Commerce

EILON, S. Aspects of Management
$13.00 $7.00 (flexi)

GARTENBERG, M. & SHAW, B. Mathematics for Financial Analysis
$13.00

HENSHER, D.A. The Valuation of Business Travel Time $11.00

Social Sciences

HEAP, K. Group Theory for Social Workers $16.00
$9.00 (flexi)

SZALAI, A. & PETRELLA, R. Cross-national Comparative Survey Research $18.00

STARKIE, D.N.M. Transportation Planning, Policy and Analysis
$13.50 $7.00 (flexi)

WIBBERLEY, G. & DAVIDSON, J. Planning and the Rural Environment
$15.00 $9.00 (flexi)

All prices are subject to change.

Chemistry

ANGUS, S., ARMSTRONG, B., De REUCK, K.M. International Thermodynamic Tables of the Fluid State - Carbon Dioxide
$50.00

BROWN, D.A. & DAVIS, W.J. Co-ordination Chemistry – XVIth Conf. Dublin $15.00

C.E.C. Fusion Technology - Proceedings of the 9th Symposium
$45.00

COLE, A.R.H. Tables of Wavenumbers for the Calibration of Infrared Spectrometers
$18.00

CROMPTON, T.R. Analysis of Organoaluminium and Organozinc Compounds, 2nd edition $27.50

GORANSSON, B. Industrial Waste Water and Wastes 2 $35.00

GREEN, M.L.H. Aspects of Hydrocarbon Activation by Transition Metals $10.00

JONES, D.N. Stereochemical Aspects of Sulphoxides and Selenoxides
$10.00

MARCHON, J.C. Non-Aqueous Electrochemistry $15.00

McCULLOUGH, J.P. Experimental Thermodynamics, Volume 1
$40.00

RADO, R. Chemical Transformations of Polymers $32.00

SEDLACEK, B. Macromolecular Chemistry - 10 $35.00

STAVELEY, L.A.K. The Characterization of Chemical Purity – Organic Compounds $19.00

Physics and Mathematics

BEER, A & P: Vistas in Astronomy Volume 19 (complete) $62.50

CLARK, D.H. and STEPHENSON, F.R. Historical Supernovae $10.00

VAN DALEN, D. et al.: Sets: Naive, Axiomatic and Applied $17.50

ELGAROY, O. Solar Noise Storms
$17.50

ELTON, L.R.B. and MESSEL, H. Time and Man $8.00
$4.00 flexi

GEORGE, F.H. Machine Takeover
$10.00 $4.00 flexi

LANDAU, L.D. and LIFSHITZ, E.M. Quantum Mechanics (Non-Relativistic Theory) 3rd edition
$30.00 $18.50 flexi

PACHOLCZYK, A.G. Radio Galaxies
$17.50

ROY, D.K. Tunnelling and Negative Resistance Phenomena in p-n Junctions $12.50

WILHELMSON, H. and WEILAND, J. Coherent Non-Linear Interaction of Waves in Plasmas $15.00

Catalogue 1977
available late fall. Many Librarians are invited to request their copy now.

Pergamon Press

Fairview Park, Elmsford, New York 10523, USA
Headington Hill Hall, Oxford OX3 0BW, England

CAMBRIDGE

POTENTIAL ENERGY

An Analysis of World-Energy Technology

MICHAEL KENWARD

The Technology Editor of New Scientist gives the pertinent facts about all the major energy sources, presents a total view of our energy needs, uses and abuses, and sets up a framework for a research and development program.

238 pages LC 75-36174
ISBN 21086 0 $14.95

THE BATTLE AGAINST BACTERIA: A FRESH LOOK

P. E. BALDRY

A sequel to The Battle Against Bacteria (CUP 1965). For adults and young adults.

184 pages LC 76-639
ISBN 21268 5 $9.95

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE USES OF COMPUTERS

MURRAY LAVER

The terminology of computing is carefully explained, and the use of computers in many fields is explored to show the wide range of problems they can handle.

240 pages* LC 75-23535
ISBN 29035 X $6.95

MACRO PROCESSORS

A. J. COLE

This book describes the types of macro processors, their purposes, and their internal structure.

240 pages* LC 75-19576
ISBN 29024 4 $8.95

COMPUTING SYSTEMS HARDWARE

M. WELLS

The author explains the basic types of operation that are possible on information and describes computer hardware currently in use for each.

255 pages* LC 75-27263
ISBN 29034 1 $8.95

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF PROGRAMMING LANGUAGES

D. W. BARRON

The design and structure of programming languages is presented in a way that brings out fundamental concepts and illustrates their practical applications.

c. 250 pages LC 76-11070
ISBN 21317 7 $10.95

*Limp
ISBN Prefix 0 521

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS
32 East 57th Street
New York, N.Y. 10022

Daneshyar, H. One-Dimensional Compressible Flow.
Dhir, R. K. Advances in Ready-Mixed Concrete Technology.
Dummer, G. W. A. Electronic Inventions 1745-1976.
Goransson, B. Industrial Waste Water and Wastes 2.
Hearn, E. J. Mechanics of Materials. 2 vols.
Hindmarsh, J. Electrical Machines and Their Applications.
Nemat Nasser, S. Mechanics Today. Vol. 3.

Univ. of Toronto Pr.
Bodle, D. W. Characterization of the Electrical Environment. Aug.

TAB
Dempsey, P. Motorcycle Repair Handbook. Aug.
Dempsey, P. Vega. Jun.
Whittington, H. & R. Whittington. Step-By-Step Guide to Engine Maintenance/Repair. Jun.

HI-FI, RADIO, & TV

Oxford Univ. Pr.
Borwick, J., ed. Sound Recording Practice. Jun.

TAB
Belt, F. & J. Carroll. Photo/Symptom Guide to Solid-State Color TV Troubles. Oct.
Brown, Robert. CBer's Handy Book of Simple Hobby Projects. Jun.
Carr, J. CET License Handbook. 3d ed. Sept.
Carr, J. OP AMP Circuit Design and Applications. Jan.
CB Radio Schematic/Servicing Manual. Vol. 4. Jun.
CBer's Handy Atlas/Dictionary. May.
CBer's Handy Manual. Mar.
Color TV Trouble Factbook—problems and solutions. 3d ed. Jul.
Douglas, A. The Electronic Musical Instrument Manual. Jun.
Douglas, A. & S. Astley. Sourcebook of Electronic Organ Circuits. Sept.
Finnegan, P. Broadcast Engineering & Maintenance Handbook. Oct.
Goodman, R. Troubleshooting with the Dual-Trace Scope. Mar.
Gottlieb, I. Switching Regulators and Power Supplies. Jan.
Hallmark, C. Microelectronics. Mar.
Haviland, R. Build-It Book of Miniature Test and Measurement Instruments. Jan.
Master Tube Substitution Handbook. Aug.
Norman, D. VHF/UHF Fire, Police, Ham Scanners. Jun.
Turner, R. Impedance. Apr.
Whacky World. How To Hear and Speak CB in a Short-Short. Sept.

MATHEMATICS & STATISTICS

Gordon & Breach
Scandura, J. M. Structural Learning. Vol. 2. Sept.

(Continued on p. 2256)

We at Johns Hopkins are pleased to publish the work of Resources for the Future, a private non-profit organization established in 1952 to study all facets of humankind's relationship to the natural environment.

Long before ecology became a fashionable word and twenty years before the OPEC crisis, the staff of RFF was devoting careful attention to both the quality of our environment and the quantity of our resources. They focus on the basic resources — land, water, minerals, and air — and the goods and services derived from them. The relationship of population and economic growth to the environment and resource use is a prime concern.

Some fifteen new RFF publications are issued annually — both books and interim working papers aimed to make current research available quickly. A few recent examples:

Forests for Whom and for What? by Marion Clawson. "A sound, worthwhile study . . . essential reading for those concerned with future timber supplies." — Library Journal LC 74-24399
0-8018-1698-X $11.95
0-8018-1751-X $ 3.65 paperback

Land Use and the States by Robert G. Healy. "Basic for those in government, industry, and community affairs who consider the regional impact of developments such as airports, race-tracks, power plants . . ." — Choice LC 75-37017
0-8018-1822-2 $10.00
0-8018-1823-0 $ 2.95 paperback

The Economics of Natural Environments by John V. Krutilla and Anthony C. Fisher. "Strongly recommended . . . easy style; good index; useful chapters and bibliographies." — Choice LC 74-24400
0-8018-1699-8 $16.95
0-8018-1752-8 $ 4.50 paperback

Coping with the Oil Crisis by Horst Mendershausen. "In a broad sense, the study leads the reader to realize how the energy crisis has had impacts on basic economic policies." — Public Finance LC 75-35485
0-8018-1812-5 $7.50
0-8018-1813-3 $2.95 paperback

Won't you write to us for a complete annotated publication list. We will also be glad to add your name to the mailing list to receive the RFF bulletin Resources, available three times a year without charge.

from Johns Hopkins

The Johns Hopkins University Press
Baltimore, Maryland 21218

Following the technical reference work of '76...

Encyclopedia of Computer Science
Anthony Ralston & C. L. Meek
June '76,
0-88405-321-0, $60.00

Petrocelli/Charter announces...

COMPUTER SCIENCE

Information and Data in Systems
Börje Langefors and Kjell Samuelson
Published, 0-88405-349-0, $14.95

Metropolis: The Urban Systems Game
Richard Duke
Published, 0-88405-344-X (Kit containing: 1 instructor's manual, 1 volume of wall charts and computation forms, & 9 participants manuals), $35.00

Microcomputer Handbook
Charles J. Sippl
Jan. '77, 0-88405-324-5, $19.95

Computer-Aided Architectural Design
William J. Mitchell
Feb. '77, 0-88405-323-7, $24.95

DATA PROCESSING AND INFORMATION SYSTEMS

Information Management Systems: Data Base Primer
Vivian C. Prothro
Published, 0-88405-409-8, $12.50

Design of Management Information Systems, Revised Edition
Don Q Matthews
Published, 0-88405-320-2, $12.95

Hospital Computer Systems and Procedures, Vol. II: Medical Systems
Raymon D. Garrett
Nov. '76, 0-88405-338-5, $14.95

Systems and Programming Standards
Susan Wooldridge
Jan. '77, 0-88405-425-X, $12.50

Project Management in Data Processing
Susan Wooldridge
Published, 0-88405-327-X, $12.95

MANAGEMENT SCIENCE & MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SYSTEMS

Linear Optimization in Management
Sang M. Lee
Published, 0-88405-322-9, $14.95

GERT Modeling & Simulation: Fundamentals & Applications
Laurence J. Moore and
Edward R. Clayton
Published, 0-88405-328-8, $14.95

Interactive Decision-Oriented Data Base Systems
William C. House
Jan. '77, 0-88405-339-3, $19.95

Linear Programming and Budgeting
Veikko Jäaskelainen
Jan. '77, 0-88405-433-0, $9.00 paper

Other People's Business: A Primer on Management Consultants
Howard J. Klein
Jan. '77, 0-88405-377-6, $8.95

The Victory Principle: How to Edge Your Way into Success
Auren Uris and Jack Tarrant
Jan. '77, 0-88405-388-8, $7.95

MARKETING

Product/Service Strategy
Richard T. Hise
Dec. '76, 0-88405-348-2, $12.50 cloth
0-88405-337-7, $9.00 paper

Product Planning, Second Edition
Edward A. Spitz
Jan. '77, 0-88405-408-X, $9.95 paper

Designing the Marketing Research Project
Robert W. Joselyn
Feb. '77, 0-88405-393-8, $12.50 cloth
0-88405-443-8, $9.00 paper

PETROCELLI/CHARTER

a division of Mason/Charter Publishers, Inc.
641 Lexington Avenue, New York, New York 10022

New titles in Reidel book series

Analecta Husserliana

4. Ingardeniana
A Spectrum of Specialized Studies Establishing the Field of Research edited by Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka
1976, ix + 438 pp. Cloth Dfl. 135,– / US $49.50

5. The Crisis of Culture
Steps to Re-Open the Phenomenological Investigation of Man
edited by Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka
1976, ix + 383 pp. Cloth Dfl. 110,– / US $39.50

Astrophysics and Space Science Library

56. Detection and Spectrometry of Faint-Light
[illegible]
1976, approx. 265 pp. Cloth Dfl. 90,– / US $34.00

58. Magnetospheric Particles and Fields
edited by Billy M. McCormac
1976, approx. 400 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 110,– / US $39.50

Boston Studies in the Philosophy of Science

32. PSA 1974
edited by R. S. Cohen, C. A. Hooker, A. C. Michalos and J. van Evra
1976, approx. xii + 706 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 145,– / US $54.00

39. Essays in Memory of Imre Lakatos
edited by R. S. Cohen, P. K. Feyerabend and M. W. Wartofsky
1976, approx. 760 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 165,– / US $62.00

50. Paranoia: A Study in Diagnosis
by Yehuda Fried and Joseph Agassi
1976, approx. 230 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 55,– / US $19.50

Geophysics and Astrophysics Monographs

11. The Universe
by Josip Kleczek
1976, approx. 270 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 95,– / US $36.00

14. Gamma Ray Astronomy
Nuclear Transition Region
[illegible]
1976, approx. 320 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 105,– / US $39.00

International Astronomical Union Symposia

70. Be and Shell Stars
edited by Arne Slettebak
1976, approx. 500 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 150,– / US $56.50

71. Basic Mechanisms of Solar Acitvity
edited by Václav Bumba and Josip Kleczek
1976, approx. 600 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 175,– / US $66.00

72. Abundance Effects in Classification
edited by B. Hauck and P. C. Keenan
1976, approx. 290 pp. Cloth Dfl. 85,– / US $31.50

73. Structure and Evolution of Close Binary Systems
edited by Peter Eggleton, Simon Mitton and John Whelan
1976, approx. 408 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 115,– / US $44.00

Mathematical Physics and Applied Mathematics

2. Mathematical Physics and Physical Mathematics
[illegible]
1976, approx. 496 pp. Cloth Dfl. 105,– / US $39.00

NATO Advanced Study Institutes Series C. Mathematical and Physical Sciences

22. The Continental Permian in Central, West, and South Europe
edited by Horst Falke
1976, vii + 352 pp. Cloth Dfl. 100,– / US $38.00

24. Avanced Geostatistics in the Mining Industry
edited by Massimo Guarascio, C. J. Huybregts and M. David 1976, xviii + 461 pp. Cloth Dfl. 105,– / US $39.50

Philosophical Studies Series in Philosophy

8. Subjunctive Reasoning
by John L. Pollock
1976, approx. 260 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 80,– / US $29.50

Philosophy and Medicine

2. Philosophical Dimensions of the Neuro-Medical Sciences
edited by Stuart F. Spicker and H. Tristram Engelhardt, Jr.
1976, vi + 274 pp. Cloth Dfl. 80,– / US $29.00

Physics and Chemistry of Materials with Layered Structures

2. Crystallography and Crystal Chemistry of Materials with a Layered Structure
edited by F. Lévy
1976, viii + 364 pp. Cloth Dfl. 105,– / US $39.50

4. Optical and Electrical Properties
edited by P. A. Lee
1976, approx. 448 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 135,– / US $49.00

5. Fritz Hulliger: Structural Chemistry of Layer-Type Phases
edited by F. A. Lévy
1976, approx. 350 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 105,– / US $39.50

Synthese Library

92. Investigations in Modal and Tense Logics with Applications to Problems in Philosophy and Linguistics
by D. M. Gabbay
1976, approx. 320 pp. Cloth Dfl. 95,– / US $36.00

97. Action Theory
edited by Myles Brand and Douglas Walton
1976, vi + 345 pp. Cloth Dfl. 105,– / US $39.50

Theory and Decision Library

12. Essays on Ethics, Social Behavior, and Scientific Explanation
by John C. Harsanyi
1976, approx. 270 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 50,– / US $18.00

Vienna Circle Collection

7. Bela Juhos: Selected Papers
edited by Gerhard Frey
1976, approx. 450 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 105,– / US $39.50

8. Friedrich Waismann: Philosophical Papers
edited by Brian McGuinness
1976, approx. 224 pp. Cloth approx. Dfl. 75,– / US $28.50

D. Reidel Publishing Company

P.O. Box 17, Dordrecht-Holland
Lincoln Building, 160 Old Derby Street, Hingham, Mass. 02043 - U.S.A.

Announcing the Springer-Verlag Annual Prepayment Plan

Springer-Verlag New York recently initiated an important new program that will help the academic library acquire the newest Springer-Verlag series titles and monographs. A key feature of the plan is that it requires little time and a minimal amount of administration for library staff. We call it the Springer-Verlag Annual Prepayment Plan. We and present subscribers are convinced that the program is as valuable as we hoped it would be.

Its acceptance by such academic and technical libraries as The University of Northern Colorado, Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, U.S. Borax Corporation, Cleveland State University, G.D. Searle, Inc., The University of Hawaii, Cornell University, Michigan State University, Ball State University, The University of Indiana, St. Louis University, and Salk Institute indicates its value.

Here is how it can help your library: You simply determine which Springer-Verlag series your library is now subscribing to and whatever new series and subject areas you may want to add to your holdings. Springer-Verlag will then estimate the cost for the next twelve month period.

You choose the series and areas you want to include in the program. We will then issue a proforma invoice based on our annual cost projection—you make one payment for one full year.

The time-consuming and expensive practice of preparing and paying individual invoices is entirely eliminated. We will send a monthly statement which shows exactly the credit balance remaining in your account. You are guaranteed priority shipment from our own warehouse immediately upon publication—there are no postage and handling charges for titles sent under the program.

An important added benefit is the possibility for considerable savings—an over-all 15% discount (10% for short-discount titles such as Beilstein, Gmelin, and Landolt-Bornstein) is extended for all series and monographs in the program. If there is a remaining credit balance at the end of the program period, you may apply this to the renewal of the program or you may request a refund for the remaining balance. Deletions, additions, and terminations can be accepted at any time.

Details on all Springer-Verlag plans will be sent upon request. Contact our representatives or Ms. Helga Zollweg, Manager, Agency Services, at (212) 673-2660, ext. 52. Collect calls are accepted.

Springer-Verlag New York Inc.
175 Fifth Avenue
New York, NY 10010

Inst. for Social Research
Andrews, F. M. & others. A Guide for Selected Statistical Techniques for Analyzing Social Science Data.

Oxford Univ. Pr.
Biggs, N. & others. Graph Theory 1736-1936. Sept.

Pergamon
Van Dalen, D. & others. Sets.

Univ. of Toronto Pr.
Scherk, P., ed. Foundations of Geometry. Apr.

TAB
Clifford, M. Modern Electronics Math. Apr.
Gilbert, J. Numbers. Jul.

METALLURGY & MINING

Miller Freeman
Aplin, C. L. & G. O. Argall Jr., eds. Tailing Disposal Today.
Kirschenbaum, N. W. & G. O. Argall Jr., eds. Minerals Transportation. Vol. 1 & 2.
Muir, W. L. G., ed. Coal Exploration. Dec.
Muir, W. L. G., ed. Review of the World Coal Industry to 1990.
Sutulov, A. Copper Porphyries.
Sutulov, A. Mineral Resources and the Economy of the USSR.
Williams, R. E. Waste Production and Disposal in the Mining, Milling and Metallurgical Industries.

Pergamon
Biswas, A. K. & W. G. Davenport. Extractive Metallurgy of Copper.

PHYSICS

Gordon & Breach
Balian, R. & J.-L. Peube. Fluid Dynamics. Nov.
Foner, S. Magnetism. Sept.
Poulet, H. & J. P. Mathieu. Vibration Spectra and Symmetry of Crystals. Oct.
Sona, A. Lasers and Their Applications. Oct.

Pergamon
Landau, L. D. & E. M. Lifshitz. Quantum Mechanics.
Roy, D. K. Tunnelling and Negative Resistance Phenomena in p-n Junctions.
Sporn, P. Energy in an Age of Limited Availability and Delimited Applicability.
Wilhelmson, H. & J. Weiland. Coherent Non-Linear Interaction of Waves in Plasmas.

ZOOLOGICAL SCIENCES

Pergamon
Purchon, R. D. The Biology of the Mollusca. 2d ed.

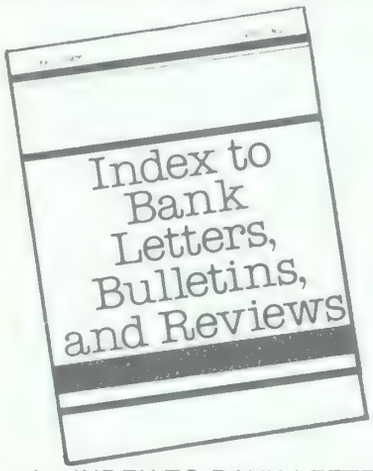
MEDICAL SCIENCES

Brady Co.
Barnes, T. A., & J. S. Israel, M.D. Brady's Programmed Introduction to Respiratory Therapy.
Bergeron, J. D. Self-Instructional Workbook for Emergency Care.
Brady's Programmed Introduction to Microbiology.
Brady's Programmed Orientation to Medical Terminology.
Burgess, A. W. & L. L. Holmstrom. Rape.
Demaree, G. E. Drugs.
Diamond, E., M.D. The Nervous System.
Feinstein, R. P., M.D. Dermatology.
Freis, E. D., M.D. Introduction to the Nature and Management of Hypertension.
Hospital Research & Educational Trust. Being a Nursing Aide.
Hospital Research & Educational Trust. Being a Food Service Worker.
Hospital Research & Educational Trust. Being a Housekeeping Aide.
Hospital Research & Educational Trust. Being a Ward Clerk.
Hospital Research & Educational Trust. Caring for Children in the Hospital.
Hospital Research & Educational Trust. On-the-Job Training.

(Continued on p. 2258)

A New Important Index

A new quarterly index to U.S. and Canadian bank letters, bulletins, reports and periodic economic reviews, including an Annual Hardbound Cumulative Edition.



A guide to:
- publications of more than 50 major U.S. and Canadian Banks
- economic letters of the Federal Reserve Banks
- reports of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System
- bulletins and reports of the International Monetary Fund
- and more

There has never been a reference tool for the economist as current, comprehensive and convenient as the INDEX TO BANK LETTERS, BULLETINS and REVIEWS. If it's important to the financial world you'll find it here. Bank on it.

Four quarterly issues including Annual Hardbound Cumulative Edition $45.00
Vol. 1, no. 1 published October 1976.

An annual collection of all indexed bank letters will be made available on microfiche. Please write for our brochure.

KTO PRESS
A U.S. Division of Kraus-Thomson Organization Ltd.
Route 100, Millwood, New York 10546 (914) 762-2200

JOB POWER NOW! The Young People's Job Finding Guide

by Bernard Haldane, Jean Haldane, Lowell Martin

JOB POWER NOW gives exciting, simple, and the most up-to-date approaches for a changing economy, all specifically tailored for those under 20 — where unemployment is almost three times the national average. Detailing a basic system that works. JOB POWER NOW should be on the library shelves of every high school, 2-year and 4-year college, and other institutions that aim to help young people.

"The practical methods outlined can and have made a difference in many people's lives."
— Dr. Norman Feingold, National President, B'Nai B'rith Career Services Past President National Vocational Guidance Association

$8.95 cloth 87491-160-5 $3.95 paper 87491-165-0

Place your order today for your library at your bookseller or

ACROPOLIS
2400 17 St., N.W., Wash., D.C.

New and Forthcoming Technical Books from TAB BOOKS

Blue Ridge Summit, Pa 17214 • Telephone (717) 794-2191

Send for our Catalog describing over 450 current technical books. Ask about our ON-APPROVAL Library Standing Order Plan.

Broadcasting & Advertising

BROADCAST ENGINEERING & MAINTENANCE HANDBOOK, by Patrick S. Finnegan A practical handbook covering all phases of AM/FM radio station planning, construction, installation, start up, calibration, operating, updating, maintenance, modification and repair, for both commercial and educational broadcasting facilities. Thoroughly covers the annual FCC proof of performance test. 532 pps., 235 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6852-7 Hardbound $19.95

ANATOMY OF LOCAL RADIO-TV COPY—4th EDITION, by William Peck Revised 4th edition of this complete, over-the-shoulder course in creative copywriting by a well-known advertising executive. Provides practical instruction on every step of the copywriting process—from ideas to polished results. Loaded with hundreds of ideas to increase station billing with sales-proven copy. 140 pps.
ISBN 0-8306-6890-X Hardbound $5.95

JOURNALIST'S NOTEBOOK OF LIVE RADIO-TV NEWS, by Philip O. Keirstead. Fully discusses all phases of this exciting, up-to-the-minute journalistic form—from the techniques of gathering, writing, and broadcasting live news, to the laws relating to journalism, documentaries, and editorials. 252 pps., 29 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6819-5 Hardbound $12.95

MUSIC SCORING FOR TV & MOTION PICTURES, by Marlin Skiles Shows how to develop music scores, and integrate music into the production. Also covers the duties/functions of the music director, and explains copyrights, performing rights contracts, licenses, cue sheets, union relations, and the composer/publisher relationship. 266 pps., 166 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6779-2 Hardbound $12.95

Electronics & Computer Technology & Radio—TV

PILOTING/NAVIGATION WITH THE POCKET CALCULATOR, by Bergin & Buchanek Helps sailors overcome the biggest single obstacle to learning navigation—mathematics. Shows how to use a pocket calculator to: sail great circle courses, work celestial problems in 2 minutes, pilot inshore waters, cope with currents, compute bearings, distances, speeds, identify stars and planets, calibrate compasses. Has 100 worked out programs. 392 pps.
ISBN 0-8306-6853-5 Paperback $8.95 Hardbound $12.95

MASTER HANDBOOK OF DIGITAL LOGIC APPLICATIONS, by William L. Hunter A modern reference that goes far beyond the requirements of common TTL (transistor-transistor logic). Covers applications for the newest of the new, including CMOS, high threshold logic, and emitter coupled logic computer circuits, plus TTL. 392 pps., 278 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6874-8 Paperback $7.95 Hardbound $11.95

C.E.T. LICENSE HANDBOOK—2nd Ed., by Joseph J. Carr Revised 2nd edition of the complete guide to taking and passing the C.E.T. (Certified Electronic Technician) exam. Now includes all six exams—consumer electronics, medical electronics, communications, master antenna TV systems, industrial electronics, and audio. 448 pps., 169 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6901-9 Paperback $8.95 Hardbound $12.95

COLOR TV TROUBLE FACTBOOK—PROBLEMS & SOLUTIONS—3rd Ed., by Editors, ET/D. A fully indexed all-in-one guide to well over 1,000 color TV troubles and recommended solutions. Includes service notes, production change data, field factory changes, circuit descriptions and troubleshooting tips. Covers all brands from Admiral to Zenith. 434 pps.
ISBN 0-8306-6919-1 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $9.95

MASTER TUBE SUBSTITUTION HANDBOOK A 3-section handbook that covers 99% of electronic vacuum-tube replacement needs. Includes receiving, transmitting (both amateur radio and 2-way), commercial, industrial, an foreign tubes—plus tube base diagrams and monochrome and color picture tubes. 322 pps., 611 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6870-5 Paperback $4.95 Hardbound $8.95

SOURCEBOOK OF ELECTRONIC ORGAN CIRCUITS, by Douglas & Astley A basic guide to organ theory and design which includes ready-to-use circuits for everything from automated rhythm generation to the fully simulated sound of the majestic pipe organ. Only an elementary knowledge of electronics is required. Also fully explains musical theory and techniques so the layman can understand them with ease. 168 pps., 101 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6843-8 Paperback $4.95 Hardbound $7.95

VHF/UHF FIRE, POLICE, HAM SCANNERS—Schematic/Servicing Manual, by David Norman Contains all the data needed to service scanning monitors for the major brands—plus topflight advice on how to select the right receiver, the proper antenna, and the most useful accessories. 250 pps., 107 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6835-7 Paperback $6.95 Hardbound $9.95

MODERN GUIDE TO DIGITAL LOGIC: Processors, Memories and Interfaces, by United Technical Publications. A truly modern guide with up to date information on the most advanced digital logic circuits, including Schottky TTL—high speed ECL—high noise-immunity logic—CMOS logic—MICROPROCESSORS—bipolar and MOS memory systems! Unique in that it illustrates how to design and interface logic and memory systems, using the latest techniques and digital ICs. 294 pps., 222 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6709-1 Paperback $6.95 Hardbound $9.95

THE ELECTRONIC MUSICAL INSTRUMENT MANUAL, by Alan Douglas The definitive guide to the electronics of musicmaking—the most comprehensive manual available on the theory, design and practical technology of electronic musical instruments—with special emphasis on the organ. 210 pps., 385 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6832-2 Paperback $6.95 Hardbound $9.95

PHOTO SYMPTOM GUIDE TO SOLID-STATE COLOR TV TROUBLES, by Forest H. Belt and Ed Carroll. Helps technicians and do-it-yourselfers fix the new modular TV receivers by comparing the trouble symptom on the TV screen with a photo of that symptom. Tells what's wrong and how to quickly solve the problem. 224 pps., 169 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6809-8 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $8.95

IMPEDANCE, by Rufus Turner Perhaps the clearest explanation ever published of the complex subject of impedance—a property of all AC circuits and many electrical devices. Explains it in a way that anyone with a basic knowledge of electricity can understand. 196 pps., 90 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6829-2 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $8.95

OP AMP CIRCUIT DESIGN & APPLICATIONS, by Joe Carr A practical handbook on operational amplifiers, offering scores of circuit applications and projects. Explains how op amps work, how circuits associated with op amps work, and provides the insight needed to design op amps for everyone from hobbyist to engineer. 280 pps., 239 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6787-3 Paperback $6.95 Hardbound $9.95

TROUBLESHOOTING WITH THE DUAL-TRACE SCOPE, by Robert Goodman A dual-trace triggered-sweep oscilloscope enables a technician to actually see what is happening at two critical points in a circuit within precise time intervals. This text thoroughly explains how to put this versatile, modern instrument to work. 224 pps.
ISBN 0-8306-6772-5 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $8.95

MODERN ELECTRONICS MATH, by Martin Clifford A living math course for anyone who knows how to read and who understands the simple numbers 0 through 9! It's an excellent self-teaching course or classroom text with many example problems, problem review series of questions at the end of each Chapter, and answers in the back. 602 pps., 424 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6655-9 Paperback $9.95 Hardbound $12.95

SWITCHING REGULATORS & POWER SUPPLIES WITH PRACTICAL INVERTERS & CONVERTERS, by Irving Gottlieb Tells how to design and build modern regulators and converters for any size, any application—to save energy, space and money. 252 pps., 128 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6828-4 Paperback $6.95 Hardbound $9.95

MICROELECTRONICS, by Clayton Hallmark A thorough introduction to the extremely compact world of microelectronics for hobbyists, technicians, and students. Explains and illustrates how various microelectronics components are made, how they work, and how they are combined to form practical devices. Includes many projects and demos. 266 pps., 248 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6794-6 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $8.95

BUILD-IT BOOK OF MINIATURE TEST & MEASUREMENT INSTRUMENTS, by Robert Haviland Everyone involved with electronics will want this book which shows how to design, build and calibrate a wide variety of miniaturized measuring equipment. It gradually goes from simple to complex instruments to develop skill and measurement expertise. 238 pps., 151 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6792-X Paperback $4.95 Hardbound $7.95

Audio, Hi-Fi & Communications

HOW TO HEAR & SPEAK C.B. IN A SHORT-SHORT, by The Wiskerman An exciting, fun-filled introduction to the fascinating world of CB radio. Written just like a novel, it tells what CB is, who uses it, and how it's used, how to use the mike, what the controls do, and what the strange language means. 172 pps., 85 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6999-X Paperback $3.50 Hardbound $6.95

CBER'S HANDY ATLAS DICTIONARY, by TAB Editorial Staff With 1000 listings of the slang, truckers' jargon, and technical terms used in CB, this book is the authority for clear, easy-to-understand definitions. Includes the 10 codes, as well as Q signals. An up-to-date atlas shows the channels being monitored on all major continental U.S. highways. 64 pps.
ISBN 0-8306-6933-7 Paperback $1.95

CBER'S HANDY MANUAL, by TAB Editorial Staff The ideal starter book for CBers, tells how to get a license, and how to fill out the FCC Form (it's included, too). All the complete, revised FCC rules (Part 95) for CB are here, as well—with recent rulings set in bold type. Contains tips for installing a mobile unit. 48 pps.
ISBN 0-8306-6899-3 Paperback $1.50

CBER'S HANDYBOOK OF SIMPLE HOBBY PROJECTS, by Bob Brown 114 tested, easy-to-build performance boosters, including mobile & base antennas, direction finders, modulation boosters, RF preamplifiers and converters, noise limiters & clippers, squelch switches, audio compressors & limiters, etc. 168 pps., 114 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6868-3 Paperback $3.95 Hardbound $6.95

CB RADIO SCHEMATIC/SERVICING MANUAL—Vol. 4, by TAB Editorial Staff The answer to servicing CB radios. Includes operational theory, schematic diagrams, transmitter and receiver alignment instructions, backed up with step-by-step troubleshooting data, plus hints on improving performance. Covers Pace, Courier, and Cobra (Dynascan). 210 pps.
ISBN 0-8306-6862-4 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $8.95

Automotive, Hobby, Experimenter & Do-It-Yourself

MOTORCYCLE REPAIR HANDBOOK, by Paul Dempsey Shows how to make ANY repair on ANY bike—road, racing, off-road, trail, dirt, etc.—from tuneups to complete overhauls. All types of bikes and every major manufacturer are included. Skillfully covers engines, transmissions, clutches, brakes, lubing, ignitions, carburetors, etc. 406 pps., 260 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6789-X Paperback $6.95 Hardbound $9.95

HOMEOWNER'S GUIDE TO SOLAR HEATING & COOLING, by Wm. Foster Complete do-it-yourself advice on purchasing, installing, and maintaining solar heating & cooling, and hot water systems, including heating swimming pools. Contains invaluable consumer advice and many weather maps and charts, and economic analysis tables. 196 p., 113 ill.
ISBN0-8306-6906-X Paperback $4.95 Hardbound $7.95

THE COMPLETE HANDBOOK OF LOCKS & LOCKSMITHING, by Carl Roper A comprehensive course in the craft of locksmithing, from cutting keys to decoding lock codes, through the actual repair of all types of locks. 392 pps., 348 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6920-5 Paperback $6.95 Hardbound $10.95

THE WOODWORKER'S BIBLE, by Percy Blandford A 420-page guide to ALL woodworking. Includes hand and power tools, cabinetmaking and joints, carving and turning, inlaying and veneering, finishing wood, interior and outdoor woodwork, redwood decking, built-in furnishings, etc. A comprehensive single-volume coverage. 420 pps., 1151 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6860-8 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $10.95

FIRE & THEFT SECURITY SYSTEMS—2nd Ed., by Byron Wels Shows how to protect any thing from fire or theft—homes, cars, warehouses, schools, stores, banks, and offices. Tells how to select, install, maintain, and troubleshoot every type of system. 192 p., 108 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6956-6 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $0.95

DO-IT-YOURSELFER'S GUIDE TO HOME PLANNING & CONSTRUCTION, by Wm. Clarneau A complete guide to planning and building a house from the ground up. Covers carpentry, plumbing, masonry, foundation work, electrical wiring, and furnace installation. 238 pps.
ISBN 0-8306-6888-8 Paperback $4.95 Hardbound $7.95

HOMEOWNER'S GUIDE TO SAVING ENERGY, by Jim & Bill Price Hundreds of energy saving tips that can save the consumer hundreds of dollars on home heating, cooling, appliance, and electricity costs. It's a conservation kit all by itself. 288 pps., 169 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6904-3 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $8.95

HOW TO REPAIR HOME LAUNDRY APPLIANCES, by Ben Gaddis A practical book shows how to repair every type of laundry appliance—gas or electric—from installation and wiring to complete servicing. Covers washers, dryers, hot water heaters, water treatment systems, ventilation, timers, motors, thermostats, pumps, filters, etc. 280 pps., 137 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6855-1 Paperbound $5.95 Hardbound $8.95

ALL ABOUT SWIMMING POOLS, by Gary T. Reed A homeowner's guide to planning, purchasing, servicing, maintaining, and repairing both in-ground and above-ground swimming pools. Covers all pool accessories, too. 182 pps., 65 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6844-6 Paperback $3.95 Hardbound $6.95

DOG OWNER'S MEDICAL MANUAL, by Bruce Sessions, Star of the TV program "Canine College," Foreword by L. L. Vine, D.V.M. Includes everything about an owner and his dog selecting a puppy, everyday care, grooming, nutrition, internal and external illness, symptoms, first aid, pregnancy and delivery, digestive problems, eye and ear problems, mental illness and abnormal behavior, handling the handicapped dog, etc! 252 p., 237 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6813-6 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $8.95

BUILD YOUR OWN WORKING ROBOT, by D. Heiserman "Buster" is the working robot anyone can build. He has many human characteristics, and can take care of his own needs for survival (even "feed" himself by plugging himself in for a charge). He can be built in stages, each adding more "life". All parts available at any electronics store. 238 p., 83 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6841-1 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $8.95

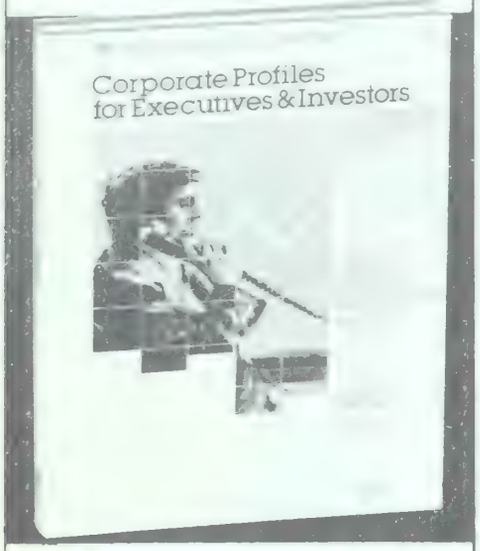
HOW TO SUBCONTRACT YOUR HOUSE Building/Remodeling, by Lewis Blustin Shows how to save up to 50% of the cost of building or remodeling. Thoroughly discusses all aspects, including licenses, permits, inspections, getting a loan, how to get discounts on materials, insurance, taxes, coordinating construction, and professional tips. 196 pps., 63 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6744-X Paperback $4.95 Hardbound $7.95

NUMBERS: Shortcuts & Pastimes, by Jack Gilbert A practical, useful book for people who have trouble with math! Tells how to calculate with confidence—how to be first with the right answer. Includes shortcuts for mental and pencil-and-paper calculations, checking shortcuts, and parlor tricks and puzzles with numbers. 336 pps., 80 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6675-3 Paperback $6.95 Hardbound $9.95

PRACTICAL HOME CONSTRUCTION/CARPENTRY HANDBOOK A three-in-one handbook that shows how to pick the wood, construct the house from the foundation up, and put on all the professional finishing touches. Includes 11 designs and building plans. 448 p., 180 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6900-0 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $11.95

CONCRETE & MASONRY Answers almost any question one could possibly ask about concrete and masonry, brick and block construction, tile masonry, etc. 392 pps., 213 ill.
ISBN 0-8306-6902-7 Paperback $5.95 Hardbound $10.95

Here Are the Facts Your Patrons Need to Evaluate America's Major Corporations



CORPORATE PROFILES FOR EXECUTIVES AND INVESTORS

1976-1977 EDITION

It's the one comprehensive sourcebook for anyone doing business with the top 2,000 public corporations—and for anyone hoping to do so in the future. Gives you four separate ways to locate each corporation: alphabetically, geographically, by principal industrial activity and by Standard Industrial Classification (SIC). Newly expanded and updated for '76-'77.

EXCLUSIVE!
EXECUTIVE SEARCH FIRMS
name, address, telephone number

INVALUABLE INFORMATION FOR CAREER OPPORTUNITIES!

- Unique and concise method of presenting individual company data
- Corporate addresses and telephone numbers
- Names and titles of key operating executives
- Sales by product group and international operations
- Five-year review of annual sales, earnings per share, net earnings, dividends, international sales
- Two-year review of assets, liabilities, debt, interest, number of shares, stock range, and more

384 pages • 8½" x 11"
SBN 528-84716-3 $19.95
also available in soft cover
528-84715-5 $14.95

Please order from your Library Wholesaler

Rand McNally
P.O. Box 7600 • Chicago, Ill. 60680

Huszar, R. J., M.D. Emergency Cardiac Care.
Jelenko, C., III, M.D. & C. Frey, M.D. Emergency Medical Services.
McLeod, D. G., M.D. & B. T. Mittemeyer, M.D. The Urinary System.
Meredith, T. A., M.D. The Eye.
Nowakowski, L., M.S.N. Pediatrics.
A Programmed Approach to Anatomy and Physiology. 2d ed. 15 vols.
Roberts, W., M.D. The Reproductive System.
Swan, K. G., M.D. The Cardiovascular System.
Stringer, L. W., Jr., M.D. Emergency Treatment of Acute Respiratory Diseases.
Toskes, P. P., M.D. Antibiotic Therapy.
Toskes, P. P., M.D. The Digestive System.
Vanatta, J. C., M.D. & others. Oxygen Transport, Hypoxia and Cyanosis.
Vickery, D. M., M.D. Triage.
Wartofsky, L., M.D. The Endocrine System.
Zarren, H., M.D. Health, Infections and Disease.
Zarren, H., M.D. The Respiratory System.

Charles Pr.
American College of Cardiology & Baptist Hospital. Advanced Cardiac Nursing.
Deal, J., R.N. Beginner's Guide to Intensive Coronary Care.
Fulton, R. & R. Bendiksen. Death and Identity.
Furman, S., M.D. & D. J. W. Escher, M.D. Modern Cardiac Pacing.
Meltzer, L. E., M.D. & A. J. Dunning, M.D. Textbook of Coronary Care.
Meltzer, L. E., M.D. & others. Concepts and Practices of Intensive Care for Nurse Specialists. 2d ed.
Meltzer, L. E., M.D. & others. Intensive Coronary Care.
Meltzer, L. E., M.D. & J. R. Kitchell. Current Concepts of Cardiac Pacing and Cardioversion.
Moolten, S. E., M.D. Lectures in Cardiology.
Parad, H. J. & others. Emergency and Disaster Management.
Resnik, H. L. P., M.D. & H. L. Ruben, M.D. Emergency Psychiatric Care.
Resnik, H. L. P., M.D. & others. The Prediction of Suicide.
Resnik, H. L. P., M.D. & B. C. Hathorne. Teaching Outlines in Suicide Studies and Crisis Intervention.
Wheeler, D. V., R.N. & others. Aggressive Nursing Management of Acute Myocardial Infarction.

Gordon & Breach
Rabin, H. M. & M. Rosenbaum. How To Begin a Psychotherapy Group. Sept.

Inst. for Social Research
Chun, Ki-Taek & others. Measures for Psychological Assessment.

Pergamon
Barany, F. R. & A. Torsoli. Gastrointestinal Emergencies.
Hersen, M. & A. Bellack. Behavior Assessment.

(Continued on p. 2260)

Characterization of the Electrical Environment

David W. Bodle, Alex J. Ghazi, Moinuddin Syed, and Ralph L. Woodside

This book is a current reference on the design factors required to ensure reliable performance of communication facilities under field operating conditions. It will be useful as a manual for practising engineers and as a textbook for students. $17.50

The Seeds and Fruits of Plants of Eastern Canada and the Northeastern United States

F. H. Montgomery

The author describes and illustrates the seeds of 1100 species of native wild and introduced weedy plants from 118 families, and provides keys for their identification based on their geometric shapes. This book will be an important reference for archaeologists studying seeds remains, ecologists studying bog formations, and seed analysts both in Canada and the U.S. $25.00

Foundations of Geometry

SELECTED PROCEEDINGS OF A CONFERENCE

Edited by P. Scherk

Thirteen detailed reports on recent advances in the field have been selected from the papers delivered by the world's leading geometers at a 1974 conference held at the University of Toronto. Intended for other specialists and for research and university libraries, this book is also of interest to pre- and post-doctoral students working in geometry or group theory. $10.00

The Bird's Nest Fungi

Harold J. Brodie

All aspects of the growth, structure, development, and life-cycle of these fungi, both in nature and in laboratory culture, are reported in a modern comprehensive treatment of a subject which is of interest not only to mycologists but to amateur naturalists as well, presented 'authoritatively and in excellent historical perspective'. Choice $25.00

The Development of Biochemistry in Canada

E. Gordon Young

In the first history of this relatively new science in Canada, Dr Young, an early specialist in the field who knew personally many of the prominent biochemists in the country, traces the origin and development of biochemistry at universities, at agricultural colleges, and subsequently in industry, government laboratories, and special institutions. $15.00 prices are those suggested at time of publication

University of Toronto Press
33 East Tupper Street
Buffalo, NY 14203

Important new additions to your library from Halsted Press,

A Division of John Wiley & Sons, Inc.

GUIDE TO BASIC INFORMATION SOURCES IN ENGINEERING (Information Resources Series)
By Ellis Mount.
ISBN 0-470-15013-0 LC 75-43261
CIP 1976 250 pp. $10.95
Combines a description of the characteristics of many types of literature important to engineers with descriptive annotations of a wide selection of examples. Includes information on the most efficient ways to use libraries and to conduct a search for technical information.

LASERS AND THEIR APPLICATIONS, 2nd Edition
By M. J. Beesley.
ISBN 0-470-15166-8 LC 76-25393
CIP 1976 300 pp. $19.50
A concise and practical explanation of the basic theory and application of lasers. Commercially available types of lasers are examined in detail.

THE REPRODUCTION OF COLOUR, 3rd Edition
By R. W. B. Hunt.
ISBN 0-470-15085-8 LC 76-6096
CIP 1976 614 pp. $25.00
(Not available in Canada from Halsted Press)
Designed for all those engaged in producing, selling, buying, broadcasting, recording, receiving, using, or just enjoying color pictures. Important new topics covered include image structure in color photography, videocassettes in color television, and transparency duplication for color printing.

THE GENERATION OF ELECTRICITY BY WIND POWER, Revised Edition
By E. W. Golding.
ISBN 0-470-14986-8 LC 76-7907
CIP 1976 332 pp. $19.00
(Not available in Canada from Halsted Press)
Long-recognized definitive account of the pioneering post-war wind power research. The most detailed scientific account of the subject available. This new edition includes a new chapter describing recent advancements.

APPLICATIONS OF ENERGY: Nineteenth Century (Benchmark Papers on Energy)
Edited by R. B. Lindsay.
ISBN 0-470-15140-4 1976
432 pp. $30.00 (tent.)
(A Dowden, Hutchinson & Ross publication)
Illustrates the way in which the generalization of the concept of energy was applied to the description and understanding of mechanical, chemical, thermal, and electrical phenomena. Emphasizes the first law of thermodynamics.

A.I.B.S. DIRECTORY OF BIOSCIENCE DEPARTMENTS AND FACULTIES IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA, 2nd Edition
Edited by Peter Gray.
ISBN 0-470-32272-1 LC 75-33761
CIP 1976 660 pp. $25.00
(A Dowden, Hutchinson & Ross publication)
A thoroughly indexed compilation of approximately 2400 Bioscience departments in about 1200 U.S. and Canadian universities and colleges. Degrees offered, degree requirements, graduate courses, and doctoral programs are listed.

HEALTH MAINTENANCE ORGANIZATIONS: A Guide to Planning and Development (Health Systems Management Series)
By R. W. Birnbaum.
ISBN 0-470-14984-1 LC 75-41412
CIP 1976 219 pp. $12.95
(A Spectrum publication)
Considers in detail the criteria for determining the feasibility of health maintenance organization development and the major functional activities related to HMO planning and development. Includes an overview of recent Federal HMO legislation, regulation, and policies.

PSYCHOPHYSIOLOGY (Benchmark Papers in Animal Behavior)
Edited by S. W. Porges and G. H. Coles.
ISBN 0-470-15136-6 LC 76-17287
CIP 1976 365 pp. $25.00
(A Dowden, Hutchinson & Ross publication)
Selected landmark papers that have contributed both theoretically and empirically to the development of modern psychophysiology. Considers methodology, arousal theory, orienting reflex and attention, and emotion and autonomic conditioning.

CONCEPTS OF SPECIES (Benchmark Papers in Systematic and Evolutionary Biology)
Edited by C. N. Slobodchikoff.
ISBN 0-470-15134-X LC 76-17090
CIP 1976 368 pp. $25.00
(A Dowden, Hutchinson & Ross publication)
The selections in this volume deal with historical, philosophical, evolutionary, paleontological, and organismic aspects of species.

USING COMPUTERS
By Brian Meek and S. Fairthorne.
ISBN 0-470-98932-7 LC 76-26871
CIP 1976 200 pp. $14.95
Introduces computers and computing to anyone likely to come into contact with them in a commercial, administrative, industrial, educational, or research context.

COMPUTER APPLICATIONS IN MANAGEMENT
Edited by J. Birkle and R. Yearsley.
ISBN 0-470-15068-8 LC 76-5431
CIP 1976 191 pp. $13.95
Approaches principal managerial areas and shows how the computer can be of practical assistance.

FOREIGN BANKING AND INVESTMENT IN THE UNITED STATES: Issues and Alternatives
By Francis A. Lees.
ISBN 0-470-15212-5 LC 76-4782
CIP 1976 165 pp. $17.50
(Not available in Canada from Halsted Press)
Documents the increasing interest in this subject as large and powerful foreign banks begin to move into this country. Considerable attention is given to the regulatory issues involved, and recent legislative proposals are reviewed and analyzed.

THE EURO-BANK: Its Origins, Management, and Outlook
By Steven I. Davis.
ISBN 0-470-15060-2 LC 76-15912
CIP 1976 125 pp. $15.95
(Not available in Canada from Halsted Press)
Describes the development of Eurobanks and analyzes how they manage their loan portfolios and other assets, obtain deposits, and conduct other activities. Statistical information is also examined.

Prices are subject to change without notice. Prices slightly higher in Canada.

These books are available from your regular book dealer or directly from Dept. 28,

Halsted Press,
A Division of
John Wiley & Sons, Inc.,
605 Third Avenue,
New York, N.Y. 10016.
A 5705-67

Bricker's
INTERNATIONAL Directory

of University-Sponsored Executive Development and Marketing Management Programs

EIGHTH (1977) EDITION

To be published December 1976

The indispensable objective guide to more than 125 campus programs of two weeks or more duration for the development of managers in the private, public, and non-profit sectors of the economy.

ISSN 0361-1108 400 pp. $57.50

SPECIAL PRE-PUBLICATION OFFER

Good until November 30, 1976 ONLY

$47.00 check with order

$49.50 if billed

Massachusetts residents add 5% sales tax

BRICKER PUBLICATIONS

P.O. Box 265

South Chatham, Massachusetts 02659

PICK PUBLISHING CORPORATION

21 West Street New York, N.Y. 10006

Catalog of works by Dr. Franz Pick

ISBN Prefix 0-87551

PICK'S CURRENCY YEARBOOK 1975-1976.* by Franz Pick. 20th edition, published annually since 1955, index, ill., glossary. 784 pp., ISBN 0-87551-275-5, ISSN 0079-2063.....cloth $120.00

Previous editions (per book).....$120.00

*1955-1973 (18 volumes) Pick's Currency Yearbook available on microfilm (16mm, 20:1 reduction-positive image). ISBN 0-87551-650-5.....$320.00

PICK'S WORLD CURRENCY REPORT. By Franz Pick. Published monthly since 1945, ill., 20-32 pp., ISBN 0-87551-176-7, ISSN 0048-4113 Annual Subscription.....$350.00

ALL THE MONIES OF THE WORLD.* A Chronicle of Currency Values. Edited by Franz Pick and René Sédillot. 1971, 620 pp., ISBN 0-87551-610-6.....cloth $ 80.00

*Available on 7 microfiche cards (4 x 6, silver haloid, positive image) ISBN 0-87551-706-4.....$ 24.95

1930-1962 COMMON STOCKS VS. GOLD. By Franz Pick, 1963, index, ill., 349 pp., (out of print) Available only on microfilm (16mm, 20:1 reduction-positive image) ISBN 0-87551-700-5.....$ 25.00

THE NUMBERED ACCOUNT. Functions, Advantages and Drawbacks. By Franz Pick. 3rd ed., 1972, ill. 76 pp., ISBN 0-87551-542-8, ISSN 0085-4891.....paper $ 45.00

SILVER. How and Where to Buy and Hold It. By Franz Pick. 3rd ed., 1974, ill., 72 pp., ISBN 0-87551-522-3, ISSN 0085-4891 paper$ 45.00

UNITED STATES DOLLAR. Deflate or Devalue. By Franz Pick, 1960, ill., 46 pp., (out of print) Available only on microfilm (16mm, 20:1 reduction-positive image). ISBN 0-87551-702-1.....$ 15.00

Bookstore and Library Discounts on prepayment only:

Pick's World Currency Report.....20%

Microfilm set (1955-1973) of Pick's Currency Yearbook.....20%

All other publications.....10%

Richter, D. & others. Schizophrenia Today.
Rodger, F. Onchocerciasis in Zaire.
Russell, W. R. Multiple Sclerosis.
Walton, W. H. Inhaled Particles IV.
Wandersman, A. & others. Humanism and Behaviorism.
Wolpe, J. Theme and Variations.
Zotterman, Y. Sensory Functions of the Skin.

Petrocelli/Charter
Garrett, R. D. Hospital Systems and Procedures. Nov.

BUSINESS BOOKS

REFERENCE

KTO Pr.
Index to Bank Letters, Bulletins, and Reviews. Oct.

GENERAL

Miller Freeman
Higham, R. A. The Pulp, Paper and Paperboard Industry, Its Profits, Future Development and Investment Risk.

McGraw
Business Week. 1977 Business Week Diary and Business Travel Planner. Oct.
Cobb, H. H. Improvements that Increase the Value of Your House. Oct.
Edison Electric Inst. Economic Growth in the Future: 1976-2000. Oct.
Loring, R. & H. A. Otto. New Life Options. Sept.
20th Century Fund, Inc. Law Enforcement. Sept.

Pergamon
Hensher, D. A. The Valuation of Business Travel Time.

Petrocelli/Charter
Uris, A. & J. Tarrant. The Victory Principle. Jan.

ACCOUNTING

McGraw
Dixon, R. 36-Hour Accounting Course. Oct.
Peterson, R. C. Understand Accounting—Fast! Sept.

ADVERTISING & PUBLIC RELATIONS

Boyd Co.
Boyd, A. Business Owner's Advertising Handbook. rev. ed. Nov.

TAB
Peck, W. Anatomy of Local Radio-TV Copy. 4th ed. Jun.

THE NEW SMOLEY HANDBOOKS

authored by C. K. Smoley

Extended, Revised, Improved

(1970, 1971, 1974, and 1976 Editions)

by E. R. Smoley, N. G. Smoley

PARALLEL TABLES OF LOGARITHMS AND SQUARES. Strong and flexible Fabricoid, bond paper, 7½ in. x 5⅛ in., 682 pages. ISBN 0-911390-02-2 ..... $12.00

PARALLEL TABLES OF SLOPES AND RISES. Strong and flexible Fabricoid, bond paper, 7½ in. x 5⅛ in., 526 pages. ISBN 911390-03-0..... $12.00

LOGARITHMIC-TRIGONOMETRIC TABLES. Bond paper, 7 x 4¾, 200 pages. Fabricoid. ISBN 0-911390-05-7 ..... $ 3.50

ISBN 0-911390-06-5.....Paperback $ 2.50

Smoley's THREE COMBINED TABLES. Contains all the 3 above mentioned titles in one volume strongly and elegantly bound with a thumb index, 1124 pages. ISBN 0-911390-01-4..... $20.00

SEGMENTAL FUNCTIONS, 7½ x 5⅛ in. Strong and flexible Fabricated, round corners, bond paper, 616 pages. ISBN 0-911390-04-9..... $12.00

Smoley's FOUR COMBINED TABLES. Includes also Segmental Functions, thus comprising 4 standard books in one volume strongly and elegantly bound with an extended thumb index, 1612 pages. ISBN 0-911390-00-6 ..... $26.00

HOW TO USE SMOLEY'S TABLES. 192 pages paperback. ISBN 0-911390-07-3..... $ 2.50

Smoley's METRIC FOUR COMBINED TABLES. 1400 pages. ISBN 0-911390-08-1..... $26.00

Published by

C. K. SMOLEY & SONS, INC.

P.O. Box 14 Chautauqua, N.Y. 14722

Chief Executives Handbook

Ed. John D. Glover and Gerald A. Simon

92 Contributing Business Executives

•

85 Chapters

•

1129 Pages

Written by business leaders for business leaders. This new, original, and practical idea book, loaded with information on leadership, belongs in the business reference section of every public library—in special libraries catering to all levels of business management — in the library of every school of business. $35.00

Dow Jones-Irwin

1818 Ridge Road, Homewood, Ill. 60430

MERCK & CO., INC.

Rahway, N.J. 07065

THE MERCK MANUAL OF DIAGNOSIS AND THERAPY
13th Edition, mid 1977.....about $ 9.50

THE MERCK VETERINARY MANUAL
4th Edition, 1973.....$13.25
ISBN 0-911910-51-4

THE MERCK INDEX
9th Edition, 1976.....$18.00
ISBN 0-911910-26-3

BANKING, FINANCE & INVESTMENT

Columbia Univ. Pr.
Tilove, R. Public Employee Pension Funds. Mar.

McGraw
Estes, J. C. Compound Interest and Annuity Tables. Oct.
Estes, J. C. Handbook of Interest and Annuity Tables. Nov.
Estes, J. C. Interest Amortization Tables. Jun.
20th Century Fund, Inc. Building a Broader Market. Sept.

COMMUNICATIONS & EDUCATION

Bricker Publications
Bricker, G. W. Bricker's Directory of University-Sponsored Executive Development Programs. 1977 ed. Dec.

McGraw
Freeman, R. Black Elite. Jan.
Goodlad, J. I. Facing the Future. Sept.
Greenbaum, W. & others. The National Assessment of Education. Oct.
Guttenberg, M. & H. Bray. Undoing Sex Stereotypes. Oct.
Howe, F., ed. Women and the Power to Change. Sept.
Ryan, C. P. The Open Partnership. Dec.

TAB
Kierstead, P. Journalist's Notebook of Live Radio-TV News. Aug.
Knecht, K. Designing and Maintaining the CATV and Small TV Studio. 2d ed. Jun.
Skiles, M. Music Scoring for TV & Motion Pictures. Apr.

New medical books

Robert J. Brady Co. and The Charles Press Publishers, Inc
Bowie, Md. 20715 (301) 262-6300

Death and Identity, revised edition edited by Robert Fulton, PhD and Robert Bendiksen, PhD
1976/448 pp/$15.95

Emergency and Disaster Management: A Mental Health Sourcebook
edited by Howard J. Parad, DSW, H.L.P. Resnik, MD and Libbie J. Parad, DSW. 1976/512 pp./5 figs /$28.95

Emergency Medical Services: An Overview
edited by Carl Jelenko III, MD and Charles Frey, MD.
1976/360 pp./43 figs./$22.95

The Charles Press Handbook of Current Medical Abbreviations
1976/176 pp./$4.95

The Ultimate Reference & How-To-Advertise Guide. Revised Edition for '77.

Lib. Jrnl. 2-75, said: "... this handbook offers the basics needed by the retailer or small manufacturer."

Chosen by Lib. of Cong. for Braille Ed.
5 3/8 x 8 3/8 x 1; 303 pp; illus; trade-term glossary; paperback; LC 74-84773, $7.

Boyd Co., Box 5280, Austin, Tx 78763

COMPUTERS FOR BUSINESS

Miller Freeman
Lower, K. E. Practical Computer Applications for the Pulp and Paper Industry.

ECONOMICS FOR BUSINESS

Inst. for Social Research
Economic Behavior Program Staff. Surveys of Consumers
Katz, D. & others. Bureaucratic Encounters.
Lansing, J. B. & J. N. Morgan. Economic Survey Methods.
Morgan, J. N. & G. J. Duncan. Five Thousand American Families.
Strumpel, B., ed. Economic Means for Human Needs.

Johns Hopkins
Portney, P. R., ed. Economic Issues in Metropolitan Growth. Dec.

MANAGEMENT

Miller Freeman
Business Management for Sawmills and Plywood Mills.

McGraw
Craig, R. Training and Development Handbook. 2d ed. Oct.
Farnsworth, T. On the Way Up. Sept.
Grossman, L. Fat Paper. Sept.
Hanan, M. Venture Management. Sept.
Higgins, L. R. & R. Stidger. Cost Reduction from A to Z. Oct.

Pergamon
Eilon, S. Aspects of Management.

Petrocelli/Charter
Jaaskelainen, V. Linear Programming and Budgeting. Jan.
Klein, H. J. Other People's Business. Jan.

MARKETING

McGraw
Roman, M. Telephone Marketing. Sept.
Simon, J. How To Start and Operate a Mail Order Business. 2d ed. Sept.

Petrocelli/Charter
Hise, R. T. Product/Service Strategy. Dec.
Joselyn, R. W. Designing the Marketing Research Project. Feb.

MATHEMATICS & STATISTICS FOR BUSINESS

Columbia Univ. Pr.
Shepherd, W. The Treatment of Market Power. Dec.

Miller Freeman
Lowe, K. E. Metrication for the Pulp and Paper Industry.

Pergamon
Gartenberg, M. & B. Shaw. Mathematics for Financial Analysis.

GB JOURNALS

ECONOMICS SELECTIONS:
An International Bibliography
Annotations of New Titles in Economics, Business and Finance
Edited by Maurice B.Ballabon
Economics Selections, in its 23rd year of publication, is now edited by Professor Ballabon and, among many new features, it has expanded to cover Business Law and Taxation.
Per volume of 4 issues, post paid.
USA/Canada $25.50
UK/Elsewhere £17.50/$30.50

PHOSPHORUS AND SULFUR
and the related elements
Edited by M. Grayson
The journals International Journal of Sulfur Chemistry and Phosphorus have been merged to form Phosphorus and Sulfur, under the editorship of Dr. Martin Grayson. Subscribers will benefit from the broadened coverage of these two closely allied disciplines.
2 Volumes of 3 issues will be published per year.
2 volumes of 3 issues each, post paid
All territories $125.00/£71.50

We publish a wide and ever-expanding range of scientific journals, please write for full details and prices.

Gordon and Breach Science Publishers
41/42 William IV Street,
London W.C.2.
One Park Avenue, New York,
N.Y. 10016.

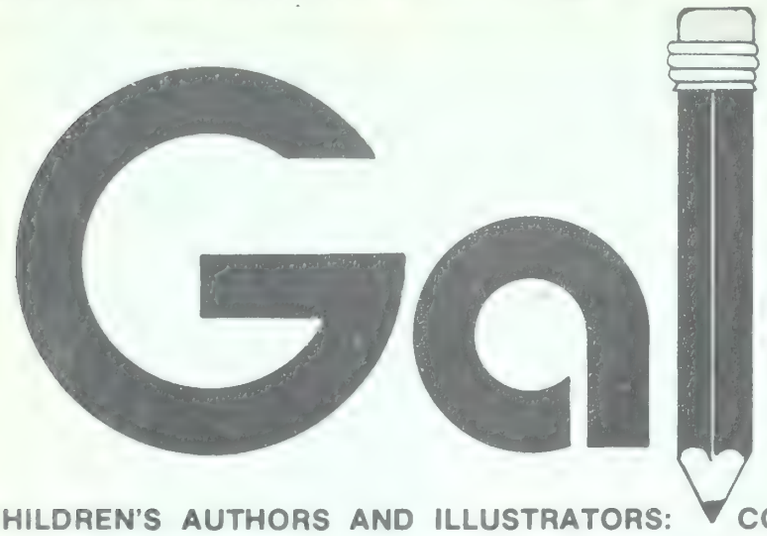
HORTICULTURAL BOOKS, INC.

(Edwin A. Menninger, D.Sc)
P.O. Box 107
Stuart, Florida 33494

Distributor in the U.S. for these books

THE ALOES OF SOUTH AFRICA by G. W. Reynolds. 1970 ed. 552 p., 650 illus $45.00
THE ALOES OF TROPICAL AFRICA AND MADAGASCAR by G. W. Reynolds, 1966, 106 Color Plates $24.00
FLOWERS OF NAMAQUALAND (Sima Eliovson), 400 pp $13.50
CARIBBEAN GARDENING AND FLOWER ARRANGING by Aimee Webster DeLisser, 1969, Revised edition, 168 pp ..... $ 6.50
DICTIONARY OF THE ECONOMIC PRODUCTS OF THE MALAY PENINSULA by L. H. Burkhill. 2 vol. 2400 pp $33.00
FLORA OF NEW ZEALAND by H. H. Allan, 2 vol. set $20.00
PALMS OF THE WORLD by J. C. McCurrach. 1976 Reprint. 290 pages, 400 photographs $18.95
FLOWERING PLANTS OF JAMAICA by C. D. Adams. 848 pp $16.00
PLANTS OF FIJI by J. H. Parham. 500 pp ..... $ 8.00
THE GREAT PLANT EXPLORERS; David Fairchild, Wilson Popenoe & others, and what they did for American gardens (Symposium). 169 p ..... $ 5.95
FANTASTIC TREES by Edwin A. Menninger. 1975 reprint 304 pages, 240 photographs $11.95
COLOR IN THE SKY—Flowering Trees in Our Landscape. By Edwin A. Menninger. 260 p., 215 illus $14.95
FLORIDA WILD FLOWERS by Mary Francis Baker. 1976 Rep., Paper ..... $ 5.95

for all librarians needing information on —



AUTHORS AND THEIR WORKS

Gale Reference Books

CHILDREN'S AUTHORS AND ILLUSTRATORS: An Index to Biographical Dictionaries. First Edition. Edited by Dennis La Beau. Cites 17,686 biographical sketches of children's authors and illustrators in 31 biographical dictionaries and other reference sources emphasizing writers active in this century. This new master index sharply reduces tedious, time-consuming searching through many volumes. 170pp. $15.00. (Ready December 1976)

TWENTIETH-CENTURY LITERARY CRITICISM. Volume 1. Edited by Carolyn Riley and Phyllis Carmel Mendelson. Complementing Gale's popular Contemporary Literary Criticism series, this new series presents long excerpts from representative criticism on the great authors of the period 1900 to 1960—the era most frequently studied in high school and college literature courses. Each 600-page volume provides definitive overviews of about 50 authors. Write for the descriptive brochure containing sample pages plus an extensive list of authors to be included in early volumes. $38.00/vol. (Vol. 1 Ready March 1977)

CHILDREN'S LITERATURE REVIEW. Volume 2. Edited by Carolyn Riley. Each volume in this exciting series provides excerpts from contemporary reviews, criticism, and commentary on about 40 past and present authors of children's books (preschool through teens). "Highly recommended. Essential for any library serving children and young adults" (Gilbert B. Cross, Library Journal, April 15, 1976). $25.00/vol. (Vols. 1 and 2 In Print)

CONTEMPORARY AUTHORS. Edited by Cynthia Fadool. With the publication of Volume 61-64, CA now covers 47,500 authors—70% of whom are not listed elsewhere! Volumes 1-4 through 17-20 have been revised and updated. "Our high recommendation for Contemporary Authors can be repeated: it is a useful series that shows constant editorial improvement" (Bohdan S. Wynar, American Reference Books Annual, 1976).$38.00/4-vol. unit. (Vols. 1-4 through 61-64 In Print)

CONTEMPORARY LITERARY CRITICISM. Volume 6. Edited by Carolyn Riley and Phyllis Carmel Mendelson. Furnishing excerpts from criticism in both major and minor publications, each CLC volume includes criticism on authors not previously covered, plus new criticism on authors already treated. "One cannot imagine a school or academic library, let alone any but the smallest public library, getting along without this work" (Kenyon C. Rosenberg, American Reference Books Annual, 1975). $38.00/vol. (Vols. 1-6 In Print)

SOMETHING ABOUT THE AUTHOR. Volume 9. Edited by Anne Commire. Numerous illustrations, large, clear type, absence of abbreviations, and "sidelights" on authors distinguish this widely-used reference. The nine volumes published thus far offer bio-bibliographical sketches on 1,800 different authors. "[Containing a] wealth of drawings, authors' photographs, and other illustrative material, and the interesting sidelights on the authors, [SATA] will continue to appeal to the young reader" (Frances Neel Cheney, Reference Services Review, July/September 1974). $25.00/vol. (Vols. 1-9 In Print)

. . . and Introducing

YESTERDAY'S AUTHORS OF BOOKS FOR CHILDREN: Facts and Pictures about Authors and Illustrators of Books for Young People. Edited by Anne Commire. Similar in format to Something about the Author, this new series will provide extensive bio-bibliographical information on children's authors and illustrators who died before 1961. Numerous illustrations, expansive sidelights sections, and other special features will make this series attractive to both students of children's literature and to children themselves. $25.00/vol. (Vol. 1 Ready March 1977)

All of these reference books on Authors and Their Works are sent on 30-day Approval and are available on Standing Order.

WRITE FOR COMPLETE DETAILS

Gale Research Co. • BOOK TOWER • DETROIT, MICH. 48226

BOOK REVIEW

The Contemporary Scene

Arlen, Michael J. The View from Highway 1: essays on television.

Farrar. 1976. 293p. LC 76-24900. ISBN 0-374-28371-0. $8.95. COMM

The View from Highway 1 and Arlen's Living Room War (LJ 1/15/69) are both collections of his New Yorker pieces. Here he takes on the television industry and its view that it is merely a neutral servant of the public that portrays real life. Using current shows and quotes from them as examples, Arlen relates the shortcomings of today's programming. He examines the evening news, interviewing, war reporting, Norman Lear's shows, violence, children's television, etc., often relating these topics to the daily life of the American family. This book will not help the novice learn how to critically evaluate television, but rather it gives one man's perceptive view.—Larry A. Miller, Moraine Valley Coll. Lib., Palos Hills, Ill.

Cole, John. The Poor of the Earth.

Westview. 1976. 144p. LC 75-46616. ISBN 0-89158-538-9. $18.75. INT AFFAIRS/ECON

The author, a British journalist, indicates quite correctly that his book is designed for the intelligent "man on the street," not for the development expert. There is no index, bibliography, or notes, and he presents little new material on the problem of world poverty. However, he effectively dramatizes and analyzes factors underlying the two "great obscenities" of our age: the gross inequality of wealth and income between the rich and poor countries and the same gross inequalities within the developing countries—the latter being a theme which is often ignored. Offering case studies of Kenya, Sri Lanka, and the Philippines, Cole goes beyond the doomsday school to call for a more prosperous existence for all keyed to employment and based upon trade offs and significant action in both developed and underdeveloped nations. His assessment is fair and intelligent, based upon his journalistic experience, travels, and research. Ironically, though, The Poor of the Earth is apparently being marketed for the "rich of the earth"—$18.75 for a slender volume of straight text.—Clifton E. Wilson, Dept. of Government, Univ. of Arizona, Tucson

Kucharsky, David. The Man From Plains: the mind and spirit of Jimmy Carter.

Harper. 1976. 150p. bibliog. index. LC 76-24970. ISBN 0-06-064891-0. $4.95. POL SCI/BIOG

Kucharsky's biography is a fairly well-written, pro-Carter book, but it definitely is not an objective, definitive biography. Containing quotes from Reinhold Niebuhr, Karl Barth, and other theologians, the book attempts to explain Carter's life style and philosophy in light of his evangelical religion. The major problem is that it more or less explains Carter's total actions as being influenced mainly by his religious belief, ignoring all other influences. However, since there is little available on Carter, this biography should be available in public libraries.—William C. Cooper, Laurens County P.L. System, S.C.

CONTENTS

The Contemporary Scene	2263
Reference	2264
Art	2268
Biography	2271
Business & Economics	2274
Communications	2275
Education	2275
History	2276
Home Economics	2280
Language Arts	2281
Literature	2282
Music	2284
Philosophy	2285
Poetry	2285
Political Science & International Affairs	2286
Psychology & Psychiatry	2287
Religion	2289
Science & Technology	2290
Social Science	2294
Sports & Recreation	2297
Theater	2299
Fiction	2300
Mystery, Detective & Suspense	2304
Book Review & Professional Reading Author Index	2306

Library Journal reviews are indexed in Book Review Index and Book Review Digest.

Posner, Richard A. Anti-Trust Law: an economic perspective.

Univ. of Chicago Pr. Nov. 1976. 262p. index. LC 76-598. ISBN 0-226-67557-2. $15. ECON/LAW

Posner's book, revised and expanded from journal articles both in law and economics, is certain to become a standard work on antitrust legislation. The style makes it accessible to a wide audience, and its documentation is sufficient to make it useful for the specialist. A central theme of the book is that economic efficiency should be the goal of antitrust policy. Posner argues that this calls for increased attention to economic evidence of collusion, as opposed to criminal conspiracy, and that antitrust legislation should not be expected to further other goals, such as the promotion of small business. Attorneys will be particularly interested in his recommendations for the administration of antitrust laws, recommendations that include a call for radical streamlining of the litigation process. This is an excellent book, nearly required for academic libraries, and recommended for public libraries with a large business readership.—Robert J. Caswell, Dept. of Economics, Ohio State Univ., Columbus

Quarles, John R., Jr. Cleaning Up America: an insider's view of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Houghton. 1976. 245p. illus. ISBN 0-395-24772-1. $8.95. ENVIRONMENT/POL SCI

The author has been with the EPA since its inception in 1970, and before that was involved with environmental matters in the Department of the Interior. His "insider's view" offers both a historical overview of the agency and its accomplishments and a vivid depiction of the intertwining forces of politics, public opinion, and efforts of dedicated individuals in the environmental movement. Quarles demonstrates how public opinion forced the Nixon Administration to confront environmental issues, and shows the problems that arose in enforcing environmental laws when they conflicted with that administration's support of big business. He also provides an outline of recent legislative action to protect the environment. The author writes in a clear and interesting style, and his many firsthand accounts add to the book's interest. Recommended.—Scott Wright, Coll. of St. Thomas Lib., St. Paul, Minn.

CONTEMPORARY WRITERS SERIES

James Vinson, General Editor

D. L. Kirkpatrick, Associate Editor

This series provides biographical, bibliographical and critical information on 800 poets, 600 novelists, and 300 dramatists writing in English. Key features include a signed essay on each writer and listings of other critical studies. Each volume is revised at three year intervals.

CONTEMPORARY NOVELISTS

"...recommended for all types of libraries...for its judiciously selected list of writers...whose work is discriminatingly criticized."
—Booklist
Second Edition published April, 1976
LC 75-189694 $35.00

CONTEMPORARY POETS

"It is unique because it combines biographical information with fascinating statements by the poets.... Recommended for academic, public and high school libraries."—Booklist
"Every library should have a copy of this work."—Choice
Second Edition published 1975
LC 78-165556 $35.00

CONTEMPORARY DRAMATISTS

"This work offers a wealth of often elusive information ...Highly recommended."
—Choice
First published 1974
LC 73-80310 $30.00

St. Martin's Press
175 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10010

REFERENCE

Anderman, Nancy. United States Supreme Court Decisions: an index to their locations.

Scarecrow. 1976. 316p. index. LC 76-8479. ISBN 0-8108-0932-X. $12. LAW/REF

There is little need for this index to Supreme Court cases mentioned in some 170 books. Court decisions are important, but are already indexed by name and subject in the Supreme Court Digest. The books indexed by Anderman include casebooks and treatises, but all indexing ends in 1973. I do not see why anyone would want to use this case location information. General collections would better spend their money on popular legal titles; law collections would better spend their money on more specialized materials.—Dianne Witkowski, Librarian, Schiff, Hardin & Waite, Chicago

Baron, Herman. Author Index to "Esquire," 1933-1973.

Scarecrow. 1976. 289p. LC 76-10625. $11. LIT/REF

Through the years, Nat Hentoff has written on jazz, Robert Heilbroner on investments, Ernest Hemingway on fishing. Since its founding in the depths of the Depression, Esquire has been proud of its writing, and this index makes available every piece contributed through the past 40 years by writers from Travis Hoke ("The Base in Baseball," 1935), to Bob Hope ("In Defense of American Women," 1950), to Aldous Huxley ("Paradoxes of Progress," 1956). Art work and photographs are indexed under the artist's or photographer's name (all the Varga's Girls are included). Because Reader's Guide only picked Esquire up in 1961, this is a useful, if limited, tool. Subject access would have made it better, but all larger libraries will still want it.—Robert L. Boyce, Univ. of Nebraska Libs., Lincoln

Barron, Neil. Anatomy of Wonder: science fiction.

Bowker. (Bibliographic Guides for Contemporary Collectors). 1976. 471p. bibliog. index. LC 76-10260. ISBN 0-8352-0884-2. $14.95. LIT/BIBLIOG

This bibliographic guide to sf contains over 1250 annotated entries to recommended works. Arrangement is chronological, with separate sections on juvenile sf, sf histories and criticisms, sf bibliographies and teaching aids, indexes, and periodicals. There are lists of sf awards, a recommended core collection checklist, and directories of important sf library collections in North America, of publishers, and of sf specialty bookshops where out-of-print works may be ordered. Brief introductions to each section by experts provide valuable background data. Excellent author and title indexes. This is a major reference work, indispensable for any library or school wishing to build an sf collection.—Frederick Patten, Los Angeles Science Fantasy Society

REFERENCE

Beetz, Kirk H. John Ruskin: a bibliography, 1900-1974.

Scarecrow. (Author Bibliographies, No. 28). 1976. 113p. index. LC 76-13611. ISBN 0-8108-0938-9. $6. LIT/BIBLIOG

This brief checklist of works by and about the noted Victorian art critic and writer provides not only a record of the various editions of his major writings, but also a listing of biographical/critical materials in books and periodicals. It is divided into three sections: books by and about Ruskin; periodicals containing his correspondence and essays, plus critical sources; and selected foreign-language works. Occasional annotations are provided. Not a major contribution to the Ruskin canon or a necessary purchase, but a useful guide to more recent critical materials, including some dissertations.—Peter P. Olevnik, SUNY at Brockport Lib.

Broderick, Robert C. The Catholic Encyclopedia.

Thomas Nelson. 1976. 4,000p. illus. by Virginia Broderick. LC 76-10976. ISBN 0-8407-5096-X. $24.95. REL/REF

This encyclopedia (by a former editor at Bruce Publishing Company and his wife) is up-to-date and brings out new aspects of Catholic life and teaching such as the charismatic renewal, Teilhardism, etc., and quotes from recent documents, especially Vatican II. Most of the definitions are clear and accurate. There are more than 50 excellent photographs, many in color, and attractive drawings. The work is, however, misnamed, since it is really a dictionary. Most of the entries are quite brief. Too many concern trivia or items which are seldom needed, e.g. Greek liturgical books and vestments and obscure councils and heresies. Some entries (e.g., on the Montessori method, Hinduism, guru) are on subjects not specifically Catholic, and many of those which deal with Catholic teaching are too brief. Biblical and historical entries are chosen on a rather random basis. The photographs, grouped by themselves, are not related to the text. Large reference collections will find this helpful on occasion, but it is not the Catholic dictionary we need for home and small library use. Better invest in the Catholic Almanac.—W. Charles Heïser, S.J., St. Louis Univ. Lib.

Brown, Calvin S. A Glossary of Faulkner's South.

Yale Univ. Pr. 1976. 241p. LC 75-43308. ISBN 0-300-01944-0. $12.50. LIT/REF

This long-awaited glossary covering all of Faulkner's works that have a Southern setting includes explanations of many expressions of regional and period usage which have often puzzled critics. An informative introductory section clarifies the procedure the author employs in his definitions and explications, and a well-written appendix provides a clear picture of Faulkner's use of local scenery and characters. The glossary will be particularly useful for international readers, those outside of the rural South, and even younger Southerners who may not be acquaint-

Not just books– a liberal education.

Now the general reader can share the intellectual excitement of a great university and tap the expertise of respected scholars–through a new publishing concept called The Portable Stanford. Each book in this series is a probing, concise, non-technical analysis of a major contemporary issue, written by a noted expert on the Stanford faculty, generously (and unconventionally) illustrated.
Designed for topical reading today and continuing reference tomorrow, the Portable Stanford volumes are sure to prove a popular addition to any general collection.

Portable Stanford volumes currently available:

MURDER AND MADNESS
Donald T. Lunde
A myth-shattering view of violence and mental health.

THE ANXIOUS ECONOMY
Ezra Solomon
"A lucid account of the world's financial affairs."–Barron's

CHALLENGERS TO CAPITALISM
Marx, Lenin, and Mao
John G. Gurley

CONCEPTUAL BLOCKBUSTING
A Pleasurable Guide to Better Problem Solving
James L. Adams

THE GALACTIC CLUB
Intelligent Life in Outer Space
Ronald N. Bracewell

SOME MUST WATCH WHILE SOME MUST SLEEP
William C. Dement, M.D.
Everything science has learned about sleep and dreams.

AN INCOMPLETE GUIDE TO THE FUTURE
Willis W. Harman

AMERICA: THE VIEW FROM EUROPE
J. Martin Evans
The New World in European literature, from the Renaissance to the present.

Available January:

IS MAN INCOMPREHENSIBLE TO MAN?
Philip H. Rhinelander
A short history of philosophy focusing on the question, "Who is Man?"

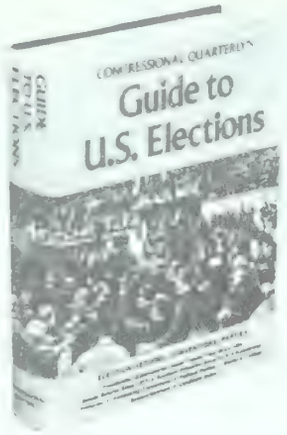
HUMAN SEXUALITY
Sense and Nonsense
Herant Katchadourian

Each volume: $8.95 cloth, $3.95 paper
Order through your regular supplier.

San Francisco Book Company
2311 Fillmore St., San Francisco, Ca. 94115 Distributed by Simon & Schuster

REFERENCE

Previously unpublished data



1,200 pp. 8½" x 11". $48.50

"This spectacular study of American election returns has been overdue for a century. It is the most complete, clear and all-embracing compilation of American election statistics ever made. It is CQ's Bicentennial gift to a nation that has practiced democracy successfully longer than any other in history."

Theodore H. White
November 17, 1975

Send for free descriptive brochure

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY INC.
Box 23, 1414 22nd St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20037

Periodicals from United Nations

Monthly Bulletin of Statistics
Monthly $70.00

Commodity Trade Statistics
Approximately 34 issues per year $64.00

Statistical Indicators of Short Term Economic Changes in ECE Countries
Monthly $18.00

Population and Vital Statistics Report
Quarterly $10.00

Bulletin on Narcotics
Quarterly $10.00

Current Bibliographical Information
Twice Monthly $20.00

UN Chronicle
Monthly $ 9.50

Monthly List of Books Catalogued in the Library of The United Nations
Monthly $12.00

Monthly List of Selected Articles
Monthly $12.00

United Nations Documents Index—UNDEX
Monthly $80.00

United Nations Publications
Room LX-2300, New York, N.Y. 10017
or
United Nations Publications
Palais des Nations
1211 Geneva 10, Switzerland

ed with certain terms and usages of previous generations. An invaluable reference tool not only for Faulkner studies, but also in the areas of Southern writing in general and Southern social and cultural history.—Joyce Taylor, Univ. of Mississippi Lib., University

Burton, Robert & others. The Living Sea: an illustrated encyclopedia of marine life.

Putnam. 1976. 240p. illus., mainly color. index. LC 75-43395. ISBN 0-399-11748-2. $20.
NAT HIST/REF

This overview of animals that live on, in, or near the sea is divided into five sections (invertebrates, fish, reptiles, sea birds, and mammals), and each section is further broken down into such headings as "Lobster, Crayfish and Crabs," "Starfish and Sea Urchins," and "Barnacles." The text, although accurate, is very brief and superficial. Most of the 350 color photographs are clear and helpful, as are most of the captions. What is not helpful is the index: it must have been compiled by several persons using different systems. This book could have some uses (for browsers, for those wanting an introduction to marine life, etc.), but there are now so many works of this type that libraries may want to examine their collections before buying more.—John S. Robotham, N.Y.P.L.

Business People in the News: a compilation of news stories and feature articles from American newspapers and magazines covering people in industry, finance, and labor. Vol. 1.

Gale. (Biography News Lib.). 1976. 402p. ed. by Barbara Nykoruh. photogs. index. LC 76-4617. ISBN 0-8103-0044-3. $24. BUS/REF

This book appears to be made up of leftovers from a former Gale publication, Biography News. The magazines and newspapers surveyed are the same and so is the format (photocopies of the articles). This list does not include some important newspapers such as the New York Times, the Washington Post, and the Los Angeles Times. Business People in the News includes biographies of sports figures, gangsters, company presidents, swindlers, entrepreneurs, hotel and restaurant owners, automobile designers, labor leaders, et al. Very few of the entries here appear in Biography Index, Biography News, or Biographical Dictionaries Master Index. The names which do show up in these publications are the ones that would be asked for, while most of the biographies in Business People in the News have only regional interest. It is difficult to say who could use this book. The average large library has the above-named publications, and the smaller library would not want something so limited in scope. Not recommended.—Wayne D. Kryszak, District of Columbia P.L.

Capps, Donald & others. Psychology of Religion: a guide to information sources.

Gale. (Philosophy & Religion Information Guides). 1976. 352p. index. LC 73-17530. ISBN 0-8103-1356-1. $18. BIBLIOG

This classed bibliography of around 5000 entries covers books and articles which have appeared from 1950 to 1974. Emphasis is on the years following 1960 because of the excellent coverage and annotations provided in William W. Meissner's Annotated Bibliography in Religion and Psychology (Academy of Religion and Mental Health, 16 E. 34 St., N.Y.C. 10016, 1961). However, significant material from 1950 to 1960 is included, as is prior work relating to the origins of the psychological study of religion. Almost all the brief annotations are for books; they account for probably less than one-fourth of the entries. A list of sources consulted would have been useful, and a less wide-ranging index (this one has 77 pages) more serviceable.—Wm. G. Jones, Northwestern Univ. Lib., Evanston, Ill.

Elliott, Len & Barbara Kelly. Who's Who in Golf.

Arlington House. Nov. 1976. illus. ISBN 0-87000-225-2. $8.95. SPORTS/REF

This book contains entries for course architects, teachers, all those Americans who won a national championship either at the amateur or professional level, all who won on the PGA tour, Ryder Cup team members, et al. Overall, the book avoids the usual mere thumbnail sketch, and briskly moves along combining brief comment with factual information. The result is generally successful. For special and reference collections and libraries needing golf enrichment resources.—Eugene J. Milich, Univ. of Wisconsin Lib., La Crosse

Felton, Bruce & Mark Fowler. Felton & Fowler's More Best, Worst, and Most Unusual.

Crowell. Nov. 1976. 262p. LC 76-13848. ISBN 0-690-01169-5. $8.95. REF

A sequel to Felton & Fowler's Best, Worst, and Most Unusual (LJ 10/1/75). Here, as before, the authors have cobbled up a vivid assortment of achievements, some sensible and some silly, which they classify as the best, the worst, and the most unusual—the best pipe smoker, the worst dirty trick, the most unusual restaurant, and so forth. In some instances the achievement is a matter of record, but in others it is a matter of opinion—Felton and Fowler's, of course. The book does provide a good deal of information of the kind that scores points in trivia contests and it could be used to trigger some merry debates; however, its usefulness as a possible reference tool is severely limited by the absence of an index. Recommended for libraries that don't have the first volume, or where there's a demand for this sort of confection.—A. J. Anderson, Sch. of Library Science, Simmons Coll., Boston

Film Literature Index, 1973.

430p. ISBN 0-8352-0936-9.

Film Literature Index, 1974.

545p. ISBN 0-8352-0937-7.

ea. vol: Bowker. 1976. ed. by Vincent J. Aceto & others. LC 74-642396. ea. vol: $62.50.
CINEMA REF

These indexes are similar to the International Index to Film Periodicals 1972 (LJ 2/15/74) in that they too are concerned with providing access to the periodical literature on film. However, FLI goes further by not sticking exclusively to film journals but including other journals which carry articles about film. In fact, over 50 percent of the 267 titles covered by FLI are not film journals. For this reason it is to be preferred to the IIFP, of which FLI duplicates coverage of 64 titles. (The remaining 13 titles that are unique to IIFP are all overseas publications.) Those journals in FLI that can be called nonfilm—ranging from Christianity Today to Society—are indexed selectively. Therefore the entry for a film like The Exorcist reflects the hubbub it caused in a wide spectrum of periodicals. The arrangement is dictionary format, i.e., authors, titles, and subjects in one alphabet. Under a director's name are cross references to film titles associated with the person. Book reviews are included. For those not willing to wait for the annual cumulation a subscription to quarterly issues is available. Because of its wide coverage of English- and foreign-language material in general, as well as specialized journals, Film Literature Index is indispensable to anyone interested in films.—Richard Heinzkill, Univ. of Oregon Lib., Eugene

Human (and Anti-Human) Values in Children's Books: new guidelines for parents, educators and librarians.

Council on Interracial Books for Children, 1841 Broadway, Room 300, New York, N.Y. 10023. (Guidelines for the Future). 1976. 280p. prepared by Racism & Sexism Resource Center for Educators. illus. index. LC 76-11665. $14.95; pap. $7.95. ED/REF

Of the more than 2000 children's books published in 1975, 235 were selected to be analyzed according to a Values Rating Checklist for minority, feminist, and social values themes. Content was scrutinized for any signs of racism, sexism, ageism, elitism, and conformism, with both the literary and artistic quality judged. Chapter discussions are devoted to the assessment instrument, but the bulk of the work contains the unsigned critical reviews (100-200 words) of each book, followed by its completed values checklist. Concluding the work are a list of highly rated and noteworthy books, and an author-title-illustrator-subject index. Carrying on in the spirit of the Interracial Books Bulletin, this work presents a viewpoint not readily available in other reviewing media which will be useful to all concerned about the selection of literature for children.—Ilene F. Rockman, California Polytechnic State Univ. Lib., San Luis Obispo

King, Charles L. Ramón J. Sender: an annotated bibliography, 1928-1974.

Scarecrow. 1976. 287p. index. LC 76-9020. ISBN 0-8108-0933-8. $12. LIT/BIBLIOG

King's bibliography is an exhaustive compilation of works by and about Sender (this prolific Spanish novelist has lived in exile since 1938, returning to Spain for a visit only in 1974). Cogently organized and amply indexed, the list is particularly noteworthy because of the space given Sender's journalistic writing—his contributions to the Madrid daily La Libertad (1930-1936) and his later syndicated column (1953-1974). King's annotations are succinct, informative, and to the point—unlike the book's unfortunate introduction. Recommended for academic libraries.—Dru Dougherty, Dept. of Spanish & Portuguese, Univ. of California, Berkeley

Lane, Gary. A Concordance to the Poems of Dylan Thomas.

Scarecrow. (Concordances, No. 5). 1976. 697p. LC 76-18078. ISBN 0-8108-0971-0. $22.50. LIT/BIBLIOG

Although a fine concordance to Thomas' poetry already exists in Robert Coleman Williams' A Concordance to the Collected Poems of Dylan Thomas (Univ. of Nebraska Pr., 1967), which was based on the 1953 edition of the poetry, it is superseded by the one under review. The new concordance is keyed to the 1971 edition, which includes some 102 poems not found in the earlier edition. It follows the format of Lane's other concordances on Marianne Moore, Pound, and Roethke: the main list of words, including the lines in which they occur (and an indication of the frequency for suppressed words), is followed by a list of hyphenated compounds which in turn is followed by a list of all words by order of frequency. Necessary for graduate programs in contemporary literature.—Timothy Schobert, Univ. of Ottawa Lib. Canada

This is more than an encyclopedia about Russia; this is the encyclopedia the Russians use!

Now available in English for the first time!

30 volumes, plus index $1,800

THE GREAT SOVIET ENCYCLOPEDIA

An absolutely unique guide to understanding the Soviets' view of the world and their interpretation of world events, places and theories.

The prime source in English of information about the U.S.S.R., its peoples, history and viewpoints. Over 21,000 pages. 30 volumes, plus indexes. Approximately 21,000,000 words. A major reference work of international scope.

